His Excellency the Governor-General, the MOST HONOURABLE SIR PATRICK LINTON ALLEN, inspected a Guard of Honour supplied by the Jamaica Regiment outside Gordon House.

The President and Members of the Senate entered the Chamber and took their seats.

Announced by the Marshal, His Excellency entered the Chamber and proceeded to the Dais.

His Excellency then directed the Clerk to the Legislature to summon the Members of the House of Representatives to the place appointed for the meeting of the Senate.

The Clerk did as instructed and accordingly, the Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives entered and took their seats.

PRAYERS

REVEREND EVERALD GALBRAITH, President of the Jamaica Council of Churches, offered prayers.

Let us pray:

Almighty God from whom all wisdom and power hath derived, we beseech Thee to so direct and prosper the deliberations of this Parliament now assembled that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations of the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of this island.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales, and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor-General of our island, the Prime Minister, the Leader of the Opposition, the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy Name's sake. Amen.

Let's join together in the saying of the Lord's Prayer:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the Kingdom the power, and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

The GOVERNOR-GENERAL: Please be seated.

THE PROCLAMATION

By His Excellency, the Most Honourable SIR PATRICK LINTON ALLEN, Member of the Order of the Nation, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Commander of the Order of Distinction, Governor-General of Jamaica:

Whereas it is provided by subsection (1) of section 63 of the Constitution of Jamaica that each session of Parliament of Jamaica shall be held at such place and shall commence at such time as the Governor-General may, by proclamation appoint;

And Whereas it is expedient that a session of the Parliament of Jamaica should be held at such place and commence at such time as shall hereinafter appear:

Now Therefore, I, Patrick Linton Allen, Member of the Order of the Nation, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Commander of the Order of Distinction, Governor-General of Jamaica, in exercise of the power conferred on me by subsection (1) of section 63 of the Constitution of Jamaica, do hereby proclaim and make known that a session of the Parliament of Jamaica shall be held at George William Gordon House in the parish of Kingston, commencing at 11:00 a.m. on the third day of April 2014, given under my hand and the broad seal of Jamaica at King's House this 19th day of March in the year of our Lord 2014, and the sixty-third year of the reign of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II.

God Save the Queen.

The GOVERNOR-GENERAL: President and Members of the Senate, Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives,

I am pleased to present to you the Throne Speech which outlines my Government's plans and programmes for the year 2014/2015 under the theme "Going for Growth: Creating Opportunities".

Honourable Members, we meet to launch the activities for a new Parliamentary year and to set out the next steps as we continue to improve the lives of our people and further develop our country.

Today, the state of our economy is stronger than it was one year ago. (Applause) In this new spring, the signs of growth are appearing. The country has recorded three consecutive quarters of growth. (Applause)

The year just ended; 2013-2014 was challenging.

The international economy remained sluggish and the balanced sheets of many corporations continued to be impaired and impacted by low levels of consumer demand globally and locally.

Navigating these uncertainties required strong leadership and a steady hand. The Government was determined and it stayed the course in respect of its economic policies. (Applause)

Tough decisions had to be made. In so doing, Government relied on the understanding, resilience and goodwill of the Jamaican people. (Applause) Our people have shown an awareness of the prevailing economic conditions. They have demonstrated their willingness to make the sacrifices to get our economy on the right path. Investors, both domestic and foreign, also made significant sacrifices.

We have forged a partnership with the people. We are creating a partnership society. Our country has maintained stability. (Applause)

Despite the challenges, the Government is meeting its obligations to its international partners, restructuring the economy and improving our governance system for the benefit of our people.

Over 107 reform measures are being implemented.

In March 2014, we successfully met the third review of Jamaica's performance by the IMF under the Extended Fund Facility. (Applause) This resulted in a further drawdown of approximately US$71.4 Million. To date, the Government has met all quantitative fiscal and monetary performance criteria under the programme. (Applause)

The Government is also determined to reduce the huge debt burden which has limited our country's development. For many decades, Jamaica has borrowed too much and saved too little. In order to build a resilient economy, we must reduce our debt to manageable levels. As a country, we must begin to live within our means. (Applause)

Honourable Members, as we reflect on the past year, it is important to acknowledge your role in the passage of some significant pieces of legislation. Forty-two (42) Bills were tabled in the calendar year. This is nearly double the average of 22 Bills per year in recent times.

(Applause) Of those 42 Bills tabled, 40 were passed by the Parliament. (Applause)

These include:

- The Fiscal Incentives (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act to introduce a general system of tax incentives applicable across all industries, ensuring a level playing field for all investors. (Applause)
- The Securities (Amendment) Act to ban unlawful financial organizations and to facilitate the regulation of collective investment schemes. (Applause)
- The Financial Administration and Audit (Amendment) Act; as well as The Public Bodies (Management and Accountability) (Amendment) Act to introduce stronger fiscal controls for the Government and to ensure that our debt is reduced to manageable levels over the next decade. (Applause)
- The Companies (Amendment) Act to provide for the use of a single form for the registration of companies and business names, making us more business friendly. (Applause)
- The Security (Interests in Personal Property) Act to reform the collateral system in Jamaica and provide a modern, web-based registration system to reduce risks and enhance the flow of credit in our economy. (Applause)
- The Charities Act to define and register Charities and give them "one stop" for accessing tax relief. (Applause)
- The Registration (Strata Titles) (Amendment) Act to improve the ability of townhouse and apartment schemes to manage, control and administer the common property and resolve disputes. (Applause)
- The Committal Proceedings Act to replace the existing and outdated procedure of preliminary examinations with a paper-based system. It will seek to put in place new committal proceedings in the Resident Magistrate's Court to determine if a case must go forward to trial. (Applause)
- The Proceeds of Crime (Amendment) Act to bring the Act in line with international requirements and ensure that Jamaica achieves good standing with the International Financial Action Task Force. (Applause)
- The Criminal Justice (Suppression of Criminal Organizations) Act for the suppression and disruption of criminal gangs which are behind about 70% of the murders in our country. (Applause)

Honourable Members, in the year ahead, some long-awaited Bills will come before you for deliberation and passage.

Among these are:

- The Integrity Commission Bill to establish a single Anti-Corruption entity to assume the functions of the Commission for the Prevention of Corruption, the Integrity Commission and the Office of the Contractor General. The National Contracts Commission will be placed with its own independent administrative structure.
- The Evidence (Amendment) Bill to provide for a more efficient trial process, by facilitating a more straightforward introduction of computer records into evidence. It will allow for the uncontested reports of experts to be admitted into evidence without the need to call the expert.
- A National Disabilities Bill to provide for further protection and legal entrenchment of the rights of persons with disabilities. (Applause)
- A Building Bill to improve the efficiency of the building approval process and provide a framework for the effective management of the building industry.
- A Bill to Amend the Administrator General's Act to address the difficulties in the administration of multi-generational estates, as well as the modernization of the rules governing the probate of wills.
- The Occupational Safety and Health Act will provide the framework for securing the protection of workers. It also establishes a joint Health and Safety Council to monitor the safety and well-being of workers. (Applause)

The Bills we have already passed and those that will come before you are part of the broader strategy of the Government's growth and development agenda.

Honourable Members, the Government has set some fundamental objectives for this Budget Year. It will continue efforts to keep growing the economy, reduce the debt, and give our children a future of low inflation and full employment. (Applause) We will continue the transformation in education and pursue economic independence for our people.

Important gains have been made and the Government is determined to continue its efforts to alleviate social problems. Programmes aimed at promoting respect for life and stronger values will be implemented. The Government will be unrelenting in its efforts to reduce crime and build safer communities. (Applause)

Honourable Members, in order to achieve sustainable growth, we must change the way we do business. (Applause)

We are taking a joined-up approach to the facilitation of business. The Public Sector Transformation and Modernization entities have been mandated to ensure that, above everything else, they focus on cutting the red tape, particularly with respect to the Development Approval Process. (Applause)

We have already started with the Business Registration Super Form. This allows for the "one-stop" incorporation of companies and registration of business names, as well as the provision of certification in relation to the TRN, NIS, GCT, NHT and TCC for immediate business start-ups. (Applause) We have also expanded e-services to facilitate online applications for Tax Compliance Certificates (TCC) and Trade and Business Licences. (Applause)

To promote small business development, the Government will intensify the implementation of the MSME policy. (Applause)

The Government cannot do it alone. It recognizes that the cooperation of all stakeholders, including the private sector, trade unions and NGOs, is critical to achieving the Macro-Economic, Social and Growth Agendas.

We have been proactive in ensuring that the Partnership for Jamaica succeeds. It was given new life in October 2012. This was followed by the historic signing of a social contract with the private sector, trade unions and civil society. (Applause)

The agreement focuses on four areas for the 2013-2016 period:

- Fiscal Consolidation (with Social Protection and Inclusion)
- Rule of Law Adherence (and Timely Justice Outcomes)
- Ease of Doing Business and Employment Creation, and
- Energy Diversification and Conservation.

The Economic Policy Oversight Committee (EPOC) co-chaired by the Government and the private sector (leader) and the Energy Monitoring Committee (EMC) also co-chaired by the Government and the private sector, are further examples of the inclusive and consultative approach that the Government intends to maintain.

We are making progress. (Applause) Among the sectors we will rely on to continue and sustain economic growth are: Agriculture, Mining, ICT, Tourism, Construction and Housing.

Agriculture

Honourable Minister and Members, it is anticipated that the agricultural sector will record significant growth this year. This follows seeing the strong performances in the second (5.4%), third (10%), and fourth (13.1%) quarters of the last calendar year.
Seven (7) of the nine (9) planned Agro-parks are in operation.

Energy

Energy remains a major challenge. While the process continues in relation to the significant base-load project, we are becoming more aggressive with the implementation of renewable assets. Three (3) companies are concluding arrangements to install 78 Megawatts of wind and solar generation.

The Government is determined to lead in the area of energy conservation and efficiency. We are already seeing significant savings with our joint GOJ/IDB project.

Mining

The state of the economies of the major markets of Jamaica's bauxite and alumina means that our local industry has operated at just over half its capacity for the last five years. We are however, seeing a return to growth with 10% in the last quarter and we expect this trend to continue. Major plans are underway to reduce the dependence on oil at the JAMALCO and Ewarton alumina refineries with the use of alternative sources of energy.

ICT

The Government recognizes the importance of growing the ICT sector. It enhances business productivity and competitiveness. It is also a source of significant employment of our people. The Government has renewed the licenses and issued new spectrum frequencies to our major telecoms providers. This is valued at US$110 Million or approximately J$12 Billion. We anticipate improved services and the roll-out of a full data network.

We are seeing growth return to the ICT sector with the expansion of Business Process Outsourcing (BPO) activities and in new areas like animation and software development. Opportunities exist for those who wish to participate and contribute to the country's growth and development.

Work is proceeding to provide ICT access to citizens across the island. Eight Hundred Million Dollars is being spent on 27 thousand tablets for schools which will begin arriving in May. In every parish, at multiple locations, we have provided public facilities where any Jamaican can have full access to a range of data services, including the Internet, at broadband speed.

Tourism

Last year we welcomed for the first time our two millionth stopover visitor. For the first time, we also earned over US$2 Billion Dollars. This year, the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment's priority focus includes increasing visitor arrivals; improving linkages between tourism and other sectors as well as enhancing visitor experiences; strengthening and positioning entertainment as a tool for development; and improving the welfare of tourism workers within a sustainably managed sector.

Construction

Growth is returning to the construction sector. We cannot emphasize enough the importance of construction to the growth of the economy and the provision of jobs.

In the area of road infrastructure, the Linstead to Moneague leg of the North-South Highway will be opened to commuters in time for Independence. Work on the other two sections (Ferry to Linstead and Moneague to Ocho Rios) is underway and, in some instances, ahead of schedule. This US$600 Million investment will improve the ease of travel, reduce energy costs, provide national productivity gains and open more of our country to further development in housing and commercial activities.

As we move to develop our logistics capabilities during this year, the privatization of the Kingston Container Terminal (KCT) is expected to be completed, as well as the commencement of dredging of the Kingston Harbour.

Cabinet has approved the signing of a non-binding agreement between the Government, the Port Authority of Jamaica and China Harbour Engineering and Construction Company (CHEC) to design, finance, develop, operate and transfer a Port Container Terminal in Jamaica and an Industrial Park. The Framework Agreement allows for an Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) as a precondition for any further work. We continue to position ourselves to take advantage of the expansion of the Panama Canal. Some of the projects, while game-changing, will not bear fruits overnight.

Social Protection

As we grow the economy, we will continue to focus on the social protection and upliftment of our people, especially the vulnerable. The Government will spend over $4 Billion for the protection of vulnerable groups, including PATH beneficiaries, children, persons with disabilities, the elderly and the unemployed. Seventy-five Million Dollars ($75M) this amount will be spent on Phase II of the Short Term Poverty Intervention Programme.

The Jamaica Emergency Employment Programme (JEEP) will move into high gear during the new financial year, with a focus on community and labour-intensive projects throughout the country. Special preferences will be given to small contractors, by the NCC as Grades 3 & 4.

Youth

The Government places a premium on the young people because they hold the destiny of our nation in their hands.

This year will see:

- The construction of more Youth Information Centres;
- The Enhancement of the ‘I Say I’ Programme which seeks to prevent and reduce the incidence of youth violence;
- The Strengthening of the new NYS Graduate Work Employment programme which has already placed over 350 University Graduates in work internships;

- Expanding Youth Training workshops. Last year 9,000 youths benefitted from training and short-term work experience.

Education

While education is a lifelong matter, it is largely one for the youth. Our initiatives, with the support of key partners, will have a positive impact on the development of our youth.

In the education sector we will see:

- The conversion of 70 basic schools into Infant Departments and Infant Schools;
- The recruitment and deployment of 90 Reading Coaches in 495 primary level institutions;
- The training of 100 Early Childhood practitioners;
- The full integration of TVET programmes and practices into the formal education system;
- The implementation or enhancement of ICT to improve administration and curriculum delivery; and
- The modernization of the School-Feeding programme.

Security

Of all the challenges in the past 40 years, none has more threatened our sense of national well-being than the explosion of violent crimes. One does not have to be attacked to be a victim. The woman who runs to her car after leaving work at night is a victim. Those families locked up behind burglar bars are victims, as are the children who cannot go out to play or walk home from school without being afraid.

In December 2013, the Unite for Change (UFC) initiative, aimed at building a national movement to encourage positive social behaviour and promote a safer, gentler society was launched. This important prevention initiative was born out of the realization that violence is the outcome of dysfunction at many different levels in our society including family, school, community, social services, and popular culture.

The year 2013 saw an increase in the number of homicides, however, in the first quarter of 2014, we have returned to a downward trend in all major categories of crimes. There is a 12% reduction in murders and a 13% reduction in the overall category of serious and violent crimes. Police fatal shootings have been reduced by over 50%, reflecting better operational planning and improved community cooperation.

The long contemplated merger of the JCF and the ISCF has been approved by Cabinet and will be implemented in this fiscal year. It will eliminate duplication in the command structure and release more personnel for operational duty.

Significant capital investment will be made to upgrade the technology available for the investigations and operations of the police, including communication, palm and fingerprint identification, and cyber forensic systems.

Sport

Sport has been a unifying force in our country and is one area that gives us global visibility, glory and a competitive advantage. Work is proceeding on the establishment of an Athletes Insurance Fund. The National Sport Council is working on plans for Financing and Economic Development; Athlete Development and Well-being; Capacity-building and Infrastructure; Standards, Regulation and Anti-Doping.

Health

The health of our people is critical to the development of our nation. The Ministry of Health, in collaboration with the National Health Fund and the CHASE Fund, will be establishing two Linear Accelerators for improved cancer care in Montego Bay, St. James, and later at the St. Joseph's Hospital site in Vineyard Town, St. Andrew. (Applause)

- The Ministry will continue to upgrade health facilities throughout the country. The establishment of a Children's and Adolescent Hospital in Montego Bay is progressing. (Applause)
- Efforts are underway to reduce the burden of non-communicable diseases (NCDs) such as high blood pressure and diabetes. (Applause)
- The anti-smoking legislation is bearing fruit. Asthmatic admissions to hospitals have been reduced. (Applause)

Housing

Safe, secure, affordable housing is a basic human need and meeting the housing needs of Jamaicans is a major preoccupation of the Government.

(Applause by Government Members)

During the last financial year, the National Housing Trust spent $22 Billion, and for this year, a similar amount will be spent. The main areas of expenditure will be on open market loans, Build On Own Land, home improvement loans and the construction of solutions, particularly, the small contractors programme. During the last fiscal year, 2,700 housing solutions were completed and $3.1 Billion in refunds, paid to 150,000 contributors.

(Applause by Government Members)

This year, the National Housing Trust will complete over 2,000 more housing solutions.

The Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing, has also constructed houses across the island. Among them, traditional units and the unique programme between the JEEP Secretariat and Food for the Poor to provide solutions for needy households. Just under 1,200 units have been delivered since the inception of the project.

(Applause by Government Members)

Environment

Jamaica has a number of environmental challenges to which greater attention will be given. They include: the reduction of hillside erosion on farmlands and along roadways; the denudation of the country's forests; the disposal of sewage, garbage, and containers, including plastic bottles. The recent launch of the PET Recycling Project is a small but important step in the right direction.

(Applause by Government Members)

It aims to reclaim 35 per cent of plastic bottles over the first three years. This is another positive outcome of JEEP, and will contribute $50 Million, supported by the private sector with $23 Million annually. At least 300 jobs will be created.

(Applause by Government Members)

Climate Change

Apart from our people, the natural environment is our most precious resource. Its protection is critical to our economic and social development. This year, the Government will:

- Increase awareness in the public sector and the wider society on climate change;
- Generate information to guide Adaptation and Mitigation Strategies, Policies and Plans;
- Develop technical expertise within the Climate Change Division of the Ministry of Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change; and,

- Coordinate and facilitate Jamaica's strategic and unified position in the regional and global negotiations.

Water

The provision of potable water to all households is a priority of the Government. There is a comprehensive set of programmes and projects planned for the new fiscal year. One such is the rehabilitation of 26 well sources, pumping stations, and reservoirs, at a cost of $1.7 Billion. Some 750,000 persons will benefit.

(Applause by Government Members)

Foreign Policy

The thrust of Jamaica's Foreign Policy has been to fashion a strategic vision for the country's role in international affairs. Integral to this, has been active engagement with other countries on matters of interest to Jamaica as a small developing country. The third United Nations Conference on Small Island Developing States (SIDS) will be held in September of 2014 in Samoa. The SIDS Conference will play an important role in placing the concerns of SIDS squarely on the international agenda. Jamaica will be focusing on the issue of Small States on many fronts, including within the Commonwealth where Jamaica is a member of the Ministerial Open-Ended Group on Small States.

(Applause by Government Members)

The year Twenty-fourteen (2014), marks the 20th Anniversary of the establishment of the International Seabed Authority in Kingston.

(Applause by Government Members)

The Authority has completed a number of regulations which govern the exploration of the deep seabed, and is about to embark on the process that will allow for active exploration.

Jamaica will continue to promote its national interest by increasing the level of consultation and engagement with the Jamaican private sector on trade policy. Through our overseas missions, we will continue to target business opportunities and investments.

(Applause)

The Government values the interest and support of the diaspora in the country's development and will continue to strengthen linkages.

Work is far advanced on the development of a Diaspora Policy which will complement the National Policy on International Migration and Development.

(Applause)

Conclusion

In concluding Honourable Members, let us make this another year of action and achievements. Jamaicans want more focus on their lives, their hopes, and their aspirations. We can all agree that regardless of colour, class or party affiliation, there should be equal opportunity for all. (Applause)

Our success should depend, not on the circumstance of birth, but on the strength of our work ethic and the scope of our dreams. (Applause)

Every Jamaican child should feel that if they dream and work hard, they, like the Prime Minister, the daughter of a farmer and a housewife, and the Leader of the Opposition, the son of a civil servant and a farmer, can take on the mantle of political leadership in our country.

(Applause)

My fellow Jamaicans, our economic freedom, and maintaining our strong democratic principles must remain our ideals.

As we enter our 52nd year as an independent nation, together let us put our shoulders to the wheel so we can create, build and expand the possibilities for everyone. We can promote justice, fairness and equality under the law, build stronger families and communities and a stronger and prosperous Jamaica.

(Applause)

We have triumphed too often to stop believing in ourselves and our possibilities. We are a great people; we are a great nation. Let us unite and let us build. (Applause)

Honourable Members, the Estimates of Expenditure will be presented later today. May the Eternal Father, our God, bless our land and guard us with His mighty hand.

I thank you.

(Applause)

The Governor-General vacates the Chamber at the conclusion of the Speech at 11:35 a.m. He was followed by Members of the House of Representatives, led by the Speaker.

(Applause)

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move the following motion:

Be it Resolved that the Estimates of Expenditure for the Financial Year ending March 31, 2015 and the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure on Public Bodies 2014/2015 which were laid on the Table of the House on the 3rd day of April 2014 be referred to the Standing Finance Committee of the whole House of Representatives consisting of all Members of the House for consideration and report.

Mr. Speaker, I further beg to give notice that at a later stage today I will move suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to take this Motion.

PRESENTATION OF BILLS WITHOUT LEAVE OF THE HOUSE FIRST OBTAINED

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I now move to introduce and have read a first time a Bill shortly entitled: The Banking Services Act, 2014.

Bill shortly entitled:

The Banking Services Act, 2014,

Bill shortly entitled:

The Quarantine (Validation and Indemnification) Act, 2014, read a first time.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the Minister I beg to give notice of second reading of the Bill.

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance will now deal with the two matters he addressed earlier.

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips. (Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I now move for the suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to take the motion in relation to the Estimates of Expenditure, notice of which I gave earlier.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the suspension of the Standing Orders to allow the Minister to take the motion, notice of which was given earlier. Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, as is usual, the Estimates of Expenditure and the Public Sector Consolidated Estimates of Expenditure and the Public Bodies Revenues and Expenditures are referred to Standing Finance Committee for consideration. I would like to indicate that it is proposed that the Standing Finance Committee will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. That is to say April 8, 9 and 10 beginning at 10:00 a.m. respectively. Of course, Mr. Speaker, the discussions, I would hope, would take place between the Leader of the House and the Leader of the Opposition Business in the House with a view to establishing the arrangements which would guide the work of the Committee.

As I indicated earlier, we are committed to having this exercise take place next year before we reach March 31. But it is also the case Mr. Speaker, that I think you all recognize that we cannot persist with a procedure which requires us to take one month in the budget consideration exercises, including the debate. And so, I state here again, that maybe when the Leader of the Government Business and Leader of Opposition Business meet, they can begin the discussions about an alternative procedure which we would want to put in place for next year as well.

Dr. PHILLIPS: There is no requirement that we take the three days, but if Members so choose, they are at liberty to do so dispose of their time.

Mr. Speaker, with those remarks, I put the Resolution that the Estimates of Expenditure for the Financial Year ending March 31, 2015 and the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure of Public Bodies 2014/2015 be referred to the Standing Finance Committee of the House which will meet beginning Tuesday, 8th at 10:00 a.m.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Motion carried.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I move suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me...

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, it is not intended for us to do any further business this afternoon. So I therefore move for the adjournment of the Parliament until we meet in the Committee, the Standing Finance Committee - adjourn to the 17th of April, 2014 at 2:00 p.m.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the House do adjourn until Thursday the 17th of April, at 2:00 p.m.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The House stands adjourned.

The House accordingly adjourned at 2:40 p.m. until Thursday the 17th of April at 2:00 p.m.

THURSDAY, April 17, 2014

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY

The SPEAKER: House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move:

> Whereas on the 25th day of March 2014 this Honourable House of Representatives gave approval for the Sessional Select Committees which were appointed in that session of Parliament to continue in this session with unchanged composition of membership, except where necessary on a further motion taken and approved by this Honourable House.
> Be it Resolved with reference to the Standing Orders Committee that the name Phillip Paulwell be added thereto.

Mr. Speaker, I further beg to give notice that at a later stage today, I will move for the suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to take the motion.

Also, Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice on behalf of the Minister of Finance and Planning that at the next meeting of the House I will move to introduce and have read a first time, a Bill shortly entitled: "The Betting, Gaming, and Lotteries (Amendment) Act, 2014".

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to, with your permission, I have indicated that there is some information that I should have received from the Minister. I have just gotten a folder from him and there are - while I have acknowledged receiving what I have gotten there are critical pieces of information that are still missing. Tomorrow being a holiday and Monday being a holiday, I am just wondering what arrangements the Minister has to let me have that information over the weekend or today. This includes incidentally, the arrears in payments of ministries, departments and agencies. And a number of other things that have not been answered in the answers provided.

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, all the information that the staff of the ministry has been able to acquire has been handed to the Member. I indicated to him when I gave him this information that there would be additional information that he should receive before the end of this afternoon.

The SPEAKER: Okay, and that includes the list he read out?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Everything that he has asked for that we have, he will get.

The SPEAKER: And those that you do not have?

Dr. PHILLIPS: He can't get it.

(Laughter)

Mr. SHAW: Not funny.

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, I am making the point, any information that he has asked for that is in possession of the Government of Jamaica, appropriately collated, he will get. There is nothing that we have that he will not have once we have it. But he might be – I, in fact - the public officials who are putting together the information, under the direction of the Financial Secretary, have been working at great pace since Standing Finance Committee to get the information together, they can only give him what they have. There is no plan to withhold, to disguise, to hide or anything else with the information. So I was just being factual.

(DR. THE HON. KENNETH WYKEHAM MCNEILL, Westmoreland, Western, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker I just want to remind you that the Honourable Minister had promised to provide the information within one week which would have been Tuesday, past Tuesday, and just to remind that in respect of the arrears owed by ministries, departments and agencies this certainly would be information that the Government has and it must be made available, as I have requested.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I have indicated that he will get that later today.

(HON. DAMION ORANDY CRAWFORD, St. Andrew, East Rural, Minister of State in the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, may we recommit item, Notices of Motions given Orally.

The SPEAKER: That is where we are - Notices of Motions given Orally.

(MR. PEARNEL PATROE CHARLES, CD, Clarendon, North Central entered and took his seat.)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move the following motion:

Be it Resolved that the Report of the Standing Finance Committee of the House of Representatives consisting of all Members of the House and the Estimates of Expenditure for the Financial year ending March 31, 2015, and the Jamaica Public Bodies Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the financial year ending March 2015, which was laid on the Table of the House on the 17th day of April, be approved.

I further beg to give notice that at a later stage today, I will move for the suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to take this Motion.

I also beg to give notice, that at the next meeting of the House I will move to introduce and have read a first time, A Bill entitled:

"AN Act to apply a sum out of the Consolidated Fund to the service of year ending on the 31st day of March 2015 and to appropriate the sums granted in this session of Parliament".

I also beg to give notice, Mr. Speaker, that at a later stage today, I will move for the suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to have the Bill read a first time and commence debate on it.

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I now move for the suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to take the motion, notice of which I gave earlier.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the suspension of the Standing Orders to allow the Minister to take the motion, notice of which was given earlier?

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the matter has to do with the Standing Orders Committee and it is felt that the House Leader should be on that Committee, so I so move.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I make reference to Item No. 6 on the Order of Business, which stands in the name of the Minister of Finance. It is his intention for the Bill to be examined by a Joint Select Committee of this Parliament for consideration and report. However, for this to be done, Mr. Speaker, the Bill must be read a second time. So, Mr. Speaker, on his behalf, I now move that the Bill be read a second time.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Bill be read a second time.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Bill entitled:

"AN ACT to repeal the Banking Act and the Financial Institutions Act; to amend the Bank of Jamaica Act and the Building Societies Act to make new provision with regard to the supervision of the banks, financial holding companies and other financial institutions, and for connected matters", read a second time.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I now move on behalf of the Minister of Finance:

Be it Resolved that notwithstanding Standing Order No. 76(1), this Honourable House of Representatives appoint a Select Committee comprising the following Members:

Dr. Hon. Peter Phillips, MP
Hon. Peter Bunting, MP
Hon. Julian Robinson, MP
Mr. Fitz Jackson, MP

Mr. Mikael Phillips, MP
Mr. André Hylton, MP
Mr. Audley Shaw, MP
Mr. Karl Samuda, MP
Mr. Gregory Mair, MP

to sit jointly with a similar Committee to be appointed by the Senate to consider and report on a Bill shortly entitled: "The Banking Services Act, 2014".

Put to the House and agreed to.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I now move for suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to take the motion regarding the Report of the Standing Finance Committee. And two, to introduce and have read a first time, a Bill shortly entitled: "The Appropriation Act, 2014", and to commence debate on it.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the suspension of the Standing Orders to allow the Minister to take the motion, notice of which was given earlier.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I now move:

> Be it Resolved that the Report of the Standing Finance Committee of the House of Representatives consisting of all Members of the House and the Estimates of Expenditure for the Financial Year ending March 31, 2015, and the Jamaica Public Bodies Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Financial Year ending March 2015, which was laid on the Table of the House on the 17th day of April, be approved.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I now move to introduce and have read a first time a Bill shortly entitled: "The Appropriation Act, 2014".

Bill shortly entitled:

"The Appropriation Act",

read a first time.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice of second reading.

(Applause)

BUDGET DEBATE

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, the Budget Debate each year provides us with an opportunity to take stock of our performance over the previous fiscal year and to measure our progress in relation to the targets previously set and to assess the effectiveness of our management of the country's finances.

Let me begin this review by expressing a deep sense of gratitude to a number of people. I begin with the Most Honourable Prime Minister (Applause) for her continued confidence and support. To you Mr. Speaker, for your guidance of this Honourable House even in the most frenzied of times.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I continue to serve this Honourable House at the will and pleasure of my constituents in East Central St. Andrew. (Applause) The fact that they have kept me as their Member of Parliament since they first elected me in 1994, I interpret as an indication that I continue to serve their interests.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: This job comes with highs and lows and at all times they have been there for me and have never failed to give unreservedly of their love and support. I can hardly thank them enough. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I must commend my Cabinet colleagues for their understanding and the support they demonstrate in managing their respective portfolios in a tight fiscal environment, which affords them fewer resources than they would normally have expected, yet, without fail for every single one, Mr. Speaker, we have offered support and have endured the difficulties, and I am grateful to them. (Applause)

I must also place on record my appreciation for the support of my team in the Ministry and especially my colleague, Minister Horace Dalley (Applause) who shares with me (Applause) the responsibilities of an extremely demanding ministry. Over the last year as the pressure mounted, he proved himself to be more than equal to every occasion.

(Applause)

While assessments of our performance over the past fiscal year may differ, there is one area of consensus and that is the absolute indispensability of the resourceful team, which it has been my privilege to lead.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: So let me, Mr. Speaker, thank the Financial Secretary and the staff of the Ministry for their unwavering and professional support. (Applause) The Governor of the Bank of Jamaica and the Director General of the Planning Institute of Jamaica, and their respective teams, who continue to go above and beyond the call of duty in the execution of their functions. The staff in the other departments and agencies, which underpin the work of the Ministry, in particular the Development Bank of Jamaica, the EX-IM Bank, STATIN, and I want to recognize the work done by the Board members of the respective institutions, who give of their time in service of Jamaica.

(Applause)

In particular, I would also like to recognize the contribution of the members of my Advisory Group, the Honourable Shirley Tyndall and Mr. Dennis Morrison (Applause) and, Mr. Speaker, my personal staff for their patience and commitment and for the endurance of my temperamental moments (Laughter) particularly in those difficult moments that come with the territory.

And let me also take this opportunity to thank my family, my wife, whose caring advice and love (Applause) has enabled me to survive the daily rigors of public life. And my children, one of whom has been foolhardy enough to follow me (Laughter) into service in this Chamber. (Applause)

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the countless Jamaicans from all walks of life who through their letters, their telephone calls and text messages, their prayers have sought to reach out to me and offer me their support.

(Applause)

It is important that we recall the situation that existed when I opened this debate last year. While the Economic Reform Programme was in place, our negotiations with the International Monetary Fund had not been concluded. Our reserves stood at less than US$800 Million and were declining. The multilateral institutions and critical bilateral partners were not providing support, consequent upon the fact that the previous Fund Programme had gone awry. The established pattern of weak or negative growth persisted. So desperate was the situation that an increasing number of voices urged us to sign now, whatever the cost and on whatever terms.

Today, one year later, our Economic Reform Programme is on track and the IMF Agreement is in place....

....and we have concluded and have passed all our Tests and met all our benchmarks, much to the dismay of some.

(Applause)

Growth has returned. We have had three consecutive quarters of increasing growth, (Applause) each level higher than the one before. (Applause) We have received in excess of US$500 Million from our multilateral partners. The debt-to-GDP ratio is moving down and confidence has returned and is moving up. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, all I can say is what a difference a year makes.

(Applause)

In this Honourable House, Mr. Speaker, we should not forget, neither should any Jamaican forget the critical need that existed for a programme of Economic Reform. Let me remind you what we inherited.

A debt-to-GDP ratio that was upwards of 146%. We were in the 40th year of anaemic growth with an expansion of gross domestic product over the 40 years, averaging less than 1% per annum. During the same period that the average growth of GDP was less than 1% per annum, our debt had grown by more than 700%.

The IMF Programme, which had been negotiated in 2010, quickly went off the rails with the basic targets regarding the primary surplus and the fiscal deficits, which were necessary if you were to place the debt on a downward trajectory, all having been breached.

As a consequence, Jamaica was closed out from global capital markets, except at exorbitant rates of interest, our reserves were rapidly deteriorating and flows of funds from our multilateral and key bilateral partners had come to a standstill.

Our situation was compounded by those who found it politically convenient to propagate the view that proven laws of economics did not apply to Jamaica. Whereas other countries had to work their way to prosperity, Jamaica they said, could borrow its way to prosperity.

I trust it is now evident to everyone that there is a limit to any country's capacity to sustain such fiscal irresponsibility. Jamaica has reached this limit; high debt prevents growth and limits the country's capacity to withstand unforeseen economic shocks.

This dubious doctrine of economic exceptionalism contributed to the situation which we inherited in January 2012. Eleven successive quarters of negative growth between 2008 and 2011, and a massive debt build-up and on programme borrowing.

It is against this background, Mr. Speaker that we mobilize the nation to design an Economic Reform Programme that could begin to reduce the level of debt and by so doing, unlock the growth potential of Jamaica's economy.

The Programme we designed was one that required us to reduce the fiscal deficit - or, put another way, one that required us to live within our means. In order to sustain our Economic Reform Programme and to assure our global markets and the wider international community of our seriousness of purpose, and quite frankly, in order to secure the necessary resources to support the Programme, we entered into an Extended Fund Facility with the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

But, I want to emphasize, Mr. Speaker - as I doubt that everyone gets it - that this is our Programme, this is Jamaica's Programme if we are to guarantee our nation's survival and prosperity for the future. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Apart from fiscal consolidation, the Economic Reform Programme involves critical structural reforms including Tax Reform, Public Sector Reform, changes to facilitate the ease of doing business and legislative changes, all of which are aimed at creating a more vibrant economic environment in the country for businesses, whether small, medium or large, local or foreign, who want to do business in Jamaica, and thereby expand our economy and provide jobs.

Mr. Speaker, the Economic Reform Programme that we are presently pursuing is critical to our long-term survival as a nation. But we must never forget our obligation to all those Jamaicans who sacrificed to make this Programme possible.

(Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: I am here referring Mr. Speaker to the public sector workers who agreed to a further three years of wage restraint. (Applause) I am referring also to the bond holders, to our creditors, including pensioners and others who agreed to lower returns on their investment in order to facilitate the economic reform effort. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: And, of course, we should remember the general populace of Jamaica who endured increases in the cost of living.

Our obligation, Mr. Speaker, means that we must ensure that their sacrifices are not in vain. We must stay the course and most of all, ensure that never again does Jamaica have to walk this path of dependence on external creditors and institutions (Applause) which, if we are to be honest, entails a significant loss of sovereign autonomy.

The only way out of our present difficulties is to continue with the Programme, to pass more IMF tests… (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...get access to more multilateral support, secure investments and achieve our mission of sustained economic growth and job creation. (Applause)

Over the past year as we have embarked upon the Economic Reform Programme and have met all our quantitative targets and our structural benchmarks, there have been major legislative achievements, as well.

We have amended the Revenue Administration Act to strengthen tax administration by providing, among other things, access to third-party information and requiring mandatory e-filing for certain types of taxpayers and certain taxes. (Applause)

We have passed the Secured Interests in Personal Property Act, to enhance access to credit, especially for non-traditional businesses such as those in the creative and cultural industries and in agriculture.

We have passed the Charities Act and harmonized the treatment of charities across tax types (Applause) in addition to removing ministerial discretion for granting waivers for charities.

We have passed the Fiscal Incentives legislation which has lowered the effective tax rate for business operators.

We have passed amendments to the Financial Administration and Audit Act and the Public Bodies Management Act, which strengthened the legally binding Fiscal Rules to ensure a sustainable Budget balance and debt reduction. (Applause)

We have amended the Securities Act to include provisions which seek to combat the establishment and proliferation of unlawful financial organizations, and implement a legal and regulatory framework conducive to the operations of collective investment schemes.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have tabled today the Omnibus Banking Services Bill, which when enacted will harmonize the prudential standards across deposit-taking institutions, and enhance supervision of financial institutions.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have also tabled an Insolvency Bill, which is currently being reviewed by the Joint Select Committee of this House.

We have passed legislation to establish Tax Administration Jamaica as a semi-autonomous revenue agency, appointed by the related Supervisory Board.

Mr. Speaker, I don't think that there is any period of time when we have had such a concentrated wave of legislative amendments governing the financial sector of our country, and dealing with its fiscal affairs.

And I want to say a big thank you to the Office of the Parliamentary Counsel, to the Minister of Justice (Applause) as the Chairman of the Legislation Committee, and to all the officials, including the Members of the Legislation Committee who have contributed to this impressive legislative agenda. And I also want to say thanks to the members of Parliament on both sides of the aisle who have done their part to ensure that Jamaica has undertaken these events. (Applause)

The legislative record tells only a small part of the narrative however, Mr. Speaker. During this past year we also completed the implementation of the Central Treasury Management System so that we now manage government accounts out of a single treasury account at the Bank of Jamaica. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We converted the Jamaica Customs Department into an executive agency within the Ministry of Finance and Planning to complement the work of Tax Administration Jamaica.

We have created a Strategic Human Resource Management Unit at the Ministry of Finance and Planning.

We have established a National Collateral Registry at the Companies Office of Jamaica to list interesting assets used as collateral under the Secured Interests in Personal Property Act and thereby improve access to finance.

We have eliminated Ministerial discretionary powers to grant or validate any tax relief.

We have completed a formal review of public sector employment and remuneration as part of the Public Sector Reform Process.

We have improved transparency as it relates to public sector procurement, by publishing in the print media a Government of Jamaica procurement page.

We have tabled a White Paper on Pension Reform in the public sector, and legislation is being prepared for the establishment of a single pension system for public sector workers, to begin in 2016/2017.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Working! Working! Working!

Dr. PHILLIPS: It has been acknowledged, Mr. Speaker that the adjustment has been difficult, budgets have been tight, and in many areas, difficult adjustments have had to be made.

The Jamaica Urban Transit Company, for example, has had to increase its fares and undertake systems and operational changes in order to reduce the extent of its losses. Without this it might have been difficult to keep the company operational.

We have not been able to do as much as we would have liked, in relation to school construction and road repairs, God knows, as we have gone through this difficult adjustment period. Nevertheless, we do take particular pride in the fact that we have maintained our commitments to spend a minimum percentage of our budget on social protection services.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We are proud of the fact that we have increased the provision to PATH beneficiaries by 15 per cent.

(Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: At the same time, we have increased the provision for pensioners...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...by some 66 per cent. (Applause)

And it should not be forgotten that we raised the Income Tax threshold and relieved some 3,000 persons from the obligation to pay any taxes at all under PAYE.

Mr. Speaker, in spite of the difficulties over the past year, perhaps the most encouraging news is the return to growth by the Jamaican economy. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: During the quarter July to September, 2013, the economy recorded modest growth of 0.5 per cent, following a period of economic contraction, beginning in January, 2012.

The momentum of growth improved during the quarter October to December, with STATIN confirming growth in GDP for that quarter to be 1.8 per cent, our projections had been 1.4 percent. Preliminary estimates indicate that real GDP growth has continued during the January to March quarter of 2014. (Applause) Growth is preliminarily estimated for that quarter at some 1.7 per cent, with GDP for the fiscal year projected to be approximately one per cent. In this matter, Mr. Speaker, all I can say is, plus is better than minus.

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: There are some areas of particular significance. Agriculture has been growing at an annualized rate in excess of 13 per cent. (Applause) And commendation must be given to those in the sector, led by the Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. CHARLES: Nothing like that! Nothing like that!

Mr. SAMUDA: Both can't be right! This doesn't say anything like that!

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, we are talking - that estimate wouldn't be in the book.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Samuda)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Annualized for the quarter, annualized it is 13 percent.

Mr. Speaker, Mining and Quarrying at 12 per cent, Tourism at 6 per cent... (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: And I am referring here to the quarter ending December 2013.

We expect the rate of growth to continue to strengthen, especially as we continue to implement major reforms to enhance the business environment, as well as to intensify the efforts regarding strategic investment projects in Tourism, Transport, Agro-Parks, Logistics, among others.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We are also hopeful that the consecutive successful completion of the quarterly reviews under the IMF Programme will stimulate investors to make further investments... (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...and drive job creation.

In relation to employment, STATIN recorded that their unemployment rate as of October 2013 was 14.9 per cent. That was 0.9 of a percentage point higher than the recorded rate of 2012.

However - and this is a critical point Mr. Speaker - between April and July, 2013 the unemployment rate declined by one percentage point, and July and October there was a decline of a further 0.5 per cent for that quarter.

Mr. Speaker, unemployment is trending down in the same way that growth is trending upwards. (Applause)

There have been significant increases in a number of sectors, Real Estate and business employment is up. This relates, I believe Mr. Speaker, to what is happening in the BPO sector. Manufacturing by 6.2 per cent, Health and Social Services also up and Construction.

We need to build on this progress, Mr. Speaker, to increase the overall employment rate.

Commercial banks lending rates continue to decline. The weighted average lending rates declined by some 48 basis points to 17.9 per cent at the end of December 2013, compared to the end of March 2013. Treasury Bill rates trended in the opposite direction with the average yields on Government of Jamaica Treasury Bills on 30 to 180 days trending upwards. Accordingly, at the end of March 2014, average yields on the 30-day, 90-day, and 180-day instruments were 6.7 per cent, 8.35 per cent, and 9.11 per cent representatively.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: During the past year, inflation would have been affected by increases in bus and taxi fares, by water and sewage rates, as well as the pass-through of exchange rate depreciation to domestic prices. There was evidence of pass-through to domestic prices on some durables, such as clothing, footwear and household furnishings. Nevertheless, Mr. Speaker, the headline rate for the fiscal year for inflation was 8.3 per cent, which was below the target range of 8.5 to 10.5 per cent.

(Applause by Government Members)

This outturn is also lower than the 9.1 per cent recorded for the same period for 2012/2013.

The current account deficit on our balance of payments is projected to narrow by some US$461 Million to about US$1.4 Billion or 9.9 per cent of GDP for the fiscal year. This compares with the deficit of $1.9 Billion or 12.8 per cent of GDP for the fiscal year 2012/2013. Put another way Mr. Speaker, we are reducing the gap between what we spend in foreign currency each year and what we earn in foreign currency each year.

(Applause by Government Members)

We are actually importing less, even if we are not seeing our exports pick-up as we would want them to. The deficit on the goods sub-account is expected to narrow by some US$285 Million.

Flows from official and private sources are projected to be more than sufficient to finance the current account deficit and to contribute to the build-up of the Net International Reserves by the Bank of Jamaica. The closure of this gap however, as I indicated, is primarily due to a decline of close to US$500 Million on the import side. Much of this is the result of the change in value of the Jamaican Dollar.

And I would like to say something directly about this Mr. Speaker since the exchange rate has been the focus of much discussion, some of it sincere, some of it sincere and misplaced, and I dare say, some of it calculated to spread confusion and panic.

Over the past year, there has been a decline of 10.8 per cent in the value of the Jamaican dollar. The heart of the issue here relates to the current account deficit which we discussed before. When we spend abroad more than we earn from abroad, we run up what they call a current account deficit. It is not possible to continuously spend more than we earn from overseas.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: ...overdraft.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The only way any country, including Jamaica, can do this is if we are able to find someone to give us the difference between what we earn and what we spend, which is not likely...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Not at all.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...or, if we were able to borrow money, and we have reached the limit of our capacity to borrow, or if we secure investments in sufficient quantity, or if we buy fewer goods and seek to earn more.

Since we have no godfather to keep giving us money and we have exceeded our capacity to borrow more, we only have one option in the short term, spend less and earn more.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's it.

Dr. PHILLIPS: If we are going to spend less overseas, there are a few ways in which we can seek to do this. We can try simply to administratively ban imports and just say, by legislation or administrative rules, certain things can't come in, or we can try and ration foreign exchange by administrative means.

In a sense, as a country, we have tried both these things before. In the 1970s we try to put quantitative restrictions on imports and in the 1980s we tried through the auction system to restrict foreign exchange to just some importers. We should all try to learn from our history, Mr. Speaker. These approaches do not work. They lead to the emergence on the one hand of a black market for currency, or to increasingly sophisticated efforts to smuggle goods, breach our borders, and lead, inevitably, to shortage of goods on the other hand. We have been on that road before and we are not going to go there again.

(Applause by Government Members)

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: The only tried and proven way is to operate an exchange rate system where the market sets the rate - a flexible market-determined exchange rate...

Mr. CHUCK: You sound like a capitalist now, and a good one.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...which allows relative prices... Looks like you are caught up in the debates long past.

Mr. CHUCK: No man, this is a good product; you are moving forward.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: The only way Mr. Speaker is a flexible market-determined exchange rate which allows relative prices to change in ways that alter the choices we make as to what we produce, where we sell, how much income we make as a result.

The adjustments that have been made to the Jamaican Dollar will allow what we produce to be more competitive in external markets and at the same time to develop what we can produce in Jamaica. Therefore, having a competitive exchange rate is one of the keys to economic expansion and growth in jobs as we see it.

So, what then is the right value for the Jamaican Dollar? How does one determine the right value? The first point to make in this regard is that the nominal exchange rate does not by itself tell you whether a currency in question is weak or strong or whether the economy of that country using that currency is weak or strong.

Take, for example, the Japanese Yen which is currently valued at 102 Yen, approximately, to the US Dollar and the Indian Rupee which is valued at 60 Rupees to the US Dollar, few would believe that the Indian economy is stronger than the Japanese economy, or that the Rupee is a more attractive currency to hold than the Japanese Yen.

Closer to home, Colombia has an exchange rate of about 2,000 Pesos to the US Dollar as compared to the Brazilian Real which is about two Reals to the US Dollar. The differential in the nominal exchange rate does not reflect the difference in wealth, or capacity, of Columbia on the one hand or Brazil on the other hand. What is significant, most of all, is the level of competitiveness of the economy...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...and its capacity to earn from abroad to support its consumption of goods and services from overseas. (Applause)

(Applause by Government Members)

Dr. PHILLIPS: In a case such as Jamaica where we have to make an adjustment to our economic circumstances in order to import less and export more, the adjustment is very difficult, as the pain - and I am spending some time on this Mr. Speaker, because I think the country deserves an honest debate and discussion about this matter, and not obfuscation and confusion.

(Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: The pain comes before the gain, no doubt about it. The pain which is the result of imports becoming more expensive immediately is felt by everyone immediately; every household, every business, every individual, and it comes before the gains that would come to the country as a result of the expansion of domestic production whether for export or local consumption. But even so Mr. Speaker - and there is no denying the pain that has resulted - we can see that some of the potential benefits are already being realized.

Some of our companies are exporting products like animal feeds from new crops such as sorghum, and there is planned domestic production of cassava on an industrial scale to go into the making of beer. Construction companies which used to import their roofing materials are now looking to replace the imported roofing materials with domestically produced cement. That means putting workers in Jamaica to work, rather than borrowing to keep workers overseas employed.

(Applause by Government Members)

This is an example of a shift in production, and we need to make no apology for this shift because as I said, it will put more Jamaicans to work rather than borrowing money to finance the current account deficit and keep foreign workers employed at the expense of a growing Jamaican debt.

We will continue to maintain a market determined exchange rate and the Bank of Jamaica remains prepared to intervene in this market in order to reduce and eliminate the numbers of those who would want to speculate on the exchange rate, or disrupt the stability of the market.

(Applause by Government Members)

As we reduce our import bill, as we attract more tourists and export more goods and stabilize the economic environment, I would expect the exchange rate to stabilize.

In summary Mr. Speaker, as I have said, we have begun to see the first fruit of our efforts, from a macro economic perspective. These have manifested themselves in a number of ways. We have now seen a return to growth. Inflation has been contained. By living within our means, the country has maintained the primary surplus of 7.5 per cent, but was also able to achieve a fiscal surplus. Our revenues covered all recurrent expenditure, including interest costs. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Our net international reserves have grown over 40 per cent, and at the end of March 2014, stood at US$1.3 Billion. This has put us in a better position to withstand unforeseen shocks in the external economy.

Debt-to-GDP ratio is projected to have declined by approximately five percentage points for the 2013/2014 fiscal year.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Our growth has been inclusive growth. For the 12 months to March 2014, the Development Bank of Jamaica has provided nearly 10,000 loans to micro, small, and medium-sized enterprises...

Government MEMBES: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...surpassing the $2 Billion target announced last year by 15 per cent. Agriculture has been growing; small farmer production has been expanded. Tourism is growing, mining is growing.

Mr. Speaker, we have not yet reached to the end of our journey but we have certainly started and we are moving in the right direction.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mr. Speaker, in this context, what are the challenges that remain and what are the priority activities that we must set as our targets as we continue to reform the fundamentals of our economy and to strive for greater levels of growth and job creation? The first point to emphasize here Mr. Speaker is that we need to continue the process of fiscal consolidation. (Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: But simple belt-tightening will not get us very far.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: No, no!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have to continue essential structural reforms that will lock-in the current gains of fiscal consolidation over the long term and create an environment that facilitates investment, protects and strengthens the foundations of our financial system and facilitates improved levels of productivity in the economy as a whole. Of fundamental importance also is the continued reform of our tax collection system to ensure higher levels of compliance. We have to ensure, Mr. Speaker, that everyone pays their fair share into the revenues. (Applause)

Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Among the other critical elements in the process that will be tackled in the course of this financial year is the Public Sector Transformation and Modernization Programme. This is essential to achieving acceptable levels of sustainable economic growth and job creation. Nevertheless, this has been one of the biggest challenges facing Jamaica and one which we must tackle urgently. According to the Global Competitiveness Index for 2013 and 14, Jamaica ranked 94th out of 148 countries, an improvement since 2012. Nevertheless, we cannot continue to accept such a low performance.

Government MEMBER: No!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Several factors related to the performance of the Jamaican public sector have influenced our rankings. The most important of these factors are:

- excessive bureaucracy and red tape and I believe every Minister will agree with me that the red tape is excessive and we have to cut it down and cut it out.
- duplication of functions;
- the underutilization of Information and Communication Technologies; and,
- poor inter-agency communication and coordination.

The Public Sector Transformation and Modernization Programme that we have commenced and intend to intensify over the medium term will be more focused on targeting those elements within the public sector, relating to service delivery that will have a direct impact on the private sector's ability to contribute to sustainable national economic growth. The programme is built around the following broad areas:

- enhancing the business environment and facilitating growth and competitiveness; and,
- public sector transformation and modernization - reducing the bureaucracy.

Initiatives to be undertaken this year to include the establishment of a one-stop shop for import/export inspection services at the Montego Bay ports.

Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: The one-stop facility brings together all regulatory agencies involved in the inspection process to a single location. In this way, all associated transactions occur in one place. There's already a facility like this at Berth 11 in Kingston. We're going to ensure that those in Western Jamaica who export enjoy the same type of facility and can get to move their products to market more effectively. (Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We will be simplifying the Government Electrical inspection process and increasing transparency. It might sound like a simple thing but often times this is where the bottleneck in getting a factory started up or a new office complex or a hotel, this is where it is. So we're going to automate the process and reengineer the process to make it easier for applicants to access the service in a timely manner and remove much of the difficulty which many developers in particular face.

The Jamaica Productivity Centre, in collaboration with the Hugh Lawson Shearer Trade Union Education Institute and the Management Institute for National Development (MIND), will spearhead the development and delivery of a national productivity training programme focussed on enabling staff to develop productivity enhancing programmes in organizations in the public and the private sector. As far as improving Government's internal operations is concerned, we are committed to improving the public procurement process: legislation which was promised last year has been prepared, and consultations are underway and that will be laid in the House this year. (Applause)

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Minister's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Minister's time be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: I am much obliged, Mr. Speaker.

The Central Treasury Management System has improved the management of public funds. Further modification and roll out of additional elements of this system to increase efficiency will take place this year.

Among the benefits being realized under the system is a significant decrease in associated bank charges to the Government and reduced borrowing by Government.

The implementation of a Human Capital Management Enterprise System, which will begin later this year, will integrate payroll performance and employee demographics into a single database to further improve human resource management across Government. With the creation of the web-enabled e-Census, we will have at our fingertips, for the first time, a means of determining the size, distribution, and qualifications of all public sector workers and get a basic demographic profile for the first time in our history. (Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, labour market reform is essential if Jamaica is to retain its qualified workers. It is critical that we create an environment that can sustain social stability and social inclusion. In this regard, the Government recently tabled legislation for Parliament's consideration related to the introduction of flexible work arrangements. We believe that flexible work arrangements are vital to increasing productivity, efficiency and competitiveness in both the public and private sectors. (Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: This Legislation is, therefore, crucial to fostering economic growth, the creation of jobs and attracting investments. The implementation of flexi-work arrangements will provide for a more attractive investment climate, allowing companies to take advantage of off-peak rates on Saturdays and Sundays, on overheads such as utilities and make more efficient use of their capital resources. In manufacturing, for example, it will result in more productive work days per year and the use of machinery for longer hours each day. (Applause) It will also allow for wider and better customer service due to varied opening hours and more business days.

(Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Most importantly, Mr. Speaker, it will provide workers the opportunity to better manage their time between work hours, school hours and other parental opportunities. It may even reduce traffic congestion and save us with our energy bill.

Mr. Speaker there has been much discussion about the growth agenda. Last year I addressed this issue but believe it may be useful to repeat some of it as it may be clearer given all of the work that this Government has done during the past year. Let me quote what I said last year:

"The first requirement of the growth agenda is that we need to maintain our commitment to the current economic reforms and the difficult adjustments that they entail. We have to stay the course and reduce our public debt".

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS:

"Beyond that, I think we can all agree that the basic prerequisite for growth should include:

- easy access to affordable credit;
- efficient, facilitative government institutions supportive of investments;
- a legal system that resolves disputes impartially and speedily; and,

(Applause)

- a society which will view positively and reward those who achieve successful business investments.

Sustained growth will also require an environment which facilitates new entrants coming on to the field of business investments and allows the small to become medium sized and the medium sized to become large, not on the basis of political or social connections, but simply on the basis of their capacity for hard work and their entrepreneurial drive."

Mr. Speaker, I have already spoken about tax and other reforms undertaken to improve the business environment, for example, the Collateral Registry, the Insolvency Bill and Security Interests in Personal Property Act. But I want to address the topic of construction permit approvals, a topic which has consistently been the focus of discussions in the media. Successive Governments have committed to implementing a process that will ensure that construction permit applications are approved within ninety days from submission for projects that do not require an Environmental Impact Assessment. This Government has committed to not only improve the approval process but to fully implement the Application Management and Data Automation system (AMANDA), which will allow the Government to track approval of construction permits across all local authorities across Jamaica. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have committed to complete this implementation in all parish councils by the end of this year and then we will implement the system for associated agencies such as the Jamaica Fire Brigade, the National Water Commission, the National Environment and Planning Agency, for example. Notwithstanding that, it will take some time for the AMANDA system to be fully installed. The Ministry of Local Government and Community Development in its commitment to address this issue, has confirmed that parish councils have substantially cleared most of the outstanding construction permit applications and is committed to dealing with applications in a timely manner going forward. (Applause) And I want to commend the Minister of Local Government and the leadership of all the parish councils, and I want also to commend the Ministry of Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change, because they have also made a contribution to eliminating the backlog in development approvals. (Applause) We want to get Jamaica moving, Mr. Speaker. We want more growth.

Secondly, as I have said, we need an efficient public sector, that's a second requirement of the growth agenda. And I have already outlined the steps being taken to ensure that public sector reform places priority on those changes that will improve the business environment, speed-up developmental approvals for example, as we have just said, and support the easy payment of taxes and the easy provision of services such as water, electricity, work permits, and the like. (Applause)

Another element relates to the Government divestment programme and the public-private partnerships, which are geared to provide ready opportunities for economic growth. Last year I mentioned that Enterprise Teams had been formed to facilitate the privatization of a number of entities. By way of update, let me say the divestment of the Wallenford Coffee Company was completed. (Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: With regards to the Kingston Container Terminal Mr. Speaker, the Cabinet approved the recommendations of the Enterprise Team and a request for proposals was issued in January of this year to three pre-qualified bidders. It is expected that responses will be received in May with the expectation that a final bidder can be chosen and negotiations concluded this year. Though I should echo the words of the Minister responsible, there will be no fire sale, I believe is what he said. We will guard the asset.

Mr. SHAW: He's used to fire sale otherwise. (Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: In respect of privatization of the Norman Manley International Airport, Cabinet has approved the transaction structure recommended by the Transaction's Enterprise Team and it is expected that request for expressions of interest will be issued shortly.

The Development Bank of Jamaica is actively pursuing the divestment of the Jamaica Railway Corporation under the leadership of an enterprise team and is in discussions approved by Cabinet with two interested parties. The Development Bank of Jamaica is also pursuing the sale of a number of other Government assets, including Caymanas Track Limited, the Cocoa Industry Board and PETCOM, all of which are at various stages in the divestment process.

I'd like to say something, Mr. Speaker, about the role of the Development Bank of Jamaica in support of the Growth Agenda. The Development Bank of Jamaica has developed an enviable record as one of the premier development banking institutions of the Caribbean, and it is vital not only because of its provision of capital through associated financial institution, but also because of its support for the micro, small and medium enterprises - the so-called MSME sector.

Mr. Speaker, over the past year the loan commitments of the DBJ increased by some 36% for the first time in its history. (Applause) The bank approved loans totalling some $8.2 Billion and this $8.2 Billion of approved loans supported an investment of J$15 Billion with the potential for over 4,000 new jobs. But it is also significant, Mr. Speaker, that the DBJ which had set a target of $2 Billion for the MSME sector exceeded this target, as I indicated, by some 15% and this included some 9,600 loans to the micro sector because we want inclusive growth on this side. (Applause)

In support of the Growth Agenda, Mr. Speaker, for the Fiscal Year 2014/2015 the DBJ, the Development Bank of Jamaica, has set a lending target of $9 Billion with some $3 Billion specifically set for the MSME sector. (Applause) Important though all of this is, Mr. Speaker, one of the most exciting aspects of the work of the Development Bank of Jamaica to support growth concerns their role in capacity building. We all know that many of our small and medium enterprises failed to develop adequately because of technical deficiencies and limitations to their business capacity. For example, many of our small businesses lack proper business plans and accounting records, which deny them access to the formal financial sector.

Last November, following a consultation between the DBJ and the Small and Medium Enterprise Sector, the DBJ developed an action plan to address some of these issues. Starting next month, the Development Bank of Jamaica will be providing a voucher for technical assistance to those small and medium enterprises which qualify, (Applause) starting next month. What is it? This is an electronic voucher issued by the financial institutions and redeemed by the enterprise, the small or medium-sized enterprise at a business development organization for receiving capacity development. So you will get a voucher and you go to an approved organization like JBDC or some other approved organization, which will be selected, you can get training, you will be able to get help in developing your business plan and you will be able to get mentoring if you need it - accounting help.

The DBJ will finance 70% of the cost of the services with vouchers of values ranging from $100,000 to $300,000 to be accessed by up to 85 small and medium sized enterprises. (Applause) As I said, what can it be used for? Vouchers can be used for business plan development, business process improvement, financial management, mentorship and coaching and preparation of financial statements, strategic plans and marketing plans. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: When will it be available? The voucher system will go live in May 2014, next month. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: I should also mention...

Mr. DALLEY: Live May 2014.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Live May 2014.

Mr. SHAW: Production.

Mr. SAMUDA: Existing or new?

Dr. PHILLIPS: And direct.

I should also mention Mr. Speaker that DBJ will continue its successful energy management strategy in 2014/2015 and will explore and implement other energy projects, in partnership with the development partners in an effort to drive down energy costs and propel concessionary lending in the market. The Development Bank of Jamaica will continue its Energy Audit Grant Programme and has allocated $5Million for energy and energy audit grants to small and medium enterprises to decrease their energy cost. (Applause) We want inclusive growth on this side. The Energy Grant Programme provides up to $200,000 towards the cost of an audit. The programme is opened to private sector entities of all sizes which are interested in accessing loan funds to implement the recommended energy projects. The Development Bank of Jamaica is also continuing its work to foster the establishment of a venture capital and private equity fund system through public and private sector collaboration with local and international fund managers.

The Development Bank of Jamaica will seek to stimulate investments in new venture capital funds through co-investment with private sector partners. A target of J$1 Billion has been set for investment in high potential small and medium-sized enterprises over the next five years. Before the end of May requests for proposals will be issued to potential fund managers and it is projected that a venture capital fund will be established by the end of this year. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this will provide for a number of promising entrepreneurs who may not have access to capital directly. The value of this is not just the economic benefits but also the social benefits because this will mean that the potential for economic success will not have to be as firmly tied as it has been in the past to those who have been blessed with inherited wealth or capital. In fact, when we can provide capital for those who have a great idea but may not have been blessed with the inheritance of wealth, then we will be in a situation where we will perhaps undertake some of the most far-reaching social reforms in Jamaica because we know that wealth has been too confined to too few hands in this country over the years. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, without going into too much detail because I know that the respective Ministers will speak to these matters in the course of their presentation, I want to highlight some of the areas of potential growth that are being expanded or developed as the case may be.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Samuda)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Even now. When you were at the arena you would understand that...

Dr. DAVIES: Even now he does.

Dr. PHILLIPS: You would understand that part of the reason why economic reform has not worked as it should have is because we have left too many of the majority of the people outside of the ambit of economic growth. (Applause) You know that. I know you know that. (Referring to Mr. Samuda)

Mr. CHARLES: You are going to bring them in now?

Dr. PHILLIPS: We are going to bring them in. We are going to bring them in.

A Government MEMBER: Listen, Pearnel!

Mr. CHARLES: I am listening.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker...

Mr. CHARLES: Bring them in, Lord Jesus.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Bring them in one by one. Bring them in two by two, three by three until we have an army of Jamaicans, green, orange, no colour at all, all moving forward together in the interest of (wealth) creation. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Pearnel, you make a mistake, you dye the wrong side.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, agriculture is one of the fastest growing sectors in the country. For the quarter ending December 31, 2014 it was one of the best performing, seven Agro Parks: Plantain Garden River, Yallahs, Amity Hall, Ebony Park, Hill Run, New Forest/Duff House and Spring Plain are now operational. (Applause) The production across the seven agro parks is not insignificant. And I know the Minister early after Easter will give a full accounting of what is happening.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Fulsome.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Hutchinson)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Tourism also represents an area of substantial growth and the Minister of Tourism and his team should be - should be commended for doing a difficult job in the context of a fragile global economy. (Applause) The sector for the quarter ending

December 31 grew at a rate of approximately 6%. And this, Mr. Speaker, is against the backdrop where a number of rooms have been out of service for refurbishing and because of the transfers of ownership of some of the properties, yet there was still growth. There is still a lot of activity in this sector with new rooms coming on stream. The Azul Sensatori, (formerly Poinciana in Negril) which was acquired by Karisma, will officially open next month having completed a J$l.l Billion renovation programme. (Applause) The Royalton White Sands Hotel, (formerly the Starfish Hotel) owned by the Sunwing Travel Group of Canada, completed its major refurbishing involving an investment of over J$2.5 Billion and reopened last December. (Applause) The new RIU Hotel at Mahoe Bay in Montego Bay, Mr. Speaker, that hotel built at Mahoe Bay in Montego Bay represents an investment of some J$4.5 Billion and is now opened. The Playa Hotel and Resorts, new property in Montego Bay, will be a 620-room Hyatt luxury all-inclusive resort, which will open in the fourth quarter of 2014 after total renovation and expansion investment of over US$80 Million. (Applause)

The Braco property being managed by the Melia Hotel International is currently being refurbished and is expected to open for the 2014/2015 winter season. (Applause) And of course, there is the Marriott in New Kingston, the Courtyard Marriott where construction is taking place and is underway now. (Applause)

There is not only life in the tourism sector, but on the basis of the rising confidence, we expect to see a lot more activities in this sector. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I indicated, during the Standing Finance Committee and, in fact, previous to that in this House that we were not going to let this year pass without taking some definitive decision in relation to Harmony Cove. I can point out that we have received positive news in this regard, in that, there has been a commitment of an additional equity interest by a Chinese partner, but there is still further to go in this and I will repeat what I said - I repeat what I said that this year, this year, we need to have a definitive and final decision taken in relation to this project. (Applause) There has been forward progress since I last spoke, but we will need to bring it to conclusion very quickly. (Applause)

In relation to integrated resort developments, as I indicated, the proposals have been received, they are being assessed, and before the end of this calendar year decisions will be taken regarding the proposals before us.

The provision of cheaper energy is an essential part of our growth strategy. The Minister of Energy has already informed the country in relation to the proposed 380 megawatt project. Must remember also that request for proposals for an additional 115 megawatt source from renewable sources was already issued and some 70 megawatts have already been awarded. (Applause) We are going to persist in this effort to get cheaper energy to our producers and to the consuming public.

Bauxite and alumina continues to figure centrally in our economic growth plans, energy here is the critical element in the equation and both in relation to JAMALCO and in relation to Ewarton, energy solutions have been prepared and are at various stages in the implementation progress.

Regarding the development...

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. D. Smith)

Dr. PHILLIPS: What happen to Alpart? Alpart remains an important part of the planning and the Minister, when he speaks, will speak directly to what measures are being taken in that regard.

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. D. Smith)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, we don't threaten.

Mr. Speaker, it no secret that we place a lot of emphasis, as with that side, on taking advantage of Jamaica's geographic location, to become a global logistics centre. (Applause) Work is far advanced, our discussions are far advanced, discussions and negotiations are far advanced in relation to the potential establishment of additional port transshipment facilities and a Special Economic Zone in St. Catherine in the Portland Bite area. That has been reported on. (Applause) And we are...

(Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Yes, but you know, a huge project of US$1.3 Billion is not something that you sign on the back of an envelope, we approach it systematically. But the message here, the message here is that we are proceeding, as we are proceeding with the KCT facility, as we are proceeding with the Caymanas Zone.... (Applause) ...and we are going to, and we are going to, we are going to ensure that this opportunity does not slip from us. One thing I can say though...

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I want so say something Mr. Speaker, about what to me is one of the more exciting prospects in relation to job creation in Jamaica. And that relates to the ICT BPO subsector, the Business Process Outsourcing Subsector. Last year JAMPRO facilitated five new entrants to the Jamaican market, two software development firms and three outsourcing companies, four of these companies have already begun operations. The BPO industry currently employs some 12,000 people in over 30 companies and is growing rapidly due to the expansion of companies already established in Jamaica.

The Development Bank of Jamaica has already approved six projects totaling US$22 Million to create 334,000 square feet of space with two additional applications totalling US$11 Million under review at the moment that will create an additional 245,000 square feet of space - of additional space. This would amount to another 570,000 square feet of space for this important sector.

I had occasion, Mr. Speaker, to speak at one of the - a graduating class, small class, in the animation segment of this industry. It was an experience that filled me with considerable hope. For one thing, it is one of the few graduating classes at the University where there were more men than women in the class. But what was most significant is that every one of the graduates had already been placed in a job by the time they reach the graduation ceremony, animation. (Applause) What is most exciting about the sector at this time is that we are seeing a lot of private investors coming alive to the prospects in this sector and beginning to engage in property development without looking for any Government subsidy in this regard... (Applause) ...and it can only augur well as the interest rates come down. Mr. Speaker, we can put all our high school and tertiary graduates to work in this sector, there are some marvelous things happening in Jamaica now. Some of the call centres right here in Jamaica are bilingual call centres, they answer in English and Spanish, and if you are not careful we might even down the line throw in some Manderin and other things as well. (Applause) We have the people, we have potential, we need to get the foundations right and put the Jamaican people to work. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I have said that we are committed to inclusive growth. And a critical instrument of securing this inclusion is to ensure that the Jamaican people, many of whom live in informal settlements, rural and urban without title to land, and therefore find themselves in a situation where they are not able to secure the capital, even though they live on this capital. It is for that reason why the LAMP Programme, the Land Administration and Management Programme was started in 2001, I believe or I think you are the - 2001.

We envisage an ownership society with more and more Jamaicans having their ability to own a piece of this rock, Jam Rock (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Call it home sweet home.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The LAMP Programme was launched in 2000; in excess of 25,000 files have been opened with approximately 4,000 titles issued. To date, however, there have been a number of issues regarding the success and the grant of titles to some of the potential beneficiaries. Current data shows that in excess of 2000 land title files are in possession of LAMP which cannot be transferred primarily because the beneficiaries are unable to meet the cost. Without titles the land owners cannot access financing from banks or other financial institutions to undertake the productive activities and improve their social status. If they had the title they could borrow some money to plant three more squares of peas or another two squares of...

Mr. DALLEY: Lettuce.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...lettuce or cane, or put on another room on the house and produce some condiments. We want this segment of the society to also contribute to production.

Our vision of production and growth is not something for big factories alone, it is something that starts off organically down at the grass roots of the country. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in order to correct this deficiency, the Development Bank of Jamaica has agreed to provide funding to help land owners who have applied to LAMP for titles and have made some payments towards their files, but have so far been unable to make the remainder of their payments to complete the process. This will be done through a land owner payment assistance facility of J$90 Million... (Applause) ....which will allow these land owners to complete the process. This is significant, Mr. Speaker, because it has implications for rural developments, as many of these land owners will use their titles as collateral to access loans for agriculture and other productive purposes. (Applause)

In addition to support for the administrative processing to these titles, an allocation J$20 Million will be provided to the Minister of Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change to fund the operation of the Adjudication Committees in the various communities within affected parishes to resolve ownership issues. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change will speak further about the developments in the Land Programme - in the LAMP Programme. But I want to say, the Public Sector Modernization Programme will have as its mandate, working together with the Ministry, to ensure that not only those files which are currently languishing get dealt with, but to find ways to speed-up the process, because we want all of rural Jamaica who live in the conditions of informal tenure, to get the title to their land and become a functioning part of the Jamaican economy. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Audley, yuh pay di man fi de lan' weh yuh tek yet?

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I'd like now to turn to some of the specific provisions in the budget.

The Central Government's Budget for fiscal year 2014/2015 is consistent with the target set under the Extended Fund Facility negotiated with the IMF. Crafting the Budget for 2014/15 has been challenging. Expenditure has to be controlled and kept in line with the country's ability to fund its operations.

Within the limits of the available resources, strong commitments toward the protection of the most vulnerable, improving the physical infrastructure, fixing the justice system and reducing expenditure arrears have been made. But, there is no disguising the fact Mr. Speaker, the Budget is tight and many Ministries, Departments and Agencies have seen real reductions in their allocations, but, every challenge provides an opportunity.

This is an opportunity for Central Government to become more efficient in its operations.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes, yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: To find ways of doing more with less; to reduce waste, to increase productivity and justify every dollar spent, maximizing the value for every dollar. (Applause)

Accounting Officers, Board Chairmen and CEOs will be called upon to be vigilant in ensuring that we begin to reduce the cost of government operations. The Taxpayers will expect no less from us.

For Fiscal Year 2014/2015, $557.7 Billion will be spent on Central Government operations. This includes $17.7 Billion to be funded from user fees, charges and grants. $233 Billion or 42% will go towards debt-servicing. And there's the 'nub-of-the rub', so-to-speak, we're still spending too much, but that's what we have to overcome. Fifty-eight percent (58%) will go towards wages, salaries, capital projects and recurrent programmes.

One Hundred and Sixty-One Billion Dollars ($161 Billion) has been provided to meet wages and salaries of public sector workers. Significantly, provision has been made to honour all agreed settlements....

(Applause)

…to public sector workers, including $4 Billion, the final tranche of the 7% wage settlement is due in May.

Two point Eight Billion Dollars ($2.8B), the second year of the One-off Payment due in August; $2.3 Billion for health sector reclassification, the second phase of that, second of three. The Minister of Finance will continue discussions with those groups that still have outstanding matters not yet settled.

Spending on social programmes continues to receive priority treatment in the Budget in keeping with the Government's commitment to the protection of the most vulnerable among us.

(Applause)

A total of $22,563 Billion has been reserved for a set of social programmes for which the Government of Jamaica has established a floor, below which expenditures will not fall. This floor is $20.7 Billion, which was set in 2013/2014, and the commitment given is to maintain this in real terms throughout the life of the programme. This has been achieved in this budget.

Over $5.5 Billion has been provided for social protection programmes carried out by the Ministry of Labour and Social Security. This reflects an increase of over $900 Million to enable the Government to honour its commitment to providing another 15% increase in PATH payments.

So while - put simply - while there are other areas that have faced real reductions, we have increased the spending on social protection matters. (Applause)

A total of $4.3 Billion has been allocated to the School Feeding Programme up from $3.9 Billion for 2013/2014.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: This includes just under $3 Billion for the PATH component.

Education: $727 Million has been allocated to support the provision of additional classroom spaces in infant, primary and secondary schools across the island.

(Applause)

An additional $119.3 Billion has been provided to improve sanitation in schools.

(Applause)

National Security and Justice represents an area where we have given priority treatment. Not enough, not enough the Minister would say, and I....

(Mr. Bunting laughs)

….I have had experiences to prove that I feel his pain. I know that it takes a lot of resources to meet the security needs, but we have tried to provide within the resources available. (Applause)

One point Three Billion Dollars ($J1.3B) has been provided to support improved mobility and upgrade the facilities of the Jamaica Defence Force. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear! (Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Six Hundred and Thirty-One point Two Million Dollars ($631.2M) has been allocated to complete acquisition of telecommunications equipment and the enhancement of the Automated Palm and Fingerprint Identification System. And Five Hundred Million Dollars ($500M) will be spent from Appropriations-in-Aid by the police to repair and improve police stations and support improvement. (Applause)

Three Hundred and Forty-Five Million Dollars ($345M) has been provided for the Ministry of Justice to continue work on improving the Justice System, including completion of another phase of the Justice Square Judicial Complex and acquire lands and complete designs for other judicial complexes in St. James, St. Ann, St. Catherine and Manchester. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, over $8 Billion or approximately 23% of the Central Government Capital Budget has been reserved for infrastructural works to be carried out through the Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing during 2014/2015. Some of the major projects which will be undertaken include $4 Billion for the MIDP, Major Infrastructural Development Project, funded by the China EX-IM Bank and the Government of Jamaica to undertake reconstruction of bridges, commence rehabilitation of main roads and through the JEEP Programme to repair works and community road, retaining walls, drainage structures, et cetera.

One point Seven Billion ($1.7B) for the Jamaica Economical Housing Project to complete works in St. Ann and Luana Gardens in St. Elizabeth.

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. PHILLIPS: St. Elizabeth, Luana Gardens. I believe….

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Dr. PHILLIPS: That is it?

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Yes.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Okay. Long time in coming, but it is here at last. (Applause)

Six Hundred and Eighty-Nine Million Dollars ($689M) to complete drainage rehabilitation works remaining on the Sandy Gully under the Kingston Metropolitan Area Drainage Project.

Six Hundred and Eighty-Nine Million Dollars ($689M) to the Transportation Infrastructure Project to complete road construction in Westmoreland, Hanover, St. Thomas and St. Catherine. He doesn't want the Sandy Gully benefit?

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. PHILLIPS: You don't want it? (Dr. Phillips refers to Mr. D. Smith)

(Inaudible comment by Mr. D. Smith)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Four Hundred and Ninety-Four Million ($494M) to the Road Rehabilitation Project to commence road construction works in Clarendon. Two Seventy-Three Million ($273M) to Road Improvement Programme to undertake maintenance work on the North Coast Highway.

The Capital Expenditure included in the Central Government's Budget will be enhanced by investment and Capital Expenditure of other public bodies.

Investment infrastructure and other capital projects by public bodies are estimated to be $53.9 Billion.

Approximately 1.6 Billion will be spent on road rehabilitation by the Road Maintenance Fund.

Approximately $26.3 Billion will be spent on housing solutions by both the National Housing Trust and the Housing Agency of Jamaica. The National Housing Trust expenditure of $22.4 Billion, should support some 7,600 new loans, 2,400, approximately 2,500 housing starts and 2,163 completions.

In addition to these housing solutions, NHT has provided for $971 Million to support a programme of special subsidies and grants to facilitate access by contributors to the lower income bracket.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Million.

(Laughter)

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw/Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: I won't say nutten bout dat. (Laughter)

Housing Agency of Jamaica is expected to spend $2.9 Billion to work on White Hall, Phase 3, Westmoreland. But my plan is, you know, my plan before all of this is finished is for us to begin to talk about spending $970 Billion on housing, but that is not this year or next year. But, we'll be here still when we begin to do that.

(Applause)

It all starts there.

The National Water Commission's Capital Programme is estimated at $6.3 Billion of which $1.9 Billion will be spent on non-revenue water relieve stations, pipeline and installation of residential and domestic meters.

The Rural Water Supply project will benefit from an expenditure of $1.8 Billion. Eight Billion ($8B) will be spent on the Portmore Sewage Project and the Tanks and Pump Project will get another $1 Billion.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to say something specifically about the Students' Loan Bureau, given the interest that so many have in this institution as they seek to satisfy their quest for tertiary education.

The first point I'd like to make Mr. Speaker is that for this year, the Students' Loan Bureau will be able to meet the projected demand at the same level as was satisfied last year. (Applause) There is a provision of $2 Billion, which when added to the expected collection and funds-in-hand, will meet the demand projected to be at approximately $4.8 Billion.

In the meantime, I should also point out that the Board of the Students' Loan Bureau has approved a number of policy changes, which it is expected will make it easier for students to qualify for loans, and which will reduce the overall delinquency rates. (Applause) While I don't propose to set out in detail all the changes, there are some of the changes that I'd like to particularly refer to here.

First of all is the decision to extend the moratorium period for particular target groups of beneficiaries, such as nurses, pharmacists and mechanical engineers. (Applause)

Whereas now there is a fixed moratorium period for all beneficiaries of the Students' Loan Bureau, which ends on December 31 of the year when their course ends, for these groups, the moratorium - which are licensed groups, licensed professional groups, the moratorium period will be extended to include the time before they are licensed to practice their professions instead of the December when their courses are finished. (Applause) This will ensure that these beneficiaries have the capacity to earn before they are required to start repaying their loans.

(Applause)

The Students' Loan Bureau will also be implementing a two-tiered system of interest rates, so that the interest rate during the moratorium period will be lower than the interest charged during the payment period. This will reduce the monthly payments that the beneficiaries are called upon to make.

In relation to guarantors - everybody is living longer - the requirements are also being changed. Currently, the stipulation was that a guarantor could not be older than sixty years, which would disqualify many people in this House.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: That rule is now being relaxed... (Applause) ...and guarantors may be accepted beyond the age of sixty, on a case-by-case basis, depending on their financial capabilities and providing they fulfill the other stated criteria.

(Applause/Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: And this will also mean that rather than people going to find guarantors who can't fit the bill, or who can't meet the requirements, they will find people - qualified people who are up to the responsibilities, who can provide the mentorship and the guidance, and stand behind the borrower, as the case may be. And we expect that it should help reduce the delinquency rates in the Fund. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: The SLB will also be relaxing the rule whereby one guarantor could only provide a guarantee for one student. (Applause) Some people have the capacity to do more, and what we want to do is have guarantors of quality rather than just have quantity. Now an individual with the financial means will be able to provide guarantees for up to a maximum of three students... (Applause) ...provided that he or she proves to be financially capable. So, you may be capable but somebody else may not be, you can go up to three.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, it is also proposed - hold on - it is also proposed that interests due on outstanding loans to the SLB will not be calculated any longer on the current add-on basis, but on the reducing balance...

(Members on both sides applauded)

Some MEMBERS: Brilliant! Brilliant!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...thus reducing the monthly payment for the beneficiaries who pay. These changes and others should go a far way towards making students' loans more accessible and more affordable to potential beneficiaries. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Overall, Mr. Speaker, there has been a significant improvement in the level of collections by the Students' Loan Bureau, not least because borrowers are now much more attuned to the fact that how they treat with their loan obligations will determine their credit history in this new environment in which credit bureaus exist. (Applause) And it will affect their capacity not only to borrow from the Students' Loan Bureau, but from other institutions to get loans for other purposes, whether it is for housing, or for the car loan or for other things.

The Students' Loan Bureau and its Board have been charged to collect from those who borrow so that another generation can continue to benefit from the Students' Loan Bureau. (Applause)

We still have to deal with the overall question of how we finance tertiary education in the country, as a whole. We have to explore other means of providing support for students who aspire to higher learning. We have to discuss with the universities and with the private sector and public sector institutions, issues such as work-study programmes, so that we can assist students to find their way through it, to provide their way through.

Some consideration should be given by private financial institutions to develop more attractive financial products that can assist families to finance their children through university.

The Ministry of Finance and the Ministry of Education have begun discussions, and at a later date we will say more about this, because what we need is a unified national endeavor linking private sector, public sector, universities, students, parents and everyone, to find a way of providing in a new environment what is needed for tertiary education. We cannot continue to have the illusion that all the resources needed in the near-term or medium-term are going to come from the Consolidated Fund. To believe that would be to believe an illusion.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, you may grow, you will grow, but we have a commitment - I don't know if you passed - you voted yes, but we have a commitment to get our debt to GDP ratio down to 60 per cent by 2025. That will be your what, fifteenth term, yes. (Laughter)

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: But the fact is, we just need to face it. While we expect some greater space in the Budget, it's not going to be so vast that we can undertake from the Consolidated Fund all those expenditures that make our institutions not just available to accept the students, but have the institutions becoming the first-rate institutions in the ranking of the world. We don't just want to have a university to call it a name; we want the best universities that money can buy. (Applause) And to have the best universities that money can buy we have to provide money for those universities. And that's what we have to do to try and find the way.

Mr. Speaker, on the matter of Government Domestic Payables and Arrears, it must be acknowledged that ministries, departments and agencies in the course of their operations, like other businesses, do carry payables.

However, in addition to normal payables associated with conducting business, several ministries, departments and agencies have, over the years, built up sizeable payments arrears, that is, those payables which extend over ninety days. A significant portion of these arrears go back over several years, in fact, there are arrears that go back over twenty years in some of the ministries, departments and agencies.

The fact is that successive Administrations have struggled over the years with this issue of containing the buildup of expenditure arrears in the Central Government. The problem has up to now, however, persisted.

In March 2013, the stock of domestic arrears reported by MDAs, stood at some Twenty-one point Six Billion ($21.6B). That is, all domestic arrears known at that time, including those going back over the years.

We have taken the decision that the arrears build up in ministries, departments and agencies is a serious issue and will therefore have to be treated as a matter of major priority.

A firm commitment has been given under the Extended Fund Facility and recorded in the Memorandum of Economic and Financial Policies, to control arrears. A cap has been placed on domestic arrears, at the level which existed at March, 2013, in order to prevent any further increase in the stock of arrears. (Applause) As at February, 2014, this cap was not breached. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Measures are being put in place, including structural changes, to reduce the existing stock of arrears over time and to control the build-up.

Mr. Speaker, it is well known that a central plank of our Economic Reform Programme involves tax reform. Among the central tax reform objectives is the strengthening of Tax Administration, improved rates of compliance, but perhaps more importantly, providing incentives for strong economic growth and job creation.

Last year, the centerpiece of our legislative efforts in this regard was the so-called Omnibus Incentives Legislation to introduce a rules-based and non-discretionary regime that was accessible to all investors.

The new regime focuses on granting of incentives to inputs to production, that is, capital and labour, by way of modern capital allowances that are more in line with the useful life of the assets, and which allow for a more meaningful and more generous write-off period for these taxes. It also provides for a new employment tax credit and incentives for the employment of labour, by allowing all tax-compliant businesses to claim credit against their income tax liabilities to the tune of 30 per cent of their statutory deductions. And it also provided a new regime to make provision for a reduction of the tax-related cost of the productivity inputs, by providing tax relieve on imported operating inputs. The PIR applies to all inputs, including consumer goods such as, for example, carpets and fans for the tourism sector, or recording equipment for the creative industries... (Applause) ...once these are directly used as raw materials, intermediate goods or consumer goods in the production process.

Also, we should recall that the Customs Tariff revision introduced as part of the legislative package - the aim was introduced as part of the legislative package. The aim has been to reduce the list of non-consumer goods that attract customs duties while remaining consistent with our treaty obligations to CARICOM, and other international agreements. Tax incentives for the tourism sector were considered by the Working Group.

Mr. Speaker, implementation of the new incentive regime is proceeding with active facilitation from the relevant agencies, including Tax Administration Jamaica, the Jamaica Customs Agency and the Tax Policy Division under the Ministry of Finance and Planning.

At present consultations are ongoing in relation to the registration and certification procedures for businesses, that will access productive input relief, in particular, discussions are taking place with the manufacturing and tourism sectors. Every effort is being made to conclude these arrangements by June of this year.

Mr. Speaker, one outstanding area in the system of productive input relief, concerns the tourism transportation subsector, U-drive, contract carriage and tour operators. Under the old regime of waivers these operators were provided with concessionary rates at the discretion of the Minister of Finance, in order for them to offer competitive prices for their services.

As you are aware, Mr. Speaker, these powers have been removed. Without these concessionary rates the operators are at a disadvantage.

Motor vehicles are essential inputs to the services that these operators provide in much the same way as some consumer goods are an input to the accommodation and attraction subsectors.

Similar treatment ought therefore to be accorded to the operators in the tourism transportation subsector. It is proposed that vehicles for this sub sector be allowed imported free of customs duties but continue to be subject to GCT and SCT. (Applause) The specific mechanism on this new regime has been agreed and awaits a decision by the Cabinet, to authorize appropriate changes to the Legislation.

Mr. Speaker, Section 5 of the Fiscal Incentives Act allows Tourism Entities that are beneficiaries under the Hotel Incentive Act, a six-month transition period to decide whether to adopt the provisions of the new incentive regime, or retain their hotel incentive status for the remaining period of the concession. The election under the Legislation is to be made by July 1, 2014.

I am aware, Mr. Speaker, that this deadline is a matter of concern to some investors who have been appealing for an extension to complete their assessment and decision-making processes.

I want to stress, Mr. Speaker that I am mindful of this concern, and would urge that the discussions currently underway between the Incentive Working Group and the Tourism Sector, be completed expeditiously so that whatever decisions we need to take to meet these concerns will be arrived at before the stipulated deadline.

We recognize the concern of players in the industry that there should be certainty regarding the duration of the incentives provided by this Legislation. We are in discussions with Tax Administration Jamaica, the Attorney General's Chambers to provide a workable solution that would be satisfactory to the financial market. We understand that bankers need just what they are called, bankable assurances that the terms of any agreement will last for the period of a loan or an investment, or the period for the amortization of an investment. But even as we proceed with these discussions, I want to make it clear, Mr. Speaker, in all honesty and sincerity, that no one should expect that it can be business as usual.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have to step forward into this new world and thus - so we hope that the discussions will be speedily concluded; we are prepared to make adjustments but we hope that there is a willingness on both sides, to come to a conclusion. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I want to just say one more thing before I deal with what everybody has been waiting for, consideration of the financing.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: I had made the point, Mr. Speaker, that we see taxation as a tool for helping to drive job creation, and helping to lift productivity in the economy as a whole. We have in the past, in relation to computers, reduced and removed duties, in order for people to use computers, not just to play computer games that some people do...

A MEMBER: Like Desmond.

Dr. PHILLIPS: I am not calling anybody's name... but really to have them use these items in the production process for the goods and services that they offer. An issue has arisen in relation to the categorization of tablets versus phablets. It was recognized that these...

Mr. CHUCK: (Inaudible) ...term, phablet.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: A phablet - we know we are in a rapidly changing sector - a phablet is a cross between a phone and a tablet. And when we are talking about tablet here, we are talking about a computer device, not a medicinal potion.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, tablets were classified similarly with laptops under the tariff heading 8471, and therefore did not attract any customs duty. Given that phablets represented a cross between the tablet and the phone, and provided that the characteristic was indistinguishable as to whether it was a phone or a tablet, the classification was interpreted as being classified as a phone under tariff heading 8517. Phablets would therefore attract Customs Duty of 20 per cent as set by CARICOM.

With the rapid changes in technology, it was felt that this classification was prejudicial, as many of the tablets had similar characteristics to phablets. It was therefore felt, in the interest of equity in classification, and in the interest of driving productivity improvements in our domestic economy...

Mr. CHUCK: (Inaudible) ...that information.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...that the classification for phablet should be the same as that for tablets. (Applause) It is expected that this change will provide greater access and widen the use of technology products for learning and productivity.

Against this background, the Ministry of Finance and Planning has advised the Customs Agency to classify the phablets under tariff heading 847130 with description

> 'portable automatic data processing machines, weighing not more than ten kilograms, consisting of at least a central processing unit, a key board and a display'

under the World Customs Organization, provides a unique classification. The effective date of this, Mr. Speaker, is May 1, 2014. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: At this time, the impact on revenues cannot be estimated, but is not considered to be significant.

A MEMBER: What colour the phablet have - blue?

Another MEMBER: It comes in orange too, you know.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, the 2014/2015 Expenditure Budget is estimated at $540.1 Billion. Revenues and grants are projected at $421.2 Billion, leaving a financing gap of $118.9 Billion. This will be financed by loan receipts of $110 Billion, utilization of balances in the banking system of $1.4 Billion, and inflows from new measures, totaling $6.7 Billion.

Tax revenue of $377.6 Billion for last year is nineteen - tax revenue projected at $377.6 Billion is 9.8 per cent of the out-turn for 2013/2014 and represents 23.4 per cent of GDP. Included in the Tax Revenue Forecast is an amount of $3.2 Billion already announced for the minimum business tax, Betting, Gaming and Lotteries, and tidying up of Customs Regulations. All of these were introduced last year. The Legislation to cover these taxes is already before the Parliament. The tax measures projections also include various small measures, designed to tighten administrative features of existing taxes and plug loopholes.

Non-tax revenue is estimated at $34.2 Billion, down from $41.1 Billion out-turn in the previous fiscal year. This includes payments for new licences, renewal of old licences applicable to the telecommunications sector, totaling $4.3 Billion and capital revenues of $1.5 Billion.

The projected grants for 2014/2015 is $8.6 Billion, down from $10.6 Billion received in 2013/2014. Loan receipts of $110.9 Billion comprised $54.6 Billion from external sources and $56.3 Billion from domestic sources. The external sources are some eight-tenths of one per cent above the inflows from last year's, and the domestic is 40.3 per cent above the out-turn for the last fiscal year.

Mr. Speaker, you will note that the financing identified above is short of some $6.7 Billion to fully fund the 2014/2015 Budget. This amount must come from new taxes.

Mr. Speaker, no administration, and no Minister of Finance likes to impose new taxes...

Mr. SHAW: How you say there was no new taxes?

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...but this is required to allow us to meet our primary surplus target. The tax package being proposed is approximately 0.5 per cent of GDP.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Chuck)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Now, let me say, we made a commitment that - I noticed a headline this morning that urged - I don't know if it was urging - that we should remove the Special Consumption Tax on petrol and do it by GCT. We made a commitment that we were not going to do anything on petrol and in any event, we, the Government of Jamaica, is of the view that that would entail serious collection difficulties, getting it from up at Devon, and Prattville, and Askenish, and other places. It is a complicated issue. We also have sought in doing this, to protect the poorest to the greatest degree possible.

So, Mr. Speaker, the first issue relates to alcoholic beverages. All alcoholic beverages with the exception of White Overproof Rum are currently taxed at the rate of $1,120 per liter of pure alcohol. There is also a preferential regime for the tourism industry which is currently $700 per litre, of pure alcohol. Under the current reform programme, the policy is for the systematic unification of the rates. In light of this, the proposal, with respect to the taxation of alcoholic beverages, is to provide for one unified, specific rate per liter, pure alcohol on all alcoholic beverages across all sectors.

We have found that the differential rates increase the administrative costs in the system, and quite frankly, is cumbersome and difficult to administer, and allows for leakage of the revenues. The estimated revenue yield from this measure is approximately $844 Million and will be effective April 22, 2014.

There was a discussion earlier, Mr. Speaker, in the Taxation Committee and the proposals for the tidying up of the GCT which increases the age limit on which GCT is applicable on the second-hand sale of vehicles from eight years to ten years. This was extensively discussed, and was agreed by the Parliamentary Committee.

The proposal does not contemplate increasing fees but really extends the year on vehicles. The yield on this is $26 Million and it became effective April 1, 2014.

Mr. Speaker, we propose to introduce a levy on deposit-taking institutions and encashments from securities dealers. This levy will be chargeable on all withdrawals from deposit-taking institutions by way of electronic banking, point of….

Mr. CHUCK: To withdraw yuh money. One dollar. Yuh mad to rahtid.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Electronic banking, point of sale transactions, cheques...

Mr. CHUCK: That's an exit tax.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...ABM, ATM, ETM or over-the-counter and internet transfers.

Mr. CHUCK: Stupidity!

Dr. PHILLIPS: The levy is charged on the banks...

Mr. CHUCK: It's a stupid tax.

Mr. SHAW: Bank gwine pass on the cost.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...and will be charged for encashments from security dealers, whether partial or full. It is being proposed that a minimum ad valorem levy, as detailed below, will be charged on the value of each withdrawal. Less than $1 Million, the levy rate is 0.1 per cent...

Mr. DALLEY: Less than $1 Million.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...which would mean, Mr. Speaker, that for transactions of $1,000, $5,000 or $10,000 the associated levy payable would be $1, $5, or $10 respectively.

(Cross talk)

On a withdrawal of $100,000, the levy would be a $100. Mr. Speaker, on transactions valued between $1 Million to $5 Million, the levy rate is 0.09 of a per cent.

A MEMBER: One dollar.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Greater than $5 Million, less than $20 Million, the transaction rate is 0.075 of a per cent. Greater than $20 Million, the transaction rate is 0.05 of a per cent.

(Cross talk)

Stamp Duty charged on CHEC transactions will be removed. The revenue yield from this measure is estimated at $2.3 Billion and will be effective as of June 1, 2014.

Insurance companies are currently subject to corporate income tax at a reduced rate of 15 per cent. This rate was left unchanged in the recent rate adjustments made under the Fiscal Incentives Regime. In addition to thej.5 per cent corporate tax, life insurance companies are required to pay a premium tax as per section 48 of the Income Tax Act at a rate of 5 per cent and 4 per cent of gross premiums per year earned by regional and non-regional companies respectively. It is proposed that the rate of tax on gross premiums be increased to a standard 5.5 per cent. The second change being proposed is to increase the 15 per cent income tax on net investment income to 20 per cent for all insurance companies. The new regime will be effective May 1, 2014 and the total revenue yield from the combined measures will be approximately $1 Billion.

The following increases are being proposed to the Asset Tax:

- For specified entities regulated by the BOJ and the FSC, the rate is to be increased from 0.14 per cent to 0.25 per cent;
- For other entities the new scale of rates will apply:

i) asset value of at least $50 Million, a flat tax of $200,000;
ii) asset tax of at least $5 Million, but less than $50 Million a flat tax of $150,00;
iii) Asset tax of at least $500,000, but less than $5 Million a flat tax of $100,000.

- Asset tax for all other categories remained unchanged. That is, for asset value of at least $50,000 but less than $500,000 and an asset value of less than $50,000.

This tax is due as usual on the 15th of March annually and the effective date is the 1st May and the revenue yield from this measure is estimated at $1,788 Billion.

Mr. Speaker, Ministry Paper No. 32 of 2012/2013 allowed for an increase in the CET rates on a select List C items by 10 percentage points. Based upon our commitment to rate reduction the following changes are proposed:

- a reduction of the customs duty for vehicles 2000cc and above - yeah, Common External Tariff, a reduction of the CET from 30 per cent to 20 per cent for 2000ccs and above; and
- a reduction of Special Consumption Tax rates by 10 percentage points for petrol or diesel vehicles over 3500cc and Hybrid vehicles.

The revenue yield expected from this measure is approximately $250 Million. By reducing the rates we expect greater inflows of revenues. (Applause)

Mr. SHAW: I told you that from 2010.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Nuh yuh put it down. That is the first....

Mr. DALLEY: He did it first.

Dr. PHILLIPS: But we agree with you. We agree you for the first time at last. (Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, in relation to the percentage of the Special Consumption Tax on petrol, which currently goes to the Road Maintenance Fund, which was intended to satisfy the loan repayment on the US$340 Million guaranteed debt from the China EX-IM bank, given that the guarantee of the Government of Jamaica has had to be put in place and called, those resources will now be redirected from the Road Maintenance Fund to Central Government and the Consolidated Fund. This will provide to the Consolidated Fund an additional $1.2 Billion.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, this Administration has a firm commitment to relieving the pressure on the most vulnerable among us and those with the lowest income. In keeping with this commitment, we proposed to increase the threshold on Personal Income Tax by $49,920 from the present value of $507,312 to $557,232. It is anticipated that this increase in the threshold will remove an additional 13,000 persons approximately from the requirement to pay taxes under the PAYE persons.

Mr. DALLEY: 13,000.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The estimated revenue loss is at $650 Million and the effective date is January 1, 2015.

Mr. Speaker, history provides us with no example of an economy that has unperformed for as long as we have to be restored to financial health and sustained economic growth without sacrifice and challenge.

(Cross talk/the Speaker gavels)

Last year, all of us collectively took the decision to bring a stop to any further deterioration in the Jamaican economy. We took the decision to pay down the massive debt burden so as to be able to invest more over time in improving social services and maintaining our physical infrastructure. We took the decision to regain the respect and trust of the international financial community. We took the decision to reform the public bureaucracy in order to create a more business-friendly environment for investors and improve efficiency with which we provide service to our fellow Jamaicans. Above all, we took the decision to begin living within our means.

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: These decisions were backed up by the sacrifices of our pensioners, our bondholders, our public servants and Jamaican families that have had to learn to stretch each dollar to make ends meet. The Report that I have just given on the state of the Jamaican economy over the past year, Mr. Speaker, provides irrefutable evidence that these sacrifices have not been in vain. (Applause) All the indicators point to the fact that we are on the right track (Applause), that the economy is back to growth...

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...and that we are attracting investments. (Applause)

Against this background, my message today is that we're going this path until reach...

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...our ultimate goals: sustained growth, increased employment, improved living standards. We are going to stay the course.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, while we are on this road I know only too well the burdens that Jamaican families and business enterprises are being called upon to bear. We live in a world, Mr. Speaker that is constantly changing and is increasingly competitive. The world has moved on and so must we. We are going to require a new thinking and innovation at every level to remain competitive even as we work to achieve sustained economic growth. We approach the future with confidence. The debt is being reduced. We have met all quantitative targets (Applause) in four quarterly tests under the IMF Programme and our economy is growing. The goals we have set ourselves are within our grasp.

Mr. DALLEY: As a people.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The new Jamaica we are designing and building is not a short term project. To bring this project to successful conclusion it will require from each of us commitment, industry and fixity of purpose.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Fixity.

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have a vision, Mr. Speaker that will have all our Jamaican students leaving high school and tertiary institutions eventually being able to move straight from school into the workplace. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have a vision of communitites where safety and harmony are the order of the day. We have a vision of families being to meet from their own resources the basic expenses for the education of their children. (Applause) We have a vision of a Jamaica with a vibrant industrial sector, vibrant agricultural sector driven by innovation. Mr. Speaker, we have proven in so many areas of life in the world: track and field, culture, scholarship, that we can do it.

Mr. Speaker, as we wish each other well for a happy and Holy Easter season, let us remember that the message of Easter is one of renewal, rebirth and resurrection. (Applause) That is what we seek for our country.

I thank you, Mr. Speaker. May God bless Jamaica and the Jamaican people.

(Applause) (Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move for the recommittal of item, Announcements.

The SPEAKER: The question is the recommittal of item, Announcements.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Clerk laid on the Table of the House a copy of the following:

- Ministry Papers No. 45
  Annual Report and Audited Financial Statements of the Pesticides Control Authority for the Financial year 2010/2011
- Ministry Papers No. 46
  Annual Report of the Development Bank of Jamaica Limited for the Financial year ended March 31, 2013
- Ministry Papers No. 47
  Annual Report of the Private Security Regulation Authority for the period April 1, 2010 to March 31, 2011

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. Warmington.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Two weeks ago during the Finance Committee Meeting, I asked question in relation to the budget for the Leader of Opposition's Office, and the Minister then gave a response not to be totally correct, where he was somewhat misled by those who advised him. But at the time I asked the question of the reduction of $2 Million in the salary of the Leader of Opposition's Office and the reduction of $700,000 for goods and services. At the time, there was no stationery in that office. And the other thing is that at that time when I asked the question the telephone to the Leader of Opposition's Office was disconnected and is still disconnected. What I want to ask is, why this happened because while the current Prime Minister occupied that office this type of disrespect was never shown to that office. And I am saying that this type of spitefulness, pettiness and vindictiveness must stop.

The SPEAKER: No, no, Mr. Warmington. Mr. Warmington, you know better than that, man. You are accusing people.

Mr. WARMINGTON: What I am saying is that this type of behaviour must stop. It should never have happened, never have happened. This is disrespectful and this is at the lowest level that we can descend in such regard. It is still disconnected. Two weeks now the telephone in that office is disconnected, the bill is not paid, it is totally disrespectful. And I said before while the current Prime Minister occupied that office this type of disrespect was never shown. An end must be put to this type of disrespect that is being shown to that office.

The SPEAKER: Okay, thank you. House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker that is a matter under the Heading of Parliament, so as the House Leader I undertake to sort it out.

Mr. WARMINGTON: And make sure it doesn't happen again.

PRESENTATION OF BILLS WITHOUT LEAVE OF THE HOUSE FIRST OBTAINED

The SPEAKER: Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I now move to introduce and have read a first time a Bill shortly entitled: "The Betting, Gaming and Lotteries (Amendment) Act, 2014".

Bill entitled:

"The Betting, Gaming and Lotteries (Amendment) Act, 2014,"

read a first time.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice of second reading.

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we intend to continue the debate which was started last Thursday. This afternoon the Opposition Spokesperson on Finance, the Member of Parliament for North East Manchester, will make his contribution.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, on the occasion of this Budget Debate let me first of all thank you for your continued even-handed leadership in this House, and let me acknowledge the presence of my dear wife who is (Applause) along with Members of my constituency...

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. SHAW: You know that you are to behave yourself… who are here, including councillors and councillor caretaker.

Mr. Speaker, as you know, this is my 21st year of service as a MP (Applause) and I know that it is also your 21st year of service as Member of Parliament. (Applause) I want to also express my appreciation to my colleagues in all of the support that they have given to me and in particular, to say to my Leader and Leader of the Opposition and to thank him for taking a chance with me one more time. (Applause)

(Mr. Shaw shook hands with Mr. Holness)

(HON. RICHARD AZAN, (PNP), Clarendon, North Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport and Works, entered and took his seat.)

(MRS. SHAHINE ELIZABETH ROBINSON, (JLP), St. Ann, North Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

(MR. RUDYARD CONRAD SPENCER, (JLP), Clarendon, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, in my presentation today intend to give a brief overview of what I consider to be the state of the nation. I will then look at the expenditure budget and some critical matters that have to do with that expenditure budget. I will take a look at the tax package that has been proposed by the Honourable Minister of Finance and then to have a brief discussion on the macroeconomic programme of the Government with the International Monetary Fund and to discuss as - accept the invitation of the Minister of Finance to talk about exchange rate and the question of devaluation, and to discuss the issue of debt briefly before I end my presentation with some prescriptions for economic growth. So that is, Mr. Speaker, by way of the framework for my presentation.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Wheatley)

(HON ANTHONY GEORGE HYLTON, (PNP), St. Andrew, Western, Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. LLOYD BARNES SMITH, (PNP), St. James, Central, Deputy Speaker, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. EVON PATRICK CULLITON ATKINSON, QC, (PNP), Trelawny, Northern, Attorney General, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. COLIN ALFRED A. FAGAN, (PNP), St. Catherine, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, a British Army officer was assigned the arduous task of visiting a battlefield to check on reports of heavy troop losses. Upon his return, he reported to his superiors: "Gentlemen, I am afraid the situation is so grave" because he had found a lot of carnage. He says, "I am afraid the situation is so grave that it is virtually impossible for me to exaggerate but I will try."

Today, in reporting to this Parliament on the State of the Nation, there is absolutely no need for me, Mr. Speaker, to exaggerate. Honourable Members can be assured that whatever observations I make will be well grounded in the incontrovertible truth. It will be supported by facts, by real life, everyday experiences. Listeners will be obliged to receive the information either in loud or quiet agreement. Any denial to the contrary will be a contrivance, Mr. Speaker, a fabrication by persons either in self-denial or with their heads buried in the proverbial sand of political expediency. (Applause/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, what is the state of the Nation today? As I participate in this budget debate today, the question must be asked, what is the true state of the nation? Because when I listened last week Thursday -I thought the only thing that was left to flow was milk and honey.

Over the past two years and four months of the administration of this Government, the conditions of the lives of the citizens of Jamaica has sharply worsened. The overall annual unemployment rate is at 12 year high at 15.3 per cent for 2013. Unemployment among young people age 20 to 24 is 35.2 per cent, but among young women at the same age it is even higher at 44.1 per cent at October 2013, Mr. Speaker. The cost of living has sharply increased due to a 27 per cent devaluation of the Jamaican Dollar against the United States Dollar moving from $86.60 to US$1 at the end of 2011, to $109.96 easy to just round it off at $110 now to US$1.

The price of chicken back and basic foods, Mr. Speaker, has flown to unreachable heights, while oxtail and stake are now delicacies, no longer promised in the public square. And it was not promised by us. The fact is, by even the most conservative assessment of prices of basic foods one will find that the prices have increased, Mr. Speaker, at least twice the rate of the official inflation. This is certainly not balancing the people's lives as is the passion of the Honourable Prime Minister.

The cost of electricity continues to increase a pace, closing down some businesses, putting more people out of work, causing more disconnections of service, sending families to steal electricity or resort to the 'Home Sweet Home' lamp. In March our light bills have been further increased by another 10 per cent, one lick. And as we speak, the JPS has applied to the OUR for a 21 per cent increase, and even as they promised a 2 to 8 per cent reduction to large industrial users in return, small businesses, Mr. Speaker, will be called upon to pay 15 per cent more for electricity further eroding their fragile competitiveness. And even as our manufacturers and exporters put up a brave face, and went to the National Arena to display their goods, many of them worried privately and not so privately that they just don't know how much longer they can survive in business with a sliding dollar, increased cost of electricity, decline in consumer demand due to the severe contraction in the economy and its negative impact on people's purchasing power.

Mr. Speaker, we must look at the statistics, the volume of total cargo at our ports is at a 5 year low, at 22 million tons per year. When the JLP left office, our ports were handling some thirty plus million tons per year. At the end of 2013, volumes were 25 per cent lower; that is not progress, Minister. The Economic and Social Survey of 2013 showed that the household poverty rate increased; household poverty, Mr. Speaker, has increased by 2 per cent, moving from 12.4 per cent in 2010 to 14.4 per cent in 2012. My guess is that it is even worse if you factor in the figures for 2013.

Jamaica has slipped seven places, Mr. Speaker, on the United Nations Development Programme Human Development Index, from 79th place to 86th place, showing our worsening poverty.

Mr. Speaker, you can feel the poverty, you can see it as you travel the length and breadth of Jamaica; it is palpable. One social scientist has recently declared that 1.1 million Jamaicans are below the poverty line. One point one (1.1) million people. Meanwhile - it is not the first time we have heard that figure. The World Bank has used that figure before referring to how marginal we are. Meanwhile, there has been no publication of the Jamaica Survey of Living Conditions for over three years.

Mr. Speaker, the feeling of increasing poverty is becoming quite pervasive, and is amplified in a recent statement by the Reverend Lenworth Anglin, President of the Jamaica Umbrella Group of Churches representing 99 per cent of the Christian Community in Jamaica. Here is what he had to say. I quote;

> 'Basically, people are fearful, people are suffering financially, and the cost of living is too high, people are not earning and then there is the loss of jobs. The unemployment rate is just too high; and so there is a general suffering around which is evident.*

He continued,

> The Minister is trying to appease our minds, but we are feeling it on the ground.

He then said,

> I have never seen so many needy people, in all of my life, and they are coming to the church.'

That is the President of the Umbrella Group of Churches.

Mr. Speaker, the fact is that the rich are no longer getting richer, the middle class is rapidly becoming the lower-class, the lower-class is becoming the poor, and the poor is no longer getting poorer, they are getting poor-ra-ra. (Laughter)

Honourable Prime Minister, I am sorry, but you are not balancing the people's lives. Vital drugs needed by people who can't afford it are increasingly unavailable at public hospitals. One patient recently came to me with one item unfilled from three prescriptions given at the hospital; it turned out, Mr. Speaker, to be by far the most expensive of the three items of drugs vitally needed.

Additionally, an increase number of patients with chronic illnesses like renal failure and cancer await the mercy of the Government, the IMF and the expenditure. And even as we claimed to meet our expenditure targets to pass another IMF test, vital services such as repairs and sanitations in schools are cut, help for the disabled is cut, trucking of water and new supplies systems are cut, while raw sewage runs where we sell food in Downtown Kingston and where our people live and children play in the inner cities including Tawes Pen in Spanish Town. Thousands of people are keeping their children out of school, some for days, others for weeks because they can't afford the lunch and the transport money, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, despite the best efforts of the PATH Programme parents are having it very tough out there. Madam Prime Minister, we are not balancing our people's lives. All across the land Jamaicans are stressed out, the worker is stressed out to make ends meet, the businessman is stressed to try and cope with the hostile business climate. The transport operator is stressed out as he is called upon to find an extra three quarter three-million dollars for licence and to duco his bus while his income stream is declining. Many people across Jamaica are now buying bread by the half, the quarter or the slice; they are buying one egg, Mr. Speaker, many people...

(Heckling by Members)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I don't know what about that that excited some people like that. But let me say again, many people across Jamaica are now buying bread by the half, by the quarter and by the slice. Some people are buying egg Mr. Speaker, by the one.

(Heckling by Members)

Mr. Speaker, go Downtown, they are buying eggs by the one, they are buying a frankfurter by the one, and they are buying a squeeze of toothpaste by the one.

Mr. Speaker, due to the - you know, Mr. Speaker, some people don't believe about the squeeze of toothpaste, you know. But some time ago it used to be 'beg you a squeeze of toothpaste nuh'. Now it is not beg you a squeeze, it is, 'sell me a squeeze of toothpaste' due to the gross mismanagement of this Government....

(Heckling of Members)

Mr. Speaker, due to the gross mismanagement of this Government those of us who have jobs are stressed out to make ends meet between the food, the light bill, the transportation, school, the cost of daily survival, we are between the rock and some very hard places. This Government is not balancing people's lives.

One man told me, at the OUR consultation in Mandeville last week at the JPS application for a rate increase, that the light bill, he is said to the entire audience, that the light bill now is costing more than the food bill. And it is not the churches alone people turn to, Mr. Speaker, let's be totally honest. Members of Parliament, councilors, and the caretakers, the representatives of the people are stressed out, trying to cope with the ever increasing cry for the needy for assistance in our constituencies. (Applause) I dare anyone to deny that.

Mr. Speaker, it goes beyond that, for micro and small enterprises, the numbers are not thriving. And I take note of the initiatives announced by the Minister last week. 'Every little mickle will make a muckle', but small businesses, Minister are not thriving. There were 267 fewer small businesses operating in Jamaica at the end of December 2013 than when the Jamaica left office. Sales for the sector according to the Planning Institute of Jamaica have dropped by 15.4 per cent or some $9 Billion since the JLP left office; that is not progress, Minister; that is moving in the wrong direction.

Imports, Mr. Speaker, at 44.1 per cent of GDP at the end of 2013 is higher than where it was at the end of 2012 at 42.9 per cent despite the massive devaluation in the currency - that is moving in the wrong direction.

Exports at 11.1 per cent of GDP at the end of 2013 is lower than where it was at the end of 2012 at 11.7 per cent - that's moving in the wrong direction. If you drill down into exports in the manufacturing sector you will see, Mr. Speaker, an 18 per cent decline in 2013 when compared with 2012 across traditional and nontraditional exports, putting some five thousand people out of work. Mr. Speaker. This is a sector that employs approximately two times more males than females; imagine the impact on households from the job losses. And inflation, at nine and half per cent at the end of 2013 is higher than where the JLP left it at the end of 2011 – that is moving in the wrong direction.

Net International Reserves at $1.3 Billion. And it is interesting how the Minister, when he speaks, very selective in how he does benchmarking, he decides when he benchmarks to 2011 and when he benchmarks otherwise. Because last week he said that NIR is now at $1.3 Billion up from $800 Million last year. But, on a broader perspective, at the end of March 2014, the NIR is $700 Million less than the approximately $2 Billion that the JLP handed to the PNP at December 2011. Moving in the wrong direction. (Applause)

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, the.... Oh, you come!

(Laughter by all)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker.... (Laughter) Mr. Speaker, the Jamaica Stock Exchange has lost approximately 21% of its market value since the JLP left office. That is moving in the wrong direction.

Ask the question boldly of most Jamaicans, except perhaps the array of Consultants to this Government. Are you better off today than two years and four months ago?

Mr. DALLEY: Yes.

Dr. DAVIES: ….says yes!

Mr. SHAW: You will get a resounding, no! Has this Government kept its solemn promise to balance your lives while they balance the books?

Opposition MEMBER: No!

Mr. SHAW: You will get another big, no.

Mr. Speaker, the Government has passed IMF Tests and that is good. But they have dismally failed the test of effective governance and they have failed miserably the people's test. They have failed the supermarket test. They have failed the test of ensuring all our children are in school on a consistent basis. They have failed the small and medium enterprises' test. They have failed the import test. They have failed the export test. They have failed the inflation test, the NIR test and the Stock Market test. They have failed the test to balance the lives of our people.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this is the background against which I address this Honourable House today; I now turn to the Budget, the matter at hand.

(Inaudible comments by Government Members)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, on the expenditure side of the Budget, the Minister has put forward a Budget totaling $539.4 Billion, that's in the book, we know about the additional that is related to the appropriations to date. And this is almost 19% of which of this is debt that needs to be repaid this fiscal year, and which the Minister has to ask the holders to roll over or the multilaterals to lend new money to take out that debt. We will return to the matter of the debt, because there are a few things I want to say on that.

I first want to focus on the recurrent and capital expenditure. The $438 Billion segment of the Budget, Mr. Speaker - it is the part of the Budget that the hard earned tax dollars of the people of Jamaica support.

As such, Mr. Speaker, I believe the Government of the day owes it to the taxpayers. In fact, it should be considered the Government's sacred duty to report honestly, accurately and completely to the people of Jamaica.

And so, Mr. Speaker, as I reflect on the sacrifices of the Jamaican taxpayers, I'm saddened by the inaccurate picture that this Budget presents of the state of affairs of Government and the country, and take this opportunity to call for greater transparency, so all Jamaicans can understand, even parliamentarians can better understand, to have a clearer picture of the financial state of the nation. One such area that has been utterly abused in terms of lack of transparency is the question of arrears, arrears in payment.

Mr. Speaker, the expenditure budget is increasingly put together while ignoring the buildup of every years or late payment which keeps worsening every year. I asked the Government to tell me how much are the arrears and they said, $25.51 Billion. An extremely high figure, which still does not include withholding tax on interest owed. Here are the estimates for the arrears:

- We have withholding tax on interest of $20.46 Billion.
- Statutory deductions to statutory bodies.
- The National Housing Trust.
- The National Insurance Scheme,
- The Jamaica Public Service Company, some $2.9 Billion.

It is not clear to me, however, whether all of that information is contained in a Report that I did not receive until very late last night is when I finally got the Report, Mr. Speaker, and I can report to you now that the detailed information by Ministry, by Department and by Agencies finally came to me just literally a few hours ago.

With a nominal increase of 30....The point I want to make first of all is that when you add up these items that I mention awhile ago, $15 Billion for Statutory deductions, $20.46 Billion for withholding tax on interest, and the total of the withholding tax is - the total of the arrears that has been presented to us is $25.51 Billion, you add all of that together with JPS and you come up with a total of $47.87 Billion that is outstanding for - in terms of arrears.

With a nominal increase of $39 Billion in this Budget, when compared with last year, and most of that is really for interest payments and wage settlements, it is clear that the Government has no plan to extricate itself from the stranglehold of persistent and growing arrears for a range of things as I have already enumerated.

In addition to the outstanding liabilities for withholding tax on interest totaling $20.46 Billion, there are $25.51 Billion of arrears, most of which are in chronic arrears of $21.38 Billion. In excess of 90 dates totaling a whopping 47.87 Billion.

While the NHT and the NIS arrears of $15.85 Billion and $1.15 Billion respectively are listed as part of these arrears, it is not clear whether arrears to the JPS for the street lights of $2.9 Billion are included. It's not in this list, that's for sure.

How credible does this make this Budget with the Minister bragging that he has met all his IMF targets? And why is the IMF turning a blind eye to this ever worsening situation?

This failure which is now in many cases in excess of 365 days Mr. Speaker is wreaking havoc on the ability of many small businesses to be able to afford to remain as suppliers to the government. (Applause) The JDF and the Ministry of Health are big-time culprits in this regard, in terms of paying their arrears, persistent arrears in excess of 90 days.

Indeed, many companies are laying off workers, closing down their businesses, cutting supplies to government; even as the MDA's simply open new lines of credit with other suppliers to rack up some more payables. These large and ever increasing levels of arrears left unattended, calls into sharp question the very credibility of this Budget as the arrears are not included in the Budget, not even reported as a footnote in the in the Budget. And I had to be like pulling teeth to get this information.

Beyond the issue of the outstanding payments is also the question of the accuracy of the information being provided. I don't know Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a stubborn reluctance to come clean and transparent on the arrears. Where are the details? Why is it such a reluctance to provide it in all its dimension? Because, even as I have this now, I don't see the NIS arrears on it, it's not on this list. And I don't see the Jamaica Public Service street light arrears, which is almost $3 Billion, that's just for streetlights. Then there's another $1 Billion or $2 Billion for electricity owed by MDAs in the system.

I don't know if that roughly $5 Billion is included in this document? So, we are gonna have to use Parliament to continue to prosecute this case, because we must get the truth and we must get all of the truth and nothing but the truth.

Mr. Speaker, if we were to add the JPS and the NIS and others that I feel are missing from here, we'd be looking at a total of about $52 Billion, $52 Billion of arrears for which the Budget makes no mention, there is no accounting in the Budget to pay any of it.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired. '

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the member's time be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the Member's time to be extended sufficiently for him to complete his presentation?

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, let me give some clarity here. I thank the Honourable Members for the extension. Let me give some clarity as to why we need the details across Ministries, Departments and Agencies. We have to bring it, we have to micro-manage it; we have to bring it down to the nitty-gritty because people's lives are affected.

As the Opposition Spokesman on Finance Honourable Prime Minister, I can tell you. I drive into a parking lot, going about me business, and people want to tell me about the problems they are having getting their pay from the Government. And some of them are in real genuine need, some of them cry, they literally cry.

Mr. DALLEY: Cry to you?

Mr. SHAW: They cry!

Mr. DALLEY: They wept?

(Laughter)

Mr. SHAW: Because their very livelihood and lives are being affected. It's not a joke business. Not a joke business. Okay. And I feel it for them and that's why I bring it to Parliament. I feel it for them, is a serious thing, it's not a joke business.

Mr. CHARLES: ...hungry.

Mr. SHAW: In an example I give now, Mr. Speaker, there are people working with the South East Regional Health Authority, one of the senior culprits in this problem of arrears - a not pointing fingers anywhere.... (Laughter) …who have not seen - some workers Mr. Speaker, very serious, have not seen their deductions for insurance on loans that are due to be paid to insurance companies, credit unions and other financial institutions. This is a serious business, because statutory deductions are one thing and that's bad; it is not being paid over, but I think the Government, starting from some time ago, has started to deduct the statutory deductions at source. But, what about these deductions now for - to assist our workers in their normal, routine, day-to-day activities? The Ministry deducts the money or the department deducts the money and don't pass it on.

So from October of last year a number of persons in this region, Minister have not gotten these payments made. Some of them have said the institutions have called to say, they have not received payments since last October. So this is almost six months' arrears for those people, placing their credit and their welfare on the line. Can you imagine if your insurance premium is among those not paid? Another example are reports that some members of the medical profession only received part-payment of their salaries in March, last month, part payment of their salaries. Yes. And in respect of gratuities that are due for over one year now, has not been paid at all.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, the Report just received reveals that next to large sums owed for withholding tax on interest and statutory deductions to the National Housing Trust. The next largest delinquent is the Ministry of Health with a whopping arrears build-up of $6,731 Billion with $4,472 Billion in chronic arrears in excess of 90 days. Now, you can imagine what is happening to the suppliers across the island who are providing goods and services to this department. That is just one example of what is happening.

That is just one example of what is happening when the Administration - this Government, stuffs the bills into the arrears bag, pretends that it is living within its means and brags about it, too, and gives the IMF the assurance that the arrears are not getting any worse.

So, Mr. Speaker, the Minister said last week, the amount of arrears over ninety days - and I don't want to be misleading but I thought I heard him say, as of this same time last year, the chronic arrears was Twenty-One point Three Eight Billion Dollars ($21.38B). Well the Report I just got from the Financial Secretary says that this year the chronic arrears is still Twenty-One point Three Eight Billion Dollars ($21.38B). The figure not moving at all, it is a lay-down figure. The figure is a chronic.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: What an amazing coincidence, the same figure, the same figure.

So, when the Minister says, and I quote:

"By living within our means, the country maintained a primary surplus of 7.5 per cent, but was also able to achieve a fiscal surplus. Our revenues covered all recurrent expenditure, including interest costs."

No, Minister, revenues do not cover all recurrent expenditure, not when this Government has arrears of Forty-seven point Eight Seven Billion ($47.87B) or possibly more, possibly Fifty-one point Nine Two Billion ($51.92B) and counting, owing to businesses and individuals. By your own figures, Four point One Billion Dollars ($4.IB) occurred in the last thirty days, not the last ninety days - well, yes, in the last ninety days, in the last ninety days.

Mr. Speaker, I must remind this Honourable House that under the JLP Government we started a payment plan - in respect of Withholding Taxes now, Minister - we started a payment plan to pay down the Twenty Billion Dollars ($20B), because that was the figure - when I came in that was the figure that was there, Twenty Billion ($20B). And we started a payment plan to pay down the Twenty Billion Dollars ($20B) Withholding Tax on interest liability, and brought the arrears we inherited, down. On the time of my departing from that office it was down to about Fifteen Billion Dollars ($15B), Fifteen Billion, we were paying it down. And while we were paying it down we were paying current obligations on time.

Now, the Government has apparently scuttled that plan and the arrears are now back to Twenty point Four Six Billion Dollars ($20.46B). Minister, you better take this one in hand.

I want to turn briefly to the issue - a concern I have about how the Budget is constructed, Minister. It has to do with the transparency in the Budget and it has to do with how we are able to competently evaluate the Budget and able to compare the Estimates, one period to the next.

Let's take the Ministry of Health. Because when the Budget is tabled the media is out there, and everybody says, oh, this department gets cut and this ministry gets cut and all cut left, right and centre. But what is the truth? Because we need the information when you are analyzing the thing.

At the Ministry of Health - let's look at the Budget that was presented in this Budget - approved Estimates 2013/14, Thirty-two Billion Dollars ($32B), Revised Estimates, Thirty-six point Three Billion ($36.3B). Estimates for 2014/15, Thirty-four point Seven Billion Dollars ($34.7B). So, Prime Minister, this gives the impression that the budget for the Ministry of Health is down almost Two Billion Dollars ($2B). But that is misleading, because the budget that is presented for the Ministry of Health does not include the Two point Three-three Billion Dollars ($2.33B) for reclassification; the Government knows it. It doesn't include roughly One point Five Billion Dollars ($1.5B) for arrears in wages, the 7 per cent; the Government knows it - and the second year of another one-off payment of Twenty-five Thousand ($25,000); the Government knows it. That amount is approximately Seven Hundred Million Dollars ($700M).

So, when you add all of these, Mr. Speaker, the Budget for the Ministry of Health is a total of Thirty-nine point Three Billion Dollars ($39.3B) - not Thirty-four point Seven Billion Dollars ($34.7B) - which will not be reflected until the tabling of the Supplementary Estimates when it comes.

The same misleading information applies to the Ministry of Education, because we can jump up and it might be politically good to jump up and say, my God, the Ministry of Education's Budget has been cut, look how much cut it cut by. But Minister, when you add back the money - when you add back the money from - I see you were distracted - but when you add back the money from the 7 per cent that is now in Contingency, and one-off payments of the Twenty-five Thousand ($25,000) you will find that certainly, the compensation side of the Budget is in fact likely to be more than last year and not less.

So it is time, I believe, high time to present the Budget in a way that gives an accurate presentation to the people of Jamaica, to the journalists, to Parliament, on how the actual Estimates are. If you already know this information, I can't see any good reason why it should be pumped up into an amount called Contingency. You have the information already, put it into the Budget, and let us be able...

(Sotto voce comment from Dr. Davies)

Mr. SHAW: Yes, well, whatever, you are better at cricket than most other things, I mean - anyway, anyway, it's all right, yes. (Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, I turn now to Interest Expense. Interest Expense, Mr. Speaker, took a rather large jump in the Budget this fiscal year, to One Hundred and Thirty-two point Seven Billion Dollars ($132.7B) up from a Hundred and Nine point Nine Billion Dollars ($109.9B) last year. That is an increase of some Twenty-three Billion Dollars ($23B). If the Government were paying down the debt like the Minister said, you would expect the interest expense to decline or certainly not to be up by Twenty-three Billion Dollars ($23B), a worse situation this fiscal year, and after having done a second debt exchange to bring the interest cost down.

The truth Mr. Speaker is that the nominal stock of debt is up, not down. The Government closed the fiscal year 13/14 with a Central Government debt of One point Nine Four Six Trillion Dollars ($1.946T), up from One point Eight One Two Trillion Dollars ($1.812T) the previous year, that is, One Hundred and Thirty-four Dollars (sic) roughly, more.

I fully understand the importance of using the debt to GDP ratio, rather than the nominal stock of debt. And I will get to debt in a moment. But what I want Jamaicans to understand is that the thing called exchange rate, it is wreaking havoc with the interest cost in the Budget. The Minister did not touch that in his speech last week.

What we therefore must understand is the umbilical linkage between the increase in the debt stock, not from borrowing only, but from devaluation, which then causes higher interest cost, which requires more taxation and other measures as we are experiencing now, with the additional Twenty-three Billion ($23 B) of interest cost.

Let everyone understand Mr. Speaker, when 47.2 per cent of the total stock of debt is in foreign currency, the exchange rate matters. When 21.5 per cent of the local debt is indexed to United States dollars, the exchange rate matters. And so we can't just willy-nilly continue to talk about devaluation. There are real fundamental costs to devaluation. (Applause) And here is a big example in the Budget. It's not just a cost to the man on the street; it's a cost on the fiscal accounts that eventually reaches its way back to the man on the street, the taxpayer of Jamaica. We have to find that money.

And what is even sadder is that the benefits of the lower interest costs from the National Debt Exchange are gone. Those benefits have already been wiped out by the continued devaluation of the currency. What was the sacrifice all about, Mr. Speaker? The truth is, when a country is as highly indebted as Jamaica is, with massive amounts of foreign debt, the best strategy is a stable currency. If the country had none or very little foreign exchange debt, and its singular focus was on stimulating exports, then maybe, only maybe I would concede the devaluation argument. I will return to the exchange rate discussion because there are few things as important to discussing the way forward right now, as the question of the exchange rate. And a gwine spen' time on it today.

(Sotto voce comments from Dr. Davies)

Dr. DAVIES: No, no, no, no! Especially you, I will spend plenty time explaining it to you.

Dr. DAVIES: Okay.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Yes.

Mr. Speaker, on Capital Expenditure, the segment of the Budget that goes to building, improving and maintaining the country's infrastructure, the Capital Budget, has been cut from an approved Thirty-eight Billion Dollars ($38B) down to Thirty-three Billion Dollars ($33B). That's a Four point Seven Billion Dollar ($4.7B) reduction.

But I here acknowledge the fact that an accounting measure has apparently changed in the Budget, where certain types of recurrent maintenance are no longer referred to as Capital, but rather as Recurrent.

But as I explained in the Standing Finance Committee - and I don't think the Minister of Finance was there at the time, but in the case of the Ministry of Education, where we saw an amount for Capital A was there in the previous Budget, an amount for Recurrent, both for maintenance in schools, and we are told that Capital A has now been collapsed into the Recurrent side. But the problem is that in this Budget, Minister, I have not seen the incremental increase on the Recurrent side that would make up for what has been lost is no longer in Capital A, right.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Well, Capital B is not maintenance, sir. With all due respect, Capital B is to build new schools, it is new capital works, IDB funded, this and that. We are talking about sanitation, fixing up the schools, cleaning up the place, painting it up, stop the leaking roofs, that's not Capital B, so don't bring that to me. The Budget cut, Minister, the Budget cut. A trying to help you. The Budget cut.

Interestingly though, in the BoJ Annual Report, 2013, on page 47, it gives us an explanation for the lower than budgeted Capital Expenditure outturn in 2013. The Bank of Jamaica's Report said that:

> "Budgeted Capital Expenditure outturn primarily reflected slower than anticipated execution of Capital projects."

Capital Projects, another problem. The Minister of Education has mentioned Capital Projects and he knows too the delays we have had in new schools being constructed and sometimes the unnecessary delays in this. I think something - quite frankly, I was there - something has to be done about this thing.

We programmed Capital B to be spent under this heading, IDB, World Bank, OPEC Fund, Kuwaiti Fund and sometimes we put it in there and we seem to already know before we put it in there that it won't be spent, and then it appears as a major cut by the end of the year.

Mr. Speaker, in Agriculture, on the expenditure side - I just mentioned Education - while we celebrate recent growth trends in agriculture - and I got a kind letter from the Minister who apologized for his absence, and I am grateful for that letter. While we celebrate recent growth trends in agriculture...

(Sotto voce remarks from Mr. Dalley)

Mr. SHAW: Don't forget - oh, yes, it's happening there, oh, yes. No, no, we planting...

Mr. DALLEY: Real growth in Irish potatoes.

Mr. SHAW: Real growth, oh, yes. We planting lots of Irish potato, plenty Irish potato, some of the most beautiful sweet peppers, Prime Minister, a gwine carry some for you, yes... (Laughter) So, some of the nicest sweet peppers, Mr. Speaker, bright and yellow, nice and green, there is even some orange coloured ones too, right. (Laughter) And thank God, the rain is falling now so they are coming up nice and plump and they are gaining weight and they are looking pretty and they taste even better. So we have to give God thanks for whatever growth we are seeing in agriculture now.

But, it's one thing for the Minister to pick the last quarter of growth and say that was 13 per cent, and then annualize it and say, annualized, you know, this will look good, true. But the Economic and Social - hold the applause, because the Economic and Social Survey says that real value added for Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing industry declined by 0.5 per cent in 2013, reflecting contraction in three to five sub-industries.

I mean, we want to see growth, you know, but for now, we have a little ways to go, okay.

Mr. Speaker, I also have concerns about the implementation of a portion of the housing development in Springfield in Clarendon under the Social Economic Development of Sugar Dependent Areas, specifically, infrastructure work, which includes road, water, electricity for 88 housing units, which was supposed to cost $166 Million in Springfield, Clarendon, while being only 60 per cent complete, have already racked up a variation - an over-run of $50 Million. This requires explanation.

In addition, the contract for the actual construction of the houses which was recently cancelled from one main contractor, and awarded to a second contractor who is reportedly now paying labourers $1,600 per day, when the approved master builders rate for compensation of that work is $2,068 per day. Incidentally, the proper rate is being paid by the infrastructure contractor, but is not being paid by the housing developer.

Mr. Speaker, not only are the workers being underpaid in that very poor - Prime Minister, very poor area of Southwest Clarendon, but they are being paid late, reportedly due to slow payment from the Government. I am asking the Minister to investigate that case.

Mr. Speaker, in tourism, the other pillar of growth that we speak about along with agriculture, on which the Government is relying, growth has slowed down. After healthy growth in 2007 to 2011, the percentage of growth in real value added for hotels and restaurants is in decline again, and stopover arrivals that grew by 120,000 visitors between 2009 and 2011 has now fallen to a mere 20,000 people between 2011 and 2012.

Mr. CHARLES: What!

Mr. SHAW: Tourism is a very important industry for us, and we must not fool with it, because give credit to the former Tourism Minister, he grew the industry by three per cent per year during the worst global economic crisis we have seen in eight years.

(Applause by Opposition Members)

Mr. BUCHANAN: So Andrew make a mistake.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, let me turn now to Revenue. The Minister has announced the need for additional revenue. The Minister - as a matter of fact, let me drink a little water on this one - this Revenue one here.

(Sotto voce comments/Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, the Minister has announced the need for additional revenue measures, in order to fill a financing gap of some $6,685 Billion. I submit to you, Mr. Speaker, had the Government kept the exchange rate stable, we would not have had to have additional tax measures. In fact, you can see where there is an additional $23 Billion, as I said, for interest payment, most of which is a result of exchange rate movement. This could have easily gone to increasing Capital Expenditure, reducing arrears and not require any tax measures at all.

So then I ask, are we on the right path? In all of these aspects, is this current economic programme of the IMF Agreement the right one for Jamaica? Is there another economic programme that the Government could have crafted? Are we headed to the Promised Land as the Honourable Minister promised in his Budget presentation?

So, the essential point to be made, Mr. Speaker, and I am quoting from the Minister now, the essential point to be made is that in order to reach that promised land of sustained economic growth, we have to enter through the gates of fiscal consolidation - sound good, boy - which will lead to low interest rates and, over time, generate more investment and more revenue. All of these form part of the current economic programme of the IMF Agreement.

Mr. Speaker, we are not seeing lower interest rates. Treasury Bill yields have trended up. We are not seeing more tax revenues. Most of last fiscal year tax revenues were running behind projections. The Government got to the primary surplus figure in 13/14 because Minister Paulwell had the telecoms companies pay their license fees that were not due for two years.

Mr. CHARLES: What!

Mr. SHAW: Yes, Minister, all of this forms part of the current economic programme of the IMF Agreement, but is not leading to the Promise Land. I want this House to note that shortfall in tax revenues were across the board. Special Consumption Tax on imports, Customs Duty, PAYE, GCT on imports, companies corporate taxes, stamp duties on transfer tax of significance, are the reasons the Government gave for the shortfall: significantly lower than budgeted collections for administrative compliance activities; faster than programmes declining imports; reduced employment in some sectors of the economy. Hear this now, Mr. Speaker... lower than programmed inflation. (Laughter) You are programming high inflation so you can earn more money. What is this? Underperformance of some of the new measures implemented in March and April, some of which I warn the Minister about, and among them, he has had to reverse himself. And I am going to advise him to reverse himself even further today.

Mr. Speaker, let me turn to the Tax Package. Mr. Speaker, once again, we are witnessing deception, rather than straight talk. You may recall, Mr. Speaker, the front page reports, January 8th with the headline - Mr. Speaker, the headline shouted - it frightened me the day – 'Big Relief...

Mr. DALLEY: You frighten easily.

Mr. SHAW: 'No New Taxes', says Phillips – 'Reform Cutting Debt on Main Agenda'. (Displaying Newspaper page)

Mr. CHUCK: Promise made, promise kept.

Mr. SHAW: Big relief.

Mr. CHUCK: Promise made, promise unkept.

Mr. SHAW: The PNP political machinery went into high gear via Facebook on the same day and reported:

> "Minister of Finance and the Public Service, Dr. Peter Phillips has asserted that he harbors no intention of imposing new taxes on Jamaicans in 2014 – "No New Taxes," the Facebook report said. Read my lips.

Mr. CHUCK: Jamaica's George Bush.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, the Minister, in introducing the tax package was so smooth; he was so smooth that it appeared that honey was flowing from his lips.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. BUCHANAN: What, what... you, careful; you careful.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker... Mr. Speaker... you are a countryman, my mother would a say, "mind ants catch up your mouth". (Laughter) And without any reference whatsoever to his earlier reported commitment to "No New Taxes" - no reference, no little apology, no little contriteness, no little piousness...

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: All right... no little sincerity. Is that better? No little sincerity... just glibly announced, never bat an eyelid, just glibly announced a tax package of $6,685 Billion. And in fact, shortly after the announcement, he reminded us of the Holy Season as a time for renewal and resurrection. But, Mr. Speaker, I was wondering, he ought to also have reminded us that Easter is a time that we must remember a thing called betrayal. (Laughter) Yes, there was betrayal in this story.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: How many times did the cock crow again?

Mr. BUCHANAN: That is why Andrew always so close to you.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker... Mr. Speaker...

Mr. WARMINGTON: Why that country boy don't shut his mouth across there.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I turn briefly to the tax on alcohol. The proposed tax on alcohol which moves the Special Consumption Tax from alcoholic beverages from $700 per litre of alcohol to $1,120 per litre of alcohol for the tourism sector and specifically for White Overproof Rum, the rate would be moved from $960 per litre of pure alcohol, to $1,120 per litre of pure alcohol.

The net effect of this decision will mitigate against the competitiveness of the tourism industry, Minister, which will be very hard hit from these additional taxes. I don't know how much analysis has been done; I don't know how much analysis has been presented to you. What I do know is that this is one of the taxes that, when I was Minister, it was presented to me and I sat down very carefully and listened very carefully to the analysis because figures don't lie, and the world - the real world in which we are operating is a real world where there are consequences to the decisions that we take.

We must bear in mind that the tourism industry, hotel trade in Jamaica, as it is with so many destinations, is highly competitive, and this sharp increase in the cost of alcoholic beverages to the trade will drive a further blow to the industry's ability to be competitive. Remember what I said a while ago. We bragging about two million arrivals; is that it, two million arrivals? Jamaica needs to start talking about four million arrivals – bout two million arrivals. We need to double that to four million arrivals, but we are not going to go to that Promised Land if we are going to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

The tourism Minister is seated behind you. He knows - I know that from the time you announced this tax last Thursday, I knew that you had already been advised, Minister of Tourism, about the dire consequences that the industry will face with this decision. One company alone will see a crushing US$2 Million hit on its ability to remain competitive. This is serious; this is serious.

In terms of White Rum sales - it is another side of the business now - White Rum sales. In 2010, as Minister, while alcoholic taxation was amended from an ad valorem rate of thirty per cent to a specific rate per litre of pure alcohol of $960 I deliberately, Mr. Speaker, exempted White Rum from this regime in order to protect the local White Rum industry. Our White Rum industry is legendary...

Mr. CHARLES: Employment.

Mr. SHAW: ...and the vertical integration in it...

Dr. DAVIES: (Inaudible) ...disagree with you.

Mr. SHAW: ...the vertical integration of the industry, down to the small man working in the cane field, the thousands of people who rely on the sugar industry, and the rum industry, is very important for the economy. (Applause)

And so, I exempted White Rum. This Government in 2012 amended the regime to provide for Overproof White Rum to be taxed at $960 per litre of pure alcohol. They moved it up. Mr. Speaker, this move has led to the reduction of sales of White Rum. This move in 2012 led to a 230 to 260 per cent increase in the tax intake to the Government on White Rum and virtually doubled the price of a drink of rum.

Mr. CHARLES: Poor man work, poor man drink.

Mr. SHAW: But, at one company - and I'll state the company because the entrepreneur didn't mind if I called the name of the company - Worthy Park Estates, Rum Bar White Rum sales have been cut by 50 per cent - 50 per cent, and 50 employees have lost their jobs since the imposition of that tax on White Rum that was imposed.

This new tax now is adding on to that. So 50 per cent of the sales of that particular product at that particular company have already gone. Fifty people lost their jobs, but the Minister come and slap another tax on it now. This new tax will further militate against the local white rum industry of which there are seven different brands and will open the doors for greater competition from imported liquor, produced in foreign lands, using foreign wheat, foreign corn, foreign potatoes, using foreign labour for products such as vodka, gin and whisky that will now compete in price against our white rum.

Mr. CHARLES: Poor man drink.

Mr. CHUCK: Madness.

Mr. SHAW: Gwine be cheaper to buy a drink of vodka now...

Mr. CHUCK: And whisky.

Mr. SHAW: ...than to drink Jamaican white rum. So when you drink the vodka under this new taxation regime, Minister might get a little more money in taxes but more people gwine be unemployed out there.

Mr. CHARLES: Yes and dem foreigner working.

Mr. SHAW: More people be unemployed. And it is the suppliers of corn, and wheat and potato in foreign lands - they are going to benefit from the lickle pittance that will be going to buy more vodka now, than to buy more rum.

Mr. Speaker, this decision needs to be reviewed both in relation to the tourism sector, the impact on it and in relation to the protection of local industry. It cannot be that we are on such a reckless path to collect taxes that we would endanger such an industry that has such a critical economic importance to this country. It cannot be! (Applause by Opposition Members) The decision needs to be reviewed because it relates to the protection of our local industry, local jobs, local production of sugar cane produced by many small farmers too. Worthy Park deals with a lot of small farmers - that Member of Parliament (Referring to Member Dalley) who is chatting and won't even listen - he has small farmers in North Clarendon who supply Worthy Park, and when the largest suppliers of small farmers to Worthy Park Estate, but this is wiping out their industry. So when they lose their jobs in your constituency see what you tell the Minister of Finance then, running up your mouth.

Mr. DALLEY: ...you are misleading the House. Fifty persons have lost their jobs at Worthy Park.

Mr. SHAW: Serious business.

Mr. DALLEY: It's not true.

Mr. CHARLES: Call them. Name them.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker it's not true. It's not true. The head of Worthy Park Estate told me this himself. Mr. Peter McConnell has said that fifty people have lost their jobs already because of this ruinous decision that has been taken by the Government.

Mr. DALLEY: And what?

Mr. CHARLES: And you suppose to....

Mr. SHAW: I'm not talking any further to you. (Laughter)

Listen, listen to me.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

Dr. DAVIES: Change don't agree with you, Audley. Change does not agree with you, Audley.

(Laughter)

A MEMBER: What are you doing, reading my mind?

(Cross talk)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, the Minister's decision to impose a special tax on motor vehicles in 2012-13 was ill-advised and he has now realized that the consequence has been lost revenue. And I take note of his decision to reverse the decision by removing the 10 per cent largely that he had increased motor vehicles by.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I turn to the issue of the tax on withdrawal of money from financial institutions.

Opposition MEMBERS: Uh, oh! Uh, oh!

Mr. CHUCK: Stupidity! Stupid!

Mr. SHAW: We come, Mr. Speaker, to that issue and we have to state first of all that in addition to the bank charges that now exist, there is a general perception that the Minister has joined the banks in raiding the depositors, raiding the depositors and there is a trail to this - you know the printer's devil says the typist put - I want to look at the pathological trail, but I saw pathological trial. But you not on trial Minister, because I know that good sense is going to prevail on this issue. What did we see on this pathological trail? You pass a law restricting cash transactions. Your colleague, Minister of National Security...

Mr. CHUCK: Under Peter...

Mr. SHAW: ...passed a law restricting cash transactions. You establish a payment system for public sector workers that require everyone to have an account at a financial institution. Everybody who never used to have account, dem betta go learn fi open account...

(Cross talk)

...and bring out yuh ID, and sign up yuh paper, and have yuh account, otherwise you can't get your money - your pay can't come by electronic transfer.

Mr. CHARLES: You can't get no credit.

(Cross talk)

Mr. SHAW: And you have to have your account so that when you go to your ATM machine....

Mr. CHARLES: You get credit.

Mr. SHAW: ...you can tek out yuh money. Of course, this is a little side bar, you know, usually when you going to the ATM machine, the Ministry of National Security would warn yuh, take look around your surroundings (Laughter) before you go into the machine room, but little do we know, that now, you look around we don't see anybody, you go into the machine room and the Minister of Finance waiting for you in there! (Laughter)

Mr. CHARLES: Anywhere yuh go turn macca jook yuh. Anywhere yuh turn.

Mr. SHAW: So you establish a payment system that forces everybody to collect their pay at the bank or some other institution. You even now have a parliamentary Committee chaired by the experienced former Minister, the man who used to publish bank charges, mek dem public, is now the Chairman of the parliamentary Committee reviewing bank charges.

Mr. CHARLES: You embarrass him.

Mr. SHAW: But alas, the Minister has not allowed the Committee to even report the findings of the Committee on bank charges before he has come with the tax axe to hijack the depositors with this new tax. (Applause)

Mr. CHARLES: Hijack.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, there is no question in my mind that it's going to discourage formal savings. I know the Government is trying to push that, trying to encourage formal savings. This will discourage it, Prime Minister. It will send dollars under the mattress again and elsewhere. It is, in my view, inappropriate to impose this tax when you're trying to encourage the use of the formal banking system. But beyond that let us look a little more carefully. Let's really be objective. After paying 33 1/3 per cent of income in payroll taxes, I hear a lot of people talking about 25 per cent. It's not 25 per cent.

Mr. DALLEY: NHT, NIS...

Mr. SHAW: Is 33 1/3 per cent, because is NHT, is NIS, is Education Tax...

Dr. DAVIES: NHT and NIS are not...

Mr. CHARLES: And GCT nuh come in yet.

Mr. SHAW: Taxes and deductions, taxes and deductions.

Dr. DAVIES: These are savings.

Mr. SHAW: Taxes and deductions. Not anymore. All the savings gone. $11.4 Billion a year. After the 33 1/3 per cent of income tax and payroll deductions, Jamaicans now have to pay GCT Mr. Speaker on purchases, pay GCT on electricity, pay the bank a fee to collect the money, pay GCT on telephone calls, pay tax on fuel, pay property taxes, pay motor vehicle fitness and insurance, if you do property transfers, you pay stamp duty and transfer tax.

Mr. CHARLES: Money done, money done.

Mr. SHAW: Pay on interest earned in savings accounts, and of what precious little that remains to purchase food at higher and higher prices due to devaluation and inflation. Instead of restraining financial institutions with these charges, the Minister has come with a tax of his own, to tax withdrawals. Shame!

Mr. CHARLES: Wicked!

Mr. SHAW: Shame!

Mr. CHARLES: Poor people.

Mr. SHAW: Will the financial institutions now charge an administrative cess, Mr. Minister? Have you, in your due diligence before introducing this tax, did you have a discussion with the financial institutions to find out whether they are going to carry out the task of collecting $2.25 Billion on your behalf, from individual workers and customers across this land and give you that money without charging someone for it?

Mr. CHARLES: You betta don't touch mine.

(Laughter)

Mr. SHAW: Who is the bank going to charge for it?

Opposition MEMBER: Omar Davies.

Mr. SHAW: So you draw out the tax and you ask the bank to do it and guess what, the bank gwine turn around and jook yuh wid another administrative fee again.

Mr. VAZ: And GCT on top of it.

Mr. SHAW: Because it requires additional persons, additional computer technology, programmes to deduct these taxes and pass them onto Government. What will those additional charges be? On whose backs will those charges be placed? Is it the consumer again? Of course, it is consumer. This provides yet another opportunity for the financial institutions to further enhance their income by charging this administrative fee.

You know, Mr. Speaker, just as a little sidebar, would you believe, Mr. Speaker, that in an examination of the financial statements of the two major commercial banks, we note that for every one dollar collected by the banks as fees and commission, only 20 to 30 cents out of the dollar go to cover the actual cost of providing the service.

Opposition MEMBER: What!

Mr. SHAW: Yes, let me repeat that, let me repeat that.

Opposition MEMBER: Give him the figures.

Mr. SHAW: Check the balance sheet. They're publicly listed companies. Check the reports. For every dollar collected by the banks as fees and Commissions, only 20 to 30 cents out of the dollar go to cover the actual cost of providing the service. The other 70 to 80 cents is profit for this line of business. No doubt to either subsidize other areas of their operations, or just go into the raw profit line. The raw profit line.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, in addition, this tax will contribute to inflation. Don't be naive. And Mr. Speaker, I don't want anybody come talk about, is just a small amount of money. Oh, is just a little point this and point that. It is the principle, and it also adds up because don't be naive to believe that business of every type, many of whom transfer funds in accounts in different financial institutions. We have noticed where you have said that if you're transferring an account from one, within the branch, from one account to the next, no charge. What about a business that operates in more than one bank? What about a business that has their credit card collected through one bank and he has to transfer from the credit card account over to the other bank from which he does other business. He has to pay a withdrawal charge for that.

Opposition MEMBER: Yes.

Mr. SHAW: Who is going to pay that? You think that the businessman dem going to absorb that cost. It's going to be passed on. You have to pass it on.

Mr. CHARLES: Away with that.

Mr. SHAW: When a lawyer who manage his clients' accounts and he has to pay fee on that. It's going to be passed on. All the time. Nobody, No lawyer, no businessman, nobody gwine tek this extra cost sitting down. They're going to pass on the cost.

Mr. VAZ: Delroy start charge Thursday. Delroy starts charge that from Thursday.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I call today on the Minister of Finance...

Mr. CHUCK: To withdraw it.

Mr. SHAW: ...to find $2.25 Billion of fat and inefficiency in the bloated bureaucracy, and leave people's hard-earned money alone. (Applause)

Opposition MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. SHAW: In fact...

Mr. CHARLES: Or else!

Mr. SHAW: ...some people are always saying if you criticize you must always tell us how we're going to get the money. Hah-ah, the Minister of Finance, he disposes. He has the experts. He can do the analysis.

Mr. CHARLES: Yes, him tek the job. Him tek it weh from that one.

(Cross talk)

Mr. SHAW: But...

Mr. CHARLES: Him tek it weh from you.

Mr. SHAW: ....I will just give the Minister an idea, Mr. Speaker, of some areas that he could cut. The government should seek to identify areas of expenditure that can be tightened up. These include foreign travel and smaller delegations on these visits. A smaller budget at the JIS with the advent of public broadcasting and live parliamentary coverage, this should no longer require large sums. Cut down on the army of consultants in ministries, departments and agencies. (Applause) There is a lot of fat there. Equally, the programme of developing competence in tax compliance has to be driven more aggressively, as there continues to be high levels of tax avoidance and tax evasion in this country. We know it, we know it.

And by the way, Mr. Speaker, just in passing, just curious, why are we expending funds in this Budget destroying marijuana, otherwise known as ganja field, when Colorado Canada want us to export it to them? Why? Why? Money is in the budget for the eradication of ganja. Cut it out, chop down di tree dem one by one and chop dem up fine, fine. (Applause)

Mr. CHARLES: Fine, fine, fine!

(Sotto voce remarks by Government Members)

Mr. SHAW: No, no, I am not supporting the 'hand middle business' Prime Minister. But if an export market is there and we need to earn foreign exchange, sell dem and collect the money.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, I can advise this Honourable House that when I was Minister of Finance this tax was brought to me and I rejected it outright. In the circumstances, Minister, when you come to close this Budget Debate we are demanding that you withdraw this tax.

Minister, this dog just won't hunt. It is cruel, it is iniquitous and this tax must go. (Applause)

Mr. CLARKE: Must withdraw it.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, the state of public bodies has been a major plank of my presentations for some time, and there are always issues related to public expenditure, the most serious ones sometimes have been public bodies, the debt losses and the unplanned absorption by Central Government. Public bodies have created more challenges to the budgetary process than other activities, including natural disasters. Historically, the Central Government has had to absorb the losses and debt of some of the public bodies resulting in higher debt to GDP ratios and unplanned expenditure. We remember well Air Jamaica. We remember well the Sugar Company of Jamaica when I was Minister of Finance.

But, Mr. Speaker, on the horizon we have more problems coming up with public sector bodies. The National Water Commission is projected to make a loss of $3.5 Billion for this fiscal year. Happily, it's trending down from $6 Billion last year. The reduction in loss is projected on increase revenue, however, of $3.5 Billion. So the question to be asked is, has the NWC requested an increase from the OUR and, if so, what is that level of increase from the OUR? Does that level of increase approximate the expected $3.5 Billion of additional revenue? But what concerns me most is the debt of the Commission and its implication for the budgetary process. Long-term liabilities, Mr. Speaker, $33 Billion, pension liabilities of $19 Billion and in last year alone pension liabilities increased by $2 Billion. And there are trade payables at the National Water Commission of $6.2 Billion, Mr. Speaker.

The JUTC, contrary to the perception created by the many grand public relations statement made by the JUTC recently, it is projected to make a loss of $3.3 Billion this year. Last year the loss was $2.8 Billion. The main problem is that their cost, Mr. Speaker, is increasing much faster than their revenue; cost is increasing much faster than revenue. Yet the Government is seeking to take over many of the existing private operators' operations.

Last year the Government injected $6.5 Billion into JUTC and this year's projection of $1.1 Billion isn't sufficient to cover operating losses of $3.3 Billion and trade payables of $7.2 Billion. So it is not just Central Government racking up the arrears - NWC and JUTC alone owe in trade payables $6.2 Billion and $7 Billion respectively, Mr. Speaker, just those two companies, $7.2 Billion, that's $13.4 Billion for trade payables. Add that to the $50 Billion that Central Government owes. People are suffering out there for their money.

Mr. CHARLES: What!

Mr. SHAW: NROCC, some years ago I called her 'the new debt queen', more like a debt king now. The projected loss is $7.8 Billion this year alone which includes projected foreign exchange losses. Listen, Mr. Speaker, I have noticed throughout, it's running like a virus throughout this budget, a constant reference to foreign exchange losses, a constant impediment of exchange rate, changes that is causing a disequilibrium in the economy. It's affecting interest charges. Now it is affecting public bodies, Madam Prime Minister. Imagine this, foreign exchange losses of $2.5 Billion and finance cost of $4.2 Billion, not done yet. The long-term liability of this entity is a massive $71.2 Billion. That is the long-term liability of NROCC.

Well, Mr. Speaker, let the public and the Parliament be clear and understand this. The Minister of Transport and Works, I know why he is happy about why I went to China a little bit before he became Minister.

I know why he is happy. Because let it be clear on NROCC...

Dr. DAVIES: I was hoping you would have stayed.

Mr. SHAW: ...that this $71.2 Billion does not relate, in any way to the North-South Highway which is being funded entirely by the Chinese through debt and equity. And I remember when I met with the Minister of Finance in China, I told him we can't borrow the money and we can't afford to guarantee the loan either. And that is the basis on which we were able to negotiate and get them to agree to do the North-South Highway without any monetary commitment from the Government of Jamaica at all. So let us understand.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SHAW: Is alright, circumstances alter cases.

Dr. DAVIES: I don't understand that one.

Mr. SHAW: Is alright come a country and mi wi tell yuh.

Let's understand that expansion - this $71 Billion is Highway 2000, Highway 2000. But to compound matters, Madam Prime Minister, and I appreciate your indulgence, over a three year period NROCC has suffered a foreign exchange loss of $10 Billion.

Mr. CHARLES: What?

Mr. SHAW: All because of an exchange rate that is out of control.

Mr. CHARLES: And sliding.

Mr. SHAW: Three years - $10 Billion racking up the debt. I am going to have a forensic examination detailing every striking dollar that we are losing from this reckless polity of devaluation that's taking place.

The privatization of the Port Authority continues at a very slow pace and this is of concern, and the government must be concerned because we can't put all our eggs, Madam Prime Minister, into the basket of Goat Islands. If and when Goat Islands comes everybody will be happy or some alternative to Goat Islands, whatever is the final decision. Whatever comes, whenever it comes, everybody will be happy. Until such time we have a thing called Port Bustamante. There are lanes there that need to be dredged. We need to open those lanes and get them ready for those big liners that are going to come through the Panama Canal. If we don't hurry up and do it Mr. Speaker, if we don't hurry up and do it - well, Miami is doing it, Trinidad is doing it, the Dominican Republic is doing it, Cuba is doing it. Listen, we better get our act together. We have to get our act together. And mi mother would seh , 'hold on to what you have first until you get what you want'. So mek wi find a way to deal with the divestment of the Kingston Container Terminal. Let's find a way, get the money, maybe even if we have to get some out of the MIDP programme. Let us not wait on a divestment to dredge the harbour. The dredging of the harbour is primarily a duty and a responsibility of the Government of Jamaica, if we want to be serious about transshipment when the Panama Canal opens. (Applause)

But, Mr. Speaker, the Port Authority in the meantime has racked up a foreign exchange loss of $9.5 Billion. The company presently has debt of over $38 Billion.

Understand between NROCC and the Port Authority of Jamaica that do a lot of business in foreign exchange, it's almost $20 Billion of losses they have racked up as a result of the ruinous slipping exchange rate.

Mr. VAZ: Unsustainable!

Mr. SHAW: Unsustainable! It is madness! No prescription from Washington can have something like this continue on us, can't. This is something, Madam Prime Minister; we are going to have to have some consensus around stability in this economy. It nuh gwine come from Washington. It nuh gwine come from the Head of the European Union. It's not coming from the IDB. It's not coming from the World Bank. It is going to come from us right here in Jamaica. Nobody can stabilize the dollar for us. We in Jamaica have to stabilize the dollar. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in relation to the special drawdown of funds of $45.6 Billion over four years from the National Housing Trust, I have received documents from the Ministry and I quote one section. It says, "Having regard to the maturity profile of its investment portfolio and the need to maintain minimum cash balances, it will be necessary to sell $6 Billion of its joint-finance portfolio in 2014 and another $6 Billion by 2016.

Now, Mr. Speaker, this observation has been made to ensure that the NHT maintains healthy cash balances in view of the significant payouts being made. However, I am advised that the mortgage finance institutions that have the joint-finance portfolio are resisting taking over these mortgages as they consider them to be high risk. My question therefore is, if this is so, what is the alternative plan that the Housing Trust will have to ensure the maintenance of the appropriate level of cash in the system so that its core programmes will not be affected after the substantial payout of $11 Billion to the Government each year? I take note that while the Housing Trust refers loosely to annual housing expenditure of $22 Billion, this expenditure, unlike several years ago in the previous administration, is now heavily weighted in the provision of funds for mortgages in the open-market.

Last year some $19.6 Billion was used for this purpose with less emphasis on the Housing Trust directly building more and less expensive and affordable housing units. For example, the houses at Luana, $2.8 Million; houses at Portmore, $3 Million, equally with nothing much happening at the Housing Agency of Jamaica, which was a vibrant partner with the Housing Trust in building out low cost housing solutions. This objective is further compromised.

Madam Prime Minister, this needs to be looked into, it needs to be looked into. The Housing Trust needs to have a dynamic portfolio where they involve the private sector, of course, partnerships, public/private partnerships but some low income houses, lower income houses for contributors still, need to be built, more of them need to be built by the Housing Trust itself because they have a way of providing economies of scale to keep the cost down in building those houses. And basically what the Housing Trust does too is to pass on or forego a lot of the profit and even subsidized the housing for people of very modest and limited means; that need to be looked at.

Finally, especially in view of the reduction of low cost housing units being built by the Trust, and the provision of mortgages for the acquisition of houses in the open-market, I believe it is time now for the Housing Trust to lift the ceiling on the amount of money loan to depositors to purchase their homes. The present limit of $4.5 Million I believe in the circumstances should be lifted to at least $6 Million Prime Minister which would also make $12 Million available for joint purchase mortgages. It will also assist in stimulating the economy in terms of house construction.

On the macroeconomic programme, Mr. Speaker, within the context of that macroeconomic framework. and the Extended Fund Facility Programme with the IMF, and in that context to spend - I want to spend just a little time on discussion of the exchange rate on which the Minister has invited a debate, the national debate, which requires a debate, and to conclude with what I considered to be a critical pulse point to drive rapid economic growth in Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, it was the JLP that started the reforms that are now much talked about. We established...

Dr. DALLEY: JLP?

Mr. SHAW: Yes, you know that, go look in the files of the Ministry, you are up there. We established and entrenched the principles of fiscal responsibility in Government, as a platform for private sector led growth and development. We passed Fiscal Responsibility Framework Law, as an amendment to the Financial Amendment Administration and Audit Act. We introduced the concept of fiscal rules legislation which has now been passed and reintroduced major Green Papers and comments Parliamentary consultations on tax, pension and public sector reform.

Indeed Mr. Speaker, in this context many of the pieces of legislation to which the Minister has made reference were conceived and were in various stages of development while I was Minister of Finance. I don't think the Honourable Minister will deny that. Ironically, while the IMF reviews broke down due to alleged slow implementation of the reform agenda, the IMF has given this Government - the IMF has given this Government a bligh, a bligh by allowing tax reform at a pretty slow pace and no reform whatsoever in the public sector and pension reform until 2016. Bwoy donkey seh the world nuh level. IMF was not willing to give me that bligh, but them giving you that bligh.

(Heckling by Members)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, mouth mek fi seh anything, you know.

Let it be clear, we have no broken relationships with the multilaterals; that is why, Mr. Speaker, in November of 2011 Jamaica borrowed US$330 Million from the IDB and the World Bank with the blessings of the IMF. The IMF had to sit at the board room table. And you know Minister how it works, they work together. So when the IDB is approving a loan there is a representative from the IMF at the Boardroom, same thing with the World Bank; and when they approved those loans they approved it with the knowledge and consent of the International Monetary Fund. So let's cut out the foolishness about broken down relationships and what and what didn't happen and all that. But let's understand; let me make my position very clear, because I see where even the newspaper is trying to write a speech for me and all that sort of thing, right. Some of them are on a permanent campaign, but they are trying to write my speech for me, okay. Trying to write my speech for me.

Let me say this, while I want to be very explicit about this, while we are in generous support of the Extended Fund Facility Programme with the IMF, we are not in support of the reckless and ruinous path of the devaluation which has the potential to do damage to the economy that is reminiscent of the FINSAC crises in this country… (Applause) …not going to support it. So they can run up their mouths; that is our position. And I am now going to deal specifically with exchange rates debt and growth before I wrap up this presentation.

Mr. Speaker, on the matter of the exchange rate, I listened carefully to the Minister. His belief is that the adjustments that have been made to the Jamaican dollar will allow what we produce to be more competitive in the external markets and at the same time, allow us to develop what we can produce in Jamaica, therefore, having a competitive exchange rate is one of the keys to economic expansion and growth in the jobs as we see it. What you said Minister would be genuine if you could say - Mr. Speaker, what you said there Minister, would be genuine if you can say what the competitive exchange rate is. We have gone from $86.60 to almost $110.00 now, 27 per cent depreciation, and we don't have the evidence yet, that what we produce is more competitive in the external market.

Exports, Mr. Speaker, are down. Minister in 2013 over 2012 by a lot, exports are down over 10% or United States $165 Million, Mr. Speaker, that is how much exports are down since we are on this devaluation spiral. During 2010/11 when the JLP administration kept the currency stable, exports Mr. Speaker went up by 21.6 per cent, between 2010 and 2011. Minister, whoever it is, whoever it is...

Mr. SHAW: Yes it is. They are leading you astray because to make matters worse it is the non-traditional exports that have cratered, dropping by 17.4 per cent or US$147.2 Million, so don't tell me it is about, it's not - this is not bauxite and alumina, this is non-traditional exports that has dropped so precipitously.

So Mr. Speaker, not only will the Minister not tell us what is a competitive rate, he wouldn't even give a target of exports to GDP that Jamaica can reach and that his Government is prepared to stand by. So far, the experience is not bearing you out - let's get back to a stable foreign exchange rate, for the budget's sake, for the manufacturer's sake, for the poor consumers' sake that see it in their food and electricity bill every month, for the transportation sector. A continuously devalued currency is a sure way to pauperism, not the promised land.

During the administration of the PNP, in 18 years prior to '07, the dollar moved from $5.77, to $69.06 by 2007, a 1097 per cent depreciation. Let us not repeat that experience. Jamaica has too much foreign currency debt in the debt portfolio, some 58.7 per cent. Mr. Speaker, let me be very blunt with you. Let me be very blunt with you, in the 18 years of the PNP Government prior to 2007, the annual average rate of depreciation of the exchange rate was 61 per cent, 61 per cent....

(Sotto voce comments by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SHAW: Poverty drop, bang belly economy you were running. You were running a bang belly economy.

Mr. Speaker, the exchange rate, the exchange range under his watch declined 61% per cent per year...

(Sotto voce comments by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SHAW: Average, now we are 27 per cent. If you continue on this ruinous path, we are heading for 61 per cent average, that is where we are headed Minister and, we are very, very concerned about it. By devaluing constantly you are pushing the interest expense in the budget back into the stratosphere. There are many arguments in favour, Mr. Minister, of a fixed exchange rate policy, as there are for a floating exchange rate or a carefully managed floating exchange rate. Even among researchers at the multilateral institutions, there are deferring views though. One recent paper by Inderjit Ruprah of the Country Department Caribbean Group of the IDB issued a policy paper in October of 2013. We are not talking about any long time paper - just written a few months ago. In it, Mr. Ruprah discussed the traditional argument that favours devaluation, but issued the following caution for Caribbean countries like Jamaica that are considered to be small open economies that have a high import dependency. I quote now from Mr. Ruprah, and it is a good size quote because it is a very serious subject:

"It is argued that expenditure cannot be switch from tradable goods to non-tradable goods in countries such as those in the Caribbean. There is no switching effect of devaluation, either in expenditure or production, therefore, a real exchange rate devaluation only depresses real income. Worse, a devaluation could result in stagnation, reduced economic growth and increased inflation, that is what taxation is. There is a high pass-through effect, example, the effect of a nominal devaluation on domestic inflation, the pass- through effect is higher in instant where the portion of imported goods in the consumer price index, and the imported input is greater and the monetary policy is more accommodative.

He goes on.

In addition, an unexpected external devaluation adversely affects a balance sheet… "

And I want you to listen to this carefully because we are coming back to it, balance sheet.

"...if debts are denominated in dollars while firms' revenue is in local currency. This deterioration has two consequences, it limits the firm's ability to borrow and borrowing becomes more expensive as the risk premium increases, thus the balance sheet effects has a dampening impact on economic growth.

I am coming back to that because our balance sheets are getting more and more US oriented. He concludes:

Another downside of external devaluation is that, if an external devaluation is perceived as a sign of economic weakness, the credit worthiness of the country might be jeopardized."

You know 'bout dat', because you want to go to the Capital Market this year, and you don't know if you can go yet.

"Thus, devaluation might reduce investor confidence and hence, the country's ability both to secure foreign investment and to roll over public debt without worsening terms".

Now, sounds a little technical, but it is serious stuff, very, very serious and convincing stuff. And the burden of his presentation, Minister, was that the postulation and the thesis around which he put this paper together is in reference to the small, open economy of the Caribbean. And the argument is that the orthodox theory that devaluation will lead to foreign exchange earnings and runaway exports and runaway production, how come that not happening to Jamaica from the time of the 1970s when we devaluing the dollar? Let us be clear on something.

The only two periods since the 1970s Mr. Speaker that we have had a stable period of 6% economic rates of growth was in the period 1986 to 1990 - that was one period. Of course, in the period in the 60s, the exchange was stable too, but we stabilized it for three years at $5.50 cents to One and the economy grew by 6% per year again. It has not happened since that.

Jamaica has never really had a fixed exchange rate system in its purest form, but we have had a few periods of stability in the exchange rate as I mentioned. Since that time, we have seen the exchange rate slipped from when we were stronger than the US Dollar. Lots of young people in this Chamber don't even know that we had a dollar that was stronger than the United States Dollar in 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972. Yes, we had a stable exchange rate, even in a few years of the PNP administration of the 1970s in the early part. But then, we know the history.

And I must say to you that when we stabilized the exchange rate in the 1980s - I must say this to you, Mr. Speaker, because a likkle history - when you reach, I guess my age and involvement - you can remember a little history. (Chuckles) and I remember when I went to, I was in Washington, the Prime Minister and Minister of Finance, Mr. Seaga was in Washington, and I was there because I was working with an Investment Promotion Company, JNIP, the JAMPRO Company.

A MEMBER: Never. Never.

Mr. SHAW: And at that time, at that time there was disagreement.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, at that time, there was disagreement between the IMF and the then Minister of Finance, they didn't want a managed float. Mr. Seaga insisted on the auction system, which was a managed float. It worked for three years and the economy grew by 6% per year between 1986 and 1990. We must not forget that.

A MEMBER: That's right.

Mr. SHAW: Then it followed a period of sharp declines in the value of the currency as I have mentioned before. And in the four years of our administration, the exchange rate did decline from $69 to $86, it did, during the worse world crisis we have seen in 80 years. And it led to a severe contraction in revenue, but what happened after that? It was stabilized for almost two years, largely due to the implementation of a series of policies that worked together to build confidence, including a re-engagement with the multilaterals on an aggressive scale. We started to borrow money cheaper. That is one of the reasons why the interest cost, though rising now, would have been much worse if we were still in the International Capital Market, borrowing money at 8, 9, 10 and 11%. Thank God, we are now borrowing money - every time you hear World Bank and IDB cut a cheque down here, it's coming down here at 2%, it might even be coming at less. So that is something that I am proud that I broke the back of expensive money on the International Capital market.

(Applause)

But after - Mr. Speaker, let it be known where we left the NIR and where we left growth at 1.5% and what followed was a failure to continue to generate the confidence that we had gained. The NIR fell to $800 Million, a negative growth returned for five consecutive quarters. Where are we today? What is the competitive rate of exchange for the Jamaican dollar today?

Is it $110 or $120 as implied by the IMF? Others have even suggested $150!!! What is this? Madness!

The answer is that the structural deformities in our economy, at this time combined with lack of confidence, militate against the possibility of achieving a stable economy and a stable exchange rate within an orthodox free floating exchange rate, Minister. We must call a halt to this madness of devaluation! (Applause) It is leading us nowhere but to more and more despair. Research of the experience of devaluation in Jamaica shows that this overused strategy has failed miserably to stimulate exports, contain growth in imports and to significantly reduce balance of payments deficits. It is not any different at this time. A stable currency is an essential prerequisite for businesses to succeed within that stable macroeconomic environment.

But Mr. Speaker, there is more to come because the IMF is quoted in the Gleaner, April 16, and it's coming from the Article for Report for last year. We know what that is, where it's coming from. But it's reminding everybody that the - it is the view of the IMF, that the Jamaican dollar is overvalued by between 8 and 22%, noting - the Article noted that the devaluation of 11% in the last fiscal year was "at the low end of the estimate". You hear what a sey?

A MEMBER: Yeah!

Mr. SHAW: "At the low end of the estimate". So, in other words, the 22% is the high end. Eleven percent (11%) is the low end. That means you have more room now fe go reck the dollar some more. Mek a tell yu something.

The clear inference to be drawn is that the further devaluation can be expected until the exchange rate reaches at least J$120 to 1 US dollar.

A MEMBER: What?

Mr. SHAW: The question is, if and when the exchange rate reaches J$120, what magic, Mr. Speaker, in that figure would have made the Jamaican economy suddenly, if not miraculously more competitive? What fundamental change would have occurred to guarantee no further devaluation and speed up runaway investment, growth and job creation?

Bear in mind Mr. Speaker, that history will show that the periods of significant economic growth have always been characterized by a stable currency. You cannot achieve it without it!

And I mentioned the stability of the 60s and in the 80, 60/90 period. And while we accept that some progress has been made, the million dollar question is, are we doing all the things that are necessary and sufficient to achieve game-changing and paradigm shifts in the economy to achieve meaningful and sustainable growth?

Former Prime Minister, Bruce Golding has asked the question in public fora. Yes, we agree with an IMF Programme, but we are going to have to go far and beyond the parameters of the Extended Fund Facility programme if we are going to achieve real and genuine and lasting success.

The answer to that question is no, we are not doing enough! And under the present dispensation it will be anyone's guess where the exchange rate will end. God help all of us. The exchange rate, Minister, will be like the dog chasing its tail. And you know what happens with a dog chasing its tail.

Well, Mr. Speaker, before I speak on debt, there's an issue - I don't want to call it dollarization because I don't want any mischief to be made. So I deliberately coined an appropriate subhead called 'Currency Substitution'.

But, Prime Minister, this is very important, because I'm using now some relatively new, a sort of a new phenomena that is emerging in the financial system in Jamaica. And we better understand it. We better tek sleep and mark death and understand where we are and understand why we need a stable exchange rate.

A discussion of exchange rate cannot end without a discussion of currency substitution. This Honourable House needs to be aware that the Jamaican economy is silently on a path to currency substitution. Foreign assets at commercial banks are the highest in 6 years, having increased 33 percent to $153 Billion, denominated, of course, in Jamaican dollars from $115 Billion in December 2011.

The institutions that are licensed under the Financial Institutions Act, the securities dealers showed the same pattern. Foreign Assets moved up 42 percent at the end of December 2013. And when the JLP left government in December 2011, has moved up 42%. That is not confidence in the Jamaican dollar. It even assign confidence in the government now.That's not confidence in our exchange arrangements in our currency. Even the building societies who are as local as you can get, saw their foreign assets jump 37% at the end of December 2013 compared with when the JLP handed over the government in '11. That's not confidence in the government that - that is a march to currency substitution and it must be examined very carefully.

More and more landlords quote rents in US dollars. Our hotels have always priced their products in US dollars. Our monthly electric bill adjusts for the movement in the currency. Petrojam adjusts for the movements in the currency as well.

Merchants adjust for the currency movements. Just this past Sunday, I read that more and more companies are choosing the US dollar as their functional currency. They can't take the uncertainty and the vagaries of the Jamaican dollar.

Mr. Speaker, the lesson to be learned from this aggressive currency substitution is the rapidly declining confidence in our local currency and this is spurred by the aimless devaluation that is taking us nowhere but to despair.

Now I speak briefly on the issue of debt, and it will be brief. I'd like to underscore the significance of having accurate information on the debt ratio, particularly the debt to GDP ratio as that is one of the major targets against which this government's performance is measured. Mr. Speaker, it muddies the waters and obfuscates the truth and the true state of the nation when the debt to GDP ratio is different depending on who says it, depending on which of the government's publications you read.

Can we just settle on one consistent methodology, so that when the Minister speaks about the debt to GDP his administration inherited and compares it against where the ratio was now, we know that he is comparing apples with apples, not apples with bananas? This debt so absorbs our energies that it is a must that it is represented truthfully, not sometimes this and sometimes that depending on what political points the administration wants to make.

Mr. Speaker, it pains me to have to say that the Honourable Minister is misleading the country. He said on Thursday that the government inherited a debt to GDP ratio of upwards - in his words - upwards of 146% and that that ratio had now declined to 139%.

I carefully wrote it down, Mr. Speaker, because I had heard the Minister with that before, and I knew that I never left a debt at 146 per cent, I never left a debt at 147 per cent, I never left a debt at 148 per cent, I left the debt at 141.5 per cent. The Minister is misleading the country, because on both counts the Minister is wrong. The fact is the debt to GDP ratio at the end of 2011/12 - that's gone into March now, you know - was 141.5 per cent, not upwards of 146 per cent as stated by the Minister. And that same ratio now, at the end of March, 2014, is not 139 per cent as mentioned by you, Minister, in which I asked you if PetroCaribé funds were in it and you said, yes. The true figure is 144.9 per cent. Not my figures, your figures, in your books, that's where the information is to be found. Look in the Debt Management Strategy and you will see it.

Now, this is the measurement of debt under the Extended Fund Facility of the IMF. Just so everybody understands, Mr. Speaker, there are two types of measurement of debt, one is the measurement by the IMF, which I believe is the most accurate measurement, because what the IMF does is that it includes not just Central Government debt, but net PetroCaribé debt and External and Domestic Guaranteed debt. That is the higher figure presented by the EFF.

The other common measurement of debt is the Central Government stock of debt - that's what most of us hear about every day - which stood at One point Six-six Two Trillion Dollars ($1.662T) or 131 per cent of GDP at the end of March, 2012. By the way, at the end of December, 2011, it stood at One point Six Three Zero ($1.630T). So they added another Thirty Billion Dollars ($30B) by the time March came around in 2012 - and which now stands at One point Nine Four Six Trillion ($1.946T), Three Hundred Billion Dollars ($300B) and counting, have been increased, putting it at 131.9 per cent of GDP at the end of March, 2014.

So, Mr. Speaker, we hear that the Minister has reduced the debt since taking over from the previous Government, and any measurement, whether under the Extended Fund Facility or under the Central Government stock of debt, there has been no real progress. The Central Government stock of debt is up not down, and the debt to GDP ratio, whether you use EFF or Central Government measure, is up not down. On both cases the debt as measured in a standard way was lower when I handed it over in December, 2011.

(Opposition Members Applaud)

Enough of the propaganda that when you inherited this you have now brought it down.

Mr. Speaker, one thing is for sure, the persistent and unchecked devaluation of the Jamaican dollar is a major cause in the accumulation of the Central Government stock of debt.

You know, you must ask questions a lot because that's what a democracy is for, and that is - and we must be grateful that we have a democracy too and that we have the honour and that we respect the system and we answer the questions. Because I asked the Government, Mr. Speaker, the following questions in relation to last year's Budget: What percentage of the debt stock increase is due to the devaluation?

The answer, I will read it word for word now, no amendment. The answer:

> "The change in the debt stock amounted to One Thirty-three point Four Billion Dollars (S133.4B), an increase of 7.4 per cent for the outturn for end March, 2013. Of this, depreciation of the Jamaican dollar accounted..."

Out of the One Thirty-three Billion ($133B) you know -

> "...depreciation of the Jamaican dollar accounted for One Hundred and Eight point Five Billion Jamaican Dollars (J$108.5B) or 6 per cent change to the total stock of debt. Depreciation of the Jamaican dollar, accounted..."

Mr. Speaker -

> "...for 81.5 per cent of the change in the debt stock during the fiscal year."

Mr. CHARLES: What!? Omar, you don't know that and you are a former Minister?

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, therein lies the direct cause of sharp increases in interest cost that taxpayers now have to pay for as a result of the steep rise in the stock of debt, due not in the main to more borrowing. And I am not going to play the politics that you played when you were on this side, because I am going to be very blunt with you. You were all merciless in attacking me for increasing the debt, without recognizing that the devaluation we faced because of the global economic crisis was a major reason in the increase in the debt! But you attacked me mercilessly! I won't return the favour, Minister. I won't return the favour.

(Laughter)

Dr. DAVIES: I like how you... (Inaudible) Attack him now! Go into it, Audley!

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CHARLES: Chuck it pon him without warning! Drop it pon him without warning!

(Heckling)

Mr. SHAW: Now Mr. Speaker, ironically imagine, look at this contrast. Your debt caused an increase of a Hundred and Eight Billion Dollars ($108B) in one year and guess what? The Minister is going to have to borrow One Hundred and Ten Billion Dollars ($110B), just Two Billion Dollars ($2B) more in one year. If the dollar was stable last year we would only borrow Two Billion Dollars ($2B) Minister, Two Billion ($2B), not One Hundred and Ten Billion Dollars ($110B), because you would not have had the need to borrow a Hundred and Ten Billion Dollars ($110B) to cover this cost of this increase from devaluation.

Mr. CHARLES: Teach them, teacher!

Mr. SHAW: Well, you know, a done wid it now, a done de argument, a done wid it.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Madam Prime Minister, take my foolish advice. You are the Chairman of the Cabinet, take a read of this and you will see footnotes put in here; you will see articles by IDB representatives, World Bank representatives, IMF representatives. There is a book which I will send to you which I got when I was Minister of Finance in Washington, marked, Caribbean Economies, and it was referring to exchange rate. I am going to send it to you, Honourable Prime Minister. Because it hurts me to think that you have some of the technocrats at the IMF who come and sit down and tell us that we must have an orthodox floating exchange rate system to keep the agreement going, when they have papers, studies being done at their institutions that are saying otherwise.

Mr. SAMUDA: Double standards!

Mr. SHAW: Double standard! And it wicked, it reckless, and it is mashing up poor people's lives in this country!

(Opposition Members applaud)

Mr. CHARLES: And the PNP tekking instructions from dem!

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I turn briefly to the growth imperative. IMF alone can't grow the economy! EFF programme alone can't grow the economy! That's why we must not mash up wi tourism industry fe suit dem! Don't mash up wi little White Rum industry fe suit dem either, okay.

Now, real job creators are consumers whose rising wages and incomes generate jobs and growth. That is classic economic theory, you know that, Minister. If average people don't have decent wages there can be no real recovery and no real growth. (Applause)

But Mr. Speaker, hear this, if you think our country not in crisis you living somewhere else. Hear this! Over the past two years real wages have declined 4.7 per cent in 2013 and 4.8 per cent in 2012. Real wages have declined. That means purchasing power gone down, that means people are getting poorer, and poorer and 'poorer-er' in this country.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Here are some suggestions for growth.

- Stabilize the exchange rate.
- Ramp up education and training at all levels.
- Remake JAMPRO into a well-oiled machine.
- Fast track new and cheaper sources of energy for the economy.
- Engineer greater access to credit.
- Recapitalize and expand the EX-IM Bank of Jamaica.
- Reduce Transfer Tax and Stamp Duty.
- Increase NHT lending ceiling.
- Fast track the divestment of the Kingston Container Terminal.

I don't have to say more about the exchange rate, I have said enough on the exchange rate.

But here is what I will say in the final position, and I am saying it because I respect the fact that we have engaged on this so important and so fundamental an issue. Because my goodness, my goodness, I don't - listen, in our democracy I could become the Minister again, I don't want to inherit an economy that plunges down into 120, 130, 140, 150 dollar exchange rate. Inheriting what? A wreck? We can't continue like this.

Within the context of an IMF Agreement, in which three tests have been passed, and a fourth test is likely to be passed, and Two Billion US Dollars (US$2B) - listen to this, I want the Minister to hear this, you know - Two Billion US Dollars (US$2B) inflows are guaranteed from the multilaterals, this is an ideal time to consider fixing the exchange rate for a period of time, after which the regime can then be morphed into a managed, floating system. Jamaica just cannot take any more devaluation at this time, we are too high-cost and import dependent.

One manufacturer of sauces told me at the Arena at the Expo, 67 per cent of everything he produces is import dependent, 67 per cent.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Of course we need to wean the economy off of imports, but it's gonna take time.

In Jamaica today we need to build consensus, Prime Minister, around many things, one of these is the need to settle down to a stable exchange rate while we work on the other structural impediments that can sap investor confidence.

And give credit to the Minister for what he is doing. The structural reforms that are being carried out are important, the laws that are being passed are important. But in the meantime, every day we hear the dollar gone again, more people are suffering more in Jamaica because of that decline. (Applause)

Mr. CHARLES: We love the poor!

Mr. SHAW: Why do I say ramp up education? Minister gone lef mi - but you know my position. Early Childhood Education, Prime Minister, it is the passion of the former Minister of Education. But, Prime Minister, there are 2,000 trained teachers in Jamaica today that are without jobs. We need to retrain them into Early Childhood technology and get them to go help teach our children in Infant Schools. We have to rescue our future. The only way to rescue our future is to rescue our little children. (Applause)

Prime Minister, you know the greatest thing we can do for our children, give them a good education. Thank God for my father and my mother, they never had silver and gold. The house they raised us in is still there in Christiana, my niece lives in the house. We will never sell that house; we will never sell the five acres of land. But they wanted to make sure that we all had a good education. My little five year old - about to be five year old, Christiana, she is watching me at home on television right now as - I tell her, you know Prime Minister, because you always send love for Christiana, right.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: But at five years old she is already so alert and...

A Government MEMBER: Tek after har madda! (Laughter)

Mr. SHAW: Tek after har madda! Tek after har madda, right. (Laughter)

And the things that she says... the things she comes out with, it is just an absolute joy and delight to see it happening. And I would like to see it happen to every child in this country. We have a duty to give every child a chance. (Applause)

And we need remedial programmes. We must rescue our children at primary school. We must rescue them at high school. We need reading and comprehension programmes. Doctor... the Member of Parliament... the Minister of Transport and Works has had for many years, a very enlightened programme of reading and comprehension in his constituency.

(Applause by Government members)

I had started one in mine. (Applause) I have started one in mine, where we are working with our primary schools. We are trying to get at least one teacher, trained in reading skills, getting whiteboard and smart sticks, and all that sort of thing, we want to get into the system. It helps in the teaching process. No man, we have some serious work to do.

A MEMBER: Conception.

Mr. SHAW: And, Mr. Speaker... Mr. Speaker, I want to just say - former Prime Minister Edward Seaga said it; former Prime Minister PJ Patterson said it; values and attitude was what Mr. Patterson said. Mr.

Seaga said, "we need a curriculum of character education" - character education. It needs to be introduced among every cohort in the education system. We must be united in facing the urgent task of tackling the crisis of human underdevelopment in our country. (Applause) We have to tackle it.

Mr. Speaker, we have to re-make JAMPRO. JAMPRO needs to become more aggressive, work along with DBJ and EX-IM Bank, get active again, get really alive, promote foreign and local investments, get around the corners, cut the red tape, get the thing done, along with the fast track approvals process that the Leader of the Opposition and I, and others, have recommend.

Mr. VAZ: (Inaudible) ...says he soon come.

Mr. SHAW: We need to fast track energy solutions. My God, we have been talking about it for so long - twelve years - twelve years planning. You, then we, then you - twelve years later...

Mr. DALLEY: We are going to do it.

Mr. SHAW: ...and we are still fooling around about alternative energy. The Liquid Natural Gas Project must be given national priority, Prime Minister, to ensure that the financing is put in place expeditiously. The Government should help to target funding from the multilateral institutions as part of the drive to get the project on a fast track, once it is satisfied that the technical capabilities for the winning bidders are in place. We have to arrange more access to low cost credit for the productive sector.

When you look at credit, the climb of credit in the productive activities is very, very mild, almost negligible - flat. Credit for production... Credit for consumption is up, about $30 Billion, credit for consumption is up, but when you look at line items like manufacturing and other things like that, you see, maybe a $5 Billion or $6 Billion, not enough. You have to find a way, Minister, to engineer more credit into the productive sectors of the economy.

Of interest, Claude Clarke, a former Minister of Industry on your side, recently noted in an article that less than 10 per cent of Jamaican firms that are less than five years old have actual and benchmark access to credit - less than five per cent - less than ten per cent. But, in Trinidad and Tobago, 50 per cent of Trinidadian firms that are less than five years old, they have access to credit; 10 per cent for us - access to credit; 50 per cent in Trinidad and Tobago.

Mr. Clarke went on that in Singapore and Barbados, their deposits and outstanding loans are 292 per cent, and 197 per cent of their respective GDPs, deposit on outstanding loans. The figures for Jamaica is 57 per cent.

Mr. CHARLES: What!

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, what are deposits on outstanding loans? These are active capital assets that are at work to build muscle in the economy, to create jobs and to create economic growth. The 57 per cent figure for Jamaica reveals, once again, the malnourished, bang belly status of the Jamaican economy.

Then, Mr. Speaker, let us re-capitalize the EX-IM Bank. It is commendable what you have proposed in relation to the Student Loan Bureau, and I feel like I am a co-daddy in that one, because when I became Minister...

Dr. PHILLIPS: No such thing as a co-daddy.

Mr. SHAW: Well, then I am the daddy then, be careful. But what I am saying is that when I started as Minister, there were 6,000 loans - 6,000 loans to students. It went to 14,000 by the time I left as Minister of Finance. So, I am happy about what is planned for the Student Loan Bureau. But, let us re-capitalize the EX-IM Bank, so that it can literally double or triple its portfolio in supporting the drive for exports, Minister.

And then I want to say to you Minister, you have reduced the taxes on motor vehicles, you gwine start collecting more money now. If you want to collect even more money, take off back the one per cent that you had put on transfer taxes and stamp duties.

Mr. CHUCK: Exactly, more taxation, less taxes.

Mr. SHAW: Remove that, you gwine collect more money...

Mr. CHUCK: Absolutely.

Mr. SHAW: ...because your own Paper has said - your own document said: the projected yield of $2 Billion from the one percentage point increase in the Stamp Duty and Transfer Tax did not materialize.

Mr. CHUCK: They collected less.

Mr. SHAW: If it doan materialize, just like the car one never materialize...

Mr. VAZ: Go back.

Mr. SHAW: ...take it off. Allow the money to come from volume transactions.

Mr. CHUCK: Chinaman principle.

Mr. SHAW: That is the Chinaman principle.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comment)

Mr. SHAW: I have already mentioned the suggestion of increasing the ceiling on the lending for housing loan, and I have already mentioned the fast track of the Kingston Container Terminal. So, now, Mr. Speaker, Honourable Prime Minister, Honourable Leader of the Opposition, I can head swiftly to my conclusion.

Mr. Speaker, in the context of the IMF Agreement, if we are to achieve sustainable gains, we must take firm and aggressive steps to support the Extended Fund Facility programme. We have no time to lose - no more time. Can we stabilize the exchange rate and give our people a chance? Yes, we can. Can we, together, ramp up education and rescue our people from a crisis of human underdevelopment? Yes, we can.

Mr. CHARLES: We must.

Mr. SHAW: Can we start to promote investment with missionary zeal once again? Yes, of course, we can. Can we fast track energy diversification after 12 years of talk? Yes, we can. Can we arrange greater access to funds in commercial banks and the EX-IM Bank? Yes, we can. Can we provide a stable environment that encourages investment and develop our people? Yes, we can.

A Government MEMBER: Can you pass the IMF test?

Mr. SHAW: Can we change course by giving people opportunities to work our way out of poverty and lift our standards of living and our standard of conduct? Yes, we can. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker may God guide us all as we continue on our journey, and may He inspire us with hope in our hearts. I am of the firm belief that we can, and we will overcome.

May God bless you all and may God bless Jamaica. (Applause)

(Standing ovation by Opposition Members)

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, We don't have a statement, but I just wanted to respond to the Member from South West St. Catherine who had asked for urgent attention to the disconnection of the Leader of the Opposition's telephone. I am advised - firstly let me state categorically there was no ill-will, ill-motive or malice. It was disconnected due to inadvertence.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Non-payment of bills.

Mr. PAULWELL: Yes, non-payment of bills. And, Mr. Speaker, I have, with the assistance of the Clerk, put the matter as top priority to be cleared today and to ensure that it is never, ever repeated. So that we intend to ensure that those bills are settled promptly in the future.

Mr. WARMINGTON: The other thing is stationery....

PUBLIC BUSINESS

BUDGET DEBATE

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, this afternoon we continue with the Budget Debates. We have two speakers: firstly, the Minister of Agriculture, the Member from Central Westmoreland will be the first speaker and then the Member from North West St. James will be the second speaker in that order, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Minister Clarke, your time.

(HON. PETER MURCOTT BUNTING, (PNP), Manchester, Central, Minister of National Security, entered and took his seat.)

(Applause)

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, as I begin my contribution to this Budget Debate I must pay recognition and due recognition to some persons. Let me begin by thanking the Prime Minister, the Most Honourable Portia Simpson Miller, for her continuing confidence in me.

A MEMBER: What!

Mr. CLARKE: Everyone knows the relationship that we do have, but I don't take that for granted.

A MEMBER: What!

Mr. CLARKE: I really conscientiously work as hard as I can to enhance your position as Prime Minister of this country. (Applause) Thanks to my ministerial colleagues for the support they give to me; an encouraging word helps when you are down. Let me congratulate the Minister of Finance for having presented a credible budget for the ensuing financial year. Thanks to all my colleagues in Parliament, both sides of the House, regardless of the banter and all that, we do have a good relationship. Thanks to the staff at the Ministry led by the Permanent Secretary, Mr. Donovan Stanberry. Thanks to Chairmen and members of all the Boards which fall under the aegis of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries. Thanks to you Mr. Speaker and your Deputy for the able way you have been guiding these deliberations. And I must confess your Deputy is growing in the job.

(Applause)

Mr. KELLIER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: I think you have something to do with that. Thanks to the staff at Gordon House led by the Clerk of the Houses of Parliament, Mrs. Heather Cooke. Thanks to my constituency executive, my five councillors and all the people in Central Westmoreland who have enabled me to be here as their representative. (Applause) And finally, finally, let me express profound thanks to my family and especially to my wife of thirty-seven years (Applause) plus a four-year probationary period.

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: You were on probation? You were on probation?

Mr. CLARKE: I was. I was put on probation for four years before I was able to say I do.

(MR. RAYMOND FRANKLYN PRYCE, (PNP), St. Elizabeth, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. DARYL WESLEY PHILLIP VAZ, (JLP), Portland, Western, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, this Government was elected on the mandate of people power.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: For us, this is not merely a slogan, but a summons to a greater level of accountability. It is within this context, therefore, that I intend to present my score card to this Honourable House, in respect to the commitments I made in the House last year in the Sectoral Debate. It is my intention to further utilize this moment to outline the critical programmes and strategies that the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries will employ in the current financial year to move the sector forward.

Mr. Speaker, given the amount of work covered by the Ministry in the last financial year, the number of new initiatives and our many successes, it would be difficult to speak to everything in this presentation. I have, therefore, tabled today thirteen Ministry Papers, detailing our activities and successes. Mr. Speaker, I am pleading and begging Members to read those Ministry Papers and the wider Jamaica also to do so, and the journalist also to do. It will enable them to be enlightened about the workings of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

(MR. AUDLEY FITZ ALBERT SHAW, (JLP), Manchester, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. LUTHER BARTLEY MONTEITH BUCHANAN, (PNP), Westmoreland, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Office of the Prime Minister, entered and took his seat.)

(HON IAN DAVE HAYLES, (PNP), Hanover, Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. JULIAN JAY ROBINSON, (PNP), St. Andrew, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining, entered and took his seat.)

(Cross talk)

PERFORMANCE OF THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR AFTER HURRICANE SANDY

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, before I go on to the specifics, allow me to present an overview of the performance of the agricultural sector. Mr. Speaker, it is well known that Hurricane Sandy impacted the country in October 2012, and this affected production performance for both the third quarter of 2012 and the first quarter of 2013. It is also a matter of record that severe drought conditions affected the entire island for the first six months of 2013. It is therefore not surprising that in the first two quarters of 2013, the overall agricultural sector declined by 11.3 and 6.3 per cent, respectively. The decline in the domestic food crop sector was correspondingly 12.1 and 5.5 per cent, respectively.

(DR. WINSTON LLOYD GREEN, (PNP), St. Mary, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. RUDYARD CONRAD SPENCER, (JLP), Clarendon, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. DONALD KEITH DUNCAN, (PNP), Hanover, Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

But, Mr. Speaker, the resilience of the farmers of this country is remarkable.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: Undaunted by the ravages of Sandy and the devastating impact of the prolonged drought, our farmers soldiered on, and I am proud to report that by the third quarter of 2013 the sector returned to its positive growth trajectory, with the overall sector growing by 5.9 per cent and 13.1 per cent, respectively, in the third and fourth quarters of 2013.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear! Tell dem bout dem quarters. Hutchie, yuh a listen?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Shut yuh mouth bwoy.

A Government MEMBER: Listen man.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: I going to keep quiet mek yuh listen.

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, the corresponding figures for the domestic food crop sector are 8.4% and 14% respectively.

Mr. Speaker, I have more news. Our preliminary estimates for the first quarter of 2014 are indicating approximately 18.7% growth in the domestic food crop sector. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance in his delivery spoke to the fact that the last quarter of 2013 the figures indicate that annualized agriculture would grow by some 13%. I saw the trauma, I saw the trauma on the face of the Member from North Central St. Andrew, he was ill at ease, he was flabbergasted. And then the Member from North West, St. Elizabeth...

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hutchie, go slow so him can understand.

Mr. CLARKE: ...he was writhing in pain, how can one speak about growth?

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. L. Buchanan)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Try and get a vision. You don't see longer than your nose bridge. You have not a thing to contribute in here. From you come to Parliament what you contribute?

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, what the Minister said wasn't logarithm, it wasn't geometry, it wasn't equation.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CLARKE: Is just simple arithmetic that I learnt at the Bagavante Basic School and Teacher Maud Elementary School. We used to call it 'sums'. (Laughter)

(Sotto voce remarks by Opposition Member)

Mr. CLARKE: Sums.

The University of Ottawa, that notable institution that you attended, Cornell University that you attended...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: That's right, and we learned agriculture.

Mr. CLARKE: Oh, God, they would tell you man. It's just sums.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And we learned agriculture.

Mr. CLARKE: Just sums, nothing.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And I will tell you about it later.

Mr. CLARKE: And I want to say further, Mr. Speaker, there is no extension officer in the Ministry of Agriculture who can tell you that I have ever told them what figure they must bring to me. Whatever they bring - there is no extension officer or parish manager that can say to you, when they brought the figure to me I say carry it back, it's not the right figure. Whatever figure you see here, what you see is what you get. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, agriculture's contribution to GDP in 2013 was 6.7%. (Applause) This nominal contribution however, does not encompass the significant linkage between agriculture, manufacturing and tourism. Our manufacturing sector is significantly based on the processing of agricultural raw material and our sugar industry, for instance, is the most vertically integrated industry in Jamaica.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I don't want anybody to tell me whether we growing or not. It is there for everybody to see. A year ago you couldn't get a ripe banana to eat, every street corner in Jamaica now people in uniforms selling ripe banana left, right and centre.

And as I mentioned, the Opposition Spokesperson on Finance...

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Audley, listen and learn.

Mr. CLARKE: When I went to visit him...

Mr. SHAW: Who me?

Mr. CLARKE: Yes.

Mr. SHAW: Okay.

Mr. CLARKE: The day I came to look for you.

Mr. SHAW: You are telling everybody mi business now.

Mr. CLARKE: Of course. I want them to know that we are good friends.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Is after Andrew beat him or before.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Oh shut your mouth, Buchanan. (Laughter) You read, country man, bushman, cane piece man. You don't speak about the Leader like that, which Andrew, is your friend.

Mr. CLARKE: My good friend said to me, I born and grow in Christiana, come just look 'round the back a mi house, look at Irish potato. I have never seen Irish potato like that.

Mr. CHARLES: That's why they made you Minister, you must look up to that, don't let down the Prime Minister.

Mr. CLARKE: And when I was leaving, when I was leaving he said before you have this last drink come and get another last look at the Irish potato, potato growing through your ears.

Mr. CHARLES: Thank God there was no hurricane last year.

Mr. VAZ: You grow any cassava?

Mr. SHAW: You don't remember I said nutten 'bout Tufton...

Mr. CLARKE: What you said.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Shaw)

Mr. CLARKE: You said he was the Moravian who brought Irish potato here.

(Laughter/Applause)

So, Mr. Speaker, apart from the direct economic contribution, agriculture is the bedrock of rural life, contributing to social stability and arresting the rural-urban drift. So the real contribution of agriculture to GDP is therefore much greater than the 6.7% being recorded. It would be unwise for any Government to ignore this critical sector in its strategic national development and growth programme.

Mr. Speaker, notwithstanding the weather-related challenges I highlighted earlier, I am happy to report to this Honourable House that non-traditional food exports increased by 5% to US$152.7 Million (Applause) thanks to increased yam exports which grew by 13.3%, ackee by 12%, sauces by 3.2%, conch and lobster by 23.3%, sweet potato by 25% and pumpkin by 33%.

Mr. SAMUDA: The figures are too low.

Mr. CLARKE: And these figures are from STATIN.

Mr. SAMUDA: Not quantity, growth.

Mr. CLARKE: Growth. Mr. Speaker, unfortunately, notwithstanding the commendable performance of the non-traditional export sector, overall agricultural exports decreased by 12% due mainly to the 43.5% decline in sugar exports, as reported by the Statistical Institute of Jamaica. This decline in sugar exports, however, must be juxtaposed against the increased consumption of locally produced sugar last year, replacing a significant portion of the imports. We used much of it locally rather than importing.

Mr. Speaker, in terms of imports, preliminary figures from STATIN show that food imports increased marginally by 1.5% from the revised figure of US$948 Million in 2012 to US$962 Million in 2013.

I would have been happier, Mr. Speaker, if food imports had moved down. However, what we are seeing instead is a stabilization of imports as the increase over the period 2012-2013 was just a marginal 1%. So there is stabilization as far as imports go.

The truth is Mr. Speaker, we will only begin to see substantial decline in the import bill when we would have significantly restructured the sector. For example, cereals for animal feeds, which constitute 30% of our import bill, can only be reduced when we make significant breakthrough in developing indigenous feeds and producing some of that animal feeds right here in Jamaica. There were also other factors. The sustained drought in 2013 significantly affected local forage production and increased our reliance on concentrate to sustain the livestock sector. And you would have known that you had to top it up with grains, imported grains.

Within the context of the structural challenge, the agro-park initiative becomes even more imperative as we seek to restructure the sector to be the major driver of social and economic transformation in Jamaica through import substitution, increased exports, greater linkages with the tourism sector, increased rural incomes and stronger and more prosperous communities.

(DR. KENNETH LEIGH O'NEIL BAUGH, (JLP), St. Catherine, West Central, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. THE HON. OMAR LLOYD DAVIES, (PNP), St. Andrew, Southern, Minister of Transport, Works and Housing, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. HORACE WASHINGTON DALLEY, (PNP), Clarendon, North, Minister without Portfolio in the Ministry of Finance and Planning with responsibility for the Public Service, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. DELROY HAWMIN CHUCK, (JLP), St. Andrew, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. SHARON FFOLKES-ABRAHAMS, (PNP), St. James, West Central, Minister of State in the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. RICHARD AZAN, (PNP), Clarendon, North Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport and Works, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. ANDRÉ MARIO HYLTON, (PNP), St. Andrew, Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. JOYLAN CRAIG IAN SILVERA, (PNP), St. Mary, Western, entered and took his seat.)

I sincerely appreciate, Mr. Speaker, the contribution of our small farmers who, for decades, have fed us and have been driving force in the sector. (Applause) However, Mr. Speaker, our development challenges dictate that we must make a quantum leap in agricultural production and productivity. In this regard, Mr. Speaker, the agro-parks are intended to attract larger farmers with the capital, expertise and technological savvy to engage best practices in order to significantly increase production and productivity so as to enhance agricultural competitiveness. We have to pursue this goal with the greatest vigour whilst maintaining support to our small farmers. Simply put, Mr. Speaker, the agro-parks must be a game-changer.

A Government MEMBER: That's right.

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker...

(The Orderly gives a glass of water to Mr. Clarke)

Mr. CLARKE: What is that?

Mr. VAZ: Is the glass with the rum.

Mr. CLARKE: This is Vodka, Vodka. (Referring to the water given to him)

Mr. Speaker, last year I highlighted the phenomenal performance of this subsector which moved production - and this is ginger - from 444 tonnes in 2011 to 1,082 tonnes in 2012 (Applause) by increasing the area under production from 162 hectares to 219 hectares. In that report, I indicated that in 2013 we would have established some 283 hectares. Mr. Speaker, we had in fact established, last year, 248, but this was sufficient to cause a 10% increase in production.

The 2014 crop, Mr. Speaker, is now being reaped and projected to yield some 3,000 tonnes, the largest production of ginger in 25 years. (Applause) And St. James can take a bow; they have moved up significantly and contributed significantly to the ginger production.

We have now, Mr. Speaker, become the victims of our own success, as the current levels of production are challenging the handling capacity of our Export Division.

Mr. Speaker, this is a revolution, a promise kept, delivered and Government exceeded, ginger. (Applause) I spoke about Irish potato and it is the same. Last year, we reached 79% in self-sufficiency, and I was saying that we would be about that this year or a little better. We surpassed that, 86% self-sufficiency in tabled Irish potato last year.

(Applause)

Another promise kept, delivered and exceeded.

(Applause)

AGRO-PARKS

I highlighted in some detail, Mr. Speaker, the activities of the agro-parks, I am reporting today that seven out of the nine agro-parks are up and running.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Mr. CLARKE: Over the last few months great interest is being displayed in the agro-parks. It is saying that people are beginning to understand that agriculture must play a critical role in national development.

You know, the....

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. CLARKE: Yes, great concept. Wonderful concept.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Properly.

Mr. CLARKE: The Member from North West St. Elizabeth, great concept. Seven, eight years ago, he had a concept.

(Sotto voce comments by a Government Member)

Mr. CLARKE: The concept of making Holland Bamboo the real agro-park. Well, Mr. Speaker, I pass through Holland almost on a daily basis and if that is the realization of a concept, don't give me any agro-park, because even the bamboos are dying because they heard something was coming and it never came.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: It started under…

Mr. CLARKE: But the concept is good.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: It started under our….

Mr. CLARKE: But you didn't know.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Of course!

(Laughter)

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, the Plantain Garden became a great talking point. The Leader of the Opposition led a motorcade out there to look at the agro-park and then, after having gone, he sent his emissary the spokesperson on agriculture and he went, he took some hand tools....

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, we had gone together.

Mr. CLARKE: And they asked me, they asked me to remind you about the knapsack blower that you promised.

(Laughter)

Mr. CLARKE: You have sent it?

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Hutchinson)

Mr. CLARKE: You have sent it?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Long ago.

Mr. CLARKE: When? When?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Long ago.

Mr. CLARKE: Long, long, long ago. They want a new one now. They want a new one.

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, the 220,000 farmers, every farmer in Jamaica finds himself or herself in a situation where they have crop failure. They just get up, brush off and move ahead again. The agro-park in Yallahs is moving by leaps and bounds.

(Applause)

The agro-park at Plantain Garden, the agro-park at Plantain Garden because of the exuberance, they went ahead and they planted, planted the onions even before the irrigation system was completed and they had a setback. But, Mr. Speaker, what we did as a Ministry, having seen their situation, the Credit Union went and worked with these farmers without any collateral whatsoever and loan them up to $12 Million. When we found that there was a problem, we at the Ministry put $7 1/2 Million into the credit union to allow them to work their way through.

And for some unknown reason they abandoned that project, although the Credit Union went out and prepared lands, secured markets for ginger, for pepper, for callaloo; if they had stuck to that programme, right now they would be reaping up to $20-odd Million worth of produce, but they abandoned that. But even that, they are today reaping ginger, pumpkin, even Irish potato they are planting there and they are back on track. I can't be mad with them they are farmers, but we will work with them.

Right now as we speak, there is an investor there who has taken on 35 acres to have the mother farm concept for these farmers to put up a packing-house, et cetera, et cetera, to help them with their marketing and to let them become efficient farmers. And I want to thank Mr. Green for having done that. (Applause)

I want Mr. Speaker to tell you and this House the progress by these Agro-parks. We have so far leased 1,115 hectares of the 2,267 hectares owned by the Agro-Investment Corporation and we have engaged another 543 hectares of private lands in our agro-parks. Go down to Duff House, the constituency of you, Mr. Speaker - and you can bow because you cyaan talk.

(Laughter)

Just indicate, just indicate to this Honourable House how successful, how successful, how successful....

(The Speaker bows)

....how successful…

A MEMBER: Him nod him head.

Mr. CLARKE: ....how successful it is in that general area.

Mr. SHAW: All right, how much time you want him to bow?

(Laughter)

Mr. CLARKE: I don't want him to bow like you.

(Laughter) (The Speaker gavels)

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, as we speak, we are now in the process of putting in irrigation systems in Amity Hall, Ebony Park, and Spring Plain. We have decided, and we said last year that we were going to engage young people in agriculture.

Mr. Speaker, we will only achieve renewal and continuity in the sector to the extent that we can engage young people. Within this context, we have to be deliberate in attracting and retaining youths.

Last year I announced that we would reserve on a pilot basis some 40 hectares of land in our agro-parks exclusively for young people with knowledge in agriculture. I am pleased to announce that we have selected some 20 young people, and we have allocated to each of them five acres in the Ebony Park Agro-park. (Applause) The only thing that is holding them back now, Mr. Speaker, is for the implementation of the irrigation programme. And as we speak, we have out to tender some $620 Million to implement an irrigation programme in both Ebony Park and Spring Plains to enable us to engage those young people.

We have further secured from the private sector and the University of the West Indies commitments to provide working capital to these young entrepreneurs, who will be producing various crops under secured marketing arrangements, and they will commence production as soon as we roll out the irrigation infrastructure.

Mr. Speaker, in the meantime, we have sought to deliberately engage our young people in our Irish potato programme. Some 40 hectares have been reserved for women and youth, including some 176 beneficiaries.

(Applause)

So far, Mr. Speaker, we have planted the Irish. A quarter of the area has been reaped yielding over 150 tonnes of Irish potato, young people in that project and we are moving ahead.

We would like to place on record our gratitude to the participating private sector firms, Newport Fersan, Agro Grace, Glastonbury Potato, St. Jago Farm Store and T. Geddes Grant; they have come on board to assist these young people to help them get off the ground and I really and sincerely want to thank them.

(Applause)

The intent, Mr. Speaker, is that from this modest start, those young people will be able to continue their farming enterprise in a sustainable manner. Another promise kept, signed, sealed and delivered.

(Applause)

SCHOOL FEEDING PROGRAMME

School Feeding Programme. And again, we are all sold in this House on the critical importance of including more locally produced food in our School Feeding Programme to increase nutritional levels in our children and enhance the livelihood of our farmers.

I'm happy to report that since October 2013, Nutrition Products has been using liquid eggs in their solid snacks as partial substitution for imported margarine and vegetable oil. This egg is being supplied by the Jamaica Egg Processors Limited, which has since supplied some 2,150 kgs of liquid eggs, valued at $1.3 Million, and used in the production of some 476,000 bullas.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. CLARKE: Four hundred and seventy-six thousand - plenty bullas.

Additionally, NPL has considerably diversified its solid snack offerings, to include banana, carrot cakes and banana muffins. Minister of Education, you are on the path to making sure that we have a sustainable School-Feeding Programme based significantly on the products from our local farmers. (Applause)

And we hope Mr. Speaker in the Agro-parks when we maximize production, more products will go to the School-Feeding Programme on a more affordable basis. And that is what we intend to do.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels - 3:06 p.m.) The Minister's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Minister's time be extended sufficient for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Minister Clarke.

Mr. CLARKE: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and thanks, colleagues.

SUGAR

Mr. Speaker, I turn to Sugar. Sugar production in 2012/2013 was 126,000 tonnes. I indicated last year that the relatively poor performance of Pan Caribbean Sugar Limited, which is responsible for 70 per cent of the industry's capacity, resulted in this low production.

I was sufficiently concerned, Mr. Speaker, about the issues, that having led a delegation to China, management was changed. And as I look across, straight before me I see new man, Mr. Wu. (Applause) Mr. Wu has replaced Mr. He. (Laughter) Mr. Wu has replaced Mr. He and they are moving substantially to make sure that something happens. (Applause) Thank you very much, Mr. Wu. (Applause)

Given the level of replanting, we see substantial improvement, and we expect this year that sugar production will be approximately 20,000 or nearly 20,000 tonnes more than last year. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: Growth in agriculture. (Applause) Growth.

Dr. BAUGH: What's the total now?

Mr. CLARKE: We hope to do 145,000 tonnes this year.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CLARKE: Stale, stale, but we are moving on.

Not only has Pan Caribbean stepped up to the investment that I indicated last year, but it has stepped up to its own obligation to do whatever is possible to make sure that the industry moves from strength to strength.

Now, we have lived up to our obligation. As I said last year, there were some problems where workers were extracting electricity from Pan Caribbean, the company. We have now substantially separated them and they are on their own now, to free up Mr. Wu to do whatever he wants to do, Mr. Wu. (Laughter)

We, however, Mr. Speaker, have been doing some substantial work in the social aspect of the industry. And I will leave that in the capable hands of the Prime Minister, especially to speak about the barracks relocation, which is something near and dear to her heart. (Applause) And, PM, I know you will do that. Every key that we handed out to those new householders I can see tears in your eyes. Don't cry next Tuesday when you speak, I know how emotional you are about this barracks relocation.

I am confident that with all the investments that we have made the industry will rebound.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: We must, however, Mr. Speaker, not lose sight of the critical imperative to step up our diversification efforts into the many co-products that sugar can produce, refined sugar co-generation, ethanol, et cetera.

We must also look at our regional markets in light of the cessation of guaranteed prices in the European market after 2017. Many of our lower-cost competitors are now gaining the same duty free quote-free access we now have with the EU market. Our salvation rests in satisfying the demand of our local and regional markets. The region, for instance, Mr. Speaker, consumes over 300,000 tonnes of refined sugar, all supplied from external sources when in fact, we have the capacity to produce that very same amount here in Jamaica.

(HON. ANTHONY GEORGE HYLTON, (PNP), St. Andrew, Western, Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took his seat.)

COFFEE

Mr. Speaker, Coffee. Last year I indicated that the Government intended to divest its holding in the coffee industry, through the sale of the assets of Wallenford Coffee.

I am pleased to announce that further to Cabinet's decision in August, 2013, the Government executed a Memorandum of Understanding between Portland Private Equity/AIC Caribbean Fund, and on September 12 the said company assumed possession of Wallenford Coffee Company. (Applause)

With this transaction, the Government of Jamaica is no longer in the business of coffee production. Our role will be to facilitate production through effective regulations to ensure the maintenance of quality standards, as well as to protect our invaluable brand.

Although we are out of the production business, we have a keen interest in the continued development of the sector. It is in this regard I wish to highlight the continued threat of the Coffee Leaf Rust disease, which is a clear and present danger.

After consultations with the coffee industry, it has been confirmed that the coffee market is now rebounding and there is again a huge demand for Jamaican coffee at premium prices.

Mr. Speaker, this year is the highest price that has been paid for coffee any time in Jamaica's history. (Applause) People want it, people running it down.

And I am happy to hear again that the new entity is in the process of doing financing for the small farmers, to help them grow their coffee at very, very, very low interest rate. (Applause) We shall see coffee rebounding once again. (Applause)

(HON. COLIN ALFRED A. FAGAN, (PNP), St. Catherine, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

A problem we face though, Mr. Speaker, is that we have been importing a substantial amount of coffee. What we intend to do is to put a cess on imported coffee, to use that money to help to develop our local coffee production. (Applause) Locally we collect cess. So if our producers are paying cess, those who are importing must also pay the cess.

(Applause)

COCOA

Cocoa, Mr. Speaker. It is projected that cocoa production for the current crop will be in the region of some 750 tonnes. This falls below the 850 tonnes that we projected. But, Mr. Speaker, it is much more than the 400 tonnes a year or so ago.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: We had the problem again with hurricane. But great interest is now being displayed in cocoa. And, in the divestment process, Mr. Speaker, we are getting substantial enquiries; everybody wants to get into the Jamaican cocoa because of its quality, world-standard quality of our cocoa. (Applause)

BANANAS

Bananas, Mr. Speaker, bananas. There was a decline, understandably so, because of the hurricane. But, banana has rebounded, and I tell you, the Banana-Accompanying Measures Resources from the European Union, in the amount of Five Million Euros (€5M) is now available to the Ministry. And we are working with the AIBJ to make sure that that money is spent wisely, as we move to expand banana production once more.

(Applause)

MILK PRODUCTION

Mr. Speaker, milk production is almost static, but we have to deal with that. Production in 2013, 12.34 million litres. We didn't achieve the 10 per cent increase that we anticipated. The decline must however be viewed in light of the crippling drought in the first half of the year, which severely affected fodder production. We, however, remain determined to increase production as this is an important source of protein. And as a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, we are consuming less than the World Health Organization's recommended daily amount.

Notwithstanding the above, we are pressing on with initiatives to increase milk production and structurally change the production base. In this regard, the Jamaica Dairy Development Board, from its cess resources, has allocated some Twenty-eight Million Dollars ($28M), which has supported the expansion of fodder production by 40 hectares, including 24 hectares in our Bodles/Hounslow Research Stations that will be used as a model.

Additionally, we have procured and made available to dairy farmers critical equipment valued at approximately Seventeen Million ($17M) for the preparation of fodder. Some Twenty Million Dollars ($20M) has been used to purchase some 300 dairy animals which were slated to be slaughtered, and the objective of this is to distribute these heifers to tertiary institutions and select farmers to support an increase in milk production.

With respect to the institutions, the Jamaica Dairy Development Board is committed to work with the College of Agriculture, Science and Education, Ebony Park HEART Academy, Knockalva and Sydney Pagon Schools, to revamp and upgrade their dairy programme with equipment, technical support and stock. We must return our agricultural tertiary institutions to a state where they not only train competent and functional agricultural specialists, but expose them to entrepreneurship.

(Applause)

This is poignant to the dairy industry which is experiencing an alarming attrition of older farmers with no replacement in sight.

(MISS JOYCE DENISE DALEY, (PNP), St. Catherine, Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

One of the problems with my friend from North Central St. Andrew, he is an expert on everything. And you know, I once was told - and somebody described to me who is an expert. And it fits very well; x is an unknown quantity; spurt is a drip under pressure. So this kind of expert is an unknown quantity of drip under pressure. (Laughter)

FISHERIES

Mr. Speaker, Fisheries - the biggest disappointment is our failure to enact a new Fisheries Bill that has been in the making for several years. Whilst I appreciate and commend this Honourable House for passing a record 42 Bills in the last Parliament, we have to bring the Fisheries Bill to the Parliament this year. This Bill will provide the framework for the proper regulation of the sector, and efficient and effective management of our fisheries resources.

The challenge to our marine resources, Mr. Speaker, is due to over-exploitation. We therefore, continue to support the maintenance of our 14 declared sanctuaries, and I am advised that already we are seeing a rejuvenation of the stock in these protected areas.

In an effort to bolster our surveillance and monitoring of our vast marine space, to ensure an increased safety at sea, the Ministry is in consultation with the Jamaica Defence Force Coast Guard and the Maritime Police to acquire two drones. (Applause) These drones will be fitted - not the one that was going around Tivoli at that time...

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CLARKE: ...a different type. You remember the drones that were going around?

A MEMBER: No, we don't remember them.

Mr. McKENZIE: You no have no sea down deh.

Mr. CLARKE: We don’t have that one. You can't recall. (Laughter) The drones will be fitted with cameras and will be deployed as necessary, and will have the capacity to transmit data back to base, which will assist in detecting and deterring poachers, as well as to assist with search and rescue at sea. (Applause) And the private sector has come on board to help us in that regard.

Mr. Speaker, as important - it is so important to the management of our resources that even as we await our Fisheries Bill, we are forced to seek Cabinet's approval for amendments to the current Fisheries Act to significantly increase fines and deal with other urgent matters related to the management of our fisheries resources. We cannot continue to allow poachers to come into our waters and rob our country of all those resources while our people...

Mr. SHAW: That is what the drones going to do?

Mr. CLARKE: They are going to help in that regard, working with the Coast Guard, yes. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want to report as follows: The Aquaculture Development Strategy, as promised, has been completed. Consistent with this strategy, we have obtained the approval of the Ministry of Finance and Planning to suspend for one year, the duties applicable to floating fish feed.

(Applause by Government Members)

MEMBERS: Good... good, good.

Mr. CLARKE: We are also taking concrete steps to introduce more productive species into the sector. We sent a team to Vietnam to look at the basa fish, and we want to see how we can develop that specie here. We are currently engaged in the procurement process, in relation to restoration of some 12 ponds in our Aquaculture Branch, as well as increasing the capacity to produce fingerlings to satisfy the needs of the industry.

The Ministry is also working closely with Rainforest Seafoods to expand the marketing outlets for our inland fish farmers. They have acquired some equipment where they can display the fish in its live form, where you can go - and you know, it's really exciting to go and see the fish swimming around and you can buy it just there in its live form.

I refer you, Mr. Speaker, to our Ministry Paper on Agro-Parks, which details the fulfillment of our commitment to introduce aquaculture in the Hill Run and Meylersfield Agro-Parks.

I turn now, Mr. Speaker, to the vexing issue of the Pedro Cays. This Honourable House is well aware of the furor that was created in the public domain as a result of some exposure in the media about conditions and the cays. The Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries immediately moved to provide some $34.5 Million from the Fisheries Management Development Fund to deal with the management of the cays, including some $16.6 Million, allocated for solid waste management of which some $4 Million has already been spent.

Mr. Speaker, working in conjunction with the Jamaica Defence Force Coast Guard and the Marine Police, the Fisheries Division has stepped up considerably its enforcement and monitoring activities on the cays resulting in the removal of a number of unlicensed persons.

Significantly, Mr. Speaker, the Ministry has commissioned a census and a Carrying Capacity Study to determine the optimum number of persons that the cays can accommodate, as well as the infrastructure required to support such. I am happy to report that this study has been completed by the University and we are now in the process of submitting the findings and recommendations to Cabinet.

The intention is that an Inter-Ministerial Committee will use this study as the basis for formulating more, once and for all, a sustainable management plan for the cays with the role and responsibilities of all relevant agencies clearly defined. A promise made, a promise kept, signed, sealed and delivered. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it is critical that we maintain support to our 220,000 farmers in order to sustain the growth momentum. It is therefore, heartening that even with the overall reduction in the Ministry's Budget, this Government has been able to increase allocation to the Rural Agricultural Development Authority from $936 Million in 2013/2014, to just over $1 Billion in the current year. This, Mr. Speaker, is a significant statement of our commitment to the farmers of this country. (Applause)

Mr. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: We are re-inventing the concept of extension by infusing a greater level of technology in the provision of extension services. Last year, for instance, I reported on the provision of Tablets to all our extension officers. We have advanced further with the use of technology in 2013. I know you have an interest in the Tablets but not this one. (Laughter)

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Samuda)

A MEMBER: The blue one. (Laughter)

Mr. CLARKE: We have created...

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. CLARKE: Our age. We have created, in partnership with the Mona School of Business and Management, two apps: the CLIP App and the Harvest API App. The Harvest API App will enhance the information exchange among players in the agriculture value chain. With respect to farm-gate prices and volumes, this will increase transparency, empower our farmers, and provide the kind of information that will improve the management of the marketing of goods.

In relation to the CLIP app, this will enable the police to have instant and mobile access to RADA's Farmer Registration database via cellular phones. This will make a difference in our capacity to combat praedial larceny. (Applause)

We have developed, Mr. Speaker, the framework for open participatory technology development. That is, our databases are now open to allow for the development of other information technology solutions to solve concrete problems in the sector.

Mr. Speaker, last year, we updated this Honourable House on the progress in relation to the rationalization of the regulatory function of the Coffee, Cocoa and Coconut Boards, as well as the Export Division. I am happy to report this year that we have made significant progress with this initiative. The consultation has devised a new structure for the amalgamated Body which is to be nomenclatured, the Agriculture Commodities Regulatory Agency. Drafting instructions have already been prepared, and as we speak, are en route to Cabinet, and we will endeavor to bring the new Bill to Parliament this year; that is the amalgamation of all those Statutory Bodies.

In relation to the restructuring of the Sugar Industry Authority and the Sugar Industry Research Institute, I am to announce that the Cabinet has signed off on the recommendations of PricewaterhouseCoopers, and we are now implementing the recommendations. The SIA will have a new structure; post of Executive Chairman abolished, and a post for non-executive Chairman and a Chief Executive Officer is established. Significantly, the extension arm of SIRI is to be transferred to the All Island Jamaica Cane Farmers Association leaving SIRI to focus exclusively on research. Another promise kept.

Mr. Speaker, given our paucity of resources and our small size, I indicated last year that our agricultural research is only going to be effective through strategic alliances with academia and the private sector, to undertake collaborative research. I, therefore, charge the Ministry last year to immediately accelerate the formation of such partnerships. Mr. Speaker, I draw your attention to the Ministry Paper entitled: Strengthening Agriculture through Education and Research that outlines fairly comprehensively, the number of such partnerships established.

In the interest of time, I will only highlight our current partnership with the UWI, University of the West Indies, and CLAYUCA of Colombia to conduct research on cassava production and processing. As part of this arrangement, the Government of Colombia has donated a cassava processing plant to Jamaica which is being constructed right now at Elim Agricultural School, which will be managed by the University of the West Indies. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: This plant will produce cassava and sweet potato flour for sale to the baking industry which has committed to purchase these products to mix with wheat flour in the formulation of a range of baking goods.

(Applause/Sotto voce comment)

Mr. CLARKE: And you will tell me that there was somebody who thought about cassava before me.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CLARKE: The Caribs and the Arawaks.

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. CLARKE: Yes.

Mr. Speaker, how can I fail to mention our cooperation with Diageo to use locally grown cassava in their beer formulation thus replacing imported barley? Mr. Speaker, as we speak the first twenty-six acres of cassava have been planted and we are working with Diageo to establish best practices to obtain maximum yields before the project is rolled out to our farmers. As we increase our collaboration with academia, we must also recognize the fact that the various curricula in our agricultural tertiary institutions are not aligned with the needs of the sector. In that regard, I am working closely with my colleague Minister of Education to totally revamp the content and offering of these institutions and to position them to make a significant contribution to our food security objectives given their land resources. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

PRAEDIAL LARCENY

Mr. CLARKE: Praedial Larceny. Mr. Speaker, praedial larceny continues to be a vexing issue. Given the interest of a wide range of stakeholders in this issue, we convened a Stakeholders' Strategy Workshop to look holistically at this issue. The attendance at the workshop was overwhelming and the participation was excellent. On the basis of those consultations, we emerged with a four-pronged approach to the treatment of this matter. We have identified and agreed on a comprehensive slew of amendments to the Agricultural Produce Act and the Praedial Larceny (Prevention) Act to directly place penalties for praedial larceny under this principal legislation, to simplify the procedures for licensing all actors along the food chain as well as to impose stiffer fines. The necessary drafting instructions are being finalized to be presented to Cabinet for approval of the issuing of drafting instructions. In terms of institutional support, I am happy to report that for the first time, at last, the Ministry now has a dedicated allocation in its budget to set up a praedial larceny unit.

Mr. BUCHANAN: For the first time at last.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CLARKE: The necessary job descriptions have been formulated and dispatched to the Cabinet Office, so that these posts can be established and filled with dispatch. Additionally, Mr. Speaker, the Commissioner of Police has advised that he's also putting in place a dedicated unit within the force to provide the concentrated focus required to deal with this matter.

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: A key responsibility of the Praedial Larceny Coordinator in this Ministry will be to work closely with the proposed operational unit in the Jamaica Constabulary Force as well as our Veterinary Services Division, the Ministry of Health and the Trade Board to coordinate and accelerate compliance efforts with special emphasis on end users.

I know that the Member from North West St. Elizabeth is very, very concerned to the extent that he brought a motion here and, Mr. Speaker, whatever has come out of that or those deliberations, the Government is prepared to work with that. Suffice it to say though that the Member had it under his purview for four years.

Government MEMBERS: Whole heap of time.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CLARKE: That was your main responsibility. I will rely upon you...

Mr. DALLEY: The only thing he had.

Mr. CLARKE: ...for the expertise you gained when you were in office, (Laughter) but what is interesting is that when you are in Opposition it concentrates the mind wondrously...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Hutchinson)

Mr. CLARKE: ...and I want you to be there to give me continuing advice for many, many years to come.

(Applause/Laughter)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Until we come, until we come.

Mr. CLARKE: You are the conceptualizer and you are the adviser. I am the implementer.

(Applause/Laughter)

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, the most potent weapon against praedial larceny is a foolproof traceability system, which has the additional benefit of facilitating and enhancing agriculture, trade and food safety. It is in this regard that I am pleased to announce the rolling out of an exciting and game-changing programme relating to the tagging of our entire cattle population.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: Under this programme, every single head of cattle will be tagged...

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: ...and virtually issued with a passport.

Government MEMBERS: Hutchie, Hutchie.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Initially where did that come from? Where did that come - initiate from?

Mrs. NEITA-HEADELY: Chill, chill.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CLARKE: The passport will contain critical information about the animal and will be mandatory for movement of the animal. Concomitant with this is the development of a DNA database...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. CLARKE: ...of all tagged animals.

Mr. DALLEY: Action.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Progress, progress.

Mr. DALLEY: Implementer, implementer.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CLARKE: Tag to put in your ears with a passport. (Laughter)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Send it guh show Hutchie.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: You need to go further than that. You need to go further than that.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CLARKE: Yes.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And I will advise you.

Mr. CLARKE: Please. Please.

(Applause/Laughter)

A Government MEMBER: You will implement.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You will implement. Hutchie advise, you implement.

Mr. CLARKE: Give me some more, give me some more.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I will.

Mr. CLARKE: I will implement. (Laughter) I will implement.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Hutchinson)

(Cross talk)

I will prove at a particular point in time that the pilot programme to deal with the tagging of animals preceded you and I will show you. So don't worry. Don't tell me that everything started with you. As a matter of fact…

Mr. HUTCHINSON: At an advanced stage?

Mr. CLARKE: Advanced stage. It started with me and I tell you.

Mr. DALLEY: Roger, send the tag guh show him.

Mr. CLARKE: We are in the process, Mr. Speaker, of procuring the tags and these will arrive in time to facilitate the commencement of the tagging in the second quarter of this year.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, I further draw your attention to the Ministry Paper on the agro-parks that details our initiative to partner with a private entity to establish a first class multi-specie abattoir in western Jamaica.

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: That abattoir is currently under construction and the Ministry proposes to fund specific elements of this initiative. We are currently processing, consistent with the public private partnership procurement requirements established by the Government. Mr. Speaker, notwithstanding all the above initiatives to combat praedial larceny, we cannot emphasize enough that in the final analysis, farmers have to watch out for each other. We have to be our brother's keeper...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Absolutely.

Mr. CLARKE: ...as some of the activities of these praedial thieves could not have gone unnoticed given the scale and magnitude of the operation. (Applause) Given the economic impact of praedial larceny, we feel that it is important that we have a better understanding of the nature and scope of this phenomenon and how it impacts rural livelihoods. Against this background, the Economic Commission of Latin America and the Caribbean has agreed to fund a study on the socio-economic impact of praedial larceny in Jamaica. This work has already begun, and will be concluded in June. (Applause)

I now shift my attention to the strategic direction towards which the Ministry will be moving in this financial year. We are determined that the growth momentum will be maintained and even accelerated.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: I spoke earlier about the tremendous success we have achieved in our ginger and Irish potato programmes. The truth is we could not have achieved those levels of production without the active intervention in providing planting material and other inputs, as well as providing an enabling environment through our extension and marketing support. The fact is, Mr. Speaker, as proud as we are of these interventions, we cannot sustain them on account of our fiscal challenges. The policy environment we have created in giving pre-eminence to local production over imports, the strong extension support that we offer, and the market guarantees that we provide in respect to ginger should provide the necessary stimulus to the private sector to come on board to provide willing farmers with the working capital support they so desperately desire.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: For instance, in our ginger programme, from the surplus that the Export Division makes on processing and trading ginger, we provided some $150M in the last two years in pre-financing farmers through the provision of clean planting material and other inputs. Apart from working capital, the Ministry invested substantially in building out the infrastructure to provide the infrastructure (sic) [industry] with clean planting material. Our capacity to provide this material is way below the demand for such, and this has been the major limiting factor to an even more rapid expansion in ginger production. On the processing side, the scale of production this year has seriously challenged the export division to wash and dry the volume ginger produced. We therefore had to out-source a portion of the washing.

Mr. Speaker, we are speaking about a commodity that is of the best quality in the world that can be marketed effortlessly at premium prices. We have willing farmers. Why does the Government have to be so involved? Mr. Speaker, if we are going to realize the full potential of the ginger industry, including value-added and utilize this to create wealth for our farmers and our people, it is time for the private sector to get on board.

Mr. KELLIER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CLARKE: We have to accept the reality. Our farmers will never be able to access financing from our traditional financial institutions with the kind of ease that is required for efficient production. I am therefore indicating to this Parliament that the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, working with JAMPRO, is in the middle of discussions with a major private investor out of Switzerland that is extremely fascinated by the model of small farmers working in contractual relationships with a guaranteed market. It is our expectation that we will soon wrap up an agreement with the investor to provide venture capital support to this industry.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, with an export market potential of some 21,000 tonnes of ginger, valuing US$105 Million, there is room for many, many more such investors.

The situation with Irish potatoes is analogous. It is the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries that created the environment for local production to flourish and we have championed the campaign to get our consumers to choose locally [grown] Irish potatoes.

I want to publicly congratulate and thank the erstwhile importers who have now been fully converted into growers, buyers and distributors of local Irish. But, Mr. Speaker, even though the model has proven to be workable over the last four to five years, we still have challenges with financing the farmers, necessitating the Ministry's intervention in providing import support. This model is viable and sustainable without the Ministry's intervention and we need further participation of the private sector. Mr. Speaker, this is a call to action. (Applause)

The same could be said of a range of strategically selected crops: onions, sweet yams, sweet potato, yam, hot pepper, honey and small ruminants, to name a few. The agro-park model that we are perfecting provides the critical framework to link market opportunities with production, reduce the risk of failure through proper infrastructure to ensure consistent production and to champion best practices through concentrated technical support. This mechanism will not only ensure higher levels of productivity but ought to cause a re-evaluation of the risk associated with financing participating farmers. Therefore, the private sector can be reasonably comforted in coming on board.

I use this opportunity, Mr. Speaker, to quote Mr. Richard Byles, Co-Chairman of the Economic Programme Oversight Committee, who only last week asserted that:

> "...both the private sector and the Government need to work together in a conscious, organized, collaborative effort to try to get some significant growth this year".

He further asserted:

> ". . . that whilst the market conditions are better for growth, it needs much more than just the magical hand of the market to drive growth. "

Mr. Speaker, given our collaboration with Diageo, Mr. Byles knows what he is talking about and he is currently walking the walk. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we have done well with our Import Substitution Programme in many areas such as Irish potato, onion, pork, poultry, et cetera.

Mr. SHAW: The passport going to have a photograph on it?

Dr. PHILLIPS: And Visa.

Mr. CLARKE: However, Mr. Speaker, we are nearing - I want the Members to listen to this - we are nearing the point where any further quantum increase in the production of certain commodities can only be channelled into export in order to obviate a crisis. Separate and apart from avoiding gluts and crises, export-oriented agriculture is something to be pursued with as much vigour as import substitution.

Mr. Speaker, a number of our commodities have serious potential for export - dasheen, yam, sweet potato, pepper, pumpkin, Irish potato, herbs and spices, ginger, poultry products, Vienna sausages, et cetera.

Dr. WHEATLEY: What about the weed?

Mr. CLARKE: Whoever is proposing to send the weed to Colorado had better be prepared to go in the plane with it to Colorado. I don't want anybody to set up my poor people and tell them, yes, send ganja to Colorado. I want him to be in the plane with the weed that is going to Colorado. I want him to help load the weed in the plane to go to Colorado, and if you believe they are not going to lock up red man gwane to Colorado in the plane. (Applause/Laughter)

Mr. SHAW: Cut it up fine, fine!

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hutchie, don't go.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I am going to send you.

Mr. CLARKE: Mr. Speaker, we must not forget that even our traditional export such as coffee, cocoa, even bananas, still have potential for expansion.

Export of non-traditional produce and products has proceeded for years without any defined supporting structure from the State. We commend our exporters who have built an infrastructure to purchase produce from farmers at farm gate, consolidate, and ship principally to a diaspora market. However, in many instances, this effort has been like shooting in the dark. Usually, the importer on the other side is similarly a consolidator who buys products from all over and sells to a distributor. The dynamics of the diaspora market has now shifted, as most of our products are no longer positioned in ethnic markets, but also in the mainstream, because when tourists come here and taste our food when they go back they want it up there, too.

Our exporters faced considerable risk of non-payments and have no control most times over the fate of their shipment once it arrives at its destination. The end result is that we have been operating sub-optimally to our export potential.

Mr. Speaker, in addition to providing the facilitation of our Health Certification System and our Pre-Clearance Facility, the State must now create an export platform to facilitate substantial and sustained expansion in exports.

An export platform is a framework that facilitates exchange between suppliers and buyers and is underpinned by the three critical components of training and exposure to international business practices, training in marketing and negotiation skills and product validation through participation in trade fairs and missions.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries in collaborating with the Inter-American Institute for Cooperation on Agriculture under the Agricultural Competitiveness Programme to create this platform that other countries have successfully used to promote and expand their exports. Within weeks we will roll out this programme with IICA personnel visiting Jamaica to identify and train farmers, existing and potential exporters, and thereafter, taking them into the marketplace to liaise directly with buyers and distributors. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, given the huge potential to expand current non-traditional exports, it might even be beneficial for the State or the Jamaica Exporters' Association to put personnel in our main markets to coordinate all the logistics, ensure payment and trace the goods from port to distributors. The arrangement is similar to what existed in the Banana Export Company in our heyday of banana export.

Mr. Speaker, given the potential for increasing the exports of yam and sweet potato to North America and the United Kingdom, based on concrete interest in these products, even whilst we are setting up the export platform, we are immediately linking buyers and distributors in the export markets with exporters and farmers in Jamaica. In fact,

Mr. Speaker, we are following strong interests from the Fresh Produce Consortium of the UK, whose representatives were here in Jamaica two weeks ago to explore the possibilities of acquiring supplies of sweet potato. When they told us the volume of sweet potato that they want, a minimum of 200 acres has to be put in now. Strange enough they said to me, Minister, we want the orange colour sweet potato. (Laugher)

Mr. CHARLES: Dem have a long wait.

Mr. CLARKE: The Fresh Produce Consortium is an association of fresh produce importers based in Britain with a current membership of over 700 businesses including retailers, distributors, importers, wholesalers, processors, packers and food service companies.

Mr. Speaker, when we went on our 50th Anniversary to London when they said we were - gallivanting is the word?

Mr. SHAW: Shell down.

Mr. CLARKE: He was shelling down and you gallivanting. We visited these people and it has borne fruit.

Mr. SHAW: Palav.

Mr. CLARKE: Palav. They have come and already we have identified some larger farmers in our agro-parks who are now negotiating contracts with those buyers to supply sweet potato.

Mr. McKENZIE: Orange sweet potato.

Mr. CLARKE: We have gone further... Yes, when you cut it, it has a mild orange colour. You could call it slightly green to, you know, it has a greenish - greenish orange, but when it is really ripe it is real orange.

We have gone further to secure planting material for that variety required by the consortium. Our pledge is to work with these farmers to ensure that they conform to good agricultural practices so critical for exports to the UK.

Mr. Speaker our tourism industry is, in fact, an export industry. We have been speaking ad nauseam about moving more Jamaican products into the hotel trade.

Mr. Speaker, for the first time at last we now have a mechanism in the form of the Tourism Linkage Programme to accurately define the needs of the hotel sector and align these needs with our production. (Applause) I want to commend my colleague Minister of Tourism and Entertainment for his tremendous insight, vision and leadership in this regard. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: We have set up this Linkage Programme and the Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce, the Ministry of Tourism and the Ministry of Agriculture, joined-up Government working together. (Applause) We are prepared and we are talking with each other. We are going to make things happen.

Our agro-parks, Mr. Speaker, are sufficiently equipped with lands, farmers and the necessary infrastructure such as packing houses to make this happen. Government has provided facilitation. Private investors must now step up to the plate.

Mr. Speaker, it is impossible to complete this presentation without addressing the matter of climate change. The latest projections from the Inter-Governmental Panel on Climate Change is absolutely frightening but, unfortunately, credible. Impending rising temperatures portend disasters for the agricultural sector if we do nothing. If we doubt it, recall that in recent years we have been having annual droughts of nearly half year duration, not to mention the frequency and intensity of hurricanes in the last decade or so.

CLIMATE CHANGE

Mr. Speaker, this Government simply does not have the luxury of doing nothing. The agricultural sector has lost directly nearly $30 Billion to hurricanes in the last 25 years. In fact, major development agencies are now discounting their growth projection for the Caribbean to account for the impact of climate change.

Mr. Speaker, within this context the Honourable Prime Minister should be congratulated for her vision in singling out climate change as a subject within her portfolio arrangements. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Government in response to climate change has spent over $5 Billion to install new irrigation systems in the last 10 years, to ensure sustainable agriculture through the reduction of our dependence on rainfall. Two of these schemes were commissioned only last year, New Forest and Yallahs, around which we have created two agro-parks. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, under the Government of Jamaica Adaptation Fund Programme, the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries is implementing a number of activities in our effort to mitigate and adapt to climate change.

These activities include the setting up of Rainwater Harvesting Systems, the training in climate smart agriculture, proper water and land management and promoting more efficient use of water through drip irrigation systems. Our allocation for this project is $64 Million in this financial year. (Applause)

Under the Cane Expansion Fund we have to date provided grants totalling $40 Million to 15 farmers for the installation of drip irrigation systems. We continue even with our limited budget to provide resources to the National Irrigation Commission for the lining of earthen canals in a bid to lessen water loss.

Mr. Speaker, the great challenge is to mainstream climate change adaptation and mitigation in all our farming practices. We commit to work with the Planning Institute of Jamaica and the Ministry of Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change; Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade, to mobilize more resources for climate change adaptation in the sector. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I have presented the scorecard for this Ministry indicating areas of success. I have presented the areas of shortcomings. I have outlined a path for the future indicating the strategies to be employed. There is no gainsaying that there are challenges ahead but Mr. Speaker, ours is the task to overcome those challenges.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: The private sector is now called upon to come to the table and capitalize on the opportunities that abound. There is land. The Government has put in infrastructure. We are establishing an export platform in Miami to penetrate not only the Diaspora, but also mainstream America. We have established a relationship with one of the largest distributors of fresh produce in Jamaica. And excitingly, Mr. Speaker, a new entity is being established in Jamaica to both store and distribute fresh produce here in Jamaica and throughout the Caribbean. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CLARKE: And this is at Lydford.

What is going to be coming out of that, Mr. Speaker, just as how you can call in to Domino Pizza, and say supply me pizza, the housewife can call and say, I need a basket that has some pumpkin, sweet potato…. The basket delivered at your house... by the distributor...

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. CLARKE: Probably a drone, if you want.

Mr. Speaker, exciting times are ahead for the agricultural sector. (Applause) There are opportunities for further processing, tapping into all the innovations that we see of our 4-H Clubites, our HEART institutions, the JAS branches and individuals who have established links with the Scientific Research Council. The time, Mr. Speaker, is now to move from samples into real mass productions of these things. (Applause) The markets are there. We should be able to do it.

I know, Mr. Speaker, when some people hear about the growth they might want to feel bad. Some might even want to go down in sackcloth and ashes and beg the Lord to send some hurricane, but I am praying that we don't have any. And the fervent prayer of the righteous man availeth much. So, I believe we gwine have good weather because, Mr. Speaker, you see this…

(Mr. Clarke lifted a basket of ground provisions in his hand)

Man! …agro-park production... agro-park... And when you go outside you will believe it is a farmer's market out there.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Hutchinson)

Mr. CLARKE: And to… again you discovered farmers market. The two buildings up at Hope, you constructed them between '07 and when you left - the two big buildings dem up deh. Mr. Speaker, every Member of this House will have a little food to take home, thanks to the farmers of this country. (Applause) With good weather and with God's help, I believe the agricultural sector will grow.

May God continue to bless the farmers of this land. May God bless Jamaica, land we love.

(Standing ovation by Government Members) (Applause)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the Member from North West St. James will do his presentation at this time, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Dr. Chang. Dr. Chang, you may proceed. (Applause)

Dr. CHANG: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. You know, before I begin, recently I had a discussion with a young politician and he said to me, 'You know, Roger has a particular style with people, you know, General Secretary, one has to be careful'.

Coming after Roger Clarke of course, in one sense is a privilege... (Laughter) …and on the other hand one is not seeking anyway to compete either in style or volume or fortunately, we are not doing the same subject. (Laughter) Good presentation, Roger.

Mr. FAGAN: Then just move you...

(Inaudible comments/Laughter)

Dr. CHANG: You have any Diplomatic Passport for the special types?

Mr. Speaker it is appropriate that as I speak in this section of the Budget Debate, the fiscal section, I express my appreciation to the Leader of the Opposition, the confidence he has shown in me and to my colleagues, the privilege of participating in this section.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Dr. CHANG: And may I also acknowledge the Member of Parliament from Eastern Westmoreland where I have some roots. (Laughter) He is trying to follow in a very big shoes and sometimes he - and sometimes he is not, but I'm not… (Laughter) And to my colleagues for the support they have given me over the years in here.

It is of some note, Mr. Speaker, for me that this is my 21st year in Parliament. Not unbroken I regret, but it was always by election and not by appointment.

To my constituents who have shown faith - kept the faith with me throughout good times and bad times. In fact, my third term in North West St. James is of significance. This is a seat that many would have thought was recognized once as the legacy seat for the People's National Party from the late AGS Coombs and my friend and outstanding parliamentarian, Sir Howard Cooke.

But, to my support team, the Election Day workers, management team, supervisors, contributors and the many faithful supporters have combined almost to form an invincible political team in this constituency on behalf of the Jamaica Labour Party, which was a party founded from the struggles of the working people of this country; to my family who have made the sacrifices and have allowed me to remain active in political life. Mr. Speaker, it is fair to say - and this applies to pretty much all of us, if we do not have supportive families, political life would become quite untenable, a fact that we often overlook. I thank my wife and my two kids for their support throughout these years.

Mr. Speaker, a presentation in this section allows some flexibility in delivery in the fiscal side; however, I will focus on the areas for which I have some primary responsibility, namely, housing, water, infrastructure, transport, in all its facets and forms.

I focus on them because these are subject areas that if managed with appropriate policies and programmes have the capacity to establish a platform for sustainable growth, increased wealth and an improved quality of life for all our people.

The challenge, Mr. Speaker, is to find the right mix of policies, the legislative framework and the programmes that will achieve growth in a timely manner without impairing our fiscal balance.

The need to maintain macroeconomic stability and a satisfactory fiscal balance is agreed by all but, Mr. Speaker, on the details of the People's National Party's Economic Programme we do differ and the Member for North East Manchester has already detailed the critical areas of concern for Jamaicans.

Mr. Speaker, classical monetary policies with a focus on precipitous devaluation cannot achieve the objectives of development and prosperity for our people. We have been there before and we have seen it elsewhere, it will not and cannot work. What is more likely is continued contraction and stagflation, a growth due to devaluation/inflation is not sustainable economic policy.

If The People's National Party Government continues on this trajectory there could be significant social upheaval and rejection. We must find policies to grow the real economy now. It cannot be inflation/devaluation-driven growth. It may help to balance the accounts but it is creating even further imbalance in the lives of our people. The Government speaks of balancing people's lives, but what is happening is only an attempt to balance the books.

Indeed, Mr. Speaker, at this time while we can commend our people for their tolerance in what is a most difficult economic time for all Jamaicans, we in this House must be careful how we interpret this tolerance. If the Government continues in this programme, there could be at some point in time a rebound demand for services and expectations.

Mr. Speaker, I put it to this Honourable House that the current so-called tolerance is really an understanding - is really a sense of apathy and hopelessness. And we are committed on this side, to indicating new ways and effective ways to break the cycle. Indeed, what I sense among our people is an ever declining level of expectations by the larger number of the population.

I have listened to our Minister of Finance, and I did not see any hope, vision or plan to bring about sustained growth and development. What we heard was more of the same, some piecemeal measures aimed at the poor without being transformative and without the capacity to change their circumstances. The vision that our Minister speaks of in his presentation would appear to be a nightmare for many Jamaicans.

The way we have been operating in the last 25 years has not worked, and only a quantum shift in government's operation and governance can change Jamaica at this time.

This Government has proven that they lack the mettle to bring about the change. They are proving to be good bookkeepers for a change, but extremely bad managers. We need good managers and financial controllers who understand the debt-management process, growth and change management, not just good bookkeeping. We on this side intend to lead the charge for transformed changes and solutions. The country needs and demands it.

Mr. Speaker, for the last 25 years we have failed to satisfy the need for change and growth and development in the area of infrastructure. It is important to note that for the last 25 years, the party on that side has served for 21, as government, hence the significant burden of failure rests at the feet of this Government.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Horace, you are not convinced of what you are saying!

Dr. CHANG: It is important to note that in 25 years - the last 25 years, 25 years of government, your party has sat in the seat of government for 21.

Dr. DAVIES: It's a mistake why it is not 25.

Dr. CHANG: And indeed, I will repeat, the significant burden of failure rests at the feet of the party that formed the Government.

In the 21 years of your tenure, Mr. Speaker, mismanagement, lack of direction and leadership, but more importantly, you' have shattered the hopes and dreams and aspirations of our people. These have been crushed by the failures of the day, and the growing apathy and hopelessness continue to stalk the land.

HOUSING SECTOR

I will take first, Mr. Speaker, a look at the housing sector. Mr. Speaker, housing starts in a modern economy, is one of the key indices of economic activity, and in our own society it is a good indicator of how we are impacting on the quality of life of our workers.

For some time now we have spoken of the need for at least 10,000 housing solutions per annum. In 2011 a major effort by the Housing Agency of Jamaica, and in collaboration with the private sector, we achieved housing starts of some 6,405, and laid out a trajectory to achieve the 10,000 solutions by 2013. However, statistics now show that starts are a measly 2,896 in 2013. The Housing Agency of Jamaica has imploded; the National Housing Trust is in turmoil, drained of resources to cover the debts that we have invoked over many years.

Mr. Speaker, housing demand is significant. The quality of housing stock, especially in the inner-city communities and informal settlements is deplorable. And you, as a Member of Central St. James, is fully aware of the quality of housing stock in many of the communities that you seek to represent. It needs serious and urgent attention.

Historically of course, Mr. Speaker, housing construction by government as formulated, has been a victim of controversy for various reasons. But history, Mr. Speaker, must not become a millstone around our necks; rather, experience should teach us how to do it in better ways.

The challenge we face is to design a housing policy, a regulatory framework and a programme that will stimulate development in this sector without burdening the taxpayers and impairing our fiscal balance. Indeed, we need some transformative programmes and thinking. Not just transformative in terms of systems and physical resources, but also the transformed thinking of policymakers and stakeholders who must change their approach if we are ever to develop a modern housing stock in vibrant communities.

I want to look at a number of areas, Mr. Speaker, that offer development along these lines. First, Minister, I think we need to promulgate a comprehensive housing policy. Much work was done in this area, and several of the professionals who worked on this particular programme happened to be from that side. The University of the West Indies and the University of Technology Building Department combined to start the work. I urge the Minister to look at what we have; it is now stuck at the Ministry of Finance. Complete what can be done and bring it to this House. I think this country now needs a comprehensive housing policy, a policy that must ensure there is a framework for sustainable development in the sector that will satisfy existing demand and reverse urban decay.

Some of the programmes I would like to put on the Table, Mr. Speaker - a critical programme that can begin the process of increasing the stock and availability, is a Private/Public Partnership Programme. Such a policy was studied, documented and approved by the Cabinet of the last Jamaica Labour Party Administration, which merrily concluded what was started by the previous Administration.

The Private/Public Partnership offers the opportunity to bring major investment in the housing sector, combining public land with private capital, taking pressure off the taxpayers and delivering houses to working people. This, Mr. Speaker, is a solution without the spending of any public dollars.

Having completed the Policy, we initiated at least two projects which currently face serious administrative problems, Green Pond in Central St. James, and the Bernard Lodge programme in St. Catherine. Both areas have a high demand - a high level of unmet demand for housing. These programmes would have brought on stream about 2,000 new units. Work started. In terms of marketing for Bernard Lodge, we still await when anyone can receive any of those units.

I accept, Mr. Speaker, that they are having administrative challenges. They can be resolved and they should be resolved, as this kind of activity is required to grow the sector and provide housing, and by extension, grow the economy. It is clear that the Housing Agency bungled the activity in these two, and the cost is now going to go beyond what was affordable by many of the workers.

Mr. Speaker, let me say very clearly, like any new programme, Private/Public Partnership Programmes need intensive focused monitoring in its early stages in order to ensure that an efficient system evolves which can inspire confidence from the investment community, and promote further development in the medium term. So far we have failed in the implementation. We need to go again and examine how we can proceed.

There are many private sector entities that will invest in housing if these are managed with integrity and transparency. There is no room - I am not saying it happened - but there is no room for petty partisan politics. If we find the will to be objective rather than be partisan we have the people to deliver affordable housing under this programme.

The second item I would like us to look at, Mr. Speaker, and commend to the Ministry - which can be a major growth initiative in the housing sector - is the development of a secondary mortgage market. It is a fact, Mr. Speaker, that some Eleven point Four Billion Dollars ($11.4B) has been extracted from the National Housing Trust, that is not in dispute. But if we are thinking in a holistic manner we should look at ways and means of restoring capital to the housing market.

It's therefore important that we seek to develop the regulatory framework that would foster the development of a strong secondary market, which may very well restore to the housing sector more than Eleven Million Dollars ($11B) in capital, which has been extracted from the Housing Trust.

And I take the opportunity to remind the Honourable House that it was the initiation of such a programme by the Jamaica Mortgage Bank, under my Administration, back in 2009/2010, that resulted in the dramatic and yet welcome fall in mortgage rates from an average of 14.6 per cent to 9.6 per cent. That's a historical fact. A small secondary market was initiated with the credit unions, and immediately after the credit unions announced their fall in mortgage rates, the commercial banks followed. The secondary market has the potential to bring capital and initiate development in the housing sector.

We are fully aware on this side, of what happened in North America with the secondary markets, and led to an international financial crisis. But we can ensure with the regulatory framework we put in place, that this will not happen in our situation, as we can avoid these well- understood and established pitfalls that happened in North America and affected Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac and the AIG.

Mr. Speaker, if mortgages can be converted into financial instruments, even sections of the National Housing Trust portfolio could become valuable instruments and increase the capital in the Housing Trust. At the upper end of their quality mortgages, 7 per cent, and their joint markets, if these can be included in financial instruments it will provide the opportunity for long-term investors, like pension funds, to buy into mortgages and expand the capital available for housing.

The National Housing Trust and other mortgage companies have valuable capital that can be reinvested in housing. Mr. Speaker, this, of course, is very dependent on maintaining a stable, macro-economic framework, including a relatively stable currency.

Our failure to think of creative financial programmes to generate investments would appear to be because of a long-standing infatuation of this Government with high interest rates, devaluation and inflation. Now that they have adopted the bookkeeping techniques of the IMF, we are still at a loss for growth. Time for new thinking and transformative changes. It requires some new people.

The third component of what I think would provide a suite of activities for housing development, Mr. Speaker, is the concept of reverse mortgages. I believe the time is right for such development, the development of legislation and regulations to facilitate a reverse mortgage regime. There are thousands of formally middle-income, successful professionals, especially those who served in the public sector, whose pension benefits have condemned them in the rest of their life to poverty and marginalization. Yet they own valuable property which they acquired before preretirement.

Mr. Speaker, reverse mortgage could restore dignity to some of Jamaica's finest who contributed so much to our country but have so little to live on at this time. This could also lead, Mr. Speaker, to providing a path to reduce urban decay and general reduction in the quality of our housing stock, as a significant number of such real estate are in places like Vineyard Town, Hagley Park and other mid-town regions, which were once homes of successful middle-income Jamaicans. They acquired these properties before their retirement.

Currently, the primary interest in these real estate are overseas-based siblings who have only emotional interest and will leave the house after the owner's passing, to be squatted in and to begin the process of decay. These areas, if acquired by investors after the passing of current owners, are likely to be developed into quality housing, and where redefined, maybe offices. But it would reduce the growing incident of urban decay and could spur rejuvenation in some of our mid-town and inner-city regions.

Mr. Speaker, we need some new thinking for growth and development, and the reverse mortgage programme is one that could bring this kind of activity to bear on the housing sector.

It is urgent that we find ways and means to bring into the entire process private capital which has to be the engine of growth at a time of difficulty as we are currently experiencing. We, on this side, will seek transformation, not bureaucracy or good bookkeeping. We have the vision and the leadership, the energy and the foresight to make those changes.

Finally Mr. Speaker a smaller programme but one that still would contribute significantly to the growth process and to improving our housing stock, but this would require some funding from our capital programme. But given the nature of the proposal and the target group I am thinking of, I think we could find funding within the $99 Billion capital we have, not additional capital.

In this year, Mr. Speaker, I am looking at and urging the Ministry to reactivate the Housing Fund under the Housing Act and capitalizing it in order to bring relief to thousands of humble Jamaicans, and contribute to growth and bring about greater poverty relief than many of the current programmes being used for poverty relief. Food For The Poor houses are good but they cannot be the only answer to the housing stock problem for the poor in this country.

I say, Mr. Speaker, it is apparent from the level of informal development that low income families can build their own homes with minimal resources. We should seek to provide them with a planned legal framework in which to do so, and to allow for the development of working people's homes. The concept I am putting on the table, Mr.

Speaker, is one that I would like to dub Procure and Build. Essentially, we would seek in collaboration, whether with the private sector or through the ministries, housing agencies or the development agencies, to provide the housing lots. Depending on the location, we could identify lots from anywhere of $1.5 Million to $2.5 Million. In terms of inner-city communities where there is already existing basic infrastructure, the lots could be even less expensive. The Greenfield lots...

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) Mr. Warmington...

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. Deputy SPEAKER: You may see the lady - sorry about that Dr. Chang, your colleague contravened the Speaker's order. Continue.

Dr. DAVIES: Warmie trying to cross the floor.

Dr. CHANG: He was attracted by the lady, but we understand.

Mr. Speaker, the concept is fairly simple. Let us seek to provide a building lot. In an urban center, where we are trying to replace urban decay, lots could be much less expensive. In Greenfield areas, you could get to as high a cost as $2.5 Million.

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. CHANG: Infrastructure - that's the cost of the infrastructure. In an urban centre, as I said where you already have road, light and water, you need cleaning up and repair, the lot could come out at a cost of $1 Million to $1.5 Million. In a Greenfield center, we would have to go up as two point five, maybe a bit more. To add to the cost of that, building material of up to $750,000, so you create a mortgage of between $2.2 Million and $3.5 Million. Under the Housing Fund and the Housing Act which allows you up to six-year mortgages, an interest rate of as low as two per cent, you could provide that individual access to a home for a mortgage of less than $5,000 a month. I am sure if the family is provided with preapproved plans and you use the Housing Act to ensure they have titles - because much of the problem Downtown which we allude to so often as garrisonization, is because we did not complete the work on the Housing Act and ensure they had titles.

As you are aware, Minister, we had been working - I am sure you are doing it now - we started work with you when I was there to try and get titles for many of those homes Downtown which were built in the sixties, and some in the seventies. Ensure at the very start, that the titles are available, and ensure that the families build their own homes.

Let us pause here, Mr. Speaker, because shared work is not alien to Jamaican culture. Rural Jamaicans has come together often to work on their farms - share day's work. If you identify 50 housing lots Downtown and identify the 50 families, they will come together and build their own homes at a much lower cost than we now do by contracting. And we can begin the process of alleviating urban decay and the housing shortages. (Applause)

Naturally we would want some supervision, but with people of integrity, so we don't get the usual thing of people thieving the material and going home. And I would like to include, for social intervention at this level, Jamaica Social Investment Fund, SCC, NGOs, that they introduce enterprise activity for these people. Many of these individuals with small capital will begin business that would earn them far more than the $5,000 a month that they are required to pay when they are not minimum wage workers. But bear in mind, at the level or mortgage I am alluding to, we can - in fact, a minimum wage earner can pay the mortgage.

The Housing Act, which by some looking on would say it was abused, and maybe has acquired some nefariousness because of the nature with Downtown constituencies, is a powerful Act which was designed to bring solutions. We must not be afraid to use it, but do so in a manner that is transparent and with integrity.

Engage the social organizations, the churches, the community-based organizations, organizations of faith that would work within these communities to ensure we have a dynamic low income community that is devoid of the kind of features we now have.

Informal settlers, Mr. Speaker, have demonstrated the capacity to build quality housing with limited resources, and since we are from Montego Bay, I am not speaking of those who earn large income from other areas; I am speaking of humble people who, over time, build themselves by hard work and dedication and shared community labour, good quality homes for themselves. The community labour is not alien to our culture, Mr. Speaker, and I suggest we capitalize on it.

With the current Strata Act, which we modified, and it is now being in place and the Minister responsible for it is over there, and I understand he is working assiduously to bring on stream the Town Houses and Common Areas Act, we could even use the same principle in building multi-family units because at this rate of mortgage it could be done but of course as I said it would be limited. And I will mention a figure. I am sure you can find $2 Billion in the $99 Billion by redirection, because this funding has to come from within the existing Budget. And I am asking that that be the redirection...

Dr. PHILLIPS: Within the existing...

Dr. CHANG: Within the existing budget. I emphasized throughout my presentation, we are not going to...

(Sotto voce comments by Dr. Phillips)

Dr. CHANG: I will help you identify it because I think it is an important enough programme to redirect some of the funding; J$2 Billion could bring relief to 1,000, or more families... (Applause) ...and that is the kind of relief that would make a bigger difference than some of the programmes we are now doing.

So, I am quite aware, Mr. Speaker, and to the Minister, that we have to maintain the fiscal balance, and that every programme that was mentioned take notes of that fact. But in the area we are referring to, at the very lowest level of the socio economic grouping, the Government of Jamaica will have to do some prioritization. But I am confident, if it is efficiently implemented, and we can demonstrate with integrity and transparency, such a programme, international assistance would come into play at a later stage. Let us start the process and we would need mutual appreciation and understanding, working together with leadership in the community, we can in fact bring about improvement in these areas. (Applause)

The Housing stock in our inner-city communities in rural Jamaica and in informal settlements is deplorable for too many of our people. We need to approach it more aggressively. Our people have the capacity for hard work when they are satisfied with the rewards. They can be creative, innovative and cooperative, but they must see the reward at the end of the day. Given the legal framework, our culture can solve the problem.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Speaker's time has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time be extended sufficient to allow him to complete the presentation.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that Dr. Chang be allowed to finish his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Dr. Chang.

Dr. CHANG: Thank you and thank my colleagues for the extension.

Government needs, Mr. Speaker, to facilitate the progress and give our people a chance to be great. It is government, over many years, that have been an impediment to some of our people's creativity. The entire process, taxation and security efforts make our people - poor people feel oppressed by government. And I use the term collectively, as the scourge of persistent poverty remains among them. One once said that under certain programmes there was a great transfer of wealth from poor to rich. I won't go into the names.

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. CHANG: But indeed, Mr. Speaker, more critically and it was more your colleague writer, you know, Mr. Thwaites, Mr. Maxwell claimed paternity for that statement - the late John Maxwell - a good writer.

The Housing Act allows the Housing Fund to give six year mortgages, Mr. Speaker, and this in an active housing fund can be used as a vehicle to resolve some of the critical problems affecting our poor people throughout Jamaica. I think it needs to be examined and pursued as part of our housing programme and part of the solution to economic development.

The final thing I will comment on, Mr. Speaker, although not strictly within my portfolio, is the hurdle to simplify our complicated and cumbersome approval process. While the Housing Act gives us some leverage in the housing sector, I think it is appropriate timing for the housing ministry, local government ministry, relevant state agencies like NEPA, to design a simple and transparent, and efficient system for simple development.

There were some discussions put on the table in prior times. I would mention one or two but I think this need some study and discussion to come up with an effective solution now. It is necessary that we facilitate and encourage private sector development at this point in time. The revenues of the Jamaica Government do not allow us to spend money loosely on many areas that are critical.

I remember a suggestion made at some point that we ought to register professional architects and engineers who could then sign off on buildings up to a certain size within the given development area. In other words, if an area is designed for single family homes a professional architect will sign off like a licensed electrician signs off electrical plans, or a lawyer signs off on documents for certain activities, and once they have signed off, they pay their required fees, and, of course, if engineering is required, so too does the professional engineer.

Having signed off, they pay their required fees to the local authorities and start construction. The knowledge that such people have is the same that everybody in the various agencies who spend month and months looking at this thing have, and sometime they have more knowledge. And if professionals signed off on inadequate or wrong plans and start construction, then they could be de-registered publicly, like we de-register a lawyer for unethical behaviour, or a doctor similarly.

What we will have to ensure, of course, is that the local authorities - and I am sure my colleagues will speak to that more on those who have experienced local government - would be provided with a strong professional corps of inspectors who could inspect the construction plan throughout its development. But they should be given the authority that if one proceeded with construction without contacting the local planning authority, they will have the authority to, not only stop the building, but even pull it down if necessary.

Currently, it is a long process in the Court which doesn't make sense. So, we will have to revise the entire law. The carrot is to give them the right to begin the facility to start work quickly. Plans can be approved by professional architects and engineers within the scope identified by the planning authorities. But the local authority needs the authority to intervene if they breach the Regulations, and to intervene effectively which means they might have to pull down the building if it is so necessary.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, under Housing, I want to look at the Housing Agency for a brief moment. The Housing Agency which was re-branded from National Housing Development Corporation, I think played a very vital role in leading the fray in the development of low income housing. This needs to be revitalized. I note that having gone through almost an implosion; the Ministry had taken some steps to do some work on revitalizing the institution.

We need, Mr. Speaker, through the Housing Agency, to continue the programme of upgrading informal settlements, giving financial empowerment to these dwellers, unleashing their entrepreneurial potential and adding wealth to the country and increasing its tax revenue.

It is unfortunate that we have reduced the scope of this programme, as the idea originated with the current portfolio Minister; providing titles without infrastructure is not satisfactory. It merely shifts the blame to the residents seeking help from parish councils, public works, MPs and other individuals who do not have the resources nor the capacity to provide satisfactory infrastructure. And in so doing, you do not realize the full value of the investment of the individual. Unless you put in the road - basic infrastructure doesn't have to be fancy a road and although we put in some fancy ones, but unless there is basic access, water supply and power the value of the property cannot be realized, right. So we can take steps to do that. The current challenge with HAJ, Housing Agency of Jamaica, I say have put back the progress we made in developing the skills required for regularizing informal settlements and building low income solutions. I hope we can recover.

The development of this nature cannot be an exercise in politics or expediency. Technocrats who have been training for years in the particular field should be allowed within the law and the policy and regulations to do their jobs independently. This is the only way we can get dynamic and efficient development in the sector with a government agency. In reforming the Housing Agency, I commend to the Minister we find a way of putting in place the Housing Division of the Ministry of Housing in the HAJ, which would lead to greater efficiencies. One of the problems we have is several little groupings doing the same work, so you have the Ministry Division building some houses, we now have the Housing Agency doing some, we have NHT doing some, we have UDC doing some and I'm not sure who else not doing some. I think Ministry of Agriculture might be doing some as well. This kind of multiplicity of small agencies is inefficient, unnecessarily costly and will not prove effective in the short term or the long term to consolidate your professional skills in one large efficient agency, pay them well and provide the programme required makes much sense than what we're doing now. The Housing Agency could become the leading agency for housing development in the public sector.

Indeed, Mr. Speaker, I make two comments here. At one stage with much less staff the Project Division at the National Housing Trust were doing far more housing starts than the Housing Trust with far less staff than the Project Division of the Housing Trust? In addition to that the Housing Agency reached a stage where private developers were talking to them about managing their projects, because in the latter years they have acquired a level of expertise which was appreciated by those they worked with and they too could supervise private developers who come under the Housing Act. These are ways, Mr. Speaker; we need to reform our approach to Housing. The need for housing is easily identified; the quality of our stock is poor. We need to find a solution within the current fiscal framework to provide adequate housing for poor people and all Jamaicans, not just poor Jamaicans. Young professionals in Jamaica today cannot find houses to buy. Many are staying at home or migrating. The need for housing stock is urgent and bear in mind, Mr. Speaker, that housing construction is one of the few things that generate extensive increase in employment and bring about significant real growth in the economy.

WATER

The other sector I wish to move on to is to take a look at water. I see my colleague has moved on. Water, Mr. Speaker, is one of the basic requirements for sustainable development. The National Water Commission uses the term water is life. It is, indeed, life. But before I proceed, Mr. Speaker, to examine some of the concerns in this sector, I'd like to take the opportunity to extend my sincere condolences to the family of Mr. Tony Lee, a construction worker on the Tulloch Springs/Rio Cobre Water line who died in an accident out there and to extend my sympathy to his six colleagues who were hurt in that particular accident working on this project under the Jamaica Water Sector Supply Improvement Project. It was most unfortunate and I want to thank and commend all the workers who have been trying their very best to maintain and bring water to the people of Jamaica under very difficult circumstances aggravated by the drought and sometimes failing policies of the Government.

We note with concern that the capital allocation for water has been reduced by about near $4 Billion. We understand the need to spend within certain limits, but it is still troubling for more than - one its personal, Mr. Speaker, it took me considerable negotiation with the Planning Institute of Jamaica, the department in the Ministry of Finance and the Inter-American Development Bank who was then one of our prime partners to ensure that water received within the public sector investment programme adequate fiscal space for the development of an efficient water system. Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, among the reasons for the cut, I understand, is that in the last two years despite… having a $10 Billion space the money was not spent and, therefore, it was easy for the Ministry of Finance to, in fact, reduce the fiscal space. In fact, our spokesman alluded to that yesterday when some multilateral projects are in place you budget for them and if money is not you will, in fact, find space being created at the end of the budget year. In this case one could not blame the procurement process and I ask the Minister to take a look at how his department and agency is functioning because in the case of the Jamaica Water Sector Improvement Programme, for example, which is nearly three years behind schedule, when the Government was elected that project was already procured and planned and the money was in place. So there was no need for enormous length of delay. In fact, I heard that Board took all kind of times meeting looking at all kinds of things that was not necessary or needed and, therefore, the project delay was certainly unnecessary and one must understand that that has increased the severity of the impact of water supply in the Corporate Area during the dry season. Had that work been completed we would be the position we are in today.

There will be some challenges you know, Mr. Speaker, so I'm not going to deny that.

That project would not have settled the water problem in the KMTR or the north coast, and I comment on both. In addition to the...

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Dr. CHANG: ...that programme, funding was there for work on some twenty-nine facilities in the Corporate Area. In the progressing of that work, of course, there will be some interruptions. So we understand that that work went out somewhat late too. The construction of an additional treatment plant on the Rio Cobre plant was also part of that and should have started by now. That is nowhere on the horizon from the plans projected by the Government, but the Corporate Area and St. Catherine is nearly half our population. We need to plan appropriate water supply to satisfy the demands. It's a critical part of the development process and an important part of the quality of life for our people.

In the case of the North Coast, tourism must have water to develop. The fallout in the north coast, Mr. Speaker, and you suffer from it on a regular basis in your constituency I'm aware, was not just because of the increased hotel rooms, which contributed and hotels use an enormous amount of water. I don't think many people appreciate large hotels will demand up to two million gallons of water per day, right. In fact, when we were doing the line to Lucea, that's what Iberostar asked to be reserved. They're currently using a million and a half. So it is in expanding the hotel industry one must consider the availability of adequate water supply. You will not get guests in Jamaica if they go to a hotel which has no water. The Minister is right there listening. So work on the North Coast and Negril area, we expected should have started and it has started, but the capacity to do both the North Coast and Corporate Area exists and while the funding was there I hold the Ministry accountable for not having proceeded in a timely manner.

I say it, Mr. Speaker, because the entire project itself when we were faced with the drought in 2009 which was far more severe than now, we were able to, despite of all the challenges laid out in the procurement process, negotiate and start what was the largest, single engineering project for water - and up to that time the largest single project in Jamaica for US $215 Million within a twelve month period. We started negotiations in October 2008 and 2009 pipes were in Bog Walk. If we set out with the commitment and the will, we can achieve efficiency and speed on critical programmes. Cutting the capital budget for water may have been part of what is necessary by the Ministry of Finance to meet its targets but it's an unfortunate and something that should not have been done and even if it was done this year had the [National] Water Commission backed by the Ministry moved efficiently and quickly on their programmes would have had the projects in place that would have brought relieve to thousand of Jamaicans.

Indeed, Mr. Speaker, as we hear talk about cutting the budget by $4 Billion, some other issues are rising. I understand in Port Antonio we are busy building sewer lines the men from there with no sewer plant (Chuckles) and since your speaking on behalf of your colleague, I think you have to ask him where is the plant going because we're going to end building sewer lines throughout Port Antonio and once they make connection there is no sewer plant. I'm aware that the original sight was captured.

Dr. WHEATLEY: ...the sea, the sea.

(Laughter)

Dr. CHANG: But the Ministry has a responsibility to move quickly to identify an appropriate site and to ensure that while the funding is there, the plant is built on time or the poor people of Port Antonio who now have received a better supply and expecting sewer treatment will not have sewer treatment plant although the lines are there. This is the kind of inefficiency and error that we cannot tolerate. And, indeed, Mr. Speaker, I aware some of our multilateral partners who fund us significantly, whether by policy or programmes, are getting very uncomfortable with the quality of implementation of programmes in Jamaica. Too many of our funded programmes take too long, run over budget...

(Cross talk)

Across the board. I have said that and this among them and if you speak to any of the multilateral funding agencies some will say to you Jamaica has had all the programmes we need to achieve sustainable development, but we have not implemented most of them and even those that we have implemented we have not done so in a manner that is efficient and satisfactory.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, I will reach out to my colleagues on that side. We are willing to cooperate and look at any means to improve the process of implementation of projects in Jamaica. I think we can all agree in this House it has been the most singular, most challenging and difficult part of the development process. We have to find a better solution, because we have competent individuals. We have resources on occasions, but we seem to be able to fail to go through the process satisfactorily. We have to find a way.

I note, Mr. Speaker that the damming of the Rio Cobre has come on stream. As one man said to me it's a fifty year-old idea.

Mr. DALLEY: It's what?

Dr. CHANG: That the damming of the Rio Cobre gorge. As I indicated some time it's not something that I thought was worthy of significant pursuit. Among our problem in this country we have people who understand - have the knowledge, but when they are Jamaicans we don't pay attention to them. The best reservoir of knowledge about a Karstic Limestone regions resides in people in Jamaica, among them Basil Fernandez of the Water Resources Authority. In fact, the cost overrun on the North South Highway, which the Chinese rescued us and we are so happy for that on this side we are both happy that happened, but if you look at the original estimates, Minister and I remember it very clearly it was suggested that we could have built that North South Highway from some US$88 Million. It's going to cost about twice that because somebody never read the Water Resources Authority Report that clearly indicated where that factory line was and the risk or cost involved in bypassing or going over it. I have a copy of the Report it was done.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

(Cross talk)

Dr. CHANG: No, it was done from 2005 (Chuckles). Talk to your Minister, right and the work was started and it wasn't read. Mike continued the work because as a responsible Minister he continued a good programme.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Dalley)

Dr. CHANG: But that report was not part of what you received. Someone needed to have looked at it and while we would have pursued it we would have known from day one the cost.

The risk involved in the gorge, it may be worthwhile doing more intensive boring, but karst limestone anywhere in the world is not good for damming, well especially when you are near earthquake zone. Simple shifts, simple earth tremors and all your water going to disappear underground. Fortunately you will get it back down stream, the aquifers downstream will collect the water and we will get to pump it out in wells, which is where most of the water is stored but it's quite an expensive thing to store a couple billion gallons of water to recharge the wells downstream, you can recharge the wells much easier quite frankly, Minister.

I think you should maybe introduce the Chinese Construction Company to those who have developed the hard rock drilling technique in the Blue Mountains. Hard rock drilling technique, while still under patent, is a modification of hydraulic techniques to drill deep down and reach what you might call 'old water'. Much of it is guaranteed to be under the Blue Mountains; it's a heavy rainfall area, it is volcanic rocks. And if you pursue hard rock drilling which again the Water Resource Authority is aware of the process involved, at the time it was not - we could not establish a procure and buy - the kind of contract with them that it would be necessary for them to build, but it would be worth your while have them get the owners of the hard rock drilling technique link with the contractors.

If you put wells behind Pine Groves into Mavis Bank and you are getting 10 to 15 million gallons of water out of two wells, you not only get enough water to continue the development to supply the Corporate Area over a long time, but you could generate significant power by inline turbines with this volume of water which would make a lot of sense, it will be a lot less cheaper and you would not have the ongoing cost of power supply that you will have elsewhere, because when you have dams or treatment plants you still use a lot of power to pump.

You could also do the drilling to the east near the Yallahs Valley and run that water only in the drought season into the existing Yallahs pipeline; either way it is less expensive and, I think, there is a much surer way of getting that water supply, additional water supply out of the Blue Mountains that you need in the Corporate Area. I think it's a better deal and I would urge the Minister to examine this kind of activity, nor should we dismiss the Mahogany Vale Dam which has been studied for years and which has been examined by some of your new found friends in the east, that too has potential and they got all the studies.

Dr. DAVIES: Don't forget where it comes from.

Dr. CHANG: Indeed.

I have not, Mr. Speaker, that's why I gave them copies of the entire studies done on the Mahogany Vale Dam and they have been looking at it, I gather, they are not people who act intemperately and they will take their own time and find their own studies to find the justification for viability and otherwise. But fortunately, let's face reality, the Chinese are good friends at this point because they are the country with the most cash available and they think long term more than other countries as well, and since their centralized economy allows them to make decision centrally they are good partners for long-term investment and we should talk to them.

In the drought season, Mr. Speaker, I would say again we need to move towards a point where we don't have water lock-offs because we have enough water in Jamaica to supply Jamaicans. What we need is the infrastructure and that's why I say we need to put in place the required infrastructure even when we are faced with fiscal challenges. Some are very simple. I give you a simple example. Hopewell in St. Elizabeth, not in Hanover, they were without water for about 10, 12 years; they spent a long time drilling wells in the wrong place, but we put a well in there, simple cost at the insistence of the Minister and we had to take out an order to be able to access the property and now trucking of water is alien to a wide area of that constituency. I don't see the MP here this morning. But the entire Hope Valley area, going almost back to Treasure Beach no longer needs trucking, they are getting reliable water supply and the well itself has the capacity to cover a wider swathe than it is, just has to increase the size of the pipe. This kind of activity is what is necessary. Oftentimes we get carried away with putting in a standpipe here which goes dry in the dry season anyway and extends the pipe and it gives good political mileage. But we need to examine where we need the kind of infrastructure that will guarantee reliable, continuous supply of water.

I see my friend from South St. James looking on. He had a real challenge up in the hills and that has to be dealt with and looked at in a different way. But certainly some areas like St. Elizabeth, South Trelawny have some quality reliable supplies need infrastructure. These are productive areas in the country: place like Quashi River, Agulata Vale, White River, White Hall in New Market, are areas where we had looked at the required plans to put them in place and identify areas of funding. They should not have shifted the funding in those situations.

The Water Commission I appreciate, Mr. Speaker, have to operate within the established fiscal guidelines, but they do have funding to spend and if they spend it timely and efficiently we can get through most of the programmes. The K factor which is part of the bill on every water bill you get will provide some $45 to $55 Billion over a 15-year period. That is approximately US$500 Million. It can make a major impact on the quality of our water supply.

We have had loan funding from the commercial banks. I refer to the Jamaica Water Sector Improvement Programme, which is still ongoing and should have been finished already. That was US$215 Million. The IDB lent us money and we are not using it, even when we are having severe drought throughout the Corporate Area. That funding, as far as I can see in the Budget, has not been touched since two years. I don't think our friends are going to be very happy with us and we should not be happy either. Because when you are in an urban centre and you don't have water is a miserable process, and all the MPs from the - in particular downtown, the Corporate Area can attest to that and funding is there. We ought to find a way to get that programme going and ensure that we get reliable water supply in the Corporate Area.

The CRE funding, Credit Enhancement Fund is a unique fund, can do a lot with sewage. We need to move on with it. It needs, Mr. Speaker, efficient and speedy implementation on these major programme areas.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, in addition to the failure to implement significant capital programmes on time and in an efficient manner, I'd like to comment briefly on the Rapid Response Unit. I want to put it to the Minister that we had examined the feasibility of transferring all these trucks to the local authorities. I still submit it's a better way to truck water when we have to. I think the national body should concentrate on the large programmes, get their projects efficiently implemented and on time that you can have more people getting piped water into their homes. But while we need trucking the local authorities are much better prepared to truck water. They are familiar with the details of the communities. They can react faster and far more efficiently to water shortages than can a central ministry do.

The work was done. We have the Board of Survey looked at the rolling stock; they are ready to be transferred. I do not think we should hold on to them. The name sounds nice but it doesn't work for water. If the parish councils had those trucks they would be better maintained, because their mechanics out there when they want water they are going to get the trucks working and you can get water to the communities. I commend it to the local authority should have that.

(Applause)

The only thing that should be central, Mr. Speaker, is that we could organize, through the Ministry of Water, that the Water Commission will receive the subvention to supply the trucks through the Ministry. Don't worry about how the accounting goes, because all you want to ensure is that when the trucks want water and the parish councils send them to the pipe they get the water. Once they can have that in a reliable manner they will get the water to people much more efficiently than a central water supply system. (Applause)

Dr. DAVIES: How many of the trucks were working under you?

Dr. CHANG: We had 20 working trucks and Rapid Response and 10 new ones we bought. But I was not eager in activating them, I was eager in transferring them to the local authorities, as they were. The tanks are excellent so even when the trucks themselves, which had serious mechanical problems, were not utilizable the tanks are excellent water tanks, and if you put them in a local situation people will transfer them to other truck heads. It is a much more efficient system, Minister, and we need to look at how we can do it better and we need to incorporate our local authorities.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the programme of reducing non-revenue water must be approached with some urgency. This country produces millions of gallons of water but we lose about 65% on average. In some places as much as 70%, which means for the same amount of money you spending now you could get twice what you are doing, the amount of water you have. It will be difficult to reduce it to 5% like the Japanese or even approach in a very short time the kind of accepted international level of 35% to 40%. But if we work assiduously at it we can knock away 25% quickly that would give you an additional 30 million gallons of water per day, even in Mandeville where we have a genuine shortage and need to activate wells down the plains of St. Elizabeth and Mandeville, but just correcting water loss in Mandeville could double the supply in Mandeville at any point in time. In fact, the last investigation we had suggested that we were losing up to 70% of generated water in Mandeville. So approaching Mandeville - and there are other areas in Jamaica with that kind of loss; 70% and it's very costly to pump up the hill, 70% from technical losses, some stealing, some leaking, all of that kind of activity.

We need to implement the programme of non-revenue water reduction aggressively and quickly. There are not many people can do it, so we should find them and, even if by negotiation, proceed to ensure we have a programme in place. We have enough water, what we need is efficient management to ensure reliable supply to Jamaicans. With global warming and climate change water is fast becoming a highly valuable commodity. It's an area where even multinationals wish to invest in. We have enough water for our people. We need to ensure we can manage what we have well and at some point may even get some to sell.

The governors of the Water Commission, Mr. Speaker...

(Sotto voce remarks by Government Member)

Dr. CHANG: ….is my last point. The Water Commission and water is one of Jamaica's larger corporations. They have cash flow of some $25 Billion, $25 Billion. They have 3,000 facilities across the island.

Mr. PHILLIPS: You say $20 Million.

Dr. CHANG: No, I know it's $25 Billion.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Dr. CHANG: I know it's over twenty. The writer puts that in there. But in fact, the projection is $28 Billion. Last year it was $23

Billion. They have a staff of 2,100 across the island and this needs to be managed like a large corporation. It cannot be managed ad hoc. The NWC Act allows for nine commissioners and these should all be individuals with an understanding of corporate governance and corporate business. It may be, Mr. Speaker, to ensure that we get the quality that we require that we could make the Water Commission one of the first corporations where Parliament approves the Chairman, because water is not a party issue. It affects all Jamaicans and we need an efficient quality water company to run the water company in Jamaica. (Applause)

I allude to this because there are two individuals that come to mind who demonstrated outstanding quality service as commissioners. One has a sister in this House, but she happens to be a senior vice president of one of our largest corporations. The other one heads up a large corporation when you were in Government the last time, currently heads up a large corporation. They showed an understanding and a quick grasp of the complexity of running a large corporation. When you put someone right there, (DB) who doesn't understand it in charge then all kinds of things go wrong and nothing can get done quickly. I refer to two individuals I don't think they will mind - I won't call their names, but there are two senior management individuals in this country. We need people like that and maybe to get them we need to bring them here some time for the chairman and there is a pilot way. The Water Commission needs effective governance and the Board must understand the difference between policy and operation and what corporate policy direction is required to make a company of this size functions efficiently. Minister, it's not your responsibility I am sure you can advise your colleague, I think you understand exactly what I am saying. We need new ideas, we need new plans and a vision to ensure that Jamaica has a satisfactory water supply system and the people of Jamaica at all levels can benefit from quality water supply.

We are at this point not in very bad order, you know, Mr. Speaker, but you hear comments about differential rates which will not be necessary if you get the system work efficiently. And individuals should be aware that we have what you call a lifeline limit and many people don't know the geographical difference is not appropriate despite the upper cost for Mandeville.

Currently, Jamaicans pay several rates for water. Three thousand gallons, which is 2,000 gallons above the World Health Organization limit is the lifeline limit. Individuals using 3,000 gallons get a subsidy. The rates increase for every 2,000 gallons until you get to a very high rate of 10,000 gallons per month, that's why your water bill shoots up when you have a leak. So we already have differential rates to allow for a national water system so there is cross-subsidy. And I don't think anything is wrong with that. If we were able to get our supply up to all the population in a reliable way, we can in fact continue to provide water to all Jamaicans at a reasonable rate.

The final area of my concern, Mr. Speaker, is infrastructure and in particular roads, but infrastructure involves roadways, our airports and our seaports, air, sea and land and rail. Indeed, I'm quite happy to use the term by our former Minister, it's multimodal if we are to go forward in a very constructive way. I will comment on that later.

International trade is based on air and sea transport and it has been shown that quality road development gets one of the highest rates of returns in the shortest time possible, that's a fact at a local level. And of course, rail can be an asset depending on what you're doing and where you are putting it.

We therefore need to develop and articulate a comprehensive transport policy at this time. We need to look at our Jamaica and again look at evolving a Physical Development Plan, Minister. If we look back, as far back as 1964 when the first Physical Plan was done, not a 2030 Vision, a Physical Plan, it can provide a roadway for - a pathway for effective management and development of our road infrastructure and settlement strategy. It is time to look at a Physical Development Plan, the last one was done as I said, way back in 1964, it is still a very useful Plan but times have changed, population has grown and we need to look at what is relevant today. Such plans are much longer lasting than regular economic plans and I'm sure that you could get the international help to look at a comprehensive transport plan, physical plan for Jamaica at this point in time, it would be appropriate that in fact your Ministry take a look at that. And something that could last us for 25 years and we can therefore follow a road map in terms of a development strategy, and not just piecemeal, a highway here, a road there and so forth. The first Plan, I remind you, was developed way back in 1964 under the then administration of Sir Alexander Bustamante.

Before I go into that aspect of things, I note, Minister, that we're having serious problem with road transport in all areas. Not only because of bad roads, but right now in the Corporate Area, we have serious conflicts within the commuting public with the JUTC. The challenges facing our commuters includes; students procuring safe, reliable and affordable transportation, disabled and the general public.

Infrastructure and road infrastructure is like the circulatory system of the body....

A MEMBER: I don't understand that.

Dr. CHANG: ....that's what will ensure productivity and a healthy economy. And when you get poor infrastructure and poor roadways, productivity is seriously impaired. Minister, we have to look at how we can resolve it.

The history of our bus system is well known. We are operating between corporate or public owned companies with an ad hoc system of private small operators, including legal and illegal operators.

Dr. DAVIES: That's Pearnel's system.

Dr. CHANG: That is the system we have inherited and not only Pearnel.

The system has failed to satisfy the demand of the population and have over the years impaired our productivity and the dignity of our commuting people.

The current attempt to bring order to the system has some merits, but we should not disrespect the small operators who, at one time was the backbone of the system. Those who have been denied renewal of their licenses, Mr. Speaker, were people who invested in rolling stock with the hope of continuing in the business.

Mr. Speaker, all I say to the Minister, if in fact we are continuing to subsidize, in fact as we see in the budget, major subsidy to JUTC, if removal of the franchise operators is going to make them viable, then why not use the subsidy, buy out the franchise holders because they are business people like everybody else, they are Jamaica business people who invested their money in the faith that they are going to continue and have a business to operate. Buy them out of the subsidy and let JUTC get the money. In the process, work with them through the Transport Authority, find them alternate routes, alternate business. As a Government, we cannot treat small....

Dr. DAVIES: So why....

Dr. CHANG: In other words, you can take them off franchise routes. You can assign them new routes to Spanish Town, to Linstead, elsewhere.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Dr. CHANG: This is a matter for discussion.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Dr. CHANG: Whether you…. What you pay them....

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Dr. CHANG: Common sense, Member. When I say you compensate them instead of buyout them, if they find an adequate route for them, fine. If on the other hand you cannot place them in the system elsewhere, then you pay them off like you did to NTC. You buy them out like you did to NTC when they take you to court. What are you using to subsidize the bus company now? If you are subsidizing them the same money.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Robinson)

Dr. CHANG: Do you need the subsidy still, that's not the implication.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Robinson)

Dr. CHANG: No, no, we are not against reform. We welcome reform but it must take place in an environment of equity and fairness, respecting those who have invested their time and money in the sector.

(Applause by Opposition Members)

Mr. SHAW: That's right.

Dr. CHANG: There are small business people who have been there for years and when we needed them we used them. We must show them some respect and we cannot be arbitrary and arrogant in dealing with them, Mr. Speaker. That's not correct. If we are sincere, we can find a way to do it better.

The road, Mr. Speaker, as I said is like the circulatory system of the body, will determine our productivity, security and prosperity, but like the economy; the road system is in serious need of disrepair.

We have had a Jamaica Development Infrastructure Programme. We did some good work despite of political attempts to diminish the success of the programme. I notice the Government is attempting a similar programme with a new name, but I say, Mr. Speaker, a rose by any name is still a rose.

It must be recognized in the Budget - while it must be recognized in the Budget and I repeat, Mr. Speaker. While the expenditure in any major programme must be recognized in the Budget, it is not necessarily the most efficient way to spend the money directly through the Ministry of Finance on a programme like this.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Dr. CHANG: You are running it through the Ministry of Finance, and it's not necessarily the most efficient way of doing it.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Dr. CHANG: I wish.... Remember, I started off by saying, Mr. Speaker, it must be recognized. And all I am saying it's not necessarily.... And the Member just agreed with me that part of our problem is implementing major projects in this country, we don't do them efficiently and well.

I wish you well on the programme, look forward to working with you. I look forward to some roads in Montego Bay too, but we need to look comprehensive at how we can improve our entire road network.

Mr. Speaker, part of what we could do is to reclassify the road network and determine engineering standards for each grouping. The current road maps of Jamaica showed a,b,c, Parish Council roads. We have all kind of roads; housing estate roads, community roads, school roads, agricultural roads and they are kind of scattered all over the place. I suggest that you lay out a plan, which will include a Highway system revolving around highway 2000, that's part of a Physical Development Plan for years and they are implementing it and the Minister before me continued that. These of course, would have linkages with other roads that should be classified as a, b, and c, or whatever classification you wish and lay out for them minimum standard of maintenance.

We have no such activity today in road programmes. The local authorities, of course, have to get adequate resources to deal with community roads and separate this multiplicity of road authorities. National Works Agency deals with certain highway and certain roads. Local authorities deal with others in terms of maintenance. And in the process, set up an engineering team who will have the requirement responsibility to set the standards and the local authorities must have access to their skills to ensure that we maintain standards. Strong engineering duty is required, our road system need to be identified properly and maintained properly.

I am aware, Mr. Speaker, that we do not have all the money to do what we want to do but if we do it properly and efficiently we can get much more for what little we spend. And that's critical to having an adequate road system. As we evolve and develop, then we can have a much better roadway system.

I'd also like to comment to you Minister, because I had the experience and my colleague, you might have done so when driving on the new Sligoville upgraded road. But most people won't drive on it at nights, it's too dark. Now we can't put streetlights all along it, but there's an evolving - a nice little technology using paint with photo-luminescent pigments, you can use that....Just paint it and it brightens up at night overnight. Use that to mark the roadway and the borders. You are going to do that then. Accepted, Minister, because we need that kind of thing. They dig up the cat eyes, they dig up the cat eyes and take them out and put on trucks. I don't know what they do with them; they dig them up all the time.

LOGISTICS

In the context of our Airport, Mr. Speaker, we are divesting the Montego Bay Airport and that's working well. We are in the process of divesting Norman Manley and that makes sense, but we should not in any way dismiss for the medium term the suggestion by the Member from Central Clarendon about the potential of Vernamfield.

I will reiterate my support for this because if we are to become a part of the international trading circle and in fact develop a Global Logistics Hub; we need an airport that can accept long-haul flights. The current airports do not have the capacity to evolve to that level. Long-haul flights require 12 to 14 thousand feet at least and may be even longer. This cannot be done in Montego Bay and Palisadoes. They will still have value, they will still be functional, but for cargo and long distant flights we need a new airport at some point in time.

Mr. SHAW: Vernamfield.

Dr. CHANG: Vernamfield is the ideal place for that.

In addition, not only because as we say, we are moving towards a Global Logistics Hub, I reiterate our position for that that concept evolved when you were in Government and two of my colleagues spoke extensively on it, the Member from Central Clarendon and the Member to my right from North Central St. Andrew, who I'll refer to again, who spoke extensively on the development of the Kingston Port and the neighbouring Caymanas Economic Zone. Ideas that if followed through can bring significant and major development to the Corporate Area and to Jamaica.

(Inaudible comments)

Dr. CHANG: The centres of wealth that are evolving are in Eastern Europe, the Middle East and the far East. Places like Beijing, Shanghai, Delhi and Dubai, we must be able to accommodate direct connections from these areas and it will require new airport facilities.

I'm aware that Montego Bay is extending to 10,000 feet. And this will bring some significant benefits, but it will not be adequate to move in this direction. And while I am not saying we can find the capital to build it tomorrow, we ought to keep it on the horizon and plan for this kind of activity in this area.

(Applause)

A Logistics Centre with the proposed economic zone must have an airport of this magnitude if we are to be successful in this in the short run.

Mr. Speaker, seaports will be the axis for development. Sea transportation is around what Logistics Hubs evolve. Transshipment is central to logistics development. Jamaica's prime location is not debatable or challengeable, despite of efforts and structural moves for Cuba and Dom. Rep. to participate. Jamaica is 200 kilometers from the main shipping lane. The pirates of the Caribbean proved that many years ago, we are still the best location for shipping in the Caribbean, right. (Applause) Captain Morgan proved it that's why he became Governor.

I am worried about the commitment of the Government to the magnitude of the concept. I said two of our Members spoke to it; my colleague from Clarendon actually had a document developed. And while we sometimes smile a little bit cynically when he said "multimodal", it's an accepted document and the concept initiated that started the full discussion on a Logistics Hub in Jamaica. He should be commended for that effort; it's not his personal thing... (Applause) ....it's the Ministry of Transport and Works.

We now use the term Global Logistics Hub, that's universal and nothing wrong, but his "multimodal Transportation Centre" where the concept evolved, is the same concept. And in fact, is maybe a more direct term because you need air, transport, you need sea transport, and you need adequate highway system on land to link the various economic zones.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Anthony Hylton)

Dr. CHANG: But, if you put a IT Centre in Mandeville, which could be... But I am just saying, if you put a IT Centre and an Education Centre which Mandeville could become and provide education - educated personnel not only for Jamaica, but all over the world, then you need a good highway in linking them.

Infrastructure is a critical part of any such development and has to be planned over the long-term, right. You may need - some have indicated - some of the experts have indicated that Goat Island is a better place to build the berthing facility for super-large ships. If you do it there you may very well need a rail-link from Goat Islands to Kingston Harbour, which is a bigger and safer harbour, and therefore would accommodate the feeder ships that will carry products from the larger ships to the East Coast and South America.

So, the concept needs to be outlined to our people that they understand fully what we are doing. And I emphasize the coastal belt, Mr. Speaker, because while it may be repetitious in one sense, but I think this concept is so significant and could bring so much to this country, it needs repetition.

It also needs to be understood by the investors that Parliament, as a Parliament is satisfied with these developments. We cannot ask anyone to bring it here. While we can claim paternity at different points with different aspects and implementation rights, nobody investing Two Billion Dollars US (US$2B) in Jamaica must have any doubt that anybody in leadership questions that investment. That's the basis for our repetition. (Applause)

So the divestment of Kingston Container Terminal must be pursued and we must ensure that the required infrastructure be put in place in order to optimize the use of this major asset.

But, Minister, Kingston itself has advantage which, even if we cannot bring the super-large ships here, we need to look at the Corporate Area inner-city redevelopment to provide economic activity to rejuvenate the entire downtown area. Kingston is our capital city, historically, and today it is one of the - it is Jamaica's premier city, despite I am Montegonian. We have had significant urban decay downtown. We must put in place a comprehensive plan to redevelop downtown and restore the dignity downtown, and provide jobs for our people. (Applause) A section of downtown is an embarrassment - should be an embarrassment to some of us in this House. We need to find a way to bring back life and economic activity to downtown. Part of it...

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. CHANG: Desmond is a critical part of getting it going downtown, and I don't apologize for that, seriously.

Part of any development of us becoming a central trading centre would be to ensure - and this will not cost any money, Mr. Speaker.

Dr. DAVIES: They say moving Desmond is called urban renewal! I left you in the stumps...

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Dr. CHANG: Mr. Speaker, that's neighbourly banter, we leave that alone.

Mr. DALLEY: He hasn't been down there for weeks!

Dr. CHANG: But, certainly, Mr. Speaker, while we work and I comment that we become more decisive and clearly articulate the comprehensive position on our global logistics hub that everyone in Jamaica can understand - indeed, when I say coastal, you know, Mr. Speaker, I skipped a little bit. But part of it is that if you develop – we are a changing environment, you know, we have big talk about the environment when it comes to specific issues. If Kingston was just being developed today, I am sure some people would object to using what was some of the most fertile plains, the Liguanea Plains, to build houses on. Kingston is the central city, development changes the environment. What we have to do is ensure that the benefits we derive from it supersede any loss that is made to it. Coast-line development is what is going to be critical.

If you go for a significant global logistics centre not only the Corporate Area and Kingston Port and Goat islands will evolve. Other centres could begin to get development, whether for dry-docking, or a place like Mackerell Bay in Clarendon and elsewhere, which are near to Vernamfield, and even in the West. We therefore have to ensure that we just don't get over-excited about what will happen to the coastline.

Built environment is part of human development. What we have to do is use the additional resources we may earn to protect some of the pristine areas that we want to keep as samples of what we were then. You know, you might want to build a tree-house somewhere, you know, but we are not going to live in tree-houses. And, indeed, places like the Blue Mountain, which is not only - the Blue Mountain/John Crow Mountain area, not only a prime environmental area, but is critical to our water supply, need to be protected.

Part of the challenge we face today - the Cockpit Country, as well, in the east and west they are like the lungs of the country. But part of our problem, you know, Mr. Speaker, is that we speak about environmentally-protected areas but we are doing precious nothing to protect them because we don't have the resources, we don't have the manpower or the money.

If we pursue major development programmes that bring about increased wealth in the country, we should then define those areas and put in place effective protective measures for these areas that they know when we say it's an environmentally- protected area, it is an environmental area that is protected and retained in its pristine form. And there are a number of them we can speak to, Mason River in Upper Clarendon and so forth, which we need to protect. We don't have the resources to do it now. And much of the debate we have out there is merely a debate that isn't worth the value of the debate, quite frankly.

But come back to the Corporate Area and its global logistics concept. We need to put in place, Minister, the required legislation, which have been spoken to by a number of my colleagues in this House, both to my right and left. Increase the activity for ship registration - well, maritime service, in general can become a major part of the economic activity of the Corporate Area if we go in this direction. (Applause) Not only ship registration, insurance, bunkering, international financial services. The nature of international financial centres is changing because of the different new regulations to prevent laundering, but there is still room for expanded international financial services. What we need is the legislation and the regulatory framework, and we need those now, not tomorrow.

Legal services - dry-docking would have to be outside. But again, the Corporate Area and St. Catherine have the critical mass of professionals and skills that are needed to begin this process now. We need to move quickly and assiduously to create the kind of development plan that will attract the investment we need to begin to move Jamaica forward. One day soon we hope to sit there, but we don't want to inherit a bankrupt country, you nuh. I am sure none of us on this side would want that.

Let us understand in concluding, Mr. Speaker that - we often refer to Singapore, and I would like to point out that Singapore, when they came in 1964 we were at about the same level in per capita income. They moved decisively and efficiently to develop their economy, right.

Dr. DAVIES: Again, you commended that?

Dr. CHANG: Without an opposition. But that's why I said on this note; we are at one on a similar policy system. But irrespective of the hindrances, their per capita income today runs somewhere near Fifty-five Thousand Dollars US (US$55,000) per head, we are still struggling below five. So I don't expect in our lifetime to reach anywhere near Fifty-five Thousand Dollars ($55,000).

But, Mr. Speaker, you understand if we reach Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) per capita, per head, our debt becomes insignificant and the entire character of a country changes. That's not an over-ambitious achievement or plan. Ten Thousand US (US$10,000) per head is small time. Barbados is at eighteen. We have sat down, dilly-dallied and pursued programmes incompetently and inefficiently, lacking direction, and kept the country in poverty. Poverty is not poverty - to remove poverty, Mr. Speaker, is not poverty relief, it is to generate growth in the economy, maintain a stable economic framework, grow the economy and allow people with skills to earn the kind of money that they need to live a better quality of life. That, Mr. Speaker, is the challenge.

I have not in fact offered any panacea or firing of magic bullet. What I have presented, Mr. Speaker, is a number of ideas that can stimulate growth without impacting on our fiscal accounts. This side is fully aware of the need for stable, macroeconomic parameters. Some of the programmes - I would like to quote from former distinguished Member of the House and say, are impatient of debate. They need no debate, let's move on. Others may need some study, but what we are seeking to bring to the fore are genuine programme and concepts that can drive private sector development in Jamaica's economy, and bring about hope to our people, and provide opportunities for increased wealth.

No single action can solve this. We need to do this - what we need to do is to think out of the box and provide the policy framework to ensure efficiency and facilitation of private capital. Private capital has to be the driving force. And we have to make Government more efficient by providing a better legislative framework and a regulatory framework that accepts that individuals who have money will invest it if the atmosphere is right, they will make a profit, but in the process they will create jobs and create opportunities for others. Absolutely nothing is wrong with that.

The housing sector, Mr. Speaker, already has a private/public partnership policy, use it. But the country needs a broader policy to provide a satisfactory framework for private sector to participate in all public infrastructure programmes.

I want to reiterate that infrastructure lays the foundation for sustainable development. We maintain that Jamaica needs a holistic plan to ensure not only development of the infrastructure, however, but sustainable economic development. And the Opposition Leader will speak more to that in his presentation.

We need to design the right programmes to give the people the opportunity they seek. Our nation has the talent, the commitment to our Jamaica, and the capital. We, as politicians, need to provide the policies and framework to allow the enterprise and creativity of our people to move the country forward. And there is a significant responsibility on the part of the Government, to lead in that way. We on this side will offer the suggestions and ideas, but the Government must begin the process now.

We need leadership that is free of the colonial legacy, post-independence leadership that is knowledgeable of modern technology, understand the nuances of social media and education.

We have such a leader, and a leader that has the confidence to challenge the status quo and orthodoxy of multilateral agencies which in many cases have been the cause of persistent poverty in developing countries like ours.

(Sotto voce comments from Dr. Davies)

Dr. BAUGH: You can't divide us again! Don't try it!

Dr. CHANG: We can be wealthy - we will be wealthy. Our people have talent and the skill. We need leadership and a new direction to unleash the potential of Jamaicans. It is possible.

Mr. Speaker, may God bless us all as we strive to bring prosperity to our people, equal rights and justice to all Jamaicans. That's the mission of this generation.

I thank you.

(Applause)

Opposition MEMBERS: Well done!

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, it is not intended to do any further business this afternoon. I therefore move for the adjournment of the Parliament until tomorrow, the 24th of April, at 2:00 p.m. when the Opposition Leader will address us.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that this Honourable House adjourns until tomorrow, April 24 at 2:00 p.m.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: This Honourable House now stands adjourned.

The Honourable House of Representatives was adjourned at approximately 5:48 p.m. to resume on April 24, 2014, at 2:00 p.m.

THURSDAY, April 24, 2014

PURSUANT to Notice of Adjournment the Honourable House of Representatives resumed its sitting at Gordon House, Kingston at 2:36 p.m.

PRESENT

THE SPEAKER

HON. MICHAEL ANTHONY PEART, (PNP), Manchester, Southern, Speaker of the House.

MR. LLOYD BARNES SMITH, (PNP), St. James, Central, Deputy Speaker

THE HONOURABLES:

HON. PHILLIP FEANNY PAULWELL, (PNP), Eastern Kingston & Port Royal, Minister of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining and Leader of the House
Mining and Leader of the House

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) You may be seated.

This Honourable House now resumes its sitting.

CALL OF THE ROLL
(See Listing)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker...

The SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. Warmington.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I have tried since yesterday to get some answers to questions I asked as it relates to salaries and allowances to Parliamentarians, whereby we received our payslips and what it reflects on here is not what is in the bank; whereby Members of Parliament, for the month of April, some Members of Parliament received part of their full payment of salary and allowances, while some Members of Parliament, even though we Received the payslips, we got none. Nothing was transferred to the bank. So, I have been asking since yesterday what is the situation, why MPs received - Parliamentarians, some received part payment, some none at all, even though we received the full - the paystub showing the full amount. Further, I would like to know if this is the situation that exists right now within the payment to public sector workers, or if it relates only to Parliamentarians?

The SPEAKER: Well, the accounting people made themselves available during the 1:30 period, to explain what had transpired. And all of that will be sorted out by the 25th.

Mr. SHAW: He wants you to explain it.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I wasn't there, so could you explain to me what it was.

The SPEAKER: We will explain to you.

Mr. WARMINGTON: No, but it is something affecting the House, so I am asking; I am asking.

Mr. D. SMITH: When you will explain?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I am probably not able to give him all elements of the answer. I can say definitively that all the resources necessary were transferred from the Accountant General to the Parliament.

(MR. ANDRÉ HYLTON, PNP, St. Elizabeth, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

There is no problem with payment for public sector workers.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: I believe that there may be issues that arise in relation to the transfer from Parliament, which may be an accounting problem. And I understand, as you have explained, that the relevant officer of the Parliamentary staff has been explaining to those Members affected what has happened. But, I want to be definitive, lest there be any misunderstanding going forth from here that all the resources necessary were made available from the Accountant General to the Parliament.

Mr. WARMINGTON: What I was told, Mr. Speaker...

The SPEAKER: Let me just add - hold on, let me just add - because there is a distinction between your basic salary and your allowances. And it appears as if payments are made separately, so your basic salary could come first.

Opposition MEMBERS: No, no, no, no!

Mr. WARMINGTON: What happened Mr. Speaker... what happened before is that they are bound together so that your allowances became pensionable some years ago. And that is why it is calculated in this, that the deductions are made from the entire stuff. Your salary and allowances are pensionable. And what I know each month, that it is always one payment. I checked up to today with my bank and I looked at my statement, and every single month one transfer has been made to my account. So it never normally split. I am hearing about it for the first time. It has never been split. It always comes out in one. But we were told yesterday that an e-mail was sent out to explain to Members... that it came from the accounts department... that an e-mail was sent out, but we... I haven't seen such stuff...

The SPEAKER: No, no, no, there was an e-mail to say...

Mr. WARMINGTON: ...to explain what was happening. But none came out. No Member on this side received any such e-mail.

The SPEAKER: No, the e-mail said that there would be an explanation.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Nobody on this side received an e-mail; that's what I am saying. Nobody on this side received any. And still what is being said, it still hasn't shun any light on the issue why I received a pay stub giving an amount for the month and - as a matter of fact, I am among the Members of Parliament who didn't receive any at all. And there are others on this side who have not received any... (Inaudible)

The SPEAKER: The bottom line, which is the most critical line, that you will get payment in full by the due date, which is the 25th.

A MEMBER: Warmi, it is based on a deserving basis.

Mr. WARMINGTON: You mustn't get any at all.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

(The Speaker gavels)

PRESENTATION OF BILLS WITHOUT LEAVE OF THE HOUSE FIRST OBTAINED

The SPEAKER: At this time, I would just like to welcome our special guests here today from the Diplomatic Corps, from the Opposition Leader's constituency and visiting Parliamentarians and former Parliamentarians, welcome. (Applause)

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we will continue our Debate on the Estimates, and this afternoon the Leader of the Opposition will be the sole presenter.

(Applause)

Mr. HOLNESS: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, on rising, I give God thanks...

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: ...for sparing us as a nation and as a Parliament, that we can all gather once again, to discuss the people's business, and to re-commit ourselves as instruments of His will.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, you will understand if I thank the delegates of the Jamaica Labour Party...

(Applause/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: ...to my Parliamentary colleagues, members of the party, workers, well-wishers, Jamaicans, for their prayers and support, and for their participation in a democratic exercise that re-affirmed my leadership and their faith in that process.

(Applause by all Members)

I stand here to address the nation because of them. Mr. Speaker, I did not win a prize; the people have reposed trust in me, and I well know that I can't do it alone. Audley and I made a fantastic... (Inaudible)

(Mr. Holness shook hands with Mr. Shaw/Applause)

A MEMBER: Weh Tufton?

Dr. PHILLIPS: We are like that.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, I wish to recognize members of the Diplomatic Corps who are here in the Gallery. I would also wish to especially acknowledge some students from Penwood High School who are here in the Gallery as well.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to specifically recognize my councillors: Councillor Delroy Williams, Councillor Christopher Townsend, and Councillor/Caretaker, Glendon Salmon.

Mr. Speaker, let me acknowledge members of the Junior Shadow Cabinet who have joined us today. They are a group of young, vibrant, energized patriotic Jamaicans who represent the future, and they have a passion about building our country. (Applause)

Also joining us today are members from the private sector, the church, civil society. They play a critical role in national development. The Opposition pays keen attention to their views, and is always eager to partner with them for the advancement of the nation and its people.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, my family is my refuge. My mother, a retired civil servant, who ensured that I received the education I needed to be where I am today, is here with us. (Applause) My dear wife, Juliet, is also here. (Applause) She has been a tower of strength in everything I do. She is a pillar of support, confidante, partner and friend. (Applause) And for the first time my two boys are coming to see their dad in Parliament, Adam and Matthew are also here. (Applause) I work feverishly to secure a better future for Jamaica, not only for them, but for all the children of Jamaica.

(MR. FITZ ARTHUR JACKSON, (PNP), St. Catherine, Southern, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, the people of West Central St. Andrew are my extended family. It is always a source of great pride to see literacy rates increasing year after year in the four primary schools in the constituency. I am of a firm belief that the most effective vaccine against crime and poverty is education. (Applause)

Opposition MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: It means that more of our children will be able to gain knowledge and understanding and make greater use of the opportunity schooling provides. Mr. Speaker, West Central St. Andrew like all the constituencies of the western belt in Kingston: West Kingston and the Prime Minister's constituency of South West St. Andrew are badly in need of serious urban renewal.

(HON. HORACE WASHINGTON DALLEY, (PNP), Clarendon, North, Minister without Portfolio in the Ministry of Finance and Planning with responsibility for Public Service, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. LUTHER BARTLEY MONTEITH BUCHANAN, (PNP), Westmoreland, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Office of the Prime Minister, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. D. SMITH: Omar one all right.

Mr. HOLNESS: Including the former Minister of Finance, South St. Andrew, yes. Badly in need of urban renewal. Some of the oldest communities in our capital city, Mr. Speaker, face serious challenges due to lack of proper infrastructural development and maintenance. The housing stock in some of these areas have deteriorated to the point where there is little or no market value to spark regeneration. This year, Mr. Speaker, we hope that National Works Agency will finally sign the contract to fix Woodpecker Avenue, one of the main thoroughfares in West Central St. Andrew.

Mr. D. SMITH: I wish you luck.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, the universal cry in West Central over the past few weeks, and I suppose right across Jamaica, was the cry for water. We have pipes, but many of the water mains are old, corroded, leaky and not sized to deliver the volume and pressure sufficient to meet the demands of the constantly growing population in those areas. The situation is made worse during the drought period. The complaints that I have received suggest that the period of water lock-offs are too long. Most households, to my certain knowledge, cannot store more than a day's supply of water. So, by the second day of the lock-off the entire community is in crisis. And remember, Mr. Speaker, we don't have enough water trucks to respond. So this year, Mr. Speaker, through the Constituency Development Fund, I will be trying my best to assist large households, households that have many children and elderly with black tanks, those plastic water storage tanks. They will be made available, rationed in the best way possible to assist residents of those areas with storage capacity. That's the best I can, Mr. Speaker; it's a partial solution; it's a local solution, but at least it will help during the drought period.

Mr. Speaker, the most important challenge that faces us now as a country is ensuring that we stay true to our vision of making Jamaica the place to live in safety, work for prosperity, raise healthy families and operate in a business friendly environment. Mr. Speaker, it is our vision and belief that every Jamaican can attain prosperity, but if we are not honest about how we got to where we are today, our ambitions will be merely a pipe dream.

For years we have been like the children of Israel who were led out of colonial Egypt with a promise land in sight. Mr. Speaker interesting it is that if one were to do a geographic assessment of the journey from Egypt to Israel it would only be about two weeks by foot, but the Israelites ended up spending forty years in the wilderness going around in circles, repeating their mistakes after mistakes.

Mr. Speaker, over the past years we found ourselves being made the same promises, being sold the same vision of how we are firm and how we should stand firm, that the progress we should not stop, that we should log on to progress, we not changing course, it's a new beginning...

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Yes.

Mr. HOLNESS: This is about people power.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Yes.

Mr. HOLNESS: But where did it all take us?

A Government MEMBER: [From] Government.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, like the Israelites, we have ended up spending a generation in the wilderness, going around in circles, being subjected to the same pain and punishment.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: That deliverance has brought...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. McKenzie)

(Cross talk)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, the poor Israelites.

Opposition MEMBER: Yes.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, like the Israelites wondering in the deserts of Egypt, Jamaicans are now asking the question, where are we going? There is a sense of uncertainty, unease and despair about the future of our country. And the answer comes from the Minister of Finance, the answer comes in this form, comes in this narrative of a newly converted market oriented...

(HON. ROBERT DIXON PICKERSGILL, (PNP), St. Catherine, North, Western, Minister of Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. CHUCK: Capitalist.

Mr. HOLNESS: No, capitalist is an outdated term.

Mr. SHAW: Evangelist.

(Laughter)

Mr. HOLNESS: He is now a market disciple.

(Laughter)

Mr. CHUCK: Hear, hear! Hear, hear!

Mr. CHARLES: Disciple of the market.

Mr. HOLNESS: An interesting article was written a few Sundays ago comparing the IMF negotiations of the 70s and now and saying, my, how things have changed, because yes there are members of the team who were there in the 70s who are there now and how different their positions have been. And we welcome change and if you can change for good reason and you see logic and you see the light, we welcome you. We welcome you. There is no problem in changing. But the answer from the newly converted Minister about where we are going comes in this narrative, and you will identify with these statements, Minister, they are all cited:

> For too long we have lived above our means. Now we are determined to live within our means, and if the revenues do not come in, we will have to make adjustments... curtail expenditure and defer some payments into the next fiscal year.... if we are going to enable future generations to realize their dreams and aspirations and to fulfill the vision of the founding fathers and mothers, we have a responsibility to reduce the burden of the public debt. Unless we do this, we will have forfeited the dreams of past and future generations."

These are worthy statements from the Minister of Finance. There is nothing wrong with a determination to maintain fiscal discipline. And I am happy, as I said, that our political thought is evolving in this way and that finally we have come to the realization that we cannot borrow our way to growth. I think both sides of the aisle agree with that statement.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: We cannot borrow our way to growth.

But I also found another statement by the Finance Minister quite interesting. He made the statement in opening the Budget Debate. Here is what the Minister of Finance said:

> "Our situation was compounded by those who found it politically convenient to propagate the view that the proven laws of economic development did not apply to Jamaica. Whereas other countries had to work their way to prosperity, Jamaica they said, could borrow its way to prosperity. I trust it is now evident to everyone that there is a limit to any country's capacity to sustain such fiscal irresponsibility. Jamaica has reached this limit. High debt prevents growth and limits the country's capacity to withstand unforeseen economic shocks."

This is a profound statement and it leads me to wonder who the Minister was talking about?

Mr. CHUCK: Not Audley.

(HON. DAMION ORANDY CRAWFORD, (PNP), St. Andrew, East Rural, Minister of State in the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. HOLNESS: Who was the Minister talking about?

Mr. CHUCK: Not Audley.

Mr. HOLNESS: Powerful statement. A powerful statement, Minister. But every study that I have looked at, and there are many, that examines Jamaica's current debt crisis - not talking about the debt crisis of the 70s and 80s, every study that I have looked at that has examined Jamaica's current debt crisis that is of the - 90s, the 2000s and now, every single one of them have concluded on basically three factors that have created this debt crisis, three.

The first is the collapse of the financial sector in the early 1990's that saw the creation of FINSAC and the subsequent absorption of FINSAC debt between 1996 and 2003 when the national debt moved. And this is not the IMF's definition of the national debt now. This is the Central Government debt solely from 71 per cent of GDP to 124 per cent of GDP, a 52 percentage point increase. That is an incontrovertible fact. That goes down in history. That fact cannot be debated away. In total, the Government created approximately $140 Billion in new debt due to FINSAC. What did that mean for us, Mr. Speaker?

(Cross talk)

FINSAC, FINSAC, yeah! And I hear the talk to the rescue of FINSAC - coming to that. What did that mean for us, Mr. Speaker? It heralded the start of the country's stifling debt burden.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. D. Smith)

Mr. HOLNESS: But the government did not only absorb bad private loans and we can have a debate about this: should the Minister have allowed FINSAC debtors to just fail? Should the Minister have allowed the banks to collapse? It is a judgement call that the Minister has to make. And I was not in that position. I can't judge the Minister for making the call, certainly with his Cabinet colleagues that we are going to take a decision to rescue FINSAC. That is, rescue the failing banks and financial institutions. We can't judge for that. But you know what we can judge for? An interesting book written by Wilberne Persaud, probably the only book to be written on the FINSAC issue, asked you when did you know about the potential collapse? And you're response was very evasive, Minister. It didn't say well, it came to my attention in 1994 or in... It was. So the question must be answered, in your role as Minister and even if you were to say that, well, I took over mid-stream, the question must be asked of the Government, when the Government realize that a financial collapse was imminent. And these are questions that have to be answered by the FINSAC Commission.

You see how very important it is. The Minister has said the national debt now is the most important thing but yet they don't want us to know why and how that national debt came to be. They don't want us to know that. They don't want us to know that.

Mr. Speaker, the Government did not only take over the FINSAC debt, private debt and the academics, the economists, they used a very - they used a term; they say the Government socialized private losses. But, Mr. Speaker, the Government also absorbed losses of public bodies and government agencies. We recall losses being absorbed between 1996 and 2003 - Air Jamaica, NWC, Bank of Jamaica - totalling approximately $41 Brillion. So within that period of time, Mr. Speaker, we put on to the public's back $140 Billion and $141 Billion in new debt between 1996 and 2003. But the Government, Mr. Speaker, was also bringing on to its books significant debt that it had previously negotiated but did not account for it when the expenditure was made. This is something, Mr. Speaker that we all know as deferred financing. You remember that one, Audley? You remember how we had to fight to stop the Government from doing this damaging deferred financing.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Campbell)

Mr. SHAW: Keep quiet.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, it's one thing to acknowledge the debt a year or two after you incurred it so that your books can look good. It's another thing that you have to pay high interest rates for that luxury. I am not here saying you know, Mr. Speaker, that that money wasn't used to do good things. The Minister of Finance, I am sure, would hasten to remind us that some of it was used to build schools in the north of the island. Some of it was used to do Hope Road. So we are not saying that it didn't do tangible things but we must always ask ourselves, could we have done it differently? Could we have done it more efficiently? You see, unlike the FINSAC debt, the public who is bearing the totality of it can't claim to get anything tangible or like the absorption of the other debts, the public can't really claim it because some of that debt is just going back to pay debt, some of that is just foreign exchange losses. There is no asset to back that, that's just paper debt we have. That's the reality of debt.

Mr. Speaker, recently, this year the Government took on contingent liabilities of Clarendon Aluminum Partners Limited, CAP, and Wallenford Coffee Limited, $258.3 Million in debt, US by the way, J$28.3 Billion; this year the Government took it on. You see how that debt is just growing. What is the public getting for the CAP debt and the Wallenford debt? We need to ask ourselves these questions.

The third point, the third factor that drives the debt is the change in the nature and profile of our debt. Mr. Speaker, this started in the mid-1990s. In fact, it started - well let me not say it that way, let me say it this way. The profile of the debt started to change in the mid-1990s with the development of the local capital market which opened new borrowing options for the Government. Multilateral debt on borrowing which had far better concessional interest rates was rapidly replaced by borrowing from the domestic capital market, which came at much higher interest rate but without any conditionality. So the Government ran from scrutiny if it were to borrow from the multinationals and decided to take debt for which it was not being required to account in its usage.

As a result of that - you know, domestic debt prior to 1999 up to say even 1989, domestic debt averaged 28% of the total debt stock, since 1999 domestic debt accounts for approximately 60% of total. So what we were doing is just borrowing, borrowing, borrowing domestically, literally creating money. This was during the period of the good old days of Government placing large amounts of debt with the domestic capital market and not only Jamaican currency but in US dollar instruments as well. It was also the period of time that the Jamaican Government gained access to international capital markets where it could float bonds and gain access to hard currency outside of multilateral institutions. This era of debt expansion led to the view that Jamaica could borrow its way to prosperity. Having destroyed the real entrepreneurial spirit of Jamaica with FINSAC, the Government now created a new kind of entrepreneurship, the Government created a new type of entrepreneurship, the investment in government paper. That became the new type of entrepreneurism.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HOLNESS: For a decade the only game in town was government paper and it grew with the Government's veracious appetite for debt. Why was the Government borrowing so much as it did? During most of the 90s and early 2000, the Government was actually running at double digits primary surplus, meaning its revenues could cover its operating obligations; it could pay its workers and pay housekeeping with some balance to contribute towards debt repayment. But the Government still found the need to borrow and borrow excessively. And remember now, during that time the Government did not face a global financial crisis. What happened, Mr. Speaker, is that as debt servicing increased, the Government had to borrow to meet its debt service obligation. And remember now servicing higher interest debt so it has to borrow more. That, Mr. Speaker, created the vicious debt trap cycle, borrow to repay debt and then you have to borrow again to repay debt, and so you have to keep on borrowing...

Mr. WARMINGTON: Borrow from Peter to pay Paul.

Mr. HOLNESS: …and you keep doing that, Mr. Speaker, until the debt is now close to two trillion Jamaican dollars. That is the genesis of the national debt. So we asked the question, in the Minister's words, who were these fiscally irresponsible people who had led Jamaica to a mountain of debt? The Minister must answer that. Who was he talking about?

Mr. André HYLTON: Audley.

Mr. HOLNESS: Which Minister propagated the view that (improved) and larger economic development did not apply to Jamaica, whereas other countries had to work their way to prosperity Jamaica, they said, could borrow its way to prosperity.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Pickersgill)

Dr. DAVIES: They said.

Mr. HOLNESS: That's what you said.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Campbell)

Mr. SHAW: Keep quiet.

Mr. HOLNESS: Under which Government did the collapse of the financial sector occur? Which Minister came up with FINSAC? Which Minister used deferred financing? But here is the (Inaudible) which smart Minister conceived the forward sale of bauxite in the CAP deal which eventually - ended up costing more to produce than the actual price that was secured for the forward sale? You know what happened to us, Mr. Speaker, with this debt we ended up having to pay our partner in the bauxite firm Alcoa - Glencore, no, Alcoa.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Shaw)

(DR. THE HON. KENNETH WYKEHAM MCNEILL, (PNP), Westmoreland, Western, Minister of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. COLIN ALFRED A. FAGAN, (PNP), St. Catherine, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. NOEL GEORGE DELANO ARSCOTT, (PNP), Clarendon, South Western, Minister of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. DERRICK FLAVIUS KELLIER, (PNP), St. Andrew, Western, Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. HOLNESS: No Alcoa. We ended up having to pay Alcoa to produce the bauxite that we had sold already but when it came time to produce and deliver it, the price of oil had gone up so much that it cost way more to produce than what we had gotten for it when we sold it. So every year the Jamaican Government, whenever the oil prices went up, had to find money, money that it could have taken to build schools. And I will tell you why I raised it, because I went to the then Prime Minister, Bruce Golding and told him about the need for school place, the Prime Minister was telling me, listen, we have to find hundreds of millions of US dollars to pay Alcoa to produce the bauxite to give it to Glencore who had already paid for it at a price well below what it cost us to produce it?

Mr. McKENZIE: Is lie.

Mr. HOLNESS: Now, Mr. Speaker, it is decisions like these that have created the debt today. Decisions like these

Mr. CHARLES: The Prime Minister going to speak tomorrow so keep quiet. Don't disturb...

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, all of this was done under almost two decades of PNP Administration. I think you know, Mr. Speaker, it is probably a little bit unfair for me to blame the Minister alone.

Dr. DAVIES: Go ahead.

Mr. HOLNESS: It's a little unfair because the truth is; you are part of a Cabinet and obviously everybody over there shares it, shares the responsibility.

Dr. DAVIES: Explain that. I want to hear it if you will ex...

Dr. PHILLIPS: Election stopped at 2007.

(Applause)

Dr. DAVIES: Explain the moving from...

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, no wonder this Government is doing everything possible to hide FINSAC Report, no wonder, but that report must come to light, must come to light.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, when the Minister comes sanctimoniously to preach to us about 'living within our means and recognizing limits to borrowing', where was his voice then when his colleague predecessor made it clear that he was going to 'run wid it'? Where was he then? Don't come now to preach to us about fiscal responsibility! You were the ones who created the hardship on the people in the first place.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: And you are now subjecting the people of Jamaica to this pain and punishment because of your fiscal irresponsibility.

(Applause) (Heckling)

Mr. Speaker, the National Debt....

The SPEAKER: Audley Shaw. Audley Shaw.

Mr. HOLNESS: ....and meeting IMF Tests are now the fulcrums around which Government Economic Policy revolves. It is now the excuse or the reason behind every economic decision that the Government is making. The imperative is no longer care for the poor or concern for the hardship of the people, there's.... that's not the issue any more. No! All this talk about 'we love the poor' and 'people power' has no meaning to anyone any more. If you listen carefully to the Government, what the Government is saying. We care more about passing the IMF Test than passing the people's test.

(Sotto voce comments by both sides)

Mr. HOLNESS: That's what they are saying. That's what they're saying.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: We pass the people test! We pass the people test!

(Heckling by both sides)

Mr. HOLNESS: The Government is now saying, it's not about 'people power'. No! The Government is now saying....

A MEMBER: Satan!

Mr. HOLNESS: ….IMF has the power! That is what the Government is now saying.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Audley, why you... the thing.

(Laughter)

Mr. HOLNESS: When we say to live within our means, cut our expenses and pay more taxes, what the Government is really saying is that the people of Jamaica must pay for the bad mistakes and bad decisions of the then Government of 18 years of PNP administration. (Applause)

You know, Mr. Speaker, when the government has decided on who or what they are going to cut, they cut without mercy and they tax without thought. Take, for example, the recent decision of the JUTC to slash routes to sub-franchisees.

(Inaudible comment)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, so concerned I was about the decision that I chose to check the reality for myself.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. HOLNESS: I decided to get, Mr. Speaker, the real story. So I went and I visited the Transport Centre and I got a briefing from the Managing Director, or what is the Managing Director.

Dr. DAVIES: Yes! Yes!

Mr. HOLNESS: So, Mr. Speaker, here's what I found.

(Sotto voce comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HOLNESS: The explanation is that, in order for the JUTC to improve revenues, they must take away profitable routes from the sub franchisees.

A MEMBER: Take away.

Mr. HOLNESS: Take away…. That's what you've done.

(Sotto voce comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, it was presented in a most arrogant fashion.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: Take it or leave it!

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. DAVIES: No! No! (Dr. Davies held his hand up) On a point of order! On a point of order!

Mr. CHARLES: Don't disturb the Leader. You going speak, don't disturb the Leader! Have a seat man, have a seat!

(Heckling by both sides)

The SPEAKER: Minister Davies.

Mr. CHARLES: You cannot speak.

A MEMBER: Another point of order!

A MEMBER: You hav fe give him a seat!

Mr. CHARLES: You cannot speak.

A MEMBER: Listen!

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker….

Mr. CHARLES: State your point of order.

Dr. DAVIES: ….perhaps because he's uninformed, the Leader of the Opposition....

Opposition MEMBERS: No, no, no!

Dr. DAVIES: ....the Leader of the Opposition is misleading the House and the public.

I held several meetings with the franchise holders. We discussed the issues and I overruled the proposal from the JUTC and expanded the number of routes on which the private franchise - sub-franchise holders could operate. And, therefore, I reject totally, absolutely, the assertion that this was arrogantly dealt with.

Mr. CHUCK: Clarification not point of order.

Dr. DAVIES: It's a revocation of what is a misleading statement and, therefore, the House cannot proceed to have a debate…. (Disturbance) ….based on misleading statements.

The SPEAKER: Thank you.

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, the member is entitled to his defense. What I was told and I met with the sub franchise operators.

Mr. DALLEY: You went on a job.

Mr. HOLNESS: They were of the view, and I certainly form the view based upon what I saw, that it was done in a 'take it or leave it' fashion.

Mr. Speaker, there was no consideration that the franchise holders had invested borrowed funds and some of them would have taken their redundancy money and invested in a bus at a time when the JUTC was not able to meet its carrying capacity, because that is the inequity of the situation. The JUTC couldn't meet their carrying capacity and so they invited persons to make an investment. And now, all of a sudden, Government sey, for us to make more money, these profitable routes that you have we have to take them away.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You repeat the foolishness!

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Shaw)

Mr. McKENZIE: You caan call the Leader of Opposition.... You have a... sit dung beside yu! Caan refer to the Leader of the Opposition…. sit dung side yu.

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. McKENZIE: Mr. Speaker, could you… On a point of order. I would like you to ask the Member to withdraw the comments he made in referring to the Leader of the Opposition as a whimp!

A MEMBER: No! No!

The SPEAKER: Which Member, which Member was that, Member McKenzie?

Mr. McKENZIE: What you say, sir?

The SPEAKER: Which Member was it?

Mr. McKENZIE: The Member from Westmoreland, Eastern Westmoreland.

A MEMBER: Bush man.

(Heckling)

The SPEAKER: Mr. Buchanan...

(Heckling)

The SPEAKER: ....Mr. Buchanan.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker....

The SPEAKER: Just a minute, Mr. Holness. Mr. Buchanan, there's a - I did not hear what is alleged you have said, did you actually use those words?

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Mr. Speaker....

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Sit down! Sit down!

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: The Speaker has acknowledged me.

(Laughter) (The Speaker gavels)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: The Member from South West St. Catherine…

Mr. CHARLES: Just withdraw and sit down. Don't give no speech.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: The Member from South West St. Catherine, Mr. Speaker, made a remark and and I thought it was wimpish and I remarked to my colleague beside me that that's a whimish comment. He, who was asleep… (Laughter) ....woke up on the occasion, hearing that and misunderstood what was said.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CHARLES: Rubbish!

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. SHAW: We're going to evict you from this House!

(Laughter)

(Heckling)

Mr. WARMINGTON: You, you've been showing such disrespect all day! You have been showing such disrespect all day!

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Leader of the Opposition is making his presentation, I think it is only fitting that we hear him.

(Applause)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you very much.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, some people can bear sacrifice more than others, some people have more means more than others. What do you tell a bus operator who finds himself suddenly without income? The conductor and driver who no longer have a job, the mechanic whose services will no longer be needed, the families who depend on these breadwinners who probably now will not even be able to afford bread, what do we say to them? Sorry me fren, but the money we would normally use on transportation, we have to use it to pay bak the money we borrowed to pay bak the FINSAC debt, so we have to take away your livelihood to make the JUTC profitable. That is what we're saying to that bus operator.

Mr. Speaker….

The SPEAKER: Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficiently for him to complete his presentation?

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Holness.

(Applause)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, we believe that there could be a more palatable solution to this.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: The JUTC estimates that its carrying capacity is approximately 25,000 seats with 50% of that as standing passengers. That target, I'm sure, was set over a decade ago and possibly is out of line with the current commuter demands. A revision of this I am sure will reveal the need for more seats. So the assumption that the JUTC has now reached its carrying capacity with the addition of its new buses may not be an accurate assumption in the first place. And I encourage the management of JUTC to look into that, because it could very well be that they actually need the buses that they have cut from the system.

But, in any event, Mr. Speaker, the JUTC should seek to set higher service standards by reducing the number of standing passengers. So even without checking whether or not the actual demand is greater, 50% carrying load - well, 50% standing carrying load certainly puts pressure on the buses and helps to increase the wear and tear much quickly. So that figure of 50% of the carrying capacity standing should also be reduced. And when you do that, you'd probably find that you need more seats. So, Minister, I recommend that to you.

But, even outside of that, even outside of that, the solution could also lie in how the JUTC allocates its capacity during peak and off-peak times against the variable cost of operating the system. I am sure that many times you would have seen virtually empty JUTC buses operating during off- peak hours. The cost of fuel and crew would make those trips uneconomical. However, allocating these buses in off-peak time, in other words, Mr. Speaker, giving the sub-franchisees the off-peak hours - you have smaller buses that match the off-peak demand could actually save the JUTC cost.

Mr. Speaker, I'm saying that in these difficult times when we have to make tough decisions, Government must show thoughtful and creative leadership to balance the need to satisfy the IMFs imperatives.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: And I pointed out to you one way in which this could be done. Use the off-peak times when you are carrying high variable operating cost and substitute your JUTC buses with the smaller sub-franchise buses whose cost match the peak demand, that is a workable option. And again, I encourage the knowledgeable Minister, to look into that solution.

Mr. Speaker, in our poor budgets during the worst global recession as a government, when our remittances fell, our bauxite earnings fell, and there was general fallout in government revenues, we levied a total of approximately Forty-six Billion ($46B) in taxes. We were called uncaring, wicked, evil government. This is only the third budget of this new PNP Government, and already they have dashed on the people almost Sixty-two Billion ($62B) in new taxes.

And so I ask Mr. Speaker, who is the wicked government now? Who is the uncaring government now? Who is the evil government now?

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, who are the people inflicting pain and punishment on the Jamaican people?

A Government MEMBER: JLP!

Mr. HOLNESS: It is always a tough call to increase taxes. It is never a good idea to take more money out of a shrinking economy and pull more money out of people's already over-burdened pockets. It is even more disturbing when those taxes are not going towards the provision of additional services or the development of new infrastructure, or increased opportunity. But these taxes are to pay obligations created by this Government's policy failures and bad decisions like CAP.

Nevertheless, the old saying is true; the only certain things in life are death and taxes. So if you have to tax, at least tax smart, tax thoughtfully, tax fairly.

Mr. Speaker, we have made specific recommendations to the Government not to increase transaction taxes, that is, Transfer Tax and Stamp Duties, for example. Instead, in its wisdom or desperation, whatever the case may be, the Government has instituted a new transaction tax, the Withdrawal Tax.

Every Minister of Finance must be cognizant that a tax is as much a revenue earning measure as it is a signaling mechanism for the market. In other words, Mr. Speaker, we don't only put on the tax to earn revenue, sometimes you want the market to behave in a particular way and so you use a tax. This tax is going to do more damage in its signaling, than what it will earn in revenue.

Mr. Derrick SMITH: You understand, Bobby?

Mr. HOLNESS: And every Minister must understand that such thing. The tax might be small, you know, it might be inconsequential, but the signal it sends does more damage than the revenue it collects. And such is the case with Withdrawal Taxes. Numerous studies have been done on these taxes, Minister.

The Minister says he does not know whether the banks are going to pass on the tax. But all of us know that the banks are going to pass on the tax.

Mr. Speaker, the tax is likely to be a nuisance. When you write a cheque for Ten Thousand ($10,000) you better be sure that you have Ten Thousand ($10,000) plus tax in your account, otherwise you will be getting back your withdrawal amount, less tax, because it is unlikely that the bank is going to pick up your tax if you don't have it in the account.

So, Mr. Speaker, some countries have implemented the Withdrawal Tax, but they have quickly taken it off, because they realize, Mr. Speaker, as I said before, that it sends a bad signal to business. Pakistan still maintains a Withdrawal Tax and they do it for a particular reason.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Taliban.

Mr. HOLNESS: But what they want to do - but we don't have any Taliban here so why you putting on the tax?

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: The reason why they put on the tax is to encourage people to use the banking system. So it's a disincentive to pay in cash or to operate in cash, so it's a tax on the withdrawal of cash. But in Jamaica it is a tax on every transaction, including transactions between yourself. Which is what I can't understand, Minister. So if I have two bank accounts and I want to transfer money from Bank 'A' to Bank 'B' I have to pay a tax on that. It doesn't make sense.

Mr. Speaker, this tax becomes a punishment for using the formal banking system for regulating transaction tax...??? I am sure the Minister has heard people say to him that they are now going to put their money under mattresses, because what they stand to get in interest on savings is less than the amount that they have to pay in bank fee; and on top of that, too, they have to pay a tax to use their own money.

In general, Mr. Speaker, financial transaction taxes like this Withdrawal Tax, like Stamp Duty, have a negative impact on commerce. As a new convert to free market principles, we would have expected that you would have intuitively known this.

Mr. Speaker, these taxes are counterproductive to the growth agenda, and that is why most countries have abandoned them.

But there is another consideration. Yesterday I received an e-mail from a Jamaican living in one of the Gulf States, who is following with interest a proposal to create an international financial centre here in Jamaica. And I thought I would just read what the e-mail said. He said:

> "Has your government abandoned the idea of Jamaica as an international financial service centre? Surely, they must have. If the country is serious about becoming an off-shore financial centre, how can it place a general tax on financial transactions?"

It sends conflicting signals. People, in thinking where to invest their money, assess political risk, the favourability of the tax environment and the strength of the regulatory environment and the justice system. With the imposition of a general financial tax on transactions, Jamaica has become less attractive when compared to other countries which are presently developing their plans to become off-shore financial centres as well. How do you expect to compete with Panama, for example which has no tax?

Mr. Speaker, the Government was not thinking when it implemented this tax. The tax will certainly reduce the pay of public sector workers who are already feeling the pain under the cold wage freeze. It will affect business operators, from the small shop owner to the big retailer. It will affect the grandmother - this is one that I found very interesting. It will affect the pensioner who has opened a JN account to receive her remittances or her pension from overseas.

It is a dragnet tax which you cannot escape or avoid if you use the regulated banking system. It is a continuous tax. It is not a tax on value, it is a tax on the use of money, it is a tax on the rollover of money.

(HON. SHARON FFOLKES-ABRAHAMS, (PNP), St. James, West Central, Minister of State in the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took her seat.)

So if Kevin pays Keisha, who then pays Simone, who then pays Donna Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) each time, four set of taxes will be taken. It is therefore inflationary.

Mr. Speaker, we are strongly opposed to this tax. (Opposition Members applaud) It opens the door to other brazen and thoughtless tax impositions under the guise of passing some IMF test.

Mr. DALLEY: Guise, eh?

Mr. HOLNESS: It would be irresponsible for the Opposition to merely say we oppose the tax. Prime Minister, we resist this tax. (Opposition Members applaud) This is now a point of departure.

Prime Minister, you claim to be looking out for the interest of the poor and vulnerable. In today's Jamaica the poor and vulnerable use banks and ATMs, too. They have to cash their PATH cheques, they have to take their remittances from accounts which they were encouraged to open.

Prime Minister, withdraw the tax. (Applause) Withdraw the tax or else! (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Or else what?

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, we cannot let adversity blind us to opportunity.

Mr. SHAW: Hear! Hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: We cannot let crisis and desperation cause us to forego creative solutions. Making sacrifice does not mean that people have to suffer, but that is what is happening to this Government. The Government is not implementing creative solutions or taking smart decisions that will spur growth. They are not taking decisions that are fair to the people who are called to make the sacrifices. And most of all, it is not being true to its own call for sacrifice.

Mr. SHAW: Hear! Hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: The Prime Minister is calling on the Jamaican people to live within their means, yet her Administration shows no solidarity with the poor. They are not leading by example with the belt-tightening. The Government continues to spend on new vehicles, contract jobs and consultancies for the "boys" and "girls", not to mention the massive travel bill.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. DALLEY: No, man, you know better than that!

Mr. HOLNESS: You know, Mr. Speaker, my friend from Northern Clarendon...

Mr. WARMINGTON:...who has no sense!

Mr. HOLNESS: ...says I know better than that, as if to diminish the symbolism of Government showing solidarity.

You know, I found it quite interesting that...

(Sotto voce comments from Mr. Dalley)

Mr. SHAW: Keep quiet, nuh man! You are an irritant! Stop it!

Mr. HOLNESS: ...the Prime Minister of the UK, David Cameron, when he was carrying through his austerity programme, he would normally have the convenience of flying on his own jet. But you know what he did - he didn't have to do it but he did it - he flew commercial, saved the Government hundreds of thousands of pounds. He didn't have to do it.

Dr. DAVIES: That's an exaggeration!

Mr. HOLNESS: No, it's there.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: Don't diminish the value of the symbolism, don't do that. It is important that if you are going to ask people to make sacrifices, you must do it yourself!

(Applause)

Mr. CHARLES: Lead the way! Inspire them!

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance is right...

(Sotto voce comments)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. HOLNESS: The Minister of Finance is right on one thing. We are at our limit, both for fiscal recklessness and the absorption of new taxes. We are at our taxable limit. For accountability and history, it is important to establish who caused the debt crisis that we are now grappling with. Indeed, we must judge our Leaders by their deeds and not their words. At the end of the argument, however, we still have the debt, and we must still find a solution as to how to... (Inaudible)

So, the question is asked again, where is Jamaica going with all this debt? Are we to conclude from the Minister's Statement that for the foreseeable future, or at least for the next three years until the end of the Extended Fund Facility, that all we can look forward to are more taxes, steeper budget cuts, and people losing their livelihoods. Is that what you are offering to Jamaica?

Dr. PHILLIPS: More agro-parks, more hotel, more jobs.

Mr. HOLNESS: Is that what you are offering to Jamaica - more taxes... more taxes... more cuts?

Dr. PHILLIPS: More energy solutions.

Mr. HOLNESS: That is what you are offering.

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. HOLNESS: Minister, I went on a bus... I went on a bus - went Downtown, did my fact finding before I came here to make my speech. And you know what, Mr. Speaker, the common theme - he said we were searching for a theme - he doesn't have to search hard; anybody who he speaks to will tell him the common theme, right across Jamaica - times hard.

Mr. D. SMITH: ...(Inaudible) ...people fool we up.

Mr. HOLNESS: Times hard because of the debt; and who caused the debt?

Government MEMBERS: Audley, Audley.

Mr. HOLNESS: The PNP.

(Applause by Opposition Members)

A MEMBER: It is rubbish... rubbish.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, I sat beside a cosmetologist - a young lady who was training to become a cosmetologist, on the bus, and she complained to me - she complained to me, Mr. Speaker, that last week she bought some products, and it cost her x dollars, and by the time the products finished, which would have been in a week, and she went back, the products went up 30 per cent. And when she asked why the products gone up so much and the dollar don't devalue that much, the supplier explained to her that he has to buy stock three months in advance, and so he has to charge a price now that can get him that amount of stock to last him for three months.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: Oh yes, she said to me, Mr. Speaker, after complaining about all that is happening in Jamaica, she said to me, mi wah leave Jamaica because Jamaica nah guh no weh.

Mr. Speaker, I spoke to an ancillary worker, and she was almost on the verge of tears when she put her case to me that her pay only goes to cover bus fare and lunch money. I spoke to a young man who asked me for a job.

Mr. PICKERSGIL: On the same bus?

Mr. HOLNESS: On the same bus, and he left his resume with me.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker... Mr. Speaker, right at Parade when we disembarked...

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. HOLNESS: Seriously - at Parade, Mr. Speaker, when I disembarked, this young man...

A Government MEMBER: Lie.

Mr. HOLNESS: ...handed me his resume and he said to me that, five months now he is going around, leaving his resume all over Kingston, every where he sees there is a job opening, looking for a job, can't get a job. And this fellow has a first-degree from UWI - can't get a job. But, my friends opposite make light of the situation - make light. Mr. Speaker, time hard but it is not hard for them.

Mr. Speaker, I spoke to a taxi-man.

Government MEMBERS: On the bus?

A MEMBER: On the bus, he spoke to a taxi-man.

(Heckling)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, you know, it is a good thing, Mr. Speaker...

Mr. SHAW: It is a big laughing matter, nuh true?

Mr. HOLNES: ...that that taxi man wasn't carried on television, on the news, and his complaints were carried when I was speaking to him. And, you know what he complained about, how he was treated by Transport Authority and the police, but he said - he asked me to ask you Minister, he said that there is an anomaly...

Dr. DAVIES: How come you just asking me now and it is three weeks ago.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: I had to leave something for the speech. Mr. Speaker, he asked me to ask you...

Dr. DAVIES: On TV?

Mr. HOLNESS: Publicly - nuh public business, yes. So, he asked me to ask you why is it that the Transport Authority is only licensing the cabs to carry three persons but yet they are asking them to get insured for four, and he found...

(Sotto voce comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HOLNESS: No, it's four plus the driver - three plus the driver. So, he is asking you, Minister, to look into that anomaly. And I am doing it publicly. I may not see him again, he knows now that I have asked you, and you are going to look into it. Mr. Speaker.

Dr. DAVIES: Yuh tek im name?

Mr. HOLNESS: No, it is a general problem, not specific to him.

Mr. Speaker, it is important that policymakers know how the people feel. Things look very differently from the top floor at the Ministry of Finance than how they look in Half Way Tree square. My job, as an elected Leader in this country is to represent the views of the people in the highest Court of the land, the Parliament. My job, Mr. Speaker, is not only to plea the case of those who are suffering; it is not good enough to say how much we love the poor, we must show them that we love them. We must give them hope. We have to show that there is an alternative path to the current path we are on. We have to provide solutions.

Mr. Speaker, we are the party of solutions. All speakers on this side have not only brought the hardship of the people to Parliament and criticize the Government for its inept handling of public affairs; we have also brought solutions and proposals to the table.

In last year's Budget, Audley and I brought 21 discrete solutions to the table which could be implemented in the short and medium term. This year, I want to engage the country in some big ideas that could make Jamaica take that quantum leap.

Mr. Speaker, idea number one: Institutional reform. Mr. Speaker, Jamaica's economic history is a story of paradoxes and unfulfilled potential. God placed us strategically along international shipping routes and close to the largest markets in the world. However, we have not taken full advantage of this. We have, through the years, received consistent flows of major investments. However, we have simply not performed in the way that we should. We have not grown in any meaningful way.

As you have already heard, the crowding out effect of high debt is inimical to growth. But there is something else that is holding back growth in Jamaica, and that is the lack of institutional reform. It is said, with economic thought that merely employing fiscal discipline, cutting public expenditure, raising taxes and borrowing less, and sticking to targets, while necessary to achieve growth, it is not sufficient.

There must be an accompanying set of reforms; reforms in our laws, regulations, government, and you would have heard us say, Mr. Speaker, from time to time, that the Government must complete the tax reform process. The Government must start the reform of the pension system. And, Mr. Speaker, to be fair, we must acknowledge that the Government has brought important bits of Legislation, some of which were developed under the JLP Administration, notably, the Omnibus Incentive Act, and reforms of the tax waiver, the incentives and the fiscal rule, to name a few. Those important Bills have been brought.

This, Mr. Speaker, is one aspect of institutional reform. We must undertake these reforms if we are going to actually set the stage for growth. We cannot build a 21st Century economy on 20th Century practices, laws, and regulations.

Today, I want to take the concept of institutional reform one step further. Consider for a moment how you define an economy, or a society. You could say that a society is a network of people, organizations, and institutions. Equally, you could say that the economy is a network of people, markets and institutions. If you want to judge how well our society or economy is doing, all we have to do is examine how well the constituent parts are fulfilling their purpose, and how well they are integrating and effectively contributing to the needs of the wider society and economy.

I believe it would be a useful exercise to conduct an institutional audit and review of our society and economy. It would reveal organizations that are not fulfilling their mandates, markets that are failing and emerging social and economic needs which are there, but no established mandated institution to fulfill them.

Mr. Speaker, this is not a conventional or limited public sector modernization review. It has been going on for years in one form or another but which - and which has produced report after report, but none of these reports ever get used.

Mr. Speaker, I am talking about asking some serious questions of our institutions and organizations. I am talking about radically transforming our institutions to make them relevant to today's needs. The greatest institution builder in the history of modern Jamaica is the Most Honourable Edward Seaga. (Applause) He was a visionary who understood that you build a nation by building institutions. But sometimes institutions lose the vision for which they were created. They miss their purpose. They become self-serving. Mr. Speaker, when last has the UDC built a new town, or revitalized an urban area - when last? With the great problems of urban decay and population shifts, where is the visionary thinking and creative execution of the urban development agenda?

Dr. PHILLIPS: The bus park Downtown was your idea.

A Government MEMBER: It is the bus park Downtown.

Mr. HOLNESS: Or, Mr. Speaker, are our boards trapped in the mindset and fear that they cannot do anything because they have no money.

Mr. Speaker, it is estimated that the real housing demand in Jamaica is somewhere in the region of 20,000 housing solutions per year. That's the estimate.

Dr. DAVIES: Yesterday Horace said 10. Horace said 10, yesterday. I heard Horace's speech.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, 20,000, that's per year. Mr. Speaker, when Michael Manley conceived the idea of the National Housing Trust, he was seeing before his eyes the mobilization of workers' savings to accelerate the process of acquiring and building homes for the common man. I ask the Prime Minister, do you think Michael Manley would be pleased with how the NHT is being operated today; with the savings of workers being taken as tax to repay debt? Do you think Michael Manley would be satisfied to hear that the NHT is only going to do 2,000 solutions this year?

Mr. SHAW: Shame.

Mr. HOLNESS: I don't think so, but that's one of our major institutions. Is it fit for purpose? Is it doing what it is supposed to do?

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. HOLNESS: But it is there.

Mr. Speaker, HEART/NTA was set up more than thirty years ago to ensure that industry had a trained and work-ready labour force. But it's a puzzle to me looking at STATIN's report on the average for the last three years of training in the labour force. Mr. Speaker, you would be surprised to know that only some 11 per cent of the labour force is certified in vocational areas, 11 per cent. Approximately 13 per cent of the labour force has a degree or diploma. Approximately 69 per cent have no formal training whatsoever. And we wonder why our productivity rates are low compared to that of our regional competitors. Edward Seaga would certainly not be satisfied with this situation.

Mr. Speaker, I selected the three of our larger institutions to illustrate the need for an institutional audit and review right across the society. Many of these organizations were established thirty, forty, fifty years ago and since their establishment their mandates have not been refreshed. There has been no recalibration. As a matter of fact, some are not fulfilling their mandate and need to be revitalized. Some have been fulfilling their mandate, like the Rural Electrification Programme and I would dare say too the Family Planning Board. But these organizations need to be re-tasked to serve other emerging needs and I will say that I have seen where the Rural Electrification Programme is doing some re-tasking now to spread renewable energy. And that's good and this is the kind of thing that needs to happen; an institution has reached its sunset, you have to decide if you're going to keep it or you're going to re-task it; you're going to shut it down or you're going to re-task it.

Mr. SHAW: Omar, vision. Vision.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, without this kind of exercise we will continue to have institutions using public funds in inefficient ways and not contributing to national growth and development. When this institution - or when institution or institutions and organizations lose their purpose, they become merely bureaucracies. They exist to follow routine even if that routine doesn't serve a larger purpose. This becomes the source of frustration for those of us who have to do business with Government or seek Government approval. You're put through a long and convoluted process with steps and forms that seem utterly meaningless. And you wonder to yourself, couldn't this be done in a simpler fashion? Why does it have to take so long to get things approved? The simple answer, Mr. Speaker, is that our institutions have become bureaucracies. They're not concerned with outcomes and efficient processes. They're only concerned with procedures. It is the duty of government to ensure that all our institutions, whether they be ministries, agencies, government-owned companies, or self-financing statutory bodies, that all our agencies are fulfilling their mandate. Otherwise, Mr. Speaker, we are simply wasting public funds.

Mr. Speaker, I keep pointing out that in the 90s we engaged in an exercise that expanded government. We engaged in an exercise that created a new form of public body called the Executive Agency. In the Executive Agency Act is the requirement that the Executive Director, the CEO, is reviewed periodically. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Government if these reviews are being done; if these executive agencies are being reviewed against mandates? Are key performance targets set for these agencies? Or are they using public funds in the same way that central ministries use them? These are fundamental questions to ask because they have an impact on the efficiency of our budget. When we as parliamentarians sit out here we can't tell if what is presented to us is the best decision. We can look at it from a political point of view, but we can't look at it from a technical point of view.

Mr. SHAW: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: And so it is important that there is some eye, some element, some oversight body that is reviewing these organizations. Fifty years now, we have whole heap of organizations all on our budget and we don't know if dem mek sense.

Mr. Speaker, the way in which our system of government is structured, Parliament has part of that role. Every year - and the Member from Central Kingston, I recall, was a crusader for this, he would stand up and ask why are the reports late. (To Rev. Thwaites) You recall? Why are the annual reports late? Why they are not tabled?

Mr. SHAW: Arrears to.

Mr. HOLNESS: Yes.

Mr. SHAW: He was big on that. Oh yes.

Mr. HOLNESS: Yes. But no I'm not making a criticism of you, Member. I'm not criticizing you. I'm just illustrating the point that Parliament should have the role of oversight of the efficiency of institutions and it is done through the process of these institutions submitting to Parliament their annual reports. But you know what has happened, Mr. Speaker, and we're all guilty of it as parliamentarians, the report comes, they come late, they are five years behind, sometimes two years behind, we try to get them up to date. I suspect they're still up to date now, but we don't read them. The Sessional Committees…

Dr. PHILLIPS: If your spokesman... (Inaudbile)

Mr. HOLNESS: Yes and the Cabinet should do as well.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Phillips)

Mr. HOLNESS: (Chuckles) Mr. Speaker, the Committees of Parliament don't always have the resources to do this. We must give credit to former Prime Minister Golding. He improved the system by making the parliamentary Committees headed by Opposition Members and gave more resources to the Public Administration and Appropriations.

Dr. DAVIES: You're arguing with that. Audley was chairman of the Public Accounts....

Mr. HOLNESS: Yes, I'm talking now about the augmentation of the process.

Dr. DAVIES: Okay.

(Cross talk)

Mr. HOLNESS: So no, we give Audley credit for his years of service there.

(Cross talk)

Well, I remember the formation - Mr. Speaker, let's be fair on this, it was the previous PNP Government that established the Public Administration and Appropriations Committee.

Dr. PHILLIPS: And the Economy and Production Committee, everything.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw)

Mr. HOLNESS: Now, Mr. Speaker, I recall that the then PNP Government - I was the one by the way Mr. Speaker who moved the motion here for the re-installation of that Committee and for many years, I remember I sat on the Committee and we meet once, we called for the Financial Secretary at the time and she was very reluctant in coming and we had two meetings and then after that it died. It was not until we took over that the Committee got the energy and started to meet again. So that's the fact, that's the fact. But, Mr. Speaker, I want to go back to the point because I don't want to lose it. I want the House to be seized of it. I want Jamaicans to understand that where we are as a country we need now to take stock of our institutions.

Mr. SHAW: Hear! Hear!

(Cross talk)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, an institutional review is not auditing exercises. They have to be done against a clear national vision and a plan of action and then we see how our institutions fit into the big picture. This has to be done with missionary and visionary zeal. It requires leadership whose time horizons are not the next elections, but who can think and envision thirty, forty, fifty years from now. I have started that process to begin to look at our institutional assets and see how they can support the growth agenda, how they can be reformed to be more efficient and effective. That's why, Mr. Speaker, I have appointed a junior shadow Cabinet, a group of young accomplished persons to assist in this exercise. We are not waiting until we are the Government then we figure out what to do with power. We are starting to use our time effectively to make sure that when we become the Government, we hit the road running.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Trust me you'll have enough time. (Laughter)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, I want to put one other solution/suggestion on the Table.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Pickersgill)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, I want to briefly talk about the knowledge economy. Societies and economies, Mr. Speaker, have evolved through various stages. We know about the Agrarian revolution, when land and natural resources were the main drivers of economic development. We then transitioned into the Industrial revolution where capital, the production of goods, became the main drivers of economic development. Today, the world is in transition again, the Information Age is upon us. This is the era of constant innovation, where information is converted into knowledge and intelligence, which drives the creation of new and improved products. In this age, economic development is driven by know-how, by technology.

Mr. Speaker, whenever I get a chance to speak of this topic, and I see the Minister of MSTEM, I always raise the point that we must not be confused by the explosion of cell phones and tablets and computers and the internet. All it means is that we are consumers of technology. We own our phone, we own our computer, but we don't own the technology that was used to make them. We don't own the know-how and in today's world it is the people who own the know-how that controls the wealth. That is the reality, that is the reality.

Mr. SHAW: Yes, knowledge base.

Mr. HOLNESS: So, Mr. Speaker, in everything we have to do, we have to focus now on the creation knowledge, know-how and technology.

Mr. D. SMITH: Knowledge base.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, knowledge, technology and know-how, resides only in people. Only people can innovate, only people can take existing information, use it to create new knowledge and then embed that knowledge into products that drive economic activity. It means that if we are to grow in the Information Age, we have to invest in our people. In today's world you can measure the wealth of a country by the level of know-how that is resident in its people. The STATIN figures for training can be used as good proxy for know-how. With approximately 69 per cent of our people not trained in any specific skill or application, we can have a better understanding as to why it is Jamaica is not growing. Why is it that even when we have big investment, Mr. Speaker, we still don't grow.

Mr. D. SMITH: We don't have any benefit.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, I am sure that by now every Jamaican has heard about the coming of the logistic hub, as the Minister has pointed out.

Getting Goat Islands or wherever it is going to be located doesn't mean that you have a logistics hub. The two things are not the same though they are… Mr. Speaker, Jamaica has always been close to major shipping routes. We have had a port for a long time, and aside from the infrastructure investment required which we will see if the Goat Islands project materializes, beside all of that we still need the investment in the human capital to make the logistics hub happen.

Let me say this to you, Mr. Speaker. Prime Minister, Minister with responsibility for the development of the logistics hub, two Ministers, if I were the Government, the money that I borrowed to do roads, I would take half of it and invest it in the Caribbean Maritime Institute and expand the capacity of the Caribbean Maritime Institute quadruple, so that we can be prepared to actually become a logistics hub. That's what I would do. (Applause)

As I said earlier, Jamaica has a growth paradox. And in my last speech, Mr. Speaker, I spent extensive time explaining what this growth paradox is. We have gotten significant investments before in our bauxite, in our tourism and recently in our telecoms. But the infusion of capital and jobs has not resulted in sustained take-off of growth.

Mr. SHAW: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: We are lagging on the runway and then we stall. Billions putting for bauxite, billions for tourism, billions for telecommunications, whole heap of jobs but we still just taxing on the runway. We can't take off. One of the major constraints on growth why we can't take off is the structure of training and know-how in our labour force.

So if I were the Government, the money that I am taking to fix roads I would take it and invest it in developing the human capacity of our people, because it is with that that you are going to earn the money to fix the road, otherwise all you are doing, Mr. Speaker, is fixing roads but creating another debt trap. And this is how we have to start to think out the solution for growth. That's how we have to start to think it out. The growth not just going to come because all of a sudden we are exercising fiscal discipline, no, all that is going to do with the fiscal discipline is shrink your economy, make it harder for your people, you can't get the taxes so you have to put on more taxes, and you end up back at square one. At some point in time somebody is going to have to say: let us go on a different path. Let us do something different.

So today, Mr. Speaker, I want to focus on knowledge. And if we are going to have these two new industries: the International Financial Centre and Logistics Hub and we are serious about them; well let's make the investment in the people because those two industries, Mr. Speaker, rely on nothing else but people. (Applause) Otherwise, Mr. Speaker, what Mr. Golding said is true, you are going to stay on the shore and look over at the Chinese working in Goat Islands. We are going to pass New Kingston or pass Downtown or Montego Bay, wherever the International Financial Center is located and just look at the buildings with expats working in there. We have to make the investment in people now. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, that is why we have already developed our plan as to what we are going to do. I will share it with you, I will share it with the country, the country needs to know. If we were the Government, Mr. Speaker, we would totally rethink the restructure of government.

What we would do, we would take the Training Section from the Ministry of Education. We would take some aspects of economic planning from the Ministry of Finance. We would take some aspects of the Ministry of Industry and Commerce, some aspects from the Science and Technology Ministry and we would create a new Ministry call the Ministry of Knowledge, Economy and Growth. (Applause)

Dr. DAVIES: I think Audley should be in charge of that.

Mr. HOLNESS: Some of the task that this new Ministry would have, Mr. Speaker, would be number one, increased training in the workforce. (Applause) Number two; ensure knowledge transfer from foreign workers. That's critical. Government can't assume that because somebody is working alongside an expat that there is going to be knowledge transfer. You have to be deliberate about that. You have to actually set-up a programme so that that happens. That Ministry would be tasked with establishing a system of national apprenticeship and internship for our Jamaican youth. Every Jamaican youth should be attached to some training institution where they can learn a skill, learn how to work, learn discipline, (Applause) learn character development, national system of apprenticeship.

A Government MEMBER: Ronnie just announced it.

Mr. HOLNESS: No man, that's my announcement. That's something that I - I don't have to ask that.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HOLNESS: You would go into it from 16 onwards. So the profile - we will get to it. I don't want to be distracted.

Mr. Speaker, the other task of this Ministry would be to ensure that skills and know-how match industry needs, both current needs and projected needs. And this is important, Mr. Speaker, to reduce what is called frictional unemployment. Jamaica has a very high level of unemployment, 90% of problem is not that there isn't any job, the problem is that there are jobs but the skills in the market don't match the jobs. And it takes a lot of time for people to go and get retrained. So you need a ministry that is actually ensuring that the subject that people are taking in schools, that the career path that people are going into that they match what is currently needed and what is projected. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this ministry would be charged with the task of making Jamaica the regional training hub. And we are already placed for that you know. Our training institutions, if properly resourced, could take on training for the entire Caribbean. Certainly, our teachers colleges could do that. The Edna Manley School could do that; Caribbean Maritime Institute could do that.

Mr. McKENZIE: GC Foster.

Mr. HOLNESS: Make the investment in creating Jamaica as the (head state) on training... (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this Ministry would also seek to identify linkages between industries and support these industries with marketing intelligence so that they know where consumers are, where demand is, what it is likely to be. This Ministry would take knowledge, it would look at the economy and it would create growth. That is where we need to go. So when people say, yes, we are passing the IMF test, you passed three tests, that doesn't mean you are going to pass the other test to come. What you are going to do? Well, Mr. Speaker when people ask me I know what to tell them. When people ask me I already have plans put down to deal with it. I am not searching - I don't have to ask anybody else. We have developed these plans and we are waiting on the people to call us to implement them. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I don't want our Jamaican people to be just consumers of other people's knowledge and know-how. I don't want our people to be the ones getting the low-skilled jobs forever. Mr. Speaker, I want our people to be able to run these new industries to the point where if it is going to be foreign-owned the owners say: you know what, it doesn't make sense that I put people on a plane and carry them to Jamaica. Jamaican workers are just as good and better, it's better I pay them to do it. That is what we have to do and you can only do that by restructuring your government to focus on human resource development. We must engage a radical revolution in our human resource training in this country if we are to have any hopes of… (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, economic uncertainties are not the only uncertainties that perplex Jamaicans. There are a number of topical, social issues that are of concern to Jamaicans. Prime Minister, people want to know where we are going with the CCJ, Caribbean Court of Justice, haven't heard anything about it, but people want to hear. Our position is clear, ultimately it is a matter for the people to decide.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Wheatley)

Mr. HOLNESS: Then, Prime Minister, there is the issue of ganja liberalization.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Audley settled that.

Mr. HOLNESS: Driver, don't stop at all. Colorado Mall!

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Phillips)

Mr. VAZ: The police.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SHAW: But dem chopping it up fine, fine.

Mr. HOLNESS: Madam Prime Minister, there is the issue of ganja liberalization which has been occupying public attention recently with very active lobby groups. And I must say, Prime Minister, I met with a few of them and they make a pretty compelling case, they do. But I also met with other persons who expressed private concerns. It is such an issue that people who oppose are not going to likely to say they oppose.

Mr. PRYCE: Where are you on it?

Mr. HOLNESS: It is still an evolving issue. But we did conduct a debate in this House, thanks to the Member from North East St. Elizabeth. It was a very interesting debate. I sat and listened but it was obvious that they were divides not along party lines but it is obviously moral issue for the people, it's a social issue, it's a religious issue for people. So, even across party lines you will find that there is no real consistent position, because the Member from St. Ann, North West made a very compelling medical case against marijuana whilst the Member from North East, St. Elizabeth made a compelling case for marijuana.

Mr. SHAW: For export.

Mr. HOLNESS: And of course, the Minister of Finance made a compelling case for export.

Mr. Speaker, people want to know where we are going. People want to know where this debate going to end, people want to know, people want to come to a conclusion. Then Prime Minister, there is the great uncertainty in the LGBT community and ordinary Jamaicans alike about your promise to review the Buggery Act. The issue, Mr. Speaker, the issue...

Mr. SHAW: Check Time 100 for that. (Laughter) Check Time 100 for that.

(Sotto voce remarks by the Prime Minister)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, the issue...

Mr. SHAW: Time 100 for that.

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. HOLNESS: I will be meeting with them, don't worry.

(Sotto voce remarks by the Prime Minister)

Mr. HOLNESS: I will be meeting with them.

Mr. Speaker, there is great uncertainty in the LGBT community and ordinary Jamaicans alike, about your promise to review the Buggery Act. The issue is very sensitive, of course, but I'm sure you will agree that more and more Jamaicans are generally discussing the matter, discussing the issue. And I think, Mr. Speaker, a way to finally bring some certainty to it would be to put it to the people.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: What's your position?

Mr. HOLNESS: Put it to the people.

(Heckling by Members)

Mr. HOLNESS: You ask me what my position is? I'm a servant of the people. Put it to the people.

(Disturbance)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker...

(Disturbance)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. HOLNESS: And finally, and finally...

Mr. SHAW: Put it to the people.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Don't just pass a law; put it to the people first. When you a pass law, put it to the people first.

Mr. HOLNESS: And finally Mr. Speaker, there's the issue of the Queen being our Head of State. I'm sure that Jamaica would love to have our own Queen. And so, and so, Mr. Speaker, I am suggesting that we -

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: I would suggest my wife a Queen.

(Applause/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker....

Mr. SHAW: (Laughs) Good one!

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, my suggestion to the Prime Minister is that there is an election due sometime next year for Local Government; why not make arrangements to have a Grand Referendum at that time. It would be cost-effective and it would certainly settle these thorny issues, while at the same time answering the question, where are we going on social issues?

Mr. SHAW: Put them on the Ballot.

Mr. HOLNESS: Put them on a Ballot, have a Referendum, do it at the same time as Local Government. (Applause) Let us solve these issues once and for all. (Applause) Don't let them stay there hanging, let's decide and move forward as a nation. (Applause)

You know that, Madam Prime Minister, is true people power. That is true people power. Mr. Speaker, let us have this Grand Referendum.

Mr. Speaker, the Jamaican people are quite aware that the country is going through difficult times. I don't get from the people that they are reluctant to make sacrifices for the good of the country. The bus franchise holders are not saying that the JUTC should continue to make losses and keep them on. That's not what they are saying. That's not what I got from them.

What they're saying is that the managers, the Minister, the politicians who run it, that they must exercise discretion and understand that the burden-sharing must be fair. That's what they are saying. And we can't argue with that point so we have to look for solutions that increase service, make the burden manageable and make the government agencies less dependent on taxes. And there's the solution, if we put our heads to it, we can find it. But sometimes we make desperation blind us to opportunity.

Mr. Speaker, while people are willing to make sacrifices, they don't want to sacrifice in vain. They want to get a sense that better will come, that there is hope, that there is a direction, that though we are going through turbulent times, people want to know that the pilot is competent, in charge and that we will reach the desired destination.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HOLNESS: And if the people are unsure and they ask the pilot for assurance, they want to hear the pilot chart the course. They don't want to be told, "go ask the co-pilot!"

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, in the past few days and in the days to come, you will hear about how much the government cares about the vulnerable. Mr. Speaker, caring is not just words, caring is the demonstration of deep understanding of issues and the assurance of solutions. The Budget does not give the assurance that we are getting out of crises. The budget says we will be in crisis for some time to come. This budget says the government is reliant on taxes. Eventually, taxes will disincentive businesses and revenue yields will decline, which will lead to more taxes to make up for lost revenues. This is in fact the cycle that we are in.

Last year, the Minister imposed some taxes. He said afterwards that there will be no need for any new taxes. Then he comes now and says, 'well, I thought we would not have needed any new taxes'. But, we told him that the more you put on taxes - and we are reaching our taxable limit - the more the yield, the more the actual revenue from the tax will fall. And therefore, you are going to have to now come and put on more taxes. That's the cycle in which you are at you know, Minister?

Mr. D. SMITH: Maybe he should return.

Mr. HOLNESS: That's the cycle. So all that you're giving to the people for the foreseeable three, four years 'til you come out of the IMF deal, if you ever, is more taxes. We don't hear the innovative thinking of how we are going to solve our problem. All we hear about is fiscal constraint. That is not going to help us, with due respect, Minister.

Mr. Speaker, the present tax strategy of the Government is indiscriminate, desperate and a disincentive to business. We have shown that the government's policy of devaluation is flawed and inimical to the greater objective of reducing debt. Audley showed that clearly yesterday. Whilst you are trying to meet the IMF....

Dr. DAVIES: He didn't speak yesterday.

Mr. HOLNESS: Tuesday. Thank you for the correction. Tuesday.

A MEMBER: The next thing.

Mr. HOLNESS: Audley made the point very well, that while the Minister of Finance is being faithful to the IMF with regard to reaching the true value, the real value of the currency, allowing the currency to devalue, he's being unfaithful to himself in trying to control the debt, because the debt, based on your Strategy Paper, has increased by some $80 Million due to foreign exchange cost. So, you are in a conflicting position. You have two targets that if you meet one you gwaan fail the other. You know....

Dr. PHILLIPS: Don't worry 'bout that. What you don't know, we will explain.

(Laughter)

Mr. HOLNESS: I leave it to you, Minister, you are the Minister.

Mr. Speaker, we in the Opposition are preparing ourselves. We are ready. We will be hitting the road to answer the call of the people. We want that young man who was on the bus dropping off Resume's, though qualified and searching for job for over five months, to know, that we understand his plight and that we have plans to transform and grow this country. (Applause)

We are thinking in radical and new ways to achieve take-off. We want the young cosmetologist to know, that we will bring stability and opportunity to the economy, so that she doesn't have to go to live overseas. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker we believe in the Jamaican Spirit. I am hopeful in the energy of youth, which make up 66% of Jamaica's population. They are not jaded by the failures of the past and they are still open to trying new ideas and take hold of the possibilities of the future. (Applause)

We believe in Jamaica's industry and enterprise. We reject the PNP's poverty politics. (Applause)

Under the PNP, social mobility is destroyed. By their policies, without any global crises, they have decimated the middle-class of this country and increased poverty. (Applause)

The competitive and progressive attitude of this country, the competitive and progressive attitude of this country is that we have an open society, we work hard and talent is rewarded. And it is on this basis that self-improvement is achieved, that each generation can expect to do better than the generation that followed. That is the definition of prosperity. That is the definition of progress. Under the PNP that is no longer the case.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we have been in the wilderness for far too long. The people of this country are waking up like the people of Israel we will have our deliverance.

(Applause)

We will find our way to the Promised Land.

A MEMBER: Yes, we will.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, we believe there is a pathway of prosperity for Jamaica. It requires visionary leadership; it requires leaders who can see the forest through the trees. Right now this government is only seeing trees, they don't know... (Chuckles) ...where they are in the forest.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: They need, Mr. Speaker, leadership that can stand up, look on the horizon, and if we're going in the wrong way, if we applying the wrong tax, that Government can sey, wrong jungle... (Laughter)

(Mr. Holness pointed to Mr. Pickersgill)

(Mr. Pickersgill laughs)

…wrong tax. But what we have right now is that the Government is in the jungle, in the forest and the people asking them, 'where are we going?' And the Leader turn to her co-leader and sey, "weh we going?" (Laughter)

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HOLNESS: No direction, and that is how people feel.

Mr. D. SMITH: Co-leader is Omar, you know.

Mr. HOLNESS: They don't feel that the sacrifice, Mr. Speaker, is going to carry them anywhere.

Who will give deliverance to the people, who will restore hope, justice, leadership and prosperity? We understand the JLP is justice. The JLP is good leadership. (Applause) The JLP stands for prosperity.

(Applause)

I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Standing Ovation by Opposition Members)

(Applause) (Heckling)

(The Speaker gavels)

(Applause) We have the President of the Senate and other Members of the Senate, (Applause) and former Parliamentarians, we welcome you all, good to have you. (Applause)

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Clerk laid on the Table of the House a copy of the following:

- Ministry Paper No. 62
  Plant Health Policy and Implementation Plan
- Ministry Paper No. 63
  "New Approach" National Security Policy for Jamaica 2014
- Corrigendum to the Ministry of Finance and Planning
- Ministry Paper No. 64
  Revenue Measures for the 2014/2015 which was laid on the Table of the House of Representatives April 17, 2014

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Warmington.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Last week I raised the issue of Members of Parliament receiving part salary or part payment or some Members of Parliament not receiving any payments at all. There were some explanations or excuses given then as to why. This week what I need to ask is what is the situation with drivers employed or assigned to Members of Parliament and Ministers because to date what I know is that those with whom I have checked, those drivers have not received pay up until now and some secretaries of the constituencies have not received either. So we got one explanation last week. So what is the situation now as it relates to drivers?

(DR. THE HON. OMAR LLOYD DAVIES, (PNP), St. Andrew, Southern, entered and took his seat.)

The SPEAKER: Mr. Warmington this is not the appropriate place.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Where is the appropriate place, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER: Bring it to the attention of...

Mr. WARMINGTON: Where is the appropriate place?

The SPEAKER: The Accounts Department.

Mr. WARMINGTON: They are employed by Parliament, and you have entertained the questions.

The SPEAKER: If you are bringing it to the attention of the Parliament, yes, but you cannot get an answer today.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Well, if you say I cannot get an answer today but tell me that it is not - I cannot bring it to Parliament. They are employed by Parliament, Mr. Speaker, you erred right now, you are not correct in your ruling, I may say, this is the place to bring the question. You as Speaker ought to find some way to give an answer but to say you will give the answer in due course, but don't say I cannot bring it here. This is the place for it to be brought.

The SPEAKER: You could not be expected to get the answer today.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Why?

The SPEAKER: You are bringing it to my attention now.

Mr. WARMINGTON: So, I am bringing it to your attention, you will give an explanation in due course.

The SPEAKER: I will investigate the matter.

Mr. WARMINGTON: But don't say this is not the appropriate place or time then. That one you are incorrect with.

The SPEAKER: This is not the appropriate place to go into the details of it.

Mr. WARMINGTON: But you cannot say it is not the appropriate place, I disagree with you.

The SPEAKER: Thank you, Mr. Warmington.

PUBLIC BUSINESS

BUDGET DEBATE

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we continue the debate under Item 5 of the Order Paper. And today the single presenter is the Member who has served unbroken for 40 years the constituency of South West St. Andrew. (Applause) The Member who has served the longest as Sports Minister anywhere in the world. (Applause) And the Member who is the first female Prime Minister of this glorious country. (Applause)

Today we anticipate from our Prime Minister, her contribution to this debate.

The SPEAKER: Prime Minister. (Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Honourable Members, distinguished Members of the Diplomatic and Consular Corps, and international organizations, Jamaicans, at home and in the diaspora.

(HON. NOEL GEORGE DELANO ARSCOTT, Clarendon, South Western, entered and took his seat.)

It is with a deep sense of humility and gratitude that I rise to address this Parliament, in this important Budget Debate.

I give thanks to the Almighty God, for his favour on Jamaica and for his guiding hand in the face of the great challenges of our times.

(HON. EVON PATRICK CULLITON ATKINSON, QC, (PNP), Trelawny, Northern, Attorney General, entered and took his seat.)

As a Government, we remain confident and resilient anchored in the mandate of the people to lead this country with skilful hands and integrity of heart. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, today, I remember my mother and my father. I honour their sacrificial investment in my life and I love them for the legacy of their values which have inspired me during my over 40 years of unbroken service to the people of Jamaica. (Applause)

I thank my anchor, my husband, Errald, (Applause) and the other members of my family including the one in a million Marva... (Applause) ...for their continuing support and encouragement.

My deep gratitude is extended to the Members of the Cabinet, the leadership members and supporters of the People's National Party, my councillors, and constituents of South West St. Andrew, the members of staff of the Office of the Prime Minister and Cabinet Office, my advisory and administrative team, my security detail.

(MR. PAUL LENNOX BUCHANAN, (PNP), St. Andrew, West Rural, entered and took his seat.)

I want to recognize the presence of the President of the Senate, Senators, former Senators, former Members of Parliament.

I want to begin by thanking the children of Jamaica, and to their parents, I say, take care of our precious gems, and the future leaders of Jamaica. The little girl that you abuse today, in a few years could become Prime Minister of Jamaica. The boy that you abuse today, in a few years' time could become Prime Minister of Jamaica.

(MR. FITZ ARTHUR JACKSON, (PNP), St. Catherine, Southern, entered and took his seat.)

Ministers of Government, Leader of Opposition, Members of Parliament, Senators, mayors, doctors, lawyers architects engineers, we have a responsibility. I call on communities to join the parents in looking out for the children in the various communities across Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, let me once again express my heartfelt gratitude to every Jamaican those at home and those who reside outside of Jamaica. You continue to be the wind beneath my wings and the source of my motivation.
Today, I am also inspired by the words of Joshua Chapter 1 verse 9:

> Have I not commanded you? Be strong, and courageous. Do not be afraid; do not be discouraged, for the Lord your God will be with you wherever you go. (Applause)

ECONOMIC GROWTH

Mr. Speaker, I address this Honourable House at a time when the financial resources of our country are low, when the confidence of some of our fellow citizens has been dented by doubt and discouragement. It is a time when many ask the question, how much more can we sacrifice? I say to them, be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid, do not be discouraged.

(HON. COLIN ALFRED A. FAGAN, (PNP), St. Catherine, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

Last year was another challenging year. The severity of the fiscal adjustment which has to be undertaken is causing hurt to all of us. No one has been spared; the poorest households, middle-income professionals who operate on a fixed income, and business persons with large and small enterprises.

My understanding of the pain, Mr. Speaker, resulting from some of the adjustments, particularly in the fiscal accounts, comes from a lifetime of service to the people of Jamaica, and an abiding desire to improve the lives of the entire Jamaican family.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: It is not based on a single bus ride. When I go to the supermarket…. (Applause/Laughter)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: …I see the changes in the food prices and I am aware of the economic challenges within households. I feel the concerns, I know the expectations. Many persons tell me about their dreams for their children, they tell me of their hopes for a prosperous society. (Applause) My Administration, Mr. Speaker, shares their dreams and their aspirations. To realize our goals we have to get the economy right.

All well-thinking Jamaicans know that the economic adjustments have to be made. Most understand that this Government has been focused and responsible, they know that we are staying with the programme of macro-economic transformation. Let there be no doubt about that. This Government is equally focused on protecting our people, particularly the most vulnerable in our society... (Applause) ...from the shocks of the adjustments that must be made.

Mr. Speaker, we are balancing the books while balancing people's lives. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: That's right!

The PRIME MINISTER: This is not a catch-phrase. It expresses the core of my philosophy on politics and governance. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right!

The PRIME MINISTER: It remains, Mr. Speaker, my non-negotiable position after four decades of public service. (Applause) It remains the firm guiding principle of our Government. When I speak about balancing people's lives I have in mind the generations of the Jamaicans who have emerged through a complex history, descendants of slaves, Maroons, indentured workers, traders and planters. I speak of the policemen, teachers, nurses, doctors, lawyers, household workers, gardeners, business owners, hairdressers, taxi drivers, civil servants, security guards, all the persons who are the engines of our nation's growth and development. I speak of the firemen; I speak of every category of workers, including our farmers, the backbone of our nation.

For us, Mr. Speaker, no matter how small the pie, every single member of our Jamaican family must get a portion, regardless of where they live, how they look, how they vote or not vote.

(Applause)

And I want make it clear, I know one thing, no matter what anyone wants to say, I am the Prime Minister for all Jamaicans. (Applause) We are the Government for all the people.

We have developed a creative mix of programmes intended to reduce the economic and social pressure on all our people, especially the poor and the middle- class. We were seeking to ease the tax burden, so this Government reduced GCT from 17.5 per cent - where we found it when we came to office - to 16.5. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker that is balancing the books while balancing people's lives.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: We believe in the dignity of labour, and that everyone should earn a decent wage for their work. We therefore increased the Minimum Wage twice. That is balancing the books while balancing people's lives. (Applause)

We believe that our people must be able to maintain, Mr. Speaker, a measure of economic stability in their latter years. That is the reason we increased the NIS pensions by 16.7 per cent. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: That is balancing the books while balancing people's lives.

We believe that public sector workers who have served this country with distinction and dedication should be able, despite the constraints, to feel the appreciation of the nation. This Government has increased government pensions twice. (Applause) That is balancing the books while balancing people's lives. (Applause)

We know that our children must be given the best opportunities to learn. That is the reason we have significantly expanded the School-Feeding Programme. (Applause) And I want to commend the Minister of Education and his team.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, we have implemented several important community-building programmes through JSIF. That's balancing the books while balancing people's lives.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: That's not all, Mr. Speaker. This Government has made several major investments in our people over the last year and into this new financial year. We believe that we have a sacred duty to intervene on behalf of those who, for reasons of circumstance, age, infirmity or lack of opportunity, cannot adequately help themselves.

The Government will be spending over Five point Five Billion Dollars ($5.5B) to safeguard the welfare of the vulnerable in our society. (Applause) This amount includes Nine Hundred Million Dollars ($900M) to facilitate a 15 per cent increase in payments to PATH beneficiaries.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear! (Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: That's what we mean when we say we are balancing the books while we are balancing people's lives. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we believe in education. We are the Government that had transformed education for our people.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right! That's right!

(MR. JOYLAN CRAIG IAN SILVERA, (PNP), St. Mary, Western, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. LYNVALE GEORGE BLOOMFIELD, (PNP), Portland, Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. ANDRÉ MARIO HYLTON, (PNP), St. Andrew, Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. DARYL WESLEY PHILLIP VAZ, (JLP), Portland, Western, entered and took his seat.)

The PRIME MINISTER: And there can be no denying of this. This is why we have made changes to the lending policy of the Students' Loan Bureau. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: That's right!

The PRIME MINISTER: Steps needed to be taken to address the conditions governing loans to students. We are aware that there are thousands of students from low-income households who, through hard work have qualified for tertiary institutions. Our commitment to balancing lives, Mr. Speaker, does not permit us to have the doors of opportunity slammed in the faces of those students simply because they are unable to qualify for loans from the Students' Loan Bureau.

(Applause)

You know, Mr. Speaker, in my constituency we now have so many students in tertiary institutions, some have graduated. We have doctors graduating, lawyers, engineers, just name it. You know why? Because we took the conscious decision in South West St. Andrew to invest in our children. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, balancing the books while balancing people's lives is a commitment that we stand by. Even before we came into Office 2012 we recognized the need for a special programme to provide jobs for the most needy. Under my instruction the JEEP Programme was designed and implemented. It has become one of the most popular programmes in recent times. (Applause)

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: I believe that whenever there is a crisis affecting our people the Government has a duty to apply appropriate measures to lessen the burden.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: JEEP has generated jobs for more than 42,000 persons. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: JEEP allows Members of both sides of this Honourable House the opportunity to have an input in the^ development and implementation of the small infrastructure projects that benefit the communities they represent - all of us represent.

Mr. VAZ: I want some more this year.

The PRIME MINISTER: And you shall have. It bears no political colour. It is not green, it is not orange, it is not blue, it is about people. (Applause)

Projects such as drain-cleaning, planting of barren hillsides, no grass, no trees, repairs to health centres...

A Government MEMBER: Sidewalks.

The PRIME MINISTER: So during this fiscal year the JEEP has been refueled to the value of Six Hundred and Thirty Million Dollars ($630M).

(Applause)

This is a special allocation from the loan made available for the Major Infrastructural Development Programme. I want to pause to commend Minister Davies and his team. Mr. Speaker, the progress continues as we work daily to balance the books while balancing people's lives. These are only some of the measures which we have taken to address the difficulties being faced by our people.

There were many more achievements, Mr. Speaker. As I said in my address to Parliament last year, this process is a journey, not an event.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's correct.

The PRIME MINISTER: The outcomes we seek will give us robust economic growth, and marked improvement in the lives and fortunes of our people. (Applause) I am committed to continuing to seek out and apply the necessary measures as we strive to balance the lives of all our people, as we balance the books.

Mr. Speaker, there is no quick fix to our economic situation. On this, we should have bipartisan agreement. If there was a quick fix, given the Opposition's claim to their capacity to manage the economy, perhaps it would already have been fixed.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's correct.

The PRIME MINISTER: Instead, Mr. Speaker, it was made worse.

(DR. KENNETH LEIGH O'NEIL BAUGH, (JLP), St. Catherine, West Central, entered and took his seat.)

Had the JLP Government done what they should have done when they should have done it, the country would not be in this difficult position... (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Control, control.

A Government MEMBER: It is true.

The PRIME MINISTER: ...lest we forget. You know what I have now discovered; there are four missing years, every time some people talk.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That is true... true, true... disappear.

The PRIME MINISTER: Just in case, Mr. Speaker, some people forget, the truth is that they took the IMF Loan Funds upfront. When the time came to make the necessary reforms, reforms that they had agreed to make, they did not fulfill their obligations. (Applause)

Mrs. NIETA-HEADLEY: That's correct.

(Sotto voce comments)

A Government MEMBER: They run away.

Mr. SHAW: And you haven't done it yet either.

Mr. CHUCK: Still not done yet.

The PRIME MINISTER: The Opposition Spokesman on Finance is on record saying - in this Parliament in 2010...

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Shaw)

The PRIME MINISTER: Not even my baby Christiana is going to save you from this.

(Laughter/Applause)

And you know I love her. She is so sweet.

"The adjustment measures… let me look because I have to quote it properly... "The adjustment measures were difficult but could not have been avoided. No Government likes to impose new taxes, or to cut wages."

A Government MEMBER: Who said that?

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: No, sah.

Mr. PARCHMENT: Audley, can you recall?

The PRIME MINISTER: The truth is, if we could have avoided it, we would have. We took these serious and tough measures to secure the future of the country.

Government MEMBERS: Nooo… aaahhhh.

Mr. PARCHMENT: It could never be Audley. Audley, is you say that?

The PRIME MINISTER: "Our willingness to take tough measures - not popular, but necessary - give confidence to our development partners."

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Really!

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Who was that; man a yard?

A Government MEMBER: Rey-rey… It was rey-rey time.

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, they say they knew what they had to do, yet they failed to do it.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's correct.

A Government MEMBER: They walked away from it.

The PRIME MINISTER: I am here to tell the returned Opposition Member that no amount of blustering, or rhetoric, either now or then, will change the facts. It is history. You squandered your opportunity.

Government MEMBERS: Yes, yes.

The PRIME MINISTER: You may have chosen to forget but the people of Jamaica have not forgotten.

Mr. ATKINSON: And we will remind them.

A Government MEMBER: We can recall.

Mr. McKENZIE: Keep quiet.

The PRIME MINISTER: The then Government did not do what had to be done. That is why our Government, we are now feeling the crunch. Mr. Speaker, in his presentation to this Honourable House last week, the Leader of the Opposition made interesting use of the selected statistics on the Jamaican economy.

A Government MEMBER: As usual.

The PRIME MINISTER: He sought to establish that all the problems which the country now faces, originated during the 18 years of the last PNP Administration, from 1989 to 2007. In a sense, he was just a little too clever in this use - or should I say, misuse of statistics.

(Laughter/Applause)

He seemed to have forgotten the four years when the party which he now leads, formed the Government. Perhaps we should call this period, September 2007 to December 2011, the missing years of recent Jamaican history. (Laughter) I pause because I see Members of the private sector here as well. Thank them for their contribution, and thank them for being present.

A Government MEMBER: And they were present in those years.

The PRIME MINISTER: It is my duty to place on record, the hard evidence, Mr. Speaker, of the extent to which the country reverses forward movement during those four missing years.

Here are some facts. I challenge either the Leader of Opposition, or anyone else under his charge to successfully refute...

Mr. McKENZIE: Eighteen.

A MEMBER: How you know suh!

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: It is a refutable fact, that during the 18 years of the PNP Administration, the level of poverty declined from 29 per cent in 1989 to 9.9 per cent in 2007. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

(MISS JOYCE DENISE DALEY, (PNP), St. Catherine, Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

The PRIME MINISTER: It is a fact that the last fiscal year of the last PNP Administration, 2006 to 2007, the economy grew by 3.4 per cent.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: That is right.

The PRIME MINISTER: It is a fact that inflation for 2006 was under six per cent. (Applause) It is a fact that the country's debt stock grew by just under 70 per cent between September and December 2011 - the missing years.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Holness)

The PRIME MINISTER: It is a fact that the exchange rate in September 2007, was $70.41 to US$1, and it was $86.60 to US$1 in December 2012. That too, was during the missing years.

Mr. SHAW: I mentioned that.

The PRIME MINISTER: Thank you for mentioning it; you reminded me.

Mr. Speaker, there are more statistics that could be provided to establish that while some things did not turn out as we had hoped, as a Government, and I am sure as they had hoped when they were in Government - and we readily admit to that - the country, in 2007 was in a better position than when we returned to Office in 2012.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That is true... fact.

Mr. MAIR: Untrue.

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker that is history. We accept that during the eighteen-year period of the PNP Administration, that there was significant borrowing and that we ran a budget deficit for several years. However, Mr. Speaker, there is a clear evidence of social and economic improvements. These include: the reduction in poverty, the expansion of educational opportunities, and the improvements in physical infrastructure, such as, the North Coast Highway, stretching from Negril to Port Antonio...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes...

The PRIME MINISTER: Highway 2000, which has revolutionized travel along sections of the South Coast...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes...

The PRIME MINISTER: ...improvements to our international airports and seaports...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes...

The PRIME MINISTER: ...significant developments in the tourism sector...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes...

The PRIME MINISTER: ...expanded water and sewage developments... and the list - I could go on, and go on, and go on... (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Don't stop the progress.

The PRIME MINISTER: The question I ask the Leader of the Opposition...

A Government MEMBER: Which one? (Laughter)

The PRIME MINISTER: The question is, Mr. Speaker, what exactly does the country have to show for the $660 Billion in increased debt that incurred over those four missing years?

A MEMBER: Yes... missing...

A Government MEMBER: Christiana bypass.

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: One of this Government's main priorities is to reduce the debt.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Prime Minister's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Prime Minister's time for speaking be extended until she has completed her presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Prime Minister's time for speaking be extended, sufficient for her to complete her presentation?

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Prime Minister.

(Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: Thank you, Mr. Speaker; thank you Honourable Members. This Administration has not only been saying that we have to live within our means. We have been doing more with less. Jamaica cannot continue to borrow its way out of its troubles. That is why we have to make the economic adjustments. Mr. Speaker, the Budget for 2009 was $561 Billion; the budget for 2012 was $610 Billion; this year's Budget is $540 Billion. We have no other choice but to spend less this year. We have to live, Mr. Speaker, within our means. (Applause)

The country is already aware; this Government secured an IMF Agreement. We negotiated hard to arrive at the best Agreement for Jamaica. As in any negotiation, both sides held strong positions. Our strong position was that the poor and most vulnerable must be protected in the adjustments.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: We had to remain true to our word. We are balancing the books while balancing people's lives. To date, we have passed all quarterly IMF tests... (Applause) ...but this cannot be said of the four missing years.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mrs. NIETA-HEADLEY: Oh, dear, oh, dear!

Mr. Speaker, there are signs of improvement in the macro-economic stability of the country. The country's debt to GDP ratio is declining and we must keep going in this direction. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Right… right course.

Another Government MEMBER: Full speed ahead.

The PRIME MINISTER: There is evidence of growth in the following sectors of the economy, Mr. Speaker:

- agriculture;
- tourism;
- construction;
- mining and quarrying.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: Earlier this year, Fitch Ratings upgraded Jamaica to a B-Minus rating and an overall positive outlook. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's correct.

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, it is important for us to complete the economic reforms especially since we are seeing a return to growth in critical sectors and since we are seeing greater levels of investment activities. This year there has been a small revenue package that has been presented by the Minister of Finance. Many concerns have been raised, we have listened. I have spoken to the Minister, we have discussed at the Cabinet, the Minister of Finance is to address the issue or the issues that have been raised when he closes the debate tomorrow. So this will be dealt with tomorrow.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's correct.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(Cross talk)

The PRIME MINISTER: The tough decisions we have taken and the painful adjustments, Mr. Speaker, we have had to make, they are bearing fruit. Bearing fruit, Mr. Speaker. We are seeing encouraging signs. Let me express my profound gratitude to the Jamaican people for making this tremendous sacrifice for the future of our country. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: It is during the most difficult circumstances that the Jamaican people reveal their courage and resilience.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: It is when we are asked, Mr. Speaker, to make that extra sacrifice, when we feel we are almost at the edge, that we find the strength to dig a little deeper into our resolve.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: That is when we reveal just who we are: strong and determined to make life better for our children and our children's children. (Applause) At times such as this, Mr. Speaker, we must rise above the negatives, look for the positives and seize the opportunities.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, the issues we debate in this Honourable House today are not about the JLP and the PNP.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: If we must look to a P, that P must be the people.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: That P must be purpose.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: That P must be progress.

A Government MEMBER: Yes.

(Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: That P must be prosperity for all of us.

A Government MEMBER: Yes.

(Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: Today we must declare our purpose as a nation, the purpose of ensuring a firm and solid foundation for the future.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right. That's it.

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, when I think of balancing people's lives, I think of the children moving into new and improved educational facilities.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Hear, hear!

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's it.

The PRIME MINISTER: For example the brand new Marlie Hill Infant School... (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's it.

The PRIME MINISTER: ...and Cedar Grove Academy in St. Catherine. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right. That's it.

The PRIME MINISTER: I think, Mr. Speaker, of the sugar workers and their families...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's it.

The PRIME MINISTER: ...who have been relocated from barracks into new houses with modern amenities. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

A Government MEMBER: Progress.

The PRIME MINISTER: I think of the thousands of persons who have been brought into the light through the Rural Electrification Programme... (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's it, that's it.

The PRIME MINISTER: ...and I commend the Minister. I think of our farmers who are now receiving water for irrigation through the National Irrigation Commission. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's it, that's it.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

A MEMBER: Cow passport...

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, we are continuing the process of balancing people's lives. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right, that's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: We have honoured our commitment to complete various reclassification exercises. We have honoured our commitment to make one-off payments of $25,000 per annum to public sector workers. This amounts to J$2.8 Billion.

Mr. DALLEY: Promise made, promise kept.

The PRIME MINISTER: We have made the first payment and we are committed to make the next payment in August of this year. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: We have honoured our commitment to preserving the jobs of public sector workers, avoiding the distress of mass redundancy.

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, we have honoured our commitment to transforming the lives of our people through the removal of zinc fences, building roads, schools and refurbishing health centres. (Applause) We have also provided grant funding for a wide range of projects across the country.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's it.

The PRIME MINISTER: That, Mr. Speaker is balancing people's lives.

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

INFRASTRUCTURE DEVELOPMENT

The PRIME MINISTER: I turn now, Mr. Speaker, to some critical areas on which this Administration is focusing. We have made concerted effort to increase employment opportunities and to attract investments. We're undertaking infrastructure development projects for Jamaica's success. We're working toward making communities more liveable through a coordinated strategy, which includes rural development. You know, if we were to speak the truth very often governments are so tied up because of the lack of funding so that many times the focus is placed on our cities and towns and deep rural Jamaica is forgotten. I want to see us begin to look at our deep rural areas because those of us who represent inner city constituencies we know what it is. It is also said that there are some communities in deep rural Jamaica where the people their lives are worse off than those even in our inner cities. We need to address both," both our inner cities and those in deep rural Jamaica.

(Applause)

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, we are expanding ownership in Jamaica by providing opportunities for more Jamaicans to own property. We have restored Jamaica's credibility within the international community.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, we have.

The PRIME MINISTER: And I pause to thank the officials who are here: the members of the Diplomatic and Consular Corps for the support we have gained, we have gotten from a number of countries. And when I mentioned sugar barracks, I should mention the European Union. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: And the Ambassador to Jamaica and all the Ambassadors from Europe. Every time we go to hand out titles or keys like me I see the feeling of joy on the faces of these ambassadors representing their countries from here. God bless the European Union, the largest contributor of grant funding to this country. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: That is why, Leader of the Opposition, when I was invited by the Leader of the EU I could not say no, but you know what, (Laughter/Applause) but you know what, the Monday when I went to Cabinet there was one person who stood up to me and said, God bless you, EU released some funds.

(Cross talk)

No, no, wise leaders cannot just stay home every time. Look at President Obama, he was where? Looking for opportunities for trade and partnerships with other countries and we are small Jamaica one tiny dot on the map.

(Cross talk)

And I read it in the papers that I was in Mexico and I pinched myself to find out whether I was at home or I really was in Mexico, but I would like to inform that I should have gone to Mexico today - I couldn't go - speech and we indicated and the Mexican President will send his plane to get me tomorrow. (Applause) And will get me back to Jamaica after the meeting tomorrow night. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Andrew a tek bus. (Laughter)

(Cross talk)

The PRIME MINISTER: Perhaps the Leader of the Opposition should accompany me.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

Mr. HOLNESS: You go by yourself. I'm fine with the bus.

(Cross talk)

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, no discussion about balancing people's lives can take place without improving the levels of investment and employment. My Administration is of the firm view, Mr. Speaker that our human resource must be at the heart of our growth and development strategy.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: The Government remains focused on creating jobs for our people. Between 2008 and 2011 - over 90,000 Jamaicans lost their jobs. We came to office and immediately set about addressing the unemployment situation facing the country. We put in place a number of programmes, Mr. Speaker. Earlier I spoke of JEEP. Some 12,000 persons are expected to be employed in the new phase of JEEP this year.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Am I right, Minister?

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

The PRIME MINISTER: Government and the people working, working, working. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Working, working, working.

The PRIME MINISTER: Over 5,000 persons will be employed under the Agro parks programme.

Another 2,000 direct and indirect jobs will be generated from the re-organized scrap metal trade. (Applause) That industry, last year, earned in excess of US$14.6 Million, approximately J$1.5 Billion. Last year, 14,000 persons were employed in the Overseas Employment Programme. (Applause) Minister, we have a total of 14,000 now overseas and remember they're going…

Mr. CHARLES: No, no!

The PRIME MINISTER: It is not for one year.

Mr. CHARLES: Not yet, not yet.

The PRIME MINISTER: Right, we have 14,000 persons. Based on information from the liaison service in Canada and the United States, that number is projected to increase - don't hold me to it if it doesn't happen because anything can happen and they do not.... projected to increase to 16,000 this year. But I want to advise persons don't go rushing the Members of Parliament, they can only send persons who have the experience to work in the areas that they request the persons for. These include: welders, mechanics and drivers who are paid at globally-benchmarked rates. Government and the people working, working, working.

Dr. PHILLIPS: While you have been talking, talking, talking.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Working, working, working. (Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: The Government will not be able to create all the jobs that the nation needs, Mr. Speaker. We, however, accept that we have the responsibility to create the enabling business environment in which the private sector can create jobs. It is for this reason that we have placed emphasis on increasing investment.

I just pause to recognize the presence of one who gave distinguished service to his country, former Minister, former Member of Parliament O.D. Ramtallie.

(Applause)

When we say we have been working, working these are some of the things we have been doing to assist in bringing investors to Jamaica.

In 2007, for example, Mr. Speaker, I visited Spain and met with private investors. I invited them to come to visit Jamaica. In March this year I was pleased to welcome Dr. Cobiella, the Chairman of the Hospiten Group. The Group has made an initial investment of US$20 Million Dollars to build a 16-room 28-bed general hospital in Rose Hall, Montego Bay. (Applause) Construction slated to be completed within a year. You know, Mr. Speaker, the interesting thing, the interesting thing, Mr. Speaker, was that at the press conference when he was speaking, he made the point that because of the Prime Minister's visit to Spain - and when I was speaking about Hospiten and our hospitals she said to me why not build one in Jamaica, I am here now to fulfill that commitment I gave you. (Applause)

I want to thank the Spanish Ambassador, former Spanish Ambassador Jesus de Silva and the present Ambassador, it is now happening. The project will provide 300 jobs during the construction phase (Applause) with an additional 300 permanent jobs for medical and health professionals when completed. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Working, working, working.

EMPLOYMENT

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, we are securing investments for growth and development with job creation. In March 2012, I had the pleasure of meeting with Mr. K.S. Kumar of Sutherland Global Services, a US-based Business Process Outsourcing firm at the Jamaica Investment Forum in Montego Bay. I was delighted to officially open the facility at the University of the West Indies in December last year. Seven hundred (700) employees, mainly university students are now working that company. (Applause) When they leave classes they walk over to the center, they work, time for classes they move back into their classes after and there are some of them that expressed - and one young man that wrote a letter said how difficult it was for him not even having lunch money, but now he can pay his boarding, buy his books, having lunch money and can now assist his family. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Balancing people life. And they never meet him on nuh bus.

The PRIME MINISTER: Sutherland Global is now seeking to expand elsewhere in Kingston, Portmore and Mandeville and the commitment was given for Mandeville. (Applause) And if UTECH had enough land to accommodate the building UTECH would have gotten similar to the University of the West Indies. Mr. Speaker, Sutherland Global Investment was a direct outcome of the Investment Forum in 2012. I look forward to hosting the next forum March next year. (Applause) And I want to commend the Minister and his team. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, more than 14,000 Jamaicans mainly young people and they understand, have found jobs in the BPO sector. We are securing investments for growth and development with job creation. Many more companies are investing and diversifying their portfolios. We look forward to the opening of the first Marriott Courtyard property in New Kingston. (Applause) Sagicor has invested in three hotels and plans are well advanced to expand the product offerings by building a water park at one of these properties. (Applause) The Minister of Tourism and Entertainment will provide more details when he speaks in the Sectoral Debate. But I would like to say something else on tourism.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday I met with the principals of TUI Travel, which is Europe's largest tour operator and arguably the largest perhaps in the world.

Last year TUI increased airlift out of the United Kingdom to Jamaica from over 50,000 persons to over 90,000 persons, seats airlift, I am talking airlift here. I was pleased to learn that in the winter season 2014/2015 TUI will cause the British Cruise Line, the Thompson Dream to port in Jamaica for the first time. (Applause) TUI also operates the Royalton Hotel which was formerly the Starfish Hotel in Trelawny. The principals of TUI have given me the commitment, Mr. Speaker, that later this year they will start the construction of an additional 150 rooms. (Applause) This is a further indication of their confidence in Jamaica, Mr. Speaker.

Noranda Bauxite is investing US$18 Million in expanding their port at Discovery Bay. (Applause) Digicel is investing US$80 Million to put infrastructure in place to tap into opportunities emanating from the Logistics Hub. (Applause) LIME is investing $8.7 Billion to deploy a cutting-edge 4G mobile network. Mr. Speaker, all three telecoms, Digicel, LIME and FLOW are getting hub ready. (Applause)

There is, Mr. Speaker, expansion in renewable energy with the JPS recently opening the hydro electric plant in Maggoty, St. Elizabeth. There is increased investment in the Wigton Wind Farm and other investment in renewable energy. Mr. Speaker, there is a waiting list of investors to get into the Free Zones. We will continue our efforts to attract both foreign and local investment to create jobs and to grow the economy.

Mr. Speaker, my Administration recognizes the pivotal role of the private sector in the growth and development process of our country. (Applause) The formal signing of the Partnership of Jamaica took place last year on the eve of Emancipation Day. We are working together on the economic reform programme, energy, crime, justice and improving the business environment. I thank the Opposition and the representatives from the trade union movement, civil society, the private sector and members of the academic community, all members of the partnership for their participation. (Applause)

Another important partnership effort has been the formation of a Linkages Council. This is now fully active within the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment in partnership with the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries. I just double checking something with you. What about the manufacturers, we had spoken to that issue, (Conferring with Dr. McNeill) they are an important part of it.

Okay, thank you. I want to ensure that our local manufacturers be engaged, because the more hotel rooms we get then certainly there should be a space for die furnishing from our local manufacturers. (Applause) The Council has been meeting under the chairmanship of business executive Mr. Donovan Perkins. The head of the Jamaica Manufacturer's Association, JMA, Mr. Brian Pengelley is on record as stating that members of that organization are already reaping the benefits of this initiative. And I want to thank him for being here today (Applause) and for assisting to get this done.

The successful staging of the JMA/JEA Expo, Jamaica, in collaboration with the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce is it another example of the benefits of public/private partnership. Mr. Speaker, I would like to commend the President of the JMA, the President of the Jamaica Exporters Association, Mrs. Kennedy and the JAMPRO team for delivering a successful Expo 2014. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, partnerships take different forms as we all work together to balance people's lives. We are working hard to grow every area of business in order to achieve our objectives of growth and development with job creation. Mr. Speaker, the world is changing. In this globalized world there are several emerging industries in which we have an interest. This year particular attention will be paid to the development of three important growth areas, these are: the cultural and creative economy; (Applause) two, innovation, science and technology; three, for too long we have not been as a country and government paying enough attention to the nutraceuticals industry. (Applause)

CREATIVE CULTURE

These industries represent big business with new and exciting opportunities. The global market value of the creative industry I am told is worth approximately US$1.6 Trillion. The combined global value of science and technology-based industries is currently estimated in excess of US$4 Trillion.

Mr. Speaker, the cultural and creative economy, innovation, science and technology and the nutraceutical industry all have some things in common. They are people-centered, they depend heavily on human input and Jamaicans have a natural inclination for creativity, ingenuity and innovation. They have the potential to create a large number of technical, creative, administrative, research and professional jobs. We have to, as a Government, give them full support and I'm sure we have the support of the Members of the Opposition. (Applause)

They have the potential, Mr. Speaker, to engage young people and vulnerable groups. They cross disciplines, agencies and ministries and, therefore, require joined-up approaches. They each assist in national development efforts including health and wellness, communication, education, community development and poverty alleviation. They are critical elements to grow Brand Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, it is important that Jamaica quickly grasp the opportunities in these global markets. This Government recognizes that swift and definitive steps have to be taken to grow and develop these industries. This Government has taken action. We are actively developing plans and policies for these emerging industries.

I have instructed the appropriate agencies to consult with the relevant stakeholders to facilitate intellectual property, management, research and development, supportive financing structures for industries, marketing and promotion, institutional strengthening, business development and incubation, training certification and standardizations of skills, the establishment and/or renovation of facilities and the facilitation of domestic, regional and international trade.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me just look briefly at the cultural and creative economy.

The Jamaican culture is embraced worldwide and our creativity knows no bounds.

I was extremely proud last year when on arrival at two international airports, I was greeted by supersized images of Usain Bolt, the fastest man in the world, advertising major international brands. International brand and pride of a people!

Shelly Ann Fraser Pryce, the fastest woman in the world is Jamaica's UNICEF Ambassador for Children. International brand and pride of a people. (Applause)

Tessanne Chin's 'Voice' made waves internationally. (Applause) International Brand and pride of a people!

Jamaican accents, personality and the music of Jimmy Cliff made last year's Volkswagen 'Happy Campaign' a most memorable and valuable promotion piece for Jamaica. International brand and pride of a people!

How could we speak of Jamaican culture and not mention the great Bob Marley? He is posthumously featured in a Special Edition of the Rolling Stones Magazine, over thirty years after his passing. (Applause) His song, "One Love" was named the song of the Millennium by the BBC. Another international brand and pride of a people!

I pause to congratulate Sister Marcia Griffiths on her celebration of 50 years in the music business. (Applause) As we all stand together, we will all turn the corner together and be able to say as sister Marcia sings, "Thank you Lord, it is Shining Time Again".

I am pleased, Mr. Speaker, to inform this Honourable House and all Jamaicans that the Cultural and Creative Industries Commission which I chair, and the supporting inter-ministerial technical working group have been established and have begun their work within the Office of the Prime Minister. We know where we are going. Mr. Speaker, we are working to apian.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear! (Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: This is a Government at work, balancing the books while balancing people's lives. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, science and technology are important drivers of innovation entrepreneurship and wealth creation. With the logistics hub and other opportunities on the horizon, knowledge facilitation and development remain important priorities. (Applause) Now and in the future, 70% of jobs will require knowledge in the areas of science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

This year, we will begin the inter-ministerial policy integration of critical ministries to streamline, Mr. Speaker, the applications of science and technology in development. Because of the importance I place on these critical areas of development, I will Chair the National Commission on Science and Technology. (Applause) In this context, Mr. Speaker I now turn to the nutraceutical industry that I mentioned earlier.

Many Jamaicans know of the medicinal value of our herbs and plants. (Applause) We use the leaves from our trees and bushes to make teas, spices and treat ailments. Here is a real-life example of how this industry can stimulate wealth creation in rural communities.

The Southern Manchester Herbs & Spices Cooperative Society, which represents 30 stakeholders and 150 farmers provide dried herbs and spices such as Lemon Grass, Peppermint, Rosemary, Cerasee and Basil to tea producers in Jamaica. JSIF has provided this cooperative with a state-of-the-art drying facility, located in Prattville in Southern Manchester.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Good place, very good place.

(Inaudible comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: Communities which will benefit directly include Hermitage, Campbell's Castle, Lancaster, New Broughton and Mannings Field. Mr. Speaker, I am sure you are particularly pleased at this development. (Applause)

Mr. VAZ: The people sey fi tell you hi!

(Laughter)

The PRIME MINISTER: The Scientific Research Council and the Bureau of Standards are providing institutional support to farmers and other players in the value chain. I wish to commend the important pioneers.

The Hon. Dr. Albert Lockhart and the late Dr. Manley West and their team are worthy of commendation.

(Applause)

The Hon. Dr. Henry Lowe and his team have pioneered the development of dietary supplements, wellness teas and instant porridges made from indigenous raw materials, among other products like body wash, body lotion, you name it from our local products including medicinal products. I want to commend Dr. Henry Lowe and his team. (Applause)

Businessman Mr. Anthony Freckleton has established Jamaica Exotic Flavours and Essences Limited in Bull Savannah, St. Elizabeth. He has been working with farmers and collaborating with local agro-processors and scientific institutions.

I am told that when there are no buyers for melons, they don't go to waste because of the work this gentleman is doing in St. Elizabeth.

(Applause)

They are developing a wide range of value-added products from local fruits, vegetables and herbs. These will be used in nutraceuticals, cosmetics, beverages and sauces, locally and internationally.

I wish to acknowledge the teams of the Northern Caribbean University for their work and research in terms of some of our plants and herbs. And the University of the West Indies that are engaged in these research.

There are also hundreds of unnamed Jamaicans, who as a matter of course have turned to nature and provided us with an organic culture of healing and nutrition that remains with us until today.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

The PRIME MINISTER: Those of us who grew up in deep rural Jamaica as children when we were ill, despite the medical doctors here who might not support some of what was done then, but it helped then. They didn't just rush us to the doctors when we had a fever or flu. They went behind the house or the kitchen or somewhere, they picked some leaves or something and they give us a cup of tea or mug of tea and within a day you are running up and down, well again and good to go.

Government MEMBER: Not eucalyptus oil.

(Laughter)

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, Jamaicans are not short of ideas, we certainly are not short on innovation and our entrepreneurial spirit is hard to beat.

(Applause)

As a Government, we are endeavouring to do more and to find new ways to facilitate our people, to help them to start and to maintain viable businesses. Good things are happening. You know, recently the NHT launched an entrepreneurship competition. In just two weeks over 500 applications were received. This tells me that our people have the desire and the capacity to actively participate in economic activities.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: I see hope in the responses to the calls for proposals from the CHASE Fund and the Sports Development Foundation. Hundreds of Jamaicans apply to them every year to fund their proposals. This tells me that our people, Mr. Speaker, are yearning for more opportunities. The entrepreneurial spirit is alive and well in Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, corporate Jamaica can testify to the large number of applications for sponsorship that they get for viable, practical projects. I commend the National Bakery for their Bold Ones Project that is helping small businesses to grow. (Applause)

I thank all companies who are facilitating entrepreneurship through sponsorship and corporate social responsibility. Every member in this House has received their fair share of business proposals and ideas. I think people out there believe that our pay is pay that we can survive. But when we get the requests from our constituents from every level, if it is a funeral, if it is for medication, if it is for somebody to go to - it is just unbelievable. And so, as policy-makers, we in this Parliament, we have a responsibility to ensure that in a number of these areas we assist and help to create the opportunities in partnership with the private sector so that we can help more of our people.

(Applause)

We all have facilitated micro and small businesses from chicken rearing to dressmaking to hairdressing. We are indeed all in this thing together. And I can say with the words of what they would say in my constituency, 'we are going to work it out'. We have to put in place programmes to address business facilitation, and we have to get it right. Successive Governments come and go; we speak about how long it is taking to make it possible for people to get the approvals and to be able to do business successfully in Jamaica; we have to get it right in this area.

We have recently launched the Enterprise Jamaica Project which is consistent with the new MSME policy approved in Parliament last year. (Applause)

JAMPRO's Export Max Programme is assisting small businesses to expand exports. Also the EX-IM Bank last year saw the highest levels of lending I am told, in its history. We are creating and enabling business environment. We know where we are going, Mr. Speaker, we working to a plan. (Applause)

And we just spoke about nutraceuticals all made in Jamaica, this is 100 percent exotic essences, flavours, eucalyptus, ligament repair, this improves circulation, and the men should listen, prostate treatment, and this one pain reliever, relieve aches, pain and congestion. (Applause) And this is a moisturizing cream for the skin, all made from natural ingredient Jamaican products, all Jamaican, everything natural. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to infrastructural development. You see, you have to see with me and forgive me, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen and Members of the Honourable House. It is often said we are doing nothing. I need to inform the country of some of the things we are doing. And when you don't see me, I am working, working, and working. (Applause)

I now turn to infrastructural development. I was recently speaking with a colleague who reminded me about what life used to be like in the 1950s for persons living below Spur Tree Hill who had to travel to Kingston. I was told that persons would shed tears, bidding their families goodbye, as they were unsure when they would reach Kingston by road, and how long it would take them to return.

Mr. Speaker, I understand that many boarded the back of a truck which they literally had to push when they came the steep and treacherous track that took them over Spur Tree Hill.

A MEMBER: 'Man Bump'.

The PRIME MINISTER: Known as 'Man Bump'. Thank God it wasn't 'Woman Bump'. That is why this government, over the decades, has placed special emphasis on infrastructural development. How far have we come over time? When the Leader of Opposition spoke, I remember he said although it was not in his official text, that we should spend - stop spending so much money on roads and spend it on education. But for me, growing up in deep rural Jamaica I understand clearly that both compensate the other, you need to have development. And guess what, as the daughter of a small farmer; I know what it was like when there was no road, but a climb the hill with load on the people's head so that they could get it to market. And if you do not have proper roads the children will never be able to get to school.

A MEMBER: Wrong bus.

The PRIME MINISTER: No, no, I believe the Leader of the Opposition said that because he was so satisfied when he took that bus ride the roads he travelled on.

Mr. Speaker, Norman Manley was ridiculed; Mr. Speaker Norman Manley was ridiculed for building the National Stadium. Highway 2000 and the North Coast Highway were called pipe dreams. Many scoffed at the work done to expand the Portmore Causeway, these development projects were implemented as part of a plan. This Administration continues to be guided by a plan for the development of its social and physical infrastructure. With all the roads work being taken now on highways and what we are doing, can you imagine, Minister of Road, Minister of Roads...

Dr. DAVIES: Yes.

(Laughter)

The PRIME MINISTER: Can you imagine, if you can find the money so that we could do a highway from Port Antonio through St. Thomas into Kingston?

(Applause)

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Vaz)

The PRIME MINISTER: No, no! I agree with you but I am just talking about the development opportunities, if we had money to undertake some of these projects, because it would open up two parishes that would be unbelievable one time. (Applause)

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Vaz)

The PRIME MINISTER: This Administration Mr. Speaker continues to be guided by a plan for the development of a social and physical infrastructure.

During my Budget Presentation last year the Leader of the Opposition may recall that I showed him a copy of the 1998 National Physical Plan of Jamaica. We promise to revise that plan that is being done. I promised in 2013 that we would commence the promulgation of development plans for those parishes, Mr. Speaker that do not have plans. Four plans have been promulgated for the parishes of Portland, Trelawny, Manchester and for Negril Green Island. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we have a plan. We know where we are going. (Applause)

We are continuing with the implementation of the major infrastructural projects across this country as part of the national development plan. Let me share with the country what some of these infrastructural projects are. When we improve our road network other development follows. We improved several major roads and highways during 2012 and 2013 including Bay Farm Road in St. Andrew, a road to growth and development, Scott's Cove to Belmont and Ferris Cross to Belmont, in Westmoreland, roads to growth and development. (Applause) Red Hills to Santa Maria, between St. Andrew and St. Catherine, a road to growth and development. Bog Walk to Sligoville in St. Catherine, a road to growth and development. We completed Segment III of the North Coast Highway Improvement Project, this runs from Ocho Rios, St. Ann to Port Antonio, Portland and was officially opened in May of last year, at a cost of 80 Million Pounds Sterling. This is a highway to growth and development. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the section of the North Coast Highway from Linstead to Moneague will be opened I am told in August. (Applause) Work will continue on Sections 1 and 3 in this fiscal year. We are moving steadily along the highway to growth and development.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Thank you, Minister. We are moving steadily along the highway. I could tell you about more roads that are to be completed across the island, but I have more to say so I have to leave road for now. What is certain, Mr. Speaker is that this is a Government at work; we are going for growth and development working for our people. (Applause)

Our 25 retaining walls were....

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

The PRIME MINISTER: I want you to listen, because it is said, it is being said that we have done nothing. In just over two years over 25 retaining walls were constructed across the island last year. Among these are: Mount Ogle, Lawrence Tavern, Oberlin and Cassava Piece in St. Andrew, Castleton, St. Mary, Buff Bay Valley, including Hollywell, Cascade and Regale, Aberdeen, Balaclava and Dalintober in St. Elizabeth. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this is a Government that is working for the people. (Applause)

We have more work to do. We know that there are many more roads still to be fixed, many more roads to be fixed. This provides challenges for our transport operators, farmers and entrepreneurs and people in their communities who depend on our roads network.

The PRIME MINISTER: We are determined to repair and build as many roads as possible within the limits of our financial resources. Contractors are obligated to do quality work so that we do not keep repairing the same road over and over. Jamaicans are making great sacrifices and want to see development happen. (Applause) They want to see value for their tax dollar. All of us in government have a duty to ensure that this happens.

Mr. Speaker, this Government has completed flood mitigation activities valued at over Four Million Jamaican Dollars (J$4B). (Applause) Because it is said that nothing happens, I have to take the opportunity now to say some of what happened.

A number of gullies have been built and others cleaned. Sandy Gully in St. Andrew, Capital Heights Gully, Green Pond in St. James, Black River seawall in St. Elizabeth, Roselle and Yallahs in St. Thomas, Rio Cobre and Port Henderson Drive in St. Catherine, Nightingale Grove, St. Catherine. This is a Government at work, working for you. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes! Yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: We also completed a number of bridges during the period. The Rio Grande bridge in Portland... (Applause) ...was opened last December. Building bridges for growth and development. The Westmoreland bridge in St. Mary was opened in August. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: It replaced the one that was destroyed by floods more than three years ago. We are building bridges for growth and development. (Applause) Cassia Park bridge in St. Andrew... (Applause) ...last year. We are building bridges for growth and development. (Applause) The Queens Borough bridge in St. Andrew was completed in December. We are building bridges for growth and development. (Applause)

The investment made to build these bridges was Seven point Five Six Billion Dollars ($7.56B).

Mr. Speaker, additional bridges built included those at Eleven Miles in St. Thomas, Port Maria and Eden River, and Fontabelle in St. Mary, Crooked River in Clarendon, Craig Mill in Portland, and Kintyre in St. Andrew. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: I had the pleasure of crossing the new bridge in Kintyre, with residents, when we opened it last year.

Mr. Speaker, there are even more infrastructural projects currently underway across the length and breadth of Jamaica - of this country. These include a Four Hundred Million Jamaican Dollar (J$400M) improvement project in Ocho Rios to upgrade the cruise ship terminal and create stalls for craft vendors. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Working for the people!

A Two point One Million Jamaican Dollar (J$2.1B) sewage improvement project in Portmore. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes! Yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: A One Billion Jamaican Dollar (J$1B) project for the installation of water pipes from Old Harbour to Manchester. (Applause) This is a Government that works! (Applause)

We are completing tourism development projects, including Hampden Wharf and streetscape in Falmouth... (Applause) ...the sea park in Negril, lighting the Elegant Corridor in Montego Bay, the development and operation of travel halts - thank you, Minister.

Mr. Speaker, there can be absolutely no doubt this Government, my Administration, is going for growth and development, working for the people. (Applause)

Over the next three years Mr. Speaker, we will continue the development of our infrastructure by way of the Major Infrastructure Development Programme. This will be financed through the China EX-IM Bank in the amount of Three Hundred Million United States Dollars (US$300M). The Government of Jamaica will provide an additional Fifty-two Million United States Dollars (US$52M) in counter-part fundings. (Applause)

It was suggested that the funds should be used to finance education instead, but we have to do what we have to do. At the same time the Minister of Education must pursue - and he got more money than last time, because we know the importance of education. Show me a prosperous nation and I will show you an educated people. (Applause) I believe in education.

Mr. Speaker, for us, governance is comprehensive. We do not believe it is a case of either roads or education. If there are no roads our children will not be able to go to school.

Under my Administration we are working to transform education, even as we ensure that we have a proper road network. (Applause) It cannot be one or the other. (Applause) We know where we are going. We are going for growth and development. Working for the people! (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I turn to the matter of Community Development. To me, Mr. Speaker, communities are not just clusters of homes in a common geographical area. Communities are and should be places where people from all backgrounds live, do business, create lasting memories and spend moments of recreation and rest with their families, where they can play with the children and pass on some good old-time values.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Central to the Jamaican community is the Jamaican family. That is why this Administration is placing emphasis on families and communities.

Our ultimate aim in building communities is for Jamaicans to be one family, as we work together to shape the future together.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: We are strengthening communities across the island through a number of programmes.

One hundred and seventy four (174) community access points for Internet service have been established islandwide, in collaboration with community organizations. (Applause) They have been funded by the Universal Service Fund; working for the people in communities. Forgive me, I am going through it because it is said we have done nothing and I want to establish what we have done so far.

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: Since June 2012, five markets have been rehabilitated, including the one I opened for the Member of Parliament from Clarendon who last night planned to block the road so that the people cannot access the market.

Government MEMBERS: Nooo, Ruddy! Nooo, Ruddy! Shame! Shame! Come on, Ruddy!

(Heckling)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Ruddy, is that you?

The PRIME MINISTER: You don't have to say anything to him. I leave him to the spirit of the Right Honourable Hugh Lawson Shearer! (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Yeaaah!

The PRIME MINISTER: A man of dignity and a man that loved the people.

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, the fish market in Lucea, Hanover, the Charles Gordon market in St. James, the Black River market, Phase 1, in St. Elizabeth, the Linstead market, Phase 1 in St. Catherine...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: ...and Rocky Point market in Clarendon.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes! Yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, earlier this month I visited Clarendon to open the market - and I commend the Member of Parliament for the work done through JSIF. Working for the people. I was shocked when I got a call last night while I was still in office at 12 o'clock, and heard that he was saying he was going to come out on the road. I just want to warn him. The people will not be able to access the market when you block the road.

Mr. CHARLES: What! Victimization!

(Cross talk)

The PRIME MINISTER: However, I want to commend him, because this was commendable - this was a commendable example of a community partnering with the Government for development. And when I toured the market I was very proud. It is how fish markets across the country should look, and how we should try to deal with all our markets that our women and men that use the markets can do so with pride and with dignity.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, 31 health centres were refurbished across the island. Three of these are Centres of Excellence in Darliston, Santa Cruz and Claremont. (Applause) Another four health centres are currently being refurbished. This includes the Centre of Excellence in Duckenfield.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes! Yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: We are working for the people in communities.

The Social Development Commission has established a national database. This provides us with information to assist us to set priorities and plans for community development.

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: We have long held the view, Mr. Speaker, that it is people whose ideas, skills and energy develop our communities and grow our economy. That is the reason why we have invested so much in education over the years. This has resulted, for example, in tertiary enrolment moving from 21.2 per cent to 29.5 per cent over the last ten years. (Applause) And I commend both Administrations.

Last year, in education we built or improved over 100 basic schools and created 68 infant departments in our primary schools.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Eight schools have been taken off the shift system, and we have opened two new high schools. (Applause)

One point Two Billion Dollars ($1.2B) Mr. Speaker, is to be spent to replace pit latrines with flush-system toilets in 158 schools. (Applause)

In this year, Mr. Speaker, 27,000 tablets will be distributed in our schools from May… Applause) ...of this year, at a cost of Eight Hundred Million Dollars ($800M).

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: You know, Mr. Speaker, it was brought to my attention by the people from St. Catherine that the Ginger Ridge School, where a man who gave years of service to education - and his wife, the father of our former Prime Minister and mother of the former Prime Minister, served for years - you know what I did? I gave instructions that it should be dealt with immediately, as well as the Marley Hill School that I attended, and it was done. (Applause) We have to move across - and I said to the Minister, I don't want to hear one school with any pit latrines. Our children must be introduced to the best in their early years.

(Applause)

Two thousand three hundred (2,300) additional school places will be provided through the expansion of the construction of new schools.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: These include Belair High, Holy Trinity High, the Cedar Grove High.

We will be spending over Six Hundred and Fifteen Million Dollars ($615M) to upgrade the infrastructural facilities at a number of schools, Mr. Speaker, across the country. The schools targeted include: Herbert Morrison Technical, Anchovy, Hampton... (Applause) ...Edith Dalton James, Tacius Golding, Bridgeport, Titchfield and Aabuthnott Gallimore.

These are positive indicators, Mr. Speaker. Our investment in education is paying off. We all know that we have a great deal to do more. We continue Mr. Speaker to be encouraged by signs that we are moving in the right direction…

Opposition MEMBER: What!

The PRIME MINISTER: ...as we continue to go for growth and development working for the people. (Applause)

I turn now to our young people. My Administration is placing a serious focus and emphasis on youth development, Mr. Speaker. I wish to share with you just a few of the programmes that are being pursued across the country:

- The Ministry of Youth trained over 8,000 young persons for job placement;

Commend the Minister. (Applause)

- The Government continued to support the Private Sector led YUTE Initiative, (Youth Upliftment Through Employment), and I want to commend the private sector for that. (Applause)
- In 2013, through public-private partnerships, we started the Build Jamaica, a leadership and youth development training project which will ultimately impact 120,000 youth. (Applause)
- The Government increases its financial support to the National Secondary Students Council, the National Youth Council, and the Uniformed Groups. (Applause)
- 186 children of public sector workers were given grants under the public sector Memorandum of Understanding, valued at a total of J$10 Million.

The CHASE Fund has spent $547 Million on sport development, and $205 Million to fund arts and culture projects.

Over 12,300 children entered the JCDC National Festival in areas, including dance, music, and drama, through community and school groups.

These are new and recurring programs that are working for our young people, Mr. Speaker.

We are placing special emphasis on education and training as part of the framework of activities to benefit our youth.

- As we prepare for the demands of the labour market, the Government is placing special emphasis on science, language, mathematics and technology subjects.
- Our tertiary graduates, Mr. Speaker, are receiving the proper orientation for entrepreneurship, and the encouragement of innovation. (Applause)

Let me commend the churches, community organizations, NGOs, and the private sector for the part they play in helping our young people to grow and to develop. (Applause) I say to the young people of Jamaica, so many of you make us extremely proud... (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: ...in so many areas of national life. God bless you, future leaders.

Persons with disabilities, I just want to say a little... in our society... I just want to say as Legislators, we have to ensure that their rights be respected and their dignity preserved. (Applause)

The approximately 400,000 persons with various types of disabilities are an important part of the Jamaican family. That is the reason, Mr. Speaker, when I was at the Ministry of Labour and Social Security I led the charge for the establishment of the National Policy for Persons with Disabilities and was heavily supported by the present President of the Senate. (Applause)

We continue to lead by example. We have engaged the services of a Sign Language Expert to communicate the proceedings of this Honourable House.

The Disabilities Bill will be tabled in this Parliamentary year. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: We congratulate the Combined Disabilities Association which has paved the way for more persons with different types of disabilities to be fully integrated into our community. God bless them. (Applause)

I want to make a special appeal to all Jamaicans to ensure that they do everything in their power to include persons with disabilities in community activities, as I implore the Government to continue to ensure that each Ministry employ persons with disabilities. (Applause)

There is a great deal that needs to be done to improve the quality of life, and unlock the potential of these very valuable Jamaicans. Many are well educated. I have given instructions that all Government buildings must be made accessible to the disabled - to persons with disabilities. (Applause)

I turn to a very important area, Mr. Speaker, and that is of our women. The contribution of our women to family, community, and national development has been significant. Women are the breadwinners in many families. They are the glue that keeps our communities together.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Fact.

The PRIME MINISTER: They are not only making their mark in the home; many have become leaders in both the public and private sectors.

Last November, I received an award on behalf of Jamaica from the European Union, recognizing us for the high numbers of women, employed in the Public Service.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: That was one of the trips I was criticized for. I came back with a lovely trophy for the women of Jamaica. The fact that we have...

(Sotto voce comments)

The PRIME MINISTER: I was heartened when recently the World Bank issued a publication titled Gender at Work as a companion publication to its 2013 World Development Report on jobs. The Report which contained, Mr. Speaker, the result of a survey conducted in 114 countries, identified only five that had reached, or surpassed gender equality in occupations, such as, legislators, senior officials and managers. Mr. Speaker, Jamaica is one of the five countries. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: More of our women are becoming engaged in business. For example, in 2013/2014, 70 per cent of those benefiting from the nearly 10,000 loans, disbursed by the Development Bank of Jamaica were women. This Government has, over the years, been at forefront of implementing policies and programmes to advance the cause of women. (Applause) We will not depart from this position. And, I remember the days when we worked, PNP, JLP women; we got together and worked and made recommendations for policies that were implemented, and legislations, on behalf, and in the interest of our Jamaican women. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: We had several meetings, and JLP women attended the meetings, and PNP women attended in those days when Beverly Manley was Director of the Bureau of Women's Affairs, and beyond.

(Sotto voce comment by Opposition Member)

The PRIME MINISTER: I know what I am saying; I attended those meetings.

Mr. Speaker, we are mindful that our women and girls continue to face challenges, not least of which is gender-based violence. To address this problem, Mr. Speaker, we have received assistance from again, the UN women to revise the National Strategic Action Plan on Gender-Based Violence. So the UN will be assisting us in this area, and we want to thank the UN. That revision was recently completed and implementation will begin soon.

We are also implementing some of the recommendations in the National Policy on Gender Equality. These include, gender mainstreaming, gender equality training in both the public and private sectors, and economic empowerment activities.

I am sure the women will agree with me in this Honourable House. It is so much easier for the men... their friends to mobilize support and fundraisers for them when it comes up to election...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

The PRIME MINISTER: ...than us women in the House.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes... that is true.

The PRIME MINISTER: We always have a difficulty.

I am pleased to announce to this Honourable House that the Cabinet has approved the issuing of drafting instructions for the preparation of the Sexual Harassment Legislation. (Applause) The proposed Legislation will contain gender neutral language, and will be a priority for this Administration. We are representatives of, not some, but all the people. It will be gender neutral, the language.

Mr. Speaker, Sport is one of the world's largest economic and social activities. It is the single most unifying force in the world, matched only by music and entertainment - apart from the churches. Community-based Sporting structures are important to Jamaica's Sporting success. People from around the world are often curious as to the secret of our success in track and field.

Success starts in the communities, and with the teachers, the coaches, the parents giving support. I usually make the connection with our grassroots Sporting activities, starting from infant school, to our globally recognized Boys' and Girls' Championships. I give credit to parents, teachers, coaches, and volunteers in the communities, who encourage and support our young children. We are indeed, a country of high achievers. And I want to also recognize the contribution of the GC Foster College of Physical Education. (Applause)

Recently, a team of athletes competed at the CARIFTA Games in Martinique. This was the first trip of our young athletes, following the sudden passing of Cavahn McKenzie, in Tobago at the NACAC Cross-Country Championship. We understood that this would have been an emotional trip for them, and we prayed for their safety and their strength. The team returned with a record-breaking number of 89 medals... (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: ...comprising of 42 gold, 34 silver, and 13 bronze. (Applause) Jamaica is proud of this outstanding performance of our athletes.

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: I also want to congratulate the 21 record-breakers at the Boys' and Girls' Champs, and the Under 16 Netball Team that won the Regional Championships. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I just want to highlight some of the sporting activities taking place in our communities:

- Under the High School Sport Infrastructure Project, $250 Million will be spent over two years to improve sporting facilities in 24 high schools across the island; (Applause)
- $150 Million Dollars will be provided by the European Union - see again EU - and $100 Million from the Sports Development Foundation;
- $71.7 Million was spent by the Sports Development Foundation to upgrade hard courts football fields, provide lighting and other sporting facilities.

We also want to thank the Government of India for the planned installation of lights at Sabina Park. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: I want to thank the Indian High Commissioner as well for his work and support for us achieving this. I am sure all of us look forward to watching cricket under lights later this year. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We won the Cricket match today.

The PRIME MINISTER: We won the cricket match?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Yes, we won the championship.

The PRIME MINISTER: We want to congratulate our team for winning the championship today. (Applause) This Government will continue to work for growth and development.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn attention to a critical area of priority in this Administration. We are now looking at all our pillars and we're looking at the development of rural communities. This is a central pillar in the approach to national development. When I spoke in these debates last year I advised the House that some of the worse areas of poverty exist in deep rural Jamaica, as I said earlier. I am acutely aware of the difficulties faced by our rural people. It is because of these difficulties, and I'm sure the rural MPs will agree with me, that over the years, so many persons and, in particular young Jamaicans, seek to migrate from rural areas into our towns and urban areas. The urban pull of an earlier period has now turned into a rural push to the urban areas. We cannot sit back, Mr. Speaker, relax and see rural Jamaica losing its young and productive labour force to the urban areas. The approach to rural development must be wholistic, integrated and multisectoral.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: All people desire good work, good living conditions and access to public and social services. That's all they're asking for apart from the other things that will make life better for them. Over the last year, we have been quietly but successfully achieving a better coordinating mechanism among ministries, departments and agencies. It is important to note that rural development is not just agricultural development although agriculture is central. The primary objective of rural development is economic enrichment and promotion of social wellbeing of our rural population. (Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, we have made a start. When agencies such as JSIF, through their Rural Economic Development Initiative, RADA, Jamaica Agricultural Society, the Social Development Commission, and the Rural Electrification Programme all work together, they have a greater impact on the economic and social well-being of our rural communities.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: A number of programmes are currently being implemented with this joined-up government approach. These include construction of housing units under the Sugar dependent communities project, funded by the European Union. The Ginger Expansion Programme and the Agro Parks by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries. It is no accident that all the centres of excellence completed to date are in rural Jamaica. (Applause) The National Housing Trust mobile service is bringing the NHT to the people wherever they are. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: The Rural Electrification Programme has achieved 97 per cent electrification throughout rural Jamaica. This Programme has embarked on a new electrification project utilizing primarily, solar energy. So, Mr. Speaker we recognize the importance of rural development and I am going to be placing a serious focus on this.

I want to look a little bit at expanding ownership in the Jamaican society. It was national hero, Mr. Speaker, the Rt. Excellent Norman Washington Manley, who declared at the launch of the PNP in 1938, and I quote:

> "There is a tremendous difference between living in a place and belonging to it, and feeling that your own life and your destiny are irrevocably bound up in the life and destiny of that place."

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: True that.

The PRIME MINISTER: As a people we must all feel that we have a stake in Jamaica, the land of our birth. People identify more strongly with their country and take better care of its assets and its future when they own a piece of it.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's true.

The PRIME MINISTER: Many Jamaicans dream of owning a of piece land, with a house on it and a business to support themselves. They have to be given a chance at self-reliance. In order to expand ownership in the Jamaican society, the Government has implemented programmes for land ownership, titling, housing and businesses.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: That is why we will continue to place even more emphasis on facilitating micro, small, medium, large businesses for Jamaicans. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: That is why we will support the creative and cultural industries, science, technology and innovation. Jamaicans must own the intellectual property in their artistic expressions and all other inventions and designs. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Ownership is central to the empowerment of people. This is what we mean by people power and what we are working to achieve. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: People have invested their money, their sweat, their blood, their tears and also have the fervent hope for a better life in our beloved country. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: More Jamaicans must have the opportunity to own and prosper in this country. As I travelled the length and breadth of Jamaica I witnessed the joy, delight, the excitement of my country men and women who have come to own their piece of this rock. One NHT contributor, upon receiving the keys to his home, at one of the many handing-over ceremonies I attended, said it best, Mr. Speaker, he said and I quote: "Thanks to you all. It is bye-bye rent. We now have the keys to our own homes".

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right, that's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: "Thanks to you, we here can say, bye-bye rent, mortgage time now." (Applause) "Now we have houses we can do our little improvement on". Home ownership delivers a great sense of pride and achievement, Mr. Speaker, and stability like nothing else. A student, from Majesty Gardens, in my constituency, who has 9 CXCs and 7 CAPE passes, and whose family recently received their keys to an NHT house, told us: 'This is an opportunity for me', and I quote her, 'and my family to improve our lives. We will now have individual bedrooms. I do love my younger brother, but I really don't mind not sharing a room with him. If and when asked for proof of address, I will now be able to furnish several utility bills. I will no longer be afraid or embarrassed to invite a friend to visit because I am terrified they might ask, can I use your restroom? Mr. Speaker, it is in moments like this that I am most heartened to lead a Government that is working for the people.

(Applause)

Permit me now, Mr. Speaker, to address the issue of land titles. Holding a Certificate of Title provides a sense of security in having your land for life.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

The PRIME MINISTER: A title holder takes pride in knowing that they will be able to leave something tangible for their children.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right, that's right.

The PRIME MINISTER: When Jamaicans own their land, no one can move them from it. Under the Land Administration and Management Programme (LAMP), over 1,100 titles have already being handed out in the last two years. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: I want to congratulate the Minister. Minister, I want to congratulate you. Let me congratulate those who have received titles.

Mr. VAZ: Bobby, you know about that?

(Cross talk)

The PRIME MINISTER: You are now part of Jamaica's ownership society.

Mr. Speaker, the following citizens are now a part of the ownership society: the 60 residents of Flankers and Norwood in St. James; the 29 residents from Rose Hall in St. James; 24 residents of Callaloo Mews in St. Andrew; 17 residents of Martha Brae and the 35 from Duanvale in Trelawny.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: The 70 residents from Ebony Park in Clarendon.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

The PRIME MINISTER: The 85 residents of Gravel Heights in St. Catherine,..

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

The PRIME MINISTER: ...and 51 residents of Seaview in St. Andrew. (Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: And the list goes on, and on and on. Who says that we're not doing anything? Two years and look what we've done. (Applause) This Government is working to empower the people. The Land Administration and Management Programme is also rolling out its services in a number of other parishes. LAMP 2 will begin in St. James, St. Ann, Westmoreland, Hanover and Trelawny during this fiscal financial year. NHT will also deliver 1,502 titles later this year. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Mr. Speaker, I am sure there can be no doubt now that this Government is going for growth and development. We are working for the people. (Applause)

The National Housing Trust. Much has been said in this Debate about the National Housing Trust. The NHT's mandate has not changed. The agency continues to provide affordable housing with emphasis on middle and lower income contributors. The Trust's asset base is currently at $205 Billion. The National Housing Trust is solvent and secure.

Mr. PRYCE: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: Over the course of its thirty-eight years, the NHT has provided over 173,000 mortgages to its contributors.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: The Opposition Spokesman on Finance raised the question of could we up the NHT loan. I just want to - I'm giving you an honest explanation why it cannot be done now, because they are engaged in doing other things. When the Government of Jamaica signed off on the agreement with the IMF, one of the conditionalities was for the country to reduce its national debt. In this time of need, the country turned to the NHT. The NHT was called upon to contribute $11.4 Billion per year, over four years and that the Government would look at lands owned by the State and where it is suitable for housing development, the NHT would get some of those lands. The Trust has honoured the first year of this requirement.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

The PRIME MINISTER: I want to make it clear because I want to be very honest. We have nothing to hide. Jamaica is in a better place today because of the role played by the National Housing Trust. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

The PRIME MINISTER: I know that - I know Michael Manley. I knew him well. He was my mentor. The National Housing Trust was established by him as an instrument for national development. He would be proud of the role the Trust continues to play in assisting to balance the books, while balancing people's lives. He would be proud of the role the NHT continues to play in national development while working for the people.

Mr. Speaker, during the last fiscal year, the NHT spent over $22 Billion on housing construction and mortgage financing. Last year the Trust made refunds to over 150,000 contributors totalling $3.8 Billion. (Applause) Over 7,500 mortgage loans were provided to contributors. The NHT built 2,100 housing solutions during 2013/2014. Through the Joint Finance Mortgage Programme the NHT provided over $3 Billion in loans to contributors through our private sector partners. (Applause)

The Trust, through the Youth Upliftment Programme, they encouraged young people living in our inner cities. This year the NHT will contribute a total of $32 Million to the YUTE Build Initiative to finance the training of 100 inner-city young people in construction-related... (Applause) These are all promises made and promises kept. Through the NHT this Government is going for growth and development, we are working for the people. This year the progress will continue. The First Step Programme under which workers in the sugar and tourism sectors benefitted last year will continue. The inner-city housing projects also continue. The Trust will commence preliminary works. These preliminary works are for Majesty Gardens Phase II and Frog City off Maxfield Avenue. (Applause)

I spoke earlier about the NHT mobile service and I launched the service in Mile Gully and it is now on the road. NHT has also developed a diaspora strategy. We are creating opportunities to give Jamaicans everywhere in the world, a chance to become NHT contributors and to receive NHT benefits. This year the Trust will be using a portion of its surplus, normally used for grants and subsidies, to provide assistance in four main areas. Two Hundred and Eighty Million Dollars ($280M) has been set aside for this effort. The areas that will benefit are the improvement of infirmaries, assisting with the provision of shelter for street persons. (Applause) Shelters where they can go and have a bath, get a meal, a warm meal; assisting with the maintenance of indigent housing and providing help to the families of the members of the security forces who have lost their lives or suffered major injuries in the line of duty. (Applause) National Housing Trust is working for the people.

Mr. Speaker, I now speak to Jamaica's position in the Community of Nations. Jamaica's foreign policy has always been based on mutual respect. We have always maintained a progressive non-aligned and forward thinking foreign policy. (Applause) We will not divert from this position. (Applause) When we took office in January 2012 this Government had to put a lot of effort into restoring Jamaica's good name internationally. (Applause)

Mr. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear, Dudley, mash it dung!

JAMAICAN DIASPORA

The PRIME MINISTER: We were on very shaky grounds with many of our traditional partners. Many Jamaicans living overseas told us how embarrassed they were at what was happening in Jamaica. We promised that we would fix it, and we have! (Applause) Jamaica once again enjoys close fraternal relationships with all our traditional partners. (Applause) Now members of the Jamaican diaspora communities are once again proudly holding their heads high and asserting themselves. I am a Jamaican. (Applause)

The Jamaican Diaspora Conference in June last year was the largest and most successful to date. Many of the participants said that they are once again proud to be a part of the process of building their homeland, Jamaica. (Applause) The momentum should not be lost. We must all commit ourselves to making them feel at home again.

For Jamaica to generate sustainable economic development, it is important for us to deepen and strengthen our relationships with other countries, be they our closest neighbours or friends in faraway places. We have been known for our principled and reasoned positions. We have gained respect for our steadfastness and fidelity of our positions on matters of national and international importance. We have not shied away from being bold. (Applause) We have not been afraid to be standing alone or to stand up for principle where it is required. Under this Government Jamaica will continue to have a strong voice in international affairs. (Applause)

In recognition of emerging global challenges, we have deepened an accelerated economic diplomacy. We will continue to seek opportunities that maximize our economic potential. Jamaica remains grateful for the extensive development assistance we have received from our bilateral and multilateral partners. (Applause) We recognize the value of these contributions. We have spent a lot of time and effort working closely with our longstanding traditional partners. These include the United States of America, the United Kingdom, Canada, Japan and the countries of the European Union. We have maintained excellent relations with them over the years. We also continue our friendly relations that we developed over the many years with Venezuela and with Cuba. (Applause) We have implemented many projects with the support of the PetroCaribé Fund. We thank the government and the people of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela for this support. (Applause)

We continue to enjoy good relations with the People's Republic of China and will remain committed to the One China Policy. (Applause) Current investment flows are fruits from seeds of solidarity sown decades ago with many countries around the globe. Our close relationship with the United States of America, with Canada, with our European partners, name it, Latin America, the Caribbean of which we are a part, nothing is going to stop Jamaica moving forward and continuing to have close working relationship with foreign countries.

Jamaica continues to strengthen the bonds of friendship with the BRICS countries as well as other countries on the African continent. (Applause) Jamaica is committed to the development of a strong region. We will continue to play our part to ensure that we have a dynamic Caribbean Community. (Applause) In this context I wish to once again express my profound regret at the passing of a strong advocate of Caribbean Regionalism, Professor Norman Girvan. (Applause) His entire life was dedicated to building regional institutions and advancing the cause of the people of our region. We will miss him.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the dedicated team at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade, those at our overseas Missions for the sterling work they continue to do in keeping Jamaica closely linked to our bilateral and multilateral partners globally; and we want to thank our partners for their support and their contribution.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, when all is said and done, despite the difficulties that we still face as a nation, Jamaicans know that our country is now in a better place than it was in January 2012, when the people returned us to office. We remain focused on stabilizing the macroeconomic framework while cushioning the pain from that process and establishing a platform for stability and growth. The Government honestly and truly does not have the fiscal space to do all the projects that need to be done but we are doing many good things. We want to thank those who are, while we are pushing forward for growth, development and employment, we want to thank the private sector for also pushing more jobs in this country. And I want you to applaud them. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we are finding solutions. We are going for growth and development. We are working for the people. Challenges there are. It has not been easy, Mr. Speaker. We are approaching the corner. Once we turn that bend, we, like the sprinters we naturally are, will power down the home stretch. (Applause)

Taking the corner, Mr. Speaker, requires the greatest care, the best technique, concentration, focus and enduring strength. (Applause) The extra push required will not be in vain, Mr. Speaker. I appeal to my fellow Jamaicans stay with us, if I have to climb the mountain for this country to be better, like Caleb, I say this evening, I will climb that mountain for my people. (Applause)

In situations like ours growth and development processes are complex, they do not happen overnight. As I have demonstrated today, Mr. Speaker, Governance is a demanding process. We all have to work long and hard to see success. This Government is working to get our nation where it needs to go. We are building a stronger economy which borrows less, produces more and delivers more growth and a better quality of life for all Jamaicans. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I share - I feel the pain of our Jamaican brothers and sisters when they feel the pain, when they suffer. I know the pain. I know the agony. As their leader it will never be lost on me. I have dedicated a lifetime of service to my country and my people. I will never leave them now nor will I give up now. The road may be rough but I am going to get it smooth.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we must remain resolute. We must remain confident. We must work for positive outcomes as we go for growth and development, working for the people together. (Applause)

We are working together with our communities, working together with our private sector. We are working together with our international partners. We are working together with civil society. We are working together with all stakeholders. This gives me hope for the present and the future.

I felt that hope at the Prime Minister's Youth Awards Ceremony. I felt that hope. We saw some of the finest examples of what our young people can do when they apply themselves with courage, discipline, dedication and determination. (Applause)

There is hope, Mr. Speaker, I see positiveness. I see seeds being planted and growth appearing. I see a bright future ahead of us. We cannot throw away our sacrifices and our gains now. We must all work that much harder. We must stay the course. It is time.

We already know that in the four last letters in the word 'Jamaican' are 'I' 'C' 'A' 'N'. I can. I know I can! And yes, we can! And yes, we will! And yes, we shall! We are Jamaicans, and today we pledge anew in our hearts, our love and commitment for Jamaica, land we love. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, our hopes are high! Our faith is great! Our courage is strong, and our dreams for this beautiful nation will never die. (Applause) This is a call to action, a call to accountability, a call to efficiency and unselfish participation.

This is a call to action. A call to believe the unlikely, to do the unthinkable, while we face what may seem unbearable. If it is a pace, we will run it. If it is a mountain - as I said before, like Caleb, I will climb it. If it is a stone, we will move it. Stand with me, come with me, walk with me, Jamaica, walk with me in the interest of our country! Let us work together to build a bright and glorious future for Jamaica, Land we love.

I leave you with the words of the Rt. Excellent Marcus Mosiah Garvey:

"Up you mighty race, you can accomplish what you will"!

God bless you. God bless you.

(Applause)

Standing Ovation/Thunderous Applause)

(The Speaker gavels)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Clerk laid on the Table of the House a copy of the following:

- Tourism Product Development Company Limited (TPDCo.) Annual Report for the year April 2011 to March 2012

- Corrigendum to the Ministry of Finance and Planning Ministry Paper No. 44/14 titled:
  "Revenue Measures for the Financial Year 2014/2015" which was laid on the Table of the House of Representatives on April 17, 2014 and this was withdrawn from yesterday's announcements.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move:

Be it Resolved that this Honourable House of Representatives approve the plans and programmes being pursued by the Government in respect of Ministries which were not included in the debate on the Appropriation Bill and further approve the policy projections as announced for the Financial Year 2014/2015.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I wish to give notice that at the expiration of 21 days I will ask the Honourable Minister of Finance and Planning the following questions:

Question 1:

What is the total amount of funds collected under the PetroCaribé Programme with the Government of Venezuela?

Question 2:

Have all these funds been paid into the PetroCaribé Development Fund (PDF)?

Question 3:

Has Petrojam made all its payments to the PDF in foreign exchange (US dollars)?

Question 4:

What is the total amount of funds so far repaid to the Venezuelan Government Agency, PDVSA? Please disaggregate payments by principal and interest.

Question 5:

Please provide a comprehensive list of all loans and grants issued by the PDF since the inception of the fund, and indicate the status of each loan, setting out the principal value of the loan portfolio and the specific classification of each account in accordance with International Financial Accounting Standards.

Question 6:

How are loans valued on the Balance Sheet?

Question 7:

What is the total value of non-performing loans on the Balance Sheet of the PDF?

Question 8:

How are non-performing loans represented on the Income Statement? Are loan loss reserves set aside for bad debt? If so, how much is set aside? How are delinquent loans represented on the Balance Sheet?

Question 10:

Is Petrojam in arrears in the transfer of funds or loan payments to the PDF? Please state whether the transfer of the proceeds under the PetroCaribé arrangements are in accordance with established procedures. Does Petrojam have a loan from the PDF? Is Petrojam in arrears in payments on any loan with the PDF?

Question 11:

What are the cash balances and other liquid assets such as investments made by the PDF?

Question 12:

What are the procedures that govern the transparent management of the PDF?

Question 13:

Has an Independent Risk Assessment of the PDF been done?

Question 14:

If the Risk Assessment was done, what was the outcome? Was it favourable or unfavourable? What are the conclusions of the Risk Assessment with regard to the sustainability of the PDF?

Question 15:

Will you make a copy of the Risk Assessment available to Parliament?

Question 16:

Are there any delinquent loans in the PDF Portfolio for which the PDF has sought Government Guarantees?

Question 17:

When was the last Audited Financial Statements submitted to Parliament?

(HON. ANTHONY GEORGE HYLTON, (PNP), St. Andrew, Western, Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took his seat.)

PUBLIC BUSINESS

BUDGET DEBATE

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, this afternoon we intend to conclude the matter at Item 8 on the Order Paper. This matter is going to be dealt with by the Minister of Finance who will be closing the debate.

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips.

(Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, in rising to close this debate, I'd like to acknowledge the contributions of all the participants.

The Most Honourable Prime Minister yesterday set out with clarity the record of this administration in mobilizing the nation around the Economic Reform Programme which is on track and which has already returned the Jamaican economy to growth. Simultaneously, she indicated the effective steps taken by the administration to protect the poor and vulnerable and to ensure that each sector makes its contribution to the national effort.

Minister Roger Clarke is to be congratulated along with his team and the farming community as a whole for the phenomenal growth that the country is witnessing in agriculture. (Applause) Food security continue....

Mr. SHAW: Only want Visa now too.

Dr. PHILLIPS: You soon need a Visa fe go up to…. and Craig head. (Laughter)

Food security continues to be a major plank of our Economic Reform Programme, Mr. Speaker.

While there is much that has divided us in this debate, there has nevertheless been a consensus around two critical issues. And I dare say, two critical national imperatives:

First, the need to reduce our public debt, which is far too high and has become a stranglehold on our national economy; and,

Secondly, the urgency of restoring the economy to a path of sustained growth and job creation.

That a national consensus should exist around these two critical priorities, Mr. Speaker, is a good thing, and it can only redound to the national good that thepriorities of debt reduction and economic growth have been the central themes in this debate.

It is indeed unfortunate, that throughout our history in modern Jamaica, a consensus around the essentials of our development path and the strategies that we need to pursue to achieve our developmental goals has eluded us as a nation.

The truth is that we have too often allowed the pursuit of partisan political advantage, as well as, the narrow self-interest of different social and economic groups to weaken and divide the national effort. (Applause) This has certainly weakened the level...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Charles)

Dr. PHILLIPS: This has certainly weakened the level of social cohesion required for nation building.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: This sense of togetherness, Mr. Speaker, this sense of being part of a joint endeavour and a common mission is what the political economists refer to as social capital and it is unfortunately in short supply in Jamaica.

A survey conducted a few years ago by the Centre for Leadership and Governance at the University of the West Indies highlighted the fact that some 73% of Jamaicans said they trusted no one but themselves and believed that most people would take advantage of them. This survey - that same survey also revealed that 60% of the population have the view that they could only trust themselves.

In the context of our economic reform programme and all the difficulties and sacrifice that it involves and which will persist for some time, these difficulties and sacrifices, there is a special responsibility which we in this House will have to accept to help build social capital in the country (Applause) and to help build a sense of common purpose.

It is against this background that I want to urge all of us that having agreed on the national objectives, let us have honest debates, stripped of the dishonest and debilitating search for partisan advantage or sectional interest.

I want to look in greater detail, Mr. Speaker, on the contributions of the Opposition Spokesman on Finance and the Leader of the Opposition, and I propose to address five areas in closing this budget exercise.

I should remind also, Mr. Speaker, that this is the last - in keeping with the new fiscal rules, that we are going to be having this exercise in the month of April. We are committed to having this exercise before April 1 start of the fiscal year and I dare say that at some point, we'll have to arrive at some agreement as to how we can reduce the amount of time taken in the budget approval exercise. You'll have to talk.

(Dr. Phillips pointed to both Mr. D. Smith and Mr. Paulwell)

I think, I think - we can't afford to take one month in this whole exercise; we have to find a way to make it more business-like, more useful. But I propose to address five areas.

- Trust, an issue raised;
- Arrears in Government;
- The debt issue of foreign exchange markets; and
- Issues relating to Taxation. In that order.

You want the tax first? Okay.

(Laughter)

Hold your breath.

(Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, trust issue number one. It is indeed ironic that one allegation made directly against me by the Opposition Spokesman on Finance and repeated by the Leader of the Opposition concerns the - a supposed breach of a commitment regarding "no new taxes". Let us examine it because I also got the newspaper.

(Laughter)

Mr. SHAW: Is the same one?

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, I think this is my copy.

(Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, the headline says: January 8: The headline which appeared in the Daily Gleaner and I should remind that I did not write the headline - says: "Big Relief - No new taxes says Phillips; reform, cutting debt on the main Agenda".

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, all those words are the words of the editor not mine. Neither did the article indicate the context in which I spoke. I was responding to a question about the imposition of GCT on petroleum.

(Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Wait a second, hold on. My words, Mr. Speaker, can be found in the body of the same article, and I now quote them verbatim for this Honourable House.

> We don't have plans for taxation, we have plans for tax reform generally, but we will have to maintain our deficit targets.

In another part of the same article, I am again correctly quoting as saying;

> The revenue targets have been missed slightly in relation to taxation, but we are going to have to maintain our 7.5 per cent primary surplus as it is the only way we are going to pay down this debt.

I accept that I could have and perhaps should have insisted that the Gleaner print a retraction of their headline. I spoke to them on this matter and in their own way they presented a retraction in the Sunday Gleaner of that same week - no of January 19th. 'Tax on fuel not an option' that article is headlined.

My point, however, is that the debate would have been far more honest if we had gone beyond the headline. (Laughter)

(Applause) And if some care, even attention had been paid to what I actually said, far from representing any breach or promise, the budget represents a fulfillment of every undertaking made by this Government. We have lived up to our word in every respect. (Applause)

It is in fulfillment of our commitment to meet our wage obligations to public sector workers that more than $161 Billion in the budget is provided for wages and 4 Billion of that is in fulfillment of obligations that the previous administration tried to walk away from and had to be ordered by the courts to fulfill. (Applause)

In presenting this budget, we have fulfilled obligations to public sector workers, bondholders, pensioners and others who have had to make a sacrifice and who have demanded of us that we meet our obligations under the Economic Reform Programme. (Applause)

This budget fulfills Jamaica's obligations to maintain 7.5 per cent primary surplus. We sign up to it in the extended fund facility and we have met the targets. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Trust Issue II, because the truth is, the Opposition Spokesman on Finance is in no position to lecture us or anyone for that matter on matters of public trust. (Applause)

No one on this side promised workers unrealistic wage increases in elections campaign and then walked away from it as that administration did... (Applause) ...telling workers take it or leave it. We didn't do that. We did not sign up to an agreement with the multilateral lending agencies led by the IMF, committing Jamaica to deliver a 6.8 per cent primary surplus in 2011/2012 which was revised downward to 5 per cent, but they were still able only to deliver an output of 3.1 percent when they were in government.

We did not sign up to a Jamaica Debt Exchange and then put bondholders at risk and pensioners at risk of default because of the failure to meet obligations under the programme.

Mr. CHARLES: Get to the point.

Dr. PHILLIPS: I thought he wasn't hearing anything. (Laughter)

No one on this side, Mr. Speaker, implemented, and it is good that they passed this law, the fiscal responsibility framework with great fanfare in 2010 and then proceed to break all the procurement rules on fiscal controls, by ordering buses without Cabinet approval and without budgetary provision.
You cannot come and claim credit...

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Dr. PHILLIPS: I soon come to that. You cannot come and claim credit for initiating fiscal rules and fail to acknowledge that you break your own rules. You know, Jamaican people said, mout mek fe chat, but nuh suh.

Mr. Speaker....

(Heckling by Members)

Mr. CHUCK: Is that the foundation for social capital?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, no, you notice my tone, my tone is just to make the facts speak for themselves. We can have a debate about it; we have had a debate about it. You have had a debate about it.

Mr. Speaker, what needs to be understood, is that there are real cost, there are real cost to these failures of decision making, there are real costs to this type of irresponsibility.

The insistence by the IMF, that wage restraint agreements should be a prior action in this extended fund facility was a direct consequence of the previous administration's failure to meet its wage to GDP obligations under the programme.

The 7.5 per cent primary surplus which is high, it is high, in the current programme, was necessitated by the failure under the previous programme to meet the primary surplus target in 2011/2012. Their failure imposed on this administration the need to raise 4.4 per cent of GDP in additional revenues over two years.

The major revenue package as a pre-condition to the Fund Programme is part of the cost that Jamaica had to bear because of the failure of the previous Government to meet their obligations. These and more are the concrete cost that Jamaica has had to endure, Mr. Speaker, because of the failure to implement decisions and obligations committed to.

The $60 Million of the EU grants that Jamaica was unable to draw down, grants that we were unable to draw down, in 2012, Euros and 60 Million Euros that we were unable to draw down is a direct consequence of the collapse of the Stand-by Agreement.

Mr. Speaker, against that background, I am astounded to hear the Opposition Spokesman said that the IMF has given Jamaica a bligh, 7.5 per cent primary surplus is not bligh, fifteen plus pieces of legislation, path-breaking legislation to be passed in one year, we have had to work even in this House to bring legislation quicker than we would want to get through. It is not a bligh. Wage restraint for public sector worker is not a bligh, a national debt exchange in less than two years after the previous debt exchange was undertaken is not a bligh. But what is most distressing about the Opposition Spokesman's characterization is the ease in which he would impugn the reputation of the International Monetary Fund and other multilateral institutions in believing that they simply play to favoritism and give out blighs. No wonder he thought that we could sign up to agreements and simply walk away.

It is clear that the Opposition did not understand then that there are consequences to commitments given and not honour. They did not understand it then, and apparently they do not understand it now. (Applause)

This is problem that also affects the Leader of the Opposition he accuses...

(Heckling by Members)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, it is not to do with - as people I have no problem with them. I mean, I have no personal issue. But I think that we need to understand, and we need to try to recognize, that, we can't just come here and chat. We have to try and make what we said accord with what actually happened and what took place. (Applause)

When the leader of the Opposition accuses JUTC and the Minister of Transport and Works as being incentive to the plight of the sub-franchise holders, he is missing a critical part of the issue. It would be fairer if he were to acknowledge the role of the administration that he led in understand cutting the financial foundations of the JUTC.

Mr. HENRY: No, no, you are undercharging the fare.

(Heckling by Members)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Hear me now, don't worry I will talk to him for you.

Mr. Speaker, no, I am talking about the same load. Leave out the subsidize fares for a minute. When you borrow...

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Charles)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Look here man, mek dem guys here talk, for you. (Laughter) You are my friend but mek dem talk for you.

When you order 96 million Euro worth of buses, the loan must be repaid, and in fact, the only way you can repay the loan or the best way to repay the loan is to have paying customers use the busses, so that you earn the money, to pay back for the loan.

(Heckling)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Him sey him neva tek a JUTC.

(Cross talk)

Not only did they order the buses, Mr. Speaker, but they gave out more than over the two years, 10/11, 11/12, over 1,000 licenses to some sub-franchise holders. So that, you secure more debt and you reduce the revenues to the company, and the only way it can be paid is by the taxpayers, many of whom live in places... (heckling) ...like Eastern Westmoreland, Paul Island, Prattville, Mr. Speaker, places you know - they don't tek those buses.

And so, to come and lambaste the JUTC and the Minister...

Mr. DALLEY: And the Government.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...and the Government, for trying to bring order to the transport arrangements in the Kingston Metropolitan transport region, so that the loans can be repaid and that to accommodate at the same time some order in the system, is not to have a balanced discussion. That is typical of the old-style politics. (Applause) And the Leader of the Opposition promised to give away as much as possible and to saddle the taxpayer with more debt.

Mr. HOLNESS: That is the old style politics.

Dr. PHILLIPS: That's what you are practicing.

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels)

Dr. DAVIES: It's all right, don't tek all of it, you know. I coming after you. (Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Okay. He will tek... (Inaudible) (Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HOLNESS: All right, a gwine put on me helmet!

(Cross talk)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I want to say something about the arrears question. In fact, in the Fiscal Policy Paper tabled in the House on April 17, there was information provided, which, if it had been referred to, would have placed on record and acknowledged, that not only did the Government acknowledge and I acknowledged that arrears exist, but also, Mr. Speaker, for balance it would have been recognized that there was a plan in place for addressing this issue.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: In opening the Debate I also made very clear what the level of arrears was and the challenge that we have a high level of arrears, and the challenge that they pose for this Administration, and indeed, posed for the previous Administration.

For the record, the plan to extricate the country from the arrears build-up has a number of elements. One, controlling the growth in the stock of arrears over 90 days by placing a cap on the sum which existed as at March, 2013. This cap is one of the quantitative targets in our Extended Fund Facility Agreement, and on which we report during each quarterly review.

We are making also direct payments from the - through the Central Treasury Management System, to suppliers of goods and services, thereby reducing the risk of the diversion of resources from ministries, departments and agencies.

We are withholding all statutory deductions, NIS, NHT, PAYE and Education Tax from Central Government ministries, departments and agencies, educational institutions, Regional Health Authorities, and transferring these amounts directly to Tax Administration Jamaica. And we are monitoring on an ongoing basis the high-risk expenditure in areas such as electricity, droughts, statutory deductions, to manage any threats of arrears build-up.

We have made changes, Mr. Speaker, in the management and the dispensing of pharmaceuticals in the public health system. All public sector pharmacies are to be taken over by the NHF, with the take-over of the pharmacy at the Bustamante Hospital for Children, the pharmacies at KPH and Victoria Jubilee, Port Maria, Percy Junor, Cornwall Regional hospitals are to follow. The plan is for a complete take-over by the NHF of the pharmacies by the end of 2015. The value of the assets in the pharmacies at the point of take-over will be used to set off existing arrears for drugs and medical supplies to the NHF.

This is a critical area, and we are increasing the budget for drugs and medical supplies on an annual basis, in line with inflation, as was done in this current Budget, where the provision moved from Three point Seven Billion ($3.7B) to Four point One Billion Dollars ($4.1B) or 9 per cent.

We are working with the suppliers to set off arrears against their tax liabilities. It's not true to say that the Budget is increasingly put together - and I am quoting the Opposition Spokesman here - while ignoring the buildup of arrears or late payments. That is a misleading statement, Mr. Speaker, and I don't know what was the effort made to ascertain the facts.

The fact is that notwithstanding the tightness in the Expenditure Budget and the several competing demands, approximately One point Five Billion ($1.5B) has been provided in the 2014/2015 Budget, and that follows a similar amount which was allocated in the Supplementary Estimates approved in February of the last financial year, directed to the reduction of the arrears.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: This year, last year just done.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels - 3:03 p.m.) The Minister's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the Minister's time to be extended sufficient for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister.

(Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Regarding the NHT and the Withholding Tax arrears, we are working out - with the Withholding Tax - we are working out a four-year plan with the financial institutions to reduce those. You know that the rate - that the Withholding Tax is something you inherited, has existed a long time - I have inherited it, and likewise the NHT amounts which are not technically speaking, arrears, have existed from the mid nineties. It is a problem that we all have to grapple with. What we have to understand, though, is that we have to work solutions. And I would hope that the day will come when collectively - and I see signs of progress, particularly in the PAAC - that constructive proposals can come. Because this debt is a problem - it's not a PNP debt or a JLP debt, it is Jamaica's debt which all of us have an obligation to lift off the back of the country.

(Applause)

Let me now turn to the issue of the debt itself. I was struck more by the Leader of the Opposition, but also by the Opposition Spokesman on Finance, that there is this tendency to treat the debt as if it belongs to one side or another side in its accumulation. The truth is that, that is an unproductive gain. There is more than enough responsibility to be spread all around over the past four decades.

At a time when there was no highly developed domestic debt market, Jamaica's external debt doubled in the latter half of the seventies. This has often been cited. What is perhaps less well known is that this external debt again doubled in the 1980s. On the basis of strong inflows from multilateral financial institutions and from friendly governments, Jamaica's ratio of public debt to GDP peaked at over 200 per cent of debt to GDP in the mid eighties.

In the context of fiscal consolidation, beginning in 1984/85, and successive Paris Club restructuring of bilateral debt, the debt to GDP ratio was set on a downward trajectory from the late 1980s to the mid 1990s. By 1996/97, and following the successful completion of a three-year Extended Fund Facility arrangement with the IMF, the debt to GDP ratio had fallen to under 90 per cent.

The cost of rescuing depositors in failed financial institutions, through FINSAC, pushed this ratio to almost 125 per cent by 2002/2003. Following this, and in the context of our own economic programmes designed at home and monitored by the IMF, the debt to GDP ratio was steadily worked down, and went down 113 by 06/07 and 109.43 by 2007/2008.

In the four years from the end of 2007/2008 to the end of 2011/12, the external debt denominated in foreign currency went from Six point Two Billion ($6.2B) to Eight point Six Billion US Dollars (US$8.6B). During the same period the Jamaican dollar depreciated by about 22 per cent, and the Two Billion Dollars US in reserves left by the Administration in place in 2007, had not grown, despite massive inflows from multilateral financial institutions in 2010/2011.

It cannot be overemphasized, Mr. Speaker, that it was our failure to complete the 2010 Standby Agreement with the Fund, following massive inflows from the multilateral financial institutions, that laid the basis for a sharp reversal of flows from these institutions, a protracted 16-month period of negotiations for the current Extended Fund Facility, and the resultant decline in official foreign exchange reserves and exchange rate depreciation that was cited by the Opposition Spokesman on Finance.

You know, one of the points I really should make though, in all of this recounting of the debt story was not mentioned there. In 1989 we inherited an IMF programme; we completed it, reduce the debt and as then Prime Minister PJ Patterson put it, we said bye-bye...

Government MEMBERS: Ta-tah.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...ta-tah to the International Monetary Fund.

Mr. SHAW: Hello to the International Capital Market.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Okay, you said hello to the IMF and ta-tah - and they said ta-tah to you.

(Applause/Laughter/Sotto voce comment)

Dr. PHILLIPS: But you run into it. But the fact is that we inherited a programme, and we are going to perform like we did in the ‘90s and we are going to recover Jamaica's sovereign and... (Inaudible) ...with performance, not to abandon it.

Mr. Speaker, the Opposition Spokesman on Finance also claims that Jamaica borrowed loans of $330 Million from the World Bank in November 2011, as evidence that trust had not been broken with the multilateral financial institutions. The reality is that only US$100 Million was actually disbursed.

Despite this, it needs to be explained why, by then, there had been no reported reviews by the IMF Board for almost one year. Why the IMF staff indicated their inability to approach their Board regarding progress and under the SBA, and why external flows had dried up, relative to the 2010, despite the flows of $100 Million disbursed in November 2011. It needs to be explained why by then there had been no reported reviews by the IMF Board for almost one year; why the IMF staff indicated an inability on their part to approach the Board of the Fund, regarding progress made by Jamaica under the Standby Agreement.

Dr. DAVIES: Because there was no progress.

Dr. PHILLIPS: And why it is that, given all the expectations of 2010, external flows to Jamaica had dried up?

In fact, Mr. Speaker, official loans and grant flows from all sources declined from some $1.2 Billion in 2010 to $595 Million in 2011 and $267 Million in 2012, the first year of this Administration.

In 2010, Mr. Speaker, our development partners not only met the commitments that they had made, in fact, they front-loaded the disbursements. Actual disbursements in 2011 were US$919 Million, compared with the commitments that had been given of $870 Million. By 2011, however, disbursements of Budget support had declined to $195 Million.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Dalley)

Dr. PHILLIPS: That's what we mean when we said it had gone awry.

Mr. DALLEY: Yes, awry.

Dr. PHILLIPS: In 2012, the first year of this Administration, Budget support was a paltry US$500,000...

Government MEMBERS: What... What!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...relative to earlier commitments of $345 Million. It was because of that situation why the Leader of the Opposition, as Prime Minister, went to Mandeville to talk about bitter medicine.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Ohhhh!

Dr. PHILLIPS: But we shouldn't come here and then suggest that because of the difficulties that had been involved in correcting the situation, it somehow represents a dereliction of duty or some feature of lack of care on the part of this Administration. We are trying to rescue a wreck...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

Government MEMBERS: Yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...that was left by that side.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: How you sound like you tracing so.

Government MEMBER: He should be locked up.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

(The Speaker gavels)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, the Opposition Spokesman is pleading for mercy.

Mr. DALLEY: Yes.

Dr. PHILLIPS: I am trying to make the point. Seriously, let us just have a straight discussion about the real problems that the country faces. That's what I am seeking.

Mr. CHUCK: By shifting blame; by shifting blame.

Government MEMBER: You be quiet.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker...

Mr. CHUCK: Blame game.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker... with the stock of public debt increasing from $923 Billion at the end of '06/'07, $1.6 Billion at the end of 2011/2012, the ratio of debt to GDP again increased to 131.9 by the end of 2011/2012. On the basis of these official Government of Jamaica statistics, the debt to GDP ratio peaked at 135.64 at the end of 2012/2013 before being brought down to 131.9 at the end of '13/'14.

The IMF's measurement for purposes of the current Extended Fund Facility adds PetroCaribé debt and domestic guaranteed debt to the Government of Jamaica's official measurement. We were forced to use PetroCaribé and other resources for funding in the period prior to the Extended Fund Facility being approved by the IMF Board which led to an increase in the debt stock. What is good about the programme is that the debt-to-GDP that stood at 149.4 per cent at the beginning of the current Extended Fund Facility - that is the end of 2012/2013 has declined to 139.2 per cent at the end of 2013/2014. It has been difficult, Mr. Speaker; it is coming down.

Mr. SHAW: You are still using one thirty nine, why?

Dr. PHILLIPS: And still using 139, and I will explain it to you.

Mr. DALLEY: One thirty nine point two (139.2).

Dr. PHILLIPS: One-thirty-nine point two (139.2).

Mr. SHAW: The IMF - 42.

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, not the IMF in the Bill... not the IMF. That number is in error; that number is in error, yes, yes...

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: It is clear, Mr. Speaker, that by whatever measure used, there has been a clear decline in the burden of public debt already being generated... (Applause)

The initial success of the programme, Mr. Speaker, underlines the importance of the perspective that it is critical to avoid the negativity and the futility of looking back in anger and trying to ascribe blame. You want to hug up one part of the blame. And what I am saying is that Jamaica... Jamaica...

Mr. CHUCK: Move on.

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, man; I am trying to explain to you, not with anything... but because we want you to come along too. We don't want to leave you out.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Dem say we should leave you by the wayside.

Mr. Speaker, that we have a programme at all, with all its challenges, is testimony to a successful effort to rebuild trust with our International Development Bank, not least of all, by the faithful adherence to our commitments under the programme.

Breaking from tradition, the IMF provided a part of its financing as budget support. Late in 2013, the European Union became the first of our international partners to resume Budget support. The World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank have subsequently resumed budget support.

Just yesterday, Mr. Speaker, the World Bank approved a Country Partnership Strategy Report for Jamaica, that will facilitate growth and further disbursements under that institution's commitment to Jamaica. (Applause)

The World Bank has also indicated its support in three key areas: first, in modernizing the public sector. Activities in this regard will focus on:

- the implementation of the new Debt law;

- support for the reform of the Public Pension System and the Public Sector Investment Programme;
- improving Customs Administration, and standardization of the Kingston Port; and,
- continued support in Public Private Partnerships in energy, transport, waste water treatment and education.

The second critical area of our cooperation with the World Bank, Mr. Speaker, involves the creation of an enabling environment for private sector groups. Activities in this aspect of our corporation will include:

- the fostering of investments in high potential sectors, such as logistics and agriculture;
- helping to improve the business climate by reducing the time needed for an entrepreneur to register a new business, obtain construction permits and pay taxes;
- the provision of digital training opportunities for the youth; and,
- the establishment of regional incubators for businesses.

The other area involves building social and climate resilience to include:

- strengthening the government's social protection programmes;
- supporting the development of a comprehensive framework for disaster and climate risk management;
- ensuring that there is an increase in the number of Jamaicans benefiting from social assistance programmes; and,
- the number of households with access to critical basic services: water, electricity and solid waste collection.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Samuda)

Dr. PHILLIPS: It is primarily a loan - primarily a loan.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say something. I am pleased that... on the question of foreign exchange.

Mr. SHAW: Before you... I want you to clarify the number.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The number refers to the reconciliation of the actual out-turn in relation to PetroCaribé - utilization of PetroCaribé resources, which makes - and the GDP numbers which make the specific outturn, 139. When you spoke, I had the Debt Management Unit, not the Economic Management Unit go through the numbers and the reconciliation has been done. I can give you the table.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I think it is just important that the - just so you understand and everyone else - that the Public Debt Management Annual Report '13/'14, speaks specifically - it says: Under the EFF definition, the total stock of debt is $2,137.5 Trillion, or 144.9 per cent of GDP at the end of March, 2014. I just want to make sure that this clarification relates to - is a question of the calculation of the GDP itself. Is it a different calculation?

Dr. PHILLIPS: And the... no, the numbers will be adjusted, and the actual utilization of the resources under the PetroCaribé which is the numbers that had to be reconciled.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Shaw)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, but the amount that you used varies the projection, as against an actual outturn.

Mr. Speaker, we welcome the fact that the Opposition spokesman on Finance has chosen to join the debate on the exchange rate. Having stated, however, that there are many arguments in favour - and I'm quoting him:

> "There are as many arguments in favour of a fixed exchange policy as there are for a floating exchange rate or a carefully managed floating exchange system."

He proceeded to outline only the benefits, supposedly, of stability and predictability of a fixed exchange rate.

It is true that a reflectively stable as distinct from fixed exchange rate moderates the rate of price increases of imports and facilitates predictability in the economic environment. We too, indeed, everyone, seeks a stable exchange rate. In proclaiming the virtues of a fixed exchange rate, however, the Opposition spokesman on Finance points to the experience of the mid 1980s, but in his account some simple facts escape from view.

For one thing, although the Opposition spokesman does point it out, when the rate was fixed at J$5.50 to US$1 in the auction system, this represented a significant devaluation from J$1.78 to US$1, which was the value in 1980. Secondly, while he's quick to cite the negative international environment of 2008-09, he makes no references to the fact that there was a buoyant market in relation to aluminium prices or that the increased oil prices of '83 and '85 had been reversed in the period '86 to '89; and he doesn't ascribe any significance to that fact in trying to explain the rates of growth between 1986 and 1989. That at least would have been a more balanced analysis.

Mr. SHAW: That's a little weak.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Maybe, but it is true. You can't claim...

Mr. SHAW: And a little bit superficial.

Dr. PHILLIPS: You cannot claim negative...

Mr. DALLEY: Yuh wake up.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...international environment explaining away all your failings of '08, '09 and not recognize that you had a buoyant international environment taking place in the mid 1980s. It's not a quarrel. It's just a fact.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Now, equally, when he touts the auction system for honesty's sake, let us not forget the large build-up of arrears to purchasers or put another way, the inability of the auction system to meet all the legitimate demands of purchasers.

Dr. DAVIES: Or put another way ICD and Grace were taken out of the box.

Dr. PHILLIPS: We shouldn't ignore the fact that some large users of foreign exchange were taken out of the market altogether nor should we forget the explosion of the blade-market in foreign currency and the rigid police enforcement of exchange controls. When yuh travelling it was what - $50 that you had to get stamped in your passport.

(Cross talk)

Let us not be under any illusion, Mr Speaker....

(Cross talk)

The issue - hold on - the issue is not policing of the foreign exchange system, draconian or otherwise. That's not the issue. The issue is that fixing the exchange rate involves an administrative choice as to where to fix it and that you have to be able to ensure that people who want it can get it when they want it at the official fixed rate. That means that you have to have a supply commensurate to the demand.

The Opposition Spokesman may be tempted to defend his fixed exchange rate by a return to exchange control. I don't know if that is what he's proposing, but if there is one thing we learned from the late 1980s onwards is that no matter how draconian - and the 70s - no matter how draconian the regulations and the sanctions, exchange control is as expensive as it is ineffective; people will buy foreign exchange at whatever price it is available to them when they need it. That is not a lesson just from here. Our economy is subject to the same rules of the market and of economics as we see in other jurisdictions.

What is particularly surprising is that the Opposition Spokesman on Finance discussed the issue of the exchange rate without any reference to the chronic imbalances in the current account of our Balance of Payments. The exchange rate system has strong implications for the balance of payments. In a small and vulnerable developing economy like ours, subject to natural shocks and productivity differentials as compared with our main trading partners in the developed countries, these differentials almost guarantee that our inflation rates will exceed that of our developed trading partners. Without any capacity to correct this imbalance through exchange rate adjustment, you're left with the improbable prospect of increasing productivity faster than the rate of increase of your trading partners. There has to be some flexibility, Mr. Speaker.

There are other economies in the region that have been held up as examples of the benefits of fixed exchange rates. These economies have now lost competitiveness to the extent that their foreign exchange earnings and official reserves have declined precipitously and public debt has climbed alarmingly. I wouldn't want anyone to misunderstand what I'm saying, Mr. Speaker. Nobody and certainly not us, wants protracted exchange rate instability. The benefits of devaluation that result in a switch from consumption of foreign goods to domestic products is not instantaneous, but we are witnessing some of the benefits now. Perhaps we are seeing some of these benefits most clearly in what is happening in the agriculture sector where opportunities are being created for the replacement by local production of the huge almost US$1 Billion of imported food which comes into the country.

The adjustments will allow and, in fact, is already allowing Jamaican farmers and producers to replace imported food stuffs. When you talk about the Irish potato that your farmers in your communities are producing now, part of that is the result of this adjustment. There is no doubt that it causes hardship, first of all, but if we want to get to that point where we can eat more of what we grow and grow more of what we eat; these are some of the adjustment that have to take place. We have to balance the benefits of stability with the opportunity for increased output and employment. There is attractiveness to stability, but its pursuit must not be at the expense of productive opportunities especially when we all share the concern about poverty, unemployment and low growth. The agro parks that we talk about, Mr. Speaker, which are producing, provide opportunities not just for farmworkers but for agronomists, for people who do the marketing, for people who the transportation, we're putting Jamaicans to work here and not just farmers in Iowa and Kansas and Ontario and other places. (Applause)

Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Colorado.

(Cross talk)

Dr. PHILLIPS: While relative exchange rate stability is desirable, this is not a product of the exchange rate mechanism. Whether fixed or managed float, stability has to be the product of the quality of the macroeconomic programme.

(Cross talk)

That is why we must stay the course in fiscal adjustment towards debt sustainability.

Mr. Speaker, we understand that the adjustment entails great difficulty and we understand that it entails hardship for many people. We don't delight in this fact. Indeed, we have done everything within our power and within the resources to cushion the impact of the adjustment on the most vulnerable sectors of the society. It is because of the concern, as the Prime Minister outlined yesterday, that we have increased the payments to PATH beneficiaries by 15 per cent last year and 15 per cent again is provided for in this budget. (Applause) We have increased the minimum wage twice.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Charles)

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have made provision - devaluation in one of the years has been 156 per cent.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Charles)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Even you can give him the lesson about what the rate of inflation has been.

(Cross talk)

Mr. DALLEY: Gwine put some tax on the dye. Put some more tax on the hair day.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw)

(Cross talk)

Dr. PHILLIPS: All right.

Mr. DALLEY: And you need to put the black on that side

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have provided an additional $500 Million for pensioners. We have increased in this budget the income tax threshold...

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...by $49,920, which will see benefit of over $12,000 to taxpayers, each taxpayer. We're expanding the School Feeding Programme. We've provided a transportation subsidy for students in the PATH programme.

(Cross talk)

This, Mr. Speaker, is not the heart of what we seek to do, but it is intended to cushion the impact of the adjustments. All of this was provided in a budget that in real terms is the same as it was last year. We've carved out a greater share for social protection and for the benefits to protect the poor. (Applause) What I want to emphasize, Mr. Speaker, is that this programme is beginning to show evidence of success.

The latest labour force survey conducted by STATIN, and which was released today, indicates that between April 2013 and January 2014 the unemployment rate fell by approximately 3%.

(Applause)

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Samuda)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Thirteen point four per cent down to sixteen point three per cent in April 2013. This is, Mr. Speaker, increase in the labour force.

Mr. CHARLES: Where they are working?

Dr. PHILLIPS: They are working in agriculture, working to grow the construction, people working on highway, they are working and they are working in call centres; they are working all over. We don't have to cry down the country and its progress just to make a political point.

(Applause)

Mr. CHARLES: Three day work, one day man done.

Dr. PHILLIPS: It goes without doubt, it goes without doubt, there is no dispute that there still is too many unemployed. We are not claiming that we have solved the problem. There are still too many persons that not looking for work and that has been a long one and the reality in Jamaica. But we have to muster the national resolve to change that reality. (Applause) Part of the problem - and I believe I am saying this with the utmost sincerity and it is not directed at you, I think it is directed at many, many people in the country, we have been down for so long that we don't even believe that we can get up and can - getting up we explain why it's not and we can't get up. We have to stop doing that and we have to rid ourselves.

I tell you, something happened to me. I had the occasion to go to the IMF annual meeting last year, it was held in Panama, and when I got to Panama City and when I go in the airport or travelling, you see construction taking place in almost every square meter of lot and I said to myself, my goodness, this is what 10% growth looks like, because the truth is, seeing makes a graphic statement of what it looks like. It is not something that we have seen here since maybe the fifties, but we need to believe that we can do it too because nothing wrong with we; we can do it.

Mr. SHAW: We have done it before.

Dr. PHILLIPS: In the fifties and sixties.

Mr. SHAW: And in the eighties, too. Cuba was 6% between '86 and 1990, 6%.

Dr. PHILLIPS: For 20 years.

Mr. SHAW: You guys don't know 6% growth. You have never had it.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. SHAW: You keep quiet.

(The Speaker gavels)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker...

Mr. SAMUDA: Panama is giving incentive that we eliminate and that's the difference.

A Government MEMBER: Bout yuh have job growth!

Dr. PHILLIPS: In addition to the evidence provided in the labour force survey, I don't want to suggest that there are no difficulties because the US, the report of the solar requires partner, with the US economy…. highlight still the fragility of the global but we have to be confident in our collective ability as a country to endure such constant make up and to be able to fashion responsiveness if they come and to keep moving forward.

But we also had yesterday, Mr. Speaker, further evidence that the programme is working.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: The survey of Business and Consumers Confidence for the first quarter showed significant increases over the closing quarter of 2013. In fact, to quote the survey it says:

> "There have been only three surveys since 2001 in which firms held a more positive assessment of their current profit situation".

When asked about prospects for the year ahead, 57% of the firms expected improvement in the first quarter; 4% last quarter and highest percentage in two years. In speaking to investment, the survey indicates for the second quarter the recorded number of firms, and this is the important part, Mr. Speaker, for the second quarter the recorded number of firms expressed their intention to increase their investments in their own business in the year ahead so that there is no pulling or taking advantage of future economic opportunities.

We would like to be higher but there are signs, Mr. Speaker, and we welcome these signs.

Mr. CHUCK: You coming to me now.

Dr. PHILLIPS: When you get to give your speech you structure it how you want it. (Referring to Mr. Chuck)

Mr. Speaker, there has been much public commentary since I opened this Debate surrounding the revenue measures which were announced. It is noteworthy that this revenue package is… upon the smallest share of GDP amounts to approximately .4% and contrasts sharply with the 4% of GDP of forty plus billion dollars in revenue measures that the Opposition Spokesman announced in the fiscal year 2009/2010 and he probably still holds the record I believe.

Mr. SHAW: With NHT loans running six two.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Single year.

Mr. SHAW: Loans 62, yours is $62 Billion with NHT. You hold the record.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Not one year.

Mr. SHAW: You are not just papa tax, you are grandfather tax now.

Dr. PHILLIPS: NHT is not a tax; NHT is where there is distribution. But be that as it may, Mr. Speaker, the fact of the matter is that the $55 Billion of new revenue measures taking out the $1.2 Billion which is really a tax borrowed from the Maintenance Fund to the Consolidation Fund representing approximately 1% of the total expenditure in this year's budget. Nevertheless, Mr. Speaker, we take pride on this side that we are an administration that listens.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have done this. We have single year, we have made adjustment from the wider community of Jamaica. Indeed, I have always invited suggestions, said as much, the post-budget press conference this year.

Let me turn now to some amendments which we propose to make, given some of the constructive feedback received.

Mr. SHAW: Thank you very much! (Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: In relation...

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SHAW: I am just acknowledging the…

Dr. PHILLIPS: In relation to the modification of the duty regime on the fees for motor vehicles because of the oversight pick-ups were not specifically mentioned in our original announcement. I want to emphasize that pick-ups will be included mainly for productive purposes.

Mr. SHAW: That's the 10% reduction?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Yes. I want to make it clear - hybrid vehicles that were not specifically included will not attract special consumption tax. (Applause) We want to encourage energy conservation. We don't produce - we produce very little energy of our own and we want to encourage the use of…

Mr. SHAW: It will attract GCT?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Yes, everything except in relation to the insurance industry.

I want to at the outset, Mr. Speaker, to express particular appreciation to the Insurance Association of Jamaica. The Association has presented alternative to the industry premium tax and an investment tax which will preserve the revenues with less impact on operations of insurance companies. They made these suggestions in accordance with the highest petition of patriotism without fanfare, without accusations or threats or anything else and I want to pay tribute to them because clearly this is an instance where national interest has triumphed over narrow self-interest. (Applause) As a consequence, the increase in the premium tax for the regionalize and non-regionalize insurance companies to 5% and increasing the investment tax to the insurance companies to 20% have now withdrawn and instead will be an increase in the rate that applies to the after tax by an additional 75 basis points to 1% for life insurance companies only. This measure is intended to be temporary and will last for one year. The potential revenue intake will be approximately $900 Million approximately the same as was intended. (Applause)

In relation to the alcohol regime to - specific consumption tax on all alcoholic beverages, we have deferred the implementation of this measure for one month for the tourism industry only. This is in response to request from the Jamaica Hotel and Tourist Association for additional time to discuss the implementation of this measure by the tourism industry. This will result in a revenue loss of approximately $36 Million. But I would also like to pay tribute to the JHTA which I met yesterday along with the Minister of Tourism and other officials from both ministries. They have approached the discussion with a spirit of openness and the recognition of the need for the country to secure the necessary additional revenues. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, now to the question of the levy on financial institutions computed on the basis of withdrawal for deposit-taking institutions and encashment of security deals. As I had said before, Mr. Speaker, we take pride on this side that we are an Administration that listens. We have done so in previous year and made adjustment in response to better suggestions from the national economy. Indeed, I indicated my intention to include all the revenue measures whether or not in the post-budget press conference and in a meeting I had with the trade unions. Then as now, I am only too conscious that the progress we have made with our economic reforming programme and in rescuing the Jamaican economy from its precarious stage was only possible because we have been able to build a national consensus about the need to take Jamaica out of the stranglehold of it. (Applause)

It was this consensus that made the national community respond as they did and make the sacrifices that have got us where they are. I am referring here to the sacrifices made by public sector workers who agreed to a further three years of wage restraint by bondholders, by creditors, pensioners, et cetera.

Mr. Speaker, I want to place on record my appreciation for the numerous calls and messages that I've received directly and through the press, which supported the revenue measures and commended the creativity and consideration, which guided the proposals. Some went further to say, 'don't change, go ahead, I believe we should make it stick'.

However, the primary objective of the Cabinet, the Prime Minister and myself is to maintain the consensus that we have built in the national community. (Applause) And to carry every one of our stakeholders with us as we move forward.

Despite the broad base of support and understanding, we don't think that we have all our stakeholders on board. In this situation, we have to be mindful that we still have a political culture in which desperate people seeking to restore political fortunes...

Mr. DALLEY: Desperados!

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: ....may choose to do so at the expense of the future of the country.

Mr. SHAW: Why you don't.... (Inaud)

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No! What happen? Last week, Mr. Speaker, last week, Mr. Speaker, the Leader of the Opposition let off a broad side against the JUTC.

(Heckling by Members)

I am not saying that he directed anyone, but on the weekend some chose to fire shots into the JUTC buses.

Mr. DALLEY: Always.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Words have consequences and our political culture still has a far way to go. It's not worth - it's not worth rupturing our community over $2 Billion in a $550 Billion budget. Not worth it. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it is our belief that the Economic Reform Programme on which we are embarked should simultaneously herald a rebirth of a political culture, which no longer praise on ignorance and misinformation or seeks narrow political interests.

So, Mr. Speaker, let me turn to some amendments which we propose to make, given some of the constructive feedback that we have received. We propose to replace the levy on the banks and financial institution with two measures.

First, there is a withholding - the introduction of a Withholding Tax on insurance premiums paid to non-residents by Jamaican residents. The first being the introduction of a 15% Withholding Tax on all Insurance Premiums, paid by Jamaican residents to nonresidents, premiums paid to non-residents by registered Jamaican insurance companies will be exempt. The objective of this measure is to assist us in improving compliance while we strive to protect the most vulnerable.

As part of their tax management strategy, large Jamaican companies have been increasingly purchasing insurance from overseas insurance companies. A common tax avoidance scheme employed by these firms is to create a captive insurance company in an offshore jurisdiction. The captive charges the local operating company and insurance premium, which is treated as an expense and is totally deductable from the Jamaican corporation income tax.

The imposition of the 15% tax on such payments would immediately mitigate the benefits these captive arrangements enjoy and increase tax compliance. It would also bring this in line with interest payments made by resident Jamaica companies other than banks to overseas lenders.

The proposal to exempt local registered insurance companies from this tax would not penalize the payment of reinsurance premiums. (Applause)

The second measure, Mr. Speaker, relates to the GCT Act to improve the rules related to imported services.

The General Consumption Tax which was introduced in 1991 provided for a tax on imported services. This was amended in 2003 to strengthen the mechanism for the effective collection of the GCT.

The Cabinet in 2009 noted that there were additional loopholes and sought to address these by approving amendments including streamlining the treatment of imported services.

To ensure policy continuity within the context of tax reform, these amendments are now being undertaken. Unlike imported goods, most services imported into Jamaica are not subject to GCT. Registered taxpayers who provide services are at a disadvantage to non-resident service providers since the Jamaican service providers must charge GCT, whereas non-resident service providers are not generally required to do so.

Dr. DAVIES: This applies to the… (Inaud)

Dr. PHILLIPS: It would.

Dr. DAVIES: It would?

Dr. PHILLIPS: It would.

Dr. DAVIES: Okay.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The absence of GCT on imported services encourages domestic consumers to substitute imported services that are not subject to GCT for domestically supplied services that are subject to GCT. (Applause) It discourages the domestic production of services since domestic suppliers may not be able to pass on the cost to consumers who are able to switch to imported services. It discourages domestically produced services by some Jamaican businesses.

This move is to remedy the imposition of GCT on imported services; is designed to stem future revenue losses from this source as purchasing services offshore is becoming increasingly common. It will also stimulate the development of a domestic service sector as part of the overall goal strategy. The yield from both of these new measures and - that is to say the levy on insurance payments and the modification to the GCT Act is estimated to be $2.3 Billion. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, there is no doubt that this will require more administrative effort than our previous proposal.

Mr. SHAW: Domestic?

Dr. PHILLIPS: It does. It does. But you start so much 'ting and den give up haf way.

(Laughter by Mr. Robinson)

(Laughter by members)

Mr. DALLEY: He's famous for that.

Dr. PHILLIPS: That is why....

A Government MEMBER: Highway 2000!

Dr. PHILLIPS: That is why the other measure which we are withdrawing has particular attractions. But, Mr. Speaker, what we want as we move forward in what we admit is a difficult economic reform process, we want the whole country to work together, we want everyone to be on the same side. (Applause)

Tough though the Programme is that it is administratively challenging. We want revenue you know, no doubt about it, it requires more effort, but we are making the adjustment because we want to pull everyone, including you... (Dr. Phillips speaking to Mr. Samuda) ...including Pearnel, to understand the necessity of the Economic Reform Programme.

(Heckling)

Mr. CHARLES: I did Economics 101, you know.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Good!

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Excellent!

Mr. Speaker, No, we want you. We want you. No, we want you. We want you. (Dr. Phillips refers to Mr. Charles)

Dr. DAVIES: How do you decide when you hear?

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, tough though the Programme is, it is bearing fruit. We have seen a return to growth. (Applause) Inflation has been curtailed; debt is going down; the unemployment rate is on a downward trajectory; agriculture is looking up; there is growth in tourism; there is expansion in the DPO sector; the animation sector is showing growth; the construction sector is showing positive signs....

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes! Yes!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Business and consumer confidence is looking up, Mr. Speaker. (Applause) Our international partners are committing to more support. It is time, Mr. Speaker, for Jamaican business people to invest more in Jamaica. (Applause) It is time for all of us to recognize the good things that are happening and not just to be paralyzed by the fact that challenges still remain. (Applause)

We need to pull together, Mr. Speaker, and not be distracted by the naysayers. It is time, Mr. Speaker, that we move to a national resolve to continue to eschew our lust for political power and our pursuit of political interest or sectional interest. It is time for every single Jamaican to keep front and centre before us the national interest in building our economy and cutting down our debt. (Applause)

There are some big hurdles which remain. We must get Public Sector Transformation right and get rid of so much of the bureaucracy that provides a blockage to those who want to invest and produce. (Applause)

We have to raise the level of tax compliance and pursue the people who see it as their business to avoid tax. And the truth is there are too many who still see the only good tax as one that is applied to the poorest and the most vulnerable among us. (Applause)

We must work towards sustaining the educational gains of the past year and not only providing access to a few. We must continue to be fiscally responsible. We must live within our means, so that we can continue to reduce our debt... (Applause) and we must do all of this in the context of a fragile work economy.

But, as we do this, Mr. Speaker, let's not forget the sacrifices of those who have made it possible for us to get even this far.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear! (Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: The public sector workers, the pensioners and the bondholders, the ordinary Jamaicans who have seen their purchasing power limited and constraint. God forbid, Mr. Speaker, that we should ever abandon our commitment and our resolve. Jamaica deserves better than that. (Applause)

Our resolve must be that come what may, we will continue the path of economic development. (Applause) Our resolve must be that if there are shocks unforeseen, we have to continue to believe in our ability, our ingenuity to weather those shocks and continue moving forward. (Applause) Our resolve must be to reach out to those who don't understand and to explain as best we can. Our resolve must be to resist this cynical political responses that we have been conditioned to by years and years of excessive partisanship. (Applause) Our resolve must be to achieve this.

Mr. Speaker, we have another year before us, it is our intention to keep the good ship Jamaica, moving forward and upwards. May God bless Jamaica, Mr. Speaker.

In closing I move that the Bill, the Appropriations Bill be read a second time. (Applause)

(Standing Ovation by Government Members)

(Messrs Davies and Dalley embrace Dr. Phillips)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Audley… (Inaudible)

Mr. WARMINGTON: Shut you mout!

(Laughter)

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Bill be read a second time.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: And before we go into Public Business, let me - join me in welcoming our many visitors here today, especially our Senators and former Members of Parliament.

(Applause)

(MR. ANDREW MICHAEL HOLNESS, (JLP), St. Andrew, West Central, Leader of the Opposition, entered and took his seat.)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, we will now have a contribution from the Member from East Kingston and Port Royal, Minister of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining.

(MR. AUDLEY FITZ ALBERT SHAW, (JLP), Manchester, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

The SPEAKER: Minister Paulwell.

(Applause)

SECTORAL DEBATE

Mr. PAULWELL: I thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I start my presentation with a quote from Julius Caesar:

Opposition MEMBERS: What! What!

(DR. ANDREW O'BRIEN WHEATLEY, (JLP), St. Catherine, South Central, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. PAULWELL:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men, which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. Omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries. On such a full sea are we now afloat. And we must take the current when it serves, or lose our ventures."

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

(Applause)

Mr. HOLNESS: You know who said so?

Mr. SHAW: Flood can drown you too, you know.

(Laughter)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, in many ways Jamaica is at such a tide and my Ministry, the Ministry of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining is taking the current when it serves; and has every reason, Mr. Speaker, to be proud.

The policies of this Ministry have led to the price of telephone calls being the lowest in the region at less than $3 per minute. (Applause) Not many people will recall that in the year 2000, the price per minute was J$127.

The Ministry renewed, Mr. Speaker, existing telecom licences and granted new ones which earned for the country, J$12.6 Billion. (Applause) And I will engage the Member in a discussion to illustrate to him - the spokesperson on ICT - that we got more than value for money for these licenses. The Member from St. Catherine....

A MEMBER: South Central.

Mr. PAULWELL: …South Central.

Mr. Speaker, despite the howls of protest when initially introduced by this Ministry, the Universal Service Fund (USF) has collected approximately J$12 Billion from the Universal Service Charge. (Applause) This money is being used to unleash internet access and technology in every nook and cranny of our dear country, Jamaica.

(MR. DESMOND ANTHONY AGUSTUS MCKENZIE, (JLP), Kingston Western, entered and took his seat.)

The Ministry has continued the build-out of the National Broadband Network, connecting secondary schools, select post offices, libraries and hospitals. Mr. Speaker, one hundred and seventy-seven (177) Community Access Points (CAP) have been established across the length and breadth of this country. (Applause) This has brought thousands of Jamaicans into the world of the internet. (Applause)

This Ministry has brought electricity for the first time to thousands of Jamaicans in communities such as Plumwood in South Manchester, Adams Valley in North West Manchester; Top Conolly in West Central St. Catherine, Powell Town in South East St. Elizabeth, Louden Hill and Airy Castle in St. Thomas.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Bwoy, you start off strong man!

(Laughter)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, man!

(Laughter by all) (Inaudible comments)

(Laughter)

Mr. PAULWELL: I have to lift the energy in the place. 'A don't finish yet! A don't finish yet!'

Fishers Spring and Bodles in South West St. Catherine...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

Mr. PAULWELL: ….just to name a few.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Warmington)

Mr. PAULWELL: A coming to you soon.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Warmington)

Mr. PAULWELL: In addition, Mr. Speaker, to date, I have signed 166 licences of a total of 193 applications with a combined capacity of over 2.6 megawatt for net billing. This will avoid the importation of 35,000 barrels of oil annually, a saving of US$3.5 Million.

(Applause)

(MR. DESMOND GREGORY MAIR, (JLP), St. Catherine, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, the Government's Energy Conservation and Efficiency project is well underway. This project is transforming energy usage across the entire public sector. For example, at the National Housing Trust we spent - this Government - $1.1 Million to install solar control film. After one (1) year, Mr. Speaker, the consumption at that office was reduced by 87,000 Kwh... (Applause) ...representing a cost savings of $3.5 Million and a simple payback of four (4) months. Money spent. And we have been able to achieve the success desired. (Applause)

Also, Mr. Speaker, at the Development Bank of Jamaica (DBJ), we spent $2.3 Million in again, in solar control film and after eight (8) months, the consumption was reduced by 49,000 Kwh representing a cost saving of J$2 Million and a simple payback of seven (7) months. That's an accomplishment.

(MR. EDMUND CURTIS BARTLETT, CD, (JLP), St. James, East Central, entered and took his seat.)

And I'm sure the Ministers of Finance and National Security will be pleased to know that we are in the police stations. At the Spanish Town Police Station, we invested $360,000 in solar control film. After five (5) months, total consumption was reduced by 6,758 Kwh representing a total cost saving of $271,000 and a simple payback of seven (7) months.

(MR. RUDYARD CONRAD SPENCER, (JLP), Clarendon, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Mr. PAULWELL: Last year, right here in this House, we committed to the introduction of ultra-low-sulphur diesel for the transportation sector. I said so right here that it will be introduced on the 26th of June, 2013. Mr. Speaker, I can say mission accomplished in relation to that.

(Applause)

This Ministry assisted in achieving the first sale of goods under the PetroCaribé Trade Compensation Mechanism with the sale of clinker by the Carib Cement Company to Venezuela valued at approximately $8.5 Million.

(Applause)

And Mr. Speaker, I'm not claiming credit for that alone because this represents joined-up government at work. (Applause) Because, as we all know, our Prime Minister led this effort; she was the one who engineered to make sure that we were able to benefit from this trade compensation mechanism. And her travels to Venezuela have paid off.

(Thunderous applause)

We are working, we are working, and we are working. (Applause)

I have to acknowledge the support of the Minister of Industry and also the Minister of Foreign Affairs in this matter.

Mr. Speaker, this Ministry has launched the 'Tablets in School Pilot Project' with the award of four (4) contracts valued at $800 Million for the procurement of 27,000 tablet computers for 38 institutions in this country. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, this Ministry's policies have seen to the continuation of full production at the Ewarton Alumina Plant employing hundreds of Jamaicans.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry promised last year that we would not spend another dime on the operations of JAMALCO. We promised that CAP would no longer require budgetary support. For the first time in many years, since May of last year, the Government of Jamaica was not called upon to fund the operations because we have put in place a new arrangement.

(Applause)

And finally, in this brief summation of our solid achievements, this Ministry piloted, because we are responsible also for the ECJ, a Cabinet Submission on Campaign Finance Reform and I am pleased to announce that the Cabinet has approved the issuing of drafting instructions for campaign finance legislation. This will bring greater transparency to the financing of our election campaigns. Mr. Speaker, this is truly a monumental and historic step that will that will ensure that our Governments are not elected and controlled by special interests, but will be Governments by the people, from the people and for the people. (Applause)

So, Mr. Speaker, I rise as a proud Minister, and in support of the motion in my name, to commence this historic Sectoral Debate at a truly critical point for our country, our economy and the well-being of our people.

Mr. Speaker, as is evident, my Ministry has been working to break out of the fiscal shackles and build a platform for sustainable growth. It has not been easy. It will not be easy. No one promised us that it would be so. We will have to take tough and unpopular decisions. We will have to stand up to those who would seek to promote hidden agendas. But we will face any storm and climb any mountain because we are determined to transform the Jamaican economy and bring empowerment to our people. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, as I navigate this period of my own political life, despite the criticisms, I remain transfixed on the end goal, building a platform for sustainable growth. I thank the Almighty for surrounding me with His everlasting grace and favour. My faith is buttressed by Psalms 94 vs. 19:

> "When doubts filled my mind, Your comfort gave me renewed hope and cheer."

(Applause)

I owe a debt of gratitude to my leader, the Most Honourable Prime Minister for her unwavering faith and confidence in my ability to lead this important Ministry. (Applause) The Prime Minister knows why I support her religiously because her commitment to this cause is undergirded by a deep and uncompromising philosophy of ensuring that the poor of this country are given pride of place, that they are protected, that they are provided for, that we look out for them and in every decision she makes at the Cabinet she ask the question, How will the poor benefit? (Applause) I share a similar background to the Prime Minister and that this is the reason why that commitment and philosophy is shared by me equally.

So, Prime Minister, thank you very much and I know that you have set a goal of reducing the price of electricity and we are committed to reducing the price of electricity in this country.

(Applause)

I want to thank my family for their abiding love, my children, they bear the brunt of my decision to serve in public life. (Applause) And I want to thank some special friends of mine. You know, the Member from Clarendon, Central when he spoke some weeks ago he spoke about being on probation for a little while before he went and do something. I just completed my first year of probation. And I want to thank Ashley who is here, who is supporting me and continues to do so. (Applause) The Minister of Agriculture is from Central Westmoreland, I better not make that mistake because Westmoreland is a parish that has been faithful...

Mr. BUCHANAN: Yes, talk about Westmoreland - important place.

Mr. PAULWELL: Central Westmoreland. So I want to thank all my friends and there are many in the audience too many to mention. But you know who you are, I want to thank you very much.

I want to thank my Cabinet colleagues for their support, their counsel and their camaraderie.

Mr. Speaker, forgive me, but the real fulfillment and inspiration for my involvement in public life are the people of East Kingston and Port Royal. (Applause) I want to thank my Councillors, I see former Member of Parliament, Marjorie Taylor here. Marjorie we love you, so happy that you are here. (Applause)

I want to thank my Constituency Executive, the Cluster Managers, Youth Leaders, Women's Groups, NGOs, the Ministers Fraternal, the Educators, the educators, the educators (Applause) and the children of East Kingston and Port Royal, thank you very much for your support, (Applause) and I promise and pledge to continue being the best MP that you can have at this time. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I also thank the Jamaican people for their support and their words of encouragement, especially recently, as I interact with them on a daily basis. Their deep sacrifice, their resilience, their patience and lofty hope for the future undergird my determination to make Jamaica a better place for all of us.

Mr. Speaker, I have to salute my Minister of State, the Honourable Julian Robinson... (Applause) ...for his loyal support and determination in assisting with the transformative work of our Ministry. I wish also to acknowledge and to thank, in a very special way, the able leadership of my Permanent Secretary, Ms. Hillary Alexander. (Applause) And the dedication and commitment of the leadership and staff in the Ministry. In my ministry it is a family, we work hard, we play hard and when we go through issues, we go through them together and all the achievements that I have announced today I share them equally with the staff of the Ministry of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining. (Applause) And of course, Mr. Speaker, I have to thank my personal staff, I too have somebody at home who takes care of me Miss Rema and I have my security, I have...

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Mr. PAULWELL: Miss Rema, Ms. Rema. Ms. Rema can do the hominy corn porridge. And of course, my security and driver and personal staff at the Ministry and so on.

Mr. Speaker, I salute my colleagues on both sides of the House, especially in my role as Leader of Government Business. We have had a most productive legislative year in which we passed a record forty (40) Bills in the last calendar year, and thirty one (31) for the last legislative year.

(Applause)

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I am sure my colleagues on both sides would readily join me in commending you for your calm demeanor and sagacious counsel that has ensured stability.

(Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Mr. PAULWELL: Every Member got a tablet last year just google it and you will find the meaning. Ensure stability and balance in our proceedings.

In the same breath, we thank the members of the Parliamentary staff for their tireless efforts in ensuring efficient proceedings on behalf of the Jamaican people. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in this presentation, I will give an update on developments in the Science, Technology and Innovation Sector. I will then place in the record of Parliament, the facts as they relate to the 381 Megawatt Baseload project, and the way forward. I will lay the basis for changes in our energy mix particularly relating to the bauxite alumina industry. And finally, I will then give a detailed update on developments in that industry. And I am trying to set an example in leading this first phase; and you have noted the starting time and I am sure you will allow the House Leader a little leverage because I opened the debate. Very well, we are moving quickly.

Mr. Speaker, half a century ago, the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jnr. had this to say:

> "The greatest need of modern man today is to keep the moral and ethical ends for which he lives abreast of the scientific and moral ends for which he lives. It is the maintaining of these means for those ends that research and development continues to drive the engine of life's endeavour".

What he said then, Mr. Speaker remains true today.

Statistical data from UNESCO in 2004, indicate that the spend on Science, Technology & Innovation, as a percentage of GDP in some advanced economies is as follows: Firstly in Japan it is 3.2 per cent, South Korea - 3 per cent, USA - 2.7 per cent, and Singapore - 2.4 per cent. CARICOM territories fail in comparison where our average spend is 0.13 per cent of GDP. The data further indicates that the OECD groups of countries spend some 30 per cent of their budget, public & private combined, on Science, Technology & Innovation and earn 50 per cent of their GDP from that thrust. We in CARICOM spend some 0.1 per cent of the total and we earn less than 1 per cent of GDP from it.

Mr. Speaker, we have been hearing much about the knowledge-based economy and the need to align training and education with the expected needs for development, especially with the logistics hub on the horizon. (Applause)

Seventy per cent (70%) of the jobs in the future will require knowledge in the areas of STEM, Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics; and the global reality is that emphasis must be placed on these areas at all levels of education. The Minister of Education and the entire Government we share this; all levels and types of training and into the psyche of the working public. Currently, we are inadequately prepared to achieve these standards. It is estimated that 7 out of 10 workers have neither training nor certification for the jobs that they do.

Mr. Speaker, STEM has to be our focus. STEM has to be our imperative if our upcoming projects are to impact our people by way of jobs and careers. It is STEM, Mr.

Speaker that is proving to be the anchor for all developed countries, bar none. It has been shown, and note the countries I earlier referred to that Science and Technology are indeed the main driver of innovation, entrepreneurship and wealth creation.

Mr. Speaker, globally, industries driven by STEM and innovation generate significant incomes. Some of these industries are: Health & Wellness tourism - $500 Billion; the Nutraceutical Industry - $250 Billion; Information and Communication Technologies - $3 Billion, the Pharmaceutical Industry - $400 Billion and Agribusiness - $33 Billion. Mr. Speaker, the time has come for us to take even a minute slice of these very large pies.

We intend to use the integrated institutional joined-up approach to enable a more efficient implementation of our National Science Policy. We intend to have a joint inter-ministerial policy integration of critical ministries to streamline the applications of Science and Technology in development and to make them accessible to all levels of society.

Mr. Speaker, we must have a national conversation on Science & Technology. As such, last week the Most Honourable Prime Minister made certain announcement and she has decided to establish a national integrated focal point to engender the development of a national culture for Science and Technology in the Jamaican society.

(Applause)

These measures will demonstrate the practical manifestation of our Government and we have created the position of a National Director General of Science and Technology which shall drive the implementation of the policies laid down by our National Commission on Science and Technology. And the Prime Minister is the Chairman of the NCST. The NCST has not been in operation for a while; we are now putting back that in place to ensure that it can be the umbrella organization to facilitate STIs in Jamaica.

In the first instance, we shall be seconding Professor, the Honourable Errol Morrison, OJ, who currently is the President of the University of Technology and world renowned scientist and medical entrepreneur, to spearhead this initiative in the Ministry... (Applause) ...and he will come on board on the 1st of June this year.

Mr. Speaker, our Government has made no secret - Mr. Speaker, I turn to the question of Energy. Our Government has made no secret about advancing the critical matter of the energy agenda.

On this issue of energy, there is common agreement amongst all of us as Jamaicans, here in the Parliament and outside, the price of forty-two US cents (US$0.42) per kilowatt hour is too expensive, it is too high.

Mr. SHAW: It's heading for fifty cents! It is going to fifty cents!

Mr. PAULWEL: It is too high. And that has to be a joint preoccupation on our part.

The Government is committed to reducing that price. At today's price of forty-two cents, our consumers are burdened and our businesses are uncompetitive.

Mr. SAMUDA: We are not burdened, we are dying!

Mr. PAULWELL: This has to change. Our growth and future development, as a nation, are directly dependent on affordable energy.

Mr. Speaker, I am aware of the intense public interest and debate surrounding the 381 megawatt project. Given the importance of this project to national development, I wish to clarify some issues before announcing the way forward.

Mr. Speaker, the quest for lower electricity prices has, as I mentioned before, spanned various Administrations. The process to develop base-load capacity, utilizing natural gas to be transported here in a liquefied form, started with our Administration in around 2001/2002. When I returned to the Ministry in 2012, there existed a government-sponsored broad- based LNG Steering Committee, chaired at that time by Mr. Christopher Zacca, who was then working as Special Advisor to the then Prime Minister.

Mr. Speaker, while retaining the Committee, for good order I required that all members of the private sector on that Committee submit a voluntary declaration to state that there was no existing conflict of interest or potential therefor.

(HON. COLIN ALFRED A FAGAN, (PNP), St. Catherine, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

After ten months, and having cost the taxpayers of this country over Three point Eight Million US Dollars (US$3.8M), in and around October that year when it became...

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PAULWELL: Well, they had to employ consultants and they had to conduct bids and try to procure at that time the floating and storage re-gasification unit - so it cost the country Three point Eight Million Dollars US (US$3.8M).

It was quite clear to me by October of that year that we were getting nowhere, because the price that was being quoted was too high. And so, that Committee was disbanded. And as a result of that we actually saved - the balance of Two point Two Million US (US$2.2M) was returned to the Minister of Finance - to the Ministry of Finance.

(Inaudible comment from Mr. Shaw)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, a new process to procure generating capacity was commenced by the OUR, having been formally assigned this responsibility through an amendment to the JPSCo licence. The Members can recall that before now the OUR wasn't the body that had procurement, but after the project that saw the preferred bidder being ExMar being announced, and with those controversies, the then government shifted the policy and made the OUR the procurer of these large-scale generations.

The OUR went to the market in 2011 for 480 megawatts. There was a requirement for additional generating capacity of 360 and the remaining 120 at a later date. That time the JPSCo was the sole bidder but they were unable to conclude the process to the satisfaction of the OUR.

Forgive me if I just take you back, because I think we need to appreciate the various starts and indeed stops to this attempt, and why certain things happened in the way they did, especially recently.

So the JPSCo was the sole bidder. The OUR aborted that process. And in 2013 the OUR announced that it would allow unsolicited bids for 360 megawatts of capacity. This again was unsuccessful, because all the bidders who submitted unsolicited bids did not have viable projects, as determined by the OUR - not me, the OUR.

The OUR, having disbanded that process, decided that it was going to go back to the market by way of a limited tender, a new process to start. At that same time EWI, that is, Energy World International entered the fray. So it was at the end of one process, just before a new process was to commence.

The Government of Jamaica received a proposal from EWI, which was recommended to the OUR. The OUR decided to accept the recommendation of Cabinet and with the concurrence of the National Contracts Committee. So the OUR went to the National Contracts Committee, said to the National Contracts Committee, the Cabinet has recommended that as we get into this new phase we include EWI, and the NCC said, yes. That is all a part of the facts.

They also said that you should allow those bidders who had submitted under the unsolicited proposals. So EWI along with the other bidders entered this new procurement phase. I don't think the country is aware of that because people are giving the impression that a phase had started and we parachuted EWI into the phase. So this is what happened. This is what happened.

It is critical to understand Mr. Speaker that the procurement process, because of the amendments...

(Sotto voce comments from Mr. Mair)

Mr. PAULWELL: ...and I am sure the Member wants to hear this - that the procurement process is entirely managed by the OUR since the change in 2011, and as an independent regulator, they guard that independence fiercely.

Mr. MAIR: Interim Director General!

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the Cabinet found it necessary to recommend EWI to the OUR, due to a number of critical factors.

I think it's very important because people are saying why the Minister stick his neck out for EWI? Let me tell you why, let me tell you why. All along we were trying to get people to appreciate that you have to get at least a 30 per cent reduction in the price of electricity...

(Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: ...to start, to start. That is to start. Because at 42 cents, 30 per cent is not going to help us to become competitive, you have to get below 20 cents. And so, when EWI came and said that they could guarantee twelve point eight-eight cents (012.88) that was music to my ears. Music to the ears of the Cabinet.

(Applause)

But not only that, but not only that. They were prepared to guarantee it so that it would become a ceiling, unlike what we have today where fuel is a direct pass-through to the consumer, so it doesn't matter what the price of fuel is, the consumer bears it. So if it goes up tomorrow - if heavy fuel oil or diesel, any one of them goes up tomorrow it is passed through to the consumers. Not so in the proposal from EWI. The cost of the fuel would remain constant. The price that it's sold to the grid would remain constant for twenty years. That was what we got.

(Sotto voce comment from an Opposition Member)

Mr. PAULWELL: We are not - we don't have the responsibility to do due diligence on those things. This is what they presented to us and we had to pass it over. We would have been irresponsible - as The Gleaner has said - if we had not taken them into account. And we did.

(MR. LESTER MICHAEL HENRY, CD, (JLP), Clarendon, Central, entered and took his seat.)

(MRS. SHAHINE ELIZABETH ROBINSON, (JLP), St. Ann, North Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. Speaker, Members of this Honourable House will recall that last month I announced that the OUR had recommended that Energy World International be granted a licence for the supply of 381 megawatts of electricity to the JPSCo. And I signed an amended licence on the 14th of April. But we noted that EWI was ranked second.

Again, people are saying we were able to parachute them to the head of the line. That's not so. They came out number 2, not number 1. We have to correct the record. They were number 2. The first one having failed and they moved up to the position of number 1.

The legislative framework, as I mentioned earlier, Mr. Speaker, provides that the Office of Utilities Regulation should manage the procurement process for new generating capacity. Consistent with that framework, the OUR has full latitude to discharge its role and function. As far as I am aware, while there have been several delays, there has been no impropriety on the part of the OUR's management of this process.

Of course, Parliament knows, and I think the Opposition spokesperson on energy and I share the view which I have already expressed, that really, for the future, in relation to addition of generating capacity, this should not really be under the control of the OUR, as its function is not in keeping with the role of the regulator.

And I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that even though the OCG and I disagree on the outcome of his investigation, I have a tremendous and profound respect for that office. And I want to say upfront that if I might have said anything or done anything in any way that would compromise the authority and independence of that office, I regret it and I withdraw and apologize for that. I respect the role and Office of the OCG.

(Government and Opposition Members applaud)

Mr. VAZ: You respect the office or him, or both?

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: A little youthful exuberance!

Mr. PAULWELL: A little, a little.

Mr. Speaker, let me just turn now to the Minister's role, because the Minister only comes in after a recommendation is made by the OUR. So after you have done the full evaluation of the bids, and you have made a determination, you have determined a preferred bidder, and so on, the Minister comes in at the point where a licence is to be issued.

So, having received the recommendation from the OUR, the Minister becomes responsible for the terms and conditions of the licence, in keeping with the law, the Electric Lighting Act. This role is also reflected in the OUR Act, which states that no entity shall provide a utility service without a licence issued by the Minister. As the terms of the licence are the purview of the Minister, it may be amended also by the Minister, Section 3(a).

I just want to go through - even though we had issued a statement over the weekend - again, so that it is in the record of this House. And I hope you will give me the additional five minutes as I just go through this part, to put it on the Table.

The OUR, in making its recommendation, also proposed terms to be included in the licence. Several of these terms were substantially different from those contained in the Form of Licence attached to the instructions for final proposals - what you call the RFP - we call it here the IFFP - that was issued to our bidders. This Form of Licence - a document containing standard terms - would have been a critical consideration for all bidders, in deciding whether to submit a proposal.

The IFFP states that the performance bond is due ten days after the issuance of the licence. The recommendation from the OUR for the grant of the licence was dated the 26th of March. I reviewed the recommended terms and sought the advice of the AG's Office, in relation to the deviations that were identified.

While awaiting that advice, I was told by the OUR that if you don't sign it by a certain date, then you are going to lose the currency of the bid bond, at which time I signed the licence. And this was done on the 4th of April.

In an effort to ensure that the performance bond of Thirty-six point Eight Million ($36.8M) would be due before the expiration of the bid bond, I was advised by the OUR that the signing on the 4th of April was an absolute necessity. And this is what I did, even before receiving the formal advice of the AG's Office.

Having received the signed licence, EWI indicated that it would be unwilling to proceed with the project on the terms of the licence issued, that's the licence that was issued on the 4th of April. The basis of its unwillingness was the substantial differences between the recommended licence and the Form of Licence contained in the IFFP.

(Sotto voce comment from an Opposition Member)

Mr. PAULWELL: I am going too fast. The Member says I am going too fast, so let me slow down a little bit.

The basis of its unwillingness was the substantial differences between the recommended licence and the Form of Licence contained in the IFFP, as well as its reservation that the risk profile of the project would increase exponentially and jeopardize its ability to obtain financing.

The EWI people indicated to me that they had previously made these comments known to the OUR when the latter sent a copy of the draft Licence for which a response was sought in 24 hours.

Mr. Speaker, acting in the interest of the Jamaican people, I decided to amend the Licence. I obtained legal advice from the AG's Chambers to ensure that the amendments were consistent with the Form of Licence to preserve the date, the timelines and targets of the bid and performance bond. And that Licence was signed on the 14th April.

Mr. Speaker, let me focus on two amendments to the Licence that have dominated discussions in the public forum, and that has fueled many misconceptions.

There are two things:

- the step-in rights during the construction phase; and
- the non-inclusion of the requirements for financial information.

(MISS JOYCE DENISE DALEY, (PNP), St. Catherine, Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. Speaker, the step-in rights are general rights granted for an entity to assume ownership of an asset for a discounted purchase price. In the context of electricity generation, the usual intent would be to ensure the continuity of a service as opposed to the mere acquisition of property prior to commissioning. For this reason, the step-in rights are usually most appropriate post-commissioning of an electricity generating plant.

Step-in rights during the construction phase were not contained in the Form of Licence that was submitted in the RFP. Further, it should be noted that step-in rights in the construction phase are not a feature of any other licence granted to any other independent power producer in Jamaica. Also, the Amended Licence still provides for step-in rights after commissioning - after the plant is open - and as Minister, I would have had that right if the plant is shut for more than 48 hours.

The Second item, Schedule 1 of the Amended Licence requires EWI to provide evidence of financing of the Project in accordance with the Power Purchase Agreement.

(MISS OLIVIA ATAVIA GRANGE, (JLP), St. Catherine, Central, entered and took her seat.)

In the event that EWI fails to supply that information, this would be a breach of the amended licence which may lead to its revocation.

Mr. Speaker, while EWI's financial status is relevant, projects of this nature are usually project-financed and contingent on an effective and financeable Power Purchase Agreement. The Power Purchase Agreement is therefore an important document which a potential financier will consider in making a decision to finance a project.

Again, Mr. Speaker, unlike all other Power Purchase Agreement - and I am not blaming anybody, I am just stating a fact - unlike all other Power Purchase Agreements, which are usually effective on signing, the OUR made the effectiveness of this one, subject to the grant of the Licence by me. I believe that this could have delayed the discussions that the investors were having with potential financiers. The OUR's recommended Licence contained the requirement for certain financial assurances. This is another unusual requirement in a licence. Further, this requirement was not contained in the Form of Licence in the IFFP.

Mr. Speaker, I made a decision to have certain matters that were not appropriately included in the recommended licence, transferred into an Implementation Agreement between EWI and the Government of Jamaica. That Agreement, a copy of which is now posted on the Ministry's website, also included terms designed to declare the Project a Strategic National Priority and reflected the requirement for the posting of the performance bond that was stated in the IFFP.

Mr. Speaker, much has been said about the absence of the performance bond. For clarity, it should be noted that the original Licence was superseded again by this Licence of April 14. They were given 10 days. Within that ten-day period, there were two intervening holidays, both in Hong Kong and Jamaica. And then there was this IDB communication that stated that they were unwilling to finance the Project. Given those matters, I allowed for some more time for the posting of the bond.

Mr. Speaker, the Cabinet received a Report and an update from me in relation to this project yesterday, and as a result of that update the Cabinet has taken certain decisions.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time has expired.

Mr. ROBINSON: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time be sufficiently extended to complete his presentation. And in so doing, I seek your permission to speak from a seat other than my own.

The SPEAKER: No problem.

The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficiently for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister.

(Applause)

Mr. PAULWELL: Much obliged to my colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, the following is the decision taken by the Cabinet, and it is in precise legal language so as to protect all of us.

Firstly, the Minister will consult with the OUR concerning the revocation of EWI's Licence. Secondly, the Cabinet has declared the building of this power project as a large-scale major project, and will appoint an Enterprise Team which will oversee its full implementation. The Enterprise Team is to be chaired by Dr. Vincent Lawrence.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. SHAW: The one with Mirant? He is the one that gave... (Inaudible) ….to Mirant. The Enterprise Team will report to the Prime Minister and the Cabinet.

Mr. SHAW: Him bring Mirant to Jamaica; that was where our troubles started... Mirant.

Mr. PAULWELL: The Enterprise Team will be mandated to implement...

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Shaw)

Mr. PAULWELL: This is very important; this is very important. The Enterprise Team will be mandated to have the project implemented in 2016.

(Applause by Government Members)

A Government MEMBER: By...

Another Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: By 2016. That timing is sacrosanct. Let me say it again. The project will be implemented by 2016. And the country will receive regular reports from the Team.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PAULWELL: I should also note that the team will comprise six individuals, two of whom will be nominated by the private sector group.

Mr. Speaker, I am aware of the Prime Minister's passion; and her passion and commitment to bring cheaper electricity to the people of Jamaica, and for her fervent desire to foster growth in the Jamaican economy. I share those goals with our Prime Minister.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: And in this regard, I pledge my own support and commitment to ensuring that we meet this timeline. And, you know...

Mr. VAZ: At the price.

Mr. SAMUDA: You can't change the price, you know. You can't change the price.

Mr. PAULWELL: ...there is a silver lining in all of this. There is a silver lining in all of this because Mr. Speaker, let me say to you - let me say to you, before EWI came on the scene, people were bombarding me about...

(Applause by Government Members)

Mr. SAMUDA: All those who were up at 18 must come down to 12. They must come down now.

(Sotto voce comment by Opposition Members)

Mr. PAULWELL: You and I are at one. You and I are at one because before EWI, I was being bombarded by people who wanted to pursue sole sourcing...

Mr. VAZ: The price must be the same.

Mr. PAULWELL: ...and I couldn't get them to budge below 19 cents. So, a benchmark has been set; a benchmark has been set.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PAULWELL: And I have every confidence, I have every confidence now that we will be able to achieve that initial 30 per cent reduction, because a benchmark has been set. Thanks to EWI.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want to move to another related matter that has also been very much in the public domain. This has to do with coal...

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: ...and its proposed role in the Government's strategy to reform the country's energy sector. When I speak of the Government's Energy Sector Reform Programme, I refer to the comprehensive set of activities which together, will sufficiently change the way energy is used in Jamaica and place the country on a level playingfield with our neighbours, near and far.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PAULWELL: This strategy is grounded in our National Energy Policy that was approved by this Honourable House in November 2010 under that Government. In the policy, Jamaica's vision for energy is outlined as a modern, efficient, diversified, and environmentally sustainable energy sector. Specifically, Mr. Speaker, the NEP clearly provides for a strategy that will see the introduction of natural gas into the energy mix, as well as more solids, such as coal.

Diversification

In accelerating the implementation of policy, we have developed a track record of solid achievements in renewable energy. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased, I am proud about the Government's achievement in relation to renewable energy. We have done exceptionally well.

(Applause by Government Members)

I have mentioned earlier, the granting of 166 licenses for solar photovoltaic equipment and use.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: There are some people who don't come to us for licenses, but they are making these dramatic steps to free themselves of expensive electricity, and I salute them. I salute the DBJ for facilitating a lot of the loans, and their enterprise in moving this way. It is saving the country millions and millions of dollars. (Applause) By next year, end of 2015, 78 mega watts of electricity coming from wind and solar will be available to the grid, come 2015.

A Government MEMBER: Yes, yes!

Mr. PAULWELL: And finally, we expect that as the Tribunal settles the issue in relation to wheeling, that that opportunity will also be available for persons who - for companies that wish to establish generating plants to service numerous, or multiple locations across Jamaica.

So, Mr. Speaker, the move from liquid fuels to gas and solids is one that is recognized across the world. In fact, much of the developed world has been built on coal. Times have changed, and in an effort to achieve its policy objectives, any responsible government must consider all its options.

Mr. Speaker, our Administration, in a number of iterations, has a solid track record of performance for introducing clean energy technologies to reduce environmental pollutants in support of sustainable development. We only need to recall the introduction in 2002, of unleaded fuel by this Administration.

A Government MEMBER: Yes.

Mr. PAULWELL: Yeah man, we need to big up ourselves. (Applause) We can recall the introduction by this Administration in 2006, to replace MTBE with Ethanol...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PAULWELL: ...and it became fully operational in 2009. And again, as I mentioned earlier, we have introduced ultra-low-sulphur diesel in June last year. (Applause)

Mr. SAMUDA: That is not going so well; the Ethanol is not going so well.

Mr. PAULWELL: The diesel is good, the Diesel is good, and it is environmentally friendly.

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Vaz)

Mr. PAULWELL: Since 2012, we have witnessed the most decisive, ambitious, and impactful growth in the use of renewables, not to mention the increased role of energy conservation and efficiency, all designed to lower harmful emissions in the atmosphere.

So going forward, Mr. Speaker, we will build on this record of performance. Coal was clearly identified and its role properly defined in the NEP which was promulgated by that side. However, Mr. Speaker, it is more than that. Our bauxite/alumina industry is uncompetitive today due to the high cost of energy. And the future will be bleak without an energy solution.

The crux of the matter is that the revival of our alumina industry - a key plank of our quest for sustainable growth - is dependent on high volumes of steam for calcination. Without a source of low-cost steam, the prospect of restoring the bauxite/alumina sector will be negative.

This is where, Mr. Speaker, coal has a huge advantage and the investors in that sector they have indicated their intention to use coal as their preferred energy source. Notwithstanding, we are mindful of the negative effects associated with the use of coal. This Prime Minister has a Minister of Climate Change and we want to salute her for that and to appreciate (Applause) that in all that we do we have to take into account some of the serious environmental issues associated with coal. (Applause) But this is not new. Other fuel sources have negative impacts but there are mechanisms used to manage those impacts. And, ultimately, Jamaica's environmental standards are being developed and in many cases well established. They are consistent with international standards and as such coal will be no different from other technologies in our requirement to meet the standards for steam and electricity production.

Mr. Speaker mining, especially our bauxite/alumina industry remains a key plank of the Jamaican economy. The Opposition Spokesperson mentioned that if you are looking for a sector, an industry to give you a quick jolt on the path for growth you probably need to look at one that we have some experience in a track record in and that as we have lost shell capacity, we need to focus on it to see how we can build back the capacity. So not only has it consistently been a major foreign exchange earner and provider of jobs for many decades, but it is one of the industries that can create the potential for healthy and sustainable growth in the Jamaican economy.

Mr. Speaker, our soil is a rich basin of minerals that when mined, can create several linkages to create wealth and thousands of new jobs. Mr. Speaker, it is widely known that Jamaica was the world's leading producer of bauxite in 1957, with over a quarter of the world's production. Since then we have mined, Mr. Speaker, approximately 600 million tonnes of bauxite out of a total deposit of 2.5 billion tonnes. However, only 1.2 billion tonnes remain for mining because the balance has been sterilized. We are not going into the Cockpit Country to do any mining. (Applause) Certainly, not this generation; that's for 30 years or so that we are pledging that we are not going to be doing any mining in that area known as the Cockpit Country. (Applause) But, Mr. Speaker, I say boldly that the best years of this industry are ahead of us, not behind us. (Applause)

Bauxite is a finite resource and while exploiting it for the benefit of our people, we must not give it away. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I have to announce a new policy. Going forward, the policy of the Government of Jamaica is that there will be no new agreements for the export of raw bauxite, the ore, without certain specific benefits. (Applause) So while we are going to honour all existing agreements - and some do run for some time - no new agreement will be considered unless, and this is it now, Mr. Speaker, unless an investor commits and does invest in value-added production. And what do we mean by that, we are not going to allow you to take out our raw bauxite alone, you have to have associated with that a refinery, a refinery to process alumina.

That is the policy that we are implementing today.

(Applause)

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PAULWELL: Not aluminum yet. I am talking from bauxite to alumina. So if you want our bauxite you have to set up a plant to process alumina.

(Applause)

An Opposition MEMBER: That's not new.

Mr. PAULWELL: It is new. It is new. It is new.

Mr. Speaker, despite the cyclical nature of this competitive industry, Jamaica is now positioned to do much better than we have done over the period of the recession. Our first-mover advantage in infrastructure, and the quantity and quality of our reserves will make us a critical player for decades to come. Jamaica's bauxite future is assured because the demand for bauxite in the global market is growing as some countries are restricting bauxite export. Our bauxite remains attractive because of its high quality and near-surface deposits. It's easy to mine.

In this regard, Mr. Speaker, it has been a long time since the closure of the Reynolds mine in St. Ann. That single act disrupted many lives as we have seen with the closure of Alpart and Kirkvine. And many more have wondered if bauxite mining operations will ever return to that area of St. Ann. I have also stated that the Administration's policy is that no one should export, as I mentioned before, raw bauxite.

So, Mr. Speaker, we have stayed true to that because we are serious about building the platform for sustainable growth. I am therefore pleased to announce that on the 28th of February, this year, the Government of Jamaica signed a historic MOU with a company called Xinfa, x-i-n-f-a, Group Company Limited. Xinfa Group was founded in 1972 and is registered in the People's Republic of China. Xinfa has more than 72 affiliated enterprises and holding companies with total fixed assets valued at approximately US$16 Billion. Xinfa is one of the top three integrated aluminum companies in China. It imports over 10 million tonnes of bauxite per annum. Xinfa operates several bauxite mines in China and operated two mines in Indonesia until late 2012. In the last three years Xinfa has successfully established a new bauxite mining and export operation in Fiji.

This MOU that we have just signed, and the parishes of Trelawny - not Cockpit Country, I am being very precise because I am talking about opportunities now for jobs - Trelawny and St. Ann. This foreign direct investment amounts to approximately US$3 Billion.

(Applause)

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PAULWELL: No. It will involve some export of bauxite 4.5 million tonnes annually for 25 years, in the first instance. But very importantly, Mr. Speaker, it will see a construction of a two million tonne per annum alumina plant to operate for 25 years, again in the first instance.

Dr. BAUGH: When!

Mr. PAULWELL: It will also construct a coal-fired power plant to support the alumina plant.

Mr. Speaker, the MOU states that the parties are to pursue negotiations to settle the terms of definitive agreements within six months of its date. Cabinet has approved a negotiating team. The members of the team are - it's going to be chaired by Dr. Vin Lawrence, Mr. Christopher Cargill, Chairman of PCJ...

Mr. SHAW: The god come back, god come back, god is back!

Mr. PAULWELL: I am announcing the team: Mrs. Nicole Foster-Pusey, QC, Solicitor General, a representative of the Ministry of Finance and Planning; Mr. Coy Roache, Managing Director of the Jamaica Bauxite Mining Limited; Mr. Trevor Francis, an international chartered accountant; Mr. Michael Vaccianna, Legal and Commercial Counsel; and very importantly, Mr. Speaker, we are designating a slot on the team for a technical specialist in environmental management, and we are going to consult with the stakeholders to name such a person. This means, Mr. Speaker, that...

Mr. VAZ: Diana McCaulay.

Mr. PAULWELL: …. that on successful completion of the negotiations we will not only be mining bauxite in that area of St. Ann as was the case with the Reynolds [Jamaica] Mines. We will be producing alumina from St. Ann for the first time at last. (Applause) And this will be the first greenfield alumina facility to be constructed in Jamaica in 42 years. (Applause) There is going to be wide consultation and the precise location will be determined during the negotiation.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I want to assure the Jamaican people that this Government will ensure that this project is implemented according to international best practices, and be fully compliant with our environmental laws. As a first step, we were keen to appoint an environmentalist to the negotiating team. This, Mr. Speaker, is a massive shot in the arm for the bauxite and alumina industry and the Jamaican economy. It will mean the provision of jobs in the construction phase and permanent jobs during the operations. There are significant linkages to the proposed operations that will enable our people to provide goods and services to the project. We will insist and ensure that these opportunities are maximized.

Mr. Speaker, these are the types of investments that can build the platform for sustainable growth and development.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: What's the timeframe for that?

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, let me give you the time slot. The company will only be allowed to start exporting bauxite once they have met the NEPA approval for the construction of the plant. And we are not going to give them the full $4.5 Million upfront. It will be done based on the construction pace of the refinery. When the refinery is fully constructed that's when they will get the $4.5 million tonnes of bauxite. So it's going to go hand in hand so that the Jamaican people can benefit.

Mr. SAMUDA: When will that construction start?

Mr. PAULWELL: The export of bauxite will commence early next year. But again a lot will be...

Mr. SAMUDA: The plant.

Mr. PAULWELL: …negotiated with the team.... it will go hand in hand, same time. So once they start to export bauxite we intend for the construction to start. But they are not going to get the full amount until that plant is fully constructed.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to an update on the UC Rusal matter. The Member - firstly, Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to report that the WINDALCO Ewarton plant's return to full production has been sustained. So I want to acknowledge that. This, together with JAMALCO and Noranda operations, has resulted in the growth that we have seen in the mining sector of 4.2%. I want to commend all the players. (Applause) We are back to growing the mining sector.

Mr. VAZ: You still not getting the….

Mr. SAMUDA: You got some help from Roger's team.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, progress has been made in difficult negotiation for the sale of the Government's 7% stake in WINDALCO, and later this month I expect to announce that sale and the price.

Members will recall that Cabinet had previously granted approval for a bauxite levy concession for one year to WINDALCO. In return, some specific actions were to have been taken, including the expansion of production at Ewarton and the re-opening of the Apart and Kirkvine plants by 2015. There have not been successes in relation to these even though some milestones have been met.

In that regard, Mr. Speaker, Cabinet has recently granted approval to UC Rusal for a further concession on the bauxite levy for an additional two years in respect of the Ewarton plant on the condition that UC Rusal constructs a coal-fired energy solution at that plant. We are proceeding to conclude this agreement as soon as possible.

Mr. Speaker, the Member knows that I had intended to speak about Alpart and Kirkvine fulsomely today. But recently I have been advised that a mission from Russia, from UC Rusal, will be coming to see me during the month of May, and I am therefore holding that announcement so that we will see what is their update in relation to the reopening of those two plants. Mr. Speaker, those two plants cannot continue to be closed for much longer. We are now into the fifth year and the impact has been great on those communities. And those resources are rich resources and in light of what we are seeing now in the bauxite/alumina industry, we believe that there are opportunities for those plants to be reopened forthwith, and so I will report to the country as soon as those negotiations are completed.

Very briefly Mr. Speaker, I want to update on Clarendon Alumina Production Limited. Last year I advised this House that the Government had decided not to divest its interest at that time. I also advised the House that when we resumed office in 2012, the negotiation for the sale of CAP to Glencore was nowhere near completion, as the country was led to believe by the previous Administration. The Government assembled a new negotiating team to pursue and settle new arrangements. And I am pleased to advise this House that this Administration has been successful in transforming CAP into a self-financing entity, which no longer has recourse to the Consolidated Fund since May of last year. (Applause) This is largely due to new financing arrangements secured with the Noble Group, a leading global supply chain company that is ranked 76th in the 2013 list of Fortune 500 companies. The Noble Group will provide US$120 Million worth of financing between 2013 and 2016, and buy alumina at improved prices. The group has also been working with JAMALCO to address energy efficiency problems for the medium and long term. For the medium term, generators will be installed and for the long term, JAMALCO will be provided with stability via a coal- fired energy solution. Again, these are all going to enable the industry to be viable.

Finally, Noranda. Noranda is currently the only exporter of bauxite from Jamaica. I am pleased to update this House that Noranda Jamaica Limited is closer now to breaking ground for additional investment in Jamaica. This investment involves the expansion of its Port Rhodes facilities in Discovery Bay to accommodate larger ships and to enable a quicker turn-around of those vessels. (Applause) The total cost of this investment is US$18 Million. (Applause) We want to salute them for that.

Mr. Speaker, rare earth elements. Last year I announced the partnership between the Japanese company, Nippon Light Metals and the Jamaica Bauxite Institute to extract rare earth metals from bauxite waste. This pilot project, which was a $600 Million investment - J$600 Million; it is quite significant as a pilot and we want to commend the Japanese for investing in our country to this extent. (Applause) It has now been completed. Mr. Speaker, this is dried red mud. (Holds up a small bottle containing a dry sample red mud)

A MEMBER: Mud?

Mr. PAULWELL: Yeah.

Mr. McKENZIE: Second time yuh a show we.

Mr. PAULWELL: No, I didn't show you this last year. I didn't show you this last year, I didn't show you this last year.

(Cross talk)

So, from this the Members will appreciate that from this we have been able to refine Jamaican-owned rare elements, our own rare earth elements. (Holds up small bottle containing a small sample of rare earth (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: And many persons don't appreciate what these things are good for.

Dr. BAUGH: Cellular phones.

Mr. PAULWELL: There are some elements in this, in the Jamaican rare earth - let me read them out:

- Neodymium
- Samarium
- Dysprosium

These are prevalent in the Jamaican rare earth element and these are elements that go towards making super magnets, super magnets. (Holds up samples of super magnets)

Mr. VAZ: We want something to send to Colorado, man.

Mr. PAULWELL: Now, these - you wouldn't believe the strength of these magnets, which are used in the manufacturing of motor vehicle engines. And though the project has come to an end, I have instructed the team to go back because I am not satisfied with just producing this. (Holds up rare earth sample) I want Jamaica to produce this right here too. (Holds up super magnet sample)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: And I want to go further, because with cheap energy you can manufacture the engine in Jamaica.

A MEMBER: Good move.

(Applause)

Mr. PAULWELL: You can manufacture the engine in Jamaica.

A Government MEMBER: Don't stop the progress.

(Cross talk)

Mr. PAULWELL: So - no, call me a dreamer, call me a dreamer. Call me exuberant. Call me a…. but we wouldn't have been here had it not been for the vision to build value on that waste that we have sitting out there called red mud. And, Mr. Speaker, we have a very good positive development so far, because many Members know that if you were to enter any of those lakes, red mud lakes, in Jamaica you wouldn't come out alive; caustic. And so far, the pilot has proven that you can completely neutralize that alkalinity. And in fact, I don't try it yet but you could get water at the end result that could water your lawns and do some agriculture. That is the nature of the process that we have just completed. There is a lot of work to be done because there is analysis to be done in terms of the commercial viability of the production process and we are allowing the team to complete that analysis. But I want them to start to think about how we can build value in Jamaica...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: ...not just to refine the thing to ship to elsewhere ship it, but to see how we can process these things right here in Jamaica. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I hope the House will forgive me for going over time, but I'm sure you would appreciate that I had to spend some time earlier on energy and I have not dealt with over 50 per cent of my Ministry. There is a lot more…

(Cross talk)

Yes, well, Minister of State will speak a lot on the ICT Industry...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PAULWELL: ...and we await his very excellent presentation, no doubt.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PAULWELL: There are areas that we're doing - we are moving back to commercializing the post offices. We have a lot to report on our exploration for oil and gas, but I can't deal with everything today.

Dr. PHILLIPS: You can't deal with everything today, because their absorption capacity.

(Laughter)

Mr. PAULWELL: Right. And the good thing about this Debate is that I not only open it, but I close it. So I shall return at a later date.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Pearnel, yuh hear? Pearnel.

(Cross talk)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, there are many other areas of my Ministry where there have been exciting developments but, of course, time will not permit me on this occasion. However, I have tried to at least mention....

(Cross talk)

The battery? Or the magnet? I shall.

(Laughter)

However, I have tried to at least, Mr. Speaker, mention some of the major developments that will build a solid platform for sustainable growth. Mr. Speaker, I have tried to be as clear as possible in explaining the issues that have commanded public attention especially recently. However, from my sojourn in public life, I do understand that obfuscation of reality is commonly employed by those who disagree with you especially when they serve special interest. Mr. Speaker, I know that the only interest I serve, that I could serve under this Leader, is the interest of the Jamaican people.

Today - I remember my mother and my father and the sacrifices they made to ensure their son got a good education (Applause) at Norman Gardens Primary School in East Kingston and then later at Excelsior High School. I remember their pride when I graduated from University. I remember their joy when I qualified as a lawyer. It was not only my dream coming true, but it was theirs as well. Like many of us in this Honourable House, we could have gone on to private practice in our chosen professions. I chose to serve the people of Jamaica through the process of political representation, service to Parliament and, of course, thanks to our Prime Minister to the Cabinet. I have no regrets.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: I would not have chosen differently. I chose to put myself in the line of fire to better the lives of my people, and it is they who I serve with guidance from the Almighty.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I think it is fitting that I share this quote from former American President Theodore Roosevelt and I just ask the colleagues to spear me two minutes as I quote.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Where's Wheatley?

Mr. PAULWELL:

"It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood...

A MEMBER: Yes.

Mr. VAZ: And tears.

Mr. PAULWELL:

...who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL:

...so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat."

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: If I had allowed myself to be side-tracked by critics, the telecom monopoly would never have been broken. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. PAULWELL: Telephone call rates would still be high.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PAULWELL: The BPO industry would have bypassed Jamaica; and the Universal Service Fund of over $12 Billion would not have existed. (Applause) That is, Mr. Speaker, if I had allowed myself to be side-tracked.

I close by inviting Members of this Honourable House to join us in modernizing the Jamaican society and building the platform for sustainable growth. Join us in support of these initiatives that will unlock Jamaica's economic potential. Join us as we usher in a new era for the mining sector. Join us as we bring our students, our teachers into the knowledge society with the Tablets in Schools Programme. Mr. Speaker, let us move ahead with all of Jamaica to build the growth platform for the future by exploiting the obvious benefits that abound in the fields of science, technology, energy and mining. Mr. Speaker, the investment opportunities are there. All we need is the unity, the vision, the integrity, and the will to persevere to the very end. I am ready. My Prime Minister and this team, we are ready. Let us continue on our mission.

Thank you very much.

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Forward ever, backward never.

(Cross talk)

Mr. ROBINSON: Mr. Speaker, the next speaker in the Sectoral Debate is the Member from North West, St. Ann, Dr. Dayton Campbell.

(Applause)

Dr. CAMPBELL: Thank you very much.

Mr. Speaker, before I start I just want to ask you for permission to speak from a seat other than mine?

The SPEAKER: You may proceed.

Dr. CAMPBELL: Thank you, sir.

Mr. Speaker, as I rise to make another contribution in this Honourable House, I want to first express my gratitude to the Most Honourable Prime Minister, Mrs. Portia Simpson Miller, who continues to be a safe pair of hands steering the ship as we navigate the stormy seas.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

I want to reassure her that I will continue to do all that I can do from where I sit to ensure that this Administration goes down in history as one of the country's greatest administrations.

(Applause)

Madam Prime Minister, like Esther, "Who knows whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

(Applause)

I want to thank you, Mr. Speaker for the unbiased way in which you have directed the proceedings in this August House. I want to thank as well my Regional Chair, Minister

Lisa Hanna who continues to provide astute leadership and mentorship in region one. (Applause) I want to thank my colleagues, including the Member from West Kingston…

(Laughter)

(Dr. Campbell points to Member McKenzie with laughter)

…on both sides, on both sides of the aisle. And I take this opportunity....

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You see, you see how him single you out!

Dr. CAMPBELL: …I take this opportunity to assure the public that we are not as divided as the pundits believe.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank each and every one of my constituents, some who are here with me today, who in 2011, decided not to "Gamble but rather to vote for Campbell".

(Laughter/Applause)

Their love and hard work continues to be the wind beneath my wings.

I want to specially highlight Mr. Lucius Thomas, who is here today (Applause) who like John the Baptist was responsible for paving the way. To my Councillors, Councillor Marlon Garvey, Councillor Arthur Clemetson and the Deputy Mayor, who is unavoidably absent, Councillor Redway, I want to say thank you for your hard work and dedication to North West, St Ann.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my family for whom it has been a rough year but, like true Africans, we continue to survive although we have a history borne out of hardship and trials.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes!

Dr. CAMPBELL: I also want to thank my friends some of whom sit in this Honourable House who continue to be a source of inspiration.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my Lord and Saviour, the resurrected one whose words comfort me daily. Words such as these found in Jeremiah 29 and verse 11,

"For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans to prosper you....

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes!

Dr. CAMPBELL:

....and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future."

Mr. Speaker, let us understand that calling on God and asking for divine intervention could never be a sign of weakness. (Applause) It is a recognition that with Christ, our weakness is compelled to strength. For his words says:

"I look to the hills from whence cometh my help, and my help comes from the Lord".

When I began this journey, I made a commitment to changing the lives of those whom I represent in a positive way.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: I believe that politics is one of the most potent careers to effect real change.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: This kind of change pulls an individual out of the oblivion of doubt and points them to a path that leads them to realizing their dreams and aspiration. I received that chance, as all of us in this Honourable House did, to change our circumstance and influence others in making the right decisions.

Mr. Speaker, the title of this presentation is: "Charting the Course from Poverty to Prosperity"

Mr. Speaker, I'm a firm believer that North West, St. Ann is one of the best constituencies in Jamaica. It has a comfortable mix of rural and urban areas, with Agriculture, Tourism, Mining and Bauxite Industry and small businesses all concentrated in its borders. The campaign leading up to the December 29, 2011 elections saw me asking the people to vote for a solid future under the broad slogan of the People's National Party "People Power". Mr. Speaker, that is exactly what I intend to do, give the power to the people.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: Power to rise above the negatives and secure real opportunity to pursue prosperity. Mr. Speaker the voice of the people is the voice of God. (Applause)

In light of this, we have sought to execute our development plan based on community consultations. The main areas that emerged as priority areas are as follows:

1) Infrastructure
2) Employment
3) Education
4) Health care delivery; and
5) Youth development.

Mr. Speaker, we look at these in turn.

The Most Honourable Prime Minister stated during the Budget Debate that we are 'Going for Growth and development working for the people'. I would like to say to her that in North West, St Ann, we are operating under this same mandate.

The Most Honourable Michael Manley said 'The egalitarian philosophy commands us to walk consciously towards a situation of equality of the human condition'.

As Member of Parliament I am taking that walk towards the situation of equality where I am charting a course from poverty to prosperity...

(Applause)

...by positing and implementing practical solutions, sir, for complex problems that face my constituents. Thus far, we've made great strides, but the work is by no means over.

In relation to Infrastructure:

Reliable efficient infrastructure is crucial to economic and social development by raising labour productivity and Lowering production and transaction costs. Transportation, energy and water enhance economic activity and so contribute to growth, which is essential to poverty reduction.

In relation to Roads, Mr. Speaker, we have repaired the following roads; From Orange Hill to Lower Buxton, from Knapdale to Sturge Town, Minard Hill, Philadelphia, Trysee, Cardiff Hall.

Mr. Speaker, as the JEEP refuels, we plan to drive into Benin and Goshen and Muirhouse and Shelley Road.

(Applause)

I have not forgotten the Retirement to Lawrence Park Road, which is in a deplorable condition. The residents of Mt. Zion and Mt. Olivet and Chester will be glad to know that their cries have not gone unanswered, and that they should just hold on, because help is on its way.

Mr. Speaker, in relation to Water: Water is life and it is my desire to bring life to the communities within my constituency. (Applause)

Sir, Bamboo a 'mi yard, sah', that's where I was born and grown, sir, and it is my desire to see the people of Bamboo removing the buckets from their heads and being able to turn on their pipes. (Applause) And I'm happy to hear the State Minister in the Ministry with the responsibility giving his nod of approval.

In Queenhythe, Mr. Speaker, a well was dug over a decade ago. We're anxious to get it operational as it will improve the water resources of the people in Lawrence Park, Retirement, Keith, Home Castle and in Queenhythe proper. We enthusiastically await the commencement of the pump and tank programme the Minister of Land, Water, Environment and Climate Change has announced to undertake this year. It would mean a great deal to the constituents of St. Ann, North Western.

In addition, we will be rolling out our 'black tank' project this year to alleviate the sufferings of the constituents in the deep rural areas.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Dr. CAMPBELL: Mr. Speaker, we have made great strides, but the work is by no means over. The people must be taken from poverty to prosperity.

Mr. Speaker, it is unacceptable that I still have communities within my area without electricity and no effort should be spared in ensuring that this shameful reality is sent packing to the past where it belongs.

(Applause)

I am committed to ensuring that this is done and so we are working with the Rural Electrification Project (REP) to have electricity delivered to at least one community per year. This year we have already allocated funds to deal with Lower Buxton and we'll be moving on to other communities in subsequent years.

Mr. Speaker, my grandmother would say, 'One, one coco full basket'. And little by little the constituency of St. Ann .North Western is moving from poverty to prosperity.

(Applause)

In relation to housing: The residents are grateful for the project in the Belle Air project and are anxious to benefit from the lots that will be made available. We do hope that low income houses will be built and that our people will benefit as there is a long list of teachers, policemen and other public sector workers who are lining up to make use of this magnificent opportunity.

Mr. Speaker, we want to register our thanks for the work being done by Food for the Poor in providing housing solutions to persons living in abject poverty. (Applause) The partnership with the Government of Jamaica has seen several persons now able to open their own doors.

In relation to employment:

A holistic approach to putting people on the road to economic prosperity must include looking beyond the piecemeal solutions. In North West, St. Ann we have posited and implemented practical solutions to mitigate against the crippling effects of unemployment.

Farming, sir: It remains the main income generator for 50% of the constituency.

As Member of Parliament, I have been working with the farmers to implement lucrative projects. We invested in year one in a ginger project and this year we have planting material for 20 farmers to plant over an acre each. (Applause) We have also engaged JAS and we will be doing a red peas project that we'll see 50 farmers planting half (1/2) acre plots each. Of the 50 farmers, at least 10 of them must be below the age of 25, as we seek to pique the interest of young people in agriculture. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, a lot has been said about my views on marijuana, so let me clarify. My opposition is to smoking, irrespective of what is being smoked.

(Applause)

I do support its use for medicinal purposes, for neutraceuticals, hemp and clothing and textiles and all the other uses. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, I do believe that no well thinking Jamaican would disagree with these uses or would ask for any referendum to give us the go ahead to use it.

(Applause)

To this end, and bearing in mind that 50% of the employment in St. Ann North Western is from Agriculture, I am making a request to the Minister of Agriculture for us in North Western St. Ann to have the first legitimate Agro Parks where marijuana is cultivated as we have the land....

(Inaudible comments)

Dr. CAMPBELL: ...we have the human resources, we have the know-how and we have the right climate to produce the highest quality herb.

(Disturbance)

Mr. Speaker, we continue to support our farmers with tools, fertilizers and seeds. A significant portion, sir, of Jamaica's rural population depends on farming as their source of income. It is, therefore, imperative that farmers are given the training and support needed so that they can augment their businesses. As Member of Parliament, the majority of those whom I represent are farmers and I have become quite intimate with their struggles through my consultation with them. The difficulties that tend to cripple our farmers are lack of irrigation, refusal to adapt to newer technologies and the assumption that our farmers are also able to market their produce. The farmers need to be engaged in some sort of training that will expose them to trending methods in marketing and farming that will amplify their income.

The approach to augmenting the farming fraternity's business must be twofold; we must look at ensuring that there is quality in the output and that there is a market for the produce.

Let me turn my attention to the problem of finding the market. It is safe to assume, based on what obtains currently, that our farmers are not experts in marketing, we must therefore engage in specialization of labour. The hotels are there and the farmers are also there so we must bridge the gap between the two. Our aim must be to also help with increasing yield and preventing extortion at the farmer's gate. We must capture our own market first and then the export market. Our agricultural produce has no hormones, they are healthier produce, and thus we need public education of consumers to eat local.

(Applause)

The former Prime Minister said it best: 'Grow or perish, export or die'. In Old Folley in Discovery Bay, St. Ann, farmers are using greenhouse technology to grow vegetables for the hotels in that area. We are sponsoring them to implement a programme that they got approval for, through REDI, the arm of JSIF, for them to do a ginger project. This is an example of farmers using new technology to boost their business. In this particular instance the farmers have found themselves a market. We need to help our farmers to connect to a market for their produce. (Applause)

Tourism...

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Dr. CAMPBELL: It is for that purpose.

Mr. Speaker, Tourism is responsible for 25 per cent of the employment in St. Ann, North Western. With this in mind we want to further develop our tourism product by focusing on community tourism. To this end, we want to develop an Artisan Village in the area. (Applause)

This, Mr. Speaker, is something that we are currently in discussion with and we hope that the necessary powers that be will grant the approval. It is our intention to use the Artisan Village as an attraction for tourists travelling through St Ann as well as to collaborate with local attractions so that the Artisan Village is included in the tour packages. This will therefore become a "Pull" for the parish of St. Ann as tourists will be able to view how their items are made by us having the HEART/Trust who are excited to do the certification for the craft persons there and they can also make the items on spot.

While on their tour they will be able to indulge in a cultural melting pot of authentic Jamaican meals ranging from renowned jerk to local traditional cuisine. The aim is to promote 'Things Jamaican', capitalizing on the fishing village which is located right across the road in Salem. We hope that this will also become a premier rest stop for the visitors.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in relation to call centres, we have a lot of young people who are in dire need of jobs and we also have a constituency that is lined by the north coast and is only thirty (30) minutes from Montego Bay. We, therefore, would like to have a Call Centre in the constituency. I have been training the young people which I will detail later, but the vision is to have at least 150 of them working on an 8-hour shift so that we can liberate some of them from poverty and take them to prosperity.

Mr. Speaker, if we cannot find a building that is already there I am suggesting that we even retrofit some containers to get it going so that these youngsters can gain employment. (Applause)

In relation to the mobile business unit, this is something that I made an impassionate plea about in my presentation last year, to use the MSME to drive rural development. I once again, put this forward, Mr. Speaker. What joy it would be to have a mobile unit rolling into our main towns in rural Jamaica with personnel from the JBDC, from the Revenue Department from the Companies Office and have also masters students at the University of the West Indies who will work with these small businesses and their small dreams to take them from conceptualization to writing the business plans, to registration of the companies to opening the business accounts, to micro- financing and finally to opening their own doors to their business. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the matter of education. As a true believer in socialism and the virtues of education, this is my primary area of focus. Mr. Speaker, we intend to develop programmes to treat with issues from cradle to college. Mr. Speaker, the message that underlines this priority is that, no matter where you are from your dreams are still valid.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we are working to increase the number of spaces in our early childhood facilities. To this end, we have constructed an Infant Department at the Runaway Bay All Age School; we have also trained 20 students in Early Childhood Education, who are now on work experience at different locations.

Mr. Speaker, our flagship project for this year will be the roving caregivers programme. Mr. Speaker, the critical importance in Early Childhood Development programmes in attenuating cognitive and social delays in children from economically disadvantaged backgrounds is of increasing interest to government and non-governmental agencies and policy-makers, and educators in the developing world. Poverty and a lack of access to Early Childhood Development place children on an unfavourable developmental trajectory, a life condemned to manual labour in young adulthood, poor family planning, and poor parenting skills. Undoubtedly, these outcomes also apply to Jamaica where sizable numbers of families and children live under difficult social and economic circumstances.

In an effort to advance the life chances of poor children; governments have identified the early childhood years as an ideal time to implement interventional programmes to stave off the negative consequences of poverty and inadequate parenting on children's overall well-being. Specifically, Mr. Speaker, early brain stimulation programmes conducted during the preschool years in diverse cultures around the world have produced evidence of the positive effects of intervention on children's intellect and social functioning.

Mr. Speaker, research has shown that 75 per cent of the brain development occurs in the first five years of life. Brain stimulation from birth that is being read to help develop pre-literacy skills needed to be able to read. Learning to read, sir, is the single most important factor in school success. (Applause) Learning to read is the single most important factor in school success. Early stimulation of the brain also sets the stage for how children will learn and interact with others throughout life. As the maturing brain becomes more specialized to assume more complex functions, it becomes less capable of reorganizing and adapting to new or unexpected challenges. It is for this precise reason that developmental delays before age 5 or 6 are difficult to compensate for later on in life. Once the brain's circuit is "wired," it stabilizes with age, making it increasingly more difficult to alter over time.

Mr. Speaker, the Roving Caregivers Programme originated in Jamaica as a visitation programme aimed at addressing the early childhood development needs of children from birth to three years, in vulnerable, these are the largely rural families. It proved to be a useful model for providing these services in communities which would not otherwise have had access and was recognized by UNICEF in 2000 with its highest honour, the Maurice Pate Award.

Mr. Speaker, the RCP builds on a solid history of home-based intervention as a way of inoculating young children against intellectual and social failure during the formative years. Couched with eco-cultural theoretical perspectives on parenting and childbearing, the RCP uses culturally and developmentally appropriate stimulation activities with the chief focus of improving parenting skills and altering childbearing beliefs that would then prevent developmental lags identified in poor Jamaican children around the first birthday.

Often in the Caribbean sir, there are few opportunities for parents to receive information on optimal parenting much less parent stimulation services. Equally distressing is the fact that a large number of poor parents are young with low educational attainment, and less than optimal parenting skills.

Mr. Speaker, the experience of the RCP has concretely demonstrated the potential of the RCP model to cost effectively deliver a vital social service while incorporating multi-partner alliances. We have decided to replicate this in North West, St Ann because children from chronically poor households are likely to experience the most debilitating kind of deprivation which is too often reflected in their performance at school. St Ann has areas that are steeped in poverty and was recorded as the lowest parish in the island a couple years ago with fourteen of the island's poorest communities are in the garden parish.

The findings provide very strong evidence in support of ensuring that poverty reduction should be accompanied by very deliberate and sustained emphasis on preschool and primary school development and education. I turn now to the primary level.

Mr. Speaker, arsonists earlier this year raged what I called a war on education when they set fire to the Liberty Hill Primary School and to think that yesterday we got reports that that behaviour has now spread to the Tacky

High School in St Mary. Mr. Speaker, we have met with the parents and teachers. We were able to relocate the students to the Discovery Bay All Age School. We were also able to arrange for transportation from the community to the new school to take them to and back from school. Mr. Speaker, they have settled in well and the reports are that they reported doing well in their GSATS examinations. I want to place on record my gratitude to the Minister of Education for his kind assistance during this trying time. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we continue to keep our annual luncheon where we award the top boy and girl from all 24 schools at the primary level and the three (3) at the secondary level. This year we will also be awarding the top boy and girl who are on the PATH programme as there is a possibility that these students may not be... (Applause) ...the top achieving students - as well as it may very well be so. But given their financial situation, this award will be very meaningful to them and will be added impetus in their move from poverty to prosperity. (Applause)

At the secondary level, Mr. Speaker, the residents of the constituency would benefit greatly from another high school which would most likely be in the Discovery Bay area. This will go a far way in removing the Brown's Town High School from the shift system and will save the parents valuable funds in transportation cost.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Speaker's time has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: I move that the Member's time be extended sufficient enough for him to complete his presentation.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended so that he may complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Dr. Campbell.

Dr. CAMPBELL: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I will try to speak as quickly as possible.

At the tertiary level Mr. Speaker, there is a motion in this Honourable House looking at the funding of tertiary education. And we are also encouraged by the positive changes announced by the Honourable Minister of Finance, in regards to the Students' Loan Bureau... (Applause) ...as we are convinced that education remains the only redemptive tool for the masses of the people.

(Applause)

I have held a Tertiary Funding Workshop at the Brown's Town Community College, exposing the students to the different ways of footing their educational bill with the Students' Loan Bureau, JAMVAT, the banks, the other financial institutions, the Work and Study Programme, so that the students can make proactive steps in achieving funding for their studies.

Re - Vocational Training. Mr. Speaker, the Addison Park complex in Brown's Town is currently underutilized, and we believe that HEART would do well to take over this facility and offer training in areas, in keeping with our Development Plan, example, in animation, and areas to fit into the impending logistics hub.

(Applause)

In relation to adult education, Mr. Speaker, the 'Dr. Dayton Campbell's Chance for Change School' was designed to offer a second chance to residents in skills training and evening classes. And I pause here to enunciate the point that the origin of the Night-School Programme was taken out of a concept from the Member from East Rural St. Andrew, to offer a CSEC subject. I want to commend him for that initiative. (Applause)

Equality in access is the guiding philosophy. And to date we have 850 students doing Business Administration, Accounting, Customer Care, Computer Repair, Early Childhood Education, Cosmetology, Welding, Food Preparation, Housekeeping, Cashiering, Merchandizing, Bartending and Food and Beverage. We also have 300 students doing a mixture of Mathematics, English, Principles of Business, Office Procedures and Social Studies. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we pay all the bills. The students are only asked to turn up to the class and do their best. We have no limitation, except that students must come from the constituency, seeing that it is funded by the Constituency Development Fund.

Mr. Speaker, the effects of this Programme will be far reaching and will pay off in the long run. I am committed to this Programme and will not turn back on my commitment to educating the people as the greatest means of development.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: The programme, sir, also has a remedial component which will take 400 students from the area that they are at and bring them up to the Grade 9 level, sir, so that they can filter into the skills training or into the night school, but we are leaving no one behind.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: Mr. Speaker, I have used my medical background to assist as much as possible in the constituency. The Member from Eastern Westmoreland to my left, is familiar with our need for a Health Center, and also the Member from East St. Thomas, the Minister of Health - to have a Health Center in the Runaway Bay area. Mr. Speaker, there is a facility there that the need has gone beyond the capacity of the facility, and we need to have a new building constructed to deal with the increase in the population.

In relation to medicals, Mr. Speaker, we continue to travel the length and breadth of the constituency during the summer period to do the back-to-school medicals free of charge.

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: So far we have done 2,560 in the constituency, and several hundred in North West Manchester, North West Clarendon, South West St. Elizabeth... (Applause) ...South East St. Elizabeth and Western St. Mary. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I use this opportunity to commend the other doctors and nurses that volunteer and give of themselves to assist me and my colleagues in this House.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, every Monday we go into a community and we have our mobile clinic. What exactly do we do? We do the blood pressure checks, the blood sugar checks, the examination, we write the prescriptions, we sign up persons to the NHF, we sign up persons to the JADEP, all of this is done in a different community on a Monday, free of charge. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this is one of the flagship projects, and we are still working assiduously to get a mobile unit.

And I also use this opportunity to ask any well-thinking Jamaican who would like to contribute or donate a mobile unit to the constituency or to the parish, to do so, we would be very grateful.

On Saturdays, Mr. Speaker, we convert the Member of Parliament's office into a medical office, and we conduct the same work. (Applause) We do health talks in the churches, focusing on what the Minister has been relentless about in addressing the change in the morbidity profile to the non-communicable diseases.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: We now turn to Youth and Community activities. The youth have a very important role to play in nation building. It is crucial to educate them and help them obtain as many life experiences as we can. They will be the future workforce and leaders of our global community. They must learn, Mr. Speaker.

We in North West St. Ann understand the importance of engaging the youth and providing positive influence in their lives, while guiding them to achieving their desired goals. In this breath, we have done the following:

- We have focused on sports, having competition in football, cricket and netball, so that everyone can participate in the process.
- During Youth Month, we have a Youth Month activity, where we went into the secondary schools and the students had contests between essay writing, drama and project writing. The members who participated in the project writing wrote a project as to what project they would implement that would positively impact the lives of young people if they were member of Parliament for a year. The winner was St. Hilda's, who did a programme re, Values and Attitudes in School... (Applause) ...and York Castle was also dubbed to have a good project in relation to sports. Both those projects will be implemented this year to show them that it's not just about talk, but we have a lot of action behind it.

Mr. Speaker, we will also be having our Choirfest in our churches, where all the churches will compete to see who will be the winner, and the winner will receive equipment for their church.

We will have our Talent Search.

Mr. Speaker, we have been having our Town Hall Meetings monthly, where we invite the NWA, the NWC, the SDC, RADA and the JCF, et cetera, to a meeting so we can detail the community members as to what is going on, as far as the office of the Member of Parliament and at the local level is concerned. We rotate this through our divisions.

I now turn to Mentorship. So often we complain about the wayward nature of our young people. We wonder why our young men fall prey to the perils of the corner, rather than enroll in a college and hop on the most reliable vehicle heading to prosperity, that vehicle being education.

The fact is, those of us deemed as professionals have an awesome role to play. Prosperity can only be attained if we share formula. I say to you, for the best results from our young people, get involved.

Mr. Speaker, there is no doubt to the value of mentorship. As of such, I have taken on the task of mentoring five boys from the Prospect College in St. Mary. These are boys who are considered to be difficult cases.

Mr. Speaker, the sharp focus on education from early childhood to adult continuing level is not by chance or mistake, nor is it based on theory alone.

Mr. Speaker, it is from an experience I still have a testimony to share. You see, sir, I was born in a rural area in my beloved constituency called Bamboo. My father is a farmer and has also tried his hand at drug trafficking. Mr. Speaker, he has gotten himself into trouble so often, and just returned from prison in March of this year, after serving almost ten years on this particular occasion. He has been incarcerated for more than 70 per cent of my life.

My mother is a former domestic helper who toiled tirelessly over baskets of dirty laundry in order to feed her family. (Applause) Sir, their union bore three children. Whilst growing up we were teased mercilessly. Every mistake I made I was told that I am just like my 'wutless puppa'. I was called names like 'jail-bud pickney'. I was told that my mother 'jus a hatch up de pickney dem like fowl'. Sir, I still... (Dr. Campbell broke down) (Both sides of the House applauded lengthily) Sir, I still have the stigmata of those emotional wounds.

(Applause/Sotto voce comments)

Dr. CAMPBELL: Mr. Speaker, as you look at the tear-stained face, Mr. Speaker, it is not out of having failed, it is out of a passion that irrespective of where people are coming from, that their dreams... (Applause) ...are still valid.

Mr. Speaker, my sisters and I took a decision that we would use education as the vehicle for upward social mobility. As such, we worked hard. We ignored the teasing about our uniforms, like when I was asked if I took my measurement in water. Or when the pants got old and you pulled out the hem but you couldn't iron out the crease to show that it was hemmed. (Applause)

We all passed for traditional secondary schools. We went to the University of the West Indies, and in 2008 we all graduated at the same graduation. My sister that passed away last year - of blessed memory - she got First Class Honours in Nursing. My younger sister is now back from Fiji, and is completing her PhD at UWI in Chemistry. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I happen to be a medical doctor, the youngest MP in this current Parliament, and one month away from having a Law Degree. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, look at the 'prison bud' and domestic helper children.

The PRIME MINISTER: Yes! Yes!

Dr. CAMPBELL: If we did it, sir, then that youngster in Bamboo can become a lecturer. That youngster in Brown's Town can become an engineer... (Applause) That girl in Discovery Bay can become the next Prime Minister. (Applause)

MEMBERS: Yes!

Dr. CAMPBELL: And that youngster, that unborn pauper child in Runaway Bay can become a Judge. It stands to reason, sir, that no matter where you are from your dreams are still valid. (Applause) That even if everyone has given up on you, you should not give up on yourself.

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: And if you dare to work hard and love God, your dreams of today can be the realities of tomorrow. (Applause)

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: This, sir, is a chance for change for all those who like me who decided to be the change they want to see.

Mr. Speaker, St. Ann, North Western, has received a lot since December 29, 2011 when they opted not to gamble but rather, push ahead with Campbell. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: But, we have not reached our destination. We are pursuing prosperity relentingly. Poverty will not hold our people's potential hostage. Opportunities will set them free...

A Government MEMBER: Yes.

Dr. CAMPBELL: ...and the highest efforts will transport them to prosperity. Mr. Speaker...

Mr. BUCHANAN: So next Election, you gwine eat the oatmeal.

(Laughter)

Dr. CAMPBELL: Mr. Speaker, before I finish, I just want to speak to one national issue. And it is because of my training, and because of what I see on a daily basis. And that issue is a tricky one. It is that issue of abortion.

The WHO estimates, Mr. Speaker, that 22,000 abortions are performed in Jamaica each year. Complications arising from unsafe abortions are among the top 10 causes of maternal death in the island, especially among teenagers. Review of the Legislation governing it has been 30 years in the making. Efforts by various Governments to address these concerns have been halted by conservative religious groups, not sensitive to the reproductive rights and realities of women, girls, their families, and partners.

In Jamaica, Section 72 and 73 of the Offences Against the Person Act criminalize women who chose to terminate a pregnancy if convicted shall be liable to imprisonment for life, with or without hard labour. It also criminalizes medical professionals who facilitate a woman's exercise of choice to have her pregnancy terminated, and the parents and guardians who facilitate termination of pregnancy of girls under the age of 18. If convicted, they shall be liable to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three years, with or without hard labour. Too often, we enjoy the comfort of opinion without the discomfort of thought.

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Dr. CAMPBELL: Think for a second, does the illegality of abortion prevent its practice? Is pregnancy only unwanted because the woman has been sexually reckless? The answer to these questions is no.

The current law frustrates thousands of Jamaican women, the poor especially who are in desperate need of this service. Nearly half of all pregnancies, 41 per cent are unplanned. Only 50 per cent of pregnancies were planned according to the survey - the Reproductive Health Survey in 2009; 7,612 live births occurred to mothers under the age of 20; 81 per cent of recent births reported by women aged 15 to 19 were unplanned. Nearly all of these unintentional births were mistimed. That is, occurred earlier than desired, as opposed to unwanted, where they didn't want any children, or no more children were desired.

Who is affected? According to the WHO, abortions and complications thereof, are the eight leading cause of maternal deaths in Jamaica, affecting the adolescence primarily. All patients that presented to the Victoria Jubilee Hospital in 2005 between March 1 to August 31, 641 of them were from inner-city communities, single, and nearly half were Christians.

The question is asked, do Jamaicans support abortion? The answer is actually yes. Many of us support efforts to make services for the termination of pregnancy legal, safe, and affordable. A 2006 Public Opinion Survey conducted by Hope Enterprise found about 60 per cent of respondents support the legalization and termination of pregnancy under special conditions, such as incest, endangerment of women physical or mental health, or life.

From the public health perspective, we need to address these women who burden the public health system after botched abortion attempts. Evidence in Italy, the Netherlands, Romania, South Korea, Guyana and Barbados, show that where abortion is legal, maternal morbidity and mortality rates fall. The rates may initially seem to rise because of the previous under-reporting.

For women who are in the middle and upper income groups, the law can be circumvented by access to financial resources to pay for private medical services to procure a safe abortion. The law is restrictive and unjust to women in the lower income groups who cannot afford private medical services, and therefore, resort to the illegal, informal market.

In both instances, the quality of the service that the woman receives is entirely determined by the ethics and integrity of the individual practitioner. There are no minimum standards and no norms. Legal provision of abortion by qualified practitioners in both the public and private health care system, as recommended, will ensure that safe abortions can be accessed by all women, thus protecting their lives and health.

While debates on when life begins and ends may persist along the continuous range of religious perspective, the realities surrounding the public health matter which affects so many women will not disappear unless addressed based on existing objective realities. It is a woman's right to have all the options available to her, to be provided with information that allows her to take an informed decision, and not to be persecuted for this decision. The State has a responsibility to ensure that the rights of all citizens are protected.

The current illegal status of abortion in all circumstances exposes women to stigma and discrimination when they are faced with the choice. Women should not be punished for what is a difficult decision about their bodies, lives and future. (Applause) It is a misuse of Government power to take that right from them. Denying women access to medical services that enables them to regulate their fertility or terminate an unwanted or dangerous pregnancy amounts to a refusal to provide health care to that woman.

Women are consequently exposed to health risks not experienced by men. Repealing the prohibitive provisions under the Offences Against the Person Act concerning abortion, as recommended by the Policy Review Group, will restore this right to women and prevent further stigmatization and gender discrimination.

Mr. Speaker, let us consider cases where one contraception was used, but it failed and the woman is not in a position to go through with the pregnancy and adequately support a child. The Minister of National Security will tell you how many of these children who end up born in an unwanted situation end up turning to criminality. Consider the situation where the pregnancy resulted from rape, or an abusive relationship, or where the pregnancy placed them at severe mental, emotional or physical risk, or, where the compromised development and health of the foetus.

To abort or not to abort is an extremely difficult decision of any woman. There is not only the financial cost to consider, but risk to her mental and physical health as well. Adequate access to appropriate counseling service to help her consider all the options, strengthening of sexual and reproductive education at all level is needed.

We, as a nation, need to debate this issue and lay the facts bare without shrouding them in misconception, prejudice and religious absolutism. (Applause) It is about time such an important issue be dealt with, once and for all. The women of Jamaica deserve no less. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, for those who might not agree, let me paint a situation for you, of a bright 16 year-old girl in the inner-city who is getting ready to do her CSEC examination, and who is the only option to lift that family out of the abyss of poverty, who is sent for by the so-called don in that community. She is then abused, and subsequently, she takes the morning-after pill, but still ends up being pregnant. Should she be forced to carry that child, or to seek abortion on the black market? As a man of faith, I humbly suggest that we allow common sense to prevail.

Let me make it abundantly clear, I am not proposing abortion as a means of contraception. I want to make it abundantly clear, I am not proposing abortion as a means of contraception, nor am I suggesting that mere poverty should be a reason for it...

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. CAMPBELL: ...as I stand as a true example that it is possible to break the chains of poverty, and rise from poverty to prosperity.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, of paramount importance is also the need to revise our adoption laws, so that we can provide this service to those who are in need. I anxiously await a vigorous debate on this matter, as we seek to establish a new paradigm to dispel myth, and to embrace a true sense of liberty and prosperity.

Mr. Speaker, poverty is an endemic condition. In North West, St. Ann, we are using multidimensional strategies to address the needs of the constituents, particularly the dispossessed. To this end, we have done a lot, but there is still work left to do.

The best way to assist low income families is to launch an attack on poverty, on multiple fronts, by making the most of our limited resources and targeting them in the priority areas... (Applause) ...enabling pro-poor development that is development at a pace and in a pattern than enhances the ability of poor men and women to participate in, and contribute to, and benefit from development. This will be critical in achieving a sustainable trajectory out of poverty to prosperity.

The Jamaica we dream of achieving in 2030 cannot be a causality of poverty. Mr. Speaker, I repeat: The Jamaica we dream of achieving in 2030 cannot be a casualty of poverty. Jamaica, the place of choice to live, work, raise families and do business; that dream is still valid.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, St. Ann North Western is equipped and ready to lead the journey to that prosperous nation. We believe that the nobler Jamaica, the loftier race, can start with us.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(HON. SHARON FFOLKES-ABRAHAMS, (PNP), St. James, West Central, Minister of State in the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took her seat.)

I have an abiding faith in the will, strength, and capacities of my constituents. They place their hopes in my hands, and I am prepared to work diligently and creatively; to think generously and honestly in North West St. Ann, so that Jamaica may, under God, increase in beauty, fellowship and prosperity, and play her part in advancing the welfare of the whole human race.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

(Standing ovation by Government Members and some Opposition Members)

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) Okay, Mr. House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, it is not intended for us to do any further business this afternoon, so I therefore move for the adjournment of the House until tomorrow, May 7, at 2:00 p.m.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. Warmington.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I wish to address the situation as it relates to... (Inaudible)

I have been asking for years for corrections. And when we had the boundary changes four years ago, I brought to the attention of the Leader of the House, and the then Prime Minister of the situation that was created then. And under Section 8 - Section 67 subsection (8) of the Constitution, it gave the Leader of the House the power to make certain changes to the Draft that came to the House. And the Legislative Council for the Clerk of the House, Miss Kadian A Smith, then wrote to Errol Miller, the then Chairman of the Electoral Commission, and said thus:

> With regards to the concern of Member of Parliament for St. Catherine, South Western Honourable C Everald Warmington, who respectfully draw the Commission's attention to sections 8 - subsections (8) and (9) of section 67 of the Constitution. Subsection (8) contemplates that the Draft Order submitted by the Minister responsible for electoral matters for the approval of the House, may make provision for any matter which appears to the Minister to be incidental or consequential under provision of the Draft. Subsection (9) provides that where such modifications are made, a statement outlining the reasons for the modifications should accompany the Draft Order.

The then Prime Minister refused to follow the recommendations from the Legislative Counsel of the House, and he sent to the Attorney General to clarify. And what came from the Attorney General, it said:

> It appears from the instruction forwarded to us that a Draft Order has not yet been laid. Mr. Warmington's recommendations appear to address issues that are incidental to, or consequential upon all the provisions.

And he made it clear that regardless of convention, the then Leader of the House has the ability to make the minor changes that were necessary. And what happened was that the boundary that they had then took Portmore into Spanish Town. So, you had sections of Spanish Town now falling under the Portmore Municipality.

Dr. DAVIES: This is your Sectoral presentation?

Mr. WARMINGTON: And... I don't speak in Sectoral presentation; it is a waste of time. (Laughter)

But the Act that establishes the Portmore municipality that was signed by the Governor - General, the Most Honourable Howard Cooke, dated the 27th May, 2003, Section 5 as passed in the House, it says here that - subsection (6):

> For the purposes of this Act, a municipality shall include all lands within the boundary set out in its Charter.

And it says further, in subsection (10) of the same Act:

The Minister shall cause a copy of the Charter to be laid on the Table of the House of Representatives and the Senate within 30 days of the date on which that Charter was granted.

The Charter was signed by the then Minister of Local Government, the Most Honourable Portia Simpson Miller it says, dated this 22nd day of May, 2003, signed Portia Simpson Miller, Minister of Local Government, Community Development and Sport. The issue is that it should have been laid 30 days after. It was laid some two months after it was signed. So .it means that the Charter in itself is invalid, it did not meet the specification as laid out in the Act. So this Charter doesn't stand. It doesn't stand at all. It did not meet the Act as was signed by the Governor-General.

But what is most important, Mr. Speaker, is that this Charter, I tried to get a copy from the Library of Parliament; they do not have a copy here. So my view then was that it was never laid, because as I recall, it didn't come here within 30 days. So my position or opinion was that it was never laid at all. But I was advised on Friday that in fact it was laid, but it was not laid until the 28th day of July 2003, that is more than two months after the requirement. But what is most important is that the Charter itself excluded the most important aspect - that is supposed to be included here, Section 5 subsection (6)...

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. L. Buchanan)

Mr. WARMINGTON: Oh, shut up you stupid fool!

(Heckling)

Mr. WARMINGTON: I withdraw. I withdraw.

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Out of order!

Mr. WARMINGTON: I withdraw. What it says here, Mr. Speaker, is that the Charter must stipulate a boundary.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Out of order!

(The Speaker Gavels)

Mr. WARMINGTON: I have withdrawn.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Warmington, I must advise you, Mr. Warmington not to make it recur for the rest of your presentation.

Mr. WARMINGTON: But I have already said that, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Thank you.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I have already withdrawn it, so why you mentioned it.

(Sotto voce remarks by a Government Member)

Mr. WARMINGTON: He knows I am sincere when I speak.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Oh, no!

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker, will you protect me from that man from South East, Westmoreland.

What it says here, Mr. Speaker is that the boundary was never established by the Charter that is required by Section 5 subsection (6). So there is no boundary for the Portmore Municipality. And what happened in the last election is that Errol Miller and the Electoral Commission disenfranchised the people for two divisions in Portmore claiming that they did not fall within the boundary of Portmore Municipality.

(Sotto voce remarks by Government Member)

Mr. WARMINGTON: But it is not stated here. So this Charter that - I spoke to the Minister a year and a half ago that this Charter, he needs to come here with a new Charter stating the boundaries for Portmore so that Portmore can be legitimate. It was never done. So my position is that the Minister needs to come here, because what they are doing now is to collect 7% of the signatures of persons in those two divisions to have the boundary change. How can you change a boundary when it does not exist? There is no boundary to change. It does not exist; therefore you do not need any 7%. All we need, Mr. Speaker, is for the Minister to come here with a new Charter. If it doesn't - if they can take this to be a Charter, then what you can do is an amendment to the Charter to include in that Charter the boundaries of Portmore.

My recommendation, as I have advocated for years, is that PDs 51, 52, 53 and part of 52 in East Central St. Catherine be excluded from the boundaries of Portmore and for South St. Catherine PDs 2, 3 and 4 be excluded from the boundary coming here.

Mr. H. BUCHANAN: You want…. the PNP's majority.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I don't majority. I don't talk about PNP or JLP. I talk about including the people in Portmore.

Mr. Speaker, protect me from...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Warmington, proceed.

Mr. WARMINGTON: But why won't you protect me from the gentleman over there.

The Deputy SPEAKER: You are being protected, proceed.

Mr. WARMINGTON: But you haven't told him to shut up and give me a chance to speak.

Dr. DAVIES: You can't argue with the Speaker.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I don't want to.

Dr. DAVIES: Well don't.

Mr. WARMINGTON: All right, I take your advice.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Warmington, continue. Mr. Buchanan, hold on...

Mr. WARMINGTON: So what I am saying, Mr. Speaker, what can be done is for the Minister to have a Charter drawn.

A Government MEMBER: Write him a letter.

Mr. WARMINGTON: That mus-mus across there.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Warmington.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I withdraw. I withdraw.

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order. Mr. Speaker, the Member from South West, St. Catherine on his feet is...

Mr. CHARLES: State your point of order.

Mr. McKENZIE: What is the point of order?

Mr. WARMINGTON: He doesn't know what he is talking about. He is dumb, that dumb fool!

The Deputy SPEAKER: Well, allow him to make his point.

Mr. McKENZIE: Respond to a rat!

Mr. WARMINGTON: He is a dumb fool! (Laughter)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Mr. Speaker, the Member continues on his feet to be abusive and disrespectful and against the Speaker's advice, and he has this 'ginalism' from where he is from, that I withdraw after you. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, on such grounds you are to make a ruling.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I am no 'ginal'.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) Mr. Warmington, sit. Mr. House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, could I just mention that the only reason why we have not objected to the Member's presentation is that I gather that he had received permission from the Speaker. But I don't think it is fair for us to expect, for the Member to expect a response now. And having tabled the matter, I intend to respond fulsomely tomorrow at our sitting. So if we could, at this stage, allow for time, so that tomorrow we can come back and deal with it. Okay.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker, I accept the suggestion from the House Leader, very wise, not like the other two.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Which is why I asked for the House Leader to come in...

Mr. WARMINGTON: So I am saying, I am making the recommendation that it doesn't make sense, Mr. Speaker, for the boundary of Portmore to cross highway, the toll road. So what I am saying the seven PDs I recommended just to take along the toll road that Portmore stay beyond the south of the toll road...

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. WARMINGTON: I don't ask you, Dalley, for your opinion.

Mr. Speaker, that's my presentation.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. House Leader.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I therefore move for the adjournment of the House until tomorrow.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that this Honourable House adjourns until Wednesday, May 7, 2014.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) This Honourable House now stands adjourned.

The House was accordingly adjourned at 5:02 p.m. until Wednesday, May 7, 2014, at 2:00 p.m.

CALL OF THE ROLL
(See Listing)

STATEMENT BY MINISTERS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I had undertaken to respond to the Member from South West St. Catherine on the motion he put on the Adjournment yesterday and I just want to - it's a simple update that I have written to the Attorney General's Chambers for legal guidance on this matter and as soon as I get a response, I will advise the House.

(Cross talk)

The SPEAKER: Okay.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Deputy Clerk laid on the Table of the House, a copy of the following:

- Ministry Papers No. 87 - 92/2014
  7. Curriculum and Assessment
  8. National Comprehensive Literacy Programme
  9. National College for Educational Leadership
  10. School Feeding Programme
  11. Infrastructure Development
  12. Alternative Secondary Transitional Education Programme

(DR. KENNETH O'NEIL BAUGH, (JLP), St. Catherine, West Central, entered and took his seat.)

BILLS BROUGHT FROM THE SENATE

The Deputy Clerk read the following message from the President of the Senate:

"To the Honourable House of Representatives:

I have the honour to advise the Honourable House of Representatives that on the 2nd day of May, 2014, a Bill entitled, "AN ACT to Apply a sum out of the Consolidated Fund to the service of the year ending on the 31st day of March, 2015, and to appropriate the sums granted in this session of Parliament" was passed in the Senate.

Signed: Floyd E. Morris
President of the Senate

(DR. ANDREW O'BRIEN WHEATLEY, (JLP), St. Catherine, South Central, entered and took his seat.)

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY

Mr. KELLIER: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Minister Kellier.

Mr. KELLIER: I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move to introduce and have read a first time a Bill shortly entitled: "The Disabilities Act, 2014".

(Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

(MRS. MARISA COLLEEN DALRYMPLY-PHILIBERT, (JLP), Trelawny, Southern, entered and took her seat.)

(MR. EDMUND CURTIS BARTLETT, CD, (JLP), St. James, East Central, entered and took his seat.)

SECTORAL DEBATE

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, this afternoon we will continue with the Sectoral Debates and we have two presenters: the Minister of Education, the Member from Central Kingston and then the Opposition Spokesperson on Agriculture, the Member from North West St. Elizabeth.

The SPEAKER: Reverend Thwaites.

(Applause)

Rev. THWAITES: Thank you Mr. Speaker and it's a happy coincidence to be speaking on the same occasion with the Member from North West St. Elizabeth. We attended the same university and shared accommodations for three years. He took the green path and I took another path, but we are still friends.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, I give thanks to the long suffering and patient people of Central Kingston and also to the Honourable Prime Minister for the privilege of leading the critical portfolio of education at this item.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good day for education amid all of the conflicts and uncertainties that sometimes bedevil debates of this sort in the House this is a good day. After all, it is Teachers' Day.

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

(Applause)

Rev. THWAITES: And there are many good and positive things happening in our schools, so many positive projects to be spoken of today. But you know sir, the tone and content of this annual contribution on education has to be special for the subject is far too important for partisan bickering or pointscoring across this aisle or between special interests within the sector. Our hearts and our heads have to be in different and higher places when we are discussing student achievement, which is what we will do today. So I open by expressing sincere thanks to all of my colleagues in this House for their critical support, especially Members of the Opposition for education has no political colour.

(Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

(HON. SHARON FFOLKES-ABRAHAMS, (PNP), St. James, West Central, Minister of State in the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took her seat.)

Rev. THWAITES: I can't think of a single Member here with whom over the past year I have not had positive interactions regarding the state of schools in their constituencies and also, in respect of broad educational policy and that is as it should be. I express thanks to the teachers and their associations for a year spent building bridges, recognizing strengths and weaknesses and reaching accommodations.

(MR. KARL GEORGE SAMUDA, CD, (JLP), St. Andrew, North Central, entered and took his seat.)
(MR. RUDYARD CONRAD SPENCER, (JLP), Clarendon, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

I express appreciation to the Churches and the public commentators who have played such a vital role in guiding policy. What will be said here today is not the ruminations of one minister but rather it is the collective views and best endeavours of so many who contribute fulsomely to this endeavour.

Thanks to the parents, thanks to the farmers and the teachers, for example, those in North West St. Elizabeth who prepare breakfast for their own and other people's little children with a very small subvention from the Ministry. Thanks to people like Mr. Isaacs, you know, Mr. Speaker, I never met him, but he's from New York who has such a yearning and appreciation for the Pratville Primary School - you know about that - which he attended over forty years ago, that he continues to send supplies and an annual donation even in these challenging times. (Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Rev. THWAITES: Thanks to the members of the Private Sector Organization of Jamaica Education Policy Advisory Committee, it's our EPOC. I asked them to come together and they have willingly done so to advise on education policy. The Honourable Oliver Clarke, the Honourable Danny Williams, Honourable Douglas Orane, Mrs. Esther Tyson and Mr. Cliff Hughes...

(Cross talk)

...yes, sure who, along with the almost ten thousand school Board members, offer voluntary service to the cause of education.

(MR. EVON PATRICK CULLITON ATKINSON, QC, (PNP), Trelawny, Northern, Attorney General, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, over the past two years, we have called the Jamaican nation to action over the state of education. We all know the problems too well. This presentation will focus on solutions. What we're doing this year, what we must do in order to improve student achievement for the future of this country rests on effective education we say again and by that we mean passing subjects, acquiring skills - listen (sic) and developing character. Not one, not two, but always all three and in these times I would want to emphasize the development of character, Mr. Speaker.

The best way to balance people's lives is to give them the opportunity for a sound education. (Applause) Some of us need to stop denying reality. It is idleness, ignorance and weak family life that is fuelling our crime wave, our declining levels of labour productivity, and the high levels of unemployability.

(DR. WINSTON LLOYD GREEN, (PNP), St. Mary, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

It is educational accomplishment and the personal discipline, which is part of it that made our scientists, our investors, our professionals, our athletes and artistes to be as great as they are. So spread the word today from this place: if you want to step up inna life, ignorance and underachievement are your enemies. Effort and performance in education are your friends. (Applause) And while it is the responsibility of the State to provide the basic requirements for effective education, partnerships are required with all segments of the society bar none to ensure quality and equity in education.

And so I take the opportunity to thank all the dedicated teachers, as we celebrate Teachers' Day today. I think of the Early Childhood practitioners who are earning less than their worth; far less. I think of the young graduates I met last Friday working in dark, hot, makeshift classrooms behind a workshop at Porus High School, or the ones who in the crisis at Penwood High last year stepped forward for training as social workers to better cope with the demands of their students, or the long-serving staff at Bethabara Primary and Junior High who I met recently. There are many more teachers who continue to serve with distinction. Let us salute them all. (Applause)

Let us salute the teachers who are embracing voluntary redeployment to serve more effectively where they can be. Those who patiently offer individualized and differentiated instruction suited to their students' special needs, thus adding value suited to their students rather than sticking to the curriculum only; those who make learning more interesting and less boring. And as we observe Child Month, sir, I also encourage all our children. Our Prime Minister began her address in the Budget Debate reaching out to the children who are our future. I follow her, especially those living in difficult circumstances; they must try and go to school every day, to take homework seriously and to hug-up the Maths and English. Students, congratulations on your results because they're getting better but we still have far to go.

(MRS. SHAHINE ELIZABETH ROBINSON, (JLP), St. Ann, North Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

Take Timar Jackson as your example. He is just like you, you know. He rose from a below-average Maths student at Vauxhall High to receive a First Class Honours degree in Actuarial Science at the University of the West Indies.... (Applause) ... and he was selected as Rhodes Scholar for 2014, remember. (Applause)

And you know Mr. Speaker, Timar's mother and his Maths teacher, Mr. Clarke, were also crucial to his success. His Maths teacher took a special interest in him, didn't put him aside when Timar was failing and skylarking and this made all the difference. His mother - I met her, so did you, House Leader - his mother made and sold snacks and brought the money to him for lunch. I pay tribute to all the parents who sacrifice so much for their children's education.

(Applause)

Come with me to Downtown Kingston any school morning, Mr. Speaker, at the crack of dawn and see the young fathers carrying their children on bike-backs, on bicycles, on their shoulders, any how, just to see them safely to the school gate. These are the types of parents and teachers who will make more ordinary students extraordinary and exceptional.

The taxpayers of Jamaica, Mr. Speaker, through government, spend most of their tax dollar year after year in the hope and anticipation that the younger generation will do better than they were able to. We who spend or receive any fraction of this money must add value. We accept this awesome responsibility and we pledge to serve you as we focus this year on student achievement. The decision to spend every dollar this year will be made on the basis of how much value it adds, and how much it promotes student achievement.

In the most difficult of times, in the most difficult of times, almost $80 Billion has been devoted to education this year. And remember this contribution of the State is only a portion of the total educational spend, which is the largest enterprise of any public/private in Jamaica.

The education tax, Mr. Speaker, which is often misunderstood, is just a portion of what the taxpayer contributes through the Consolidated Fund to the education enterprise. Eighteen Billion ($18 Billion) is only a portion of $80 Billion. Many people don't understand. We need to appreciate that not only is the education tax being paid, but that the taxpayer in all of his/her need, is postponing their needs in order that the children and those who superintend them could have more.

This is an awesome responsibility and all segments of the society have the responsibility to seize the opportunities available to advance themselves. The story to be told today traces the challenges and advances in education throughout the whole life cycle. And so we start with the little ones, Mr. Speaker.

Early Childhood and Special Education are the headline items for student achievement this year, early childhood and special education. Because, all we know indicate that the dollar investment in Early Childhood gives you a 17-fold return. Invest $1 in early childhood and by the end of that cycle, you're going to be able to earn in productivity, in human achievements, $17. I don't think there's any better investment, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

The Early Childhood Education Cohort includes - hear me now - all our four year olds to eight year olds, that is, students from infant school to Grade 3 at the Primary school.

Mr. Speaker this year the Ministry of Education will spend approximately $14.1 Billion or 18 percent of the Ministry's Recurrent Budget on our Early Childhood and Special Education Cohort. Additionally, 18 percent of the Capital Budgets (A & B) or $316.5 Million will be spent on supporting and improving Early Childhood Education. The sums in aggregate have never been larger before than they are now and this is on purpose. (Applause) It is my responsibility to tell you how they are proposed to be spent.

Mr. Speaker, nutrition is so important. Research showing the harm done by poor nutrition to children in the early years, makes the school feeding programme a priority.

Mr. Speaker, the Inter-American Development Bank did a study in 2011, and here are the conclusions that are appropriate:

> "The conclusion is that between a quarter and a third of the school-age population arrives in school hungry or without having eaten anything on any given school day.

Yes. It goes on to say - and this would be relevant to something we're doing later.

> An early school day meal appears to have advantages over a lunchtime meal, both in terms of reducing shortterm hunger and in terms of improving attendance and performance....

(Power outage occurs at approximately 2:42 p.m.)

The Ministry conducted a breakfast programme recently where we fed 12,000 Early Childhood students and what very good results students' achievement begins here. And the evaluation of those 12,000 supported the IDB Study. It showed that about 40% of children are in need of constant supplement - food supplement, while another 30% sometimes go hungry.

Because of this, Mr. Speaker, starting this September, 2014, the Ministry of Education will expand the Breakfast Programme to provide free breakfast and lunch to 70% of the Early Childhood Cohort or 138,000 children.

(Thunderous applause)

With the remaining 30% who are better off, having the option to make a contribution or pay in full to share in the programme.

We have allocated $1.05 Billion out of our allocation to this budget. And we will use a combination of Nutrition Products Limited produced meals, as well as food provided at the local school level, where that is appropriate and possible.

Mr. Speaker, in respect of upgrading facilities for Early Childhood, in the new school year the Ministry of Education will be targeting the integration of 200 Early Childhood institutions into infant departments of primary schools or the construction of stand-alone infant schools. Let me tell you why again, sir.

We have 2000 basic schools or so, some of them are excellent, some of them are barely marginal. We can't afford to have the big difference between the good and the not-so-good. The infant schools allow the Government to support fully the enterprise to offer consistent nutrition and curriculum support.

Last year 68 basic schools were merged into infant departments. We had said that we hope to do 50; we were able to do 68, along with two stand-alone schools. (Applause) Promise made, promise kept. (Applause)

You know, the partnerships that help us Mr. Speaker, are so wonderful to recount. For the CHASE Fund has committed $87 Million for repairs and retrofitting of Early Childhood Institutions this financial year. And that follows on what they contributed before; over $50 Million was spent last year by CHASE on the same enterprise.

Food for the Poor has, at the end of February, built or expanded twenty-nine (29) basic schools and there are thirteen (13) more are at various stages of construction. This country owes a debt of gratitude to Food for the Poor.

(Applause)

We're going to do something else this year, Mr. Speaker, because we can call it a grant-aided programme of assistance to basic schools, to infant schools.

There are many Churches, many non-government organizations who run good Early Childhood institutions, but they are under pressure, because the parents can't pay that which they would normally accept to be viable. We can't afford to take them over and we don't want to, but what we can do is to offer them assistance where necessary. And we are opening this to Members of Parliament where it exist and we have made an allocation, because we want the quality of all Early Childhood institutions to be upgraded.

Tributes must be paid to the likes of Mr. Glen Christian, Chairman of Cari-Med Limited, who has not only established a basic school in Clarendon in his mother's honour, but also will be building another one in the constituency, the great constituency of South West St. Andrew.

(Applause)

And this is just one instance because interest is growing in the early Childhood sector. Imagine Gulf Stream Oil, parent of Texaco, has now expressed an interest in aligning a basic school and infant school to each of the service station outlets. Wouldn't that be wonderful, Mr. Speaker?

(Applause)

So have Diaspora interests in all over the United States and England offered to help. Others already involved include the Rockhouse Foundation, the Sandals Foundation, Digicel Foundation, Jarrett Foundation in the United Kingdom, Wray and Nephew Group, the Sugar Transformation Programme funded by the European Union, the Bank Foundation, Scotia and LIME, so many others. Corporate donors to the sector also include Jamaica Public Service Company, Radio Jamaica and Nestle. And of course the tremendous assistance broker through the Jamaica Social Investment Fund. And we salute the Churches too, that have long given tangible support to Early Childhood Education, indeed, they are the backbone of the system.

And there is room for many more partners large and small to whom I appeal today, Mr. Speaker, for Early Childhood Education is the most appropriate vehicle for public and private philanthropy and volunteerism.

I turn to staffing in the Early Childhood Sector. For the majority of our early childhood practitioners are employed to private or non-governmental organizations. And in recognition of the invaluable contribution of these practitioners to the sector and to student development, the Ministry of Education has long provided a subsidy in support of their wages. And this year, we will increase their monthly subsidy by fifteen percent (15%), fifteen percent (15%) on top of the subsidy for basic education teachers. (Applause) It's not a wage, they're not employed to us in that sense, but they have been receiving bare Minimum Wage or less than.

We hope to do it again next year and we want our best teachers and practitioners to stay in the Early Childhood system. (Applause)

In addition, we'll be engaging the services of 200 trained teachers through JEEP. The JEEP is rolling well in education Mr. Speaker.... (Applause) ....as well as 40 others who will provide coaching and teaching support to 480 of the Early Childhood Institutions.

Mr. Speaker, it's within our grasp now to finally have one trained teacher available at least part-time to each Early Childhood Institution island-wide. To achieve this, the Ministry proposes to ask each Early Childhood trained teacher to coach pre-trained teachers in one other school that has no trained teacher. And teachers who are willing to make this additional effort will be offered an incentive for so doing. We need to make sure that we offer balanced instruction, informed and trained instruction for our little children. That's the objective for them to achieve their fullest potential and I trust that we'll receive full support in this regard.

And I point out that this is being done within the resources allocated to the Ministry of Education. We do not expect any more money to achieve these ends.

Mr. Speaker, the Early Childhood Commission will carry out a pilot in May-June this year of the 4-year-old readiness of our children. The Readiness Evaluation. The Readiness Evaluation will identify children as either being on target for entry to primary school or requiring additional support and/or assessment. Any additional support or assessment which is required will be done during the last year of infant school.

Mr. Speaker, we have to give much praise to the Crayons Count Movement supported by the National Continental Cooperation and managed by former Senator Deika Morrison. For the third year in a row they have provided significant contribution worth some $60 Million annually donating play and learning kits to every one of some 2000 basic and infant schools state of-the-art material.

Additionally, every Saturday in the Gleaner there is curriculum guide for the following week and the Jamaica Observer, not to be outdone, also promotes an early childhood feature on Thursdays. I say again, more funding for Early Childhood Education is being realized from revising how we spend the existing education budget. We are trying to do more with what we have to advance student achievement.

Mr. Speaker, I am inviting new partnerships with local businesses, churches, government offices and schools in the community for they will receive the output of these basic schools later as their students and customers and workers and so they have vested in better quality.

Mr. Speaker, I want to make the crucial link now between strong families and good education starting even before early childhood. Research published by the organization for Economic Corporation and Development Council on Early Childhood Development shows that more than 70 per cent of a child's emotional control is learned before he is three year old. The Member for North West St. Ann set it out well yesterday in his presentation. This is what helps people to learn, it helps children to succeed in their social lives, it is up to parents to help their children learn these critical skills before they even start infant school. Parents after all are children first teachers.

The Early Childhood Commission working in collaboration with the National Parenting Support Commission headed by Dr. Patrice Charles Freeman will strengthen resource centres to become the strategic hubs for parenting in support for families for young children with special educational needs.

In the next financial year three resource centres will be upgraded to perform these functions. I believe three in western parishes have been chosen because the needs seem to be greatest there and others will follow over the next two years or so. Parents can expect seminars, assessments and intervention. And with the help of UNICEF and USAID, the Ministry has established over 60 parent places a list of them will soon be presented to parliamentarians. But come with me to some of the better parent places that are doing very well at the Central Branch All-Age School, at the Linstead Primary and Junior High School, at the Anchovy Primary School. These are places where the necessary equipment and resources for parents to meet and to discuss parenting issues as well as to participate in workshops on literacy, numeracy, homework strategies among other things are available.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Education invites the churches of Jamaica to join forces with the National Parenting Support Commission to assist parents in improving their child-rearing skills. This should be the first mission of the churches in Jamaica, to ensure that all members and all efforts of advocacy on their part...

(Power outage occurs)

Mr. Speaker, I hope Members will listen to this because all of us in this House deserve a cussing that we have still not passed law making it mandatory for a father's name to be mandatory on every child's birth certificate.

Being a good parent is the supreme achievement of any mother or father and I am asking us this afternoon to say whether our popular culture sufficiently affirms and emphasizes this ineluctable truth. The word to parent is that if you invest time, love, presence and discipline from the early childhood period, you won't likely have the brawls and disgrace like what took place among the girls at Santa Cruz Primary and Junior High in the public square last Friday. Make them read to you even if your eyes are dark, take them to church on Sunday or Sabbath School. Make sure they join the nearest library, and parents, try to never miss a parent teacher's meeting. Be very careful of which stepfather or stepmother you bring in on your children. (Applause)

Encourage your children to open a savings account; feed them porridge or an egg in the morning; help them to develop a taste for locally grown foods which are better for them than fast food. Mr. Speaker, can we tell the parents from our own modelling that manners and good behaviour are important. And style and fashion are less so. (Applause) Even if your pocket is low these are things that we all can do because of who we are; the Jamaican people. (Applause)

I move on to the primary education stage. It is at the primary level Mr. Speaker that if properly done those who have invested in Early Childhood Education sees the first fruits of that investment. Because if children are ready for primary school the battle for learning is already half won and the heavy reliance on remediation and on costly extra lessons ought not to be needed.

The Member for North West St. Ann was right yesterday when the children learn to read; they are well on the way. Infant school is not the place to learn to read, primary school is but you prepare for learning, you get ready for learning at the early childhood level.

I report that the country is on track to achieve the target of one hundred per cent of the educable cohort mastering literacy at the Grade 4 level by 2015.

Mr. Speaker, our girls are leading towards this goal but our boys are lagging behind. The National Literacy Team with assistance from the United States agency for International Development to whom we are indebted is providing direct support to 450 primary schools across the island through the deployment of 90 Reading Coaches at Grades 1 to 3 - 90 Reading Coaches - they are paying for it. We are fortunate. (Applause)

Twelve other literacy specialists have also been assigned to 48 secondary schools to provide support in the teaching of English language at Grades 7 to 9.

Over last year and up to now approximately 1,500 teachers were trained by Reading Coaches and we also engage 1,300 parents to better equip them to help their children towards literacy. This level of literacy intervention is unprecedented and must be sustained.

Mr. Speaker, I was one of the ones who in the early 1970s was recruited by the late great Michael Manley to sit on the National Literacy Board when that was first enunciated. And the problem - one of the problems that we had was that we never were able to turn out the spigot of illiteracy coming from the schools, and therefore even as we train adults to read and write in the understanding of literacy at that age which is not the same now; there were always a new flow of illiterates coming from our schools and therefore we could not beat the problem, and very often the resolve quailed. Our resolve....

The SPEAKER: The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended by 40 minutes to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended by 40 minutes to allow him to complete his presentation.

Motion put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister Thwaites.

Rev. THWAITES: I wanted to say, Mr. Speaker, that our resolve in this generation headed by this Parliament must be that there must be no more illiterate school leavers. (Applause)

As far as numeracy is concerned we are far off track to meet the national target of 85 per cent proficiency by 2015.

This year the Ministry of Education has allocated an additional $390 Million to expand the mathematics programme and we are hoping to get where we should have been next year by 2018 and we are hoping that by 2017 at least 82 per cent…

This year, Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Education will employ 146 teachers to primary and secondary schools. And they will be charged with the specific purpose of raising teaching standards and student achievement in Mathematics. And we are also enjoining the principals and heads of department through the National College of Education leadership that they have to be accountable for the advance the improvement in Mathematics; it is non-negotiable, Mr. Speaker. At great expense the Ministry of Education is upgrading its teachers; the outcomes should be commensurate with the investment. The quality of teaching and learning in these two core subjects must be improved.

Mr. Speaker, the G-SAT examination, the Grade 6 Achievement Test next year, will no longer require detailed knowledge which is not age-appropriate in the field of science, but will include more mastery of general concepts and basic scientific principles. And in social studies we are reducing the content by about 25 per cent and the test will consist of 60 items instead of 80 items and we are asking the children to learn about themselves and their environment, and their country which is what is important at that age. They can learn about Asia and Oceana later in life. And by 2017 a new primary curriculum will herald a different primary exit examination; one which relies less on recall and more on continuous assessment that emphasizes the student developing reasoning and critical thinking skills.

(Applause)

The new curriculum is well underway you know Mr. Speaker, and what we want to do is to ensure that we don't pile on so much content that people don't understand the meaning of what they learn. The new curriculum must set a premium on higher order skills such as reasoning, analysis and mastery of a range of literacies. (Applause)

It is being piloted now with Grades 4 to 6 and here is an opportunity now Mr. Speaker, we need to galvanize the writers, the illustrators, the printers and the publishers to embrace the new opportunities and provide education with excellent inputs in print and in electronic media solutions for students at all levels. We want to repatriate some of that about $3 Billion that the country spends largely to foreigners, yes, for the material to educate our Jamaican children. (Applause)

Finally Mr. Speaker, during this year we cannot postpone decisive action in relation to more than 200 primary schools, each with less than 100 students. It cost more than $170,000 per student; twice the per student cost at the primary schools to keep them open and if they were doing well it would be fine but generally the outcomes are poor despite the option optimal teacher/student ratios. It is a difficult task but we have to look at them in the interest of student achievement.

Mr. Speaker, I turn to secondary education, for Jamaica must achieve great benefits for having expanded secondary education for all. This goes way beyond our obligations in the Charter of Rights, but it is absolutely necessary for our development objectives. Quality is our quest in our secondary education from now on, and the elimination of the shift system continues to be a major objective.

This year we will expand classroom places in 40 schools at a cost of $1.35 Billion. (Applause) At least 20 schools are projected to come off the shift system after a dearth of building info for some years; we are now trying to revive the construction of necessary facilities to improve quality in our secondary system.

We also propose the use of the extended day method to relieve the enormous shortage of quality secondary places. This model has been in operation, for example, at Campion College for over 30 years and it works excellently. One half of the students come in at one time and slightly later the other half; it is not two shifts, it is one shift but you are making best use of all your facilities - library, canteen, classroom facilities - in a very creative way and it allows for the accommodation of more students in existing facilities. Mr. Speaker, Jamaica must do more with what we have and not always look for more. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Jamaica must do more with what we have, and not always look for more. (Applause)

Since September last year, you know sir, seven schools have been removed from the shift system; Holy Trinity High, Glengoffe High, Central High, Crescent Primary, Albion Primary and Junior High, Sandy Bay Primary and Junior High and Bethabara Primary and Junior High. We hope that the elimination of the shift system, its reduction, will provide more instructional time.

Do you know Mr. Speaker that on the shift system a student probably gets on shift no more than four-and-a-half hours of instruction, by comparison to a whole additional hour in a single-shift regiment? Can you imagine when you multiply this by five days a week, by 190 days a year, what this means in terms of the disadvantage to those students? And they don't have the same opportunity for extra-curricular activities, which can also facilitate student achievement.

I am glad to announce that this year the facilities at Montpellier in South St. James will begin operating as a second campus to Anchovy High in St. James, in 2014. (Applause)

Mount St. Joseph's Catholic High School in Mandeville will begin operating as a new grant-aided secondary school at the start of the next school year, with Grades 7 and 12, and building out from there.

Belair High School will be extended and Sydney Pagon will be converted to a regular high school in order to alleviate the space shortage at the secondary level in the parishes of Manchester and St. Elizabeth.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Thank you, sir.

Rev. THWAITES: Mr. Speaker, when we call the names of schools that aren't doing well, it's not to shame them. The name was called of Balaclava, in a certain context. Balaclava will be getting a new bank of ten classrooms, and it has new, enlightened leadership, both at the Board and the Principal's levels. (Applause) That's the change we will be making.

Glengoffe was named. Yes, Glengoffe has received tremendous investment of new space, courtesy of the Japanese Government and people, and is now off shift. (Applause) That's a step forward. We name them in order to help them.

A Government MEMBER: Yes!

Rev. THWAITES: My lady from St. Ann, Marcus Garvey, has had its challenges. Marcus Garvey has a brand new campus at Mansfield, alongside its traditional campus. That's the way we want to do. We name them not to shame them, but to advance them. (Applause)

(MR. DELROY HAWMIN CHUCK, (JLP), St. Andrew, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. ROGER HAROLD CLIFFORD CLARKE, CD, (PNP), Westmoreland, Central, Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, entered and took his seat.)

Holy Trinity was named. Holy Trinity now has ten new classrooms, a progressive new administration, and a great deal of private sector assistance from the businesses in downtown Kingston. That's progress! That's balancing people's lives!

(Applause)

Over the last year, Mr. Speaker, they were opened - some by me, some by others, yes - new or expanded school plants in a number of areas. Can I just name them for you quickly:

- Garvey Maceo High School
- Jonathan Grant High School
- Brown's Town High School
- Glengoffe High School (mentioned already)
- Bellefield High School
- Marymount High School
- Belair High School
- Munroe and Dickenson Trust Sixth Form
- Central High School
- Holy Trinity
- The Cedar Grove Academy in Portmore
- Red Hills Primary
- Appleton Early Childhood
- Moreland Hill Primary
- Torrington Early Childhood
- Marley Hill Primary and Infant

And expansion is now underway at:

- Belmont Academy…. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Rev. THWAITES:

- Hampton High School
- Tacius Golding
- Aabuthnott Gallimore

(Sotto voce comments)

Rev. THWAITES: Yes, you are dying to hear Moneague?

At Herbert Morrison and Titchfield the material is now being aggregated. (Applause) I promise you, Moneague will follow.

I want to congratulate publicly Mr. Speaker a number of principals who, through their astute leadership and frugality have financed expansion of their own school plants. How can we thank Mr. Vinroy Harrison, the principal of Central High School, Dr. O'Neil Ankle from Jonathan Grant High School and Mr. Johnallson Feraria of Brown's Town High School. And I am glad to tell you that Mr. Clayton Hall, the principal of the Spanish Town High School has been able to, with his predecessors, put together funds which will allow for the expansion of that school on their own account, not the Ministry's account. (Applause) These are good things.

Thanks to the Mutual Building Societies Foundation, and in particular, to Jamaica National and Victoria Mutual. To people like Earl Jarrett and Dr. Rene Rattray for the faith they have demonstrated in the Jamaican people, and the commitment to Jamaica's future.

Thanks to the Junior Achievement Movement, sponsored by the Bank of Nova Scotia. They have provided over the last years - the Building Societies Foundation - more than a Hundred Million Dollars ($100M) for in-service training and capacity building in six of our high schools as well as technical and managerial support to the leadership of these schools. They too share the vision of transformed education. The partnership is continuing and it is expanding, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker this is a project that is dear to the Prime Minister because along with its partners the Ministry of Education is targeting the removal of pit latrines and the installation of 94 flush-toilet units during the 2014/2015 year. (Applause)

Food for the Poor has submitted a proposal for One Hundred and Sixty-eight Million Dollars ($168M) to construct 112 of these units in two phases. And 94 units are projected this year, involving not only that institution but the Jamaica Social Investment Foundation, the CHASE Fund, a number of non-government organizations and others.

We pay tribute to those who have assisted in this way. The Chinese Government has been of considerable assistance, Mr. Speaker, to the advancement of Early Childhood Education. Their officers were in Jamaica until recently - they may still be here - finalizing the arrangements for the assistance of the construction of basic schools amongst us. (Applause)

The PetroCaribé Fund has also promised considerable assistance. And we hope to complete the elimination of pit latrines in the 2015/2016 financial year.

Mr. Speaker, heed me now. Many of the secondary schools whose students are from poorer families are hampered by their ability to collect auxiliary fees. A reasonable contribution to school cost is a necessary supplement to the Eleven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($11,500.00) which the Government pays for each student in a high school.

Consistent with this Administration's philosophy to help the weakest in the new academic year, the Ministry of Education will provide to schools for each of their PATH beneficiaries - each of the beneficiaries that are on PATH, in high school, all 82,181 of them, Mr. Speaker - an additional Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000.00) per student towards their auxiliary fees. (Applause) They can hold up their heads. (Applause) Those secondary schools like Alva Town, who has a majority of PATH students - and there are many, many others - should receive significant additional financial relief.

Despite that Mr. Speaker, even the PATH families must be asked to contribute what they can when they can. And those who are not on PATH, assuming to be better off, must take the payment of their children's auxiliary fees seriously; they simply can't walk away from it. Contribution to your child's education is the best investment you can make. And it is not legitimate to say that government must pay it all, we do what we can, but more is needed.

Last year's strong intent to contribute was evident in the high percentage of parents who entered into arrangements with schools. This year auxiliary fees will not be normally increased, but parents must try to pay.

The Ministry of Education encourages schools that are stronger, to partner with others to share resources and best practices for student achievement. Campion College is already relating to Mona High and will help with Mount St. Joseph's. I am hoping that St. George's, Kingston College and Alpha Academy will combine to make Holy Trinity a Centre of Excellence. This takes vision, leadership, generosity of spirit, and I am sure our school community have all of those. All school Boards and managers should seek out such partnership.

What, Mr. Speaker, would be the good cause if all of the traditional schools were to reach out right now to another school that perhaps is not as well equipped as they are, and say, can I help you? Can you use my field? Can I share a coach? Can I share a laboratory? Can we exchange books? What a difference that would make. You don't lose your identify and your pedigree by reaching out, by sharing. On the contrary, you prove those qualities and you enhance them.

(MISS JOYCE DENISE DALEY, (PNP), St. Catherine Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

It is our determination Mr. Speaker that by 2017 all students should graduate with at least one marketable skill...

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Rev. THWAITES: ...among the suite of subjects in which all must sit examinations. (Applause) The world market recognizes a good high school diploma, and by 2016 this must be the target of every high school leaver. No more 45 per cent of our secondary cohort just passing through, Mr. Speaker. Competence in English and Mathematics must be measured and must be certified.

May I say a word about those students who feel compelled or feel impelled to sit for multiple subjects? Mr. Speaker, you hear now of children who are straining, parents who are at pains to pay the exam fees for ten and for twelve subjects at CSEC, as if the multiplication of numbers somehow indicated greater acumen. I don't know that this is helping, you know sir. I don't know about the Members of this House, but I got five subjects. And it's quite enough, because you got the competencies - the basic competencies, and you built from that. That's what you must do.

And so, I am encouraging - without clipping anybody's ambition - for us to look very carefully at this issue of multiplying the number of subjects that you take.

We now have a policy to guide the TVET Integration Programme in our schools. And I am grateful that we have introduced in 54 secondary schools, new occupational skills related to the job market, Mr. Speaker:

- Call Centre Operations
- Digital Animation
- Crop Production
- Motor Vehicle Repairs

These and many others, all dictated by the needs of the economy.

And, Mr. Speaker, the prejudice against technical and vocational subjects as being inferior to academic subjects, must be discredited now, once and for all, from the word coming from this House. (Applause)

In the past Mr. Speaker we trained in skills without sufficient linkage to workforce opportunities. We do know that education has to be liberal and that human development involves more than being work ready. It's also about developing good citizens; it's a matter of balance, exposure to arts and culture and literature are indispensible ingredients in a rounded education.

But, Mr. Speaker, in our situation, much more weight must be given to acquiring those skills which will attract investors, and equip our young people to work and thrive here and anywhere in the world.

Mr. Speaker, to this end we are on track to fully integrate STEM, that's Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics, in the education system in a formal way.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Rev. THWAITES: Technical schools and other selected schools will be among the first this year to begin this integration.

The whole integration of technical and vocational subjects into our school system is being headed by Dr. Grace McLean, the Chief Education Officer who is in the well of the House. And I am pleased to inform you that as far as the integration of STEM subjects, particularly STEM subjects - Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics - to be used as a pillar in the development of the new curriculum from grade one to grade nine, is going to be spearheaded by one of our own number, an experienced and pedigreed science teacher, I refer to Senator Skeffery, who is present, also.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, as we make these important changes, we are looking at the need for science upgrading in our schools. Do you know that many of our high schools don't have a functioning science lab? And therefore, we are asking the HEART Trust/NTA - and my goodness, how they are becoming integrated in the education system much more than ever before - we are asking them to assist us in ensuring that we have the facilities, that every high school, starting this year - we won't finish - starting this year, has at least one functional laboratory. And that micro-science kits will be provided at the upper levels of the primary schools to ensure proper preparation of those students.

Level 1 and Level 2 of HEART, you know Mr. Speaker, ought to be imbedded in the high schools.

A MEMBER: Yes.

Rev. THWAITES: Not outside. You should get Level 1 and Level 2 there and then go on to the higher levels at the workforce, colleges, or elsewhere, after you leave high school.

One of the serious problems - I move on quickly, Mr. Speaker - that the education system is beset with, is that of anti-social behavior. Mr. Speaker, it's of concern to every Member of the House that we are wasting, by estimate, up to 20 or 25 per cent of instructional time, and adding unnecessary stress to our teachers, big time, just to get a few of our students to behave properly when they come to school.

It gets worse after hours, aggravated by the shift system, the latch key children, and the free-for-all at the Transport Centre and in the town squares. This is a bigger problem than the school system can handle alone.

I ask a question - you know, it should be one for debate in this House at some early stage, Mr. Speaker: is popular Jamaican youth culture conducive to student achievement? Is it really helping us? Is what we see portrayed as being the apogee, the best approach to life: how you dress, how you behave, how you support yourself, how you approach a girl, or how you react to a boy, when you begin a relationship, what are the standards of behavior; is this helping us towards student achievement, broadly understood? And it is not to be approved or to preach some sermon; it is simply to say, Mr. Speaker that we have to recognize that there are wholesome and fundamental values in Jamaica. It is a false liberalism. In fact, it is a libertinism when we say, you know, anything goes, and every time I itch I must scratch.

Broadly speaking Mr. Speaker, we have to avoid being in denial now. Many students simply don't know what is appropriate, you know Mr. Speaker. A principal of our prominent high school phone me just before I came here today because several of the students in the CAPE examinations, going on now, were found in the exam room with their cell phones. And they simply didn't know that it was inappropriate for their phones to be in the examination setting. Where do you learn those things? Where is the sense of propriety, the sense of restraint, the sense of being considerate of others?

Despite all of that, school is where our children spend the majority of their time and that's where we have to start. We want to catch these tendencies in the earliest stage. So, the Ministry will be implementing new programmes this year to support behaviour modification, falling under a National Steering Committee, chaired by Professor Fred Hickling. People like Dr. Elizabeth Ward, Dr. Kim Scott and Mrs. Pauletta Chevannes of the Change from Within Programme, and a team of specialists will be responsible for the overall implementation with the Ministry's line officers.

We are focusing on the first 1000 days of a child's life, and have to depend very much on cooperation with the Ministry of Health in this regard and seeking to look this time at the eight year-olds - the eight to twelve year-olds where many of the anti-social behaviour patterns are to be found.

We are going to focus on those and later on, on the older teenagers, and the programme will target about one thousand behaviourally disturbed children, using literacy, use of sport, creative activities, life skills training, parenting and nutritional support, as well as after-school activities, and structured summer activities in order to try to change their ways.

These are things that we are going to require cooperation in the Ministry of National Security, the Ministry of Youth and Culture and the Ministry of Labour and Social Security, in order to be able to have a coherent joint intervention.

Mr. Speaker, values and attitudes has been a cry in this country for their resurgence. We have very valuable material in what is called the Valuable Pathways in Schools. We will be promulgating this, printing the text that has been laid dormant for so long and trying again by various means, within and without the Ministry, in order to improve and to embed positive values and attitudes among our children.

And similarly, when they show signs of difficulty and social disorder, the diagnostic centres that were promised last year but frustrated because of procurement difficulties will be available this year both in Montego Bay, in Portland, and in Mandeville. And I am glad to announce, Mr. Speaker, that the VOUCH facility on West National Heroes Circle will be enabled as a diagnostic assessment and treatment centre for children with special needs at the early childhood level. We feel that it is most important to do it at the earliest level.

Mr. Speaker, the uniformed groups that can help children to comport themselves in organized and cooperative ways, we have started 105 new formations last year, taking the total up to about 400, and both the cadets, and the scouts, and others, we are seeking to increase that element this year, and inviting alumni groups to help with leadership, uniforms, and instruments.

Mr. Speaker, education broadcasting is a critical use of technology in the new era. Right now, we are working with partners to ensure that the Jamaica Educational Television/ Education Broadcasting of Channel 117 on Flow is available seven days a week from 9:30 in the morning, until 7:00 in the evening. It is a great step forward. It is a good start. DC Digital will begin transmission of educational material in May on Flow Channel 670, and on Love Television from Monday to Friday for a total of 27 hours per week in the first instance. We have received unsolicited requests from Cable TV providers to join educational broadcasting. We want to give our students every single possible medium for improving their student achievement. (Applause)

We are glad to report that we are working with the Universal Service Fund to afford the content appropriate to the new curriculum and the development of character of the Jamaican youth, and I have had the assurance of the Minister that resources will be available to craft this. And again, we send out an appeal to our writers and our playwrights, and our dramatists to help in this regard.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Education has allocated $900 Million this year to the Textbook Programme. We have had to ask - or we will have to ask for a new care of this material. There used to be a cycle where we replace books after three years. Mr. Speaker, the books are going to have to last five years now. We simply can't afford, with a declining dollar, and with increased inflation on book cost abroad, to spend more and more money on the same texts. We all have to do more with what we have. That's the constant refrain. And we have to also be very careful, because we are appealing to principals to ask parents to buy only those books that are absolutely necessary. (Applause)

Let me tell you Mr. Speaker, for the first time, the Ministry of Education has reviewed all book lists from the school, and will be approving the list of books for schools to give parents to purchase at different grades. No booklists are to be issued by schools unless approved by the Ministry of Education. (Applause) We are giving some guidelines. Parents should not be spending more than an average of $5,000 on supplementary texts at the primary level.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Smith)

Rev. THWAITES: Look carefully at what the Ministry is giving you first and see why there is need for anything else. And if there is a doubt, please call us and we will explain... and about $12,000 at the Grade 7 to 9 levels at the secondary schools. When you go higher with the specific subjects for CSEC that will require more, we will give you further information on that.

Mr. Speaker our students, very often, have wrong attitudes or inadequate attitudes to learning. They lack self-confidence and demonstrate low self-esteem, and some have less than a desirable value system. To address this, and again following the instructions of our Prime Minister, we have begun to broaden the civics programme. Last year we included the Life and Work of the Right Excellent Marcus Mosiah Garvey, and the introduction has gone reasonably well. This year, we have had consultations, and taken the decision to focus on the Founders of Modern Jamaica, the Right Excellent Alexander Bustamante and the Right Excellent Norman Washington Manley. (Applause)

It is amazing how many of our children don't know who they are, you know, and the texts that are available for their instructions tend not to be available or tend to be difficult for them to access. The Ministry of Education accordingly, has commissioned the writing and publication of a series which will help supplement the Ministry's social studies curriculum.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Samuda)

Rev. THWAITES: Well indeed, I have had that; I have been called somebody related to you.

The Founding Fathers of Modern Jamaica is the title of the new series, and it is one of the publications that we will be putting forward. I am happy to bring an approved copy for you - National Heroes of Jamaica. This will be distributed in the schools with appropriate questions and essays for the children to understand, giving the personal lives as well as the political and social significance of our two Leaders. And I am pleased to thank the eminent social historian, Mr. Arnold Bertram, formerly Minister of Government, for his authorship of this series.

(Applause by Government Members)

When you read them, Mr. Speaker - and I will circulate them - they will infuse values of respect for self, love for learning, innovation and achievement, promote civility, self sufficiency and interdependence. They will affirm the positive attributes of being a Jamaican. I would love to see these stories, the stories of these people, of inspiring Jamaicans, made into film documentaries very soon.

(Applause)

(THE MOST HON. PORTIA LUCRETIA SIMPSON MILLER, ON, (PNP), St. Andrew, South Western, Prime Minister and Minister of Defence, entered and took her seat.)

(HON. HORACE WASHINGTON DALLEY, (PNP), Clarendon, North, Minister without Portfolio in the Ministry of Finance and Planning with responsibility for Public Service entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, you will recall that earlier I stated that the Ministry of Education will be providing breakfast and lunch for 138,000 students, or 70 per cent of the early childhood cohort to the tune of $1.05 Billion annually. PATH beneficiaries on other levels of the system will continue to receive free lunch, three days a week. This will cost us $2.4 Billion. Mr. Speaker, can we ask parents to contribute $45 and $60 a day to the cost of the meal for the other two days?

There is another group of our children - about 30 per cent of the school population - who is not on PATH but is very vulnerable. Sometimes they have lunch money, sometimes they don't. And for this group, Mr. Speaker, we expect parents to pay what they can when they can afford it. I bless the teachers and the cooks who multiply loaves and fishes every day, and share the food so that many not on the PATH, but who come without lunch money are not turned away. (Applause)

We also have children whose families experience crisis from time to time, and we will ask our principals to continue to look out for these children and feed them when they can. Government will no longer purchase store or distribute large quantities of imported commodities such as tin corned beef, tin mackerel, flour and cornmeal. The school-feeding menu will use, as far as possible, locally produced meat, peas, beans and eggs. (Applause) The menu for breakfast will include porridge with banana bread, sandwiches using local protein, carrot cake and fruit juice.

We want to pay tribute to Nutrition Products Limited under the chairmanship of Mr. James Rawle, just with the same money they have paid off all the bills that the new board inherited. They have modernized the plant. They have increased production. They have declared a decent financial surplus and are spearheading the critical expansion for the greatest expansion for the greatest possible use of local produce. We need the agricultural local sector to keep up with the desires of school feeding.

Mr. Speaker, during Standing Finance Committee, the issue was raised as to whether this should be divested. This Government has no religion on that you know, sir. Whoever can do it efficiently and at lowest cost, that is who must do it. If the private sector can do it, that's fine. In fact, a large section of the School Feeding Programme is already with the private sector. You ever go to the school - in front of the school gate and see who is there? So, what we want to do is to ensure that we get the best nutrition. I refer again to the IDB study which shows that one-third of our children are coming to school hungry. That's what we can't play with, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the National College of Education leadership has begun strongly, and has continuing programmes for 450 principals and education officers, training them. The regret, however, is that some 20 per cent of these have not completed their assignment or shown some reluctance to fully accept the training. Mr. Speaker, this is not acceptable, and their performance will have implications for tenure and for licensing.

There is going to be, in conjunction with UWI, an Aspiring Principal's Programme which is going to be a prerequisite for anyone to be appointed a principal, or a person of high responsibility in the schools. And when you take this course, if successful, you will get a Professional Qualification for Principalship qualification which will assist you in your upward mobility in the profession.

Mr. Speaker, the National Education Inspectorate has completed 129 inspections this year. We have almost finished the schools, and they provide the basis through the School Improvement Funds for the improvement of our system.

School boards and principals must be held accountable for the successful implementation of the school improvement plans.

Mr. Speaker, I am coming to a close but I wish to say something about the teachers of this land. Mr. Speaker, today I proudly wear the 50th Anniversary pin of the Jamaica Teachers' Association and so does the Prime Minister. Oh my! (Applause) It was purposely affixed this morning next to my clerical cross by the incumbent and the incoming Presidents of the Jamaica Teachers' Association when they called on me. We have a better understanding now Mr. Speaker and I believe a shared commitment to what is required both of State policy and teachers' interest in order to achieve transformation of a system with solid foundation but creaky and outmoded superstructure. I am pleased to announce the Ministry of Finance has committed to pay all verified arrears owed to teachers by the end of August as agreed with the JTA. And I should like to thank colleague Minister without Portfolio, the Honourable Horace Dalley for his considerable help in this regard. (Applause)

Last year we gave the assurance that we would try and settle the 50% refund of tuition and every month since then, Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Education, from our little much, has been making payment on all settled claims. Whatever is owed must be paid to our teachers and in return we expect that they will conduct themselves professionally and be accountable to add value to their students. Government is committed to honouring all teacher entitlements. There are issues to do with the scheduling of leaves which the Ministry of Education and the Jamaica Teachers' Association are collaborating to resolve. I would like to say to you that the Ministry of Education has developed a teachers' match job portal on our website which links teachers seeking jobs with potential employers locally and overseas. About 800 teachers have already registered and posited their resumes and several matches have been made. I would like to encourage employers generally to consult this website, not just those who are employing for teachers. If you want good, solid educated people who can serve in your industry, your service industry, your manufacturing industry, check this portal because teachers are well trained and usually fit in well in a variety of circumstances.

Arising from a visit to China last year, supported generously by the Chinese Government, I am happy to report that a total of 59 teachers are being recruited to fill positions at high schools, primary and junior high schools, vocational high schools and tertiary institutions in China this year 2014/2015. Nearly 300 persons applied for these positions but this is just the beginning of a huge opportunity. As a result of the same visit, Mr. Speaker, six Jamaicans will take up scholarship offers to Shanghai during the summer of 2014. (Applause) And I pay tribute to the Chinese people and government represented by their Ambassador who graces us this evening with his presence. (Applause) And you know, Mr. Speaker, we are told that the Jamaican teachers of English in Japan are doing so well that the numbers to be recruited this year will likely increase. We thank the Japanese Government for their help in this regard. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, maybe it is time just to say this right now, because the level of international assistance which the education sector gets is so gratifying and so necessary to what we have. How can we thank USAID for the literacy coaches that they have provided? How can we thank the Government of Spain for their insertion along with the Government of France in language training in Jamaica, the European Union for their strong support, the exchanges that are taking places with a number of embassies where they send people into our schools to familiarize children who would not otherwise know of foreign cultures and foreign practices to the benefit. To the Government and people who have equipped the Workforce College of Construction in Portmore, to the Government of Turkey who have promised to establish a school in Jamaica and has now sent a resident representative to live here at their expense in order that we can in fact have this achievement in short order. (Applause) To the Governments of Canada and of Mexico who have helped us so greatly and, of course - and this always amazes me and fills me with emotion, Mr. Speaker - the continuing consistent and increasing assistance and generosity of the Government and people of Cuba. (Applause) How can we say thanks to the diaspora groups, the alumni associations, 130 of them in the eastern sea (board) of the United States alone who every year send back multiple millions of US and Canadian dollars worth of aid to the schools. (Applause)

This year we have arranged facilitation because their used to be the complaint that when they send the stuff they couldn't get it off the wharf, never got it into the schools in time. We now see to that and make it possible. I thank the Ministry of Finance for their facilitation too, and I say to the schools, whether it is one pencil you get or 100 desks or a copier, make sure you say thanks because it's very important. Oftentimes we fail to do so. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it's vitally important for us to improve the quality both of the entrance and the standards of outcomes in our teachers colleges. I am pleased that at the last Council Meeting, two weeks ago, the University of the West Indies and the teachers colleges of Jamaica have agreed to jointly award the Bachelors Degree in Education. What this means, Mr. Speaker, is that if they wish, our teachers' colleges can become colleges of the University of the West Indies and the degrees that come from whether it is Bethlehem, Sam Sharpe or Shortwood can be UWI degrees. (Applause) We can't have 17 different degree-granting institutions. They must meet the standards of the UWI that they can get the benefit of their pedagogy of their facilities and this is tremendously important.

Mr. Speaker, the Government funds two universities - one regional, the UWI and one national, the University of Technology. We treasure both universities. Our policy is to avoid duplication which is not strategic and to get best value from our investments in both these institutions. One is not a polytechnic and the other a university, both are universities. Competition is good if it fosters innovation but it must be sustainable and progressive.

Mr. Speaker, may I use an important image: Harvard and MIT are neighbours in Cambridge Massachusetts, they have complementary campuses and no one confuses one with the other. Our policy is to have the same relationship between UWI and UTECH. UTECH is our national university with a historic emphasis on STEM excellence. Mr. Speaker, we are determined that UTECH should become the MIT of Jamaica and the Caribbean.

(Applause)

Last year there were internal controversies and certain actions had to be taken by the Ministry of Education. I am pleased to report that the Ministry's intervention through the Jamaica Tertiary Education Commission was salutary and I am happy to pay thanks this afternoon to the special committee chaired by Ambassador Derrick Heaven present in the Chamber whose Report to the University/UTECH Council has been largely accepted and is being considered for implementation. (Applause) I wish to confirm that the Council of the University of Technology invited Ambassador Burchell Whiteman to act as interim President from June 1, 2014 to February 2015 by which the search committee will announce a new president. (Applause) I wish to thank the Most Honourable Prime Minister for releasing Ambassador Whiteman to undertake this special assignment, and he will work with an appointed committee to refine governance and financial structures of UTECH in accordance with their centennial review.

Mr. Speaker Professor Errol Morrison is a distinguished academic and I congratulate him on his call to higher service in the area of science and technology. His record at UTECH stands tall and may he use this larger campus to do Jamaica proud. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, the virtuous connection between science and technical vocational thrust in the high schools unto the HEART training through an expanded UTECH, VTDI, CMI, Caribbean Maritime Institute, that wonderful institution, to research, to industry and to employment, all under the strategic guidance of the National Council on Science and Technology. It all fits together. This is balancing lives and is balancing books at the same time. (Applause)

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended by 20 minutes to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended by 20 minutes to allow him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Reverend Thwaites.

Rev. THWAITES: Mr. Speaker, thank you so much. (Applause) I shall not trespass on your patience much longer but education is so important.

Mr. Speaker, regarding the HEART Trust/NTA, I acknowledge the presence of the Chairman Dr. Moses Peart and the Executive Director Dr. Wayne Wesley in the Gallery and perhaps other members of the HEART Trust Board. I am pleased to announce Mr. Speaker, hear me good, that the HEART Trust/NTA turned away no one who applies for training hereafter. (Applause) If you go there without the necessary Grade 9 competences you will be directed to the High School Diploma Equivalency Programme and then have a promised place in an area of HEART Trust/NTA training. Allowances will be made for those with challenges who won't manage the HSD Programme offered by the Jamaica Foundation for Lifelong Learning. The National Vocations Levels I and II will be located largely in the secondary system and existing communities-based on workplace centres. Higher levels will be available at the workforce colleges in HEART.

Come with me Mr. Speaker, if you will, visit the Brazilian-aided HEART College of Construction Services in Portmore. Right now the most advanced programmes in building, equipment construction and maintenance are certifiable at world-class standards. That's what Jamaica needs. (Applause) Those are not low-level jobs you know, Mr. Speaker, those are high level that's available anywhere, any comparable institution anywhere in the world. This year we will establish the Advanced College of Automotive Technology in conjunction with the Jamaica Urban Transit Company to be located at the Lyndhurst Road depot. The building and the planning is already well underway in conjunction with the Ministry of Works, Transport and Housing.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Rev. THWAITES: Work will begin at the Machado Complex in the great constituency of Central Kingston in a range of competencies all aligned with the Caribbean Maritime Institute to meet the needs of the maritime sector and the logistics hub. (Applause) We are not just thinking of courses you know, Mr. Speaker, that we think would be nice for people to engage in. We are saying to Minister Hylton and the people at JAMPRO, we are saying to Minister Robinson who has responsibility, along with Minister Paulwell, for the BPO industry, tell us what you need. We must train in order that those needs may be fixed. (Applause) HEART Trust/NTA must train to fit the direction of the economy; graduates must have appropriate competencies and appropriate attitudes both not one or the other, and the HEART Trust/NTA will become more flexible. It's not prudent to continue training persons for oversupplied industries. When we get to that point - it's a point but then we must divest and we must move on and use our resources to do other needed things. The HEART Trust/NTA is collaborating with Caribbean Maritime Institute to expand its capacity to offer them training for the logistics hub and the port expansion. It's the chief facilitator of the BPO industry and has commenced collaboration with the BPIAJ Association in building capacity. HEART/NTA will deepen its linkages by partnering with Southern and Global to provide approximately 200 incubation workstations at the Gordon Town Road facility very shortly.

Mr. Speaker, another area of HEART'S involvement will be the community-based initiatives - $317 Million - hello when we speak about money in this capacity we are not talking about projections, we passed the budget last week, this is money that we know we have. These are things that we will do. (Applause) You can hold us to them. Three Hundred and Seventeen Million ($317M) will take skills training into communities across the island.

The number of community training institutes will increase from eighty-one to ninety-six. One is now working in the National Heroes Park; a simple thing, but we're training twenty-five youths who were on the corner in the skills of ornamental horticulture and landscaping, yes.

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Rev. THWAITES: We need to do more and more of that. (Applause) And it's not just in town Mr. Speaker. The Member for - is it East or West Manchester who is not present here today….

MEMBERS: North East.

Rev. THWAITES: …North East, applied for us to come into his constituency and revive a project that had existed long ago in Sedburgh in Manchester and therefore, the Sedburgh Automotive Skills Training Centre in Christiana will be commissioned during this year. In addition, a partnership is being finalized between HEART Trust and Ebony Park Academy and St. John Bosco Boys' Home in Manchester to deliver joint programmes in the skills areas of piggery, pig rearing and butchery which are scheduled to commence in 2014. The St. Anne's High School campus in West Kingston, the Member of Parliament indicated his concern that here was a facility that was not being used adequately. Well, HEART will come and help in that regard. We'll offer a much broader range of skills to students and community members in the already excellent facilities that are there and we trust that we will be able to do the same in Seaview Gardens in the constituency of Western St. Andrew. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, there's been a lot of concern recently about the fate of the Alpha Boys' Home despite the prodigious efforts made by the Ministry of Youth and Culture to ensure that the facilities remain in their pedigree and in pedigreed form. Well, a partnership has been established with the long established Alpha Boys' Home to offer technical and vocational training in the creative sector. That Ministry planted, we will water and God will make the increase, Mr. Speaker. This facility will over time provide training in music, graphics, fashion designing, digital animation and skills for the business process outsourcing industry. (Applause)

The best part Mr. Speaker is that a national music academy is envisaged including a special outreach to youth at risk for whom music can be an inducement to learning. We are confident that the popular music industry and the bands of the security forces will help. Most of them came from Alpha anyway. So the spirit of Alpha Mr. Speaker will not die; it will grow and Minister Hanna, you will play a big, big part in this. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, there is more, not much more but there is more. I am pleased to announce that after a gap of some ten years the Apprenticeship Board has been reactivated and we are so fortunate to have the distinguished scientist Professor Gossett Oliver of the University of Technology present with us this evening as the chairmanship of the new Apprenticeship Board. (Applause) Strong representation from industry, but giving our young people the opportunity not available for a long while of gaining experience while they learn and after they learn, because Mr. Speaker, how many of your constituents and mine can't get a job because while they may have qualifications on paper they have no experience.

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Rev. THWAITES: And so there is no way they can bridge that gap except through the apprenticeship programme. Money has been provided through HEART for the introduction of it and we trust that five hundred (500) persons will be targeted for training in the current financial year and there's much to come. (Applause)

The HEART Trust/NTA will do much more than that and we congratulate the management and staff of HEART. Remember, Mr. Speaker, they were awarded the Jamaica Business Leader 2013 Award for their contribution to the development of the private sector. (Applause) And we also extend congratulations to the Executive Director, Dr. Wayne Wesley, who has been appointed as Chairman of the Caribbean Association of National Training Agencies. HEART is large and is progressing and is flexible, Mr. Speaker. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Jamaica Library Service has received approximately US$2 Million in grant funds from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation to implement a project known as JLS: Using technology to empower individuals and communities for development. This dovetails entirely with the e-Learning Project, which is anchored in the STEM Ministry. It will allow for the extension of technological opportunities in our libraries and other appropriate facilities throughout Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, you ever been to a public library? Come with me to Tom Redcam. Every day the bank of computers there has a line waiting on it, because our people are anxious to use the internet to advance their personal interest and their knowledge. What this grant does, and I pay tribute to Mrs. Patricia Roberts, the retiring Director, and Mr. Paul Lalor and his Board, yes, Mr. Paul Lalor. We don't replace chairpersons, you know, when administrations change. He's doing a good job. We want him there.

Mr. SILVERA: I've kept two of mine, Ronald.

(Laughter)

Rev. THWAITES: Yes, why not. This thing is beyond partisan colours and they went and they got this money, yes, and, therefore, we need to make sure that our public have this tremendous opportunity to develop.

A library building will also be constructed at Clarks Town in Trelawny with appropriate funding from the Sugar Transformation Fund.

(Applause) (Cross talk)

And I'm so happy to say that the Alexandria Branch Library in St. Ann is being upgraded with the assistance of the Government of Japan.

Mr. Speaker, if you know what plans not only the Minister of Sport but the Minister without Portfolio in the Office of the Prime Minister has for the G. C. Foster College. We are garnering international assistance and this year you will see ways in which new areas of sport prowess are cultured there. The Chinese will be sending people to come to learn of our skills in track and field at G. C. Foster and they in turn will reciprocate with assistance and with introduction of other ventures. G.C. Foster is under strong management. That must become the sport university of Jamaica, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, last year the legislative agenda was foremost in my presentation. I would like to report that the National Council for Education, by law the highest advisory body to the Ministry of Education, took charge of the review Jamaica Teaching Council Bill and as well as the reform of the Education Code 1980. They have canvassed and taken into account everybody's point of view and I'm pleased to tell you that this week I have received the final reports on both issues from the National Council and these will proceed after review through the legislative process.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Education is doing its best at cost containment and also in providing better services and more customer-friendly approaches to our constituents. We can't ask for better service in the schools unless we give better service at the centre. (Applause) Let all of us, me first, we are not rulers we're servants and facilitators and just as for the school personnel don't let us talk too much about tenure and permanency. Let's work to add value. If I don't add value, I shouldn't be in this post, Mr. Speaker. None of us should be here. We should add value to the task that we have. (Applause) Were there time I could tell of the hundreds of millions of dollars we're saving by using efficient processes both in the education regions and in the head office. I will post a Ministry Paper to this end so that you can know.

I should like to express great thanks though, Mr. Speaker, that the Minister of Labour and Social Security this afternoon could indicate that the Disabilities Bill is to be tabled in this House at long last is tabled. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, we have special pleasure on this occasion, because as that Bill is passed reflecting the passion of this Government, especially the Prime Minister, the President of the Senate and others that no one should be disadvantaged because of physical and mental challenges, the Ministry of Education is pleased to announce the appointment of Dr. Hickswell Douglas, himself a blind man, as Assistant Chief Education Officer for Special Education. (Applause) And he's not being appointed because he is blind. He's being appointed because he's the best man for the job. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: He has vision.

Rev. THWAITES: And he has vision. (Applause/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, I'm coming down. Mr. Speaker, there are other areas of education which will require our urgent attention. We are not here this afternoon, all of us, only to tell you the positive things. First, we have to be much more focused on ruling out the alternate High School Diploma islandwide. We are late in this regard and Mr. Speaker, I accept responsibility. The Jamaica Foundation for Lifelong Learning has been cramped by internal difficulties and their incapacity is disappointing thousands of adults who need a second chance to get a high school diploma. Resources are not the problem. By September coming I am committing that the comprehensive programme must be available to all.

The other matter that is of challenge is how to assist the three or four thousand students from poor backgrounds who have done so well in school that they have matriculated into college or university. Just as we want them to, but without the money to pay even their part of the fees. This past year the Ministry of Education has had to find well over a Hundred Million dollars to help scores of medical, dental, pharmacy and others students: teachers and community college students. We'll try it again this year, Mr. Speaker, with the help of the Ministry of Health, but it won't be enough.

I want to give thanks that the Students' Loan Bureau reforms announced by the Minister of Finance have gone so far, especially the possibility for loans without guarantors and for the reforms that will follow. And students should note that their records are going to be part of their credit record for life. We have to challenge families to start saving early for tertiary education. We are preparing a booklet setting out all the opportunities for bursaries, scholarships, work and study, so that students can be informed from their secondary years. But I issue a challenge to the private financial institutions and will not cease to do so. It is an irony that the State should have so little cash space but the private institution should be so flush. It can't be right, Mr. Speaker, that you can get a loan for a car that utilizes foreign exchange both in its purchases an operation within a week of application but it takes you months and months and probably you can't get a loan to go to university. We have to find different ways.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion I want to express my personal thanks and that of the Ministry of Education to our teachers for their sacrifice made in the interest of advancing student achievement.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Rev. THWAITES: To all of the staff of the Ministry of Education, the Permanent Secretary, the Chief Education Officer, my advisors and all of those who have been part of a sturdy team in this regard.

The final area of our own work I want to mention is that of renewable energy and conservation. Mr. Speaker, this year we want as many schools as possible to be equipped with solar panels, yes.

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Rev. THWAITES: Can I tell you the story of Holy Trinity High? They were given solar panels this year, August 2013, (sic) and the school has reaped reduction in its electricity bills. They have decreased by some 20 per cent over the past six months. So much so that the JPS came to find out what was wrong and who was tampering with the meter. (Laughter) Can we use the example in South St. James of Chatsworth Primary and Maldon Primary who have introduced solar panels in their schools and also rainwater harvesting and are now lickle or nothing paid to the utility companies. Yes Minister, thank you for that. (Applause) Came to you with Aabuthnott Gallimore, you know how much that's - and, you know, when they save the money we're not taking it back, you know. We're giving it to them to invest in educational quality. That's the promise that we're making to do and the PetroCaribé Fund is promising to help.

Mr. Speaker, allow me to end this chronicle of where we are and what we will do just as I began. This is a good time for education in Jamaica. Look what we have going of us. The nation realizes as never before that there will be no personal satisfaction nor any growth agenda unless we become a knowledge-based society undergirded by sound education. (Applause)

Of course we need more money, Mr. Speaker, but there is enough public and private if we use it wisely. There are thousands of good teachers straining to perform better. There are public officials among whom are many Members of this House who have embraced educational and advancement as a first priority for their constituents.

There is a private sector, there are churches, there are philanthropic individuals who recognized the futility of hoarding resources or spending mostly in selfish ways and are increasingly the benefactors of education.

And there's a Government Mr. Speaker, led by a focused lady whose passion it is and will ever remain, for the weakest in our midst to stand no longer behind but alongside the strongest. (Applause)

Stand strong Mr. Speaker, not through the power of the gun or the gang, not because of colour or money, not arrogantly or contentiously but humbly and compassionately. The new Jamaica all through the power of knowledge the outcome of good education.

So let us continue to invest our time, our talent and our treasure, because education is the ultimate progressive agenda.

Thank you.

(Standing Ovation by Government Members) (Applause)

(The Speaker left the Chair at approximately 4:13 p.m.) (The Deputy Speaker presides)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the Member from North West St. Elizabeth will now make his contribution.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, first, I would like to congratulate all the hard-working teachers, especially those in the constituency for North West St. Elizabeth. Being one of the poorest constituencies in the country, they are working under various adverse conditions and with children who have a number of serious challenges. The teachers in North West St. Elizabeth are dedicated to their work and I have pledged to continue working with their various schools to overcome the various challenges facing them. (Applause)

Mr. SILVERA: How long you a MP?

(Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, the citizens of North West St. Elizabeth continue to be hardworking persons despite the many challenges they face. The greatest concern the citizens have is the deplorable road conditions.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Same thing you say last year.

(Laughter)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Over the years, over the years, Mr. Minister of Works, over the years North West St. Elizabeth has been known to have the worse roads in the Parish of St. Elizabeth.

Dr. DAVIES: No! No!

(Laughter)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: None of the roads were rehabilitated until 2009, when two roads were done under JDIP. Since then, none of the roads have been rehabilitated. I am seeking the intervention of the Minister of Transport and Works to have the Maggoty to Elderslie, Mulgrave to Ipswich, Springfield to Pisgah Roads rehabilitated.

Dr. DAVIES: And thank me.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And the road from Newmarket to Middle Quarters resurfaced.

Dr. DAVIES: Which one you thank me for?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Those were patching.

Mr. Speaker, 80% of the citizens in my constituency are farmers, but they are plagued by praedial larceny and the lack of markets for their crops.

Mr. Speaker, last year a breakfast progamme was introduced into the primary and basic schools through the Constituency Development Fund. (Applause) Despite limited funding, the programme has been a tremendous success as I have said oftentimes in this House.

Dr. DAVIES: Some times.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I would like to congratulate and thank the Minister of Education for the announcement he has made today. It goes a far way in assisting those students who are unable to go to school properly fed. It is one where, as he says, there are students there and roughly in my constituency 40% of them go to school without breakfast and that causes them to have a brain that goes dead by 10.00 o'clock in the morning. And when that happens, they are unable to learn. And then the teachers are blamed because the children are not performing. Mr. Minister, I thank you very much and I am hoping that North West will get the assistance that I had asked in that little note there. (Applause)

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Pickersgill)

Mr. CHARLES: Don't try to disturb him now, keep quiet.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, on Labour Day last year, all but two of the primary schools were given fencing material and agricultural inputs including hand tools, to establish or expand their school gardens. The major objective here was to produce vegetables, ground provisions and foods that would be utilized in the breakfast programme.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Good!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, the programme is one that staff and students at the schools greatly appreciate. As a matter of fact, one of the schools, Holland Primary, is this year's winner of the National School Garden Competition. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, these initiatives are providing tremendous support for the students attending the schools in my constituency. I am suggesting to the Minister of Agriculture that instead of aligning the School Feeding Programme to Agro Parks, the money should be spent expanding the School Garden Programme in primary and high schools. (Applause)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Both can do that. Both can do that.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, I'm indeed sorry that the Minister of Agriculture is not here this afternoon.

Dr. DAVIES: He's on business.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I applaud his honesty.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Where you get that?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Okay, sir. I know he's travelling and I say I'm sorry he's not here today, because I would have loved to have spoken to him personally in what I am going to say today.

MEMBERS: Yes! Yes!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Because agriculture is critical in whatever we are going to be doing in moving forward for the development of this country.

(Applause by both sides)

Mr. Speaker, this year let us explore the position of the agricultural sector and the direction it has to embark on for growth. This is important based on the dilemma the country is facing at this time; agriculture is one of the key players, if not the key player to take us out of our economic problems.

Dr. DAVIES: I agree.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: We have too long depended on fresh produce for our main source of revenue. We have to focus on the value chain to be able to drive the sector. (Applause) Our produce are the most flavourful and of the best quality worldwide, but they are not being fully utilized.

As mentioned by a Member on the Government side, the sector is disjointed, there doesn't seem to be a cohesive direction in which agriculture is being driven. He's absolutely correct and I applaud...

Mr. PARCHMENT: Nobody said that.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I applaud his honesty.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Where you get that?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: If you go to the papers of....

Mr. McKENZIE: Stop listen to the man, just keep on talking.

Dr. WHEATLEY: Don't listen to…. (Inaudible)

Mr. McKENZIE: Don't be distracted.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Agriculture is being run in a hop, skip and jump way with no specific goal or any achievable target to work towards. There is no structure, no vision...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Pickersgill)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Blind man!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: ....and the Minister just said there was somebody who was blind but had vision. This has no vision, no comprehensive plan for the development and growth of the sector. I am saying so.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Oh, is your quote? (Laughter)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Small farmers will produce but they have to be empowered and given the tools and encouragement to produce.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Even with the introduction of the Quasi Agro Parks. Agricultural production has not increased because the cart is being put before the horse. Agricultural Production has not increased.

Mr. PARCHMENT: So you sey STATIN a lie?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Agriculture is once again on a downward trajectory.

Government MEMBERS: Ho! Ho!

Mr. DALLEY: You know better than that. You know better than that.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The Agro Parks are not achieving their goals. These are large tracks of land that were in full cultivation years ago, but they were not called Agro Parks. Small sections of these lands are now being given to farmers to cultivate, so what makes these Agro Parks?

The Minister spent much time speaking about the growth in the Agro Parks. The Minister still continues to try and pull the wool over some of us eyes, but I will continue to give the facts as they are.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I will put things in the true perspective at the Plantain Garden River, first. First, there are 40 farmers now operating at Plantain Garden River, not 61 as the Minister said.

Mr. Speaker, it is obvious that the Minister is unaware of what the true situation is at Plantain Garden River. As he admits and I quote, "I am at a loss as to why the resuscitation plan was abandoned". The Minister is saying that he is at a loss as to why the resuscitation plan at Plantain Garden was abandoned. Now, I am saying to you, Mr. Speaker, let me advise the Minister, that the plan was not abandoned.

A Government Member: Finish your paragraph.

Mr. CHARLES: Do not disturb the man.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The farmers were only given pepper seedlings, under the Resuscitation Plan. The rest of the money was held by the Credit Union; they were not given any tools, inputs or equipment from the beginning of the programme so the crops had to fail. There were only two knapsack-sprayers for 40 farmers and these were owned by two farmers.

Mr. Speaker, we saw the plight these farmers were in and that is why we attended to alleviate the problems they had by giving them the requested equipment and tools including the four spray pans which are still working despite the Minister's assertion that they are not working. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, for educational purposes, I am going to provide and - I am sorry he is not here, but the Minister of Works says he is sitting in for him. So I am now going to give the Minister of Works the reasons for the debacle and total fiasco with the farmers at Plantain Gardens with recommendations as to the way forward.

Dr. DAVIES: Okay.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, no, I want you to have a look at it.

Mr. CHARLES: And you can look at it and then deliberate.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, if the Minister of Works looks at page 4, Plantain Garden which the Minister speaks so glowingly about, page 4, tools and equipment required were not procured. This is coming from the St. Thomas Cooperative Credit Union, lessons learnt.

Go to the other part Mr. Minister, the PATH Manager was not stationed at the Agro Park and did not have nor was given the required technical support to properly advise the farmers and promptly detect response to issues when they occurred. These are some of the problems and you can go right through they are there why they failed.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister would seek to blame the exuberance of the farmers for the failure, this is totally false. Just about everything for the farmers were mobilized and implemented by the Agro Invest Corporation. The farmers are now, Mr. Speaker, being threatened to be dragged before the Court by the Credit Union because they have no money to repay their loans. They went out there and the crops failed and those are the reasons there why the crops failed and the Minister is saying he does not know anything about the resuscitation. Mr. Speaker, this Minister says this is a promise kept, delivered and exceeded. If the promise was to make the farmers poorer then they have certainly done that and exceeded that... (Applause) ...and exceeded that expectation by causing the hardworking, trusting and dedicated farmers to be threatened with court action; total fiasco and grief for these farmers.

Mr. Speaker, the farmers requested equipment from our leaders because those who were to provide equipment tools and inputs failed to do so causing the onion crop which was planted initially to fail. Mr. Speaker, this is the growth the Minister speaks about. Growth at Plantain Garden and it is a total failure.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance, and I am sorry he has left, I asked him to just remain for 10 minutes, says that agriculture is one of the fastest growing sectors in the country, one of the fastest growing sectors. He said, for the quarter ending December 31, 2014 the growth rate for agriculture analyzed was of the order of approximately 13 per cent. Mr. Speaker, the real value added for the industry, declined by point five per cent in 2013, the real value added for the industry, declined by point five per cent. In 2011, the real value added for the industry grew by 10.6 per cent compare it with what is happening here.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, he also said preliminary estimates for the first quarter of 2014 are indicating approximately 18.7 per cent growth in the domestic food crop subsection. Mr. Speaker, this is totally false, there is no first quarter in any year where we have growth of even 10 per cent, and he is now saying that the first quarter of 2014, you are going to have 18.7 per cent growth; all of us as farmers know that the first two quarters of the year are the worst quarters, because of drought. The other two quarters are when you have growth. And let me explain to you.

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. A. Hylton)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: What you saying old time something. All right since you - you see some of us who are not farmers don't understand and that is where we have a problem. Hold on in 2013, in 2013, and you, Honourable Minister, who say it is old time something. Listen, in 2013, the first quarter of 2013, there was a decline of 11.3 per cent...

Mr. McKENZIE: Say it again, him never hear.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: In 2013 the old time thing that you talking about, 2013 there was a decline in the first quarter of 11.3 per cent. The point is that I am saying that there is no growth that is going to go over 10 per cent...

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. A. Hylton)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: That is what I am going...

Mr. CHARLES: Don't disturb the man.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Just a moment Mr. Hutchinson. I am asking the Government Members to allow...

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Warmington)

The Deputy SPEAKER: I am speaking, Mr. Warmington please wait.

I am asking the Government Members to desist from questioning and distracting Mr. Hutchinson. There are other occasions when misleading the House can be dealt with. There is far too much heckling from the Government side. (Applause) I think we need to show a little bit more respect to Mr. Hutchinson. (Applause) And I am asking therefore, that you desist from the persistent heckling.

Mr. McKENZIE: You can stay in the Chair forever.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson, please proceed.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, you see what happens when the truth is told many of us don't like it.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me explain further Mr. Speaker, let me explain further.

The first quarter of the year, last year, there was a decline in production by 11.3 per cent. The second quarter a decline by 6.3 per cent, in the fourth quarter that is when production starts to go up. There was an increase by 5.9 per cent and in fourth quarter there was an increase of 13.1 per cent that is what we are dealing with. So I am saying that what is said here by the Minister is totally wrong, and he must stop misleading the House and people with these figures. (Applause) It is about time he stop; he has been doing it every year. (Applause) And I am getting to it. I learn from myself and that is why I am speaking the way I am. He would not speak the way I am.

(Applause)

The Minister have spoken glowingly about the production of strategically selected crops such as onions, sweet potatoes, Irish potato, yam, hot pepper and small ruminants.

The Minister of Finance said we must just come here and chat - we must just come here - we can't come here and chat, we have to talk based on what actually happened. He also said that there are four missing years every time some people talk, four missing years, every time some people talk. Well I am going to talk about the four missing years in agriculture. (Applause) And I am going to deal with it. He said you may forget but the people have not forgotten. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I now intend to fill the four missing years for agriculture.

Mr. CHUCK: The best years in agriculture!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I don't know, Orderly, distribute...

(An orderly was given documents to distribute in the House)

Mr. Speaker, all agricultural crops are once again on the decline, compared with production between 2008 and 2011. Let me speak to the strategically selected crops mentioned by the Minister because it is dishonest to try and manipulate figures to suit your own pace. It must stop! Enough is enough!

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: So, between - I am going to deal with it specifically now.

Mr. SAMUDA: Talk to dem, Busha!

(Laughter)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Between 1995 - and I hope everybody has got this Crop Production Chart.

Mr. CHUCK: These are real figures!

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: See it there, Crop Production - I just want everybody to have this page, Crop Production Chart.

Mr. DALLEY: Where you get this from?

Mr. WARMINGTON: Because you can't read the book!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Let me just say, Mr. Speaker, all of this is got from The Economy and Social Survey of Jamaica.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Tell them again!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And if you look at the first two, 1995 to 2008, per cent change - if you see per cent change, every single crop in Jamaica declined.

Mr. CHUCK: Under eighteen years of that government!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Who was the Minister most of that time?

Mr. CHUCK: Eighteen lost years!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I am saying, 1995 to 2008, when every year the Minister comes here and says crop production is increasing in Jamaica. See the facts here, put out by them! Now, if we look - and let us go in detail now because the Minister came and boasted, mentioned Irish potato as been self-sufficient by 86.9 per cent now? Let us look at Irish potato. Irish potato in 1995, 17,000 tonnes. By 2008 it dropped to 5,000 tonnes, a decrease of 71 per cent.

Mr. CHARLES: Under PNP!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Who was in charge?

Mr. CHARLES: PNP!

Mr. CHUCK: Mash dem up, Hutchie!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Now, when we look, and we look, now, and we say Irish potato between 2008 and 2011, what was the growth under that? 211 per cent growth. (Opposition Members applaud) Crop Economic Survey. 211 per cent! This is a government at that time, working, working, working!

(Laughter/Heckling)

Mr. CHUCK: Not traveling, traveling, traveling! (Laughter)

Mr. CHARLES: Succeeding, succeeding, succeeding!

The Deputy SPEAKER: What is the point about, Minister?

Dr. DAVIES: No, just clarification.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Clarification?

Dr. DAVIES: Just clarification.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I am allowing him, sir.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes, go ahead.

Dr. DAVIES: Did the Member say, in introducing, that all the major crops had declined since 2011 to the present?

Mr. CHUCK: Not yet! He is coming to that!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: A coming to that, sir. I said...

Dr. DAVIES: In your opening...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, I am explaining.

Dr. DAVIES: ...In your preamble was that what you said?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, I didn't say all.

Dr. DAVIES: Eh?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I didn't say all.

Dr. DAVIES: Not all?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Not all.

Mr. CHARLES: Have a seat!

Dr. DAVIES: No, I am just asking. Is this the table? You have listed 11?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, no, no, I am going to clarify.

Dr. DAVIES: I should ignore this table?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, look at this page, it's the same thing.

Dr. DAVIES: Can I ignore this table?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: What are you trying to prove?

Dr. DAVIES: No, I am just asking, was it this table you were - was it this table?

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Forget about my opening remarks, just deal with this. Deal with this! Let us deal with this!

(Heckling) (The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Dr. DAVIES: No, I am trying to follow up; I am just trying to follow. Should I ignore this?

(Cross talk)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Omar, deal with this!

Dr. DAVIES: Forget this one?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I say deal with this!

Dr. DAVIES: Okay.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Don't bother forget this, deal with this!

Dr. DAVIES: Okay.

Mr. CHARLES: Have a seat!

The Deputy SPEAKER: Have a seat for me, please.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I know you 'fraid of it, you see some there, you see some. All right.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Yes, sir.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Proceed without distraction.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you sir, without anymore disturbances.

We are now looking at...

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CHARLES: Chuck it pon him without warning!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Between 2011 to...

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: ….we comparing - 2011, Irish potato to 2012, the growth was .4 per cent, and it just went up 2013, 13.2 per cent. This is where we can compare that now the Government is sleeping, sleeping, sleeping!

(Laughter/Applause)

Mr. CHARLES: And misleading, misleading, misleading!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: When we look at sweet potato, per cent change decreased between 1995 to 2008. These are products that he says he is working on now, you know - 15.58 per cent during those four missing years. The four missing years in sweet potato, that grew by 63 per cent! That means that the Government was working, working, working!

(Laughter)

Mr. CHUCK: That's right, Hutchie!

Mr. CHARLES: And you are now sleeping, sleeping, sleeping!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Look at it now, the per cent change, 4.9 per cent that you are talking about growth between 2012 and 2013.

Mr. CHARLES: Them gone to sleep!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, when we look at yams - go down look at yams, per cent change, - 57 per cent. And we find that between 2011 and 2012, 7.75 per cent. But look at it now, 2012 to 2013, - 4.3 per cent. This is the growth that you are talking about. The Government here now is sleeping, sleeping, sleeping!

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CHARLES: Chuck it pon dem without warning!

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels - 4:48 p.m.) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time be extended by twenty minutes to allow him to complete his presentation.

Mr. Hugh BUCHANAN: No more time!

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time for speaking be extended for how long, Mr. Hutchinson?

An Opposition MEMBER: Forever!

The Deputy SPEAKER: For twenty minutes?

Mr. Hugh BUCHANAN: No more time!

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question has been put.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Yes, I know. I would like to thank those who have given me more time to continue my speech. I heard a lone voice in the wilderness saying, no more time, and I know why.

(Laughter)

Mr. CHARLES: Wake him, wake him, wake him!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, I am going to close off, because there is a raft of them.

(Cross talk)

I am saying, one of the crops that is mentioned here by the Minister - and remember I said, selected crops that he is moving strategically to grow, onions, sweet potatoes, Irish potato, yam, hot pepper.

Mr. CHUCK: Let me hear onions now.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Let us look at hot pepper. Hot pepper percentage changed between 1995 and 2008, 19 per cent, 19 per cent. And when you look at 2008 to 2011, what was the growth, 114 per cent.

Opposition MEMBERS: Working, working, working!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: When you look at 2011 to 2012, what happened?

Opposition MEMBERS: Sleeping, sleeping, sleeping!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Minus 49 per cent, and then it goes to 6.6 per cent now. This shows that the Government now is sleeping, sleeping, sleeping! (Laughter)

Mr. DALLEY: You mek up dis!

(Cross talk)

A Government MEMBER: Of course is him mek it up!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: When we look at onions, 4,000 pounds in 1995. How much it gone to in 2008? 455, a decrease of 89 per cent, a decrease. And between 2008 and 2011 it grew by 123 per cent.

Opposition MEMBERS: Working, working, working!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: This says Government...

Opposition MEMBERS: Working, working, working!

(Laughter/Cross talk)

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson!

(Dr. Davies rose)

Opposition MEMBERS: Don't yield! No! Si dung back! Sit down!

Dr. WHEATLEY: No! You do that every day. The man is making his presentation!

(Cross talk)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson, will you yield?

Dr. WHEATLEY: Don't yield!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, I am not yielding! I am not yielding to you now! I am not yielding!

(Heckling)

(Dr. Davies took his seat)

Thank you, thank you.

(Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

Mr. McKENZIE: Si dung! Si dung!

Mr. DALLEY: Mr. Speaker...

(Cross talk)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I am not yielding!

The Deputy SPEAKER: No, but he has a point of order.

Mr. DALLEY: A point of order.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Please sit.

Okay, what is the point of order, sir?

Mr. DALLEY: Mr. Speaker, there is a document that the Honourable Member has presented, a piece of paper called, Crop Production. It has not said anything about the source of the document.

Mr. McKENZIE: You were outside!

Mr. WARMINGTON: He said it before he started!

Mr. DALLEY: No, no. Mr. Speaker, if something is tabled for...

Mr. CHARLES: You were sleeping, sleeping, sleeping! (Laughter)

Mr. DALLEY: I can hear! I was hearing, hearing, hearing! (Laughter)

Mr. CHARLES: And you were sleeping, sleeping, sleeping!

(Cross talk)

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) Minister, please sit. Please sit.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: You asked that I not be disturbed...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And they are again disturbing me because the facts are hitting them in the face.

Opposition MEMBERS: Yes!

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Yes, sir.

The Deputy SPEAKER: For purposes of clarity...

Mr. CHARLES: Chuck it pon him without warning!

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Charles!

Mr. CHARLES: Don't disturb the man!

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson, for purposes of clarity, can you inform again, if necessary, sir...

Mr. McKENZIE: Why?

The Deputy SPEAKER: ...this Honourable House, as to the source of your statistics.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The source is The Economy and...

(Heckling)

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) Let him speak!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The source is The Economy and Social Survey, 2013.

I am going to ask...

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Hold on. I am going to ask - hello. I am going to ask the Member from North Trelawny if he can read out what there is for onion, so I don't have to do it.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson...

(Cross talk)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, no, no, the book has gone to North Trelawny.

(Mr. Atkinson handed the book to Mr. Dalley) (Laughter)

You know, sir, I know why they don't want to read it. It is there, but they don't want to read it. So let me read it then, sir.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, no, I am presenting, not you.

(Cross talk)

Mr. DALLEY: I want to be corrected. Mr. Speaker...

The Deputy SPEAKER: No, Mr. Minister, I have not given you permission to speak, sir, sit.

A MEMBER: Stick to the Budget, please, sir.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, there is no correction.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson...

A MEMBER: You are misinforming the House.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, I am not.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Dalley)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Go ahead, Minister.

(Cross talk)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson, please sit for me - sit.

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. CHARLES: This is not a dialogue.

The Deputy SPEAKER: I am going to insist that we get back to a level of civility. If we cannot get back to a level of civility, then I will have to exercise my authority as the Presiding Speaker. And, I am serious.

Mr. WARMINGTON: You throw them out. Thank you. They can't take the blow.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The Opposition Spokesman is on his feet.

Mr. WARMINGTON: And he's speaking facts.

The Deputy SPEAKER: He has said that he garnered the data from the Social and Economic Survey of 2013.

(Cross talk)

Mr. McKENZIE: This is very unusual.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Are you prepared to say what pages, Mr. Hutchinson?

Mr. HUTHCINSON: Mr. Speaker...

Mr. McKENZIE: Don't yield to any more points of order; this is very unusual. They have the book...

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. Smith.

Mr. CHARLES: They have the book over there.

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, it is extremely unusual, and of course, unprecedented, where a Speaker submits to the Speaker where he gets his information from. And that is accepted. They don't need to be asking any further questions.

Mr. WARMINGTON: And they have it in front of them.

Mr. McKENZIE: The Minister didn't say where he got it.

Mr. D. SMITH: So I am imploring you, Mr. Speaker... He has told the House...They are dissecting that document while he is speaking, and protesting. It is unheard of. And I don't think you should pay any attention to that.

Mr. McKENZIE: This is a side show.

The Deputy SPEAKER: I am only going to allow one more intervention, and that is from Mr...

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Go ahead.

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, I am not dissenting whatever my good friend, the Member from North West wishes to present, but he's providing several pieces of data, and I am struggling to match up.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. DAVIES: I was struggling to keep abreast, using the table to which he directed with his utterances. And I was just double-checking whether the comparisons he is making are taken from this Paper which indicates that of the 15 years, the 15 food items between 2011 and 2013, nine showed increases based on what he is saying. The nine of the 15 showed increases so I was wondering whether he had looked at this - 9 of the 15 - 9 of the 15...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Yes, sir. Thank you, sir.

The Deputy SPEAKER: I am going to ask you to proceed.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you, sir, without any more disturbances. Mr. Speaker...

(Applause by Opposition members)

Mr. Speaker, first of all, I have been in this House from...

(Sotto voce comment by Dr. Davies)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Yes, sir, I am coming to it, sir. But, I am saying...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes, but I am asking you not to continue the bantering with the other side.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, I am not continuing the bantering, sir.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Focus on your presentation.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: All right, sir. Mr. Speaker, what is happening here is that these figures have been taken from the Economic and Social Survey, those that I have gone back and researched from 1995 to 2008, coming straight through to what is presented here in 2013.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And these can be taken from any research that anybody wants to do on these economic and social surveys. (Applause)

And what I have said Mr. Speaker is that I was dealing with the strategically selected crops mentioned by the Minister as those that he looks to see if he can promote, and has been promoting. And the crops are: onion, sweet potato, Irish potato, yam, hot pepper. These are the crops, and these are the ones that I have started to mention, and I have been through those so far, and I have reached onions. And onion, as I have stated before, 1995 - 4,000 tonnes; it dropped - declined to 455 tonnes in 2008, a decline of 89 per cent.

A MEMBER: 2008?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: 2008. You found that between 2008 and 2011, it grew by 123 per cent.

Mr. CHARLES: What!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: That is a Government...

Opposition MEMBERS: Working, working, working.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Now, when you look Mr. Speaker between 2012 and 2013, what do you see, a decline of 37 per cent under a critical crop - 37 per cent decline in onion. It is obvious that it is a Government that is sleeping, sleeping, sleeping.

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: And this is the gentleman, the Minister of Agriculture who come and says every year, how agriculture is growing. Mr. Speaker...

Mr. SAMUDA: A myth - 19 per cent a myth.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: ...if these agro parks are doing so well, how comes there is a decline in most of these non-traditional crops?

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: What is happening is that the emphasis is being placed on agro parks and not the 250 traditional farmers. Those 250 traditional farmers - thousand farmers, are being neglected. These farmers were the ones who grew agriculture between 2008 and 2011. (Applause) Production of all crops grew by leaps and bounds between 2008 and 2011, resulting in the farmers' markets being established in 2011 to avert losses of crops as a result of over-supply of farm produce.

A MEMBER: Government working.

Mr. HUTHCHINSON: There were no agro parks then. The Minister speaks of 200 acres of sweet potatos to be planted in the agro parks to supply an export market. Mr. Speaker, the existing small farmers in Jamaica plant more than 200 acres of sweet potatoes.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. CHARLES: Even in your own constituency.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I pass there already, but you want me to come back.

MEMBERS: No, man…. no, no, no.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker...

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: ...turmeric which makes curry powder was one of the crops we were promoting during the growth time. The Minister said last year that it was one of the crops being given special attention. This crop seems to have fallen through the cracks, as nothing is heard of it again.

Mr. CHARLES: It drop out.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: This crop is not as susceptible to diseases as ginger, and it grows wild in some parts of the country, and is in great demand.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to praedial larceny. Mr. Speaker, the two main problems in agriculture for the farmers is praedial larceny and a lack of market for their produce.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Farmers will produce much more as long as they have a reliable market for their produce.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The Minister made a grand announcement as to how he intends to tackle praedial larceny, the four-pronged approach being:

- comprehensive slew of amendments to the Agricultural Produce Act,
- directly place penalties under the principal legislation,
- simplify procedures of all stakeholders along the food chain; and,
- impose stiffer fines.

These measures have very little effect by itself. Then he goes on, Mr. Speaker:

> Now, for the first time, there is a dedicated allocation in the Budget to set up a praedial larceny unit.

The most potent weapon against praedial larceny is foolproof traceability system. And he says,

> I am pleased to announce the rolling out of an exciting and game-changing programme relating to the tagging of our entire cattle population.
> (Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CHARLES: Dem just cut off the ears.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker... Mr. Speaker, tagging is nothing new... nothing new.

A MEMBER: Nothing new.

Dr. DAVIES: You announced it eight years ago.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, no, no!

Tagging, this is when you have a little tag - silver tag with some numbers, and you put it in the ears; a small tag where people can hardly see. You have to go straight up and look before you can see that tag - small... little tag.

Mr. CHARLES: They have been using it for years.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: All members of the Red Poll Breeders Association have been using tags for years.

Mr. CHARLES: All of us.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Even some ordinary farmers tag their animals. So, this is nothing game-changing, new, wonderful, exiting, for praedial larceny - nothing new.

Dr. CHANG: Tell them Hutchie.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, the Minister had said that I am a conceptor and adviser.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: A conceptualizer.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: All right, a conceptualizer; thank you for the correction - a conceptualizer and an adviser. He is the implementer, that's right, referring to agro parks, even the microchips on animals, et cetera. I am the conceptualizer and adviser, but he's the counterfeit implementer. (Laughter)

For 18 years the PNP had no emphasis placed on praedial larceny. All that was mentioned was the two-foot puss... (Laughter) ...but nothing significantly done to counteract it by the Minister. It has taken centre stage since 2008. Programmes like Irish potato, onion, turmeric for curry powder, agro parks, farmers' organizations, green house programme, farmers' market all came to the fore between 2008 and 2011.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Nothing new has been proposed by the Minister since then.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear - sleeping, sleeping, sleeping.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: What new has been proposed by the Minister since then?

Mr. CHARLES: Sleeping, sleeping.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, no, no, I don't want Omar - you don't like how I'm dealing with him; you want cool me down. You can't cool me down.

Dr. WHEATLEY: Leave him alone; the man is doing very well.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: It is obvious that the Minister either misunderstood the concept or he is incapable of putting the process on the right path. Mr. Speaker, the proposal to curb praedial larceny misses the mark by miles. There is nothing said about fruits, herbs and vegetables. I have to ask now, other than animals, are the pigs, goats and sheep going to have these yellow glowing tags, tagged on to them also. (Laughter)

Mr. CHUCK: What about chickens?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, when I mentioned about microchips, I was called 'chippy'.

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. CHARLES: Now, you call him taggie.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I remember somebody sitting and calling me 'Chippie'. You remember. Now 'Bulbie' has come with headlamps to put on the ears of Red Poll bulls, headlamps. These yellow bulbs are so conspicuous you will soon have earless animals because these bulbs are going to be glowing so much that you are going to have an illegal investor coming and say come and get me, si mi here because him can see him. (Laughter)

Mr. DALLEY: I never knew you were a stand-up comedian.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: All I can see is the big yellow thing that he brought here.

Mr. DALLEY: Chippie the comedian.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The Minister's programme has no relevance in curbing praedial larceny.

Dr. WHEATLEY: Not at all, Hutchie.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker, the Minister must scrap the idea of a praedial larceny unit where persons will be sitting in an office to warm chairs. Only one coordinator is needed in the Ministry of Agriculture. Praedial larceny is a police matter, not a matter for the Ministry of Agriculture. (Applause) So what is the unit going to be there for?

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Charles)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Provide that money earmarked for the unit to purchase trail bikes for investigators to invest in trail bikes.

Miss HANNA: Trail bikes.

Mr. HUTCHINON: …trail bikes to investigate the end users of agricultural products. This is where you are going to get results. Every end user, every end user must provide the investigator with a receipt or invoice showing where the animals or crops originated.

Opposition MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. DALLEY: That is there already.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Chippy is advising Mr. Bulbie to read the report.

(The Speaker gavels)

The Deputy SPEAKER: The speaker's time has expired. May I just…

Mr. DALLEY: Any amount of time you want, all the time.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker….

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. House Leader, I just want to explain, Mr. Hutchinson, that we did allow you some extra time based on the various...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you, sir.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question now is that the Speaker's time be extended sufficient for him to complete his presentation.

Mr. PAULWELL: No, Mr. Speaker. I am extending the time by 15 minutes.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that the Speaker's time be extend by 15 minutes to allow him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Hutchinson.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you very much.

Mr. CHARLES: If we need it we take 15 more.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Thank you very much. Colleagues, thank you very much. I am getting back to that.

Mr. Chippy is advising Mr. Bulbie to read the Report from the Economy and Production Committee which outlines the raft of proposals being recommended. And I don't know, I am sure - I don't know if you have read it. I am sure you have read it, the recommendations, you all have.

Dr. DAVIES: Gwane talk, Hutchie.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Proposals being recommended to curb praedial larceny. The persons on the Committee understand the vision in curbing this menace, and I must congratulate them for coming together with this proposal. They are able to share the vision which the Minister is missing. If he was here I would hand it to him, the recommendations.

Mr. CHARLES: You can send it to him.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: So you would like to - the copy of recommendation, since he indicated that I should advise him of the other measures other than his half-baked ones to tackle praedial larceny. I am sure the Minister is aware of these recommendations. So I wonder why he has refused to mention them for implementation. He knows about them so he must be a counterfeit implementer.

Mr. CHARLES: Sleeping, sleeping, sleeping.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The counterfeit implementer Bulbie is now using bulbs as tax to curb praedial larceny.

Mr. Speaker, the praedial train was about to roll out of the station in 2012 but it got derailed during that time.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I come to the serious point, the serious point, structuring the agricultural sector. The agricultural sector has to be rebranded, there has to be a new outlook and vision to assist the Jamaican economy out of its predicament. The focus has to be structured with the 250,000 small farmers as the catalyst.

Opposition MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The first step is to reactivate the farmers' organization. The 250,000 small farmers are the pillars in driving that is vital for the economy. (Applause) Secondly, an agricultural complex, a real agro-park should be established with one, a grading and packaging house; two, a processing house; three, an abattoir; four, a cold storage; five, a drying house; six, a farm store; seven, a value-added centre; eight, a meat outlet.

All of this we are saying is under one umbrella, a complex, government-owned and so it would be Government/private partnership that we are looking at and so it is one where it has it in one place, all of these items. So what would that complex provide? It would provide a ready and reliable market for all agricultural produce, no product would be left to spoil in the field. Those melons and onions and carrots that are left in South St. Elizabeth spoiling in the field would be taken up and carried to the complex; two, provide guaranteed price for farmers to produce. The farmers would have a guaranteed price...

Dr. DAVIES: Seasonally?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: No, a guaranteed price right through. If it is $20 a pound it is right through the year.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Hold on. Three, lessen the cost of produce to the consumer be eliminating the middleman. In other words, what happens, they buy the crops from the farmers at $100 a pound but when they reach the market they sell it at $200 a pound. So instead of doing that there is somebody who is the contract person who carries it from the district directly to the complex.

Government MEMBER: It sounds like socialism.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: It is a way of structuring the agricultural sector. It provides the traceability of produce from farm to fork; provides farmers with cheaper inputs; curtail praedial larceny, and that I would need to go into more details to show you how praedial larceny would be curtailed with that complex.

Dr. DAVIES: What this have to do with cheaper import?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: The cheaper import we have you call a PIP in the Ministry of Agriculture, instead of giving all and everybody a little money it goes to the farm store where the genuine farmers would come and purchase the fertilizers and seeds.

(Sotto voce remarks by Dr. Davies)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Eliminate glut or scarcity in the market. This is where it comes. When you eliminate the glut and scarcity - the Minister not listening - eliminate the fluctuation of prices to the consumer it provides a value-added centre for the commercial production of products, especially fruits and vegetables not utilized. We have plenty fruits and vegetables, plenty vegetables and fruits dropping off the trees now, and so we are going to collect all of those. Encouraging more entrants into agriculture, once they have a ready market you would have more farmers coming in, lessen the importation of agricultural produce, provide substitutes from feeder and fertilize - this is the by-products from the processing house and, of course, provide local food for the Breakfast Programme in Schools.

Mr. Speaker, an estimated cost in setting up this complex would be: grazing and packaging house $10 Million; processing house $15 Million; abattoir $20 Million; cold storage $30 Million; farm store $25 Million; drying house $10 Million; value-added centre $30 Million; meat housing $10 Million, a total of $160 Million. The funds to establish this complex could be taken from the allocation of the $640 Million which is set for drainage, roadways, packaging houses for 5,000 farmers and various so-called agro-parks. This agro-park would be the first to be established and this should be at Ebony Park. This would be strategically placed because of the logistics hub being planned in that section of the island. This would allow easy access for the exporting of goods from the centre. It would not be catering to the 500 farmers but to the 250,000 farmers island-wide (Applause) but mainly those in St. Elizabeth, Westmoreland, Manchester, Clarendon and St. Catherine as a first start. The second one now would be on the north coast or east.

(Sotto voce remarks)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: This is just what I said, Ebony Park close by.

Mr. Speaker, agriculture has been a failing enterprise over the years under this Minister.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: What is that?

Mr. HUTCHINSON: As I have indicated, the Minister has brought no vision, no direction and no new ideas to provide growth for this sector over the years.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: You are - who you are talking about, Tufton?

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Warmington)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: He has now brought half-baked solutions to one critical area in agriculture.

Dr. BAUGH: Jolly Roger.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Nothing else in his Budget Speech has given encouragement or hope to the 250,000 small farmers in this country. He has not touched the core of the problem of praedial larceny or expounded on ways for the marketing of crops.

Mr. Speaker, the Prime Minister needs to crack the whip on the Minister if agriculture is to grow in this country.

Mr. Speaker, we have shown we can increase the production of certain important crops by over 40% annually. Jamaica can be put on a growth path again but the structures and programmes need to be activated once more. Mr. Speaker, let us work together as a team for the upliftment of this pillar which is so vital for the development and growth of this country. Let agriculture become the cornerstone for growth, the fastest growing sector in the economy. It has been done in other countries, let us used it here in Jamaica. The farmers of Jamaica are yearning to get it done. Today I salute all the hardworking farmers of this country.

(Applause)

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Pickersgill)

Mr. CHARLES: Wake up, wake up, sleeper, sleeper.

Mr. DALLEY: The shirt a blind me.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Shut up your mouth over there!

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels)

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

The SPEAKER: Mr. Jackson.

Mr. JACKSON: Mr. Speaker, on the item, Report from Committees I noticed that the Chairman of the Economy and Production Committee is not in the House, but there is a matter before that Committee that was referred from the House and that Committee has not met for about over two months. I will be grateful, Mr. Speaker, if the House could be advised as to how soon that Committee will meet to deal with the matter of banking fees that is before that Committee. I will be so guided by you.

The SPEAKER: Well, with the absence of the Chairman of the Committee, I don't think we can achieve much right now.

Mr. JACKSON: Well, I will ask through you, Mr. Speaker that the House Leader could ascertain from the Chairman when that Committee will meet again? I raised it, Mr. Speaker, because I have failed to get some response from my own initiative on that matter. The final report from the Bank of Jamaica has been submitted two months ago and to my knowledge it has not - the Committee has not met in order for that work to continue which is of some urgency.

(MR. EDMUND CURTIS BARTLETT, CD, (JLP), St. James, East Central, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. SHARON FFOLKES-ABRAHAMS, (PNP), St. James, West Central, Minister of State in the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took her seat.)

The SPEAKER: I understand the urgency. We will follow up on the matter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

The SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. Holness.

Mr. HOLNESS: Mr. Speaker, at the expiration of twenty-one days I'd like to ask the Honourable Prime Minister the following questions:

Question 1:

Can the Prime Minister outline the Terms of Reference (TOR) of the proposed 6-member enterprise team?

Question 2:

Will the Prime Minister define the role of the Office of Utilities Regulation (OUR) going forward as it relates to the 381 Megawatt energy plant?

Question 3:

It has been stated in the sectoral presentation of the Energy Minister that the project is now under the Office of the Prime Minister; will the Prime Minister state whether the Energy Minister will have any oversight responsibility or involvement in the project?

Question 4:

Will the Prime Minister provide a status report on the process of revocation of the licence to Energy World International (EWI)?

Question 5:

Can the Prime Minister affirm that none of the individuals being considered as members of the enterprise team is connected in any way to any of the bidders?

PRESENTATION OF BILLS WITHOUT LEAVE OF THE HOUSE FIRST OBTAINED

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the Minister of Labour and Social Security I beg to move to introduce and have read a first time a Bill shortly entitled: "The Disabilities Act, 2014.

Bill shortly entitled:

"The Disabilities Act, 2014",

read a first time.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice of second reading of the Bill.

The SPEAKER: I noticed that a number of Members are cooling themselves. We are on the standby generator and when we are on that generator then the air conditioner is not in service. So as soon as we get back on to the JPS the matter will be resolved.

(Cross talk)

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, at Public Business

(Cross talk/the Speaker gavels)

Mr. Speaker, at Public Business we will be continuing the sectoral debate, first with a contribution from the Minister of National Security, followed by the contribution from the Member from West Rural St. Andrew.

The SPEAKER: Minister Bunting.

(Cross talk)

Mr. BUNTING: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Probably it is appropriate that when we are speaking on my portfolio that Parliament is as hot as it is today, because it is one that is a hot seat portfolio.

Mr. Speaker, let me start as is the tradition with some thanks and acknowledgements starting with the Prime Minister and you know, Mr. Speaker, the Prime Minister apart from thanking her for the confidence she continues to have in me in this portfolio, I hope you're recognizing the impact that she is having on the Cabinet when she starts every Cabinet with a devotion.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear! Right.

Mr. BUNTING: You now have Ministers calling for divine intervention (Laughter/Applause) and others like my colleague Minister from East Kingston and Port Royal who, in my constituency spoke about going down on his knees every night and pray. So clearly the Prime Minister is having a solitary impact on all the rest of us.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear! (Applause)

(MR. LLOYD BARNES SMITH, (PNP), St. James, Central, Deputy Speaker, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. THE HON. OMAR LLOYD DAVIES, (PNP) St. Andrew, Southern, Minister of Transport, Works and Housing, entered and took seat.)

(HON. RICHARD AZAN, (PNP), Clarendon, North Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. BUNTING: Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleague Cabinet Ministers, my family and loved ones. (Applause) I want to acknowledge the leadership of the Ministry essentially the Permanent Secretary and, of course, the Commissioners of Police and Corrections who are here this afternoon. (Applause)

I want to also recognize a delegation from the great constituency of Central Manchester.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Mr. BUNTING: I want to acknowledge the Mayor, the Councillors and my constituency team who work tirelessly to compensate some times during the periods when I've been General Secretary and Minister respectively. I want to acknowledge them. (Applause)

And, of course, Mr. Speaker, my personal staff, both professionally and those who serve in other capacities at home, et cetera, and allow us to be able to make the contribution that we do. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, a recent IDB discussion document describes Latin America and the Caribbean as - and I quote:

> "One of the most violent regions of the planet. Its average homicide rate in 2012 was 23.7 per 100,000 inhabitants, almost four times the global rate and more than twice the standard used by the World Health Organization to define an epidemic. And that standard is 10 homicides per 100,000".

Jamaica has consistently, certainly for the last two or three decades, ranked among the highest for homicide rates in the region and the world, peaking at 62 per 100,000 in 2009 and averaging approximately 40 per 100,000 more recently. This level places us at almost twice the regional average and four times the standard used by the World Health Organization to define an epidemic.

It is now generally recognized that violent crime has multiple contributing factors, which include the transnational drug and gun trade, street gangs, informal and inner-city communities with inadequate social services and weak economies. These contributing factors are not unique to Jamaica Mr. Speaker, however, other causes are less common across the region. Causes such as our historical nexus between politics and gangs and the promotion of criminal behaviour and the glorification of criminal lifestyles by certain leading elements in popular culture.

Successive administrations in Jamaica, like others in the region, have traditionally focused primarily on crime control measures, hard policing and tough talking.

> (HON. LUTHER BARTLEY MONTEITH BUCHANAN, (PNP), Westmoreland, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Office of the Prime Minister, entered and took his seat.)

While there has also been a recognition that crime prevention measures are necessary and there have been some long running social intervention programmes such as the CSJP, only a relatively modest amount of resources from the National Security budget have been allocated for such measures. Social interventions which impact violence prevention have also been taking place in other Ministries, Departments and Agencies and indeed in civil society, but have lacked effective overall coordination.

Today, Mr. Speaker, Jamaica has no choice but to develop new management and governance patterns for citizens' security, recognizing that violence has multiple causes and therefore, requires effectively coordinated responses from multiple sectors.

> (DR. THE HON. PETER DAVID PHILLIPS, (PNP), St. Andrew, East Central, Minister of Finance and Planning, entered and took his seat.)

International and local best practices indicate that (a) public safety policies that balance prevention and control actions have a greater crime reducing effect. And (b), that citizen participation and cooperation between the public and private sectors improve the effectiveness and sustainability of interventions. And when I say private sectors here I'm using private to include business, unions, NGOs, faith-based organizations.

Last October, the Ministry received approval from the Cabinet for the implementation of a revised National Crime Prevention and Community Safety Strategy.

(HON. DERRICK FLAVIUS KELLIER, (PNP), St. James Southern, Minister of Labour and Social Security, entered and took his seat.)

This strategy accepts that there are clear risk factors for crime and violence that impact our young people. Much of these risk factors develop outside of the realm of the Ministry of National Security and law enforcement, but, if not addressed, will result in increased violence and criminality. This strategy places responsibility for inter-ministerial coordination of crime prevention and community safety strategies with the Public Order Committee of Cabinet, which I chair, and the membership includes the Ministers of Health, Education, Justice, Youth and Culture, Local Government and Labour and Social Security.

Further Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of National Security has recently adopted the Public Health Framework to describe and analyze our crime situation, and specifically, that we are experiencing an epidemic of violence.

In many respects violence does behave like a contagious disease. The Minister of Health would tell you, for example, you have the same type of clustering of cases that you have with a contagious disease. And just as, for example, the greatest predictor of a case of flu might be coming into contact with somebody who is already infected with flu; similarly the greatest predictor of a case of violence is a previous case of violence.

But the good news Mr. Speaker is that there are three clear steps that are used to reverse epidemics. The first is to interrupt transmission by detecting and finding first cases. The second is to prevent future spread to others in the same group. And the third is to change group norms through remodeling and public education to build group immunity.

I will describe the initiatives of the Ministry, its departments and agencies within the framework of these three steps for the body of my presentation, and then I'll make a few concluding remarks.

Out of respect for the time constraints imposed by the House Leader and this Debate, I will not attempt to give a detail account of the performance and plans of the Ministry, because I'm tabling two separate Ministry Papers today, which will provide all the necessary background information. So I want to turn to the first step in reversing an epidemic, and that is interrupting transmission.

Traditional crime control measures have very much to do with the police detecting and isolating the perpetrators of violent crime, and they will continue to be the principal vehicle for interrupting transmission. We have implemented a number of measures that we believe will improve the effectiveness of the police. And I will speak to a few of those.

The first, of course, is the merger of the ISCF with the JCF. The approximately 2,000 members of the ISCF have been successfully incorporated into the JCF. (Applause) Members of this Honourable House may recall that the decision to merge these two Forces was based on recommendations from at least five separate studies over two decades. And these studies cited many benefits, including the creation of a single command and communication structure; eliminating duplication of administrative activities and facilities and releasing more personnel for front-line duties.

Mr. Speaker, today the merger is effectively complete and apart from a few hiccups along the way, I'm very pleased that within just two months of Cabinet approval, the merger has been effective. (Applause) Even private sector managers must be impressed at the speed and efficiency of the merger of these two large organizations. And I'm sure that Members of this Honourable House will join me in commending both the leadership and the men and women of the now single Police Force on this occasion. (Applause)

Consequent on the increased number of personnel in the JCF, as a result both of the incorporation of the ISCF members, as well as the aggressive recruitment in recent years, the Ministry will be approving a fourth portfolio within the JCF. The Security Services Portfolio, which will be headed by a Deputy Commissioner of Police. This unit will be responsible for VIP protection, including persons such as Government Officials, Judges and Diplomats, as well as securing critical facilities such as Parliament, King's House, Jamaica House, the Courts, Ports and Airports and other critical infrastructure, including, for example, facilities to do with the Logistics Hub. (Applause) It will also incorporate the Marine and Canine Divisions.

The other measure that I want to turn to now, Mr. Speaker is an emphasis on proximity policing. And this is really a subset of community policing.

A more effective method of building a relationship of trust and confidence between the police and the citizenry is to locate the police within communities, and as much as possible to encourage stability in deployments to stations or posts so that the police personnel and community residents get to know each other well. This is an effort to move proximity or community policing into the mainstream of JCF operations. Accompanying this shift will also be a reduction in the use of the paramilitary style uniform in favour of the more civilian style red-seam or khaki uniform. We intend to increase the number of police posts throughout Jamaica by (a), utilizing mobile or modified 40-foot container posts; (b) repurposing existing public infrastructure at the request and agreement of communities such as the RADA Office in Maroon Town or the former residence for the Nurse in Race Course in Clarendon.

And finally, we intend to increase this by encouraging large developers, or should I say developers of large subdivisions to build police posts within these divisions such as we saw at Irwin Meadows in St. James recently.

Mr. Speaker, we also want to increase the Cadre of Civilian First Responders. Evidence from the work of our local Peace management Initiative, as well as from overseas groups like Cure Violence has demonstrated that trained civilians can be very effective violence interrupters within communities.

(Applause)

We will expand training and funding of this type of work during the fiscal year.

And finally on the interrupting transmission measures, Mr. Speaker, you know that we have worked hard to pass the Criminal Justice (Suppression of Criminal Organizations) Act, 2014. This recently enacted piece of legislation popularly referred to as the Anti-Gang Law has created a new set of conspiracy type offences intended to deal specifically with criminal organizations. Heavy penalties will be incurred by the directing minds of these organizations for offences such as leading the criminal organization or recruiting children or adults to their gangs. Serious offences have also been created to deal with persons who facilitate the activities of criminal organizations. A great deal of research and consultation went into the development of this law which is now in effect. (Applause) The police has been training and sensitizing members to use this potentially powerful tool in the fight against organized crime.

I want to turn now Mr. Speaker to the second step in combating this epidemic of violence and that step is preventing future spread. The second step in combating an epidemic is preventing future spread to others in the group who are vulnerable to the specific disease condition, in this case, it would involve supporting persons who might be vulnerable to criminal involvement through:

1. Labour market attachment and employability programme.

(DR. THE HON. KENNETH WYKEHAM MCNEILL, (PNP), Westmoreland, Western, Minister of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

2. Increasing access to justice services outside of the formal court system, and;
3. Reforming the Department of Correctional Services to focus on the rehabilitation of offenders, particularly juveniles and soon to be released adults.

(DR. KENNETH O'NEIL BAUGH, St. Catherine, West Central, entered and took his seat.)

Funding for the first two initiatives is currently in the final stages of negotiation with the Inter-American Development Bank through the Citizens Security and Justice Three Programme.

We intend to develop comprehensive programmes for selected youth tailored by job readiness. The programme will include classroom and workplace training, life skills, job preparation and placement services, remedial and formal education programmes among others. And what we mean when we say by job readiness levels is that those who are in the lower job readiness group they will receive remedial education, particularly the literacy and numeracy skills which will really allow them to participate in more advanced vocational training and secondary school.

The Intermediate Job Readiness Group will receive services such as on-the-job training, and work orientation similarly to the apprenticeship programme which we ran in the JDF Engineering Regiment. Summer employment internships, secondary education support, but this time and the Minister of Education might be interested to know, this time we will not just give scholarship to students but we will require them to do 120 hours of community service during the summer holidays.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Give back something.

Mr. BUNTING: Give back something, correct. And they will also get business development training.

(MISS OLIVIA ATAVIA GRANGE, (JLP), St. Catherine, Central, entered and took her seat.)

And finally, Mr. Speaker, the higher job readiness group or the final group, the higher job readiness group will receive services such as short term vocational and on-the-job training, job seeking placement and retention support and business development training.

The second programme I want to speak with is the community justice services component; this will be managed primarily out of the Ministry of Justice. It will increase access to justice services outside of the formal court system following - where is the Minister of Industry and Commerce - following evidence-based models. (Applause)

(MR. AUDLEY FITZ ALBERT SHAW, (JLP), Manchester, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

First, the Restorative Justice or RJ Programme which was initiated in ten communities during CSJP II which was expanded in order to bring eligible cases to resolution in target communities. Restorative Justice is motivated primarily by the need to address harm done, it does not take place until the person who has caused the harm has fully and freely admitted to their actions, and is willing to take responsibility for them.

The second programme, very important programme, will be a Child Diversion Programme implemented through a multi-tiered system for steering juveniles in conflict with the law away from criminal charges. (Applause) And not just away from criminal charges but also away from prosecution and/or incarceration and providing them instead with structured community service task and a support committee.

And third, the supply of legal-aid, mediation and victim support services will be increased in targeted communities. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the CSJP II Programme is now drawing to a close. It has supported a number of programmes for at risk youths in 50 communities across 8 parishes. A recent evaluation of the programme shows that the CSJP II has met and in many cases exceeded the performance targets. Over 6,000 persons when compared to the targeted - originally targeted 3,500 benefitted from programmes in life skills, vocational skills, training and tuition support.

Under the JDF Engineering Regiment on-the-Job Training Programme, some 450 youths received training in construction skills, several of them have since joined the JDF and others have found employment locally and overseas. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want to turn to the reform of the Department of Correctional Services. The three principal correctional facilities; Tower Street, St. Catherine and Fort Agusta are centuries old institutions that are literally falling apart and have very limited scope for rehabilitation of inmates. While it has been recognized for decades that a new facility is needed, at the policy level we have been reluctant to prioritize the large capital expenditures and when I say large Mr. Speaker the estimates we have seen run from US$150 Million to US$250 Million for a new facility. And you can understand that there has been reluctance to prioritize the large capital expenditures required to replace these facilities. Further, the truth is there is little popular sympathy for the inmates being housed in these conditions.

This Honourable House may be surprised to learn that 70 per cent of the persons sent to the correctional system last year are for sentences of one year or less, and that is typical of recent years.

Further, that 28 per cent of that intake of the total are repeat offenders, so our correctional institutions are not filled primarily with hardened murderers and rapists, but with young men who are convicted of less serious offences and who are and should be redeemable. However, under our present system many of these young men are incarcerated with hardened criminals, given limited opportunities for rehabilitation and are confined to cells with no modern sanitary conveniences for 18 hours per day. Once released they are stigmatized and relegated to the backwater of the economy, unable to get a visa or to be employed in the public sector, or most private sector entities.

We should therefore not be surprised that many of these persons see no option but to return to a criminal lifestyle reflected in 28 per cent recidivism rate in the 2013 year.

The Minister of Justice is doing some work to reduce the range of offences that create a criminal record. (Applause) And also to reduce the period of time for expunging records, however, we need to do more. No one is born a criminal, Mr. Speaker, and while individuals cannot escape personal responsibility, we recognize that many factors contribute to young persons coming into conflict with law enforcement.

Enlightened societies recognize that a first offence can be an opportunity to rehabilitate offenders to return to society as productive members. This Administration subscribes to that enlightened approach to dealing with persons who come into conflict with the law. (Applause) Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we are currently completing with input from the UK prison estate consultant, a 5 year strategic plan to transform the Correctional Services with the principal objectives of strengthening the systems of rehabilitation, reducing reoffering and complying with International Human Right Standards. (Applause)

And let me say, Mr. Speaker, we are very fortunate to have persuaded Commissioner Jevene Bent to postpone her retirement and to take on this task of reform. (Applause)

There is a special touch, a special care, particularly for the wards, but indeed, for all the clients in the system that, a woman takes on when they go in those roles. And I think we are going to see the benefit of her incumbency in a very short time. (Applause)

Key elements of the new plan are summarized as follows: In the short term in next 12 months, the South Camp facility has been renovated, retrofitted and designated a Juvenile Correctional and Remand Centre. The Centre has been operational since September 2013 and all of the female juveniles previously located at the Fort Augusta Adult Correctional Centre were transferred to this location. Additionally, members of the female population, the juvenile female population at Diamond Crest were also transferred to South Camp. (Applause) By consolidating them in one location, Mr. Speaker, including those who had previously been at Horizon, we are now able to offer a wider arrange of services in better facilities more appropriate for them and especially in terms of the range of subjects that they can be educated on.

But, Mr. Speaker, while this is an improvement on previous arrangements, it is still far from ideal; therefore, the Ministry of National Security is seeking a smaller, more child-friendly location for the juvenile population and to use the South Camp to house the population of 153 women currently at Fort Augusta. By various initiatives, we have reduced the number of female juveniles from close to 100 to now it fluctuates between 30 and 50 and so we don't... (Applause) So we certainly don't need the capacity at South Camp which is almost ten times the size we need. And Mr. Speaker I hope I have had some encouraging initial discussions with the Minister of Education, that we may be able to utilize one of those schools where the enrollment has fallen dramatically over time that we may be able to repurpose one of those facilities to be used in a more child-friendly environment for the female juveniles currently at South Camp. (Applause)

The SPEAKER: The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, I now ask that the Minister's time be extended to allow him sufficient time to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: Before I put the motion, let me just take this opportunity to welcome to our Parliament a delegation from the Namibian Parliament, who are visiting with us this week.

(Applause)

The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficient for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister.

(Applause)

Mr. BUNTING: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I want to point out here that while we have a completely segregated system, in terms of the separation of juveniles from adults, there are still four boys who are held on remand in a completely segregated area of Horizon. It had been my hope that we could have de-gazetted Horizon as a juvenile institution.

However Mr. Speaker, on the advice of the Commissioner of Corrections, it is felt that it is necessary to continue operating this segregated area at Horizon for juvenile boys who are near eighteen, and who represent a high level of risk to the other wards, were they to be kept at Metcalf Street. And in fact, we have had experiences, and the truth is that these boys are in for very serious offences, in some cases multiple murders. And some of them even attempted to start a fire - or not attempted, they started a fire at Metcalf Street. And in our judgement it was the best option under the circumstances, to separate them from the other wards at Metcalf and to keep them.

We continue to provide educational support to them at Horizon. More generally Mr. Speaker, last year Boards of visitors were established for all of our juvenile correctional institutions to provide another level of oversight of the operations of the DCS, in respect of juvenile facilities. The members of these Boards are empowered to visit the juvenile centres, to observe and make recommendations for the safety and general wellbeing of children in the facilities. These Boards add to the oversight and collaboration already provided by the Office of the Children's Advocate and the Ministry of Youth and Culture.

And I would say Mr. Speaker, if we are concerned with things like the Beijing Rules and the Standard Minimum Rules for the treatment of prisoners, our juveniles under detention are kept separate from adults and shall be detained always either in a separate institution or in a separate part of an institution that also holds adults.

And you should know Mr. Speaker that the Beijing Rules and the Standard Minimum Rules for the treatment of prisoners, are both international instruments that are UN issued. They provide for the ideal situations but recognize that different countries will have different levels of implementation because of varying degrees of social, economic and cultural practices.

In Jamaica, our tight fiscal space has us doing segregation within an adult facility for just these four boys at this time, as an interim measure, while striving for the long-term goal of a separate facility for those hard-to-contain juveniles who are charged for serious offences.

Mr. Speaker I spoke earlier to the fact that most of our inmates are short-term. We are introducing a new behavior-modification programme in June of this year, within our correctional institutions, designed specifically for short-stay inmates, in order to ensure that all who pass through the correctional system will be exposed to some amount of rehabilitation before reentering society.

The Department of Correctional Services recently completed the establishment of a data system to facilitate the operation of the Sex Offender Registry. During the first quarter of this fiscal year, a meeting will be held to sensitize the stakeholders, including the Courts, DCS and the JCF, about their roles and responsibilities.

And finally Mr. Speaker, in an effort to reduce the overcrowding in the prison population, the use of parole is being accelerated. We are also addressing the issue of high-risk deportees, and we have increased the capacity of the JCF to monitor these high-risk deportees.

In the medium-term Mr. Speaker we will expand the facilities at Tamarind Farm and Richmond, so that the high number of medium-security inmates at both Tower Street and St. Catherine Adult Correctional Centres, can be moved to corresponding medium-security facilities and reduce overcrowding at these two maximum-security facilities.

We are also embarking on a systematic and ongoing reclassification of inmates, designed to ensure that as far as possible maximum-security facilities are used to hold maximum-security inmates, only.

(Applause)

In the longer term, three to five years, we intend to build a new but smaller than originally anticipated maximum-security facility. Potential sites have been identified and plans are being developed for the construction of a new facility to replace these two older facilities. A full submission will be made to Cabinet during the second quarter of the financial year.

And, before leaving the DCS, Mr. Speaker - and I don't mind spending some time because we usually don't touch - Ministers of National Security don't spend much time on the Department of Correctional Services. I want to touch on a final area and that is to do with the situation of inmates in our correctional facilities who are suffering from severe mental disorders. We are currently addressing this. There is about 260 of these inmates. We are currently addressing it through a collaborative effort with the Ministries of Justice and of Health.

At the end of this process we hope to have most of these inmates placed in more appropriate therapeutic settings. This approach will be managed through a Release Programme, coordinated by the Community Mental Health Programme of the Ministry of Health.

And now to turn to the third and final step in reversing an epidemic. The long-term success of efforts to reverse any epidemic will ultimately be sustained through changing attitudes and behaviours of the vulnerable populations. So, for example, to combat an epidemic of a sexually-transmitted disease, at-risk populations need to be educated to change their attitudes and behaviours around issues of promiscuity and unprotected sex. Similarly, to sustainably reverse the epidemic of violence, we have to change the attitudes and behaviours around violence-related risks and causal factors.

In Jamaica we have developed a sub-culture of violence and lawlessness that has been reinforced and promoted by segments in our society over decades. Causal factors include, Mr. Speaker, weak family structures. We have single parents; we have children who suffer from paternal deprivation - no father in their lives. We have child neglect and abuse. We unfortunately have had over time some schools that have failed to educate or that haven't adequately been able to deal with children with behavioural problems.

We have had inadequate physical infrastructure and social services in many inner-city as well as other unplanned communities. We have communities that operate under the heel of criminal gangs, and over time have had to endure or tolerate their children being slaughtered as so much collateral damage, to gang warfare.

The connection between elements of both political parties and criminal gangs and dons, historically, is another causal factor. Criminals would support party candidates and were often rewarded with worse, contracts. Hopefully, Mr. Speaker, the worst days of this criminal-gang politics nexus are now behind us...

(Applause)

….but we must acknowledge the history.

Another causal factor is the glorification of criminal behaviour by some of our artistes who use their considerable talents to advocate hatred and violence, to denigrate our women...

(Applause)

….and warp the values of our children...

(Applause)

….and to elevate gun violence.

It is instructive Mr. Speaker that two of our most iconic artistes are now convicted felons, serving lengthy prison sentences in the USA and Jamaica, respectively.

Another causal factor Mr. Speaker is the unfortunate scourge of domestic violence that cause spouses and children to live in fear, and a high number of murders and murder/suicide that have their roots in domestic disputes.

Mr. Speaker - and I know the Prime Minister is very, very sensitive to this one, and that is the sexual predators who continue to prey on our under-aged children, and those family members, neighbours or teachers who turn a blind eye and a deaf ear to these activities.

Mr. Speaker, there is plenty of blame to go around. Doing the same thing over and over again but expecting different results is one definition of madness. It is time to change the norms, to change how we have been operating if we are to make headway in combating this epidemic of violence.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I deliberately was not coming here today to talk a lot.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. BUNTING: The Member from North Central St. Andrew is asking if the temperature in the Chamber is intended to make Members appreciate what being in a prison cell is like.

(Laughter)

I am not sure that was deliberate.

But, Mr. Speaker, I really wasn't coming here today to talk about crime statistics, whether they are marginally up or marginally down. Because that's not really significant when we have been experiencing for a very long time, an epidemic of at least four-fold proportion.

I am not coming here today to blame or point fingers, or to say how things could have been done better. But since the Old Lady of North Street, published on her front page today the statistics, I think it is important - they just gave the raw numbers but I think it would have been better journalism and a better service if they had put it in context. Rather than just saying "between January first and May tenth this year, there were 353 murders," they could have said that this is down eight per cent on the same period last year. And in fact, if we go back five years, it is down 44 per cent over that period of time.

(Applause)

Shootings are flat, year-on-year. But again, if you look at the trend over a five-year period, shootings will be down 36 per cent. In fact, serious and violent crimes, 2014 versus 2013 are down 11 per cent, and over the five-year period, are down 33 per cent collectively. And, Mr. Speaker, similarly we could look at acquisitory crimes down 14 per cent, year-on-year, and down thirty-plus per cent if we look over a five-year period.

But the truth of the matter, Mr. Speaker, as I have said before, a marginal increase or decrease one way or the other, year-to-year, is really not going to be significant when we have such a huge problem. So, what I want to do today is to point out what we are doing in the area of changing the norms to commend the good work that others are doing, and to invite likeminded individuals and other organizations to join in this crusade.

And when we talk about changing the norms, Mr. Speaker, we have to start at home, and we have to start, more specifically, in the Jamaica Constabulary Force. I want to speak to a number of things that we are doing to change norms; to change the way the police relate to communities.

The first initiative, or the first measure we are working on very, very assiduously, is to minimize the use of force. We are building a police force that must be seen by the society as committed to serving, protecting and reassuring, while maintaining a high level of professionalism. Measures we have introduced, such as planning operations to minimize the risk of fatal confrontations, reinforcing the use of force policy; broadcasting, even to criminals, that they will not be harmed if they surrender and drop their weapons, implementing protocols to strengthen the independent investigation of police fatal shootings are all designed to produce a police service that is equipped and trained to deliver 21st century policing. Police personnel must operate in communities as peace officers, protecting and reassuring the law-abiding... (Applause) ...interrupting and preventing the transmission of crime and violence, and partnering with communities to rebuild respect for law and order.

(Malfunctioning of microphone)

Mr. Speaker, I am cautiously optimistic that these efforts are starting to bear fruit, and one clear indicator of this is in the reduced incidence of police fatal shootings. The data indicates...

(Malfunctioning of microphone)

(Applause)

….that there has been an approximately 40 per cent reduction in the number of police fatal shooting, year-to-date when compared with the same period last year. Mr. Speaker, this is not an insignificant reduction, and I know that the Commissioner and his team are working very hard to ensure that we, not only maintain that, but we improve on it.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, upon my appointment as Minister, I inherited an approach where curfews were utilized liberally in dozens of communities. Mr. Speaker, this is something that I have gotten complaints from. The Member from Central Westmoreland, I recall, and other MPs have been concerned. Member from Eastern St. Andrew and I had a community meeting where this was raised as a very serious issue. I have been uncomfortable with that approach because firstly, Mr. Speaker, I believe that citizens' rights must only be constrained in exceptional circumstances, and for the shortest possible time. (Applause)

And secondly, from a more pragmatic approach, curfews become ineffective when they are overused as the police cannot enforce it consistently in multiple communities. And when they enforce it occasionally, their behavior is interpreted as being arbitrary and capricious by the communities. So we have changed that approach Mr. Speaker and now curfews are used very sparingly and for the shortest possible time. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, you will recall that the police can only impose curfews with the permission of the Minister.

Mr. Speaker, I want to turn now to an area where anti-corruption advocates have been very active and very vocal, and that is the idea of impunity, and that there are so many corrupt people and criminal elements, both in the public and private sectors, who year after year, decade after decade, continue to operate with impunity.

Two units within the JCF, the Anti Corruption Branch and the Major Organized Crime and Anti Corruption Task Force, MOCA, were established specifically to treat with corruption, both within the force and in the wider society. We continue to detain a significant amount of assets and have redoubled our efforts in the assault on lottery scamming.

The Reports indicate a number of arrests, a number of charges, and a number of convictions of a wide range of persons previously thought to enjoy some levels of immunity in the society; whether they be lawyers, police officers, motor vehicle examiners, doctors, politicians, popular entertainers. The work of these units is indicative of the efforts we are making as an administration to reduce corruption in our country. No longer can any individual or group feel confident that they can operate with impunity by virtue of power, position, or popularity.

Mr. Speaker, I want to turn now to the Unite for Change Programme.

Government MEMBERS: Good programme; good programme.

(Applause)

Mr. BUNTING: While we continue to interrupt the transmission of crime through our crime control initiatives, we are placing increased emphasis on crime prevention by addressing dysfunction at the levels of family, community, school, social services and society, recognizing, Mr. Speaker, that crime statistics are the outcomes of failures, or weaknesses, at all these levels. Sustainable reductions in crime and violence require a deliberate and focused strategy which coordinates law enforcement, justice and social development programmes at the national, community and individual levels to address the causal factors and prevent future spread.

We must, Mr. Speaker, first educate our citizens on the root causes of this epidemic of violence. Secondly, we must find a way to ignite their passion, energies and commitment to reverse the epidemic.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. BUNTING: And finally, we must create pathways to help people move from concern about the problem of violence to action against the problem. (Applause) This is what the Unite for Change initiative is about. Unite for Change will facilitate the national coordination of all violence prevention interventions within Government and across all sectors of society in a targeted approach, driven primarily through communities and supported by a national communications campaign.

The strategic objectives of the Unite for Change are sustained reductions in violence and crime, and perhaps almost as important Mr. Speaker, is sustained reduction in the fear of crime and related risk factors. We want a reorientation of our citizens away from a culture of violence and antisocial behavior and attitudes. We want to get enhanced collective efficacy of residence of priority communities, and their increased participation in the co-production of community safety. It is a little bit of citizen security jargon. (Laughs) But essentially, we want communities empowered to participate in planning of their own - planning and implementing programme to improve their own safety.

Critical to these outcomes Mr. Speaker, are increased volunteerism within the wider society to support violence prevention activities, things like increased support and mentorship for at-risk youth, increased private sector NGO/FBO intervention in under-served communities, increased partnerships between the public and private sectors in support of community change. And finally, increased collaboration between ministries, departments, and agencies in support of crime prevention action.

(Applause by Government Members)

The work of Unite for Change is organized in three broad areas: communication, coordination, and measurement. Through targeted public education and engagement Unite for Change will empower concerned citizens to act. The Communications Programme will also encourage pro-social behaviours and attitudes. One component of CSJP III currently being negotiated will be directly aligned with the UFC's Communications Programme and will address culture change through social intervention, including social marketing campaigns that aim to change attitudes that either promote violence or promote retaliation against informers.

In the coordination area, Unite for Change will prioritize and better target use of resources currently available for violence prevention and community safety.

And finally, again with an emphasis on the evidence base, Unite for Change will have a rigorous monitoring and evaluation programme to eliminate overlap of spending to facilitate optimal resource allocation and, where applicable, recommends the redirection of resources to underserved areas.

Mr. Speaker, we have had a tremendous amount of Unite for Change activities over the last few months. We started at the end of the year coming into the beginning of this year with 23 one-day corner league football competitions in various communities across Jamaica. We have negotiated with the World Bank access to a collaboration portal to facilitate communications among individuals and groups interested in working in violence prevention. This should be launched in June this year.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker we have engaged partner ministries, agencies and departments. The Ministry of Education indicated their early support in a Ministry Paper in February, and has since formed a committee to look at behaviour modifications in schools with a view to developing a programmatic response. And that's in partnership with the Ministries of Health, National Security and Youth and Culture.

We have held Unite for Change community meetings in a number of towns across Jamaica. We have partnered with PALS and the JCF Safe Schools Programme to target youth beginning with a Peace Day Concert in Emancipation Park and followed by a tour of 12 schools across the island. The schools were engaged for direct intervention via motivational talks with Grades 8 and 9 students where a Unite for Change School Pledge was introduced and the entire school engaged in a Unite for Change discussion and lunchtime concert.

Mr. Speaker, we have had peace marches in at least nine communities in East Kingston, in Central Kingston, in West Kingston, in Old Harbour, in Spanish Town, in August Town, in South West St. Andrew. We continue our mass media engagement with billboards, television and radio ads, interviews and special features. Importantly, we have trained 20 communications managers within the public service as Unite for Change spokespersons.

Mr. Speaker, we really intend that there is a place in the Unite for Change Programme for every citizen of goodwill. Members of this Honourable House have a particularly important place in the programme as leaders, as political leaders in the country. You too can unite for change.

Today I present an opportunity for Members to commit to being a part of the change. Each Member of Parliament will be presented a Unite for Change start-up kit with collateral material and an opportunity to test the data version of the Stay Alert smart phone application. (Applause)

Members might recall, Mr. Speaker, that the Stay Alert App will be launched in the first quarter of this fiscal year. It will enable android smart phone users to report crimes or send information to the police by text, voice note, photograph or video and all anonymously. It will also feature alerts from the police, including Ananda Alert as well as information on new laws enacted.

Mr. Speaker, an important feature of this new application is a panic button that will allow users to send a distress signal to Police Control, and it not only sends the distress message but it also, because they have GPS and tracking capabilities, it allows for the police to respond directly to the location. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, this will increase the efficiency of police response particularly in communities that are not formal and may not have street names and street numbers, but Police Control can use the GPS coordinates overlaid on a Google type map and direct the response team exactly to where they need to go.

So Mr. Speaker in conclusion, there are a number of entities for which I have portfolio responsibility such as the Firearms Licensing Authority, the Forensic Lab, or the Passport Immigration and Citizenship Agency, or for which my Ministry has administrative responsibility such as the Jamaica Defence Force. These entities are doing well and their performance will be outlined separately as opportunities arise during the course of the financial year.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Shaw)

Miss HANNA: Why you don't keep quiet?

Mr. SHAW: He would have to unite for change down there.

Mr. BUNTING: I think what you need...

Mr. DALLEY: (Valerie) will take care of you.

Mr. BUNTING: I think what you need to share with the House, as my political neighbour from North East Manchester, is that we have already united for change, you and I.

Mr. ATKINSON: To change him.

Mr. BUNTING: Mr. Speaker, the path we are embarking upon is not one that will give a quick fix or earn kudos within an election cycle, but I am convinced that it is the correct one. It is based on the premise that law enforcement activities by themselves do not provide an adequate response to the problem. Sustainable reductions in crime and violence will therefore require a deliberate and focused strategy that articulates various law enforcement, justice and social development programmes at the national, community and individual levels, all addressing the causal factors.

Mr. Speaker, sometimes the task seems overwhelming. When faced with corruption, heinous murders and child abuse, it may seem that we wrestle not against flesh and blood, and we might be tempted to surrender to cynicism and resignation. But earlier this year, Mr. Speaker, I listened to a sermon on the story of Nehemiah, and I have been able to draw parallels as well as inspiration from it. Mr. Speaker, the book of Nehemiah describes the City of Jerusalem that had been destroyed by war, the walls were reduced to rubble and the gates had been burnt, their enemies could do with them as they like. Nehemiah, part of the Jewish diaspora, he was then the cupbearer of the King of Persia, upon hearing of the state of Jerusalem was sad and ashamed.

Mr. Speaker, Jamaica too has suffered from a war, a long running war, not from external enemies but from internal conflicts and from predatory criminals. Our figurative wall comprised of decency, healthy values and respect for the law and each other has been reduced to rubble. Many Jamaicans at home and in the diaspora are often saddened and ashamed by the violent and predatory behaviour of some of our fellow citizens.

But, Mr. Speaker, returning to Nehemiah, he returned to Jerusalem and inspired the people to rebuild the wall. Often - and this is very important, often directing them to start with that section of the wall in front of their own house.

Rev. THWAITES: Start with what you have.

Mr. BUNTING: We too can start rebuilding the wall of peace, decency and respect for the rule of law. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, we can start within our own area of influence, the wall in front of our house. Sanballat, Tobiah and Geshem were characters in the story who ridiculed, threatened and plotted to undermine the efforts at rebuilding the wall. Sanballat, Tobiah and Geshem, they had an interest in a vulnerable Jerusalem.

Mr. Speaker, we also have our share of Sanballat, quick to ridicule and undermine the efforts of those trying to build; but Nehemiah and the Jews persisted, Mr. Speaker, the wall and the gates of Jerusalem were rebuilt, (Applause) many exiled Jews returned, the City of Jerusalem regained its pride and prospered.

Mr. Speaker, I do believe that if we can reverse this epidemic of violence, if we can steadfastly rebuild a safe, gentle, respectful society that Jamaica, too, can prosper. (Applause) Some in the diaspora may even return home, but certainly fewer of our people will have to migrate seeking a better quality of life. (Applause)

(THE MOST HON. PORTIA LUCRETIA SIMPSON MILLER, ON, (PNP), St. Andrew, South Western, Prime Minister and Minister of Defence, entered and took her seat.)

Finally Mr. Speaker, I wish to acknowledge some who are busy rebuilding. When you have a primary school principal like Mr. Grant at Bellfield Primary in Manchester...

Mr. SAMUDA: In Central Manchester.

Mr. BUNTING: ...in Central Manchester, who can, in four years, move Grade 4 Mastery from 44% to 79% in Mathematics (Applause) and 66% to 92% iin English, while increasing enrollment from 400 to 600 and not suspending or expelling a single child. He is rebuilding the wall in front of his own house. (Applause)

When Principal Corrine Richards transformed Kingston High School from a run-down physical plant with less than 20% of Grade 11 students sitting CSEC Exams to a renovated facility where 100% of final year students now sit exams; she is rebuilding the wall in front of her house. (Applause)

When retired corporate executives like Douglas Orane and Danny Williams dedicate their retirement to giving back to their alma maters they are rebuilding the wall in front of their own house. (Applause)

When the Grace and Staff Foundation adopt inner-city communities providing scholarships, mentorship and homework centres for at-risk children they are rebuilding the wall in front of their own house. (Applause)

When WIHCON not only build houses at Irwin Meadows but also donate a police post there they are building a community. They are rebuilding the wall. (Applause)

When Bishop Rowan Edwards takes on the gang culture in Spanish Town with his 10,000-man march, and when you combine that with SSP Castelle's policing from the heart resulting in dramatic reductions in violence in De La Vega City, Ellerslie Pen, Tawes Meadows, Gravel Heights and Tredegar Park, they are rebuilding the wall in front of their house. (Applause)

When President of the Jamaica Union of the Seventh-day Adventist, Pastor Everett Brown, at a peace march and youth rally in Old Harbour pledges the support of over 3,000 Adventist youth to be Unite for Change agents of hope and change, he is rebuilding the wall. (Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Redman, you gwine rebuild the wall down a St. Elizabeth?

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You and Andrew rebuild your wall first. (Laughter)

Mr. BUNTING: When Members of Parliament such as the young Member from East Rural St. Andrew when he can mobilize youth in Bedward Gardens to volunteer their labour to replace zinc fences with concrete walls at a quarter of the price it would otherwise cost, they are literally rebuilding the wall in front of their own house. (Applause) When I marched two Sundays ago with the Member from Eastern St. Andrew...

Mr. PARCHMENT: Good Member

Mr. BUNTING: ...along with hundreds of residents in August Town for three hours across all the communities with peace advocates like Ken Wilson and Michael Rutherford who have worked for so many years with pastors, with UWI academics, with the MP and with so many others to bring August Town from what was known as a war zone to the point where they have not had a single murder so far this year. They are rebuilding the wall. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Jamaica needs more of these home grown Nehemiahs to unite for change, to unite to rebuild our wall of peace and caring so that Jamaica may, under God increase in beauty, fellowship and prosperity.

I thank you Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

(Cross talk/The Speaker gavels)

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS
(Recommitted)

Mr. ROBINSON: Mr. Speaker, Members of this Honourable House would be aware of the recent move by the Jamaica Public Service to disconnect electricity to communities where 70 per cent of customers are non-paying and the subsequent public outcry accompanying these actions. In the absence of Minister Paulwell who is away on government business, I convened a meeting with JPS today with a view to resolving the issue. In clear and precise language I indicated to JPS that this practice is unfair and unjust. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Mr. ROBINSON: It is unfair and unjust, because it penalizes legitimate customers simply because they live or work in communities where the majority are non-paying residents. While we acknowledge the dangers and the consequences associated with electricity theft and the drive to rid the country of this scourge, it cannot be, Mr. Speaker, a case where the good has to suffer for the bad.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Mr. ROBINSON: This action by the JPS is not just affecting non-paying customers. It impacts schools, essential services as well as private sector enterprises. In the meeting this morning, I proposed to JPS that they examine alternative measures as the one being pursued is unacceptable.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. ROBINSON: Notwithstanding my call for an immediate cessation of this case, the JPS indicated that they will continue this practice until the end of this week at which time they intend to conduct a review.

A MEMBER: What!

Mr. ROBINSON: As a 20 per cent shareholder in the JPS the Government of Jamaica is determined to pursue all possible options and avenues to ensure that this practice is discontinued.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Mr. ROBINSON: The Government remains committed to continuing the dialogue with JPS to reduce electricity theft and to bring equilibrium to our electricity sector.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause) (Cross talk)

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, this clearly illustrates the level of paralysis that exists at the level of the political directorate in this regard, because when a company in which we have 20 per cent can simply say we are not going to do anything and we will allow it to continue as originally planned, I think that's a matter that must be taken up at the highest level. If ever there was something that the Prime Minister should take hold of is that.

Opposition MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. SAMUDA: As the guardian of that 20 per cent that we own in that company, what I would like to ask the Minister is, when you say positive options what - just make the note for me what do you mean by positive options...

Mr. ROBINSON: Possible actions.

Mr. SAMUDA: ...or possible actions? I really am not sure, and you could illustrate what you really mean, but, Mr. Speaker, it is obvious and we all can sympathize with the state of JPS in terms illegal connections. But it cannot be that you break the law to satisfy a breach. That's going in the wrong direction (Applause) and what is worse is that within each community there are little micro businesses operating - sole proprietorships (Applause) and for eight hours during the day they will not be able to function efficiently, if at all?

Mr. SHAW: Schools too.

Mr. SAMUDA: Now, I don't know but surely they must be looking at their legal options because I think the JPS has exposed itself to possible lawsuits that are going to be horrific, and as far as I am concerned I support everybody who take out a lawsuit against the company for this kind of inconvenience loss. Now, it is not even going to do any good, Mr. Speaker, with respect Minister, because in my opinion if I knew that my light was going to be off from eight to whenever, I would simply do all the work I had to do at night and consume twice the amount that I would consume during the day, so if I gwine wash with a electric washer I would use it at night whereas before I wouldn't.

Mr. SHAW: Is an illegal washer yuh talking about?

Mr. SAMUDA: No illegal - if they are illegal, right, and you gwine to lock it off and what is going to happen is the washer is legal is the people who don't pay that is illegal. So all they do is to shift their hours of use and their pattern of use to satisfy the condition under which they find themselves. So it's a futile effort in my humble opinion. So, Minister, you have to - I would suggest to the Company, Mr. Speaker, and to the Minister that you seek to have convened a meeting of the Company not just for the Government but with the entire representation in Parliament. Let them explain in detail and let us collectively see what it is that we can do to assist the Company to survive; that's number one.

Number two, they have before the OUR now a request for what I believe they call a community rate that is to be fixed within defined areas. The level of the rate that will be charged is something that is being assessed by the OUR. I would humbly submit Minister that you impose yourself on that process by going to the Company and trying to use your best efforts to get them to consider the lowest possible rate that would make it viable, so that the poor people in poor communities can survive legitimately. (Applause) They are doing these illegal things not because they want to but because they can't help it because they can't afford it. (Applause)

The electricity is too high and that's why publicly, privately and otherwise, we support the efforts to get the rate of electricity down. And that's is, why, Prime Minister you need to act quickly to bring a solution to this challenge that now confronts us with the construction of the 381Megawatt plant, so that we can get on with the job within a reasonable timeframe of getting that plant up and running, and anything below 30 per cent reduction is not going to have any meaningful impact; not going to have any meaningful.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. SAMUDA: So we must pursue the best option, the lowest price and we must insist that that price is on or around the level of the lowest price that was presented to the country more recently. Anything above that would put us into a position where we are now not going to enjoy the kind of reduction that will make a difference, but what is necessary is immediate action. So Prime Minister, we have heard what4s decision was; we're not fully clear on its full implications; we are not quite sure that we understand what is the process going to be like and the timeframe within which we will see action.

(Cross talk)

It is critical, Prime Minister that you use all your influence to make sure that that process is brought to a satisfactory conclusion.

Thank you very much Mr. Speaker. (Applause)

Mr. ROBINSON: Mr. Speaker…

Mr. McKENZIE: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, as the Member of Parliament for a section of a constituency that has been affected by this latest development, it is clear, Mr. Speaker, that present action being carried out by the Jamaica Public Service Company is not a recent one. This has been going on now, Mr. Speaker, for quite a considerable long time where several communities, especially in West Kingston, have been deprived of electricity. While I appreciate Mr. Speaker the fact and will readily admit that there are persons within my constituency that continue to use the service without paying, some of the concerns I have, Mr. Speaker, relates to the operation of the Denham Town Health Facility that had to close its doors on at least three occasions because of lack of electricity. Mr. Speaker, the Member from North Central made the point and I want to say that every effort must be made, Mr. Speaker. There are persons within these areas that are willing to pay and will pay based on their ability to pay, Mr. Speaker, and some level of recognition should be given to those consumers, Mr. Speaker, who make an attempt to pay.

It is not just the loss of light during the day Mr. Speaker that is a challenge; there are significant portions of the Corporate Area, especially in my constituency that has no streetlights. It is not that these lights are vandalized, Mr. Speaker, but whenever the light goes out the Jamaica Public Service Company refuses to undertake repairs to these streetlights.

I had to write to the Commissioner of Police quite recently, seeking his assistance in having a meeting with the Jamaica Public Service Company to discuss the question of the security, not just of the residents but of members of the Police Force in executing their duties within the area during the nights, Mr. Speaker.

I think this is a national crisis and I can only do as the Member from North Central has done before me, which is to urge the Honourable Prime Minister to intervene, to let us seek a solution to bring some closure.

I have committed myself, Mr. Speaker, to engage members in my constituency, especially in the Denham Town Community to encourage them to regularize their situation and to pay, Mr. Speaker. But, as the situation presently exists, there is a need. And I am really concerned that the Minister has reported to this Honourable House that the Jamaica Public Service Company, despite the Minister's intervention, still continues to withhold service from these communities. I can only view that as a total, total disrespect, not just to the Government but to the entire Jamaican population, when a company can refuse the request of the Government to have sympathy, to have mercy and we have 20% shares in that Company, Mr. Speaker.

So, Mr. Speaker, it's a matter that, while I support the efforts of paying, I am sure, Mr. Speaker that there are better ways that the Jamaica Public Service Company can go about dealing with this matter.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

Mr. BARTLETT: Sorry....

Mr. ROBINSON: Mr. Speaker, let me assure the Members....

Mr. BARTLETT: Sorry, Member....

Mr. ROBINSON: Oh, Ed!

Mr. BARTLETT: Just, Mr. Speaker, just two quick questions for the Minister. One is that, Minister, the discussion you had this morning with the JPSCo., did you seek to find whether there was any technology that could be engaged to separate those paying customers from the others who are not paying? And whether or not that could be engaged as a matter of urgency, so that the continued practice of lumping everybody together in the whole area that is a problem would not continue.

And secondly, the problem of large communities of non-paying users of not just JPS services but utilities as a whole is not new, and certainly, I believe that there is need for the matter to be dealt with and this may very well be the test-case that is required. Is the Minister contemplating having a wider discussion with the JPS as a shareholder, as a 20% shareholder as to how we are going to treat, in the future, with communities that are like those that were just dealt with yesterday? Because I know that there are many communities, informal settlements all over the country where problems of this sort are currently a reality. And so are we going to expect that; yesterday it was a section of Kingston, tomorrow is probably a section of St. Catherine, the next day is a section of Montego Bay, the following day is a section of St. Ann. We have to recognize that this is a serious problem in the country and we have to deal with it. So my question Minister is whether or not you have engaged that idea as to have a full discussion as to how this matter of ensuring that those who should pay, and indeed everyone should pay, are made to pay and that the consequences are not bleeding over to affect those who ought not to be affected.

Mr. ROBINSON: Mr. Speaker, let us assure Member of this House that the matter is being treated with the utmost importance. The Most Honourable Prime Minister has already intervened and there will be a meeting with JPS tomorrow morning at her office. (Applause)

The Members have raised questions here which we have discussed with JPS; the issue of looking at whether getting smart meters; the issue of looking at alternatives. Certainly, this morning, Mr. Speaker, we made it clear that we were not satisfied that the JPS have exhausted all other alternatives before coming to this conclusion of this policy. And we are going to continue and we are committed. And the dialogue with JPS around this issue is not something which only started today or recently, it has been an ongoing process.

So we are committed to continue with the dialogue. The Member asked what are the options? Those are being examined now so I can't tell you what the answers are right now, but certainly, as a shareholder, we have rights in that Company, and we do intend to exercise those rights and there are members of the Ministry, the legal team, they are now examining what rights we have as shareholders within the JPS.

So Mr. Speaker I want to assure the House that the matter is being treated with the utmost importance and urgency and we are moving as expeditiously as possible to find a solution to what we consider to be a national crisis.

Thank you.

(Applause by both sides)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, given the loss of time... (Inaudible) ....(No microphone) ....current situation with… the Member of West Rural St. Andrew has postponed his contribution... (Applause) (Inaudible) ....and as such, Mr. Speaker, we don't intend to do any further business today.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the House stands adjourned.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: This Honourable House stands adjourned.

The House adjourned at approximately 4:18 p.m.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) You may be seated.

This Honourable House now resumes its sitting.

CALL OF THE ROLL
(See Listing)

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. JACKSON: Mr. Speaker, on the matter of committees and the report to which I raised yesterday, by chance do you have any update you could convey, sir?

The SPEAKER: Yes I spoke with the Chairman and he had said that he had difficulty getting a date on the calendar. So I instructed the Deputy Clerk to make space and time available one day next week and we should be aware of that by the close of today.

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, if I may? This highlights the extent to which the facilities of this Honourable House cause the whole process to be compromised. (Applause) First of all, it's not a question of not wanting a committee meeting to be convened. The fact is there are simply no facilities to cause that to happen. Repeatedly, we have asked and we are told that there are other committees that have taken precedent because they are out of the House dealing with Bills and so on, referred to committee; that's one. Two, there is the strain on the staff complement to deal with that and there is a strain on the other facilities that would attend that process. Mr. Speaker, this House has to come to, and the Government has to come to grips with those shortcomings and do something about it so that we can get the business of the House handled in an efficient manner. Thank you, sir.

(Cross talk)

The SPEAKER: Thank you, Mr. Samuda. What you have said speaks to the long term plan. What you have spoken to a while ago speaks to the long term plan and I'm saying that a date will be made available one day next week to deal with matter.

Mr. SAMUDA: And I wish to record my appreciation for your intervention using your considerable influence to ensure that a meeting be convened next week. Thank you. (Laughter)

(MR. PEARNEL PATROE CHARLES, CD, (JLP), Clarendon, North Central, entered and took his seat.)

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, we will be continuing with the Sectoral Debate today. First, we'll take a presentation from the Minister of Transport, Works and Housing which will be followed by a contribution from the Member from West Rural St. Andrew.

SECTORAL DEBATE

The SPEAKER: Thank you. Minister Davies.

(Applause) (Cross talk)

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, thanks to my colleagues. Thanks to you, sir.

I rise to make my contribution to this Sectoral Debate. Mr. Speaker, it is universally recognized that the Ministry which I have the honour to lead, having been asked by the Prime Minister, is a most expansive one. Not only in terms of the central ministry, but also the several specialized agencies and the public entities which fall under the aegis of the Ministry.

I wish to publicly place on record my appreciation to those persons with whom I have worked during this period beginning with my political colleagues: the Minister without Portfolio and the Minister of State who is totally in charge of the roads. (Applause) Sincere appreciation is also due to the Permanent Secretary and the other officials in my Ministry: the two Chief Technical Directors and the entire staff at all levels. (Applause) A special thank you would go to the staff in my immediate office who have to tolerate my idiosyncrasies and all that and even try to make me sound sensible when I speak publicly. (Applause)

(HON. IAN DAVE HAYLES, (PNP), Hanover, Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Water, Land Environment and Climate Change, entered and took his seat.)

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw)

Dr. DAVIES: I tell you I going easy on you; in case I change my mind.

(Laughter)

I want to pay tribute to the various Board Chairmen and the Board members who have volunteered to take on onerous tasks. Mr. Speaker, in many instances these positions have turned out to be virtually full-time jobs. I can look at few present here in the audience. In a time when so much of the public discourse reflects a sense of doom and gloom, Mr. Speaker, it is personally heartening that there are so many competent persons willing to volunteer their skills and time for national service.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it has become the norm for speakers in the sectoral debate to take few minutes to speak of their constituencies. I will be no different, but I will be different in that I will take the time but I will focus totally on the initiative which we have taken in the constituency over the twenty years that I have had the honour to represent them in the communities therein. So despite the small margin which I'm operating at the polls, I won't be saying anything here about the politics.

(Inaudible comment/Laughter)

Dr. DAVIES: You had a chance, you know. You had a chance.

Mr. Speaker, I take this step not simply to publicly proclaim what we have achieved but more importantly to share with other MPs possible step which they can take to raise educational levels in their own constituencies; I take the opportunity now to say special welcome to my two councillors and the support staff in my constituency office. I salute them because they are as committed as I am to making education the primary thrust of all political activity in South St. Andrew. (Applause) For that reason today, represented in the Gallery, are persons from each level of the educational system in South St. Andrew.

(HON. NOEL GEORGE DELANO ARSCOTT, (PNP), Clarendon, South Western, Minister of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. EVON PATRICK CULLITON ATKINSON, QC, (PNP), Trelawny, Northern, Attorney General, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. ANDREW MICHAEL HOLNESS, (JLP), St. Andrew, West Central, Leader of the Opposition, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, for the reasons I outlined before I will briefly describe the programmes which are in effect and indicate the successes we have reaped to date and the challenges which remain. As I said at the beginning of my presentation, last December I celebrated twenty years of representing the constituency of South St. Andrew. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Dr. DAVIES: Time has flown. I must confess that at the initial period of being a MP my interventions in the education system were the usual: assistance with back to school expenses and support for the acquisition of basic pieces of equipment. The enormity of the problem which we faced in South St. Andrew - and I dare say in much of inner city Kingston - was brought home to me when I was presented with a Report from the Ministry of Education, which indicated that two-thirds of the students at the primary level in the constituency were quote "at risks". That meant that these students were either fully or functionally illiterate. Immediately after seeing those depressing statistics, I received a letter from a friend, Mrs. Paulette Lattibeaudiere, who was then President of an organization called the Jamaica Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. She and the team at the Association had seen the same data as I had and they requested a meeting with me to discuss steps, which - and I used this term - they claim could address the problem; she and the then Executive Director of the Association, Mrs. Joan Hernandez met with me and after we reviewed the disturbing statistics they claimed that they could fix the problem. They argued that teaching children to read was well-developed technique and once the children learned to read and more important had been taught to appreciate the world opened up through reading all things were possible.

Mr. Speaker, confession is good. I doubted their claims and I didn't know how people learned to read, but I didn't think they could just fix the problem. But the truth was the budget which they presented was small so I figure I had nothing to lose. The rest as they say is history. The first concrete signs that their formula was working, whatever they were doing, came in the results of the Grade 4 Examination followed by the rather spectacular GSAT results two years later.

Mr. Speaker at that time the usual number of GSAT passes to traditional schools each year was about 25, and Minister I have a word for you. The first year following the introduction of the programme there were over 100 such passes obtained by the students from primary schools in the constituency.

And now the word to the Minister, my colleague Minister, Minister, I speak to you and your planning officials. Any attempt to restrict children who take the GSAT from inner city primary schools to attend the high schools in their communities will be - and I am telling you this - strongly opposed by the parents who have sacrificed to support their children in school. They will see this as an attempt to discriminate against them and their children. I can tell you this and I know this.

Mr. HOLNESS: Zoning.

Dr. DAVIES: Yes, if you embark on zoning the inner city students, the parents are strongly opposed to it, and I am telling you this…

Mr. HOLNESS: Zoning not right.

Dr. DAVIES: Well, I live now and it is when my students are doing it.

(HON. HORACE WASHINGTON DALLEY, (PNP), Clarendon, North, Minister without Portfolio in the Ministry of Finance and Planning with responsibility for the Public Service, entered and took his seat.)

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, I would allow the Leader of the Opposition, and all the theoreticians to work on it. I will tell you - and I know I am speaking for you too; I know I'm speaking for you too - that if you ever say to them, you get 95 and this is where you must go to... I'm just telling you.

Mr. HOLNESS: Not now... not now.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. DAVIES: That first - now, back to my students. My first cohort of students which I spoke about - that 100 - performed exceptionally well in CXC, and subsequently CAPE. Mr. Speaker, of that initial cohort of 100, 40 of them entered tertiary institutions in September 2010. (Applause) These were children who, a few years previously - nine years previously - were either judged as illiterate or functionally illiterate. Today, in the gathering, are two members of that initial group, Strisen Williams who graduated from the UWI with an Upper Second Class Honours in Banking and Finance last year... (Applause) ...and Troy Williams who is completing a Degree in Animal Biology at UWI... (Applause) ...and has been accepted to study dentistry at UTech in August. (Applause) So, these are persons who, 13 years ago, were virtually condemned by the system that they were semi-literate or illiterate.

Mr. VAZ: Well done!

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Smith)

Dr. DAVIES: I may be wrong about them but not about you. That character fits you. Mr. Speaker - well, my - no, no, no, the - I am getting a little lobbying here from a colleague to mention the critical contributions of colleagues. I was about to say a former colleague; I consider him more of a colleague when he was making the contribution, than when he was complaining about his own problems. But, I should put on record - I was about to say a c-word, and not colleague, but the Member from Central Manchester...

A Government MEMBER: Cousin.

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. DAVIES: Yes, the Member from Central Manchester used to be a major supporter of the programme.

Mr. Speaker, there is a peculiarity about the results of our intervention in South St. Andrew, and I have asked the academicians to help me. As I speak, there is a special selection panel which I have put in place to select five students for support in pursuing their tertiary studies. The Members of the panel, first of all - and they always do this - have indicated a challenge in selecting from the students who have been shortlisted. They have five scholarships, but they say because of the high quality of the applicants, they don't know how to cull. But, most interesting, Mr. Speaker, of the 11 students who have been shortlisted, nine are males. We don't know what we are doing but there must be something there. (Applause) This is totally contrary to the national statistics.

Mr. Speaker, following on the successes of the Remedial Reading Programme, some parents of the children who had benefitted approached me about (a), as she said, a problem, although she was expressing gratitude for the improvements for the children. They complained that I had forgotten about adults and that adults also had aspirations. After consultation with Mrs. Hernandez, she developed a programme called ACE, Adult Continuing Education. ACE utilizes the facilities at Charlie Smith High School after their regular classes are completed. And we started operations in 2004.

ACE has provided a second chance for hundreds of adults and the lives of many have been changed once they have been able to, as they call it, acquire their subjects. There are no fees charged for ACE, and teachers are paid a small stipend, financed through the Constituency Development Fund. The latest development with regard to ACE is the opening of a second campus - that's how we talk 'bout it - the second campus at the Jones Town Primary School. And this is being done in collaboration with the Jamaica Foundation for Lifelong Learning.

Mrs. Maria Jones who is from Jones Town - and I think the Member of Parliament from West Rural may have been around at the same time - he is from Jones Town, his major achievement, to date...

(Laughter)

(DR. WINSTON LLOYD GREEN, (PNP), St. Mary, South Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

Mrs. Jones, a former PS in the Ministry of Education and Board Chairman of Jones Town, was the prime mover in getting collaboration between the primary school and the Jamaica Foundation for Lifelong Learning. The use of the Jones Town Primary School facility for adult classes, together with the opening of an Internet cafe - and I must thank my colleague Minister - STEM - in facilitating that - is making the school the focal point for a range of activities in the Jones Town community.

Mr. Speaker, in total 388 students are registered in the Adult Continuing Education Programme. Notwithstanding, the data shared with you concerning the male/female ratio in the applications for tertiary support, now when the national statistics come back, in that the ratio of female to male at Charlie Smith is 210 females to 77 males, virtually three to one. This looks like the University ratio. And apart from just saying these guys are lucky, but in all seriousness, we still haven't found the key to turn on the aspirations of the boys. At Jones Town Primary, with the JFLL facility, it is 64 females and 36 males. It is better, but we still have that underlying programme.

Mr. Speaker, the final element of educational initiative in South St. Andrew, is called the Basics Initiative. The programme is partly financed by the CHASE Fund, and it links to 28 early childhood institutions, serving students in the communities of South St. Andrew. The objective is to spread best practices amongst the institutions; simultaneously bringing about improvements in the physical facilities, as well as seeking to raise the capabilities of staff, as well as the nutritional levels of the students.

There have been several positive spinoff developments, some of which we did not anticipate when the project was launched. I give three examples. The first is a Child Find Programme, whereby - and I want people to listen to me carefully - we utilized the political organization as my late and great friend would say, the pulitical organization, to identify youngsters who should be enrolled in an early childhood institution, but who are not, mainly because their parents - usually their parent - cannot afford either the fees or the lunch money.

Once the students are identified, an enlightened businessman who seeks no publicity - and for my friends across there, he's a strong Labourite... (Laughter) ...has committed to providing funding to ensure that the fees for these youngsters are paid; that they are provided with appropriate uniforms, shoes, and an allowance for food.

(MR. LESTER MICHAEL HENRY, CD, (JLP), Clarendon, Central, entered and took his seat.)

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. DAVIES: The paradox, Mr. Speaker, is that whilst primary school is free, the basic schools have a fee, and by missing the basic schools, they arrive in Grade 1 not properly prepared, and it is a challenge which is there. And so, we have established the Child Find Programme, and we use the political organization which is by and large homogenous in my constituency... (Applause) ...to find the missing students...

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. DAVIES: Totally... democratically. Yes...

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. DAVIES: Yes. The second development which holds out hopeful continuing gains after the project funding is completed is the formation of a Principal's Association whereby the principals of the early childhood institutions meet on a regular basis to share best practices, and to assist each other in whatever way possible.

The final development and the one which holds out our greatest hope for sustaining the new thrust, even after the project is over, is a parenting organization which has been formed, and which meets weekly under the guidance of Dr. Beverley McKenzie. (Applause) As a result of the interactions at these workshops, the parents have taken a far greater interest, not only in the welfare of their own children, but also in the general operation of the institutions which their children attend.

Mr. Speaker, before closing this discussion of the range of educational programmes which are helping to transform the communities in my constituency, let me congratulate the Ministers of Education and Finance and Planning for the innovative changes which have been announced, in terms of the operations of the Students Loan Bureau. (Applause) These changes won't solve all of the problems, but they will go a long way to help to remove one of the major obstacles in our system, and which could be seen as slamming-shut the door of opportunity in the faces of those students from low income households.

Mr. Speaker, those students have done well. They have done all we have asked of them, but often cannot develop to their fullest potential simply because of the fact that their parents have low incomes and cannot assist with the range of expenses associated with tertiary study.

Mr. Speaker, all of us in here as MPs are aware of tuition fees, but one of the problems we face is, having helped during that hurdle, you find that the other fees and the other costs exceed expenses, combined to be even greater than the tuition fee.

However, the major point I wish to make in this regard is to appeal to the Minister and the officials of the Ministry of Education to utilize a resource which because of long established prejudices, have remained unemployed or under employed. That resource is the organizational reach of the political parties; not talking about my party, the organizational reach. I fully appreciate the concerns about political interference in appointments, et cetera, but what I am speaking about is to use that organizational reach to assist in disseminating information about education opportunities.

There are many times youngsters in inner city areas - I don't know whether the guidance counsellors have fallen down on the job or not, but they aren't aware of opportunities, in terms of assisting them with their expenses.

It is the resource we have employed in our Child Find Programme, with great success, and I dare say, Mr. Speaker, that neither PATH nor the Ministry of Education itself could have a similar reach to that which we have. For many - nothing about the officials - but for many of them, it is a job. For the political organization, it is critical to know every single adult and know about them. Every single MP can indicate which principals demonstrate drive and initiatives, and which expect that all problems will be resolved by the Ministry.

And so, Mr. Speaker, I am saying to the Minister that we should seek to utilize - and it appears in many other instances of governmental activity, that MPs and elected representatives are the last to be brought into the loop, almost as if - and I could name specific institutions which deals like this - almost as if we are going to pollute the stream. And I am just saying that dealing with this most important aspect of national life, the educational system, methods must be found to formally incorporate us in that monitoring. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me now turn to my substantive areas of my ministerial responsibility, and I start with the Growth Agenda. Last year when I opened this Sectoral Debate, I spoke to the challenges which we were facing as a country. I made reference then to the IMF Agreement and the resulting fiscal constraints within which we are required to operate. Then, as now, it is necessary to reiterate that the passing of IMF Quarterly Tests, important as they are, is not the solution to our problems; they are only a means to an end. The real test is the stimulation of economic growth, coupled with increased employment.

Mr. SHAW: Hear! Hear!

Dr. DAVIES: Yes, we agree on one thing, all right. Mr. Speaker, in my own Ministry, we fully understand that the Macro Economic Policy Reforms being undertaken must be supported by adequate levels of infrastructure services which are a prerequisite for enhancing the economic growth. It has been established worldwide that infrastructure development can contribute to economic growth by:

(a) Reducing the cost of production;
(b) Contributing to the diversification of the economy; and
(c) Raising the economic returns to labour.

In this regard, we have been taking strategic and incremental steps toward the achievement of some key developmental goals which underpin our growth agenda. Among some of the notable achievements were the conceptualization, rapid start-up and successful implementation of JEEP, advancement of the process for securing private investment for the development and operations of the Kingston Container Terminal, as well as the Norman Manley International Airport.

We have secured financing for the Major Infrastructure Development Programme (MIDP). And my friend and colleague, we started it before the end of the fiscal year contrary to your dooms day prediction.

Mr. SAMUDA: I said the calendar year.

Dr. DAVIES: Remember we can go to....

Dr. PHILLIPS: Hansard. See what they say about Dooms Day.

(Laughter)

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, we have also committed time, energy and resources to rehabilitating the public transportation system, beginning in the Kingston Metropolitan Region. (Applause) And I promise you, Mr. Speaker, I have to spend some time on that, because I have to put some things....

Dr. PHILLIPS: In perspective.

Dr. DAVIES: ...in perspective and correct....

Mr. CRAWFORD: Within the realm of...

(Inaudible)

Dr. DAVIES: Yes! Yes!

Mr. Speaker, although there is much work to be done, there is a strong commitment to pursuing the implementation of an integrated transport system and the modernization and optimization of infrastructure and services.

Such developments have a positive impact on the socio-economic indicators while directly impacting the people's lives. To quote the Prime Minister once more, "balancing the books whilst we balance people's lives". (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I would be less than forthright were I not to explicitly acknowledge that for several of the activities falling under the agency of my Ministry, there are questions in the minds of the public about the level of transparency, which characterizes decision-making and service-delivery. That's a euphemistic way about saying that there are questions about some of the operations of the agencies.

In that regard, without fanfare, we have been taking steps to reduce and/or eliminate those practices which give some substance to these suspicions. Some members of the public have started writing to me to describe their experiences with officials. I encourage more persons to do so. I assure you that every case will be investigated and whenever the charges are proved or shown to be credible, appropriate action will be taken. (Applause) We have to deal, Mr. Speaker, with this matter of charges being levied.... (Chuckles) ...which nobody knows about. And I am not going to call any areas, but we all know that in certain areas of operation within our Ministry, there is work to be done.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to say something about a task or a set of tasks which - although related to my position as Minister of Transport, Works and Housing, it belongs under the aegis of the Infrastructure Sub-Committee of Cabinet. One of the first initiatives we have taken up, Mr. Speaker, is to simply begin to track the progress of each contract from the day the RFP is issued, the request for proposal to when the contract is presented to us for approval.

When this Administration took over in January 2012, the contracts which were being brought to the Sub-Committee were two years, up to two years after the RFP had been issued. And so, what we have required and it's amazing - we have taken a step, which is costless in terms of additional expenditure. We have simply asked every Ministry or every entity to list from the day you issue the RFP what exactly did you do why it has taken you this time. And some of the responses have been embarrassing. You get a three-week delay between someone receiving a letter and writing to send it on, and that by itself plus the, in a sense, embarrassment of trying to explain to the Committee why these delays took place, we have now... There is one instance, from the Ministry of Agriculture and I can state that one because it is a positive one. In carrying out a housing scheme development, three months from the issuance of the RFP to the presentation of the contract. (Applause) Three months.

And it is also interesting to note that the person who does it in three months wants to get out of the room so he can start the work, while the person who has gone 18 months wants to stay with you to explain why it has taken 18 months.

Mr. CHUCK: Until it happens, I don't believe.

Dr. DAVIES: Well the houses - some have been delivered? The housing have been delivered, it is possible.

Mr. CHUCK: You ask Richard.

Dr. DAVIES: The sugar houses. Now, Mr. Speaker, we have gone further to track the rate of project implementation following Cabinet's approval. This task has been assigned to the PIOJ and already this has produced results in terms of identifying those Ministries and/or agencies which are delinquent. The task given to the PIOJ has been expanded by drawing on the data collected by the Office of the Contractor General about all GOJ projects. I am not criticizing but sometimes I wonder what they are doing with all this data.

(Inaudible comment by an Opposition Member)

Dr. DAVIES: The ultimate objective, and I am coming back to it , is to monitor all GOJ projects from the moment they are planned and the RFP issued through to completion. Because, whilst our initial job was to track from RFP issued to us approving the contract, what we have discovered that even when entities receive the approval from Cabinet months before anything else happens and so we are tracking that.

Mr. Speaker, in seeking to streamline the GOJ's contracting process, we have identified three specific areas on which Central Government and the public entities expend billions of dollars annually on security - private firms providing security, on catering and porterage, mainly from the Ministry of Health and on insurance placement. But in those three critical areas, the rules and procurement are inconsistent and sometimes lacking in transparency.

My colleague, the Minister without portfolio in the Ministry of Finance and Planning will address this matter in greater detail. And I assure you, it will be greater detail in his presentation.

Mr. Speaker, in seeking to broaden the role…

Mr. SHAW: You need to pay the Nurse's salary.

Dr. DAVIES: (Chuckles) You have a special thing about nurses.

Mr. SHAW: I married one.

(Laughter by all)

Dr. DAVIES: I didn't go into any details, and you have a special thing about nurses. But that's the pleasant part, the tape is another part.

(Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, I want to raise another thing. We have also been concerned about the registration process for contractors who wish to bid for GOJ Projects.

It's been a matter of concern to members of the construction sector - and they have formally written to me on that, that firms could be denied registration without specific reasons given nor a specific timeframe within which their cases would be resolved one way or another.

Mr. Speaker, it's little known that there were 84 contractors who were denied registration or re-registration, some dating back to 2009, and their files had been submitted to the Fraud Squad of the JCF for review to determine whether criminal charges should be pressed, but some dating back to 2009.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Minister's time for speaking has expired.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, we ask that the Minister's time be extended sufficient to complete his presentation?

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Minister's time be extended sufficient for him to complete his presentation?

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister.

(Applause)

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, thank you very much. Thanks to the colleagues.

I was making the point that, we were concerned about the fact that people were denied registration or a re-registration, but they had no idea what's the process they had to go through. So the Members of the Infrastructure Committee were of the view that we needed to be able to have a resolution one way or the other to this system.

Consequently, I convened a meeting involving all the major parties; the Minister of National Security, the Minister without portfolio in the Ministry of Finance and Planning who has primary responsibility for procurement, the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General, as well as the Contractor General, the Chairman of the National Contracts Commission, the Commissioner of Police and all the relevant officials.

After a thorough investigation and the agreement by all parties, I can announce that the Fraud Squad of the JCF has determined that whilst there may have been errors in the registration process, these were, in the view of the investigating officers, could not be elevated to a charge of fraud.

Interestingly, interestingly...

Dr. PHILLIPS: Some (Inaudible)....

Dr. DAVIES: (Chuckles) Interestingly, Mr. Speaker, the Commissioner recommended that a more rigorous education programme be instituted for the applicants. This represents Mr. Speaker, a more sensible and pragmatic approach to policy, rather than attempting to brand individuals as corrupt and not being able to substantiate that claim. And so I have pleasure in indicating to this House and to the 84 contractors that based on the findings of the Fraud Squad, they all will be invited to reapply for registration or re-registration by the National Contracts Committee. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, given the number of departments and public bodies falling within my Ministry, it would be simply impossible to review the work of each. And those who are not covered today, I apologize. It's not an attempt to devalue the contribution of an entity....

Mr. PICKERSGILL: The Minister of State will deal with that.

Dr. DAVIES: Right. And so the Minister without portfolio with primary responsibility for Housing will be making a separate and perhaps lengthier presentation. And my Minister of State, who will also be making a presentation, focusing on the enormous amount of work, which brings about wonderment and amazement from the Opposition, which he has been able to carry out on the road network, the bridge and drainage systems. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me just briefly review where we are with the various privatization issues. Starting with the Kingston Container Terminal and I know my colleague has particular interest. This has long been regarded as a prime asset of the GOJ, contributing significantly to the country's GDP and job creation, especially at the high-end. Efforts to secure the privatization of the Terminal was commenced in the latter part of the 2012/2013 fiscal year with the engagement or the appointment of an Enterprise Team and these efforts advanced significantly in the last fiscal year.

April 2013 witnessed the top 22 Global Terminal Operators along with three entities, other entities. They expressed an interest in being involved in the process and they were invited to submit bids for a long-term concession to finance, expand, operate, maintain and transfer the KCT.

Mr. SHAW: And dredge the harbour?

Dr. DAVIES: Five bidders expressed an interest in the privatization of the KCT. And subsequent to assessing the bids, three entities were prequalified and they were recommended to proceed to the next stage. These three entities were: Ports of Singapore, Dubai Ports, Terminal Link Consortium, then consisted of CMA, CGM and China Merchant Holdings International.

The bidding stage of the KCT transaction commenced on January 16, 2014. This saw the issuance of the Confidential Information memorandum and the Request for Proposals to the three prequalified bidders. The draft Concession Agreement was subsequently issued on February 14, 2014.

As part of their due diligence in preparing for the completion and submission of bids, site visits by the three bidders were facilitated in February and March. The date for submission of bids has been revised from May 22 to July 3, 2014. And this was at the request of one of the short-listed companies. We expect, Mr. Speaker, by August to September, the provisional preferred bidder should be selected, followed by contract award and signing in another two to three months.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to state whilst the Administration is committed to the privatization process, I want to make something abundantly clear, and I have indicated this in our meetings with the IMF - there will be no fire sale either of the KCT or any other asset. (Applause) We are not going to be offloading an asset such as the KCT simply to satisfy any demand, there will be no fire sale.

As regards the Norman Manley Airport, the privatization of this airport remains a priority. An important reason is that there is need for capital works in the physical plan as well as to put NMIA in a position to meet the requirements of its licence. The Development Bank of Jamaica, as the Secretariat and the IFC, International Financial Corporation, as the financial advisers, has been pursuing the privatization of the airport. Mr. Speaker, if all goes according to plan the airport will be in private management by mid-year 2015.

The Jamaica Railway Corporation - Mr. Speaker, let me indicate that this is a complex matter. It's a complex matter because of the demand for travel, passenger travel by rail is down. There are problems with the bridge across the Sandy Gully. There are problems with squatting on the extensive real estate holdings of the JRC, and so there is an enterprise team and they have been in discussions with two companies that had submitted expressions of interest. The companies are Herzog Contracting Corporation and Railmark Holdings Limited.

Mr. Speaker, against that background, these two companies were offered the opportunity to submit a detailed proposal for the privatization of the JRC. Both companies met the deadline of March 31, 2014. Subsequently, we have been informed of the interest of a third firm and it was asked to provide evidence of its capability. The GOJ will be meeting with the three firms, the two which have already submitted their business plans as well as the third firm to outline the GOJ's objectives for the railway.

Simultaneously, the GOJ is also in the process of conducting pre-market due diligence for sections of the railway that are deemed commercially viable. If you look in Spanish Town, in Kingston itself, in May Pen, the railway is the owner of significant real estate. And so in order to be prepared we are simultaneously pursuing the privatization of the company as one and at the same time we are looking at the possibilities if the only rational response is to break up the assets.

Now Mr. Speaker, I want to go back to the - I said there was no fire sale, but in terms of the KCT there will be no transfer of the freehold property rights of the KCT (Applause) and similarly with the Norman Manley Airport, the property, the location will continue to be in the ownership of the Government of Jamaica. (Applause)

Dredging is going to be part of the negotiations, but the companies have been asked to submit either a plan to take that in which will clearly affect the fees which we would negotiate for.

Mr. SHAW: Part of the divestment plan?

Dr. DAVIES: Yes, but they will be asked to submit, either they will take it or not, because there are varying assessments of the cost. One company I know feels that the ability to attract the post-panamax is going to take some time, so they feel you don't need to expend that now when it won't be needed until you have actually booked additional. It will be part of the negotiations.

Mr. Speaker, let me go to major projects. Let me start with the North-South link of the Highway 2000, and I won't make my usual comment which was that the Opposition had gone quite far but then got cold feet, I won't make that usual comment.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: I think you should.

Dr. DAVIES: You think I should?

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Lest they forget.

Dr. DAVIES: But this development is fully funded by external sources.

Mr. SHAW: ...finance.

Dr. DAVIES: But I have said it over and over again that you did but then you got cold feet.

Mr. SHAW: I never.

Dr. DAVIES: Okay, who got cold feet?

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Andrew!

Dr. DAVIES: But there is considerable government interest through NROCC.

Mr. Speaker, this is a project to which I have given personal attention, not only because of the magnitude of the investment, over US$600 Million; I don't think people have fully grasped it. I can't recall when last there was an investment of US$600 Million in three years; it's a significant, (Applause) it's not really been given the attention.

I will announce again that Section II of this toll road will be completed in July of this year and will be open to the public in August by the Most Honourable Prime Minister. (Applause) The completion of this Section, Linstead to Moneague will eliminate the delays that all of us have become accustomed to in traversing Mount Rosser.

Mr. SHAW: You want to toll it?

Dr. DAVIES: But you can't collect the toll though, you know.

Mr. Speaker, work is progressing apace on Section I of the highway, Ferry to Linstead and Section III, Moneague to Ocho Rios which will end - will meet the North Coast Highway just west of Dunn's River. The target date of completion for those two sections is 2016, and I don't know why the PM insists on it, 2016. (Applause) She has told me non-negotiable, 2016. We are going to complete the other two sections of the highway, but we won't open them at the same time, can't have two big functions.

But Mr. Speaker, and I have said this over and over again and I want local entrepreneurs to hear me. The benefits of the toll road when completed will far exceed the provision to commuters of a modern highway thus reducing travel time. That is important, but that's not the real point. The potential benefits in terms of economic activity line the exploitation of the lands along the highway for a range of development. (Applause) The investors in the highway with China Harbour have clearly indicated - already indicated that construction on the toll road, important as it is, is not an end in itself, their plans involved development of commercial, housing, tourism, assets in sections of the country which are now inaccessible and will remain inaccessible. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, however I need to stress that we need local entrepreneurs to commit themselves to the long-term investments. (Applause)

I have made a presentation to a major pension fund manager that herein is a glorious opportunity for long-term investment by Jamaican entrepreneur. Mr. Speaker, it would be ironic indeed if a foreign firm demonstrates greater faith in the long-term future of our country. Remember this is a 50-year concession than our own local entrepreneurs. They see things in terms of using the road as the basis for development. I am appealing to our local entrepreneurs to come with ideas.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me say something about the Major Infrastructure Development Programme, because it affects all of us here. It should be expenditure over three years of US$352 Million. There is a loan from China EX-IM Board for US$300 Million and a GOJ counterpart fund of US$52 Million. And in terms of the major projects, corridors identified for improvement under the programme include the Mandela Highway, Hagley Park Road and Marcus Garvey Drive. (Applause) We have looked at this, Mr. Speaker, and we have divided the $352 Million as follows: US$50 Million will go to JEEP. Because as 1 have said before and I will say again, it's oft the case that you have these major investments, major roadways and people in the communities do not feel a sense of being involved or that they are benefitting from these major investments. So there is US$50 Million which will be allocated to JEEP.

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: It should be more.

Dr. DAVIES: There is US$82 Million reserved for local contractors/but the reality is that it will be $50 Million plus $82 Million, so there is US$132 Million which will be allocated to local contractors - but I am going to come back to that division - and then $220 Million will be for China Harbour for the major projects which will be implemented. And if you ask why, we only have obtained the concessionary financing on condition that the majority of the funds would go to them.

Dr. PHILLIPS: So you are going to spend the same amount on Hagley Park Road like the Christiana bypass?

Dr. DAVIES: To tell you the truth I was thinking of Colley Smith Drive.

Mr. SHAW: However...

Mr. Daryl VAZ: How many for major projects?

Dr. DAVIES: The major projects to be implemented by CHEC. They can subcontract, it is $220 Million.

Dr. BAUGH: Go that again.

Dr. DAVIES: The agreement calls for $220 Million which will be allocated to the projects to the major contractor, but the major contractor as they have done other times, can sub-contract, but that is their discretion. There will be US$82 Million for what we had hoped would have been Grade 1 and possible 2, US$82 Million and there was US$50 Million for JEEP but I am going to come back to the JEEP situation.

The JEEP component of the programme was launched on March 18, 2014 and the commencement order was issued on March 24, 2014 and several colleagues participated in that.

Mr. Speaker, we concentrated on small projects, and we in writing designed the programme, spoke to the fact that this US$50 Million should be spent by contractors in Grades 3 and 4 and all Members of Parliament were asked to submit projects in the first instance, but also to indicate the recommended contractors. Mr. Speaker, we sought to make special provisions for Grades 3 and 4, including having checked established outside of the formal arrangement a special imprest account to facilitate prompt payment to the small contractors; that one has been a problem.

(Applause)

However, the attempt to give preference to small contractors has met with mixed reactions. Several MPs, and they are on both sides of the House, have requested that this restriction be waived because they do not have reliable small contractors, et cetera. So I must confess that at the beginning what we had hoped to have been spreading the work even amongst the smallest, but several of my colleagues have said, I hear you but I want a reliable contractor, so I want to use a one or two. And we will certainly have to accede to the wishes. We don't want to impose a contractor in whom you have no faith.

But Mr. Speaker, I don't want to dwell on the matter, but I urge Members, briefly, to reflect on the contrast between how MIDP is structured, and going to be unveiled. You know everything you want to know. It's no mystery or secret. There has been in the recent past counter example...

(Sotto voce remarks by Opposition Member)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Full transparency.

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, I honestly cannot recall a programme implemented by any administration which has had a greater buy-in from Members of Parliament.

Mr. Daryl VAZ: You want to buy more.

Dr. DAVIES: The truth is I see more Opposition MPs in the yard of the NWA and the Ministry than they turn up at Belmont Road. I was thinking of hosting the Standing Committee...

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Daryl Vaz)

Dr. DAVIES: Don't let me start calling names, you know. I see more Opposition MPs. I see a few of mine, too, but you outnumbered them in there.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Andrew come up there?

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, he has been most delinquent in submitting his projects, he has been most delinquent. I have had notes saying that the Leader of the Opposition reminded that he has to submit a project. And I have several projects submitted for your constituency, you know, and I have to respond to them.

Mr. Speaker, since inception to March 31, 2014, a total of 44,255 persons have been employed under JEEP.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Employed again.

Dr. DAVIES: You know I knew you would say so.

Today, in today's paper, there is the name of a prominent company - and give praise for it - which indicated how many people have been employed in a similar way. But you wouldn't say so 'bout the company but you say so 'bout JEEP, eh. It's amazing. There is a standard way of calculating employment, and we can't change it, that's how it is, whether it's government or private sector. But I knew you would say so.

Mr. SHAW: But you have temporary or permanent...

Dr. DAVIES: Okay. But I just want to know that.

Mr. Speaker, a total of One point Six Billion ($1.6B) will be spent on infrastructure projects, and of this amount, Six Hundred and Thirty Million ($630M) has already been allocated although a few MPs are still delinquent. Target employment is 20,000 persons.

But Mr. Speaker, JEEP has stretched beyond what we indicated. There is the construction of 1,200 wooden units island wide in housing. And I accept we recognize that there have been some challenges, and we have worked with Food for the Poor, and we think we have a resolution. And what you say is absolutely true, but he speaks for you, too.

But, Mr. Speaker, there is another project, the "Recycle Now" project, where...

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. D. SMITH: Out of the twenty you have gone before?

Dr. DAVIES: We can't build on squatted premises.

Mr. D. SMITH: We are overwhelmed with that.

Dr. DAVIES: And we can't build on gully bank and we can't build on squatted premises.

So Mr. Speaker, the Recycle Now project - it was launched on February 12 through a public/private partnership. It will hopefully lead to the reclamation of 35 per cent of PET bottles, and this represents, as we all know, a major scourge on the land.

When fully operational, the project is going to create a minimum of 300 jobs while generating valuable foreign exchange. The PET bottles will be chopped up and exported. The GoJ will provide Fifty Million ($50M) per year over the life of the three-year project and the private sector will also contribute. We have got on board every major user of PET bottles, and it is a significant breakthrough for all of us. (Applause) And I encourage you once you kick off, get your schools involved, because we are going to try to build in rewards.

Mr. SHAW: You are going islandwide?

Dr. DAVIES: It is island wide, it is island wide.

Mr. Speaker, let me say something about the Portland Bight Economic Zone and Transshipment Port. Although not a GoJ project, for a host of reasons, I have to speak to this matter.

Over the past year much has been said and written about this proposed investment by China Harbour Engineering Company. I have deliberately refrained from joining in the debate, much of which is sometimes based on erroneous claims, and there have been several questionable assertions. Consequently, whenever I speak I simply give the facts.

Mr. Speaker, the project, if finally approved for implementation - and we have deliberately phrased it that way - will be a major transport and logistics hub, serving both regional and international markets.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. DAVIES: CHEC is currently working on a detailed technical and feasibility study, whilst the Port Authority is evaluating the proposed conditionalities. I signed an initial non-binding Framework Agreement with CHEC, on March 21, 2014.

CHEC, on completion of their feasibility studies, will submit Terms of Reference to NEPA, for their approval in order to facilitate the commencement of the EIA, the Environmental Impact Assessment. This phase, inclusive of final designs, is expected to take approximately nine months.

Mr. Speaker, the Administration does not pretend that it is ambivalent about the project. We want to implement it. Both sides are seriously engaged in carrying out the necessary preliminary work for implementation.

For example Mr. Speaker, just this Monday, the Prime Minister, my colleague Ministers in my Ministry and I, met with Dr. Hailiang Song, the Chairman and President of ZPMC, at OPM. And Dr. Song is not just a bureaucrat, he is very strong in the companion organization which goes alongside government, the Party, in China.

(Inaudible comment from an Opposition Member)

Dr. DAVIES: No, of ZPMC...

Mr. Speaker, by way of background, ZPMC manufactures 70 per cent of the world's demand for cranes used at transshipment ports. Those monstrosities you see, they make 70 per cent of those cranes.

ZPMC is seriously examining the establishment of a manufacturing facility in the economic zone, which if established, will fabricate these cranes for the Caribbean and Latin American markets. They are looking on this. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, even whilst the preliminary work proceeds, all regulatory processes will be duly followed. And there has been no attempt to bypass any step. Only when these approvals are in place will a final decision be taken on the project by Cabinet. And full respect is being paid to the authority of NEPA. But there are some persons, if NEPA rules with them, then NEPA is a good institution, but if NEPA doesn't rule in their favour, then it shows the total - the fact that the Government controls. And we are going through the process.

The work which we are doing on both sides will be nine months, including the EIA. They are now doing their own drilling, et cetera, to determine what's needed in drilling.

I would like to point out Mr. Speaker - and it's very important - that the activities being contemplated in the Portland Bight region are to be seen as complementary to the activities being pursued in the privatization of the KCT. The KCT is a going operation and they have that advantage. The other will have to be built from scratch, so there is a construction period.

Mr. Speaker, let me say something about the housing scheme which has been proposed for Bernard Lodge, under the aegis of the HAJ. This scheme was announced and units were advertised for sale by the Housing Agency of Jamaica. The proposed scheme was designed as a public/private sector partnership, where equity by the partners would be the provision of land by HAJ, and the funding for the development by the private partner.

Potential homeowners demonstrated effective demand by entering into sale agreements and making deposits. Unfortunately, to date, the private sector partners have not demonstrated the capability of living up to their commitment and their obligation, that of securing financing for the development.

Be that as it may, I wish to assure the House - Members of this House, but perhaps more important, the depositors who see themselves as future homeowners, that despite the deviation from the originally-announced timetable, I want the following points to be noted:

1. the Government of Jamaica will honour the obligations in accordance with the sales agreement - the Government of Jamaica, through the HAJ; (Applause) the development will be executed;
2. for those citizens who made deposits, your deposits are safe, secure in a commercial bank, and can be accounted for at any time. (Applause)
3. any depositor who wishes a full refund, this will be accommodated immediately. (Applause)
4. and we admit to deficiency here - communication will be developed with depositors, including but not limited to meetings, as necessary, in order to inform you of what's happening.

In the meantime, I have taken action, including meetings with representatives of the new HAJ Board, the management, and other government agencies, to finalize the programme to move ahead. In particular, I should indicate that discussions have been held with the National Housing Trust - the Chairman of which is present in the Chamber - to explore possibilities for collaboration on this and on other projects.

Mr. Speaker, based on the professional and technical advice presented to me, I have instructed that a more precise and in-depth cost analysis be conducted on what is required for the supporting infrastructure, especially sewage disposal and storm drainage, to ensure efficiency and effectiveness of installation.

Mr. Speaker, the promised date of delivery of the units will be delayed in order to complete the required due diligence. Notwithstanding, deadlines have been set for supply of the requisite information to avoid further delays.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say something - and I hear the question posed all the time - if all these investments come, are they simply to employ foreigners?

One of the points I want to - and I want to speak about a special institution, the Caribbean Maritime Institute. (Applause) And when we speak about training for the Growth Agenda, this institution is going to play a critical role, in terms of producing qualified professionals to support the Growth Agenda.

The CMI Board, chaired by Mrs. Joan Ernandez, who is a creative educator, totally committed to the view that everyone, both young and not so young, can be trained to be a productive citizen.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. DAVIES: The Executive Director, Dr. Fritz Pinnock, shares an identical viewpoint.

The first point I wish to make is that working in collaboration with my colleague Minister, the Minister of Education - work is far advanced to upgrade the CMI to being a specialized university, catering to maritime, intermodal transportation and logistics...

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Multimodal.

Dr. DAVIES: ...offering global certification, which meet and surpass international standards.

(Applause)

The student population of CMI is projected to grow to over 4,000 in the next two years. (Applause) One of the reasons we are confident about the growth of the CMI - and listen carefully to this - is that this tertiary institution has the highest placement record of any tertiary institution in Jamaica. An average of 93 per cent of graduates obtain high-paying jobs immediately after graduation, 93 per cent. (Applause)

I wish to highlight some of the initiatives in which the CMI is engaged. There is a FESTO Lab - FESTO is brand name. CMI is partnering with FESTO Didactic to establish a centre certified by the world's leading company in the field of industrial automation and - then a new word for me - mechatronics.

The funding for this project, Two Million US (US$2M) is being supported by a grant from the PetroCaribé Fund. (Applause) The FESTO Centre will produce certified technicians needed for the maintenance and operation of ports, not just to meet the demand in Jamaica, but also regional and international demand.

Then there is the Siemens PLM Platform. The CMI is currently in the process of acquiring software from Siemens valued at US Fifty Million (US$50M). And I checked this figure, and Dr. Pinnock assures me that that figure is correct. This software will enable CMI to change the way students learn, facilitating learning through simulated training - simulators, right - which is computer-aided practical learning. That's an explanation for you, okay.

The CMI will be an assimilation centre of the Americas equipped with over 50 different simulators to satisfy the needs of lands, maritime and air sectors. (Applause) The CMI now boast a modern simulator centre and there is nobody who can beg as well as Fritz, Pinnock, a modern simulator centre equipped with nine new state-of-the-art simulators valued in excess of US$1.5 Million funded by the Universal Service Fund. CMI is also involved in researching and implementing alternate energy solutions. The institute entered into a partnership with JPS for the retrofitting of streetlights along the Palisadoes Road and in the Port Royal Community. And I don't think there is - it is just a mere coincidence that these areas are represented by the Minister of Energy, but good work is being done.

The existing Cobra streetlights have been retrofitted; using the CMI's own patented circuit board. This retrofitting exercise will reduce energy costs by up to 70 per cent for each streetlight. The institution is in the process of establishing and I find this most exciting 125 KW solar system which will generate 15 per cent of the energy the institution consumes.

A new ABM, NCB is installing a new ABM which will be the first hybrid wind and solar powered ABM in the Caribbean. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, why I stress this is that this institution is demonstrating the possibility of producing world-class professionals even whilst surviving on limited resources. There is a pre-college programme being implemented with institutions such as Kingston High School.

In addition, next year, using space which the Ministry has provided to them in the Air Jamaica building they will be training an additional 2,000 students drawn from institutions such as Sam Sharpe Teachers' College and Kingston High School. (Applause)

Special credit goes to my PS who incidentally is the former PS in Education and has worked assiduously in ensuring that this space be made available to CMI. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I have come to say something about bringing order to the public transportation system. It is no secret that I am not satisfied with the state of the public transportation system which mainly serves lower income households as well as students, elderly and the physically challenged. And I am not speaking only about public transportation in the Kingston Metropolitan Region but island-wide. I am not satisfied with this thing and no well thinking Jamaican could be satisfied. Critical to the process of modernization and greater discipline is the work of the Transport Authority, one of the agencies in my Ministry.

The Transport Authority is presently implementing a range of initiatives aimed at improving the service provided to the commuters of the country and they are not focusing only on the private franchise holders, but their regulatory authority also extends to the JUTC.

In March of this year the Transport Authority introduced the jot information system, which has greatly improved the efficiency in identifying PPV drivers and conductors. Similarly, a Road Management Information System will facilitate the automation of road inspection and will be implemented during this financial year. It will enable road inspectors to access real time information on public passenger vehicles and operators on the road using a tablet computer. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the authority is acting to link the application for road licences to the drivers; it is now a requirement for owners/operators of public passenger vehicles to register their drivers with the Transport Authority. One of the discoveries we made in the changeover in the JUTC system is that several operators couldn't tell you who their drivers were. What they are just interested in is cash at the end of the day and anybody who is driving the vehicles. All drivers of public passenger vehicles are required by law to be the holder of a Transport Authority badge; so we do background checks to determine whether you should be given.

Mr. Speaker, both the Ministry and the Transport Authority are aware of widespread allegations about the operations of officials employed to that Authority. Whilst all these allegations may not be correct, I wish to assure my colleagues as well as members of the public that we take them seriously and provided that specific details are given, they will be investigated and the necessary actions taken.

I will return to this issue Mr. Speaker because too often we know that a problem exists and we duck it and pretend that it is, you know, just rumors, we know, we know that there is a problem. Therefore, I urge that persons involved in the sector should send in to the Ministry and to me in particular, specific on incidence and corruption about which they have knowledge.

Mr. Speaker, I now go into an in-depth discussion of a most important aspect of the public transportation system, the JUTC.

Mr. Speaker, the JUTC was awarded an exclusive licence to provide public transportation services in the KMTR. It is you or it is Horace?

Dr. PHILLIPS: But remember where it coming from you know, what they did in the '80s.

Dr. DAVIES: I know, I am going easy so far, I am going easy so far and I am going easy with you too. But for a variety of reasons private operators were granted licences to assist in serving the commuters. One reason was that the JUTC did not have enough seats to cover the number of commuters.

Mr. Speaker, I don't want to go into a long statement on JUTC's financial problems but suffice it to say for the entire period of its existence, it has faced financial challenges caused in part from the fact that successive Governments and Ministers of Finance, including myself, have been reluctant to allow for fares to be set at a rate which would allow the entity to break-even, but even that is a theatrically proposition because you don't know - if you try to set the rate for break-even what the impact will be on ridership.

Mr. Speaker there is obviously no requirement that such a fare be allowed. However, if an administration is unable to provide a subsidy to meet the deficit between operating costs and revenue collected, the company will inevitably face challenges in meeting its basic obligations. This is not theory, Mr. Speaker, these are facts, right.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mathematics, well it is Maths.

Dr. DAVIES: Okay. Alright I will accept.

Mr. Speaker, there is an interesting point I want to make about the JUTC. If you look at the company, it is almost totally dependent on foreign exchange, the buses the tires, the fuel, are all imported, at present the spare parts. The JUTC is the single largest consumer of motor vehicle fuel averaging purchases and that word is used deliberately purchases, of $38 Million per week equal to 10 per cent of the country's total consumption of such fuel. Put simply Mr. Speaker, compensation of employees is really the only significant expenditure of the JUTC which is totally denominated in Jamaican dollars, only compensation of employees everything else.

Mr. SHAW: You tell him to hold the dollar because of that, you tell him to hold the dollar?

Dr DAVIES: I am coming to you. Mr. Speaker, it is a fact that because of the inadequacy of the support provided to the JUTC, there have been times in the recent past when the size of the fleet on the roads daily has been reduced to 250. In fact, sometimes that 250 size fleet on the road was only made possible by cannibalizing other buses which themselves were off the road because of the unavailability of spare parts.

Mr. SHAW: Really so how you a kill mi fi all of the new buses?

Dr. DAVIES: I am coming to you. It was partly in recognition of that fact of this desperate situation and I am gathering that in 2011 the previous Administration ordered an additional 230 buses from the Belgium Company which builds the buses. This Administration inherited this order, but we discovered that there had been no Cabinet approval of the loan to purchase the buses. Although we had serious concern, this Administration formally ratified the order of the buses in 2012 and although I can't show you this, this Cabinet submission signed on the 28th of March 2012, sought approval of a loan agreement to finance the purchase of...

Ms. HANNA: 2011?

A MEMBER: 2012.

Dr. DAVIES: I don't make that breed of mistake. 2012, the approval of a loan agreement to finance the purchase of 230 buses for the public transportation sector...

A MEMBER: When was that?

Dr. DAVIES: 2012.

Mr. SHAW: So you don't need the buses anymore. Take them back.

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, since he is shouting, I will repeat only for the record that whilst the loan agreement to purchase these buses were signed by the then Minister of Finance who may be here or not here in...

A MEMBER: When was that?

Dr. DAVIES: …In 2011, there was no approval by Cabinet of the loan until March 2012. Such that situation, Mr. Speaker, such a situation could have provided ample opportunity to score political points, but after consultation with the Prime Minister and with Cabinet colleagues it was determined that I would simply formalize the matter by taking the submission to Cabinet and set things right.

Mr. SHAW: And you needed the buses?

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker - But you pushing your luck now you know.

When this Administration speaks of finding ways to unify the country...

(Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Dr. DAVIES: I told you before I started speaking that I am cool with you today.

...we mean it, we made no attempt to exploit the possible political gains about the order and no rational person could have questioned the need for the additional units. We took that approach...

Mr. SHAW: Say it again, no rational person...

Dr. DAVIES: Question. The need, but every rational person questioned why the Minister of Finance did not get their approval from Cabinet.

Mr. Speaker, and I am being honest here; we took that approach because Jamaica not some two-bit banana republic that one....

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Dr. DAVIES: And I said something was done, we know it, why it was done. We are not a two-bit banana republic where we go and say internationally that the Minister of Finance signed it but we are un-signing it and that is why nothing was made of it.

After obtaining Cabinet's belated approval, I travelled to Belgium from where the buses are imported to negotiate with the suppliers to reduce the number of buses and to reallocate funds from the loans to purchase solely needed spare parts. We are buying 230 buses, we had another whole set probably another 200 laid up, and so we reduce the number of buses and sought instead to purchase more spare parts.

Now Mr. Speaker, with the - over the past two years with the phased arrival of the buses, the number of roadworthy buses in the fleet has been increased from an average....

(Sotto voce comments of Mr. Warmington)

Dr. DAVIES: ...from an average of 240 daily to the present figure of just under 500 and this will be increased to 565, not only because of the addition of the new buses, but because now that we have spare parts we have repaired and more importantly, there is a more exciting development taking place where JUTC and HEART/NTA are going to combine to establish a facility along Lyndhurst Road to meet two objectives, one to provide youngsters in training, in repairing, major repairs and secondly to save the JUTC. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it is against the background of an expanded fleet that the Ministry, together with the Board and management of the JUTC, sought to reassess the number of prime JUTC routes which had been awarded to private sub-franchise holders. A careful analysis was carried out which indicated that a return to the provision of an acceptable level of service would require the JUTC to re-examine the number of such franchise licences which had been issued. There would also be the need for sustained programmed interaction with the holders of the sub-franchises/outlining the process through which the JUTC would reclaim routes which had been granted to private operators before particularly, on the most profitable routes.

Mr. Speaker, I've deliberately spent so much time to present the background, because I wish to place formally on record a total rejection...

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes.

Dr. DAVIES: ...of the unfair...

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes.

Dr. DAVIES: ...untrue and the misleading assertion made by Leader of Opposition in his contribution to the Budget Debate.

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: What!

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, I quote from the Leader of Opposition's presentation. I would hope that I am not the only reader - page 9 in his discussion of the JUTC's dealings with the sub-franchise holders - in speaking of programme to reclaim some of more profitable routes the Leader of the Opposition stated, and here the quote:

> "It is presented in the most arrogant take it or leave it manner. There is no consideration that people's livelihood are at stake. This move is about the Government subjecting bus operators to pain and punishment to meet its IMF target."

Mr. Speaker, I'll not only refute this wild and malicious charge, but I'll now read into the record nine separate meetings which were held with representatives of the private sub-franchise group including three involving my Minister without Portfolio and myself and one involving the Most Honourable Prime Minister.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: What!

Mr. CHARLES: An agreement...

(Cross talk)

Dr. DAVIES: Yes, at which Mr. Speaker, January 15, 2014, JUTC held meet a meeting with the representatives of JATOO and JUTC; January 23, 2014, JUTC held meetings with NATO; January 28, there is a meeting between the Ministry, JUTC, the transport operators and JATOO. I was in that meeting and so was my Minister without Portfolio. February 14, 2014, your man tell me sey him dun wid you, because you caan help him. (Laughter) Your man. You know him. Him tell me sey you caan help him.

(Inaudible comment by Opposition Member)

Dr. DAVIES: You dun wid him too? Okay.

Opposition MEMBER: Yeah man, dun wid him from bout two years ago.

Dr. DAVIES: From two years ago, okay.

Mr. SHAW: Is a mutual dun wid him. (Laughter)

Dr. DAVIES: February 14, there was this meeting; February 21, there's a meeting with the Most Honourable Prime Minister - I was involved in the meeting, representatives of JUTC, the Transport Authority, JATOO, the police and the bus operators. February 25, we met with one Bruce Miller, a bus operator, of Western Transit. March 4, there is the seminar held by JUTC with all sub-franchise bus operators where we went through in detail what would be taken.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Wow!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Consultation.

(Cross talk)

Dr. DAVIES: March 29, there was follow up meeting of sub-franchise seminar with all sub-franchise bus operators; seminar down - one was at the [Jamaica] Conference Centre and one was at the Elletson Road Police Station.

A Government MEMBER: What!

Dr. DAVIES: Yes.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

And then April 17 meeting with myself, with the Minister without Portfolio and with Minister Hylton and his bus operators from his constituency. Mr. Speaker, in those meetings not only were the private operators allowed to state their case but I draw specific attention to two of those meetings: in the meeting held in the Ministry's conference room on January 28 after listening to their concerns, I extended unilaterally - overruled the Board and extended the deadline for applications. And furthermore, when they complained about the routes which had not been, I authorized at the JUTC to accept applications for routes which had not been advertised. I not only said to them the deadline must change, but I said even when the route was not advertised make your case and then we will deliberate.

Mr. ATKINSON: So we consulted, consulted, consulted.

Dr. DAVIES: And overruling my Board, and overruling my Board. In the follow-up meeting, Mr. Speaker, I again overruled the Board and management instructing that an additional thirty licences for the most lucrative routes should be issued to sub-franchise.

(Cross talk)

Dr. PHILLIPS: And then dem call that arrogant and....

Dr. DAVIES: Yes.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Oh shame! Shame! Shame!

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, it was this blatant misrepresentation of the facts which caused me to halt the Leader of Opposition trying to stop him from further

Dr. PHILLIPS: Misleading the House and the whole country.

Dr. DAVIES: This is unsolicited advice, but if you plan to rewrite history you can't do it less than three months after it happen. You wait a couple years before you start rewriting history. It leaves you to being exposed as being either misinformed or....

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Or mischievous.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Reckless, reckless.

Dr. DAVIES: No, no, I'm not going down there.

Mr. Speaker, every Member of this House would confirm not only me, but the rest of the two Ministers in my Ministry are acceptable to all my colleagues. If the Leader of the Opposition wished to have information on the process all he needed to do is to pick up the phone. There is no reason for him to be misinformed on this. Apart from misleading the House the Leader of the Opposition advanced to Parliament two solutions to the problem.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Babsie or Sharon?

Dr. DAVIES: Yuh eavesdropping? (Laughter)

He proposed, one, reducing the number of standing passenger on the JUTC bus thus using more buses to carry the same number of passengers; and two, awarding off-peak hours exclusively to sub-franchise operators whilst restricting JUTC operation to peak hours. To put it mildly and euphemistically, these proposals could not have benefited from any serious reflections and/or analysis.

A MEMBER: What!

Dr. DAVIES: They could not have benefited. Mr. Speaker, first, given the precarious financial situation of the JUTC every month and my Permanent Secretary moving from account to another trying to find some money to pay another outstanding bill; and given that precarious situation, what logic is there in the proposal to eliminate standing passengers? In other words, incurring the same operational cost whilst cutting your revenues in half by having sitting passengers only? If the Leader of Opposition had asked, I would have told him that one of the major challenges faced by the JUTC is its low load factor. It only has a load factor of 52 per cent. Is he saying that a lower load factor is desirable? Is he willing to indicate where the additional funding would come from?

In terms of handing over the off-peak hours exclusively to private franchise holders, again, if the Leader of Opposition had run this wild idea by me, I would just tell him, calm down. (Laughter) I would have told him - and we have the number and we can give it to you - the monthly collection in those off-peak hours is $132 Million or approximately $1.6 Billion per year: So his solution is to give that up so you have the bus system and you say give away the $1.6 Billion. How would we compensate for this loss of revenue? And if you doubt me ask your colleague. Him know that all the numbers that I am telling you here and I know he faced the same challenge he faced.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Pickersgill)

Dr. DAVIES: You don't think he consulted - I not getting into that.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Charles)

Dr. DAVIES: We deserve better. Your system didn't have any subsidy, but any fowl coop - every fowl coop with four wheels was on the road licenced by you. (Laughter/applause) We deserve better than this from the Leader of Opposition.

Mr. Speaker, whilst it's a nice touch relating anecdotes of a ride on bus, operating a public transportation system is not based on gimmickry and anecdotes. There are some hard facts for us to analyze. Mr. Speaker, I've spent so much time seeking to layout this problem, because although the existence of an efficient transportation system is a prerequisite for any major urban centre, there is a more important fact which applies to this matter. This controversy has led to violence. I would even venture to say terrorist responses to which the JUTC buses and their workers have been subjected. It's not a joke business. A rock thrown in the windshield of a moving bus cannot be regarded as an idle prank. It could lead to the driver and worse yet a fatal accident leading to further loss of life. I noted with dismay that whilst the Leader of the Opposition found time to speak at length on the matter of the JUTC's reclaiming of its route, there was not one word, not one word of condemnation of the terrorist actions.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Shame!

Dr. DAVIES: There was not one word of solidarity with the workers of the entity who have been placed under unnecessary stress and whose lives have been endangered by the behaviour of criminals.

Government MEMBERS: Shame! Shame!

Mr. BUCHANAN: Insensitive!

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, these workers and the Minister, the PS and I visited them at four in the morning, 3 mornings....

(Cross talk)

No, four, because they move out at 4:15 and apart from my admiration for them generally, I was amazed the people could knock off fry dumpling and….

(Inaudible comment by member)

Dr. DAVIES: No, I reached there on time. I reached there on time. I was leaving the office at 3 okay, good. Yes, there is not one word of solidarity with these workers and I think they deserved that.

Mr. Speaker, in his closing presentation, the Minister of Finance and the planning spoke to the need for the country to reach the point where we can determine that certain issues need not be the subject of unnecessary divisions, partisan or otherwise. Public transportation must be one such issue deserving of a coalition of well meaning who seek for a better treatment of our commuters and who oppose violence and anarchy. (Applause) On behalf of the Ministry and, indeed, on behalf the administration we commit to bring order and organization to the public transportation system not just in the KMR, but island wide. (Applause) Our people deserve no less.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I have a section called doing more with less. My Ministry and the associated public entities have accepted the reality that the GOJ will be short of cash, but the euphemism is limited fiscal space for the next several years. Consequently, we are constantly seeking ways to use each dollar more efficiently, more bang for the buck. I will now briefly describe two initiatives which without spending an extra dollar can reap real benefits.

First is concrete roads. During the Standing Finance Committee - I can't remember which - I think it may have been the Opposition Spokesman on Finance asked whether any effort was being made to explore alternative road construction methods and I answered in the affirmative. I recently invited two firms: one local and another multinational, which have an interest in this area of activity to make a technical presentation to the political directorate and officials in the Ministry and the NWA. Following the presentation, there was a frank exchange of views, some technical leaving me behind, but my colleague was on top of all the technical specs and I wish to among announce a major policy undertaking by the Ministry. For future road construction activities the bid documents prepared by NWA will invite responses which speak only to the technical specifications required for the structure of the roads to be built or repaired. In other words, responses can either be for constructing using asphalt or concrete.

Mr. Speaker, this represents a significant breakthrough, in terms of exploiting the most cost-effective road construction methodology - and I'll keep colleagues and the public fully informed on the matter. So, those who have long been advocating concrete, we give the assurance that the request for proposal will speak only to the specification. You can determine the material you wish to use.

I next turn to another issue for my colleague, the Minister of Local Government who is from the right part of the right parish.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: St. Catherine?

Dr. DAVIES: He didn't have the opportunity to, but it would have rubbed off him from his siblings who attended Glenmuir, but he is a good man.

Mr. Speaker, the issue of responsibility for various sections of Jamaica's road network has long generated a great deal of discussion. It is well-known that even whilst the officials of the NWA complain about inadequate resources to address the roads which are specifically identified as their responsibility, the Ministry of Local Government and the local authorities express even stronger views, that they don't have enough money.

Mr. Speaker, those views have become more passionate as they feel that they were duped in giving up some of their resources; the resources specifically allocated to them, and they were duped to give that up to support the servicing of the JDIP loan in return for the promise of a more equitable allocation of resources.

Mr. McKENZIE: Cheap argument... cheap argument...

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, I don't intend to enter that debate, but speaking as a private citizen, I can indicate that the average taxpayer is not too concerned about which arm of Government has legal responsibility for the maintenance of the roads which he or she uses.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Absolutely!

Dr. DAVIES: I know because I am bombarded by requests from individuals; individual parish councillors who probably write me more than they write you - and local authorities, to repair roads which did not fall under the aegis of the NWA. Yesterday, I showed the Minister without Portfolio, a list from his parish, indicating a whole list of roads. Nonetheless, since taking office, I have recognized that these calls for repairs to non-NWA roads cannot be ignored.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's right.

Dr. DAVIES: In fact, during fiscal years 2012/2013 and 2013/2014, my Ministry, through the NWA expended close to $6 Billion on the roads belong to local authorities. (Applause)

Mr. WARMINGTON: Did you consider South West St. Catherine in that?

Dr. DAVIES: I am in contact with your councillors.

(Applause) (Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. WARMINGTON: (Inaudible) ...you haven't repaired a single one.

Mr. McKENZIE: Cheap argument...

(Sotto voce comments)

(The Speaker gavels)

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Local Government and I have agreed that as a matter of urgency we will begin working on this matter. (Applause) It is a low-hanging fruit. It is not necessarily going to bring us more resources, but with greater coordination in assigning priority to the roads, for which local authorities are responsible, in terms of their need for repairs. (Applause)

This is not simply about my Ministry passing over additional resources to the local authorities, but the greater coordination in designing responses as well as the technical specification and procurement policies, have indicated that we can't have two different sets of procurement policies, it must be the same standards. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. DAVIES: There can be no doubt that the result would be a more efficient use of what is without doubt, inadequate resources, but the cooperation will make the difference.

Mr. Speaker, in concluding, as I indicated at the beginning, the Ministry which I have the honour of heading is responsible for numerous entities, and consequently, indirectly responsible for the quality of services they provide. Given the time limitations, several institutions, each of which deserves full coverage, have not received such in this presentation. I have focused on the operations of the JUTC, the Transport Authority and the Caribbean Maritime Institute.

In terms of projects, I have dealt, not only with those financed by Government but, in addition, those financed by private entrepreneurs. This is consistent with the policy of seeking private sector investors for sectors which were formally the exclusive responsibility of GOJ.

One of the critical points I hope is coming through, Mr. Speaker, we are not just talking, talking, talking; we are working, working, working. (Applause)

The total value of these privately funded projects is significant, choosing the partners with whom Government will do business, or to whom Government awards contracts, provides my Ministry, both the political directorate and the officials, with great influence in determining how significant sums are expended. In executing these tasks, integrity, transparency, and equity are non-negotiable requirements. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker that is why we have routed the Major Development Infrastructure Project through the Budget, such that every one of us can have a comment on the projects which are selected. (Applause)

Mrs. NIETA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. DAVIES: This is foreign territory. I didn't even get the chance to indicate that under JDIP, not even one single road got fixed in South St. Andrew.

A MEMBER: You too?

Dr. DAVIES: Not even one chance to do that, or even to commend, Opposition Spokesman on Finance on getting about 90 per cent of the money in Manchester. I didn't get a chance to do that.

A MEMBER: For the bridge or the road?

Opposition MEMBER: You are too generous.

Dr. DAVIES: (Laughs) I just born suh. Mr. Speaker...

MEMBERS: The bridge... the road...

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, let me indicate that the Administration has zero tolerance for the misuse of any of the powers which are accorded both the political directorate, and the workers, and the civil servants. Let me indicate zero tolerance.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it is important to recognize that all of us are here to serve only for a while. Consequently, apart from being held to the highest levels of accountability, it is also incumbent upon us to be accessible to the general public, to the community and special interest groups, but also no less important to political representatives.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. DAVIES: I would dare to say that there is not one of my colleagues in this House who could truthfully claim discrimination in the allocation of resources.

(Applause/Sotto voce comment)

Dr. DAVIES: I discriminate for Delroy against you but - you agree with that?

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: That's slow.

Miss GRANGE: They can't call somebody else.

Mr. McKENZIE: Shut yuh mouth - zip, zip, zip...

Dr. DAVIES: We all have aspirations. Mr. Speaker... you thought I was joking but our parking lot has more Labourites in there - MPs that is - than Comrades so I can tell you that they know that justice will be done, not to mention the phone call dem. And the truth is, Mr. Speaker, there is ample evidence of that. I am most proud of the way - and I repeat it...

(Sotto voce comment by Miss Grange)

Dr. DAVIES: Okay, okay, I see.

Dr. PHILLIPS: That's what he is saying; that's exactly what he is saying. She gets it.

(Sotto voce comments)

(The Speaker gavels)

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, I speak about - I made reference to it before, and again. The way in which the post Sandy housing reconstruction was carried out is a model which should be endorsed. The Member from West Portland, the Member from East Portland, the Member from East St. Thomas and the Member from West St. Thomas, I receive not one -1 forgot St. Mary...

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Where the Member from West St. Thomas?

Dr. GUY: Not true, not true - mostly in Portland.

Dr. DAVIES: No, no, no...

A MEMBER: St. Catherine was neglected.

Dr. DAVIES: Yes, because we can't just make up a storm, you know. (Laughter) There has to be an actual... you can't just create a storm, you know.

Mr. SAMUDA: All the money was spent in St. Mary.

Dr. BAUGH: St. Catherine was neglected.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comment)

Dr. DAVIES: Mr. Speaker, we are not suggesting that we have been perfect, and we welcome comments, suggestions and criticisms, particularly in instances where there is the claim that equity has not prevailed. I want to hear it. Our commitment is that all who work in the central ministry, and the agencies and entities, will seek to assiduously carry out the nation's business in the manner which will lead to us earning and retaining the trust of the public. That's a commitment, and I thank you, Mr. Speaker. (Applause)

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips...

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker...

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker, I hear the House Leader asked for recommittal.

The SPEAKER: But you don't know what the Minister has arisen for.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker - there is not a thing to re-commit. It is on Public Business; it's on Public Business.

The SPEAKER: Yes, Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move that the Bill shortly entitled: The Banking Services Act, 2014, be withdrawn from the Table of the House.

The issue, Mr. Speaker, is that in the copy which was printed, there were some discrepancies which had been noted between the long version, which had been laid, that is to say, the cyclostyle version and the printed version, and in fact, there were some typographical and other errors that were noted. It was felt that the easiest way of facilitating the work of the Select Committee, and of the House, was to withdraw the Bill that is before the House and to present this.

So, Mr. Speaker, I move that the Bill shortly entitled: The Banking Services Act, be withdrawn from the Table of the House.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Bill be withdrawn from the Table of the House.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, I now ask for recommittal of the Item Notices of Motions Given Orally.

Mr. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, you know, I am amazed at what you tolerate in this House, in relation to set procedures. It really is unbecoming, sir, based on your experience as a Speaker in this House.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You a dis up the Speaker.

Mr. D. SMITH: I am speaking facts which you will never understand.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. L. Buchanan)

The SPEAKER: Mr. Smith...

Mr. D. SMITH: Yes, sir...

The SPEAKER: What is the point you are trying to raise?

Mr. D. SMITH: The point I made, sir, is that the Member who spoke earlier about the order which was incorrect, is accurate, and you should have recognized that.

The SPEAKER: Based on what, sir? What are you basing that accuracy on?

Mr. D. SMITH: Based on the fact that what the Member brought to your attention was not under Public Business, and you know that.

Mr. WARMINGTON: It cannot be under Public Business.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, this is at Public Business.

Mr. WARMINGTON: No, no, no!

Dr. PHILLIPS: Hold on, we received the advice from the Clerk as to the procedure to be followed. What the procedure is, first we indicate our intention to withdraw...

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Continue, Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: There is no need for any contention. The House Leader, acting... pro tem, has now asked for Notices of Motions to be recommitted.

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. PHILLIPS: At that point... he has now asked... she just did it.

The SPEAKER: But you're not following...

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. D. Smith)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, no, the first.

The SPEAKER: No, you are not following what is happening, man. We are withdrawing one Bill-

Dr. PHILLIPS: Let me try and break it down again, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: ...and introducing a new one.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The first thing is to withdraw one; that's what has been done. The second thing is to seek leave of the House to present a new Bill, which is now being sought by leave of the House, notice of which has been sought - has been offered by the House Leader.

When we get the Leave of the House, we will give notice and seek to present the Bill. It is not the other way around. You first have to withdraw, so that you can't have two Bills with the same thing in the House.

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, there is no such item on the Order Paper; there is no such item on the Order Paper.

The SPEAKER: Thank you, Minister Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: The appropriate officer to advise, I would say, is the Clerk.

The SPEAKER: Thank you for the explanation, Minister.

The question is for the recommittal of Item Notices of Motions Given Orally.

Put to the House and agreed to.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY
(Recommitted)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move to introduce and have read a first time the Bill shortly entitled: "The Banking Services Act, 2014". I further beg to give notice that at a later stage today, I will move for the suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to introduce the Bill, have it read a first and a second time and refer to a Special Select Committee for consideration and report.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the suspension of the Standing Orders to enable the Minister to introduce the Bill?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker I now move for suspension of the Standing Orders to enable me to introduce and have read a first time, a Bill shortly entitled: "The Banking Services Act, 2014", to give notice of second reading, have it read a second time and referred to a Special Select Committee for consideration and report.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Standing Orders be suspended to enable the Minister to introduce the Bill and have it read a first time, and a second time and referred to a Special Select Committee?

Put to the House and agreed to.

Bill shortly entitled:

"The Banking Services Act, 2014",

read a first time.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker I beg to give notice of second reading of the Bill and ask that it be read a second time?

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Bill be read a second time?

Put to the House and agreed to.

Bill entitled:

"AN ACT to Repeal the Banking Act and the Financial Institutions Act, to amend the Bank of Jamaica Act and the Building Societies Act, to make new provision with regard to the supervision of banks, financial holding companies and other financial institutions and for connected matters",

read a second time.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I now move:

Be it Resolved that notwithstanding Standing Orders 76.1, this Honourable House of Representatives appoint a Special Select Committee comprising the following Members:

Dr. Hon. Peter Phillips, MP
Hon. Peter Bunting, MP
Hon. Julian Robinson, MP
Mr. Fitz Jackson, MP
Mr. Mikael Phillips, MP
Mr. AndréHylton, MP
Mr. Audley Shaw, CD, MP
Mr. Karl Samuda, CD, MP
Mr. Gregory Mair, MP,

to sit jointly with a similar Committee to be appointed by the Senate to consider and report on a Bill shortly entitled: "The Banking Services Act, 2014".

Put to the House and agreed to.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, in accordance with Standing Orders 77/8, I further seek your permission and that of the House for the Committee to meet outside of the precincts of the Parliament.

The SPEAKER: Permission granted.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, we now have the contribution from the Member from West Rural St. Andrew.

SECTORAL DEBATE

The SPEAKER: Mr. Buchanan. (Applause)

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: Mr. Speaker, I rise in a gentle retort to my colleague Member from South St. Andrew in affirming that the journey has been long, but this boy from Jones Town, a great community, that spanned five Rhodes Scholars in a decade feel a special sense of pride in rising to participate in the Budget Debate today. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, once more there is the need to report on developments in West Rural St. Andrew. This time, Mr. Speaker, I must go further. It behooves all Members of this Honourable House to draw on our experiences to make some recommendations towards the growth agenda, which is the central imperative of our time. Later on, Mr. Speaker, I'll address some specific issues in that regard.

Mr. Speaker, the journey that we began in December 2011 continues. Permit me a moment to acknowledge the work, worth and commitment of my Councillors who have been my fellow travellers on the journey. First from the Brandon Hill Division, Let me acknowledge the support of the long-serving Councillor Garrick Walker (Applause) in Red Hills, in Red Hills, Otis Hamilton. (Applause) My caretakers, the well organized Abby Hill in Stony Hill and the hardworking Homer Cameron in Lawrence Tavern. (Applause) Mr. Cameron's work along with Councillor Walker in designing a Low-Cost Medical Treatment using a Discount Card for the people of West Rural St. Andrew must be commended. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I also particularly want to salute the CDF staff at OPM, ably led by Moveta Munroe and Pauline Scott-Blair, and at the SDC Office the tireless unsung labour of Miss Lois Levy and Jean Johnson. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, my purpose here is not simply to list all our accomplishments that would keep us here until night.

(Inaudible comment by Opposition Member)

(Laughter)

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: (Chuckles) Mr. Speaker, I'm going to do some, however, it would be an injustice to the Minister of Transport and Works if I did not.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to report that despite the woeful state of the constituency infrastructure we inherited, we find great satisfaction in the many improvements we have made thus far. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, West Rural St. Andrew is now looking much better. Whether you go to Stony Hill, Lawrence Tavern, Red Hills or even Rock Hall, they are all cleaner, no potholes growing with the people's holdings appreciating.

Mr. Speaker, to place our work in perspective, let me simply confirm that in the 24 months that have elapsed, we have completed a highway, a new Basic School, a new Primary School, a new clinic at practical completion, two bridges, a new water supply to one of our divisions and an IT Training Programme with fully equip labs in five locations. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: There can be few parallels with such advances in so short a period.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You are a true Buchanan.

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: Mr. Speaker, let me provide more details on the progress we have made.

The Eric Malcolm Basic School at Cushnie Road completed. The new Red Hills Primary School completed within schedule and budget, and officially opened in February by the Minister of Education. (Applause) The fully repaired Mount Ogle Breakaway; the fully repaired Allman Hill Breakaway; the fully repaired Oberlin Breakaway, the Stony Hill Water Supply.

Phase I of the George Mason Drive where finally after several decades, we have brought some dignity to the memory of an outstanding Mayor. (Applause) And completion of one of the bridges at George Mason Drive.

The Halls Green Bridge for the first time in a generation, we have removed the danger to residents, allow for vehicular traffic over the Wag Water River, add value to the homes of the people, show care and uplift their wellbeing. The work of Councillor Walker is to be commended here and also the George Mason Drive.

Mr. Speaker, we have achieved practical completion at the new Golden Spring Clinic in less than four months. In fact, when the Honourable Minister of Health visited, he expressed not only his complete satisfaction at the workmanship, but was astonished at the speed of the work; the workers deserve our total commendation. (Applause) And the roads, we often forget how terrible these roads have been.

The Stony Hill to Castleton Highway now completely upgraded. The Tom's River to Florence Hill Roadway; the Belmont Roadway; upgrading of the Temple Hall to Border Roadway. After a very long time the JUTC buses have returned to Border.

For the first time in a lifetime the construction of paved roads in the forgotten communities of Mount Zion and Burkewood in Red Hills. At Boon Hall Housing Scheme we were able to work with the leadership of the Housing Trust to find the necessary funding to pave the roads in that project after a generation of neglect.

Mr. Speaker, last but not least. We have shown commitment to our education programme by delivering approximately $14 Million in scholarships and book grants over the two-year period.

Mr. Speaker, last year I announced our intention to launch The Vision 2050 Information Technology Training Programme with its motto being; "From Beginners to Programmers", or "From Level I to Level 3". Today, I proudly report that on the 29th of March, 2014, the Honourable Minister of Science, Technology and Mining officially launched the programme.

Mr. Speaker, the classes have begun at five locations, most of which are over-subscribed. Some of our partners and stakeholders who assisted us in this noble enterprise are here with us today.

Firstly, we are indebted to Minister Paulwell, Minister of State, Julian Robinson and the UAF Team, Universal Access Fund Team for the funding of 130 computers, plus networking and two years of Internet free. (Applause)

Secondly Mr. Speaker I want to not only thank Minister Thwaites in particular, his HEART/NTA Team that gave technical support and is now providing training and certification.

The team led by Mr. Denworth Finnikin, Senior Director, Workforce Development and Employment; Mr. Aston Spencer, Acting Director/Principal and Miss Bernadette Robinson, Deputy Manager at the HEART Eastern Institute Stony Hill campus. They are here with us; their support has been invaluable and their partnership underpins the authenticity of the Vision 2050 Programme. We cannot thank them enough. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, apart from giving a second chance or a third chance to residents from age

16 to age 60, Vision 2050, a community-based NGO, has allowed people to dream again, political rivals to sit together and learn again as they once did when they were at school; when they were at primary school long before political hatred and acrimony. Mr. Speaker, it has been a beautiful experience to witness the unfolding of this new political culture that speaks to civility, tolerance, respect and the primacy of performance over blind adherence to political partisanship. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker on the 30th of this month we intend to complete the model with the programmers, with the launch of the programmers section of Vision 2050. Mr. Speaker, we have assembled 25 of the brightest and best potential and trained programmers from West Rural St. Andrew; they will begin a period of training, research and ultimately new software production. This is the crowning intent of Vision 2050. We hope and pray that our Prime Minister will be able to grace us with her presence at so important an event.

Mr. Speaker, before ending this section on West Rural St. Andrew, I would want to highlight some of the plans for the coming year. We will begin our JEEP programme this month with road work at Arthur Leon Drive; Mount Prospect; Belvedere, Cypress Hall where work has already begun and the community where my mother grow in, in King Weston. (Applause) At the same time, we will be upgrading a number other roads in the four divisions.

We will continue to work with NWC to solve our chronic water problem. The JPSCo and the REP to bring light to areas that for too long had been subjected to darkness and lack of power. I would specifically ask the Minister and his team to urgently repair the Stony Hill to Finger Post section of Parks Road which threatens to cut off access to a number of communities as the bus route, especially between Stony Hill and Guava Gap is virtually impassable. I would also urge that in this financial year we finally bring some relief to the longsuffering people of Mount Horeb by fixing the bypass road at the breakaway.

Minister, I would also like to make another appeal for the dedicated taxpayers of Stony Hill and Red Hills in upgrading some of the roads in their respective communities.

Mr. Speaker, I specifically want to thank Minister Ferguson on behalf of the people for his care and understanding in signing-off on the upgrade of our health centres at Lawrence Tavern, Rock Hall, Red Hills and Padmore. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, I hope my colleagues do not begrudge West Rural St. Andrew its good fortune in gaining the attention of the Minister, as they might not be aware that the Minister has deep roots up there. His mother is from the great community of Brandon Hill.

Mr. SAMUDA: Labourite community.

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: Well we need to understand the link.

Mr. Speaker, a further work - too often we fail to recognize feats of extraordinary vision and courage by our people. It is a fact, Mr. Speaker, that while our Minister of Health is being cited and honoured by the international community, here at home is work has been largely unsung and resisted by influential stakeholders. We in West Rural St. Andrew want to place on record our full acknowledgement of his outstanding contribution to Jamaica, (Applause) not only as the Minister responsible for Health, but prior to that he served the people tirelessly as a dental surgeon for St. Thomas, his chosen profession for which he has been appointed a Fellow of the International College of Dentistry. (Applause) And in January of this year becoming...

(Sotto voce comments by Opposition Member)

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: He has given me already and I haven't even announced the Stony Hill Clinic....

Mr. DALLEY: You getting the Stony Hill Hospital.

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: I am leaving that one for next year.

... in January of this year in also becoming one of only three practising dentists in the world to receive the Presidential Award from the 85-year-old organization of 12,000 members. Well done, Dr. Ferguson. (Applause)

His laudable, single-minded dedication to Jamaica not only taking it to a smoke-free destination but also the health and wellness hub of the Caribbean have also earned him the Commander of Distinction by a grateful nation. Thank you, sir. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me turn to the Growth Agenda. Mr. Speaker, my theme in making these suggestions is that we must grow smart. Mr. Speaker, let me also underline my complete admiration for the relentless drive of the Minister of Finance in preparing the platform for growth. Mr. Speaker, from my vantage point in these benches I have watched him carefully, and as a man of sports I have likened him to a great centre forward N.A.D Tapping of Munro Melbourne and Jamaica; similarly stout a frame as Tapping, I have noted how he weaves and turns on his way to delivering a decisive shot to achieve his economic goals, eliciting the grudging admiration of even his fiercest opposition. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Minister Phillips has indeed earned the full support of all well thinking Jamaicans.

Mr. Speaker, I also want to recognize the sterling work of Minister Dalley in garnering critical wage restraint agreements from the public sector without which the economic platform for growth would not now be in place. (Applause) He has been a valid partner to the Minister of Finance and a long servant of this nation.

Then, Mr. Speaker, the captain of the team, our Prime Minister, (Applause) playing in the sweeper's role, enduring the pain of a nation; she has orchestrated our successful economic performance thus far with quiet determination, flawless timing and unerring coordination of our forces and critical stakeholders. (Applause) This, Mr. Speaker, is the reminiscence of her earlier state in 2006/2007 when single-digit inflation was recorded, low unemployment, increased NIR, tolerable debt-to-GDP ratio and solid GDP growth, long may she serve her nation. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me also affirm that in all of classical and neo-liberal economics there is no governmental edict or mandate that can institute a viable rate of exchange where a nation as the kind of debt and balance of payment problems that Jamaica has.

Mr. Speaker, we know that this will require a process, a number of deliberate steps, a series of actions to create non-inflationary growth to be competitive earned significant foreign exchange and thereby achieved a competitive rate. This is the platform that our Prime Minister and Minister of Finance are preparing. In this they have scored critical goals with the passing of IMF tests and the further fundamentals that are now in place. (Applause) To help them on their way we must apply our minds to facilitate smart growth models in our respective constituencies. Indeed, without adequate foreign exchange flows a fixed rate would lead to a return to the black market and shortages and civil unrest.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to my growth-smart suggestions. Let me start by thanking our Minister of Transport and Works for the wonderful job he has done in West Rural St. Andrew.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mrs. Neita-Headley)

Mr. P. BUCHANAN: Let me also say that great Ministers of Finance or good Ministers of Finance make even greater Ministers of Transport and Works. (Applause) In fact, they might even make greater football presidents. And, Minister, despite the loss on Monday, you know, you brought Arnett Gardens from the cellar, mid-way the season to be fighting for final spot. You have done well, Minister, and there is nothing... (Applause) Having said all that, I would request that the Ministry in concert with the Ministry of Agriculture endeavour to fix our roads to coffee country, and Mount Horeb, Mount Airy, Mount James and other areas of Brandon Hill and the adjoining areas of East Rural St. Andrew.

Mr. Speaker, following on the Government's wise decision to privatize its holdings; coffee prices are up again, now approaching $7,000 per box of coffee, per box of beans. Our people have gone back to resuscitate their farms after regrettable decades of downturn in the sector. But there are no roads in or out. This is a sector that we must prioritize as our Blue Mountain Coffee is a solid foreign exchange earner, a critical component of the growth agenda, Mr. Speaker, we must grow smart. Let us not forget also, Mr. Speaker, that there is urgent need to assist our farmers to modernize their farming practices and, even more critically to support their aspirations towards value-added productions such as pulping, washing, drying of beans as an initial step in this direction.

Mr. Speaker, this is very important as we must never again make the mistake of achieving growth without equity. The little farmer cannot survive by producing beans alone regardless of price. I have listened with great interest to the debates in this House about growth but I have not heard often enough about growth with equity. History is our guide here, Mr. Speaker, as between 1967 and 1972 there was cumulative GDP growth of 38.8%, perhaps the largest in our history, but total unemployment stood at thirty-three and a third per cent classifying the period as one of growth without equity.

Mr. Speaker, you will recall that that was the time when The Ethiopians sang their famous tune "Everything Crash". Inevitably, the socioeconomic anomalies compounded by widening inequalities between the haves and the have-nots named by a former leader from that side, the Most Honourable Edward Seaga, led to Michael Manley's massive victory in 1972 after all that growth, we must never grow without equity. (Applause) We dare not leave the ordinary Jamaican behind to wallow in poverty. We must grow smart. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I turn again to West Rural St. Andrew for guidance on my growth-smart campaign. Mr. Speaker, as I have said previously, the central plank of our agenda must lie in ICT. The Vision 2050 initiative shows the way. We will grow smart when we begin to ensure that most of our intellectual property flows are owned by local-based companies.

Mr. Speaker, we have won international competitions in IT, but we will continue to lose the battle for growth at home if we do not protect our earnings from the knowledge-based sector advances we have made. It is only national pride we gamer by acknowledging, for example, that a number of our people are leaders in some form of IT innovation abroad, but we are the flows. Even now, daily at our airports some of our best minds, best programmers are going abroad. The flows from their creations will be lost to us.

Let us look at India, how they moved from a Third World status to a First-World economic power. They sent some of their best talents abroad to study at MIT, they kept some back at home, and when those from MIT came back, the fusion created the Indian Institute of Technology, which is perhaps the major player in software programming in the world.

Mr. Speaker, we must Grow Smart. Like India, our Government must lead in the localization strategy; we must take up equity and fund the creative aspirations of some of our programmers. We have seen it in West Rural St. Andrew, we see people coming from abroad to invest, but they are investing in their own company, they want to take the intellectual property and make it a part of their company. We must remove that danger. That is the only way the Government can mandate - the only way they can mandate is if they take equity in the intellectual property rights, and those rights must be owned by local-based companies, Mr. Speaker. In this way, the Government will secure significant tax revenues, flows from its equity stake, and concretized exponential GDP growth. That is what Vision 2050 doing and is asking the Government to do on a wider scale. Mr. Speaker, we must Grow Smart.

Mr. Speaker, while foreign direct investment is welcome, the need to ensure local ownership is paramount. Accordingly, our local programmers must have a significant stake in the product they create, as the sector will grow, but without equity the little people, the real producers, among them, our would-be scammers converted to community-based programmers. We must Grow Smart, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to Housing. Mr. Speaker last year I thought I had convinced the Opposition Spokesman on Housing on the inflationary consequences of second mortgages, but I note he has recommended the use of this facility once again. This acridly conflicts with my Grow Smart recommendation.

Firstly, the housing sector is inherently inflationary. Our housing stock is a production of high cost construction; consequently, our mortgage balances are high, leading to servicing problems and the need for second mortgages. Beyond all of this, second mortgages are debt instruments that are intrinsically inflationary. They create no significant amount of goods and services. Generally, these funds are requested to refinance their mortgages - their first mortgages, or to add a bathroom, or maybe the small expansion of a house. There is no justification for government to expend funds here, leave that to the Building Societies.

Mr. Speaker, in a period of serious financial stringency beset by diminishing fiscal space and grave primary surplus targets, not to mention the unconscionable bank fees, we have to make hard choices. Every decision has to be properly assessed on the basis of opportunity cost.

The claim that the JMB facility brought down mortgage rates is nullified by the concepts of marginality and opportunity cost by spending on primary housing that is low-cost quality housing, especially on prime or greenfield lands. You will not only increase supply, but also reduce mortgage rates by multiples of that which the JMB facility can achieve. Simply put, the margin of reduction in rates will be far greater with expenditure on new housing, and the opportunity cost of foregoing the second mortgage expenditure is the increase in the stock of low-cost housing solutions. Even the Capital Market packages he speaks of will be derived from debt.

This initiative could be welcomed in a time of plenty, but not now. This is a time of frugality, inflationary conscious decisions and hard choices.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels - 5:15 p.m.) The speaker's time for his presentation has expired.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, we now ask for the extension of the speaker's time for an additional fifteen minutes, to complete his presentation.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that the speaker be allowed fifteen minutes to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Buchanan.

(Applause)

Mr. Paul BUCHANAN: And here, Mr. Speaker, I would like to pay tribute to a public servant extraordinaire, one who bestrode this hallowed Chamber, former Minister of Housing and Environment, Easton Douglas.

(Applause)

I am happy also Mr. Speaker that his Minister of State - one who also graced this Chamber - is also here with him. I speak of former MP, Phyllis Mitchell. (Applause)

I cite his contribution, not only as a Minister under whom I worked, but more critically, a leader in the struggle to halt the trend towards inflationary shelter solutions, and an ominous explosion of informal settlements in this country. He continues in that role as a firm, experienced and progressive Chairman at the National Housing Trust... (Applause) ...an expert on procedure and technical details. In a sense, he has built the roads that others now walk on; he has provided trees - planted trees that give shade to the weary without fanfare and without real acknowledgement.

In his time he was a legendary Town Planner before becoming Permanent Secretary at the Ministry of National Security, and later Construction and Housing. He went on to become Minister of Health, Minister of the Public Service and the Environment, before ending his tenure at Housing. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, his wide array of roles and long innings in the public sector is unmatched in the modern history of Jamaica, and perhaps will never be replicated.

Mr. Speaker, there are many persons living at the Pines of Karachi, Long Mountain Country Club, and many other middle-income projects emanating from the PRIDE programme, who do not know or care to understand the role that Easton Douglas played in taking them there. (Applause)

It was during his tenure as Minister, under the leadership of former Prime Minister, P.J. Patterson, that the price was capped for a townhouse at Long Mountain, at Four Million Dollars ($4M), and the detached unit was capped at Seven Million Dollars ($7M), despite the fact that these units could easily fetch Thirty/forty Million Dollars ($30M/$40M) at the time. This allowed our working and professional classes to live on the once off-limit high-cost lands of Beverly Hills. At Karachi, the sale of units at Two point Six Million ($2.6M) and serviced lots at Eight Hundred Thousand ($800,000) tell the story. At the end of it all, Mr. Speaker, the mostly working-class purchasers and professionals have moved into a stratified middle-class status within one generation, a phenomenal accomplishment. (Applause)

His hands can be seen in all this, Mr. Speaker, because he arose from a generation that extolled the primacy of education and public service. It is not a coincidence that among many other roles, his brother, Dr. Conrad Douglas, has served as the Chairman of the Scientific Research Council. Apart from the middle-class, the essence of Easton Douglas' work can be seen in many planned communities whose residents have graduated from the national disgrace of shelterless degradation to the dignity of owning their own piece of ground all over Jamaica.

And, so Mr. Speaker, his selfless contribution will be forever etched in the annals of the land development history of this nation. I say glory to the work of Easton Douglas. Well done, my Minister and my friend! (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in the interest of time, let me quickly look at another Grow Smart area, the Small and Micro Sector. Mr. Speaker, the spread between government's wholesale rate and lending rate to the little man with the good idea, is too large. The Minister has indicated that he will be addressing that when he comes to speak, so I will say no more on that.

However Mr. Speaker there is another issue which undermines the Growth Agenda, it's the question of collateral. As Technical Director of MIDA, we had instituted what was called the "Four to One Loan to Savings Ratio". That proved inadequate. Instead, Mr. Speaker - because many people couldn't find even the 25 per cent needed to seed it.

I proposed that the Government approve lending agencies, and institute 110 per cent loan feasibility facility. In this, the borrower would receive the full 100 per cent funding for the proposed project, with relevant operational safeguards as to draw down, and the remaining 10 per cent would be placed in a savings account for the borrower. This 10 per cent may be used during the life of the project, based on the assessment of the creditor. The 10 per cent over and above the feasibility requirement will be invested in aggregate with other 10 per cent savings increments, and will form an investment pool of funds, appreciate and indemnify the loan. The loan will be amortized on the full 110 per cent pay out.

Mr. Speaker, we cannot drop our hands and bypass this sector because of the collateral and delinquency issue. With this facility, it is not a matter of whether or not the loans will be repaid, but when. The sector is too critical to the Growth Agenda to be neglected, and for good ideas without the requisite collateral to go to waste, we can Grow Smart by implementing the 110 per cent feasibility mechanism. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I close with a call of hope to all Jamaicans. I say to my country men and women, we will win, because failure is not an option.

We will win because we will leave no one behind. That is why we will work with the Lifelong Learning Centre, to bring literacy to those so challenged in West Rural St. Andrew. (Applause)

We will win because we will ensure that potential scammers join the struggle for growth as reputable participants in our Vision 2050 Programme. (Applause)

We will win because we are leading the way through Vision 2050 to establish centres of Remedial Mathematics, English, Information Technology training, Software Innovation, Research and Product Development. (Applause)

We will win because we will be establishing 15 other such centres throughout West Rural St. Andrew.

(Applause)

We will win, Mr. Speaker, because through Vision 2050, in partnership with UAF, HEART Trust/NTA, and the schools in West Rural St. Andrew, we will provide capable well-trained and certified workers for the logistics hub. (Applause)

We will win because in West Rural St. Andrew there is a new culture of non-tribal political leadership and educational transformation.

(Applause)

We will win because there is a new wind of personal development blowing that challenge the pants at the knee culture. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we will win because we are encouraging all our colleague MPs not to send one more person on farm work or any other overseas work programme without those persons taking up the opportunity of literacy classes or attending the pre-tech training offered by HEART/NTA.

We must stop sending men abroad who are into the habit of exposing their underpants... (Applause) ...let them first go back into the classroom to upgrade themselves and cease degrading brand Jamaica on foreign shores regardless of their political affiliation.

I urge my colleagues to adopt the Vision 2050 model in their respective constituencies and together we will all grow smart for the benefit of our beloved country.

Finally Mr. Speaker, after a long night in the valley of tears, the mountain top beckons. Our best years begin in the morning for those who come after, let historians record that he who lived in the first half of the 21st century rose to become the giants who finally took Jamaica to greatness, fulfilling the promise of the generation of 1938 and the heroes and heroines who went before. So put on your armour Garvey's children, go now, be bold and let us win the dawn.

As Nettleford often reminded us, we have an ancestral obligation not to fail.

Mr. Speaker, may it please you. (Applause)

ADJOURNMENT

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Mr. Speaker, it is not intended to do any further business today, I therefore ask for the adjournment of the House until next Tuesday May 20, at 2:00 p.m.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that this Honourable House do adjourn until next Tuesday, at 2:00 p.m., May 20, 2014.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) This Honourable House now stands adjourned.

The House accordingly adjourned its sitting at 5:28 p.m. until Tuesday, May 20, 2014, at 2:00 p.m.

The SPEAKER: Today is a special day for the Deputy Speaker; let us wish him all the best. (Applause)

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we are all joined in the best wishes that you have offered to the Deputy Speaker. We have a Statement by the Minister of Finance and Planning.

PROPOSED CHANGES TO THE TAX REGIME

The SPEAKER: Dr. Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I wish to bring to the attention of the House, proposed changes to the tax regime which were recently approved by Cabinet.

The House will recall, Mr. Speaker, that when we - during the recent Budget exercise, there was a matter which had been delayed for implementation. And there are some additional issues arising from the Fiscal Incentives Act which we have - for which we have to make changes.

(HON. EVON PATRICK CULLITON ATKINSON, QC, (PNP), Trelawny, Northern, Attorney General, entered and took his seat.)

The first broad set of changes Mr. Speaker relates to the amendment to Stamp Duty Act to provide for reduction and additional stamp duty on alcoholic beverages. Members of the House will recall that in response to a request from the Jamaica Hotel and Tourist Association for additional time to discuss the implementation of alcohol regime to unify the specific consumption tax on all alcoholic beverages, the Government took the decision to differ the implementation of this measure for one month for the tourism industry only. The tax measure resulted in the change of the rate to the tourism sector from 700 per litre pure alcohol to a unified rate of 1,120 per litre pure alcohol.

The purpose of the amendment which I bring today and which I announce today is to provide for reduction in the specific additional stamp duty paid on alcoholic beverages. The change is being taken consequent upon the impact of the unification of the specific consumption tax, is likely to have on the tourist industry's continued competitiveness and secondly, on the basis of a more rigorous calculation of the revenue to be garnered from the alcohol measure which revealed that significantly more revenue would have been received as a consequence of the original announcement which was made.

In order to counter some of the impact of this measure, the Government has taken the decision to provide tax relief by the removal of the additional stamp duty which will result in a relief for the industry of approximately $J200 Million. In determining the form of the relief, the Government was mindful of the principle that guided the imposition of the tax measure namely, that the unification of the specific SET on all alcoholic beverages based on LPA was desirable and essential. In light of this, another form of tax relief was contemplated and the additional stamp duty regime was chosen as the best option.

(HON. DR. MORAIS VALENTINE GUY, (PNP), St. Mary, Central, Minister without Portfolio in the Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing with responsibility for Housing, entered and took his seat.)

The specific additional stamp duty regime is therefore to be amended as follows by decreasing the specific additional stamp duty on alcoholic beverages on wines, liquors, cordials from US$1.60 to US$1 per litre and two, decreasing the specific additional stamp duty on alcoholic beverages, beers, imported beers from US90 cents to 60 cent respectfully. The extent of Government revenue from both measures will be unchanged; the measure will become effective on June 1, 2014.

(DR. THE HON. KENNETH WYKEHAM MCNEILL, (PNP) Westmoreland, Western, Minister of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

The effect of this, Mr. Speaker, is to make the tourism product more competitive in terms of their ability to offer high quality liquors, wines, et cetera, to their clients, and while at the same time facilitating the revenue flows that were intended by the Government and enhancing the compliance, the tax compliance environment for these particular products.

(DR. KENNETH O'NEIL BAUGH, (JLP) St. Catherine, West Central, entered and took his seat.)

The second broad change relates to the amendment to certain laws to allow for regularization and expansion of tax treatment for Free Zone operations and for tourism subsectors. These are consequent upon the general fiscal incentives regime that was announced earlier in the year. The changes being proposed under these amendments fall into three categories.

(HON. DAMION ORANDY CRAWFORD, (PNP), St. Andrew, East Rural, Minister of State in the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

First, changes to the GCT Act to allow for the regularization of benefits currently enjoyed by Free Zone operators in particular in the business process operation entities and in the tourism accommodation subsector hotels and resort cottages. The benefits to be gained by some entities were affected as I have said by the introduction of the Fiscal Incentive Legislation last year. The aim is to provide for GCT concession that was previously enjoyed on goods and/or services. These benefits have previously been approved on a case by case basis by way of administrative measures. The proposed changes are in furtherance of the stated objectives of tax reform of simplicity, equity and transparency in taxation and it will result in the embedding of the benefits in the appropriate legislation which we will bring subsequently to this House. Specifically, there is an amendment to the GCT Act to provide for zero rating in respect of the purchase of locally supplied goods and services by operators within the Free Zones including business process operations within Free zone, with the exception of utilities such as light and telecommunication services.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, simply put, as the law now stands they would enjoy benefits on imported services but not on services purchased within Jamaica which obviously would not facilitate our objective of building greater linkages between the different economic sectors. So this amendment is facilitated... (Applause) ....and we believe will encourage greater growth in the exchange of goods and services or the supply of goods and services from the local economy into the Free Zones.

The second element relates to the purchase of locally supplied goods by the accommodation subsectors, hotel and resort cottages. The applicable GCT concession would be restricted in this instance, to those items currently on the respective entities approved listings. The benefit is only provided, Mr. Speaker, to entities that have chosen to remain under the specific Incentives Act previously existing instead of opting to go on the Omnibus Fiscal Legislation. Services would remain subject to GCT.

The second change relates to the - the second set of changes in this regard, relates to the classification of motor vehicle and animal feeds as inputs into the attraction subsector and the ground transportation subsector, thus making those items eligible for productive input relief. Remember, Mr. Speaker, just to remind the House that in the Fiscal Incentives Legislation, productive inputs are relieved using the tourism sector and in other sectors, manufacturing are relieved of duties once they are part of the regular input into the productive process.

Some items had been excluded and given different treatment. The aim here is to provide for an amendment to the Fiscal Incentives Act to allow for these items to be treated similarly to other inputs as productive and to receive Productive Input Relief.

Specifically, there is to be an expansion of the inputs allowed under the PIR to include motor vehicles to certain sectors. The amendment will provide a 100 per cent relief to the Common External Tariff chargeable on motor vehicles. The sector currently pays CET of 20 per cent and will still be required to pay the applicable additional stamp duties.

This relates, Mr. Speaker, first to the car rental sector, motor cars as per Section 11 of the Road Traffic Act with a rating up to maximum of 2500cc and a CIF value up to a maximum of US$35,000 under the PIR will be treated under the PIR for the car rental sector. Vehicles exceeding these limits will not be allowed under the provisions for Productive Input Relief and will be subject to full liability.

The sector will be allowed to claim Productive Input Relief up to 800 vehicles per year to facilitate the car rental sector which is an essential part of our overall tourism product. Contract carriage operators also will benefit. It is proposed that contract operators policy be modified to accommodate motor cars with seating capacity of eight or more with a maximum cc rating of 2500 and a maximum CIF value of US$35,000. In this case, the sector will be allowed a maximum of fifty vehicles in any given year. The actual number of vehicles that will be allowed will be dependent on the available fiscal space. Tour operators will also qualify.

It is proposed to expand the benefit to this sector by making provision under the Productive Input Relief provisions to include town cars and limousines. The vehicles allowed will be limited to those with a minimum of 2500 to a maximum of 3500cc and CIF value of up to US$35,000. Full duties will be payable on the value in excess of $35,000 CIF. This sector will be allowed to import a maximum of twenty vehicles at this rate. Similarly, the number of vehicles to be imported under this category will be dependent on the available fiscal space.

Mr. Speaker, there is also an expansion of the inputs allowed as under the PIR regime to include animal feed for the attractions subsector. I ask the question, Mr. Speaker, what does this refer? This is things like, you know, the horse riding attractions that are there and animal feed will be allowed as a productive input with the exception of the following categories:

- goods listed in Part I of the Fourth Schedule of the Resolution; and
- goods of a type which the Commissioner of Customs is satisfied can be obtained in adequate supplies from a local manufacturer or from a manufacturer within the CARICOM Single Market.

In order to prevent abuse, the system of certification by the Ministry of Agriculture will be monitored to ensure that only animal feed destined for the attractions subsector will be given this specific tax relief. If we suddenly find that the horses are eating three times the amount that they used to previously then what will happen, we'll obviously have to review this provision, Mr. Speaker.

A MEMBER: Put him on a diet.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw/Laughter)

Dr. PHLLIPS: (Referring to Mr. D. Smith) Ask him how much the horses eat.

Mr. Speaker, the third issue that I will be speaking to relates to the question of smart phones. You'll recall, Mr. Speaker, that during the recent Budget exercise we indicated that the category of telecommunication device that they call the phablet would be treated as a computer for our purposes and come in at zero duty, because of the Government's commitment to improve productivity (Applause) generally in the economy and utilizing the most up-to-date telecommunications. At the time, Mr. Speaker, the decision had also been taken to seek consideration from CARICOM for the removal of the CET on smart phones so that they could receive a similar treatment. This process has now been completed and we took this decision in light of the increasing use of smart phones to enhance business communications and operations generally and the resultant improvement in productivity across all sectors of the economy which could flow. (Applause)

As a consequence of our appeals, our application to COTED, that is, the Council for Trade and Economic Development of CARICOM for the suspension of the CET for smart phones and given the approval that has been received, effective July 1, there will be a removal of the 20 per cent CET presently payable on smart phones imported into Jamaica. (Applause)

Mr. ROBINSON: Hear, hear!

Dr. PHLLIPS: Mr. Speaker, these measures are part of our general effort at tax reform, but also aimed at enhancing the general levels of productivity and enhancing the possibilities of economic growth for the critical sectors of our economy.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

The SPEAKER: Announcements.

Mr. WARMINGTON: No, no!

The SPEAKER: My apology.

(Cross talk)

Mr. SHAW: Your apology is accepted, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister - I was advised by the Leader of Opposition Business in the House earlier today that the Minister would be making a Statement in Parliament and I asked him on what subject and he said tax matters, and I said, "That's all? He said, "Yes, tax matters". And you know, Mr. Speaker, I remember very well when I was sitting on that side as Minister of Finance...

Government MEMBER: It was brief.

Mr. SHAW: Brief, but effective. Brief, but effective. I remember when I was sitting on that side of the House, on matters related to taxation, the now Minister along with his colleague, the former Minister of Finance, kept hammering home what is the purpose of the Taxation Committee?

Mr. WARMINGTON: Hear, hear!

Mr. SHAW: The Committee on Taxation in Parliament that was established to look at tax matters. And I, therefore, feel obliged in these circumstances Mr. Speaker to repeat that question, what has happened to the Taxation Committee? Because certainly as erudite and educated as I might be...

(Cross talk/Laughter)

...it is unreasonable to expect that I would able to provide the kind of forensic and clinical examination of this document within a few short minutes, but notwithstanding that I will.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

But, Mr. Speaker, it would have been better that the Committee on Taxation, that is now chaired by the Honourable Minister, would have looked at these issues because certainly after his presentation on the tax package during the Budget Debate and in my own response we had called out issues concerning the likely impact on the competitiveness of the tourism sector. That's an issue I raised specifically and it is obvious that the Minister has seen the light on that and has now come with this proposed change to the tax measures. So beyond the Tax Committee which the Minister obviously is now making a farce of that effort, since it is just apparently some effort to have little a PR exercise, but the real issues come by way of a Statement to Parliament as it now comes.

My first observation Mr. Speaker has to do with the adjustments that are proposed for the tourism sector in relation to the abolition of certain additional stamp duty for alcoholic beverages presumably to mitigate the increase in the rate from $700 to $1,120, which is the rate in terms of the alcoholic content of liquor. And the Minister has promised us that there is a $200 Million benefit to be gained for the tourism sector from this initiative. But my first observation that I want to make to the Minister is that he will recall that the concerns we had expressed don't have to do alone with the tourism sector. We had expressed a concern - and I know the Minister of Agriculture is here and he is being very attentive to my presentation - that we had expressed a concern that it would not be the tourism sector alone that would be affected; it would be the consumption of a locally produced alcoholic commodity, especially white rum.

And I had made the point Mr. Speaker that if this regime stays in place, it would amount to a discouragement of the consumption of locally produced white rum in which people are employed locally, in which value is added locally and that this would be an encouragement instead to consume foreign alcohol namely, vodka, whisky and other types of alcohol, which would now be coming in literally especially vodka would be now cheaper than a local drink of white rum. Cheaper based on the alcoholic content and based on the regime that the Minister had introduced and which he has not addressed today. So while he has mitigated the tourism industry to a point, he has left the local rum industry out to dry. He has left the local rum industry out, Mr. Speaker, where in a matter of months, if not weeks, you're going to see a further sharp reduction in the consumption of white rum locally in favour of foreign-produced alcoholic beverages; where people are employed abroad, potatoes are produced abroad to produce those products, people are employed and the industry will, therefore, in consequence be threatened in Jamaica.

(Inaudible comment by Government Member)

(HON DERRICK FLAVIUS KELLIER, (PNP), St. James, Southern, Minister of Labour and Social Security, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Now, Mr. Speaker, when I mentioned that one particular company, Worthy Park Estates, mentioned to me that as a result of the earlier increase that the Minister had imposed that it had resulted in a 50 per cent reduction in the sale of white rum from that particular company, Rum Bar Rum. I said in this House during the Budget Debate that it led to the loss of fifty jobs at Worthy Park. The Member of Parliament, Mr. Speaker, from that constituency in sotto voce remarks said that I was telling a lie. I subsequently checked the figures and I want to apologize to that Member that I was misleading the House. It wasn't fifty persons that lost their jobs; it was fifty-four.

(Applause/Laughter) (Cross talk)

It is fifty-four persons that lost their jobs, Mr. Speaker. And I am to point out to you, Mr. Speaker that those job losses and the reduction in the sales of rum came before this final measure was imposed by the Minister of Finance.

And so, Mr. Speaker, I want to say to the Minister - he has made an accommodation for the tourism sector - I want to ask the question, where is the accommodation for the local sector?

(Applause by Opposition Members)

The local sector in which local jobs are going to be affected; people are going to lose their jobs as a result of his failure to make an amendment in favour of the local industry.

(THE MOST HON. PORTIA LUCRETIA SIMPSON MILLER, ON, (PNP), St. Andrew, South Western, Prime Minister and Minister of Defence, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. Speaker, in relation to other areas that has been proposed today in which he seeks to regularize the benefits that are enjoyed by free zone operators, similar to the business process of outsourcing people, that this will be done now - to use his words - the benefits to be gained by some entities were affected by the introduction of the Fiscal Incentives Legislation last year.

Mr. Speaker, I had mentioned then, and I can repeat now, that the rush - the mad rush to introduce legislation without adequate contemplation, and without adequate review, these are - and explanation - these are now leading, Mr. Speaker, incrementally, to the Minister having to come to Parliament to make adjustments, including this particular adjustment as a result of the deficiencies coming out of the rushed introduction of the Fiscal Incentives Legislation.

Now let me turn briefly to the question of the car rental sector, the contract carriage operators, the tour operators - and I note, Mr. Speaker, that certain quota limits have been imposed on those sectors in relation to the new rates that have been announced today. My question to the Minister is, how are these - how is this quota to be applied on a fair and equitable basis; 800 vehicles for the car rental sector, 50 vehicles for the contract carriage operators and 20 vehicles for the tour operators? Has the Minister ensured that in the interest of fairness and equity, that the distribution of these vehicles will be done on a basis that is considered by everyone to be fair and to be impartial?

Mr. Speaker, I noticed that the Minister has finally decided to remove the 20 per cent Common External Tariff on smart phones. I regret that I had bought mine in Trinidad on a recent visit there.

A MEMBER: So you couldn't buy two?

Mr. SHAW: My final question that I would like to ask of the Minister of Finance is that he has been silent on telling us what is the total revenue that is being given up by these initiatives, and if there is a deficit that has been created, how will that deficit be covered? Finally, I simply want to return to the fact - don't make a mockery of the Taxation Committee; don't have the Taxation Committee meeting on general issues and then you come like Nicodemus in the afternoon... (Laughter) ...Nicodemus in the afternoon, when we are told a Statement is to be made on tax matters, and then come without giving the Opposition adequate time for due diligence, and adequate preparation.

If it pleases you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, let me say as far as the Tax Committee is concerned that I believe that in the short period of this Administration, the Tax Committee has met more frequently than it did in the entire four years when the Minister had stewardship.

(Applause)

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: The fact of the matter Mr. Speaker is that we would welcome an approach - we have included a role for the Tax Committee in the consideration of general tax proposals, for the simple reason that it was said - if I am not mistaken by the Minister himself, if not given by another colleague - that it would never be the case that they would agree to the imposition of specific tax measures.

Mr. JACKSON: That was his opening statement…. (Inaudible)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Therefore it is the responsibility of the Government to devise taxation. We would welcome - and so, if at any point in time, if he is indicating a change in that, what I would call benighted position, which he expressed earlier...

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Benighted... born of a determination to remain in the darkness.

(Sotto voce comment by Dr. Davies)

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...that we would welcome... because we do think it is of value to have a forthright deliberation about the alternatives for raising revenue in the country. So that is point one.

Point two, this particular statement, Mr. Speaker, comes, not as a surprise to anyone, because we had indicated in the very Budget Debate concluded that, one, we were going to be entering into discussions with the tourism industry in order to resolve issues which they have raised, precisely because we believe in consultation on this side, and with those who will consult, and who will do so with an open mind.

(HON. SHARON FFOLKES-ABRAHAMS, (PNP), St. James, West Central, Minister of State in the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce entered and took his seat.)

Dr. PHILLIPS: And these proposals have been arrived at as a consequence of consultations with the tourism sector, and indeed, with the other stakeholders in the BPO industry and with the free zone operators, and the like. There is - he made much of the white rum issue, I would call it. It is a pity that his inclination to go local with alcohol is not equaled with phones. But anyway, let's put that to one side.

(HON. ANTHONY GEORGE HYLTON, (PNP), St. Andrew, Western, Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Are you making any phones here?

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, we have local businesses that sell them.

Mr. SHAW: You not making phones here.

Dr. PHILLIPS: We have local businesses that sell them.

Mr. SHAW: We employ people... (Inaudible) ...don't talk rubbish.

(Sotto voce comments)

Dr. PHILLIPS: As we do for beer; as we do for beer. And look here, man, this is not your bar in Christiana; this is not your bar in Christiana. Behave yourself.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: You can't come to one of them.

Dr. PHILLIPS: This is not your bar in Christiana.

Mr. SHAW: You can't come to one of them... (Inaudible)

Dr. PHILLIPS: This is not your bar in Christiana. You tell it to... (Inaudible)

Look here, Mr. Speaker... Mr. Speaker, the country has obligations...

(Sotto voce comment)

Dr. PHILLIPS: The country has obligations with the rest of the global community, under the World Trade Organization to have a unified rate for liquid alcohol, LPA. (Applause) Jamaica is going to unify the rate. Without a unified rate, there are tremendous opportunities for the leakage of revenues. He makes a lot about compliance elsewhere; this is part of what we need to do to ensure we have compliance, not to have two rates, either between sectors or between alcoholic beverage types. That's what we are doing and that's what we have done here.

I have every expectation that in relation to rum, in relation to the other alcoholic beverages manufactured in Jamaica, including beer, that the consequence of the overall reforms that are being undertaken, will be to facilitate their competitiveness, both in the local economy and even moreso in export markets because that's what we want to see them do.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I have announced these measures, so that the public will understand that they have an administration that listens, an administration that is committed to having the best set of measures in place to facilitate growth in this economy.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Only half of them clap. Roger side don't clap.

2) The Firearms (Amendment of Firearms Act) (Payment of Appropriate Duties) (Licences, Certificates and Permits) Order, 2014, which was laid on the Table of the House on the 20th day of May, 2014, is hereby affirmed.

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we continue this afternoon with the Sectoral Debate. The speakers in this order will be firstly, the Minister for Youth and Culture, the Member from South East St. Ann, followed by the Opposition Spokesperson on National Security and the Member from North West St. Andrew, and then thirdly, the Member from East Portland in that order.

SECTORAL DEBATE

The SPEAKER: Miss Hanna.

(Applause)

Miss HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Before I begin my presentation, I would really like to pause in a very sympathetic way to pay tribute to the family of the twin boys that were washed away by water in Montego Bay in St. James, young Brandon and Braden, nine years old, it is a sad and very tragic event and our prayers today are with the family and with the people in that community as we seek to really make some kind of headway as to how something like that could have happened.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to make my contribution to this Sectoral Debate. I do not take this opportunity for granted and I remain committed to the people of South East St. Ann who have reposed their confidence in me. My sincere gratitude to my constituency executive, my cluster managers, my workers, my personal office staff, my family of constituents, who consistently go over and beyond the call of duty; to my four Councillors, a special thanks; Councillor Bell and Councillor Richards who are here with me. (Applause)

I wish in particular to salute Councillor Lydia Richards, who achieved a milestone this year, 41 years of dedicated service as a teacher. (Applause)

A special tribute to my Prime Minister, who not only gave me the opportunity to serve Mr. Speaker but continues to provide wise insights and guidance. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I must also say thanks to my political colleagues in this House, my Regional Executive Management Team, and the Regional MPs who are here, Patrick, Dayton, Wally and our councillors from the region. A very special commendation to my Permanent Secretary, my staff in the Ministry of Youth and Culture, my Board Chairmen... (Applause) ...and Heads of Agencies, the Multilateral Agencies, the Diplomatic Corps and I really want to welcome everyone, especially the students who are here, the students from Fern Court who have journeyed to be here this afternoon.

(Applause)

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I wish to pay tribute to my family, my mother who is here. (Applause) My rock, Richard... (Applause) ....and my inspiration, Alexander, who continue to love and support me. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I'd really like to take a few minutes to speak about my South East St. Ann. I wish to highlight a few projects that will be implemented this year. These projects will provide extensive benefits to the constituency and to the nation as a whole. These are the Highway, better health care, agricultural development and water. You see, Mr. Speaker, I represent South East, St. Ann and a few realize that the South East St. Ann of today is quite different from the South East St. Ann of yesterday.

In my last election I received a boundary-cut that almost removed 50% of my old voters and replaced them with voters from an adjoining constituency. This time, I increased my margin of victory to 4,245 votes. (Applause)

Opposition MEMBER: What!

Miss HANNA: As one of the largest rural constituencies, the need for adequate roads is paramount. We spent in excess of $45 Million over the past year doing some major road repairs. Importantly, however, the new Highway, which will open shortly, will reduce the transport time and transit time to the constituency, opening up opportunities to people in Kingston and other parishes to come to St. Ann and do business.

Mr. Speaker, finally, this year, we will be upgrading the water systems for Claremont, Higgins Town, McNie, Moneague, Roadside, Walkerswood, Thatch Hill, Beecher Town and Parry Town.

Mr. Speaker, on April 25 we completed the laying of approximately 1000 meters of water pipes, so that all sections in the eastern side of the community of Parry Town can now have access to water. We will roll out the other projects shortly, and I really want to thank the Ministry of Water, Land and Climate Change... (Applause) ....as the residents of these areas would be able to breathe a sigh of relief soon.

Mr. Speaker, my Prime Minister has spoken about having parks in every parish for families and that is something we are doing in South East St. Ann and I am grateful for CHASE, for providing the funding to complete the layout and the completion of the Community Centre at Rio Hoe with a full lifestyle park and sporting Facilities for families to visit and enjoy.

Mr. Speaker, I am also grateful to the Ministry of Health for responding to my tireless appeals to have better health care facilities in my constituency. In another couple of weeks, we will open our medical facility, the Centre of Excellence in Claremont. This will assist persons not only in South East but across the parish with longer opening hours, more space, high-tech technology and additional days. Patients, especially our elderly will no longer have to travel to St. Ann's Bay but will be assisted close to home for minor primary care. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this is an exciting one. Like most rural constituencies, the majority of my constituents earn their living through agriculture. Many farmers speak of the glory days of the AMC when they had a market for their produce. I was really disappointed when the closure of National Meats took place in Lydford and the consequential job losses. However, even though Lascelles relocated their distribution centre there, they too closed the cold storage in June of last year. But, Mr. Speaker, when one door closes another one is opened. And I am happy to report that as of June 1 this year, the facility will reopen at my urging. The focus this time will be on exports and supporting the local agricultural sector. (Applause)

I wish to assure the Member from North West St. Elizabeth that I have already implemented what he came to the House espousing and we have the full knowledge and the support of the Minister of Agriculture, who has been on the journey with me every step of the way.

(Applause)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Moving in the right direction.

(Laughter)

Miss HANNA: At Lydford we will have cold storage facilities for farmers, not only in South East St. Ann but nationally, provide added processing to create more value-added, integrate our agricultural production to demands in schools and the Government of Jamaica institutions and most importantly, open up export markets.

I have been meeting with farmers in South East and representatives of RADA to coordinate and supply an integrated chain and we've met with over 400 farmers so far. A lot of work needs to be done, Mr. Speaker, but we've laid the foundation for a brighter future for agriculture in this country.

Mr. Speaker, my goal is to improve on the solid principles and objectives of the AMC and I am happy that a local investor has taken up the challenge.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

(Applause)

Miss HANNA: Finally Mr. Speaker I wish to express my support for the pending possibility of the reestablishment of the bauxite alumina activities in Lydford that were recently announced by the Minister of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining. (Applause) And we truly hope that this will come to fruition.

Mr. Speaker, chance has never yet satisfied the hope of a suffering people. Those were the wise words of our first National Hero, the Right Excellent Marcus Mosiah Garvey. His words, simple yet profound, amplified the necessity for all of us as leaders to actively recognize that our people are the fiber which constitute the fabric of our societies and their needs must form the nucleus of our development agenda. Our priorities must not be accidental or coincidental, but we must take control of the development agenda and implement policies and programmes that will address the critical needs of all humanity.

I stand here today to speak on behalf of the majority of Jamaica's population and to confidently affirm to them that what we do is expressly inspired by their dreams and aspirations.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Miss HANNA: That we recognize that "if the ends we serve are selfish, it will take us no further than our individual selves, but the ends we serve that are for all in common, will take us all into eternity together". (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Garvey's wise counsel has hastened the steps and fuelled the energy of the Ministry of Youth and Culture so that today, I can honestly report to this House that our commitment to achieving three significant objectives that we set for ourselves has been focused, strategic and deliberate.

We have been focused in improving the conditions for children and adolescents, especially those in need of care and protection. We have been strategic in seeking greater opportunities for the empowerment of our young people, especially in the growing face of youth employment and commensurate broadening of the cohort of youth at risk. And we have been deliberate in enhancing Brand Jamaica through the revision of the cultural policy and the creation of a cultural industry's framework for the enhancement of economic contribution of culture and the creative industries to the national economy.

Mr. Speaker it is abundantly clear that we have to be shrewd and strategic in the use of our resources. And I am happy to say that we have managed to achieve these objectives through the creative and symbiotic relationship between our Head Office in setting and monitoring the policy framework and our agencies through the implementation of the programmes and activities.

We have achieved a new level of integration and interconnectedness in our programme delivery among agencies, which I will demonstrate throughout my presentation. Mr. Speaker focused, strategic and deliberate, we cannot and we will not leave it to chance.

And so Mr. Speaker, in being focused, strategic and deliberate, we were able to make significant strides. Here are some of what we were able to achieve for our children last year.

1. We were able to remove all children from Adult Correctional Centres. (Applause)
2. The OCR and the CDA are now active in tracking and removing children from police stations who spend more than 48 hours in lock-ups. (Applause)
3. We improved our efforts to locate missing children. Of the 2,205 children who were reported missing, we identified, reported and returned 1,723 to their homes.

   (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I just want to say, however, that you might ask what happened to the 482. We are informed by the Police that sometimes they are returned but it is not recorded, because the parents had asked that it not be recorded. And 14 of this 2,205 unfortunately, are deceased.

4. We obtained a Cabinet decision to remove from our legislation label the label of uncontrollable behaviour ascribed to children who display extreme behavioural problems.
5. We implemented a mobile health service for the South East region to provide accessible and consistent mental health services to wards of the State (Applause by Government Members) - in critical need of assessment and therapeutic care.
6. We initiated the Art For Life Programme featuring the use of the programming arts and performing arts as therapy and recreation at the South Camp Correctional Facility.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mr. Speaker, we didn't stop there. For our youth we trained almost 9000 young people for job placement. We trained another 5000 in personnel and career development across the island and we launched the Graduate Work Experience Programme (GWEP), in which we placed more than 300 young university graduates…

(Applause by Government Members)

A Government MEMBER: We are working, working, working.

(Applause by Government Members)

Miss HANNA: …to work as interns. Mr. Speaker, I am happy to report that many of them have transitioned to permanent work.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Good, good.

Ms. HANNA: In culture we completed the dossier for the nomination of the Blue and John Crow Mountains to the World Heritage list, our nomination documents were accepted at UNESCO and we now await the arrival of the technical experts who will evaluate our bid.

Mr. Speaker through our focussed, strategic and deliberate action, Jamaica was elected to the membership of the important World Heritage Committee of UNESCO for the first time.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

(Applause by Government Members)

Miss HANNA: This is an important committee which decides among other things, which sites in the world are inscribed on the World Heritage list, and to that we have a seat.

We also introduced the Culture Card programme in some of our Corporate Area high schools, giving young people free access to a variety of cultural and creative programmes offered by museums, heritage sites and national cultural events, free of cost. We also began upgrading and enhancing the JCDC's events production capability through the acquisition of much-needed equipment and the training of young people in events production skills in collaboration with the NYS.

Mr. Speaker, if I have learnt just one thing in this post over the past two years, it is simple. Aim not to overshoot the moon but just to land on it. (Applause by Government Members) So we are quite heartened by these accomplishments and quite frankly in spite of all the challenges we faced over the past year, I can truly say that we have been encouraged by the strides we have made as we continue to aim high. And that is why, Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that this debate is taking place during Child Month. This is not only a very special time of year when we celebrate our children, but it is also the time when the nation makes a very deliberate effort to assess the state of the Jamaican child and how we really are all doing as leaders, parents, caregivers, teachers, to give each child a better life.

Mr. Speaker I can confidently say that the Ministry of Youth and Culture has been doing our part to work and certainly improve the lives of children in Jamaica. Sometimes the local commentary does not reflect this, however, the world has taken note of our achievements, so much so that when I spoke at the United Nations last year November, Jamaica was congratulated on the progress the Government had made for children over the past year and we were invited to host the Cross-Regional Conference focussing on eliminating violence against children.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Miss HANNA: This Conference by the United Nations will be held in Kingston next month and I want to say a very special thank you to our development partner, UNICEF which continues to work with us as we seek to improve the lives of our children.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mr. Speaker, last year, I said we needed to be honest with each other, to speak the truth, to see things exactly as they are and not to pretend otherwise. It is only when we commit to confronting truth without fear that we can really see the magnitude of our problems and can earnestly begin to tackle them head on. So even though we present achievements, on which we are proud, I am also the first one to say that there is much, much more that we can and must do.

Mr. Speaker, I turn now to children in care. I turn to an area of challenge and great concern to all Jamaicans, the residential care of our children. Currently, there are 59 residential care institutions for children in Jamaica. Nine of these institutions are run by the Government through the Child Development Agency. The others are owned and operated by private interests including faith-based institutions with significant sponsorship from the Government. A preliminary audit of the operations of the private institutions shows that the CDA contributes up to 90 per cent of the funding of these privately operated institutions. I wish on behalf of the Honourable House to express our gratitude and appreciation to the many women and men who run these residential care institutions and take care of our children.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mr. Speaker, when I visit our residential care institutions, whether our children's homes or places of safety, I can see that we are doing what we are supposed to be doing, under the Child Care and Protection Act. Yes, we give them three meals a day, yes, we provide them with education by sending them to school, yes, we provide them with security, but in my interactions with the children I can still feel that something is wrong. There is a gap. Something is still missing. And earlier this year when I met with a group of senior caregivers to evaluate the level of care being offered to our children in our residential care institutions, one by one they ticked off their checklist the services being offered, and they were convinced that the institutions were doing well until I asked this one question that I had been asking myself. If you and your family were wiped out today would you rest easily knowing that the State would be taking care of your only surviving child? I now put that question to the House and to the nation. Would you? Would any of us be comfortable knowing that our child would be raised by the State? What would make you or I comfortable?

Mr. Speaker, I believe we would rest a little easier knowing that every single child in care was guaranteed to be treated with as tender loving care as we treat our own children. (Applause by Government Members) We would be a little bit more comfortable, wouldn't we? If every child in care was being given or was being exposed to experiences that contribute to them developing into rounded and productive individuals.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Ms. HANNA: We would also feel better knowing that our children would not be exposed to institutional indifference by staff who sometimes learn to become numb to problems. You see, it is not enough to just feed and clothe a child and give them a safe and comfortable place to live. Children need to be loved, they need to feel loved, they need access to extracurricular activities, they need to be nurtured, they need to develop self-worth and self-esteem. Yes they need discipline but we need to encourage them to be the best that they can be - (Applause by Government Members) - and, Mr. Speaker, my Ministry says that we cannot and we must not leave it to chance.

Mr. Speaker, surely the answer simply is not to just increase the Budget year after year and hope that more children will actually get served. The answer is to reorganize the Child Care Sector beginning at the point of entry. Yes, this will go a far way to ensuring and assuring that the answer to that very thought-provoking question that I asked will be, yes, ensuring that the $1.7 Billion that we currently spend every year is being properly utilized. Accordingly, this year we have made a number of changes to our finances to improve the residential care system. These changes will be effective through:

a) increased capital expenditure for the upgrading of some of our State institutions, including the allocation of some of our recurrent expenditure towards significantly improving the care offered in our homes;
b) ensuring that the right people with the right skills and training and attitude are in the positions to take care of our children;
c) implementing co-curricular and extracurricular programmes as well as training in social graces in our Children's Homes;
d) making amendments to the legislation and regulation to enhance child care and protection; and
e) strengthening and expanding the children and family support unit of the CDA to continue the rollout of our parenting seminars.

Mr. Speaker, to make it all happen, we will have to introduce the following to the sector: A new case management system as the technological upgrade to bolster our efforts to standardize and harmonize the services to our children. We also have to introduce a model care centre to point the way to new standards of care, and we also have to build a therapeutic facility to cater to the needs of a significant cohort of children in care.

Mr. Speaker, the Case Management System will be rolled out this year…

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Ms. HANNA: …and it will make it possible to track a child from entry into the system until he or she leaves.

(Applause)

The system will also allow for the seamless sharing of information between the CD A and other child-serving institutions such as the OCR, the Office of the Children's Advocate, CISOCA and the Children's Court. It will streamline the management of the intake process at all facilities including referral screening for any behavioural challenges. This is to assist our approach to placement management by ensuring that when we match children we match them to the best placement alternatives. It will also improve our client information management, ensuring that at a moment's notice we can locate the child's medical and academic records. The other benefits of this Case Management System include service delivery monitoring, court processing and caseload management. Mr. Speaker, this kind of approach is long, long, long overdue.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Ms. HANNA: We have identified the budgetary resources to roll out the Case Management System this year. The total cost of the system is approximately J$58 Million and it will be implemented over three years in phases. We are confident that through this management tool we will see a significant improvement in the operation of our residential care institutions in short order, and the children will be the better beneficiaries through better controls and standardized service. Before, Mr. Speaker, we were doing this manually. This time we are taking deliberate steps to improve the system because we cannot and must not leave it to chance.

(Applause by Government Members)

Mr. Speaker, for many years the Maxfield Park Children's Home in the constituency of a very important Minister, has attracted significant contributions from companies and individuals. Let's face it, the Maxfield brand is strong, however, it is the Government of Jamaica that ensures that the facilities stay open. Maxfield Park currently houses about 83 children but it was designed to accommodate over 170 children. Unfortunately, over the past couple of years, the facility has limped along facing challenge after challenge. Maxfield this time around must not limp, it must run smoothly.

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

(Applause by Government Member)

Ms. HANNA: In fact, Mr. Speaker, we believe that Maxfield should become the standard for residential care institutions. It was therefore critical to identify a team with the drive, passion and commitment to effect the change we all envisioned.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the previous Board, led by Ms. Minna Israel, for their service. (Applause by Government Members) And I also want to thank the new Board of Maxfield, led by Ms. Lucille Brodber, that has been tasked with transforming Maxfield Park into a model children's home and creating a template for the transformation of other homes overtime.

A Government MEMBER: Very good.

Ms. HANNA: Mr. Speaker I am pleased to say that already Mrs. Brodber has hit the ground running, demonstrating the kind of energy, commitment and enthusiasm necessary if we really want to make a difference. They have tapped into the generosity and goodwill of a number of public and private sector partners, and have already identified a number of initiatives which will be implemented immediately. These include the physical development of the facility by building new dorms, introducing appropriate monitoring and spiritual programmes for the children, as well as a review of all the structures and operations of the home.

In order to achieve this, there are a number of matters which have to be addressed, including a review of the legal status of the home to see how it can become an incorporated Government of Jamaica institution. We are very fortunate to have two lawyers on the Board and they are now being tasked with liaising with the Attorney General on this matter. Again, Mr. Speaker, we are not leaving it to chance.

(Applause by Government Members)

On another occasion I will publicly acknowledge these partners and the nature of their contribution, but just allow me today to commend their generosity and willingness to assist when asked.

Mr. Speaker, therapy is a word we don't really like to use in Jamaica. But let me now turn to the third item of our policy actions for this year, the construction of a child care therapeutic facility. It is important for me to give the House the background to the problem that this action will help to address.

This year the Office of the Children's Registry recorded and referred a total of 5,326 reports of child abuse to the Child Development Agency for investigation. The number has been increasing and at the same time we have been strengthening the Registry and expanding its reach across Jamaica.

In the last financial year we ensure that the Registry commenced operations in three new parishes sharing spaces with the Child Development Agency in Manchester, St. Ann and Westmoreland. The sharing of resources helps the Registry to keep down its overheads and put more resources into the direct services to the public, particularly our children. This year the Registry will expand to St. Mary. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, child abuse is really more than bruises and broken bones; it is also emotional abuse and neglect. Those invisible types also leave scars. One of the consequences of child abuse is the significant short and long-term physical, psychological and behavioural health problems. Mr. Speaker, for a long time we have been seeing children displaying behavioural challenges and while we used to call them uncontrollable and took them before the courts, they were remanded to a detention centre operated by the Department of Corrections on corrections orders. Detention centres were never designed to effectively support behaviour modification and so the children ended up in a worse situation than when they entered State care. It is accepted that child abuse and neglect may adversely impact a child's physical, cognitive, emotional and social development and that timely identification and appropriate intervention with individualized assessment and tailored support are needed to minimize negative consequences.

Mr. Speaker, the proposed therapeutic centre is intended to address the effects of abuse against our children and gives them the support to lead healthy and productive lives. The new facility will be staffed by mental health professionals (Applause) who will assess children in care and design individual programmes to support their treatment. It will be equipped to offer behaviour modification and therapeutic intervention with the complementary care planning activities that embraces the best practices, as outlined in the Child Care and Protection Act, and all right-based approaches provided for under the Convention of the Rights of the Child.

In keeping with our policy to ensure that where possible a child should be reunited with his or her family, all programmatic solutions will involve parents, guardians and caregivers. The facility, once established, will cater to both new entrants into the system, as well as those children who are already in the system but who would have had his or her order revoked.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Youth and Culture is partnering with JSIF on the construction of the therapeutic centre and JSIF has committed J$60 Million for this financial year.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to the new licensing regime. We will also begin in this financial year a review of the licensing regime for privately operated children's homes and places of safety. The aim of this exercise is to ensure that all entities licensed to operate as children's homes and places of safety not only have the physical facilities but are also fit and proper with staff and the requisite training and experience to offer the new standards of care that we will be insisting this year upon them. We will insist that these licensees present credible business plans to sustain the required levels of service that we expect. This is also part of our programme to improve the management of the facilities and enhance services to our children.

Mr. Speaker we cannot and must not leave it to chance. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, we have to find ways of preventing abuse and neglect. This will be a challenge because most often the abuser of a child is a parent or a caregiver or someone that they know. Most of the reports of child abuse that we receive at the OCR is for the neglect of a child usually by a parent. This is evidence of an uncomfortable and worrying truth. Too many parents are not living up to their responsibility. The easy and simplistic response would be to punish the parents who have neglected their child and take the child away from the parent.

Mr. Speaker, even if we had the resources to do that we would have to tread lightly because in many instances that is really not the best solution for the child.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time be extended sufficiently to allow her to complete her presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficiently for her to complete her presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister Hanna.

Ms. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, thank you colleagues.

I was saying that even if we had the resources to take all of the children who are being neglected it would not be the best remedy in some instances. The best place for children is really with a family, preferably their natural family. And we must do all that we can to keep children in or return them to the care of their family.

Mr. Speaker, let me be very, very clear less someone gets it misconstrued. I am not proposing to keep children with parents who harm or neglect them. What I am proposing to do is help parents to become better mothers, better fathers and fit to raise their own children. (Applause) We have begun the process. This first step required us to expand the mandate of the CDA to include helping parents to become better caregivers by giving them the support they need to nature and raise their children and effectively assuming their child-rearing responsibilities.

We see it as our duty to keep families together by assisting parents to become more effective in their responsibility to look after their children. We have held over 121 parenting seminars across the island to help develop best practices for effective parenting and we have impacted over 1,500 parents who have participated in the CDA Parenting Assistance Programme so far and we plan to go even further. (Applause)

Over the past few months Mr. Speaker, we began construction of child- friendly spaces in police stations in selective parishes. This was a controversial move Mr. Speaker simply because there was some misunderstanding about what we were doing so I want to be clear. We do not and we are not building comfortable places to lock up people's children. The truth is Mr. Speaker that several children interface with police stations every day. Children who are lost, for example, and sometimes they have to spend some time waiting for their parents or children's officers to come and get them. Shouldn't they be able to wait in a proper facility with good ventilation, comfortable and secure accommodation, suitable bathroom facilities and perhaps books or games to reduce their level of anxiety as they pass the time?

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we started with four stations in the first phase: Barrett Town in St. James, Moneague in St. Ann, Bridgeport in St. Catherine and Nain in St. Elizabeth. The facility at Bridgeport has been completed and we will put in operation as soon as possible all the stakeholders, because they have done their inspections - and when they continue to do their inspections and give us the all-clear sign that facility will be open. Work is also progressing at Barrett Town and Moneague. The facility at Nain was delayed but the design has been done and the project has been sent to tender.

Another four police stations are to be selected for improvement under this project in this financial year. Our goal in the Ministry of Youth and Culture in conjunction with the Ministry of National Security, Justice, Education and Health is to have one child-friendly police station per parish that children are taken to if needed. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the review of the Child Care and Protection Act is proceeding. We held our national consultations and received our written submissions with recommendations for amending the Act. The Multi-sectoral Technical Advisory Committee reviewed the submissions and made recommendations to the Attorney General for consideration ahead of the submission to Cabinet. Drafting instructions will be given once Cabinet makes its final decision.

Mr. Speaker, I should also add that we are undertaking a review of the Adoption of Children Act which was first introduced in 1958. It is way overdue for an upgrade. In the review we are attempting to harmonize the Adoption of Children Act with the Trafficking in Persons Act to help address new and emerging practices that affect the safety and well-being of our children. (Applause) And this is something that is particularly dear to our Prime Minister's heart, because she has been speaking about the trafficking of children now for some time.

We have held our consultation sessions across the island and are now combining and compiling the inputs for review and consideration by the consultant guided by the Multi-sectoral Technical Advisory Committee. We are working towards bringing those recommendations to Cabinet so that drafting instructions can be issued by the end of the year.

Mr. Speaker, we have been focused, we have been strategic and we have been deliberate. We are heartened by the strides that we have made and we have been energized and encouraged to move forward to create the spaces we envision, implement the changes to manage the process and give the children in our care more than a chance but amazing possibilities to grow. We cannot and we must not leave it to chance.

So Mr. Speaker, following the principles of the art of possibility, after this year, here is what it will look like for a child entering State care. A child comes to care for whatever reason; he is six-years old, frightened and vulnerable. Using our new Case Management System he is registered, screened and placed in a care facility appropriate for his needs as presented at the time of entry. Soon after he will be scheduled for an assessment either by the Smiles Mobile Unit, or at the new therapeutic centre to determine his needs and how to address them. He is then placed in the institution best suited for his care and support. In this home, which will be modelled on our agreed best practices, he will be nurtured by specially trained caregivers selected for their passion and vocation. He will be well fed with nutritious meals and healthy snacks, adequately clothed and comfortably housed.

Let's say that he has been assessed with behavioural problems, he is then taken to regular counselling sessions and receives, if necessary, his medication, dental checks and treatments. He also attends school every day and enjoys extracurricular activities at school, as well as those offered at the home coordinated by the Art-for-Life Programme and sport facilitators, including music, dance, drama, art and craft, chess, netball, cricket and football. Attending church is one of the things he enjoys doing and he is mentored spiritually and emotionally through appropriate relationships with suitable role models. He is excitedly looking forward to an annual excursion that will be putting in place as one of the many national attractions and to use his

Culture Card periodically, giving him and his caregivers at the home free access to our museums, heritage sites and national cultural events by the JCDC. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, he might not remain in care, he may be returned to his parents who have benefitted from our parenting seminars and are not able to take care of him, or he may become a part of a foster care programme or adopted by a caring and loving family. But, Mr. Speaker, if he l remains in State care we intend that he will be given more than just a fighting chance, but instead be careful and by careful and deliberate means he will be given the opportunity to become a healthy, educated, well-adjusted young man achieving his full potential. We cannot and we must not leave it to chance. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to youth. This generation of young people is the largest the world has ever seen. The latest estimate puts the number of young people between the ages of 15 and 24 on the planet to 1.2 billion. Each year around 120,000,000 young people turn 16 and most of them begin seeking jobs. Young people make up a quarter of the world's total population, yet they account for 40% of the unemployed.

Last year the ILO, the International Labour Organization estimated that 73,000,000 young people were unemployed across the world, which is estimated at 12.6% and close to crisis peak. Additionally, the ratio of youth to adult unemployment stands at 2:7 and unfortunately our young people continue to be almost three times more likely to be unemployed than adults. These figures, however, do not include the vast [number of] young people who are underemployed and unemployable.

Here in Jamaica, the unemployment rate for the 14 - 24 age group is around 37 per cent. That's roughly 65,000 unemployed youths in the island, as reported by STATIN. I suspect by and large that this problem is also repeating itself throughout CARICOM.

Mr. Speaker, the job market has changed so much in the last thirty years, and the primary focus of these changes has been technology and the global economy. It worries me that young people are still seeking training for jobs that will not exist in a few years, while at the same time ignoring the skills that will provide them the greatest opportunities.

In order for us not to be marginalized in the global economy, we have to solve the problem of the disconnect between our youths' understanding of economic fundamentals, capital markets and Jamaica's competitive advantage in the world.

Additionally, we must teach our young people how to go outside of their comfort zones, take risks with unbridled determination, break from the traditional career paths without fear, and most importantly, we have to teach them how to think big. We cannot and must not leave our young people to chance, Mr. Speaker.

The reality is that we have to make a choice for our young people. We are either going to be world producers taking our place at the global table, or world consumers being marginalized in a world without boundaries. It is estimated that the world will need to create half a billion new jobs by 2030, as more and more of our young people join the job market.

The truth is Mr. Speaker that our youths today in Jamaica are savvy, they are in tune. They have access to information and are not shy to ask for what they want. Right now I have about 30 of them sitting in my office at the Ministry of Youth and Culture, watching me as I speak.

Persons under 30 represent 53 per cent of our population. What many lack, however, is the mindset that enables them to connect the dots of how their lives are directly impacted on and by the global economy. Many in this segment ask me on a daily basis, why are there no jobs for my friends? Or, why is there no job when I have a college degree? Or, why can't I get more money for the job that I have?

You know Mr. Speaker I believe that every Member of this House has been asked similar questions by the young people they interact with each and every day. These young people make no bones about holding the Government accountable for their career development, as many were looking towards the public sector expansion for job opportunities. That is not unique to Jamaica, and in reality for most countries, that is no longer an option.

For the most part, we have to reset our thinking of how our youth are, how we train them and how we give them the courage, Mr. Speaker, to do things and think about things differently. This is what we have set out to do in the Ministry that I lead.

How will we respond? We have to prepare our young people to compete with the best in the world, and we have to give them the skills and the support to build new and viable enterprises. In short, we have to create a new generation of entrepreneurs. Mr. Speaker, to help alleviate the youth unemployment crisis we have to create a new generation of job creators. (Applause)

First, Mr. Speaker, we are determined that we are more likely to succeed as a team rather than as individuals. There are several exciting opportunities, but it requires young people to get together as productive and as a unified force. And we need to facilitate their access to capital and business development that will allow them to properly present their products or services on the world's stage. We cannot be allowed to leave this process to chance, Mr. Speaker. To succeed in today's world, being good is not enough, you have to be among the best.

You see Mr. Speaker I believe that for us to succeed in the future we will need more entrepreneurs and multi-skilled people to create the necessary jobs. Research worldwide suggests that the phenomenon of unattached youths - those who are not in school, those who are not at work or have no skills - has adverse effect for the individual, society and the economy. In Jamaica, that cohort is estimated at about 124,000 young people. Empowering our young people by creating favourable conditions for them to develop their talents and actively participate in the labour market, is essential for the economic and social development, and for achieving our vision and our goals for Vision 2030.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the traditional "job for life" has become rarer and rarer, and youth entrepreneurship has to be seen now as an additional way of allowing our youth into the labour market, while at the same time promoting job creation. It has been demonstrated that youth entrepreneurship is an option to create employment for their peers.

Mr. Speaker, young business people are quicker to see new trends and economic opportunities, young people are active in high-growth sectors, young people with entrepreneurial spirit make better employees, young people are innovative and create new forms of independent work, and young people who are self-employed, have higher life satisfaction. We cannot and we must not leave it to chance.

(Applause)

So Mr. Speaker where do we go from here? What have we been doing? Well, we have been doing our part, but it is critical for us to understand that the majority of our youth were never taught how to become an entrepreneur or a business person. That entrepreneurial experience and education will help our youth to develop new cognitive and non-cognitive skills that can be applied to other challenges that they may encounter as they develop. Opportunity, recognition, innovation, critical thinking, resilience, decision-making, and teamwork, are just a few of these that not only will redound to the best interest, but to the country as a whole, if they are exposed and mentored.

So Mr. Speaker this year our agency, the National Youth Service, will be introducing new programmes aimed at enabling the next generation of job creators.

(Applause)

As a follow-up to our entrepreneurship camps last year, the NYS will be launching our Entrepreneurship Programme, by training over 200 young people who have the desire, the drive and ideas, to form sustainable businesses that create jobs. Included in the training programme will be coaching in Business Plan Development, and how to develop and present credible and effective business financing proposals. I know that the Member from Clarendon has a young man that I met just on Friday, who has one of those proposals. These programmes will be available in selected parishes, and we will commit Twenty Million Dollars ($20M) initially, to this programme. Given our thrust to develop the next generation of business leaders, we will be moving swiftly to ensure that youth across the island will have access to this training.

Mr. Speaker, at the same time that we are doing this, we are also rolling out another new programme, Entrepreneurship 101 - a series of sensitization sessions in all parishes, and we will target over 1,500 young people. The experience from the sessions will be used to gauge the youth entrepreneurship interest for future roll out of the entrepreneurship programme in those parishes.

Mr. Speaker, the House will be particularly pleased to know that we have made a deliberate decision to reserve 10 per cent of those spaces in the programme for youth with physical and development challenges. (Applause) We will spend Thirty-five Million Dollars ($35M) on this activity.

You will also be pleased to note Mr. Speaker that we will be introducing an Empowerment Programme specially designed for youth with disabilities. This year we will target 100 young people with intellectual disabilities, and assist them with personal and professional development skills. And some of you might be wondering what is an intellectual disability? I met a young man last year with autism, who got First Class Honours from university, and just can't get a job because nobody is prepared to hire him. We have to find a means, as a country, to create spaces for those people who are not familiar to us in the same way that we think or in the same way that we operate. (Applause)

Under this programme, we will help them to identify what they are good at, and what careers would suit them best. We will also assist our youths with disabilities to participate in voluntary, cultural and sporting activities. Elements of this six-month programme were successfully piloted in 2013/14, as Our Summer Empowerment Camp Project; and we budgeted, Prime Minister, Fifteen Million Dollars ($15M) for this programme.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, guided by our feedback from close to 4,000 young people who participated in the island-wide "Express YuhSelf" consultations, the NYS will introduce this year, "Youth Road Map to Succeed". The Youth Road Map to Succeed will provide a complete set of guidance materials which can be presented in a classroom environment, but will be augmented with youth-friendly online support facilities. The online resources will include resume creation and self-assessment tools, apps and links to self-development databases. This is to make sure that they receive the cutting-edge training that is now being used internationally to transition from school to work, and we are committing Forty Million Dollars ($40M) to this new project. (Applause)

Our new Enrichment Programme will engage 500 youth at-risk in activities that focus on character building, career development, volunteerism and cultural awareness. Elements of these programmes were successfully piloted last year as our Summer Enrichment Camp Project, and we will be rolling it out in full force this year with Twenty Million Dollars ($20M). (Applause)

Mr. Speaker also, for the first time, we will be introducing an Industry-Specific Skills ICT Development Programme, that will engage 40 youth in animation, graphic design and videography training. We have also built exposure and internship opportunities into the programme to ensure that our young people will develop their technical expertise and be ready to start their careers at the end of the training. And for these 40 young people in animations and ICT, we will be spending Eight Million Dollars ($8M) towards their development.

Mr. Speaker, this is the final new programme, and it is an example of the synergies that we are building across the Ministry of Youth and Culture, NYS and the Jamaica Cultural Development Commission. The NYS and the JCDC have entered into a partnership for the training and placement of 60 young people in the areas of Events Management and Production. This year the programme was piloted with good results, and will now become a standing offering of the NYS and the JCDC.

Following the completion of the one-week residential training in basic events management, the trainees will be assigned to JCDC offices islandwide to complete six months' internship, and receive a monthly stipend from the NYS, giving them much needed hands-on training in the planning and execution of events during the Festival and Independence celebrations.

In addition to providing gainful employment for these youngsters over the six-month period, they will be better equipped for further employment within the creative and cultural industry, as Events Production Assistants. We allocated Eight Million Dollars ($8M) towards this programme which commenced in April, 2014, and will to October, 2014, following which there will be a review, with a view to making it an annual programme.

Mr. Speaker, focused, strategic and deliberate, we will continue to roll out our programmes aimed at ensuring that all participants are set on a long-term and sustainable path. This approach necessitates that the outcomes are not only related to the speed of the labour market integration, but importantly, to the quality and stability of employment as well.

Consequently, skills training will place importance on vocational skills and web/ICT-based skills that are in demand locally and internationally. Our thrust is to ensure that we pool our resources to equip them for taking advantage of the areas that we are most competitive in within the global marketplace. Areas such as Music and Culture, Sport, the BPO industry, Agriculture, Logistics and Port Facilities and Tourism. (Applause) Essentially, youth coming from the Ministry of Youth and Culture will be prepared for not only these competitive areas, but also the online world of work.

So Mr. Speaker as we aim not to overshoot the moon but to land on it, the NYS will continue with some of their existing and successful programmes.

- The Graduate Work Employment Programme which provides valuable experience to tertiary graduates up to 24 years old was introduced last year in response to the dual challenge of graduates being unable to gain jobs without experience, and who could not gain meaningful experience without jobs. Over 300 participants were placed for up to six months, during which the NYS paid them a stipend to assist with their expenses.

Mr. Speaker, I am happy to report to the House that this year a quarter of the participants will be young people with disabilities, thanks to the involvement of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security. (Applause)

This year, we will spend $48 Million on this project so that our tertiary students will be placed in jobs.

The Summer Employment Programme which provides three weeks of work experience for school-aged youth during the months of July and August will continue. And I just want to say to all the MPs that are here, some of you have not returned your forms and the deadline has passed.

(Inaudible comments)

Miss HANNA: This year we expect 4,000 participants and we will have committed $72 Million towards this project. (Applause) We will give financial assistance to 700 post-service participants who are pursuing tertiary education. These students are eligible to receive up to 20% of their tuition paid by the NYS over a period of three years. The cost of this programme and the cost that we're putting towards helping our tertiary students is $28 Million. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we have an added benefit, to our access to higher education programme, which provides financial assistance to students especially in rural areas, including students now at the College of Agriculture, Science and Education. Our target for this period will be 100 students who will benefit to a cost of J$12 Million.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we continue to push volunteerism at the NYS and our Volunteers Programme is designed to reestablish the NYS volunteerism emphasis, by providing opportunities for young people across Jamaica to undertake community-based development projects. Youths participating in this programme will be drawn from among those currently engaged in the NYS programmes and we've committed $16 Million towards improving our volunteerism throughout the NYS, Mr. Speaker. (Applause) So, Mr. Speaker, we are doing this, as we intend to impact over 11,500 young people this year, to the tune of $322 Million towards ensuring them that we get them equipped, involved and productive.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Not leaving it to chance.

Miss HANNA: Not leaving it to chance.

Re-energizing youth governance and participation, Mr. Speaker, we actually achieved this once again, with 100% increase in the Financial Year 2013/2014, in funding to promote youth governance and leadership at the National Secondary Schools Council and the National Youth Council Movements, as they were both revitalized. Several key events were successfully hosted last year, and this pool of funds provided needed support to the NSSC and the NYCJ, the Jamaica Youth Ambassadors Programme and the Jamaica Union for Tertiary Students. Various youth leaders and groups were also enhanced and supported. Our National Centre for Youth Development successfully monitored and ensured that:

1) National elections for the NSSC were held in November last year.
2) The National Executive of the National Youth Council of Jamaica and the 13 Parish Youth Councils across the island are all now established and are fully operational; also

3) The NYCJ - the National Youth Council Elections were successfully held in November of last year; and
4) The training in leadership and advocacy, parliamentary procedures, protocol, meeting and management tools, the treasury, financial management and responsibilities for minute taking were conducted for national and parish executive members.

Mr. Speaker, I spoke about this because I'm very pleased, that I've already received the plan which I requested for this financial year, from both the Presidents of the National Youth Council and the NSSC, and attention will be given to provide training and development and support for the new executives in an effort to ensure that the successful implementation of some of their activities at the school and community levels will be done. This will further promote effective governance and strengthen our democracy.

Furthermore, we will continue our Engagement of Youth Leaders and Groups. I'm happy to report, Mr. Speaker, that we've audited over 400 community youth-based organizations and as such, we will provide financial support to the tune of $12 Million in the form of subventions or grants to assist with the development of their various programmes once they meet the criteria. (Applause)

The Programme, that is Innovative Sports and Arts Youth Involvement Programme - I SAY I - the mission or output of this programme is to prevent and reduce the incidence of youth violence, crime and other behavioural deviances and increase prospects of employment and life skills building for our most vulnerable and our youth at-risk who are 13 to 25 years old who come in conflict with the law. Last year approximately 300 youth offenders in four correctional institutions were equipped with knowledge and skills to help them to be more successful in their re-entry to mainstream society. The project continues at Hilltop, Metcalf Street, South Camp Road and Rio Cobre. Instruments and sports equipment have also been delivered to the four institutions targeted. A Youth Empowerment Toolkit and a Creative Sports Life Skills Manual was also developed for the programme to assist with the future instruction of juveniles in these spaces. Special training geared at using the I SAY I methodology which was crafted, inclusive of the use of the Manual and Toolkit to teach youth engagement through the Creative Arts and Sports will commence for this financial year.

Youth Empowerment Officers, Probation Officers, Correctional Officers will be trained. The training will be done in partnership with Children's First, Manifesto and Studio 154. (Applause) This programme is supported by UNICEF to the time of $10 Million. (Applause) And I want to thank Mr. Connolly.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to Operation Phoenix. In an age where spending time in virtual spaces has become the norm for so many of our youngsters - and I have one of them at home. The YIC spaces gives youth from a wide cross section of society, access to physical space and provides credible information and assistance relating to their personal and professional development, guidance and counselling, access to communication technology, assistance with entrepreneurial pursuits and a platform to express themselves using the Creative and Performing Arts, all in a safe, youth-friendly environment.

Mr. Speaker, the construction of our Youth Information Centres is ongoing. I just had the privilege of opening the Clarendon YIC, and we intend to have 15 Youth Information Centres opened by 2016 in May Pen. The contract has been signed for approximately $40 Million with DR Foote Construction for the establishment of the Hanover Youth Information Centre and construction has already started in Hanover for this Centre. (Applause) This activity is being conducted under the IDB/GOJ Youth Development Programme. And I want to publicly record my sincere thanks to the IDB for continuing with the programme. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear! Hear! Hear!

Miss HANNA: Mr. Speaker, I want to stress that as a part of our strategic approach we'll be incorporating the NYS into the YICs so that we can cut out our recurrent expenditure for the NYS and also provide better value-added services to our youth. By doing this they'll be able to access everything at one stop without having to go to several spaces.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Miss HANNA: Finally, Mr. Speaker, the revision of the National Youth Policy continues, and development of the mechanisms to support its implementation. Mr. Speaker, I'll be the first one to tell you that I'm not pleased that we've taken this long for the policy to be tabled, but we've had to ensure that we listened to all the voices and aspirations of our youth. As you are aware, several groups exist.

Earlier this year I took the time to meet with the youth of JFLAG, The Colour Pink and other LGBT - for those of you who are not clear that's Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender groups - in consultation as well. The draft Green Paper is in the last round of modification and currently being reviewed by the Ministry. It will be going to Cabinet shortly and we're also in the process...

A MEMBER: The first meeting.

(Heckling)

Miss HANNA: Dem sey when yuh throw stone in a pigpen the one that squeal get lick, yuh nuh.

(Heckling)

Miss HANNA: The draft Green Paper is in the last round of modification and is currently being reviewed by the Ministry. It will be going to Cabinet shortly. We're also in the process of fine tuning the implementation modalities of the policy once it has been approved by Cabinet. As such, although the merger of the NYS and the NCYD has been approved, the operational guidelines for the implementation is on hold until the policy is final.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to Culture. Jamaica's size belies the power and reach of its culture. For the iconic and widely circulated Rolling Stones Magazine to publish an entire edition on the life of our Reggae King and Icon, Bob Marley - over thirty years after his death, hailing him as the first major rock artist to come out of a third world country - demonstrates this. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear! Hear! Hear!

Miss HANNA: And the Member for South St. Andrew, I think had a hand in making this a possibility.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Miss HANNA: We are indeed, truly humbled that our culture continues to transcend language, colour, class and borders. For us, the cultural and creative industries give us a solid global competitive advantage and we're committed to utilizing it for the prosperity of our people.

Mr. Speaker, our deliberate commitment to getting this done was demonstrated recently by the establishment of the National Cultural and Creative Industries Commission led by our Most Honourable Prime Minister, Portia Simpson Miller. The Commission, which is comprised of Ministers of Government... (Applause) ...Cultural and the Creative Industry experts and practitioners have been tasked with ensuring that Jamaica positions itself to leverage the significant economic and development opportunities emerging in the global market. Jamaica will also be exploring ways to develop a framework/mechanism for streamlining the definition and classification certification and registration of all cultural practitioners and organizations. This will facilitate them in the realization of economic gain as they pursue their talents.

Our cultural acumen and talent did not happen by chance, Mr. Speaker, our history has moulded us over many, many years, and thousands of children, youth and adults have benefitted from the early 1950s with the Jamaica Festival of the Arts right through to the National Festival of the Arts training programme, a true example of culture's contribution to poverty alleviation and development. (Applause) Today, the programmes offer unlimited access to creative development and exposure through our early childhood education programmes all the way up to high school. It is the vehicle through which many Jamaicans have been propelled to global recognition in music, dance, theatre and other culinary forms. That's why most people when you go around the world know about jerk and other kinds of traditional cultural forms that we've given to them.

Culture is also a critical component of how we're approaching sustainable urban and rural development. The Jamaica Social Investment Fund has given support to the Maroon and Rastafari communities to advance programmes which observe the preservation of their natural environment along with the heritage of their communities towards economic viability. Several projects have been developed and in March if this year, a working village showcasing Rasta levity - that is the philosophy, religion and lifestyle of Rastafarians - was opened.

Mr. McKENZIE: That is a commercial rasta.

(Laughter/Cross talks)

Miss HANNA: Dem sey Jah will never gi the power to a baldhead yuh nuh, suh...

Mr. Speaker, centuries ago, as Jamaicans were leading a cultural revolution which remains relevant to the world today, at a time when slavery was legal and women were seen as inferior to men, our national heroine Nanny led her people, the Maroons, in a fight against oppression from the heights of the Blue and John Crow Mountains. It was in this space, that she, one of Jamaica's and one of history's most important female military leaders, conquered the British 100 years before full freedom. Standing on the shoulders of our legendary heroine, we were extremely pleased that we have successfully submitted the Blue and John Crow Mountains for nomination to become a World Heritage Site. (Applause)

Undoubtedly, there's a natural mystic about our beautiful Jamaica...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Miss HANNA: ...a special dynamic force that not only exists with the creative imagination of all Jamaican people but within the land itself. My Prime Minister always says it's not in a name it's about the pride of a people. It is a force that is rooted in history - a history that connects so many peoples of the world. It is the force that is critical to any developmental plan. I would like to believe, Mr. Speaker, that it was perhaps this force that inspired and propelled Garvey to herald into existence the UNIA which proudly celebrates this year, its 100th Anniversary.

(Applause)

As we mark the significant milestone in our nation's history, I boldly affirm that Jamaica intends to honour the wise counsel of Garvey and the lyrical energy of Marley as we claim to share our share of the global creative economy.

But, Mr. Speaker, it is not enough to mesmerize the rest of the world with our talent and creativity. We must manage the process so that we continue to not only spawn the best cultural talent but to move the market and market this talent to the world with purposeful and consistent arrangements. (Applause) With this goal in mind, it was critical that we move the JCDC from only being talent developers to also being talent managers; because when we produce all of these gold medalists they need outlets to earn. So this year we will open an Artist Management Division at the JCDC which is a new component of the structure going forward. (Applause)

The Ministry of Finance has approved the J$14 Million to fund the staff whose Terms of Reference for this Division will be to identify markets for performers while acting as a central database for all talent coming through our doors. When overseas groups come looking to us for talent, they will be facilitated at the highest professional standards in keeping with the global industry. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the world continues to demand our creative talents and we are committed to meeting the needs of the creative market through increased development programmes. Our children and youths must be given full opportunity to realize their artistic potential. (Applause) We have, therefore, taken a major policy shift. We have shifted the Festival of the Arts programme from the last term of the school year which is April to June, when schools are normally focusing on exams and we have shifted it to the first term of the school year which is September to December. Schools may now activate their arts programmes during the summer giving students adequate time to balance both their academic and their artistic development. This is a major strategic shift, Mr. Speaker, but it will be in the best interest of the creation and the promotion of our talents. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, The NYS through the GWEP, which is our Graduate Work Employment Programme will place over 30 graduates as Performance Arts Specialists in each parish to assist with talent development. This year, we intend to assign graduates from the Edna Manley College of the Visual and Performing Arts and the Excelsior Community College to parish offices of the JCDC. These graduates will assist in the training and development of talent in the Visual and Performing Arts and also they will assist in communities as well as providing assistance with the Arts Development programme in schools where this specialized skill does not exist. What you will now see with these Performing and Visual Arts Specialists is a certain specialty that will provide training to also unattached youths in cultural centres to be established island-wide and we are thinking of our youth information centres for this. This is in keeping with our expressed objective to act as an incubator for local and rural talents. And this programme will commence this summer and will continue in one year cycles on an annual basis. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the modern Cultural Movement or the Modern Festival Movement was really born out of volunteerism at the community level. In an effort to recapture this legacy, we have embarked on a resuscitation of the voluntary parish committees across the island and I am pleased to report that we now have 14 parish cultural development committees up and running. These persons are energized, enthusiastic and are now busily involved in the planning of the upcoming Emancipation and Independence Celebrations in their respective parishes, in conjunction with the JCDC's field staff.

Additionally, in an effort to improve participation in the annual festival programme and to increase cultural awareness, civic pride and patriotism particularly among our youth, we strengthened our Culture Club Programme in communities and schools island-wide. In the past year, we have seen a doubling of the number in schools to 162 clubs with an aggregate membership of over 5,600 young people; which brings me, Mr. Speaker, to Independence 2014 which we will be launching in the first week of June this year.

"Jamaica Festival" is the major focus of this year's Emancipation and Independence Celebrations and we will continue our efforts to develop and promote the cultural and creative industries towards greater income generation, job creation and export earnings.

In the six days of excitement and wholesome family entertainment from August 1 - August 6, we will commemorate these two very important national anniversaries, that is, Emancipation Day and Independence Day in a series of activities. We will have Live Music Tuesdays in every parish, we will have our Independence Conversations, we will have the National Thanksgiving Service on Sunday, July 27, we will have our islandwide Emancipation Vigils or Emancipation Jubilee, Mello-go-Round, I know the Member from South St Andrew will like this, we will have a 'Heart of Ska' International Festival, we are introducing an Aunty Roachie Short Film & Literary Festival, (Applause) a Dutchie Food Festival and the big Stage: Pop and Variety Competition to culminate with the Grand Gala. (Applause) In addition to these major events, all parishes will be staging a week-long schedule of activities.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to focus on one of them which is "The Big Stage" which will be rolled out to showcase the talent within communities especially in rural communities. As a means of catering to the vast number of talented youngsters between the ages of 18 - 35, the JCDC like the popular 'America's Got Talent' Show in the United States, will seek to identify, develop, and expose the varied creative talents and performing skills of these youngsters from rural and urban communities. Many of our popular entertainers had their genesis this way. The target is to reach at least 2000 young people this year and the talent search has already begun. (Applause) This will conclude in August.

This programme will provide an opportunity for training and for them to showcase their talents that are sometimes not captured in the JCDC's regular and current menu of competitions. We have a lot of talent out there, Mr. Speaker, but we have never really sent people to strategically go out and find it.

The JCDC will be transforming the Ranny Williams Entertainment Centre into a modern venue. So far the facilities have received a facelift ahead of hosting last year's Independence Village. This included the repaving of the roadways and parking lots, repainting of some of the buildings and the placement of 18 Jamaica 50 wooden shops that were used during Jamaica 50. A redevelopment committee was appointed by the JCDC Board and it is currently exploring various initiatives for the continued development of the complex. Major work will be done on the facilities for Labour Day and certainly the rental of the facility is a crucial source for additional revenue.

Mr. Speaker, some of our lasting legacies have been institutions like the Jamaica National Heritage Trust, like the IOJ, and this year the Jamaica National Heritage Trust will declare 10 sites, four new and eight (8) previously gazetted under the JNTC Act. And certainly the Prime Minister has asked that some other sites be looked at and we will seek to look at those as well, Mr. Speaker.

I want to turn to the National Library because some very exciting things are happening with this Agency under the Ministry that I lead. The National Library, in an effort to maximize the use of its resources, will implement an alternative to the current library management system which though very low in cost, is the most effective at showcasing the National Library of Jamaica resources locally and internationally. The new system called "World Cat Local" will place the catalogue of the library's holdings into global library catalogue that is discoverable through popular search engines such as Google, Yahoo and BING. (Applause) In a real way, Mr. Speaker, this new system will truly enable Jamaica to the world.

In addition, Mr. Speaker, in recognition of the public's preferred mode of accessing information, we will launch the National Library of Jamaican Digital Collection and it will create a digitized encyclopedia of Jamaica for local and global references. (Applause) This digital encyclopedia includes materials from the library's paper and photograph Collection that have been digitized and it also includes the full text 18th and 19th Century Jamaican books already digitized by Google and NLJ digital and it can be accessed at the website that you see here.

In a further move to preserve the Nation's intellectual output in this year, we will be transferring the legacy 16 millimetre film resources to digital and the concomitant dissemination of these resources through programming and social media. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I also want to use this medium to invite our distinguished - everybody to our distinguished lecture. The 2014 distinguished lecture will be presented by novelist, Poet and Panama Historian Miss Olive Senior to mark the Centenary of the Panama Canal; I expect to see the Minister of Transport and Works (Applause) and his entire team present.

I also want to congratulate Professor Mervin Morris, our Poet Laureate. (Applause) This is the first time that Jamaica will have an official Poet Laureate; the last Poet Laureate for Jamaica was named in 1953 by an NGO. I want to thank Mrs. Hudson, the staff, and the Board of the National Library who played a major role with the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment as we worked together to achieve this very important milestone. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, last year we opened three new museums for the people of Jamaica; Seville, Roxborough and the People's Museum. (Applause) Visiting museums, like visiting libraries, is an essential part of civic education as well as community and individual empowerment. This year we will be focusing on the opening of two other major ones. For many years Prime Minister, in fact, since the days of our Independence there have been calls for a National Museum of Jamaica which would be a museum for the people; a place where all Jamaicans, from all walks of life could see, read and feel the amazing story that is our history. To witness the national narrative that is dramatic, extraordinary and often painful, but it is a story that all informed citizens need to be able to understand, access and be able to respond to.

There have been many dreams and many plans over the last couple of years for a museum but nothing has happened. Finally, we have moved to develop a National Museum of Jamaica. (Applause) This Museum will be the centrepiece that spawns a network of community museums located across the island that will implement the plans. I have overseen the establishment of the National Museum Foundation which will be raising funds to support a National Museum in Kingston. The Council of the IOJ has designated upstairs of the 16 East Street Building as the space for this important museum. I have already engaged key stakeholders, including our Prime Minister, including past esteemed Prime Minister including the Most Honourable PJ Patterson and the Most Honourable Edward Seaga whom I have consulted with and whom have agreed to be patrons of this foundation. (Applause)

Concurrently we are moving to develop the National Museum West in Montego Bay. This museum will be located in the Montego Bay Civic Centre and will explore the national narrative but with a special focus on western Jamaica. This new centre will also incorporate elements of the National Gallery as well; and it is my particular desire that National Museum West maintain a community focus with the history and memories of our people. I am reliably informed that the National Museum Jamaica is already seeking out objects and narratives that will tell the story of our people, and I so encourage members, particularly those with a western leaning, to get involved. The Mayor of the St James Parish Council and his team are fully on board and both of these projects will commence in this financial year. (Applause)

I must also mention that we will be reopening a new and modern Natural History Museum which has been closed for several years, visitors will now see a modern gallery with high tech displays as well the preservation of diverse ecosystems, plants and animals found only in Jamaica. Funding support has been received from CHASE and TEF, and we expect this to be completed before the end of this fiscal year. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the National Gallery of Jamaica celebrates its 40th anniversary and will be having an exhibition which is entitled Retrospect, 40 years of the National Gallery and certainly we want everybody to come out because we will be showcasing what we really do best in terms of expressing ourselves in art since 1974 and I invite all Jamaicans both here and abroad to come and see that.

Mr. Speaker, we have to also strategically review how we do things with some of these legacies and the Council of the Institute of Jamaica has agreed to do a comprehensive review of the operations and governance arrangements for Institute of Jamaica. It is urgent for an organization like this to examine its relevance and they have agreed to do this, and the funds have been agreed to and are in place by CHASE.

Mr. Speaker, it was our goal to make history and for the first time Jamaica was elected to the twenty-one member World Heritage Committee of UNESCO, the lobbying efforts were extensive and difficult and it came down to a nail-biting finish. Mr. Speaker, I had to go on the lobbying floor in Paris where over a 190 countries assembled to ensure that we were seen and we were heard.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

Miss HANNA: We won and will be participating in the first meeting (Applause) of this Committee has the only Small Island Developing State to held in Doha, Qatar, in June 15 to 25 of this year. As Chairman of UNESCO, Jamaica, I want to thank UNESCO for their continued support in the many areas of culture, science...

(Inaudible comment by Mrs. Neita-Headley)

Miss HANNA: ....communication and information; (Applause) and welcome the new Director of the Caribbean office for UNESCO, Miss Christine Norton.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, the issue of reparation remains an important issue to the Government of Jamaica.

Mr. HENRY: (On his feet) Will Minister yield before she speaks.

Miss HANNA: No. For what?

Mr. HENRY: I am trying to ensure Madam Minister - with respect, Mr. Speaker.

Miss HANNA: (Sotto voce) On what grounds, on what grounds?

Mr. PAULWELL: Could I just ask the Member to allow the Member to finish her presentation and then...

(Cross talk)

Mr. HENRY: But before the next part I would like to ask a question.

(Cross talk/The Speaker gavels)

Because the presentation has entailed so many important things, I wouldn't want to be discordant but what I'm going to ask the Minister is, since I have read the speech, is when will we have the Report from the Commission laid on the table?

(Cross talk/The Speaker gavels)

Miss HANNA: The answer to that is shortly.

The Government's continued commitment resulted in the recovering National Reparation Commissions...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Henry) (Laughter)

Miss HANNA: ...in October 2012 and is currently chaired by Professor Verene Shepherd. The NRC has recently completed its status report which explains the establishment and work of both the former and current National Commission on Reparations. It rehearses the genealogy of the movement and prior applications and claims, documents the legal and historical basis for reparatory justice as well provides critical data on beneficiaries and Jamaica's just monetary claim. A CARICOM Reparations Commission was recently formed in July 2013 under the chairmanship of Sir Hilary Beckles. The importance of the existence of the CARICOM Reparations Commission demonstrates regional commitment to the principles of fairness, equity and its resolve to address the ills of the past. The NRC will work in tandem with the CARICOM Reparations Commission and the international Reparations Movement as a way forward.

Mr. Speaker when I began, I shared with this Honourable House the guiding principles of Garvey which inspired my team to be focused, deliberate and strategic in how we went about fulfilling our mandate and commitment to the people of Jamaica. Throughout this presentation I believe that I have demonstrated that by our approach towards identifying and implementing our priorities that we were neither accidental or coincidental. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Miss HANNA: However Mr. Speaker the portfolio responsibilities of the Ministry of Youth and Culture are as diverse as they are challenging and with stakeholders, interest groups and individuals passionate and vocal in their advocacy, sometimes the voices can be conflicting and polarizing and oftentimes sapping the energy of those of us who are on the front line.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Hear, hear! Babsie

(Cross talk)

Miss HANNA: For too long we have been fed a steady diet of negativity and defeat fuelled often by the destructive force of partisan politics.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That's true, that's true.

Miss HANNA: Sometimes even I - sometimes Mr. Speaker even I am amazed at how cleverly this behaviour is cloaked and disguised by those who seek to constantly and consistently denigrate and derail the best efforts of us those of who worked so long and so hard. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Shame!

(Cross talk)

Miss HANNA: I am deeply saddened by the negative perception of politicians in general held by so many in the society and those who decide to give their lives to public service. Recently I cringed Mr. Speaker as I viewed the music video of a popular song called 'Fighter' by two of our most popular and admired reggae dancehall artistes whose music I personally love and enjoy. I saw where a young man was told to go the office of the "dutty" politician for assistance. I thought how deeply troubling that these two young artistes, so creative, so talented and so highly influential should mirror, validate and deliver such a negative perception of politicians so creatively and so artistically.

Mr. Speaker, the accusations of being evil and corrupt are deeply hurtful to the innocent...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

Miss HANNA: ...but I believe that those of us who choose this path should at all times be mindful of the tremendous responsibility that we bear, that each and every one of us as Ministers seated in this House today should, at all times seek to honour the oath that we took when we entered this Honourable House. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: True.

Miss HANNA: Mr. Speaker, we are only human and sometimes we will stumble and sometimes we will fall, but we need to hold the bar of scrutiny very high; and if we all agree that when we sounded the trumpet or when we rang the bell that we did so because we all have the best interest of this nation at heart then we will not fail, (Applause) neither will we disappoint those we swore to serve because Mr. Speaker, guess what, failure for us is not an option. Mr. Speaker, I believe that when the Right Excellent Norman Manley came to the defence of the Right Excellent Alexander Bustamante as his attorney when he was incarcerated, it was more than just about being related. They put aside their personal ambitions driven by conscientious principles to act in the best interest of our young democracy for the upliftment of our people. (Applause) What a demonstration.

Mr. Speaker what will this generation, my generation, do to unite and build a Jamaica, one that we can all be proud of? Perhaps we could be guided by our actions and our conduct by pondering on the poignant lyrics of 'Fighter', Damian Marley and Cham's song as it lays out in gritty detail the lot of Garvey's suffering people whose experience suggest that the "system does favour the common man". However Mr. Speaker and colleagues, we will not be able to lead or represent those who are cynical and suspicious of us as so graphically portrayed in that same music vedeo for the song where the young man was indeed told to go to the office of the dutty politician for assistance. The determination and level of defiance in the lyrics "We shall reap the riches plentiful like the grains of sand" reveals that these riches can be accomplished by fair means or by foul ones with or without our help as leaders, or as policymakers. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I believe that it must be our job to develop polices and create the environment for our people to get these riches fairly and to get them justly and honestly.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I am of the firm view that the best way to change these perceptions and honour our heroes and our oath is to demonstrate by our own deeds and conduct that we are, in fact, the fighter in Damian Marley's portrayal. We are, indeed, the beacon on the mountain shining through like the rising morning sun; the ones who never stop until the work is done. And we are not the other juxtaposition that they make us out to be.

Mr. PRYCE: Hear, hear!

Miss HANNA: Mr. Speaker we must, each and every one of us, make a commitment as of today to be a force of motivation, a force of inspiration to the young people of Jamaica to never stop until the work is done. And with every fibre of our being to do everything in our power to remove the degrading, the dismissive and the disparaging labels ascribed to us as politicians. (Applause) Only then Mr. Speaker can we be truly confident that as leaders, boldly leading from the front, that when we pause to look behind, we see that others are following. This commitment we must never leave to chance.

(Cross talk/The Speaker gavels)

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, I welcome the opportunity to participate in another Sectoral Debate in this House. However, Mr. Speaker, I must protest the hour that I'm asked to speak, given the impression all along by the House Leader that there will be limitations to the length of presentations by both Ministers, portfolio holders and others, so I have to put that on record.

This year Mr. Speaker marks my thirtieth year as a Member of this Parliament and I am grateful - most grateful to the constituents of North West St. Andrew. They have through thick and thin stuck with me for three decades. Mr. Speaker, I have with me this afternoon some family members: I have my wife, Carlene, who is here. (Applause) She has returned to the House after about twelve years absence; I have my son Jay, who is here, my second son (Applause); I have my grandson, my eighteen year-old grandson; he is on the verge of getting enumerated.

(Cross talk)

My grandson, yes. My grandson and he loves the politics, which is frightening as far as you people are concerned. (Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, I also have my councillors: Councillor Vernon
McLeod from the Havendale Division - three term councillor, 12 years; and I have Councillor Dwayne Smith from the Chancery Hall Division, their first time...

(Applause)

Mr. CHUCK: Related... any relation?

Mr. D. SMITH: Well, he happens to be my third son. (Laughter)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: What happen to the other one?

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, we have our Councillor/Caretaker Andrew Harris.

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. D. SMITH: And Mr. Speaker we have some members of the constituency with us here this afternoon, and I am most grateful to them. They seem to have mastered the art of winning elections. They are very special - very, very special people. (Applause)

I thank the staff of Parliament, including the Clerk, the Hansard team, the Marshall, the orderlies, and the general staff, Mr. Speaker, the security and those who work in. the lounge and other areas, who have had to deal with me throughout the years, and in particular, the last year or so.

Mr. Speaker, I also like to pay tribute to you for your impartiality.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. D. SMITH: I must say that - as you know, I have said it to you; I was expecting that you wouldn't have been here now, but you are still here and I want to congratulate you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHAW: I wonder where he was supposed to be.

(Laughter)

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, I would like to turn to the first area of responsibility I would like to address today which is that of Leader of Opposition Business in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, the Government boasts that it was able to deliver more than 40 pieces of Legislation during the 2013/2014 year. This is very commendable, of course. However, both the Leader of the House and the Leader of Government Business in the Senate, seem to conveniently ignore the fact that without the cooperation of the Opposition, the Government would not have achieved that target.

(Sotto voce comments/Applause)

Mr. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, it was our strong commitment to Jamaica's growth, development and prosperity...

Mr. PICKERSGILL: That is not true. We have commended you.

Mr. DALLEY: Many occasions.

Mr. SMITH: ...as well as maturity as an able Opposition which led us to take the position, which we felt, was in the best interest of the nation socially and economically.

However, the Government should recognize by now, that as the Leader of the Opposition said in the Budget Debate, while we will continue to behave as a democratic and patriotic force in this House, we will not abdicate our responsibility to protect the interest and the rights of the Jamaican people.

Mr. Speaker, as the Opposition, we expressed the view of a significant section of the electorate, and we help to ensure that the concerns of the various groups and interests not represented in government are not forgotten or trampled upon. This role, we believe Mr. Speaker, builds the confidence of the people in our democracy, and reassures them that their concern and interest are always ably expressed and protected in this Parliament.

Mr. Speaker, this side is concerned about the way the Government has abused our cooperation...

A MEMBER: What!

Mr. D. SMITH: ...in terms of how it has handled the tabling and consultation on these Bills, in a manner which should be far more efficient and transparent than what we have been experiencing. (Applause)

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. D. SMITH: I mean, when you bring it come here one day and want it to debate the same day.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Tell us what you want. A Bill come here and wants to debate...

Mr. SHAW: No, no, don't answer him. You have to tell us where you got that suit first before you answer anything else.

(Applause)

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, I am appealing to the Leader of the House to see that there is improvement in the future programmes, going forward, to ensure that the House finds ways and means to facilitate important meetings.

Mr. Speaker, the Office of the Leader of the Opposition. Mr. Speaker, to me, one of the most disgraceful features of the Government treatment of Parliament in the Estimates of Expenditure has been the allocation made for the housekeeping expenses of the Office of the Leader of Opposition. (Applause)

The Office was not conceived by us as a shrine to our democracy. It is one of the most tangible evidence of democracy and was established as an expression of the country's strong belief in the democratic process. It is therefore, Mr. Speaker, inconceivable that even the utilities of this Office would have become the subject of media reports, in cases where they are either cut off by the utility company, or in danger of being cut off because of unpaid bills.

Mr. Speaker that was not the position that prompted us as a government to establish the Office. I think that the public agrees with us that some special consideration should be given to the office of the Leader of the Opposition because it represents a large and important element of the democratic process. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this Government has taken the decision that it will not proceed with the plan of the previous Government to expand the current premises by acquiring additional properties for an upgraded Parliament. We have a genuine strong democracy, and a Parliament building that can accommodate our work and become the nucleus of our Parliamentary process is essential for it to work properly.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: So you agree?

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, I chaired a committee which did a fair amount of work, in terms of expanding and modernizing this Parliament. Unfortunately, it was brought to a halt, and we are where we are today. Mr. Speaker, you know when you travel all over the world, you appreciate the respect that some countries have for their democratic system, how they host and treat their Parliamentarians, and that is sadly lacking here.

What has happened, Mr. Speaker is, to my mind, is a fair level amongst respective parties, both Government and Opposition, about taking the steps to build a Parliament, which this country deserves. They are afraid of the backlash of the populace. But it is not going to cost any less next year, 10 years or 30 years' time, and I do hope that when we get back to office, our Prime Minister will have the guts to make final plans to build a Parliament which is truly representative of the situation here in Jamaica. (Applause)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: That is an election promise.

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, I would like to turn to the main subject of my presentation which is the performance of the Ministry oil National Security, and its projections for the next 12 years. But before I do that Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the Leader for affording me the opportunity for a second chance to deal with this particular portfolio.

Mr. DALLEY: I was waiting - a second chance yuh get, you know, don't blow it.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Don't blow it; don't blow it.

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, it is a portfolio that I have grown close to. I have been overseeing the portfolio of National Security for - from the year 2004, which this year is 20 years, of course, with a break in the middle, but I love the portfolio, and I have spent some time under-studying it.

Mr. Speaker, looking at the Estimates of Expenditure for the 2014/2015 as they relate to the Ministry, I noted that the Minister said that it works out to approximately 9.7 per cent of the total Budget after debt payment for the financial year which is less than the 10.5 per cent that the Ministry received in 2013. And taking into consideration that inflation was just above the 8 per cent level since last year, it is quite obvious that there is absolutely nothing to suggest any improvement in the capacity or the capabilities of the Ministry, its department and agencies for this financial year.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Very flawed.

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, the most important announcement, in terms of policy development, seems to be the merger of the Island Special Constabulary Force with the Jamaica Constabulary Force. But this is a move which had been around - had been years in making, and probably would have been completed prior to now without the personality conflicts between the two arms of the police force then.

We understand that the merger has now been completed, but we are not satisfied, Mr. Speaker, that it was done as seamlessly as it should have been. We suggest that the Government pay attention to the possibility of profiling, which could affect the relationship between the personnel, and ultimately, affect the morale of the force. Mr. Speaker, we believe that, as one newspaper said, the whole affair was very messy. We believe it wasn't properly handled. We believe it was done in great haste. We believe it was done without...

A MEMBER: Take out blue seam and put in red seam, what kind of foolishness that?

Mr. D. SMITH: ...appropriate consideration for the delicate issues that were involved. We believe that it was poorly handled. The Minister said in his presentation about a few hiccups. Well, we don't share the fact that there were just a few hiccups; we feel that the Minister should apologize. We feel the Minister should apologize to those persons who were affected by the mess that happened, in terms of the bringing together of the two forces.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. D. SMITH: Is not we alone say so; the newspaper says so. Look at the cartoon; the cartoon said so; it is a disgrace, and you should apologize. And you have a good forum to apologize later this week out in Ocho Rios, and you should not miss that opportunity.

Mr. BUNTING: You will be there; you will be there, Derrick?

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker, the Minister has also promised...

(Cross talk)

Mr. SHAW: Don't answer them; don't answer them.

Mr. D. SMITH: The Minister has also promised significant developments, in terms of investment in equipment, including the forces telecommunication system and the Automated Palm And Fingerprint Identification System. While we welcome the developments, and we agree that they will increase the operational efficiency of the force and enhance its investigative capacity, we recognize that there are very basic improvements which should have been done from last year. We recognized the importance of these improvements to the Ministry's programmes to contain crime and violence, but we need to see how effective these systems will be in the context of this crime fighting policy.

I am not afraid Mr. Speaker to repeat what I have said outside of Parliament before, that crime has risen under every PNP Administration since Independence. (Applause) It is an indisputable fact that it is only under a Jamaica Labour Party Administration that the country had seen significant reduction in crime. (Applause) The country knows that the PNP is soft on crime probably because of the populace policies and no amount of intellectual gymnastics can change that fact.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the facts are - if you use 1980 as the base-year where, when we left office Mr. Speaker, moving from a figure of 880 when we left in '89, the murders fell to just 400, just about 413. It increased during the PNP's 18½ years by 400%. Let me repeat that. It increased during the PNP's Administration, right, while they were here for 18½ years by 400%, right. And when we got back to office in 1989, and when in 2007, and when we demitted office in 2011, we brought crime down again much lower than what it was when we got into office.

Mr. Speaker, last year the murder rate began to peak and the Minister cannot afford to be complacent because there are some reductions in the statistics this year. I've heard him and the other members of the Police High Command gloating about what has happened. When the Minister spoke last week he seemed to have been satisfied with what he says was the 8% this year versus last year year-to-date.

Mr. Speaker… and he seems to have been satisfied as he said it's going in the right direction. Well, I don't agree with you, Minister, it's going in the wrong direction, and I'll tell you why, I'll tell you why.

In January this year, any year-to-date compared to last year, we were 15% less than 2013. In March this year, we got to 13% less than last year year-to-date. In April this year it remained at 13% less. In May this year, Mr. Speaker, when the Minister spoke, it was 8% year-to-date less than last year. As we speak now or as of the 17th of May this year, it is 7% less year-to-date than last year.

So Mr. Minister and those who are listening will obviously see that it's going in the wrong direction. It's not something to laugh about; it's a very serious thing, right; it's definitely going in the wrong direction.

But speaking about statistics, Mr. Speaker, probably it's a good time to speak about an issue that has been around for many months. It's an issue that I have brought to this House already and I've asked the Minister to investigate and he promised that he would and supply the House with the findings of the investigation. And I'm talking about this strong rumour regarding bullets being made in Jamaica by some illegal machines.

Why it is significant, Mr. Speaker? Not only that it is being pushed out there, but the statistics tells me that something is not right. When we look at the ammunition recovered by the police - and I am quoting from the Police statistics, Mr. Speaker - it says that in 2011 – 2400 they recovered; 2012 - 2,104; in 2013 - 2,400 and in 2014 so far - 3,339, that seems like approximately a 40% increase this year over last year.

Mr. Speaker, I have been listening, I hold no brief for anyone but I'm concerned. I'm concerned because as we know, as I said the ammunition find is baffling - a 40% increase, and as you know the gun by itself is harmless, it has to have the ammunition to be killing and wounding and maiming Jamaicans.

So Minister, I say to you again, I have seen the Chairman of FLA who seems to have taken responsibility for finding out the origin of the bullet-making machine seemed - I don't remember his name but he's waffling on television, he cannot answer a simple question. I have seen a member of the Police High Command refusing to ….

Mr. DALLEY: That's unkind.

Mr. SHAW: Be quiet!

Mr. DALLEY: Don't mislead the House.

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker I have seen a member of the Police High Command unable to answer certain straight and specific questions. I am now calling Mr. Speaker on the Minister to bring to Parliament the results of his investigation that I have asked for at least three months ago. In the absence of that, if it's not brought here in a reasonable time and I am talking about the next two weeks because they have had ample time to do the investigations, and I mean if it's not here within two weeks then I'll have to table specific questions to ensure that the Minister tries to satisfy the country that what is suspected is in fact not true.

We have concerns Mr. Speaker about all of these ranges throughout the island, how often they are audited, what levels of accountability exist for ammunitions which are sold and used or not used after they are brought at these locations, and the task is yours Minister to ensure that Jamaicans get the facts, get the facts with regard.... I know you started the investigation. I know the individual and the individuals that you spoke to, so by now you should have something to bring to this Parliament to allay the fears of many of us.

Mr. Speaker, I challenge the Government to talk fair and square to the public in the interest of saving lives and changing the perception of wanton crime and corruption of our country. I challenge the Government to focus on creating a safer society in which we can all prosper rather than performing public relations contortions to try to shift the blame for their failures.

Mr. Speaker, I move briefly to INDECOM.

I believe that the Independent Commission of Investigations has been doing a very good job in dealing with the issue of police brutality. We have to recognize that changes always come with some teething problems and it is important that we give INDECOM our full support as lawful citizens when it matters.

I have no doubt that all decent, law-abiding members of the security forces welcome the presence of INDECOM because they too want to remove perception of a corrupt, violent Force which has no regard for the human rights of our citizens.

We note the recent attempt, Mr. Speaker, to suggest that crime and violence increased suddenly in Clarendon because some policemen had been arrested in connection with some murders and they were refused bail and this demotivated the police in that parish.

We will not accept that suggestion because we believe that the vast majority of members of the security forces are decent, law-abiding officers who welcomed the oversight and who know that they have nothing to fear as long as they operate within the confines of the law.

But you know what is interesting Mr. Speaker is that there seems to be - as I have said, Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a force who, using one of the television stations, on a regular basis, to give the impression that mayhem exists in Clarendon because some police persons have been arrested and they have not been offered bail and crime, murders out of range there.

Well I am saying nonsense, not true.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Bunting)

Mr. D. SMITH: It is not true because the police statistics which I go by not 'hear sey'. The police statistics is showing in that parish a 26% reduction in murders over last year year-to-date. So that propaganda which is being carried on a particular radio station to mislead…

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Bunting)

Mr. D. SMITH: I deal with facts that I see from the police. The Member of Parliament statistics could be different from mine, but I got mine from the police. And there is a 26% reduction this year over last year. So....

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

A Government MEMBER: No more time.

(Heckling)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficiently for him to complete his presentation?

Put to the House and agreed to.

Mr. Smith.

Mr. D. SMITH: Thank you very much Mr. Speaker. Thanks to the Members of the House. I won't detain you because I recognize there's another speaker scheduled for some time this evening.

Mr. Speaker, I will now move to Science and Technology as it relates to national security.

In 2008 we made a commitment to a greater use of science and technology in our effort to solve crime, including increased use of DNA technology. We gave an undertaking to table and have legislation passed to enable the establishment of the DNA database in Jamaica, and to allow for the admission of DNA evidence in our criminal justice system.

Mr. Speaker, we did not claim to be the initiators of this effort to introduce DNA technology into the system. The DNA Bill was first promised by the current Minister of Finance and Planning from as far back as 2006 when he led the Ministry of [National] Security. The first draft of a Cabinet submission was done in mid-2007, passed and drafting instructions issued in mid-2008. We have a Member here who can attest to that, the Member from North East St. Andrew, who can attest to that fact.

Mr. Speaker, in light of this, it surprises me that the current Minister told the nation that the first time he received a draft of the Bill was in November 2012. Quite strange. Where was the Bill for a whole year? Mr. Speaker, the Government changed in 2007, we continued the process to a stage where the Bill was ready to be tabled, however, since returning to office, the Government seems to be having second thoughts about introducing it.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister himself, in a response to our questions in the recent Standing Finance Committee meetings, admitted that there was no allocation in the Estimates to further the process, and that it will take some time. Mr. Speaker, this is important. This is urgent and we implore on the Government, in the absence of the Minister, we implore on the Government to ensure that this be given priority.

Mr. Speaker, it has taken close to 10 years already, including the period of conception, one whole decade of increased crime and violence and the Government is still showing an inability to table the Bill in Parliament.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister gave the country an assurance that last year the Bill would come to Parliament in January this year. Five months later we are being told by the Minister that it is still waiting on the Office of the Chief Parliamentary Counsel to provide the final document. Certainly, we agree with Minister that the Bill is not a panacea, but after so many years of investing in this process and the related promises, it is time for the Bill to be tabled now.

We have had enough delays. The development of forensic science and the ability to obtain genetic matching on minute samples of blood, skin, saliva and hair has become an essential ingredient of forensic crime-fighting, and Jamaica with its record of crime and violence, cannot continue to ignore the value of important scientific input.

(Applause by Government Member)

Mr. Speaker, I am also concerned about the delays in introducing things like the ShotSpotter, and the fact that the Minister has given us no update on the introduction of body cameras. The Minister was gung-ho when he made the announcement about the introduction of body cameras for police and other personnel who engage in dangerous operations. He spoke last week, he hasn't mentioned a word about it, he has had press conferences subsequently and we haven't heard anything at all about it, and I know the police themselves are concerned if it was just something given to the media at the time of the killing just to take them off shot.

Mr. Speaker, for those Members who may not recall, the ShotSpotter is gunshot-detection system, or a gunshot-sensor system designed to detect the boom of bullets that travel faster than the speed of sound. The ShotSpotter relies on an acoustics-based GPS-equipped system that automatically locates the origin of the shot and notifies authorities. Police officials in Washington D.C., who have used it, say that it cuts the shots fired response time in half. ShotSpotter also records all detected gunfire and corresponding locations for later forensic use. The cost of implementation for the ShotSpotter system can range from hundreds of thousands of dollars for a small area to millions of dollars to cover an entire city the size of D.C., but it has become a very essential technology in crime-fighting.

In 2012, the Commissioner of Police made a request for the police to be armed with this important device and in fact, publicly stated that discussions were ongoing with the Minister of National Security. That's 2012. We are two years after and that situation seemed to have died a natural death.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister said then, and I quote from the newspapers:

"We have looked at it in several places. It has a record of significantly reducing gun crimes and gunfire in the range of 40 to 60 per cent in some areas where it has been used. We believe that if this capacity is built out in many of our crime-prone communities, it will immediately and significantly enhance public safety."

Mr. Speaker, the Commissioner made another appeal in 2013 for its acquisition. The Minister should, at least, let us know what is the Government's position on the acquisition of the technology. The Minister did not say a single word, either about the acquisition or of that of the body cameras for the JCF.

In January this year, the Minister announced at a post Cabinet briefing plans for select police units to wear body cameras to deal with allegations of extra-judicial killings and professional misconduct by members of the force. The Daily Gleaner reported on the 13th of May, that the Minister promised the newspaper to be more definitive about the implementation of the equipment when he spoke in the Sectoral Debate on that day. Well, the rest is history. The quote that time from the newspaper is;

"Bunting has not said much since the announcement, but yesterday, in response to Gleaner queries, he signalled that he will be shedding light on the use of body cameras today when he makes his contribution to the Sectoral Debate in the House of Representatives."

The Minister said in January that the project would commence rollout in the second half of the year. We haven't reached the second half of the year as yet, but the fact that he hasn't even mentioned it in his Sectoral speech raises a red flag.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure that like the rest of us, the Minister was excited about the fact that CCTV played a very important role in the quick capture of the 2 "Boston Bombers" in 2013. As we have seen in many other locations throughout the world, I too was impressed with the speed with which they were apprehended and this has increased my interest, as well as the interest of many people around the world who are interested in the use of Identity CCTV Networks.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that the increased use of CCTV, paired with the increasing availability of smart phones, is going to play a very critical role in our crime-fighting programme in the future. The idea of CCTV is obviously not a new one in Jamaica, and I welcomed the announcement that there will be increased financing for CCTV this year. However the Minister has not been really straightforward as to exactly what he plans to do and how it will be financed. We accept, Mr. Speaker that it's quite expensive to implement in strategic locations throughout the country, in particular these crime-infested areas but the Minister needs to level with us and keep us abreast of what is happening. He needs to take the Opposition and the public more in his confidence, consult, discuss the issues, if he expects to have the full support of the law abiding population for his policies. Yes, Mr. Minister crime, like education and health are not issues which can remain secretive.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say at this stage that we in the Opposition recognized that we have to go in the future with a lot of forensics and technological input in our crime-fighting and in our whole national security programme in the future, and we are preparing ourselves and we have already established a subcommittee within our security portfolio so as to do a lot of studies on these equipment, do costing, do scheduling of when and how they can be brought into the system when a new administration is in office. And I am proud to announce, Mr. Speaker, that the deputy spokesperson in the National Security portfolio has been tasked with that job to do that on behalf of the Opposition.

The deputy spokesperson, by the way, is one Pearnel Charles Jr. I know that's like a dagger in your heart, because you all thought when you sent the senior Pearnel to prison that that was the end of him. Well, here he is another one coming.

(Laughter)

Mr. Speaker -

(Cross talk by Government Member)

Mr. Speaker, you see, Sister P was around, Sister P is the only one who was there when he went to prison, you know, so she don't consider it a joke. You know, it's a serious matter.

Mr. Speaker, I remember in his Inauguration Speech in 2011, Prime Minister of Jamaica, at the time, albeit for a brief stint, the current Leader of the Opposition suggested to the current Prime Minister who was then Leader of Opposition, that they walk together through the garrison communities as a symbol of cooperation in removing the stigma of garrison politics. The then Leader of the Opposition and now Prime Minister refused and the then Prime Minister was even ridiculed for making the proposal. Now I am happy to see that the Minister of National Security has embraced that suggestion in his anti-crime strategy and has been leading bipartisan peace marches throughout crime hit garrison communities. Well done, Minister. You have taken the lead; you have accepted the lead from the Leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Speaker, I welcome the transformation, but I just need to show him how simple cooperation against crime can be if we remove the political blinkers and look at the problem and solution with open minds.

(Applause by Opposition Member)

Mr. Speaker, I just want to say something briefly on Unite for Change. The Minister had even taken the suggestion much further under the Unite for Change programme. He is engaged in a number of social events: football matches, shows, pageants, et cetera to attract the attention of the residents of these garrison communities. I have nothing against these efforts. Everything has to be tried, in a mix, to increase the profile of social intervention, but I want the Minister to exclude partisanship. Find people on both sides of the divide, whether it is the political divide, the religious divide or even the colour/class divide, to serve. Do not limit to a few chosen lieutenants who we are politically pleased with.

I note the contemplation to grade communities. There are questions about who will be doing the grading and how transparent and inclusive the programme will be. Effort should be made to ensure balance in how you allocate the resources, especially in choosing the communities to benefit.

My discussions with people show that very little is known about the programme amongst both civilians and the security forces. I think you need to rev up the public relations on it.

Another question that I would like to ask, Mr. Speaker, is what about incentives for communities that have shown great improvement in terms of crime? One comes to mind readily, Marverly.

(Sotto voce remarks by Government Member)

Mr. D. SMITH: Yes. Since 2010 Mr. Speaker, there are only two murders in that community, two too much - too many. But the fact is, prior to that, it was one of those communities that had been stigmatized in relation to violence and they have been doing very well. So I say, Minister, where is the incentives for those who are doing well. Because what has happened is that the incentive and the resources are those who are doing badly and you want them to do well. So those that are doing well need some incentives and I use Marverly only as an example, and I am sure there are many others.

It's a community which, perhaps I would like to put on record, which has produced young Sterling, right, who has made the England team to World Cup, Raheem Sterling from Marverly. He left there when he was about six, right, and he is a motivation to the youths in the community now when he visits and he sends resources to support the local football team, Marverly- Hughenden who are doing very well actually on the Major League. (Applause) So bear that in mind, Mr. Minister, bear that in mind.

Mr. Speaker, this leads me now to the National Security Policy which was tabled here perhaps two, three weeks ago. And also too, Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that I must confess that I have not fully digested the document. But there are some issues which have been highlighted that have attracted my attention. For example, I am very concerned about the suggestion that crime is benefitting from a higher level of tolerance of criminals and their activities within the society. I am sure the Minister must be concerned himself and, in fact, every Member of both Houses of Parliament.

I would like to quote one paragraph from the tabled document, from the section dealing with threats relating to crime, which states, and I quote:

> "The level of crime has increased over the years and consequently the pattern of criminal activity reflects a greater degree of organization and coordination. This situation was worsened by what appears - and this is the rub, Mr. Speaker - by what appears to be an increased tolerance of crime and criminals within the wider society".

Now, Mr. Speaker, that is a frightening situation that as a country, because we have been afflicted with this crime, disease - you have a term for it - for so long that we just accept it. We don't even resist it. It's just the norm, you know. And, Mr. Speaker, it really is frightening that a situation like this exists in our country.

Mr. Speaker, we all have to admit that it's a very, very serious indictment on us as political leaders of the nation. It is an indictment on the church as the moral leaders of our society, civil society leaders, our crime-fighting mechanism, including its personnel, our students' institutions, our family institutions and our society in general. In fact, it is so critical an issue that it should require the immediate and full recognition of our Prime Minister as a major priority in terms of government planning and policy direction. We cannot afford to ignore a culture that is becoming (increasing) to tolerance of crime and criminals. I hope that we are not just having this policy document tabled and ignored. It demands immediate attention if we have any faith whatsoever in the arguments that are raised in the document.

Mr. Speaker, we must increase our efforts to undermine criminal dons and their organizations which continue to impress the poor with their ability to achieve and distribute wealth and to use it as means of escaping the law and luring our young people into their activities. I agree with the sentiment that law enforcement activities alone cannot provide adequate response to the problem. We need to do something urgently about the court system.

But before I go to the court system, Mr. Speaker, I just want to say, Minister, Unite for Change, it sounds good, it sounds exciting, but really there is a lot of work to be done. I took the opportunity to ask 10 police personnel at different ranks if they have heard about it and if they understand it; none, not one, most haven't heard about it. One even asked me if it was the merger that I was calling Unite for Change.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You go on the bus?

Mr. D. SMITH: No, I don't go on the bus. I did that 50 years ago. You go on the bus and our Leader goes on the bus because our Leader perhaps is 50 years younger than me.

(Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, we need to do something urgently about the court system. The long delays in trials are seriously affecting the confidence of the people and its promoting jungle justice which the criminal gangs strive on. We need to ensure that legislation that we are passing are effective and in use. We can't afford to pass legislation and then hear nothing more about them. Where are the [pieces of] legislation to improve the court environment in terms of witness protection, modern technology for video evidence? I have not heard another word about these for the past two years.

I have always advocated that sustainable reduction in crime requires deliberate and focused strategies, coordinated law enforcement, justice and social development programmes at the national, community and individual levels to address the causal factors and prevent further spread as it relates in the Ministry Paper. It is obvious that the Government alone and in particular, this Government, cannot handle the crime issue and having realized that the criminal elements are making a mockery of the Government's efforts.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister should take note of a statement recently reported in the Press from lotto scammers, who claimed that despite the legislation and renewed efforts to destroy their activities, they will continue the scammers say...

Mr. SHAW: With impunity.

Mr. D. SMITH: With impunity.

….say they are going to continue anyhow. They have all sorts of reasons for it. Some of them say that's how they interpret reparation. That's what they say. That is their problem.

We must unite, Mr. Speaker, not just for change in garrison communities but for a total change in how we approach the issue of reducing crime, penalizing criminals, protecting witnesses and giving Jamaicans renewed confidence in our ability to secure them from harm and protect them when they come forward to give information as witnesses in the courts. We must reassure the nation of our ability to secure and protect them from the criminals - from the crime, as the JDF's motto implies, if we are to remove this threat of tolerance.

Mr. Speaker, in the interest of time I won't go to extortion and praedial larceny; praedial larceny which seems - some people are of the view that it's an agricultural issue. My feeling it is a national security issue - people tiefing people things. They must be caught; strategies must be put in place, they must be locked up and they must go prison for a long time.

Extortion, that's another issue. Minister, you know, I was so very disappointed when I raised the issue of extortion some months ago and I heard you on "Beyond the Headlines" suggesting that I was being mischievous - you said you checked with the Commissioner- nothing like that. Then I realize the type of Minister I am dealing with, that he doesn't really understand what is going on in the field. But I think you have subsequently recognized that it is one of the main problems out there. It's the one that offers nowadays financing to the criminals to buy the weapons, to buy the ammunition, et cetera, et cetera.

Mr. SHAW: And deprive taxation.

Mr. D. SMITH: That's it. That's it.

Mr. Speaker, in closing let me just say that the Jamaica Labour Party stands ready to champion the cause on behalf of the people in terms of reducing crime or bringing crime to tolerable level in this country.

(Applause)

And as we have outlined before, Mr. Speaker, we are making the preparation. We recognize the route that must be taken, the forensic; the technology. We have the personnel already being trained and some already trained and experienced to take this country out of this mire of crime.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank you and thank my colleagues for listening to me this evening.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. (Applause)

(The Speaker left the Chair at 5:57 p.m. and the Deputy Speaker presides)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Dr. Bloomfield. (Applause)

You will need to seek permission to speak from a seat other than your own.

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I now seek your permission to speak from a seat other than the one afforded me by the constituents of East Portland and the House.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Permission granted.

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, it is my privilege to rise in this noble House and to speak from this place on behalf of the people of East Portland.

I must hasten to thank my sovereign God, who continues to be my refuge and indeed, my strength. I thank also my family and friends for their unfailing support. Thanks to the Prime Minister - who continues to be the first among equals in this House - for setting the sterling example of unflinching service, and for her continued confidence in me. (Applause)

On behalf of the people of East Portland, I thank the Ministers of Government, the Ministries and Agencies, for the work that they have extended and the services that they have contributed to the people of East Portland.

My great and sincere thanks to the Councillors - and here I see one of the longest serving Councillors in Jamaica, Councillor Dexter Roland, among... (Applause) ...my loyal workers and members of the constituency, who journeyed here today and who make my experience from day to day more manageable.

And, to you, Mr. Speaker, for your guidance in matters of this House.

I hasten to salute the presentation and work of the Minister of Youth and Culture who so ably presented just now, and who continues to hold in her hands the cup of our nation's youth and the portfolio, the crucible called Culture, simply the expression of the accumulated experiences of our people so greatly admired worldwide. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, someone mentioned Esther a few days ago, in reference to our beloved Prime Minister. I can also say so in reference to our Minister of Youth and Culture.

Mr. Speaker, the book of Esther not once uses the word "God", even though his sovereignty is demonstrated throughout. But it does speak specifically to an outstanding beauty queen who, in Chapter 2 verse 7, is called "lovely in form and feature", in today's language, a "knockout".

(Laughter/Applause)

Mr. HOLNESS: This is the Parliament!

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: But the book - but, Mr. Speaker, the book goes beyond the surface and describes her as "deliberate and caring, loyal and teachable, and above all things, courageous", in Esther's well-known speech, "If I perish, I perish".

Thank you for your courageous words and actions, as you go forward in delivering that which is best for our young people, as this country moves into the future. So take the words of scripture in 1st Timothy, which says, "Fight the good fight of faith".

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: And in 2nd Timothy it says: "For God did not give you the spirit of fear, but of power and of love and of self discipline".

Mr. Speaker, no doubt in this House, in order to move forward we ought to consider the issues of our constituencies, and so I quickly mention a few things about our constituency. But before I do that, let me hasten, Mr. Speaker, to express on behalf of the people of East Portland, our sympathy on the loss of life of Braeden and Brandon, the nine-year-old twin in your constituency of St. James, Central.

I will speak very briefly on some constituency matters before I address the Progressive Agenda, which is, in fact, the mission set before us, which is the Economic Agenda.

Mr. Speaker, education continues to be the backbone and future of our sustainable development in this country. It was Nelson Mandela who said that education is the most powerful weapon we can use to change the world. So we applaud the Minister of Education for his many visits to the constituency, and for his attempts to ensure that we achieve a number of issues, for example, focusing on Early Childhood Education, in securing the safety and security of these young ones, by the erection of a number of fences around these institutions.

Our literacy and numeracy results, our GSAT results are not as we would like them to be, but we are in the process of continuing to deal with the challenges that mitigate against such development.

Developmental challenges continue in the shortage of available high school places and the paucity of skills-training centres in the constituency. In the midst of all this, a new block is to be established at the Port Antonio High School and the establishment and expansion of the Portland High. Many other changes are envisaged and we, ourselves, continue to play our part by doing our annual back-to-school free medicals, as we continue to contribute.

(Applause)

We also thank the Japanese for their involvement in the re-establishment of CASE and Titchfield High Schools, as a result of the destruction by Sandy... (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: ...and of the Bank of Nova Scotia, for their help with the Norwich Primary School.

In terms of infrastructure, we continue to establish the Port Antonio Water, Sewage and Drainage Project, Phase 1, at the tune of One point Eight Billion Dollars ($1.8B)… (Applause) ...which the Government has established so that we can set the infrastructure in order to be able to achieve some level of sustainable development.

Nevertheless, the rugged, mountainous terrain of this very attractive parish poses many challenges. And so we continue to look towards the Minister of State in Transport, Works and Housing to continue to help us... (Applause) ...so that we can move forward.

Of course, other development challenges such as the water delivery, road development, electrical power, telecommunications and housing, continue to be serious challenges. We look forward to continued help from the relevant agencies.

Agriculture of course, continues to be challenged, and the Minister has also been working assiduously to help us.

Mr. Speaker, there are over 6,500 registered farmers with RADA, in Portland, about 1,500 are women and only 130 of the 6,500 are below 30 years old. And, so we are pleading with the Minister to ensure that we have strategies to engage these young persons, in order to ensure that agriculture continues for the future.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: As a matter of fact, production is up in many areas. Our challenge now is to find the markets that will be able to absorb the new thrust in production. (Applause) And we thank the Minister.

In Health Care, the Minister has paid a timely visit after nearly two years, and we are grateful. Now we will be having changes in terms of improvement in the operating theatre expansion, the maternity ward and of course, general upkeep of the hospital. (Applause)

Also, there was a tour by the Minister who, of course, toured all the health centres, and we will be having some development in those areas.

Mr. Speaker, Tourism continues to be the cradle that is now slowly beginning to rock again. We have had various visits by the Minister and the Minister of State. We have had four completed projects this year to the tune of Forty Seven Million Dollars ($47M). (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: And, certainly, we look forward to the development and expansion of other areas in tourism.

We thank the other Ministers who have journeyed to be with us, the Minister of Labour and Social Security, who has been of great help to us in Portland.

There is no doubt, Mr. Speaker, that Portland continues to languish as one of those parishes at the bottom level of the poverty indicators in this country, and we are greatly concerned. And we are looking forward to the various agencies and Ministries in the Government, to afford us some of the opportunities for further development. In fact, the people are saying that they are just sick and tired of being sick and tired of the bad roads, of the lack of water supply, the health-care neglect and so on.

It is only as a result, Mr. Speaker; it is only as a result of the advent of this new Government that we are now afforded some hope.

(Government Members applaud)

(Cross talk/Laughter)

And I thank the Minister of Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change... (Applause) ...for his great concern and for his bold move in establishing this system which is about to complete Phase 1 in December, and we look forward to Phase 2 in the coming year.

Mr. Speaker, it is no doubt that many issues in this House are of challenge to us. But, Mr. Speaker, I would want to turn to the Growth Agenda very quickly.

It is no secret that the nation faces a crisis of sustainable development. Someone said that a crisis is a terrible thing to waste. But what is this sustainable development? It is James Gustar, an Administrator at the UNDP, who said that:

> "Development not only generates economic growth but distributes its benefits equitably, that regenerates the environment rather than destroying it. that empowers people rather than marginalizing them, that gives priority to the poor, enlarging their choices and opportunities and providing their participation in decisions that affect them, i.e., pro-poor, pro-jobs, pro-nature, pro-women and pro-children."

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Government has laid out its own plans to confront this crisis, and has laid out its plans publicly.

Mr. Speaker, now is the time, now is the hour. Now we have to seize the moment if we are going to develop. And for too long we have been in this House at odds.

Mr. Speaker, if we are going to drive this country and its development forward, we have to stop looking in the rear-view mirror. Unfortunately, what I have heard through the debates have been a constant litany of what was, what used to be, who did what better than who, and who can and who will better than who. And if we continue in this light we will not band together in the thrust for sustainable development, as I just quoted. (Applause)

It was Nehemiah in Chapter 2 verse 18 which said:

> "Then they said, let us start building.
> So they committed themselves to the common good."

It is this common good that I am appealing to our leaders, if our leaders are going to be the true leaders for the generations to come. Certainly, many of us have been part of that fifty years of underdevelopment, as a result. No wonder persons are at liberty to call us "dutty politicians".

It is up to us now to be able to lead by example, to be able to ensure that good actions are caught and not taught. It must be now that we begin to equip this generation for the new leadership that is necessary. The youth who must now focus the epicentre of a new progressive development agenda, where economy is at its heart.

Our youth, Mr. Speaker, are innovative and creative, they are dynamic, they are prolific, they are terrific, in fact, they are swaggerific. (Laughter) We have a lot of young persons who want just an opportunity and who want to seize the moment. As Etana would indirectly suggest that we need to "'lou the youth".

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes!

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: And Mr. Speaker, if this is going to work, we are the ones who must work it. We are the ones who are leaders, and if we are leaders, it assumes that we have followers. Leadership is not whether we have influence, as politicians, true leadership is how we use that influence. (Applause) It is the capacity to translate vision into reality, for without a vision the people perish. But without a people the vision perish. So, it is up to us to guide our young people, to influence them so that the next generation will be the one desired of developing sustainably, this country.

It was Bill Gates who said that the next generation of leaders in this century are those who empower others, who influence people positively by motivating and inspiring others to perform at their highest level and their best selves; to create followers by choice and not by force, to nurture, grow, build and develop others, and to motivate and cause others to follow us.

Mr. Speaker, I'll be very quick in suggesting two things. Last year I suggested that we all select at least one thing that we can use to develop our communities. I chose to work with the disabled, and so I established STEPS and RAILS... (Applause) ...and the result has been very, very positive. Mr. Speaker, it is time for action. In here we've been very descriptive, we've been very prescriptive, it is now time to be active and to be transformative.

I suggest two things that I am prepared, and I've mentioned it to my constituents already, we've engaged the PBC and the Resort Board and of course, the Parish Council and indeed, the other stakeholders, two simple things that I think this House must start by leading, and one of them is our time management.

One aspect of this time management is punctuality, and I suspect that our inefficiency that has been alluded to so many times is as a direct result of our lack of proper time management. We tend to be at least 25 to 30 minutes late most opportunities we get to meet. I suggest that if we get here at 2:00 or if we start at 2.00 o'clock, I'm sure that we can get much more work done. I suspect discipline is encouraged by some element of coercion. Mr. Speaker, I think if we start on time regardless of who is here, even though once we get a quorum, then I think we can do much better in terms of the efficiencies. Also, if we can stay a little longer and put a little more on the agenda when we come, then we would do much, much better and productivity and national development will result.

Mr. Speaker, the second thing I'm going to talk about is what I call Operation CLEAN

- C-L-E-A-N - Consciously Lifting Environmental Awareness Now. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: Mr. Speaker, one person on social media recently - and I suspect it's not even a Jamaican - was so disgusted with how we behave and how we treat with each other says:

"Brand Jamaica always was, always will be a poverty stricken, dysfunctional third world outhouse"

Somebody who is bitter against who we are, and I suspect that our only answer is to lift our level. We need to clean up our human environment, and I suspect that Unite for Change is one such example where we can. I think joined-up government in seizing the moment, is a way to answer our detractors.

Mr. Speaker, in driving here every time I'm appalled at the state of our roads, our roadways, the level of cleanliness and orderliness that is in our country. It is unspeakable that we can hope to develop, if we cannot simply take care of our environment. It cannot be that because we're poor that we cannot be clean. It cannot be that because we're poor that we cannot be organized. It cannot be because we're poor that we cannot be much more organized in our way of life. Our roadways are dirty and contempt - and unkempt; our zinc fence environment as part of our - major part of our built environment should now be a thing of the past. It cannot cost that much money for us to begin to organize at the community level. And here I looked at the joined-up government:

- Health education through HEART;
- Agriculture through RADA;
- Local Government through SDC; and the NSWMA.
- The Ministry of Youth and Culture through NYS, through CHASE, JSIF, JEEP.
- Ministry of Land, Water Environment and Climate Change are all different aspects.

I wish the Ministry of Youth would establish a department of mobilization because our young people are willing to work, they're willing to come together to make sure that we take care of our basic environment.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: A true dat.

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: There are inner cities and ghettos even in the deep rural Jamaica; the zinc fences are cropping up everywhere. And it is up to us, as politicians, as Members of Parliament, as leaders of our communities, to form a CLEAN club initiative... (Applause ...to form CLEAN competitions through constituency development organization; to establish CLEAN fun through youth activities and to establish CLEAN funds through establishing communications with our private sector so that we can make a difference.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Dr. BLOOMFIELD: Michael Manley once said in the up down escalator:

"A society may be said to be developed to the extent it is able to define and achieve equitable, just, social purposes".

The definition is useful because it helps us to separate myth from reality in considering alternate path to development and in assessing their likely consequences. Michael Manley established the concept of self-reliance. And as we go into Labour Day, it is an excellent opportunity for us to initiate in our own little environment, this Operation CLEAN.

In 'The Politics of Change', Michael Manley said:

> "The political challenge is to draw it altogether so that it provides the foundation for total national effort".

So let us go out and do it. Let us stop being so descriptive of phenomenon, we describe everything under the sun. Our talk shows constantly describe everything. It is time for us to transform things. Labour Day is an excellent way to relaunch this concept of self-reliance to make it real and to make it happen.

It was Stewart White who said:

> "Do not attempt to do a thing unless you are sure of yourself, but do not relinquish it simply because someone else is not sure of you".

(Applause)

And finally it was Norman Washington Manley, an architect of our modern Jamaica who said:

> "We are not lacking in ideas, what we lack is fixity of purpose".

Are we going to seize the moment? Are we going to focus? Are we going to set targets and agendas and goals and objectives? Are we going to make them realistic and real and achievable? Are we going to make it possible for us to at least be able to suggest that sustainable development is on the way?

It was someone who said:

> "I promise to stand up for justice, brotherhood and peace".

It is up to us now to stand up, to seize the moment, to seize the moment as no other time before; to clean up our own constituency and to clean up Jamaica; to look up as Portlanders and to look up Jamaica; to stand up as Portlanders and to stand up Jamaica.

One of our noble sons said:

> "Up you mighty race; you can accomplish what you will."

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Very well said. Excellent!

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we again want to wish you all that is good for your birthday and hopefully you will be able to enjoy the rest of the day.

CALL OF THE ROLL
(See Listing)

The SPEAKER: Before we get down to today's business, let us welcome our special guests today: former Members of Parliament, members of the Diplomatic Corps. I hope they find today's sitting interesting.

(Applause)

(HON. IAN DAVE HAYLES, (PNP), Hanover, Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Water, Land Environment and Climate Change, entered and took his seat.)

PUBLIC BUSINESS

The SPEAKER: House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we will continue with the Sectoral Debates. This afternoon we have three presenters: the Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce, the member from St. Andrew Western followed by the Opposition Spokesperson on Industry, Energy, et cetera, the Member from North Central St. Andrew and the Member from North Western Manchester in that order.

(DR. THE HON. OMAR LLOYD DAVIES, (PNP), St. Andrew, Southern, Minister of Transport, Works and Housing, entered and took his seat.)

The SPEAKER: Minister Hylton. (Applause) Minister Hylton, before you get going. I'd just like to remind our guests that they must not participate in any way in the proceedings. Thank you.

(MR. KARL GEORGE SAMUDA, CD, (JLP), St. Andrew, North Central, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, Jamaica has jumped fifty-four places in the Logistics Performance Index, a benchmarking tool developed by the World Bank that measures logistics efficiency worldwide.

(Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Like a bolt of lightning Mr. Speaker, Jamaica sprinted past many of its competitors, moving from near the bottom of the table at 124 out of 160 countries in 2012, to 70 out of 160 countries in 2014.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, if we grasp the real significance of this historic development then we all will appreciate when I say Jamaica's future is here. I'll have more on that later Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Honourable Members, members of the Public Service (past and present), distinguished members of the Diplomatic and Consular Corps, members of the local and international business community, our partners from the multilateral institutions, Jamaicans at home and abroad. It is with a deep sense of honour that I rise to address Parliament, and to give an account of the stewardship of the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce in this important sectoral debate. I am grateful to the Almighty, Mr. Speaker, for His guiding hand on the work of the Ministry, its departments and agencies to achieve important outcomes for the economy and the People of Jamaica. I would like to thank my Minister of State, the Honourable Sharon Ffolkes-Abrahams for the tremendous support she has given to the Ministry and to me over the past year.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I pay tribute to the committed public servants who lead and staff the Ministry and its agencies and who continue to make their contributions, often times under challenging circumstances. To the Permanent Secretary, Mr. Vivian Brown and the hardworking staff of the Ministry, including the staff of the Logistics Hub Secretariat, I offer my thanks for their commitment to duty and to the nation.

Mr. Speaker, today, I reflect on the life and times of my mother and father who made their transitions during the course of last year. I pay homage to their sacrificial investments in my life as well as in the lives of my siblings. I will always treasure Mr. Speaker, the legacy of their values which inspired my entry into public service.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, the burden of public office and the sacred privilege to sit in this Honourable House should never be taken lightly by any of us. I am honoured to bear this burden with the loving support of my family: my dear wife Yodit (Applause) and the apple of my eye, my daughter Nyle. (Applause) To them, and the other members of the family, I express my heartfelt appreciation for their love and encouragement.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to pay tribute to you, for your wise and steadying hand in guiding the proceedings of this House through the turbulence that sometimes characterizes the business done here on behalf of the People.

(DR. THE HON. PETER DAVID PHILLIPS, (PNP), St. Andrew, East Central, Minister of Finance and Planning, entered and took his seat.)

To the Most Honourable Prime Minister, for her inspired leadership of the country at such a time as this, and for her belief and support in my ability to make a meaningful contribution to her Cabinet and to our nation at this time. My colleague members of the Cabinet, the leadership, members and supporters of the People's National Party, my Councillors and constituents, members of the constituency executive and here I pause to recognize that one member of the executive isn't in his usual position as he normally would here today. Mr. Speaker, he had tradegy with the death of his daughter in a very untimely manner and I'd like to say to Comrade King that our prayers are with him today.

(Cross talk)

My personal support, Mr. Speaker, my personal staff and close technical team of advisors to them I say, your sincere belief in the productive promise and the global possibilities for Jamaica remains the glue that cements our commitment to working and delivering for the People of Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, I also acknowledge the leaders of the Jamaican business community, who remain our active partners in many initiatives to advance the reform and development of business against the background of the national growth and development agenda. To them, I express the appreciation of the entire Ministry for their partnership in the process.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce is the business focused Ministry of the Government of Jamaica, and a driver in the delivery of the growth agenda. Our mission is to catalyze growth and to facilitate the creation of jobs in the Jamaican economy in order to improve the lives and economic well-being of the People of Jamaica. Mr. Speaker, we are focused on creating a new paradigm for economic growth for Jamaica. We are creating an enabling environment, where our businesses and budding entrepreneurs are beginning to see the opportunities and the tremendous promise of the Jamaica Logistics Hub Initiative.

Mr. Speaker, we are making big strides in becoming a logistics-centred economy.

We have had the debate on the Jamaica Logistic Hub, Mr. Speaker with the wider society. We have passed the Acid test; we have proof of concepts. We have the interest and the backing of the global investment community, and today, I will bring the evidence to this Honourable House.

Mr. Speaker, over the past 18 months we have engaged the biggest and most experienced players in global logistics. Today, we are on the radar of major global corporations, looking for a location to increase their operational efficiencies and reduce time to market in this region of the world. This is what we mean, Mr. Speaker, when we say the Logistics Hub initiative is not simply about Jamaica, it is a global asset. Jamaica again, matters to the world trading system.

(MR. AUDLEY FITZ ALBERT SHAW, (JLP), Manchester, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, let us not forget our history. Over 500 years ago, Jamaica was one of the richest places on earth as the city of Port Royal was then the centre of international trade and commerce. The merchant ships of England and Spain laden with goods would sail our waters via the Windward Passage with the aid of the northeast trade winds. Back then, even in the face of the threat of pirates and buccaneers of the Caribbean, business thrived on Port Royal was a place synonymous with riches and wealth. Mr. Speaker, we can do it again.

(Applause)

After all, a rising tide lifts all ships. Jamaica can be rich and wealthy again, Mr. Speaker. Jamaica can reclaim its status as a global hub for business. I submit, Mr. Speaker, Jamaica is the most viable option to be the next global logistics hub. This Government, this Ministry will not let this momentous opportunity slip from our grasps. We will not fail the Jamaican people. Failure, Mr. Speaker is simply not an option.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: I say to you and to this Honourable House, Jamaica's future is here. Mr. Speaker, this mission for Jamaica's economic future goes beyond the work of the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce. This mission involves the Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing and its agencies, such as the Port Authority of Jamaica, Airports Authority and the Caribbean Maritime Institute. It involves the Ministry of Finance and its agencies, like Jamaica Customs and Tax Administration. It involves the Ministry of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining and its relentless pursuit of affordable energy for this country. It involves the Ministry of Education and all of its academic and training institutions.

Mr. Speaker, for a logistics-centred economy - this mission for a logistics-centred economy involves the Ministry of National Security - in its efforts to build a safe and secure environment for businesses to flourish; (Applause) it involves the Ministry of Justice in the administration of social and economic justice; it involves the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade and all its missions and embassies around the world; it involves, Mr. Speaker, the Office of the Prime Minister and its agencies like the UDC and the NHT.

Mr. Speaker, this is a mission for the whole of Government because through joined-up governance we are receiving high investor interest in projects to improve and expand our existing seaports, airport, industrial, commercial and ICT infrastructure. Through joined-up governance, Mr. Speaker, we have started the process to develop the large scale hub projects, such as the commodity ports, cargo airports, dry dock and special economic zones. And Mr. Speaker, we are implementing the Manpower and Training Development Programmes to prepare our people to find jobs and careers in this new logistics-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, this is what we are doing in the move to a logistics-centred economy. We are building the national quality infrastructure to enable our firms to integrate and to compete in the global markets. We are building a highly efficient cross-border trade facilitation platform to manage the inflow and outflow of goods and services in the economy, and we are putting in place the policies, legislation and regulations to govern a logistics-centred economy that will be attractive and appealing to global and local investors alike. Mr. Speaker, we are doing this together; the evidence is clear - together, as a government; together as a country; together with our international partners. Together, Mr. Speaker, we are doing this, and I say Jamaica's future is here.

Mr. Speaker, in my presentation today, I will demonstrate to this Honourable House why the Jamaica Logistic Hub initiative is no pipe dream. I will demonstrate why local businesses are now moving to capitalize on the Hub initiative, and why more of our people are embracing this initiative as a game-changer for the economic fortunes of this nation.

Mr. Speaker, what a difference a year makes. In last year's Sectoral Debate, my presentation on the Jamaica Logistic Hub initiative was denounced by some Members of the Opposition as a pipe dream. I was also the subject of attacks in sections of the media. Mr. Speaker, I accept this as par for the course in a robust democracy where all ideas are allowed to contend. I have learnt from my 25-years-plus experience in public life, that big game-changing ideas require time, determination, and to be received and digested.

Mr. Speaker, in all of this, I take my cue from history. Copernicus told the world that the sun was at the centre of the universe and was branded a heretic. His theory revolutionized science and astronomy. Columbus defied the conventional wisdom of his time by asserting that the world was indeed round and not flat, and he, Mr. Speaker, changed the course of human history.

Mr. Speaker, one year later, and from the vantage point of the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, I returned to this Honourable House to say to the nation that we are quickening our pace to build this logistics-centred economy. Mr. Speaker, my message to the nation is simply this: a logistics-centred economy that delivers a more efficient business environment, characterized by the ease and speed of doing business, represents our best option to breathe new life into the Jamaican economy.

A logistics-centred economy is our best option to once and for all reverse years of little or no growth. It is our best option to deliver more wealth-creating opportunities, to create jobs and inclusive growth, to reward entrepreneurship and to spur innovation, and to give us the platform to make our industries more globally competitive. This is the message, Mr. Speaker.

A logistics-centred economy is our best option to finally implement an MSME and entrepreneurship policy that effectively includes the full participation of our micro, small and medium-sized enterprises, and that gives them a real chance to grow, to become profitable, and to survive.

Mr. Speaker, for years succeeding governments have talked about developing the MSME sector. This Government, through the MIC is moving beyond lip service. Mr. Speaker, we are working.

(THE MOST HON. PORTIA LUCRETIA SIMPSON MILLER, ON, (PNP), St. Andrew, South Western, Prime Minister and Minister of Defence entered and took her seat.)

Mr. Speaker, may I remind this Honourable House that we adopted the MSME and Entrepreneurship Policy. We did so in recognition of the fact that the MSME sector is the backbone of our economy which provides upwards of 80 per cent of the jobs in this country.

(Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: Hear, hear!

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, the Ministry started to implement this policy because we are determined to unleash the entrepreneurial energies of our people as we build this logistics-centred economy. This is why, Mr. Speaker, we have passed the Security Interests in Personal Property Legislation, and while we have passed and implement it, the Business Registration Super Form to enable the easy start-up of businesses.

(Applause)

This is why, Mr. Speaker, we have established the Collateral Registry to expand the asset-based lending to the MSME Sector. (Applause) This is why, Mr. Speaker, we are pursuing Insolvency Legislation in order to give MSMEs the opportunity to organize their businesses in the face of insolvency with the protection of the courts against their creditors.

Mr. Speaker, later in this presentation I will speak more on some of the specific policy actions we are taking to better serve the needs of the MSME sector in this evolving logistics-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, with the widening of the Panama Canal and the expected influx of trading vessels in our waters, everyone in this Honourable House accepts that Jamaica must quickly position itself to profit from the supply and value chains for the production and distribution of goods and services around the world.

Everyone in this Honourable House, Mr. Speaker recognizes that the typical motor car is no longer manufactured in any one country. There is such a thing called a global value chain that allows for the design, production and assembly of the components of that motor car in different countries, and for the delivery of that vehicle to a customer in Europe, South America, or in the United States, which is still the largest consumer market in the world.

Mr. Speaker, some of us may know that the new Boeing 787 Dreamliner aircraft has some 2.3 million parts. The fuselage is built by Boeing, but the other components such as the landing gear and the wings of the plane are made in 5,400 supplier factories in dozens of countries around the world.

Mr. Speaker, some of us may know that the Asia-Pacific Region is the driver of global aviation growth in the world. One hundred million new airline passengers will pass through that region in the next two to five years, creating the need for some 12,820 new airplanes, valued at $1.9 Trillion over the next two decades, according to the Boeing Corporation.

Mr. Speaker, in light of this, what if Jamaica could convince the companies which make the wing tips for the 787 Dreamliner to locate their operations here in Jamaica? What if, Mr. Speaker, we could target and convince those transnational corporations, managing all types of business value chains to locate segments of their business operations right here in Jamaica?

(HON. EVON PATRICK CULLITON ATKINSON, QC, (PNP), Trelawny, Northern, Attorney General, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, we are changing that what if, to real possibilities. We have moved from concept to action and are aggressively going after investments for the Hub. Mr. Speaker, as I have said in this House, as I have explained to hundreds of people throughout the length and breadth of this country, and as I have emphasized to prospective investors, stretching from North America, Europe, the Middle East and South East Asia, Jamaica's competitive advantage to build a Logistics Hub are second to none in this region.

We are 90 minutes away by air from the United States and lie within a 4-hour flight radius of half a billion of the world's upwardly mobile population.

In this region, we are at the center of the east-western north-south trade and air corridors. We are blessed with world-class seaports, airports, telecoms and data connectivity, interconnected highways, the real possibility of reviving cargo and passenger rail, and we are the third largest English-speaking workforce in the western hemisphere.

Mr. Speaker, it bears repeating. We are in the perfect geo-strategic location to be the major springboard for trade in this hemisphere. We can become a Logistics Hub of the likes of the giants in the global logistics business Singapore, Dubai and Rotterdam.

Mr. Speaker, I am heartened by the growing national consensus around the major opportunity for Jamaica. I welcome the growing enthusiasm and acceptance by the Opposition for the Jamaica Logistics Hub initiative as a bankable idea whose time has come.

Indeed, Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Member for Clarendon Central has been an early and tireless advocate of a multimodal project for Jamaica. I say to him, that there is adequate space within the ambit of the Jamaica Logistics Hub initiative to accommodate his visionary ideas, and again I thank him for his continuing support. This, Mr. Speaker, is no pipe dream.

When resources flow into any economy, opportunities are created for new entrepreneurial activities, businesses grow, people find jobs and life gets better socially and materially. These opportunities are now emerging in the Jamaican economy. Mr. Speaker, this is testament to the visionary outlook of this Government under the inspirational leadership of the Most Honourable Prime Minister. It is testimony to our national confidence as Government and Private Sector saying to the world, that we are the next big thing in global logistics and an asset to the world trading system. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, this is no pipe dream.

As a Government, we have embarked with purpose on this journey to create a dynamic logistics-centered economy. We are seeing openings in the economy that will allow forward and backward linkages between the MSME sector and the transnational corporations that will set up their business operations in Jamaica. We are seeing, Mr. Speaker, companies seizing first mover advantage to expand their businesses for the explosion of international business to come. We are seeing entrepreneurs and would-be entrepreneurs flocking to our Enterprise Jamaica and JBDC workshops. We are seeing an outpouring of interest and participation in our logistics courses and symposiums by people drawn from the business community and civil society.

Mr. Speaker, this is why the JBDC Expo for the MSME sector entitled: 'Positioning MSMEs for the Global Supply Chain" starting tomorrow, May 22nd in Kingston is oversubscribed. Mr. Speaker, this is no pipe dream.

This is a powerful vision of Jamaica's future unfolding now before our very eyes in what I call the 'Hub Effect'. This Hub effect demonstrates, Mr. Speaker that things are indeed happening and that, Mr. Speaker represents hope for our people. It is an early blueprint that moves us out of the realm of concept to strategic thinking and pragmatic action. It is a window through which we can look for the international partnerships and alliances to make our industries globally competitive, to quickly convert our small businesses to big businesses and to plan and mobilize the Jamaican human resources required to drive these industries.

Already, Mr. Speaker, we are seeing powerful manifestations of the 'Hub Effect' on the Jamaican Private Sector. One of the key pillars supporting the hub next to aviation, maritime and financial services is the critical area of telecommunications and global connectivity.

Telecommunications firm LIME has adopted the phrase 'Hub Ready' to describe their multi-billion dollar investment in a modern, world-class fiberoptic network to support the Jamaica Logistics Hub initiative. Mr. Speaker, LIME is investing $8.7 Billion to deploy a cutting-edge 4G mobile network in anticipation of the intense commercial demand for business solutions that will come with the Hub. We are experiencing the Hub Effect.

(Applause)

Digicel Business in support of the ICT needs of investors in the Hub has invested $6 Billion over the past year in Jamaica's 4G network, and is rolling out a sophisticated underground fiber network. Mr. Speaker, we are experiencing the Hub Effect.

Columbus Communications, operators of FLOW and Columbus Business Solutions, has the most advanced terrestrial and subsea fiberoptic network in the Caribbean. FLOW'S latest roll-out in broadband technology, Mr. Speaker, including cloud services, will enable rich communications solutions and seamless movement of information across industries. Mr. Speaker, we are experiencing the Hub Effects.

Mr. Speaker….

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficiently to allow him to complete his presentation?

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Minister Hylton.

(Applause)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, I thank you. I thank my colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, related to the Hub Effect on our Telecoms is the important development now taking place in the creation of the Jamaica Internet Exchange Point (IXP).

Mr. Speaker, currently, all Jamaican Internet, internet traffic is routed through the United States. This comes at an extra cost to Jamaica, its people and its business. It hinders effective Local Internet development stymies content development by our creators. The Jamaica IXP Mr. Speaker will be implemented by the end of July this year, saving the country more than US$2 Million each year.

Mr. Speaker, the OUR, the MIJC working with STEM and other stakeholders such as Internet Service Providers and content developers are actively engaged in making the Jamaica IXP a reality. Mr. Speaker, we need to shift from being net consumers to becoming net producers of local content via cheaper, faster Internet services with larger bandwidth serving our various Internet Service and content providers.

Mr. Speaker, in other areas of the Private Sector we are seeing growing confidence in the Hub Initiative and more manifestations of the Hub Effect.

As part of its port infrastructure renewal programme, Mr. Speaker, Kingston Wharves Limited will, in the first phase, invest US$20 Million or J$2.2 Billion in the construction of a state-of-the art Logistics Facility in Newport West, (Applause) ...in Newport West. This will involve the acquisition and refurbishing of an existing structure and the removal of existing structures on the Port to facilitate increased container handling and storage capacity. Construction of a warehouse is expected to commence within the next three months and is estimated to be completed in 12 months. The warehouse, Mr. Speaker, will have an initial footprint of 150,000 square feet and will be of modular design, so that additional space can be added as the logistics business grows.

Mr. Speaker, in this initial construction phase of the project, 150 new jobs will be created. (Applause) The granting of Free Zone status to Kingston Wharves, Mr. Speaker, is expected to significantly improve the company's ability to develop its logistics capability and to take advantage of the opportunities that will arise from the increased flow of cargo through the Caribbean after the completion of the expanded Panama Canal.

As the necessary approvals are obtained, other phases of the company's infrastructure renewal programme will be announced. The entire programme is expected to be completed in five years. Mr. Speaker, we are experiencing the Hub Effect.

In March this year Mr. Speaker a private education and training provider, Professional Development Unit Limited, launched a course to teach Mandarin to business professionals at the basic, intermediate and advanced levels. In an interview with the Gleaner's Sunday Business on April 27, the CEO of the Company, Miss Shirlene Dennis, was reported as saying:

> "With the advent of the Jamaica Logistics Hub along with frequent talks between Jamaica and China's government, our company has taken steps to equip the Jamaican workforce with new skills that will allow local companies to take advantage of the many opportunities being presented".

Mr. Speaker, we are experiencing the Hub Effect.

Mr. Speaker, I was pleased to learn of the story of First Union, a Jamaican micro-financing business that has diversified to start up a courier service, first to the United States and now between Jamaica and China. First Union's Founder and Chairman Lloyd Campbell, established Union One Express as a storefront operation in China to meet the demand for formal courier service among Jamaican businesses buying goods from China. Mr. Speaker, this is a remarkable example of Jamaican enterprise at its best. We are experiencing the Hub Effect.

Mr. Speaker, we are inspired by this example of internal logistics. Four young Jamaicans, Jamaican entrepreneurs frustrated with the traffic congestion in the Corporate Area have devised an ingenious solution to the problem called Smart Taxi. Smart Taxi, Mr. Speaker, is the brainchild of a young man by the name of Mark Byfield, who came up with the concept while studying computer science at the UWI three years ago. Mark and his fellow graduates have since set up a logistics software development company, and plan to launch their Smart Taxi app service at the end of summer, just in time for the new school year. They are making their app under a licensing model with independent taxi drivers across the Corporate Area. Mr. Speaker, the entrepreneurial spirit of our young people is alive and well in this country. We are experiencing the Hub Effect. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, two weeks ago I had the pleasure of announcing a US$30 Million investment in Jamaica by a New York-based Paradise Express Ferry, which is founded and run by Garry Johnson, a son of Jamaican parents. By February 2015, Mr. Speaker, Paradise Ferry is scheduled to run a ferry service connecting Ocho Rios, Montego Bay and Negril. This, Mr. Speaker, will be a unique attraction for our tourism industry, expected to generate 170 new jobs. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Jamaican Diaspora is investing in an evolving logistic-centred economy. (Applause by Government Members) We are experiencing the hub effect.

Mr. Speaker, there are many more examples that I could cite to demonstrate the influence of the hub effect on our business landscape. In the interest of time, I will share just a few more.

I wish to highlight in this Honourable House, the remarkable partnership between the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, and the Jamaica Chamber of Commerce in the promotion of the Jamaica Logistics Hub Initiative to the business community. In January, Mr. Speaker, we jointly staged with the Chamber of Commerce a symposium on the Hub for the local business community and to the world. We are grateful to Mr. Francis Paco Kennedy, who mobilized his chamber and chambers of commerce in the parish capitals - (Applause by Government Members) - as well as other major private sector umbrella organizations, namely the PSOJ, the JEA, the JMA, the YEA, the MSME Alliance and AMCHAM, to stage the two-day event that was oversubscribed and was a huge success.

(Applause by Government Members)

Early next year, Mr. Speaker, we will take the Hub initiative to the wider global arena when we invite the world to the staging of Jamaica Investment Forum, which will present the investment opportunities that are linked to the Hub throughout the country. Mr. Speaker, the Hub effect is mobilizing our private sector to greater levels of innovation.

The remarkable example, Mr. Speaker, of ARC Systems Limited and its recently established 400 million lumber treatment plant represents a first of its kind in the Caribbean. This lumber plant, Mr. Speaker, is fully automated and has the capacity to treat about 500 board feet of lumber per 40 hour work week. ARC Systems is substituted treated lumber imports with its own treated lumber saving foreign exchange and providing jobs.

(DR. KENNETH WYKEHAM MCNEILL, (PNP), Westmoreland, Western, Minister of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. RICHARD AZAN, (PNP), Clarendon, North Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport and Works, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, ARC Systems is currently investing $300 Million to construct a new roofing plant to manufacture roofing materials.

(Applause by Government Members) These, Mr. Speaker, are sterling examples of value-added activities geared towards both the export and domestic markets. These are the types of businesses or business innovations Jamaica needs as we move towards building a logistic-centred economy. Mr. Speaker, I commend CEO Norman Horne and his team for bringing innovation and global best practices to his business.

Mr. Speaker, there is growing confidence by Jamaican private sector for a logistics-centred economy. This is why the nation should be confident.

The pioneering investment made by Tankweld to build its own port at Rio Bueno has turned out to be a forerunner for the Jamaica Logistics Hub initiative. Tankweld, Mr. Speaker has expanded their investment into a logistics centre equipped with a ten acre fully automated warehouse, operating its own vessel along with a fleet of over 90 trucks. This, Mr. Speaker is one of the single largest investments made by a Jamaican-owned company in a non-tourism related project on Jamaica's North Coast. Tankweld employs 300 people from the area in its logistic centre, and procures goods for distribution to the construction and hardware trade in Jamaica. Tankweld, Mr. Speaker, is equally capable of accessing goods from any part of the world and Jamaica, consolidating them at Rio Bueno and delivering the same goods to any part of the Caribbean, Central America and South America. I commend the Bicknell family for this major local investment that is helping to create this logistic-centred economy for Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, we are experiencing the hub effect. (Applause by Government Members)

Mr. Speaker…

Mr. SHAW: We don't want the hub effect, we want the hub.

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: You may get what you ask for.

Mr. Speaker, two years ago I announced to this Honourable House the start-up of ISOCON-JLB, a small ISO certified tank cleaning and maintenance facility that had set up business in the Kingston Freezone. Today, I am updating the House on the progress of this company which is an exemplary case study of what is possible in a logistic-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, ISOCON-JLB has grown into a major player in the movement of bulk liquids in and out of Jamaica and the region, servicing ISO-tanks from Barbados, Trinidad, US Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, Guyana and other countries.

Before the facility was established, Mr. Speaker, companies based in Jamaica and in these countries mentioned, would have had to ship their tanks back to Europe for cleaning, certification and maintenance. Mr. Speaker, we now have ISO-tanks available to facilitate our rum exports, concentrates, purees, rum cream base and edible oils destined for global markets. (Applause by Government Members) This, Mr. Speaker has saved our importers and exporters of bulk liquids, significant time and money while creating jobs right here in Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, ISOCON-JLB has been approached by ISO-tank owners operating in the Dominican Republic to set up a similar facility in that country and one of its founders, Beverly Johnson, has been awarded the Compete Caribbean Grant for Diaspora innovation and vision.

Mr. Speaker, we are making progress towards a logistic-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, having spent some time to explain the hub effect on our economy, let me now turn to the matter of special economic zones, for which this Ministry has direct responsibility.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to focus on the Caymanas Economic Zone, a project concept which the previous administration advanced and tried to implement. We inherited plans for the Caymanas Economic Zone, Mr. Speaker, that lacked the level of concept development and due diligence, befitting a master plan to take Jamaica to the next stage of its industrial and commercial development. In the context of a logistic-centred economy, Mr. Speaker, we want to implement Caymanas as industrial development, and not simply as a real estate development. Let me explain.

The Caymanas Economic Zone, the CEZ, will now be the Caymanas Special Economic Zone, the CSEZ. This is in keeping, Mr. Speaker, with the critical decision of the World Trade Organization which requires us to phase out free zones by 2015. We have elected, Mr. Speaker, to transition from free zones to special economic zones in keeping with the direction in which the world is moving.

The Factories Corporation of Jamaica had issued a request for proposal, an RFB, to develop the Caymanas Economic Zone, which resulted in considerable investor interest. However, Mr. Speaker, given the immense importance of this project and the decision to go the route of , establishing SEZs that are in conformity with WTO and IMF requirements, the Cabinet has taken the decision to abandon the RFP process, and upon recommendation from the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, has appointed two important teams to guide the process. The first is a Policy Steering Committee to develop the policy framework to govern the development of Caymanas and other designated areas in Jamaica as special economic zones; and the second is an enterprise team to oversee the Caymanas special economic zone development.

Mr. Speaker, the Policy Steering Committee is meeting twice a month and more often if necessary, to complete its work in the next three to four months. The Policy Steering Committee comprises experts and technocrats from the public and private sectors and is being led by Mrs. Patricia Francis, former Executive Director of the International Trade Centre in Geneva, and former President of JAMPRO.

Mr. Speaker, the Caymanas Enterprise Team, which was approved by the Cabinet in January, 2014, to guide the implementation of Caymanas Special Economic Zone, the CSEZ, as a critical component of the Global Logistics Hub Initiative, commenced work in March this year. It is chaired by Dr. Vin Lawrence and comprises expert representatives from a wide cross section of technical areas within and outside of Government. Both teams, Mr. Speaker, will report to the Cabinet through the Minister. The Policy Steering Committee, Mr. Speaker, and the Enterprise Team are seized with the urgency of their important work for the nation and I commend them for their service.

The Caymanas Special Economic Zone is expected to attract large-scale investments in specific value-added industries^ as well as to facilitate the participation of the MSME sector through a clustered approach. It is also expected, Mr. Speaker that the Caymanas Special Economic Zone will serve as a model for the development of future special economic zones across the country in keeping with the Government of Jamaica's growth and development agenda.

Mr. Speaker, the next stage in Jamaica's industrial development in a logistic-centred economy requires that we move quickly but also carefully, mindful that we operate in a global environment that requires even greater levels of transparency. Mr. Speaker, the existing industrial, commercial and residential developments on lands closest to the Kingston container terminal will put severe limitation on the scale and scope of the value-added activities that can be conducted near to the port of Kingston.

Given the scale of activities we envisage as a result of the Panama Canal expansion, it is of critical importance, Mr. Speaker that we move now to develop the Caymanas Special Economic Zone in order to grow the port's throughput by generating greater volumes of cargo.

Mr. Speaker, the special economic zones that we are facilitating are about creating new and innovative commercial ventures led by large multinational corporations. I repeat, Mr. Speaker, led by large multinational corporations.

These SEZs will be centres for commercial and industrial activities which could serve as a further basis for the rehabilitation, over time, of our now dormant railway services. These SEZs, Mr. Speaker, will create jobs. Jobs for heavy equipment operators, forklift operators; jobs for drivers and haulage contractors; jobs for technicians in repair shops for logistics operations; jobs as welders and electricians for highly trained graduates of the HEART institutions. Mr. Speaker, these SEZs will create jobs to engineers and technicians, trained at CMI or in UTech's programmes in mechanical engineering and mechatronics.

Jobs as ship chandlers for enterprising entrepreneurs who supply foodstuff, water and other necessities to the ships. Jobs in ICT support for our programmers, animators and graphic designers from institutions such as NCU, UTech, UWI, CARIMAC and Edna Manley College for the Visual and Performing Arts. (Applause by Government Members)

Jobs, Mr. Speaker for middle and senior managers, for graduates from our business schools. Jobs for accountants and lawyers, jobs for security firms, jobs in catering, hospitality and entertainment, jobs in the health care delivery services.

(Applause)

Mr. WARMINGTON: All talk! All talk! Talk without substance!

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Many more, many more, many more.

Mr. Speaker, this Government is determined to create the environment that will yield decent-paying jobs for our workers in the logistics-centered economy. (Applause)

But, Mr. Speaker, becoming the 4th node in the global value and supply chain network is by no means an easy feat. It won't be achieved overnight. This is no 'big bang' process. This is an evolutionary process, which I have indicated has already started, and the hub effects will continue over the medium to long term.

The Government, Mr. Speaker, is establishing Jamaica's Logistics Hub in an era of globalization that is characterized by relentless innovation, creativity and competiveness. An era where increasingly, the world's products and services are bought and sold online, where there is a requirement for seamless interfaces between the placement of an order, through the phases of production and distribution, and to deliver at the customer's door anywhere and anytime around the globe.

The firms, Mr. Speaker that we are seeking to attract are facing increased expectations by their customers, who want quality products and services in a timely fashion. These firms, Mr. Speaker must move goods, components and services faster, over great distances, across borders and time zones with greater cost efficiencies, to meet the demands of their customers.

So, Mr. Speaker as we seek to build this logistics-centered economy, let me highlight some of the enabling work of the Ministry and its agencies. Let me first focus on the area of National Quality Infrastructure that is being built through the work of the Bureau of Standards Jamaica, to make sure our businesses are operating at global standards.

Mr. Speaker, a logistics-centered economy requires a highly integrated network of people, systems and organizations, involved in the research, definition, development and promotion of quality goods, services and processes. This highly integrated network utilizes four fundamental pillars in building the quality infrastructure. And these are:

- Standards development
- Conformity assessment, which involves testing, inspection and certification
- Metrology or measurements; and, Mr. Speaker,
- Accreditation

This highly integrated network, Mr. Speaker, and the four pillars constitute the National Quality Infrastructure or NQI, which is a fundamental part of the foundation on which every efficient modern and sustainable national economy is built in today's globalised world.

Mr. Speaker, the Bureau of Standards is the national agency charged with the responsibility to build the National Quality Infrastructure, and is therefore crucial to the implementation of the strategies of my Ministry in enabling of a logistics-centered economy.

In 2012, Mr. Speaker, I charged the Bureau to begin the development of international service standards. Prior to 2012, the Bureau published at the rate of 7 standards per annum. In the last financial year alone, Mr. Speaker, the Bureau published 56 standards, with another 22 to be published. (Applause) An overwhelming number of these standards are services standards, Mr. Speaker. This is the best performance of standards development in the history of the Bureau of Standards. (Applause)

The Bureau, Mr. Speaker, for the first time in its history has secured the status of collaborative partner with the Food and Drug Administration of the United States of America. This means that all Jamaican processed food manufacturers may export to the US, and by extension, many other countries of the world, if they conform to Bureau of Standards conditions. No longer, Mr. Speaker, will Jamaican ackee be rejected at ports of entry simply because we now have an international accredited chemistry laboratory based at the Bureau of Standards. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this Ministry is in a hurry to build out the national qualify infrastructure necessary to make Jamaica globally competitive and to build a logistics-centered economy.

Mr. Speaker, as we look to the global investor community for investments in a logistics hub, I am proud to say that we continue to do well in the area of attracting direct investment. As evidence of this growing belief and confidence in a logistics-centered economy, the Kingston and Montego Bay Free Zones are now operating at full capacity, with a growing waiting list.

Mr. Speaker, I spoke earlier of the fact that the efforts towards a logistics-centered economy require partnerships across governments. To this end, JAMPRO is currently working closely with the Tourism Enhancement Fund, the UDC and NEPA, to develop a concept whereby specific projects can be developed and packaged with most planning and development approvals in place before the investor - local or foreign - even makes his decision to invest. Mr. Speaker, these development approvals will be in place even before the investor makes his decision to invest.

Mr. Speaker, we are actively putting measures in place to make the country's investment process frustration free. This is critical as we build the logistics-centered economy.

Mr. Speaker, JAMPRO is fully aligned with this drive to deliver a logistics-centered economy. Out of high-level and targeted investment missions undertaken over the last year-and-a-half to Europe, Kuwait, Dubai, Singapore, China, the USA, Canada, India and Panama, we are currently having discussions with prospective investors around large-scale manufacturing investments in a range of sectors. These include energy, the extractive industries, as well as in ICT/Knowledge Services, medical devices, distribution and logistics.

For the 2013 financial year, Mr. Speaker, JAMPRO facilitated over Eighteen Billion Dollars ($18B) in capital investments, exceeding the projected target of Twelve point Three Billion Dollars ($12.3B). (Applause) These investments, primarily in tourism, agriculture, mining and knowledge services, created over 6,000 new permanent and temporary jobs. (Applause)

On the export side, Mr. Speaker, JAMPRO continues to be a reliable business partner to the nation's exporters. The Agency's export clients generated over US Two Hundred and Thirty-seven Million Dollars (US$237M) in export sales during the last financial year, and the value of linkages contracts amounted to over Nine Hundred and Fifteen Million Jamaican Dollars (J$915M) for creative industries projects and other export-led activities. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, as we seek to integrate the country into the global value chains, we experienced another extraordinary year in the Knowledge Services and Business Process Outsourcing sector. With increasing demand for ICT/BPO space in the Montego Bay Free Zone, the Factories Corporation of Jamaica recently spear-headed the retrofitting of a 24,000 square foot factory for use in the ICT/BPO sector. The building, Mr. Speaker, is now leased to the Elephant Group, and has created employment for approximately 600 persons in those factories. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I wish to point out that the FCJ had to move expeditiously to create the space in order to save this investment from moving from Jamaica to Costa Rica.

In addition, Mr. Speaker, 2,500 new jobs were generated by the BPO sector last year. Local investors have also been stepping up to provide ICT-ready space for new and existing players in the sector.

(Sotto voce comments)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Several of these firms, Mr. Speaker, significantly expanded their business operations last year. They include Xerox, Tele-performance, Sutherland Global, Accent marketing, Team HGS, Island Outsources, ADS Global and Global Gateways.

Mr. Speaker, the BPO sector has grown 20 per cent over the past two years and is the fastest generator of jobs in the country. (Applause) We are moving in the right direction, Mr. Speaker, with the BPO and Knowledge Services Sector. We are well on track to double the over 14,000 jobs in the sector in the next three to five years, as we will be shortly be hearing further, exciting news concerning more jobs in this sector.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to commend the Business Process Outsourcing Industry Association of Jamaica, the BPIAJ, for their partnership in positioning Jamaica as a blue-chip ICT investment destination, as we partner to build this logistics-centered economy.

Mr. Speaker, we give credit where credit is due, to the Opposition, for their work while in office, to start the process of establishing Jamaica as an International Financial Services Centre.

But, Mr. Speaker, we are building on this idea by positioning the International Financial Services Centre as one of the pillars of the logistics hub initiative. We are taking steps, Mr. Speaker, to ensure that we establish an IFSC that will be an important source of funding, and which will provide the mechanisms for the setting up of transnational corporations in the Special Economic Zones.

Mr. Speaker, we take the International Financial Services Centre from concept to implementation. I am pleased to advise this Honourable House that seven modern pieces of legislation have been drafted to facilitate the establishment of financial entities inside the IFSC. All seven draft Bills, Mr. Speaker, are now with the Office of the Chief Parliamentary Counsel, where priority is being given to four of the Bills, which we expect to table in this Honourable House within the first half of this financial year.

Mr. Speaker, setting up of the International Financial Services Centre requires very little physical infrastructure, if any. Private sector financial institutions stand to benefit greatly, and direct employment prospects for the long term could be as high as 15,000 local professionals. Potential estimated revenue to the Government could be as high as US Three Hundred Million Dollars (US$300M) per annum, according to a KPMG Study.

Mr. Speaker, when everything comes together, Jamaica will be known far and wide as having one of the best financial services centre in the world. This is our commitment and promise to the people of Jamaica.

An Opposition MEMBER: When? When? When?

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Sooner than you think.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry is also looking at developing new industries for the logistics-centred economy.

Let me deal with Industrial Hemp, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, the legal cultivation of Industrial Hemp, as distinct from marijuana or cannabis/sativa, has presented a major global opportunity for a number of countries around the world where legislation facilitates farmers to grow hemp.

More than 25,000 uses can be derived from the hemp plant. And on this point, I wish to note that a draft of the proposed regulatory framework is ready and will be submitted shortly to the Cabinet for its consideration. Mr. Speaker, this will pave the way for a viable value chain to be developed around the hemp industry in Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, Jamaica has an opportunity to carve out its niche in the Industrial Hemp global market, which will also support related efforts to develop other industries from cannabis sativa, such as medical marijuana.

In this regard, the Ministry has been facilitating collaboration between Jamaica and a consortium of leading international researchers from the US, Canada and Israel to position Jamaica as a centre for 'best in class' research for the commercialization of industrial hemp products.

An MOU has been signed between the UWI and 'Strains of Hope', a US-based foundation in marijuana research, with respect to the development and exploitation of medicinal products. A task force led by the Ministry of Justice, has been established to examine other aspects of the marijuana industry.

Mr. Speaker, in the area of Health and Wellness Tourism, the National Health and Wellness Steering Committee, which was appointed by Cabinet, and which was tasked to facilitate the development and implementation of key activities to grow the Health and Wellness Tourism sector in Jamaica, has been meeting on a quarterly basis since September 2013.

Mr. Speaker, JAMPRO will shortly sign the US$249 Million grant agreement with Compete Caribbean for further work in this area. The grant will be used, Mr. Speaker, to develop national accreditation standards for Medical Tourism and to undertake gap analysis for local players in this sector.

Mr. Speaker, the standards of the Wellness Health Tourism component have now been completed and will shortly be promulgated.

Mr. VAZ: Now for the groundbreaking; groundbreaking.

(Heckling)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, let me move to the Business Environment and Reform Agenda and the work of the National Competitiveness Council.

Our Ministry understands the needs of the business and productive sector. Our Ministry is seized with the need to create that enabling environment for wealth creation that will make businesses thrive.

For the logistics-centred economy to take off, we will need to radically improve Jamaica's business environment. In response to this, Mr. Speaker, we have been aggressively pursuing a business reform agenda to move Jamaica's rankings up the Doing Business and Global Competitiveness Indices. This coordination work is primarily being done by the National Competitiveness Council that comprises private and public sector entities.

Cabinet has approved the expansion of the role of the NCC to identify and remove bottlenecks faced by investors in their interface with government regulators and other entities.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Chuck)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Yuh soon si, yuh soon si.

Mr. Speaker...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Chuck)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: You will see.

Mr. Speaker, as we pursue the Growth Agenda and initiatives to improve the competitiveness of our firms, the Government of Jamaica is finalizing with the World Bank, a four-year US$50 Million Growth and Competitiveness loan project.

JAMPRO, Mr. Speaker, as well as the DBJ and the PIOJ will be the lead coordinating agencies for discrete components supporting critical aspects of the Ministry's work. JAMPRO, through the NCC, will be coordinating the execution of Component One of the project. This component will place specific focus on increasing Jamaica's competitiveness through strengthening of the country's competition laws and the work of the Fair Trading Commission.

Component Two will provide for the development of the Master Plan for the Logistics Hub Initiative and the packaging of Hub investment projects. JAMPRO will also have access to funds for project origination and investment promotion.

Component Three of the project, Mr. Speaker, will support a lending facility as well as capacity building and linkages programmes for the MSMEs.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the Government, I would like to express appreciation to the World Bank for this signal support of Jamaica's Growth Agenda. Mr. Speaker, I cannot overemphasize the importance of the MSME sector to the creation of this logistics-centered economy.

A broad consensus across the political divide and among stakeholders within the private sector and civil society has emerged in support of the MSME and entrepreneurship policy that was adopted in July last year by this Honourable House. Mr. Speaker, we will use this policy to effectively address the needs of the MSME Sector.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Young Entrepreneurs Association of Jamaica has written to me detailing their concerns about how difficult it is to access funding and financial advisory services. We will use this policy to effectively address the needs of our young entrepreneurs and to facilitate the targeted delivery of support to them.

Mr. Speaker, there are still too many of our small businesspeople who are not accessing the capital and capacity building support services provided by the Government. There are still too many businesspeople for whom MIDA, JBDC and the Self-Start Fund don't even appear in their frame of reference for valuable services that they need to effectively participate in the logistics-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, we want to change that. We want these agencies to be the first points of reference for our small businesspeople with good business ideas. We must, in a logistics-centred economy, give our MSMEs more than a fighting chance to become the multinationals of the future.

As a first policy action, the Ministry will be reforming and repositioning its three critical agencies that are engaged in lending and financial advisory services for the MSME sector, namely MIDA, JBDC and the Self-Start Fund.

MIDA, Mr. Speaker, will be repositioned to play a critical role in risk and debt management, and to develop and effectively manage a micro financing facility for the MSME sector.

The JBDC is no longer engaged in lending and will be focused on providing customized financial advisory services to its clients. And the Self-Start Fund will now be offering a new suite of loan products that is customized to meet the needs of the MSME sector. (Applause)

This year, Mr. Speaker, we are targeting to provide $1 Billion in loan financing for the MSME sector. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, we are closing the gap for our small businesspeople. We are making sure they participate fully in the logistics-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, the second policy action for the MSME sector is to benchmark the JBDC with the growing Small Business Network of the Americas, the SBNA initiative. We are doing this, Mr. Speaker, to build greater capacity in the JBDC to promote and support job creation in MSMEs and to encourage greater trade among these businesses.

It is expected, Mr. Speaker, that JBDC will gain small business development centre status by the end of the 2nd Quarter of this Financial Year. MSMEs with the JBDC's assistance will be in a stronger position to tap into export market opportunities, to better manage their client portfolios, and to leverage research capabilities of the Small Business Network of the Americas.

Mr. Speaker, the Member for North West St. Ann, in his contribution to the Sectoral Debate, highlighted the need for mobile business clinics for small businesspeople in his constituency and across the country. Mr. Speaker, I'm pleased to announce a comprehensive island-wide programme for business advisory and development services. Commencing in July, the JBDC will be rolling out across the country, a mobile unit to reach existing and prospective entrepreneurs and small businesspeople. (Applause)

This mobile unit, Mr. Speaker, will offer the full suite of JBDC services in addition to services offered by other Government Ministries, Departments and Agencies such as the Companies Office, Tax Administration, the Bureau of Standards and other public sector entities that support the MSME sector.

Mr. Speaker, in an effort to formalize more of our MSMEs and to provide them with direct, customized consultation and business advisory services, the JBDC will carry out needs assessment surveys from region to region. The outcomes we want to spring from this intervention are the following:

- More business clusters in our communities across the country;
- Training and capacity building programmes;
- Technical assistance programmes, ranging from product development and enhancement support, technical and business skills development, product branding and labeling support, design support services to marketing assistance.

Mr. Speaker, we are empowering our small businesses with technical skills, knowledge and confidence. Mr. Speaker, we are closing the gaps for our small businesspeople. We are making sure that they participate fully in the logistics-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, the third of our initiative to implement MSME in Entrepreneurship Policy is geared at dealing with the issue of global standards and innovation for our business people. Mr. Speaker, we're doing this through the launch of Enterprise Jamaica, EJ, a key initiative of the Ministry, led by the Bureau of Standards.

EJ, Mr. Speaker, is promoting innovation and fostering entrepreneurship, especially in the nascent technology-based sector and existing businesses. EJ is immersed in potential entrepreneurs and business owners in an environment characterized by state-of-the-art practices preparing them for the logistics-centred economy. Mr. Speaker, we are closing the gaps for our small business people. We are making sure they participate fully in the logistics-centred economy.

Mr. Speaker, I now turn to the important subject matter of the Cultural and Creative Industries and the development plans we have for this sector. The Ministry has chartered a critical path forward for how it intends to impact Jamaica's cultural and creative industries.

Mr. WARMINGTON: I thought you were finishing.

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: We are reforming the National Industrial Policy to broaden the focus from trade in goods, services and commodities, to place greater emphasis on high-tech and knowledge services, focusing on Design and Intellectual Property. Mr. Speaker, this is a critical policy shift in keeping with our move to create a logistics-centred economy. The principal thrust of this new policy will be weighted towards:

- Research and development and financing for technology platforms and networks to support the commercialization of innovative ideas and;
- Systems to protect and develop intellectual property to encourage commercialization.

To this end, Mr. Speaker, working groups will be meeting to finalize a policy framework for this reformed National Industrial Policy.

Mr. Speaker, the Government through the Ministry of Industry Investment and Commerce and the Jamaica Intellectual Property Office is committed to ensuring the highest level of intellectual property protection for the Jamaican Creative and Cultural Industries and to stimulate growth of the sector, with the easing of the process to pass benchmark legislation and the IMF programme. I expect that important legislations affecting this sector will see movement this year.

It is against this background, Mr. Speaker, that I would like to announce that plans well advanced to construct a film lot in Jamaica with multiple stages outfitting at Hollywood standards. A Hollywood studio has agreed to provide oversight on this project. This group, Real Vibes, is also in discussion with a leading music and film production school in the USA to build a campus at the lot. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, negotiations are far advanced for the lease of the twenty acre former Goodyear factory and complex near Morant Bay in St Thomas as the site for this film lot. A deal to produce five films has been signed with Steven Paul, the producer of the films 'Ghost Rider' and 'Baby Geniuses'.

Mr. Speaker, as we look towards the logistics-centered economy, the mandate of the factories cooperation is to plan and deliver industrial and commercial space solutions for new projects, one such projects is the Garmex Freezone.

Mr. Speaker, given its proximity to the Port, we are retrofitting the Garmex Freezone into a world-class industrial complex to accommodate logistics and industrial clusters. The FCJ will spend J$120 Million this year to complete its renovation works and I am looking forward to opening this new facility that will be a marquee site for the Jamaica Logistics Hub initiative. (Applause) Mr.

Speaker, we are taking steps to build out the logistics-centered economy.

Mr. Speaker, this Ministry is proud of the work it has done to restore and to regulate the Scrap Metal Industry. (Applause) The regulatory framework we introduced just over a year ago has given new life to this trade. We still have some challenges, Mr. Speaker, there have been a recent rash of reports of theft of property from homes in the Washington Gardens area and elsewhere, but, Mr. Speaker, let me point out that not all stolen metal is destined for or has entered the external trade been regulated by the Factories Corporation of Jamaica. We are aware of a still thriving trade in domestically generated product from scrap metal such as the pots and pans subsector.

Last year, Mr. Speaker, we committed to the Jamaican people that we would be vigilant and swift in enforcing the regulations governing the scrap metal trade. Mr. Speaker, four persons were incarcerated under the new regime for breaches of the regulation. Mr. Speaker, we have kept our promise. Last year, we promised to restore confidence in the scrap metal trade, we were told it could not be done.

A MEMBER: By whom?

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Pearnel and you. (Laughter) Last year - Mr. Speaker, last year the scrap metal trade exported over 67,000 metric tons of metal earning US$19.3 Million. (Applause) The trade in metal, Mr. Speaker, is beneficial to many sectors of society financial institutions, shipping lines, trucking, logistics operations and small scale operators.

It must be noted, Mr. Speaker, that the majority of export volumes going through the Kingston Container Terminal is as a result of the trade in metals. (Applause) Employment in this sector, Mr. Speaker, is about 600 jobs directly and approximately 2000 indirectly. (Applause) This trade, Mr. Speaker, comprises 123 registered carriers who transport the metal to the sites, 125 dealers, 19 general exporters and four industrial exporters. I commend the Factories Corporation and their stakeholders, Customs, the Trade Board and the Police for transforming the scrap metal export business into one that supports a logistics-centered economy.

Mr. Speaker, we have learnt valuable lessons from the Scrap Metal Trade. We have learnt that we can effectively regulate businesses in the recycling trade. We have also learnt that we can apply these lessons to create new business opportunities. One of these opportunities, Mr. Speaker, is in the trade and reconditioning of damaged vehicles as a part of the global motor vehicle value chain. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Excellent.

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: Mr. Speaker, we have heard the calls for a restoration of the damaged vehicle trade. We hold the position that the trade and reconditioning of damaged vehicle is a real opportunity for the expansion of the local automotive industry. (Applause) It means, Mr. Speaker, real opportunities for training and jobs for mechanics or tradesmen in auto body repairs, auto electricians and other workers in the automotive sector.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker, I will shortly be recommending to Cabinet the removal of the ban on the importation of damaged vehicles under strict regulatory conditions. To date we have established a multi-agency task force to review and make recommendations on the way forward. This taskforce, Mr. Speaker, is charged to make recommendations with respect to regulations, standards, training and certification. Paramount in these deliberations Mr. Speaker, is the safety and protection of consumers.

(Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: You banned it. You were changing it, you did not change it.

Mr. Speaker, there will be full consultations with all stakeholders. Mr. Speaker, the Ministry has also been building national dialogue and narrative around global logistics and Jamaica's move to a logistics-centered economy.

There is growing public interest in the logistics 101 course organized by the Ministry and the Caribbean Maritime Institute and delivered free of cost, to over 16,000 participants...

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: ...delivered free of cost, Mr. Speaker, to over 16,000 participants so far. (Applause) The course has been streamed live on the Internet and made available on YouTube and distributed to schools and libraries. There is stronger collaboration among our academic institutions working in step with the Logistics Hub Education and Training Workgroup to get the workforce hub ready.

The Caribbean Maritime Council, Mr. Speaker has now approved a CAPE curriculum on Logistics. To prepare our teachers, CMI is also offering a post graduate diploma in Logistics and Supply Chain Management commencing this summer. Professional bodies and practitioners Mr. Speaker, including doctors and other health professionals are now taking steps to certify themselves in order to deliver cross-border services. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this is further evidence of the recognition, locally and internationally of the value of Jamaica becoming a Logistics Centered Economy.

Mr. Speaker, now we understand why Jamaican has jumped 54 places in the 2014 logistics performance index. Mr. Speaker, we are no longer at the bottom of the table, from 124 out of 160 countries in 2012, we are now at 70 out of the 160 countries in 2014. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this achievement in a single reporting period is unprecedented; this achievement validates Jamaica's ambition to become the next major global logistics hub. Mr. Speaker, we are doing much better in the area of customs clearance and efficiency at our ports of entry, Mr. Speaker, we are getting hub ready!

We are highly rated for our logistics infrastructure in the quality of our trade and transport related infrastructure such as ports, roads and information technology. Mr. Speaker, we are getting Hub ready.

We are doing better at arranging and moving our shipments around the world. Our cargo transport operators and customs brokers are rated among the best. Mr. Speaker, we are getting Hub ready?

We are doing better at tracking and tracing consignments and we are getting better at the timeliness with which shipments from our ports reach consignees within the expected delivery time. Mr. Speaker, we are getting Hub ready.

(Applause)

Our performance in the 2014 Logistics Performance Index is a major milestone in the country, for the country in our push to become a logistics-centered economy. The world recognizes that Jamaica is serious about becoming the 4th Node in the Global Logistics Network.

The world, Mr. Speaker, is prepared to back us and not just because Jamaica is one of the most admired places on earth but because they see win, win value propositions here in Jamaica. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I said at the beginning of this presentation that I will bring the evidence of significant global investor interest in the logistics hub initiative. In response to our promotion of the initiative internationally over the past 18 months, a major consortium of US, European and Middle East investors has put forward a strong expression of interest in several components of the logistics hub initiative.

Mr. Speaker, representatives of this consortium are currently in the island for meetings with a number of key agencies of the Government ahead of submitting a formal proposal. This consortium, Mr. Speaker, is mobilizing equity financing in excess of US $4 Billion to design, finance, build and operate integrated components of the Hub. (Applause)

This investment, Mr. Speaker, will be a massive contribution to the build out of the Hub and the accelerated realization of the logistics-centered economy.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to pay special recognition to the presence of the representatives of the consortium in this Honourable House this afternoon.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank them for their confidence in Jamaica and in the hub initiative. The Consortium, Mr. Speaker, will complete its due diligence within six to nine months. Thereafter, a definitive proposal will be presented to the Government for its consideration. Mr. Speaker, this is not a time for doubt or interminable debate. The time for that is over, it is time for action. (Applause)

This, Mr. Speaker, is Jamaica's time to step out of the shadows of the decades of lethargic growth and dashed expectations. This is Jamaica's time to reach for the glorious promise of this new logistics-centred economy. Mr. Speaker, we are moving forward. Jamaica is making progress. This Government is taking the hard decisions, whilst making sure that we create a level playing field that allows for full and active participation by all the players in the business community. I say, Mr. Speaker, to the entire Jamaican business community, comprising local and international players, stretching to our Diaspora business owners in cities around the world.

I say this, the efforts we now make to put our economy on a stronger footing are building a sure and sound foundation for a first-class logistics-centred economy. These efforts will make us stronger. They will give us multiple opportunities to create wealth for Jamaica, and to usher in a new era of unprecedented growth and prosperity. Mr. Speaker, in the Good Book, the readings of Ecclesiastes remind us of one of life's great lessons:

> "There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens".

(Applause)

We remind ourselves in the words of our National Anthem: "Give Us Vision Lest We Perish!". Mr. Speaker, this is Jamaica's Time; time to grow and develop business in the country; time to build a logistics-centred economy that will deliver a superior quality of life for all our people. Mr. Speaker, the future is here. Let us seize that future. Let us seize the day.

I thank you.

(Applause)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move for the recommittal of the items: Announcements and, Notices of Motions Given Orally.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the recommittal of item, Announcements.

Put the House and agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
(Recommitted)

The Deputy Clerk laid on the Table of the House, a copy of the following:

- Report of the Independent Commission for the Judiciary Enquiry and Recommendations on the adequacy of salaries and benefits for Judges - 2012
- The Financial Services Commission (Amendment of Fourth Schedule) Order, 2014 under the Financial Services Commissions Act

The SPEAKER: The question is for the recommittal of item, Notices of Motions Given Orally.

Put the House and agreed to.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY
(Recommitted)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House ,I will move the Financial Services Commissions Act, Financial Services Commission (Amendment of Fourth Schedule) Order, Resolution, 2014:

> Whereas, by virtue of subsection (10) of section 21 of the Financial Services Commission Act (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"), the Minister may, by order, make provision for any matter incidental to the operation of section 21, and in particular any such order, as may amend the Fourth Schedule of the Act;

And Whereas on the 19th day of May, 2014, the Minister made the Financial Services Commission (Amendment of Fourth Schedule) Order, Resolution, 2014;

And Whereas, it is provided by subsection (11) of section 21 of the Act that an order made under subsection (10) (b) of that section shall be subject to affirmative resolution:

Now, Therefore, Be it Resolved by this Honourable House as follows:

a) this Resolution may be cited as the Financial Services Commission (Amendment of Fourth Schedule) Order, Resolution, 2014; and

b) the Financial Services Commission (Amendment of Fourth Schedule) Order, 2014, which was laid on the Table of the House on the 21st day of May, 2014, is hereby affirmed.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance will take the item that is listed under Public Business, the Firearm (Amendment) Act from yesterday.

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, what is before this Honourable House for approval is the Firearms (Amendment of the Firearms Act) (Payment of Appropriate Duties) (Licences and Certificates and Permits) Order, 2014. Mr. Speaker, the Order was circulated in the House and it's occasioned by a number of considerations: first of all, it is an effort by the Firearms Licensing Authority to keep pace with increased costs, the last increase in duties and fees having occurred in 2009. Over that period, however, there has been a steady and significant increase in their cost.

In addition Mr. Speaker, the Firearms Licensing Authority has had to undertake special expenditures to put in place new administrative systems. For example, they recently spent some $37 Million for the acquisition of a high security card system to replace the Firearms Licensing Booklet with a durable, less conspicuous licence while retaining prescribed information in existing booklet. They have also opened new offices to facilitate the public and licensees; they opened an office in Montego Bay recently in St. James at a cost of some $23 Million, which included expenditure on building, rental, retrofitting, maintenance, acquisition of furniture, and also they have had to increase the staff complement in their offices. All told, Mr. Speaker, at the end of the current financial year or the financial year ending August 2013, the FLA had a deficit of some $38.1 Million. However, the approval of these increases would put them in a position to meet their expenses and to have even a small surplus.

The principle, Mr. Speaker, is that the agencies like these, which deliver services, need to be able to recover the cost of those services and, indeed, that is what they are seeking to do. It is an important function - an important regulatory function which is being fulfilled by this agency and I think this Order is presented for the consideration and approval of the House in order to facilitate the important work which the Firearms Licensing Authority is already doing.

Just to give an idea, Mr. Speaker, certainly the Firearm Users Licence moves from $4,000 to $6,000; the Firearms User's (Employee's) Certificate from $400 to $500, $4000 to $5000 per additional firearm; Firearm User's (Special) Permit from $4,000 to $6,000; Firearm User's Licence, $8,000 to $12,000. The Gunsmith's Licence - you're a Smith, 20,000 to $25,000.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Dr. PHILLIPS: But he's not a gunsmith just a regular Smith. And the Firearm Dealer's Licence from $100,000 to $200,000.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, the legislation requires the affirmative resolution of the House for the adjustment to these fees to be charged by the Firearms Licensing Authority and I so move.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, we simply want to make the observation that, you know, that when the Minister claims that no new taxes or limited additional taxes are being imposed that these range of charges by Government agencies are proliferating at quite an alarming rate.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Bunting)

Mr. SHAW: You free to speak in this matter. Don't interrupt me.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, I mean the Minister has announced increases that range from, in the main, 50 per cent to as high as a 100 per cent and these are pretty steep increases. And, unfortunately, the Act was tabled in the House yesterday and is being debated today, which has not given us a lot time, Mr. Speaker, to seek to analyze and to probe into the reasons for such a significant and steep increase: 50 to 100 per cent is a very, very increase, and I think that the Minister or the Minister of National Security who is here ought to provide this Honourable House with more details and greater justification for such a sharp increase as is being proposed in this Act today, Mr. Speaker.

While I'm on my feet, I also would like to get the clarification of the Minister and certainly the House of Parliament in relation to the statement that has been by the Honourable Minister in the House yesterday in which he made a statement on proposed changes to the tax regime. And I wanted to know - the Minister will recall -

(Cross talk)

No, is a tax matter. The Minister will recall that I was asking to clarify the extent of the changes, what it would mean in terms of the numbers and in the closing of the debate he did indicate any of those details that I requested. But beyond that, which that is still an outstanding issue, I'd like the Minister to clarify at some stage but I want to clarify, Mr. Speaker, this is a Statement by the Minister and the accompanying measure of a new revenue measure that replaces the previous one is still to be tabled and I'd like know if that is, in fact, going to be tabled?

Mr. BUNTING: If you would just allow me to remind the Member from North East Manchester that in 2009 I believe it was, when fees were last increased he spoke to a policy for the Firearm Licensing Administration to be self- sustaining. And, in fact, if you look at the primary source of fees collected, which is for the firearms licence which moves from eight to twelve at fifty per cent increase, it is roughly equivalent to the cumulative inflation over that five-year period. So, it is not out of line in real terms with what it was.

And when you look at the Firearms Dealer's Licence, what is $100,000 increase - from $100,000 to $200,000, in terms of what it actually costs the FLA, to regulate - to properly regulate a firearms dealer and all the ammunition that they sell, it really represents a fraction of what it costs the FLA. So, I don't think it is at all unreasonable, and it is consistent with the policy you yourself introduced in 2009.

Thank you.

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. D. SMITH: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday when I spoke in the House...

Dr. DAVIES: You didn't finish.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: That suits you very well.

Mr. D. SMITH: …I highlighted an issue which I had asked the Minister to follow up on. But since today we are dealing with increased fees in relation to the Firearms Licensing Authority, we haven't heard a lot of complaints in terms of the service to the public in recent times, and as the Minister said a part of the reason for the increase is to facilitate removal to more convenient surroundings to offer even better service to licensed firearm holders when they have to go to their offices. I am really sorry that the Minister spoke before I got the chance to again, highlight this situation.

But I am speaking about those bullet-making machines which, the last thing I saw and I heard was that these machines are with the - are now in the possession of the Firearms Licensing Authority. But what we are not sure about, if it is one, two, three, four, or even five. It has been a very controversial issue and the clarifications seem to be creating some problems in coming forthwith out of the Authority. So, Minister, you perhaps can - in your closing, perhaps you can use the opportunity to clarify.

And what I want clarified also, Minister, is the sort of an auditing regime that is undertaken by the Firearm Licensing Authority for all these ranges throughout the island. There have been quite a few in recent times, and I am very concerned about how they are monitored, as I said the frequency of monitoring; how up- to-date is the audit. This whole matter of firearm and range, and ammunition is a very, very topical issue - very, very sensitive issue, and one in which I do hope the Minister will take this opportunity to clarify. Notwithstanding, we are still waiting on the other Minister - the Minister of National Security to bring to Parliament, a sort of a global statement in regards to that telling situation.

Dr. PHILLIPS: In fact, I want to thank the Member for his...

Dr. DAVIES: Sober and sensible.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...intervention, and I think I ought to also thank the Member from St. Andrew North Central for having accommodated this matter at this point. But, Mr. Speaker, I would indicate that the Member's intervention - Opposition Spokesman on National Security, highlights the point about the importance of the effort. The question is that these machines that he adverts to, have been taken into the custody of the FLA. The Minister of National Security will be making a statement on the whole matter shortly which will put the matter to rest. In relation to...

I think the answers to the Opposition Spokesman on Finance have been made comprehensively and irrefutably by the Minister of National Security. I would indicate that, in fact, the two points on the overall matter of taxation - the Ministry Paper will come to the House, and as far as the revenue implications overall, the revenue estimates overall remain as they were.

The main issue surrounds the question of the smart phones, and indeed we had already made the application to COTED at the time of the Budget. And so, our estimates took account, the loss of that revenue when we presented, but the Ministry Paper will come.

Mr. Speaker, I move the affirmation of the Resolution.

The Resolution put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda, your turn.

Mr. SAMUDA: Thank you, sir.

(Applause)

The SPEAKER: And I will just remind all guests that they are not to participate, in any way, in the proceedings.

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, I don't think you will have any problem with the people who are here from my constituency because this is a long-standing habit of theirs.

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, I rise proudly, as the Member of Parliament for North Central St. Andrew, and this marks the 34th consecutive year that I have had the occasion to stand. (Applause) As I look around, Mr. Speaker, I can count on one hand the number of persons who are here today, who came here when I first arrived.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: But before I start, Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say that I acknowledge on this side...

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. SAMUDA: Nobody over here - no, except the Leader who came with me, or I came with her.

A MEMBER: What about Roger?

Mr. SAMUDA: No, man. In fact, I had to plead for Roger to get this seat.

Mr. CLARKE: Thank you very much.

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, I wish to acknowledge the fine job done by the Speaker of the House. He's someone who I have always admired in the way he conducted the affairs of this House. (Applause) And I would like to welcome young Lloyd B, Deputy Speaker, who has also been doing a fine job. Thank you very much.

(Applause)

I would like to also acknowledge the tremendous work done under difficult circumstances sometimes, by the staff of the Houses of Parliament. They don't complain, although I know that they have pressures.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: So I would just like to make sure that my acknowledgment of their contribution is recorded.

Mr. Speaker, I owe all of what I have been able to do in politics to the people of North Central St. Andrew. They have stood with me through thick and thin. They have stood with me there and they have stood with me here. And I thank them and love them, and we continue to struggle in love and unity.

But, Mr. Speaker - my wife... (Applause) if ever a man had a woman who stood with him, my wife has stood with me. (Applause) She is in the constituency, and they will tell you, she is in the constituency at least four - five days a week.

Government MEMBERS: More than you.

Mr. SAMUDA: More than me. In fact, Mr. Speaker, I tell you the truth, I have won consistently against contenders but I would never go up against my wife. (Laughter) I think she would beat me.

The fact of the matter is also, I have two councilors I am not sure if both are here but I think I saw the Councilor of the Norbrook Division, Miss Susan Senior who is in the House, and you will recall that name, I am quite sure.

A MEMBER: Yes.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: But she is in the House with us.

A MEMBER: A very faithful councilor.

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, as the Member of Parliament from South St. Andrew spoke feelingly about efforts he made to improve the quality of the persons who he represents, I, today - this evening - take pleasure in inviting this Honourable House to have a look at two youngsters - two medical students - where are they - two beautiful medical students. (Applause) They are the product of North Central; they live, one, off Red Hills Road, Park Lane, and the other adjacent to Cassava Piece; (Applause) of humble background, but they worked hard. And when they approached me, I can tell you both of them had the same story. They didn't know if they would get into university, and if they managed to get through the door they didn't know how they would finance continuing it. But they have a lot of courage, right, and with love in their hearts - and they have, of course, an excellent Member of Parliament.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA. One has finished her second year and the other is going into her second year, and they are both doing very well.

(Applause) (Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, in addition, I took the opportunity - and I wore this tie deliberately because we also have here with us today, Calabar Head Boy and Calabar Head Girl - no, Calabar Head Boy. (Laughter) I am sorry. I apologize for all the Calabar Old Boys here.

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, the tie was for Calabar that was so successful in Champs and they are in my constituency and I am very proud to be the Member of Parliament of that great institution. (Applause) But what I have here is - I have here representing St. Richards, arguably the best Primary School in the country and competing in the region, I have the Head boy here, he is Paul Hall and Head girl...

(Inaudible comment/Laughter)

Mr. SAMUDA: ....is Ariel Bell, they are both here representing St. Richards. And so too - my wife told me, she sent me a little message to say that we said we would invite a few of the students to come to be here with us. And I expected ….

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. SAMUDA: ....and I expected that what I was going - I was expecting 25 or 20 or 25. Well, over 40 of them turned up, and that reflects their curious minds wanting to know how the Parliament operates and of course, they want to be closer to their Member of Parliament.

(Laughter)

I would like to thank through the Minister here, he has an agency, the Citizens Security and Justice Programme, and they made a wonderful contribution to the fees for those ladies, one of the two, and we are pursuing it to get a little more contribution. (Applause) So too the Minister of Education has been very helpful and considerate in this matter, so we really appreciate that.

Mr. Speaker, I have the task of being the spokesman for a number of Ministries. You know, there was one time when I - well, we won't go there. So what I had chosen today to do is to select a few of the points, the topics that I thought would be of interest to the House, because - and I commend this to the Members especially in the back bench. Don't just come and read text that becomes boring and tedious, think of something that is a little different and a bit of entertainment with it, because after all, when you are not speaking, you really are spending more time just languishing in the back doing nothing.

Mr. McKENZIE: Like Sesame Street.

Mr. SAMUDA: So you need to come with a little.... And I know that the Member who follows me, the Member who follows me, the improvement on the ..... is going to make a fine presentation.

(Laughter)

But, Mr. Speaker, having heard the Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce, someone who I had an excellent working relationship with, someone who is a very decent and good man, but I heard him focus his entire presentation on the concept of the Logistics Hub. The truth is, Mr. Speaker, I just would like to take the opportunity as in classical debating style, and that's why I speak immediately after the person who I relate to. On this occasion I had to wait awhile for the Minister of Mining and Energy between the two, so I will take the opportunity of speaking on some of the subjects in mining and energy and, of course, primarily in industry and commerce. I'd just like to rebut a couple of them, if I may, Mr. Speaker.

The Minister started off by suggesting that we had done a remarkable job in the Logistics Index, measurement of logistics preparedness index. It's a fairly recent measurement, it's not probably well known and it is a specialized set of criteria that is used, it's more focused on logistics rather than the global development of the economy of a country. So 70th is good and anything that is an improvement have our full support because it's good for the country, it's good for our image. Fine, no problems there.

However, Mr. Speaker, we find that the most well known and recognized survey of performance of an economy is to be seen in primarily two surveys; the Doing Business Report and the Competitiveness Report by the World Trade Forum.

The fact is that in the area of the Doing Business Report, we came 94th out of 189 coming, Mr. Speaker. I remember the day when, sitting right there, former Minister of Industry and Investment, Dr. Paul Robertson made mention that we were...

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. SAMUDA: No, we were in - about 40 something. And now we have dropped from that enviable position at that stage to now 94th out of 189, which means in effect, Mr. Speaker, that 50% of the country's survey are better than we are, 50.

In the Competitiveness Report, the 2013 Report, we are 88th in competitiveness, 88th and that makes us fall in the percentile where 61% - 61% are more competitive than we are. That's not an enviable position to find ourselves in.

So, Minister, what I am trying to do here is send a message and the message I am trying to send is, if you know that information is available to enquiring minds, don't bring part of the story, don't bring the 'feel good' part, lay it out openly and straightforward because you know this is coming.

Now, the Minister speaks eloquently about our level of preparedness and what we have to do. This is not really industry and commerce, but it impacts on trade. Minister, I'll make you understand that in terms of preparing for the Logistics Hub and the economy and whatever you call it, special economic zones, which is part of the concept of creating Hubs, the real truth of the matter is that we are challenged. And now I speak directly to the Minister of Transport and Works, because Minister, since we have been talking about preparing the way to accept the large ships coming through the Panama Canal in 2016 or so, the rest of the world have not been standing still. The rest of the world is busy about building ships that are twice the size that cannot be accommodated in the Panama Canal. So what they are doing is they are competing on the basis of price. Because what they - some of them are planning right now as we speak, is to build ships that are larger than 18,000 TEUs. The Panama Canal can only accommodate 12,500 TEUs ships. So, already the Panama Canal in the view of many is becoming redundant in the world of tomorrow, because there is a limit of the size of the ship that can be accommodated.

So what are they going to do? You know what is going to happen, and they have already started doing it. They go north, through the Suez canal, go north, come down through Canada and land in Virginia and offload.

(Mr. Bartlett applauded)

Mr. SAMUDA: So what the United States is busy doing is building their infrastructure to accommodate the offloading which carries them back into the west coast.

Mr. Speaker, while we languish... (Sotto voce comment) ...whilst we languish in the concept that we are doing so well, we must understand that the rest of the world is moving far away from us and that is why, Minister, you look at the Business Report and you ask the question, how come we drop off the cliff? You know why? We have not done anything that we haven't been doing. And indeed, through the Ministry of Finance, you have done a number of things that have improved and also under normal circumstances, improve our rating.

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: You will see the next Report.

Mr. SAMUDA: No, no, I didn't interrupt you, you know. I did not interrupt you.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Hylton)

Mr. SAMUDA: No, don't get agitated, I don't start yet! (Laughter)

A just getting warmed up. You 'tink' this is my start.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: You know me better than that.

Prime Minister, Prime Minister, I promise the Leader of Government Business I was going to be 1 hour. He has kind of led me in a direction that may take a few minutes more, so I plea for that from the start.

Dr. DAVIES: We were hoping less.

Mr. SAMUDA: Well, we will see what we will do.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Phillips)

Mr. SHAW: Take your time. Whatever you need take it.

Mr. SAMUDA: Now, Mr. Speaker, they are simply engaging in reforms that are more effective, taking less time, are more concentrated and getting better results and that's why they are going ahead. I'll give you an example; I'll give you an example of Columbia. I came here to this House sometime ago and I mentioned that in Columbia - when the President came here, I had the opportunity of sitting at dinner with the newly appointed Minister of State with responsibility for reporting to the President on the study and implementation of Reforms, in order to improve their ratings. And they have moved from a position below us to, I think, about 40 now out of doing business. Because they have established a team, they focused on it, they did the reforms, they were engaged in a collaborative approach within their Ministry, but it was focused and it was action-oriented not talk and pipe dreams.

Now, the collateral register that the Member spoke about, the question we must ask ourselves....

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Hylton:

Mr. SAMUDA: Don't get agitated, Tony! Why you getting agitated?

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: You, why I'm getting agitated!

Mr. SAMUDA: I wasn't speaking when you spoke.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) Members, we cannot tolerate this type of to-ing and fro-ing. Mr. Samuda, continue.

(Inaudible comments by Members)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Minister Hylton, I ask that you....

A MEMBER: Cool it!

The Deputy SPEAKER: ...cool it! Okay. Mr. Samuda, continue, please.

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, he spoke about the collateral register, and the collateral register is something that we all supported and we'll continue to support because it's good.

However, there are reservations that some of us expressed in whether or not a banking institution is going to take it up. And my information, I could be wrong, the Minister of Finance could tell me or the Minister of Industry, that the response to it has been sluggish, and that's anticipated. It was anticipated that a bank was not - ask the Member from Central Manchester. A bank is not going to go and willingly accept the Member from Central Westmoreland's cows to support his need for money to buy feed. They are not going to do that willingly. So it is going to be a struggle, but in the step in the right direction and we supported that.

Now Mr. Minister, you speak about this logistics hub and you create the impression that there are certain businesses now operating, that are doing what they are doing because they have bought into your idea of a hub, and you believe that. You believe that so much that I am going to ask the Minister of Finance to tell me if he has an idea of what this brochure cost. This is a magazine. This is not a speech, this is a magazine. Now I don't tell you no lie, Minister, at no time - and me boasty, everybody know that - at no time would I have the nerve -

Opposition MEMBER: Yes.

Mr. CHUCK: To put a speech like that.

Mr. SAMUDA: - a nerve -

Government MEMBER: Audacity.

Mr. SAMUDA: - to promote myself in this vulgar fashion, at this expense, at a time when the taxpayers have no money and we as Members of Parliament can't even get a raise of pay, and you are here.

(Heckling)

And the Minister of Finance, in fairness. I have some things that -

(Heckling)

Calm down, calm down. Calm down, calm down.

(Heckling)

Every one of you, every one of you I saw you whispering amongst oonuselves so don't bother with the hypocrisy.

Mr. DALLEY: We were commenting on the quality. It's good quality.

(Laughter) (Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: Don't bother with the hypocrisy, mi si oonu a whisper and a show, an a laugh and now unu a aaaaah!

Mr. DALLEY: Nobody was laughing, we were commending the quality. It's good quality.

(Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: Minister, Prime Minister, when I was in a certain place, that you sit in every week, I regularly commented on the elaborate presentations of these annual reports that come to Parliament. Right! They must be more modest and they must stop wasting money no matter how it small.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: What you mean by "more modest"?

Mr. SAMUDA: Like what the reports -

Mr. SHAW: Cheaper, cheaper. You always in the wrong no matter what you do.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: How much money you…?

Mr. SHAW: Cheaper.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: How much money you get to build your…?

Mr. SHAW: Lower cost production. Low cost.

(Heckling/The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, I don't want to quarrel with my friend, because I know him so long and I know that when it comes to maintaining a lifestyle you can't fault him. He has never changed from day one, so I not going to quarrel with him, but all I am saying is, don't come back with something so elaborate.

(Heckling)

Mr. DALLEY: Give me substantive. I am tired of your kind of speech. Give me something substantive.

(Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: Your private staff without your permission? Without your permission?

(Heckling) (The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. SHAW: Tell us the cost you did them. Publish the cost of producing it.

(Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: I was a Minister in your Ministry.

Mr. SHAW: Publish the cost.

(Heckling)

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. SAMUDA: If you keep quarrelling you won't move on.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda, Mr. Samuda - Members -

Mr. SAMUDA: I am going to sit down while you talk them out.

The Deputy SPEAKER: I do not think that we are going to achieve much by belabouring this point.

Mr. DALLEY: Right, he is saying you should move on.

(Heckling)

The Deputy SPEAKER: I am asking -

(Heckling)

Mr. Samuda, Mr. Samuda, I think you have sufficiently dealt with that matter, could you please move on.

(Heckling)

I have asked the Minister not to interrupt.

(Heckling)

Mrs. SIMPSON MILLER: May I?

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes. Mr. Samuda please sit.

Mrs. SIMPSON MILLER: You are appealing though to both sides. We have children here.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes.

Mrs. SIMPSON MILLER: They are the future leaders of this country.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Yes, Prime Minister.

Mrs. SIMPSON MILLER: We should set the example and the place and the stage.

The Deputy SPEAKER: And in that context I will not -

Mr. SHAW: You hear, Minister, that means you must shut up and listen to the speech.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda, please, I am not going to tolerate any further unnecessary bantering.

Mr. Samuda, please move on.

Mr. SAMUDA: Yes. Mr. Speaker, I am going to appeal to everybody, just stop the tracing, just let me finish this thing here.

All right? Okay.

Now, Minister, what makes me a little concerned is when you really say to me, and you seem to believe it, that what LIME did was because of what you presented to them about a hub. You said the same thing about Tank-weld. Minister, I have been around a long time, I know these people; that's out of vested self-interest, it's called competition. It don't have nothing to do with the hub, it has to do with competition and they have had to do it because if they don't do it they are going to get hurt, and their market share will fall. So don't let us overplay this thing about hub, and so on.

Now, I turn to the one issue that is a very personal and vexed issue with me, the Caymanas Enterprise Zone.

One of the things that I would have preferred you to share your thoughts prior to making the kind of statement you did when you said, it lacked, the plan we left with you lacked concept development. Mr. Speaker, we had a concept and we still have a concept that - and he will find out because he has over the last two years found already the hard way. People don't have money put down to come here and invest in Caymanas.

Not even the Chinese. We have been to Beijing, we have addressed the Chamber of Commerce, we have been to all corners of the world. The Minister of Finance, the Minister of Foreign Affairs in the previous administration and myself went to London several times to talk about investment, and the focal point -

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Phillips)

Mr. SAMUDA: No, don't – just let's finish.

(Heckling by Dr. Phillips)

Mr. CHARLES: You can't mek those men upset you man, go ahead, man. Continue. Just ignore him.

Mr. SAMUDA: No, I am really serious, I want get through the speech.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Go ahead.

Mr. SAMUDA: Now, Mr. Speaker, what he calls a lack of concept, development concept. You know, the strategy was - first of all he never mentioned once the word "ICT",. Not once. He talk about big industrial development.

Mr. SHAW: Yes, man.

Mr. SAMUDA: Where it going come from?

Mr. SHAW: The hub cometh.

Mr. SAMUDA: Who going bring it there and put down?

Mr. SHAW: Cometh the hub.

Mr. SAMUDA: Big industrial development. Sound good and you have big names there to back you, but what is -

(Cross talk by Government Member)

Mr. DALLEY: You are distracted too easily.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda, I would advise that you ignore the distractions. Okay?

(Heckling by Government Members)

Mr. SHAW: Yes, but we might have to evict the Minister.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: So, Mr. Speaker, let's…

(Sotto voce comments)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Ah, Members. Just a moment, Mr. Samuda. Members, I think we are beginning to trivialize this debate. We need to remember that…

Mr. WARMINGTON: We have another speaker too.

The Deputy SPEAKER: We have another speaker…

Mr. SAMUDA: There is one coming up, you know.

The Deputy SPEAKER: …and a lot of time is being wasted by these constant…

Mr. SAMUDA: Not only time wasted, we have mouth too.

The Deputy SPEAKER: And, Mr. Samuda, you can help by not responding to every… (Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Yes, yes.

Mr. SAMUDA: No, but, Mr. Speaker. (Applause by Government Members) Mr. Speaker, let me make something clear to you. I have been here so long that I believe that I have earned the right to speak without unnecessary interruption.

Mr. SHAW: Hear! Hear!

(Applause by Opposition Members)

(Heckling)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Members, Members, Members.

(Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: Carry that to your group meeting.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda.

Mr. McKENZIE: (Inaudible comment) - go back a Cuba with it.

(Heckling)

The Deputy SPEAKER: I'm going to ask - Members, let's have a little respect for seniority. Okay. Please, a little respect for seniority. All right. Mr. Samuda, rise above the bantering and continue, please.

Mr. SAMUDA: No, I wouldn't mind rising above it but it's the annoying echo that comes from there. You know it's like water dripping at night and you can't sleep. That's what they are. I wouldn't rise for anything else but just water dripping.

(Heckling)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda, continue, continue.

(Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, you ever been in a room and you have a fly that is making a lot of noise, whining all over the place? That's what I am picking up over here. Like a fly, a big fly running around and distracting people.

All right, Mr. Speaker.

This strategy that he says had no concept was developed by highly trained and intelligent people and the idea was, that having tried exhaustively to get large investors to come in and utilize the land, I would have to say that I came up with the idea, it was my idea and it didn't materialize as it should have but blame me if it don't materialize. It's my idea.

Everywhere I travelled people wanted a manifestation of our self-confidence. In other words, how confident are you in your own country? So I went and I spoke with all the businesses that had started humbly but added on little rooms here and there as their business expanded, and I said to them, what about reestablishing your organization as a showcase to display the confidence you have in your country, what you have done and the best place to do that is Caymanas? So much so that we selected 200 acres and put it at a point where as you are leaving Highway 2000 you can't miss it, it's right in front of you. So anyone coming to ask us, why are you coming to encourage us to invest in Jamaica? What are you doing in Jamaica? You can showcase it and say, see it deh.

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

The Deputy SPEAKER: The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficiently to allow him to complete his presentation?

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time for speaking be extended so as to allow him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda.

Mr. SAMUDA: Thank you very much and I thank the Members of the House for their courtesies.

So the point is Mr. Speaker we came up with this idea, what we will do is subdivide the land but we would be selective in who we chose, and we chose some of the most successful companies and they all bought into the idea. So much so that we advertised and they came in and one large contributor was willing to stand the cost of the infrastructure, he just wanted to get in, he was a consolidator of food. Others, names you all know, but in it was 40 acres reserved and it was reserved for an Informatics Park. Forty acres. And why was that chosen? It was chosen, because as is said, the ICT sector is the sector of the future. It is the sector that offers the greatest opportunity for our young people leaving school, and where do we have more young people bright, unemployed residing? In Southern St. Catherine adjacent to the Caymanas lands.

A MEMBER: South St. Andrew.

Mr. SAMUDA: South St. Andrew, West Kingston, Western St. Andrew, the whole of the St. Andrew area, in fact, when we made our presentation we encircled the area to show the scope of the project. So we reserved this 40 acres, and we said, well, how are we going to build the 40 acres because we don't have the fiscal space, we can't go out and borrow the money, let's see what we can do. And so we negotiated the purchase of 200 acres at $900 Million. Incidentally, I saw on the website congratulatory language that said that the present chairman of Factories Corporation was successful in his negotiation of the purchase of 200 acres of Caymanas lands. That's just a by the way.

But the fact is we bought this land and we used the land - we didn't use the land as collateral, we used the concept as collateral, and we used factories, because instead of buying it in any other agencies, we chose Factories Corporation because it's a business entity. So we said, okay, Factories Corporation has a revenue base and it has land and value, so let us use it as collateral and we floated a $1.2 Billion bond with Scotia. Scotia Bank. See it yah. This is the copy of the bond. It was off the budget, it would cost the Jamaican Government nothing. It did not require sovereign guarantee. It was entirely private sector in its concept and scope.

Dr. DAVIES: New agreement.

Mr. SAMUDA: New agreement but then you see we weren't under that agreement, because that agreement - well, we won't go there.

(Sotto voce comments by Government Members)

Mr. SAMUDA: No, but in terms of what you have been able to do, but anyway. The point is that this project was a stand-alone financing project, and it would have been funded from the sales of the lots, and the excess would go into the construction of the Informatics Park.

Had this project gone through, Mr. Speaker, thousands of youngsters in Southern St. Catherine would today be going to work every day, every day. That's an opportunity lost! That's an opportunity lost! Talk about concept, the concept was as sound then as it is today, and will be in the future. If we don't begin to showcase what we can do locally, what our businessmen and women represent, instead of depending on multilateral international...

Mr. SHAW: Consortiums!

Mr. SAMUDA: ...consortiums to come and bail us out - there is enough wealth among the business community of this country, all they need is the motivation to move. (Applause) All they need is the motivation.

Mr. CHUCK: And untie their hands!

Mr. SAMUDA: That's right. If you free them and you give them a path to follow fearlessly, they will help. And that is what they were willing to do for the Caymanas Enterprise Zone. And what was this? Mr. Minister, this was not the end, this was the beginning.

Prime Minister, you know what this was designed to do? This was designed to serve as a seeding of the land. When you buy land, the best way to sell your lots is to build a few houses on the land.

Mr. SHAW: Yes.

Mr. SAMUDA: This was the exact business model that we adopted to seed the land of 200 acres, because we knew we had over 1,000 acres owned by the UDC. So this was just the beginning whilst we explored what you are now going to explore - the possibility of bringing in all these high-rollers.

Mr. SHAW: Consortium people.

Mr. SAMUDA: That's right. So to talk of it as a finished product is not to understand the concept. So any concept deficiency is not mine, it's yours. It's not that we were short on our concept; you have not understood the concept. And I don't hear you say one word about facilitating local business development, nowhere in your presentation.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Anthony Hylton)

Mr. SHAW: Keep quiet!

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, coupled with this - coupled with this, Mr. Speaker, was the Naggo Head project. Because we recognized - and let me tell you, I hear you talking about - I hear talk about all these ICT firms, these large companies, and they have committed - there is no ICT firm on the face of this planet - and if you can find one, you bring it here and I will apologize - there is not one that will give you a firm undertaking unless they at least see cement start to pour. They will not. They are dismissive because they have options, Minister, they have options. They don't work in theories. These are highly sophisticated businessmen and women who make decisions on the basis of something concrete. And, until they know that you have identified the land, you have the plans and you are going to build, and the timeframe is within a certain limit, then they negotiate. Anything less than that is just theory. Theory. Remember that word, theory, or you may replace it with the word 'pipedream'. Take your pick. But that comes back to the same thing. We can't afford pipe-dreams and hairy-fairy schemes, right.

When we looked at Naggo Head as a sister project within the Factories Corporation, we realized immediately that the demand for the BOPs were so powerful, and the people wouldn't budge without something concrete. We went ahead and we advertised for tenders. We got three, they were assessed. One winner emerged; it went to the stage of the Contracts Commission. All the plans, everything, laid out, a sophisticated programme of development was laid out by this firm - a going call the name, Stresscon, headed by Eric Comrie and his family; a family of qualified engineers; a family who has built some of the most outstanding structures in this country. And it took months to even get a reply after the interview. Eventually they were rejected.

But hear this, the remarkable thing - that's why I applaud what I saw you bring to the House. The remarkable thing was that within a couple of months after being rejected, a company that had been in operation, with qualified engineers and extraordinary concepts and build outs, for forty years, was moved from grade one to grade four in all the categories that they were registered in, they sunk from one to four. Stresscon. That is what was the result of this effort.

Had that been built, Prime Minister, let us just look at it and say what you would feel like today if you had 200,000 square feet of ICT facility at Portmore to employ young people from the area. How would everybody feel? That could have been in operation for two years, for two years!

Mr. SHAW: Them going twitter yu!

Mr. SAMUDA: Another opportunity lost. You talk about concept! You talk about business concept!

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: Let me tell you, what we need to do Mr. Speaker is we need to be bold, we need to be bold and deliberate. And we need to make sure that we don't squander money on things that are not going to materialize. I tell you something, you have done the most incredible - with the assistance of your colleagues - you have done the most incredible PR on this logistics hub. I have a document here I can read to you, when the use of the very word logistics and hub were spoken by me in 2011 and many of my colleagues. Because it is a concept that has been around, Madam Prime Minister, for decades, decades. From the days of Bob Lightbourne, P.J. Patterson, Danny Williams.

(Inaudible comment from Mr. Shaw)

Mr. SAMUDA: No, he was a little earlier. (Laughter) Right. Blake, all those men who were Industry and Commerce.

Mr. VAZ: Lightbourne.

Mr. SAMUDA: Lightbourne, I said that first.

Mr. VAZ: Dougie Vaz.

Mr. SAMUDA: Dougie Vaz, I worked with him. Now, Dougie Vaz was a dynamic Minister of Industry and Commerce. And I can tell you that its been around for so long. So, now to suggest that this is a new idea, a new concept, and that everything now must revolve around the logistics hub -1 think the PR has been good, but I give him credit for even much more. Because, Mr. Minister, when he can get you in your state of financial stress, to set aside six hundred and eighty million dollars ($680M) to engage in mapping for the logistics hub...

Mr. SHAW: What!

Mr. SAMUDA: …I think you are the most generous Minister of Finance on earth, or you have been highly, highly PR.

Mr. SHAW: What! You better audit that!

Mr. SAMUDA: Six Hundred and Eighty Million Dollars ($680M) was allocated for mapping.

Mr. SHAW: I can audit it! I will audit it!

Mr. SAMUDA: And all of the things that I hear the Minister talking about, all of the theory, is coming out of this high-flown committee business, research business, writing-paper business.

Prime Minister, you and I are practical people, we are practical, right. I once said in here that when I heard some finance matters spoken at the highest level in this - I had a lady on Red Hills Road called Miss Icy, and I would challenge anybody, she has more financial sense that the one them were talking in Parliament. Commonsense!

Dr. DAVIES: Audley, is you him talking?

Mr. SHAW: I don't think so. Is either you or...

Mr. SAMUDA: And it doesn't make sense ounoo spending money when the people in our communities can't mek ends meet, dying for a little money. You talk about the MSME? You talk about facilities for small business? Let me tell you about facilities for small business. All this business about you provide a Billion Dollars ($1B) for small business, let me tell you where that going. You know where it's going? It's going into the formal - the official financial sector - approved financial institutions, AFIs.

And what do the AFIs do, Minister? Take out the commercial banks - you know what they do, by and large? They lend money at 40-odd per cent per annum, annualized, and 50-odd per cent. There is no small business person - unless they are buying and selling, which is another thing now, you are catering to consumerism and not production - none a dem can produce anything at 40-odd per cent interest. There is no future in that. You have to buy and sell and you have to turnover every week, and that loan is for six weeks. So a man walk 'round and check you out and yu gi' dem a little money, but when you annualize it, 50-odd per cent interest. That has mushroomed, every Tom, Dick and Harry now is in that business, same-day loan. And you talk 'bout helping the MSME, help them with what? With same-day loan at 50-odd per cent?

What you need to do is go to the commercial banks and negotiate a rate for the small people, and say to them, give them an extended period, a protracted period. But here is what they will have to do in order to do it; they will have to establish a monetary mechanism to ensure that they collect the money.

There is only one company dealing in micro-lending that has put the money into the development of a monetary mechanism, only one, the largest, only one. In fact, if you gave them a licence to be a commercial bank they would give the commercial banks the greatest run for their money. They are the ones who would give the commercial banks a run for their money, because they have spent the time, they have spent the money to establish infrastructure to cope with that.

So, when you talk to me about you lend man money, and a man come to you and you gi' him a One Million ($1M) or a Two Million ($2M) Dollar and him have fe run go pay it every six months or every three months, that is not the way you build an economy. That is not the way you build a sustainable economy.

(The students in the gallery on their way out)

My students, thank you very much for coming, students. And please go down stairs, there are refreshments down there for you.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Samuda...

Mr. SAMUDA: That is what it is - let me tell you, Mr. Speaker, that is what it is all about. (Applause) That is why I am here.

The Deputy SPEAKER: And that is why you will now...

(Inaudible) (Laughter)

Mr. SAMUDA: Prime Minister, you need to insist that you develop like a one national development strategy. What you have now is a harum-scarum ad hoc thing, you know, and it is parading as joined-up government. You can't have an agency charged with responsibility of promoting investment, and every day you wake up another Minister is making an announcement about a big, enormous project, and the people who are in charge don't know anything about the project.

(Inaudible comment from Mr. Shaw)

Mr. SAMUDA: That's right. It's not coordinated, it's not tight.

Prime Minister, I don't think you have had a Development Council Meeting for the longest time, perhaps over a year. That's the committee that you chair. That's the way you can keep them in check. That's the way you can inform yourself. That's the way you can impose your will on the process and make sure it gets done. That's your tool.

That's the instrument you use to make sure that they stay in line because when you say, what happen to this, you make a date that it must be done and they come back and report to the Development Council. It started when the former Prime Minister Patterson insisted that he had to have that as his means of keeping in touch and making sure that projects are expedited efficiently. This is what - the way it's running now is like what doctor say to you - as we've had an experience in our family, where doctor say to you, you're suffering from irritable bowel syndrome.

Dr. DAVIES: That's what you're suffering from?

Mr. SAMUDA: What they really mean is they don't know what wrong with you soh dem gi yuh Alka-Seltzer or Milk a Magnesia.

My friend over here is a doctor and he knows exactly what I'm talking about, right. And I tell you a little secret, the irritable bowel syndrome nearly kill mi wife and him know it, nearly kill mi wife. So when I say irritable bowel syndrome, if the policy going on now continues, it gwine kill the country.

(Laughter/Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: You know, Mr. Speaker, do you know I went - where all this economic zone thing come from - and I'm so proud to have had the opportunity to visit China in 1994, I was on that side, and I travelled with former Minister of Foreign Affairs Paul Robertson and a team of us went to China, and I had the great pleasure and privilege of being exposed to one of the world's greatest transformational activities that has led to the growth and development of China, something formed by a great man, a Chinese man called Dong Tai-Ping.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: Deng Jai-Ping, Dung Jai-Ping, whatever, right, sometimes they spell it D,0,N,G sometimes it spell D,E,N,G. The point is, he was never President of China, he was never President, he was the...

A MEMBER: Vice President.

Mr. SAMUDA: ...Chairman of the Central Advisory Committee of the Communist Party of China, but you know what, he took advice from the Council of eight elders. I say no more.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. SAMUDA: Now, that man revolutionized China and perhaps the world, by taking a 30,000 populated fishing village in Guangdong Province called Shenzhen, fenced it off from outside - well I said ring fenced it but not physically - where he brought in young graduates to be supervisors and the concept was to form a special enterprise zone. I had the pleasure of being there on the ground floor.

I came back to this Honourable House and I said what I visited in China, while they're busy building factories that look like hotels, we are busy building edifices to consumerism, insurance and banking. Our buildings in New Kingston were edifices to the financial sector, while they were busy building factories.

So, Mr. Speaker, I'll never forget when I came here first with the concept of the Caymanas Enterprise when my good friend from Central Westmoreland was very hostile and said I was trying to destroy good agricultural land. Now I see him calm when his Minister is talking and promoting large industrial development on the same land. Time have a spanner to fit every nut. Your nut has just come in.

(Laughter/Heckling)

Mr. SAMUDA: I'm fearful of the extent...

Mr. SHAW: That's why they call it the hub effect?

(Laughter)

Mr. SAMUDA: Well, the hub.

So you see when the Minister talks about hub, Jamaica is the hub; Jamaica is the hub and everything...

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. SAMUDA: No, no. ...but everything that has been done by every Minister to contribute to the hard and soft infrastructure of the country; Highway 2000, North South Highway, Telecommunications, Transportation, Shipping, Airline, divestment of the airline - the Norman Manley and soon to come divestment of Norman Manley, and all these things, these are the things that comprise a logistic hub; these are the things that make us attractive, nobody comes to a country that has no development of hard and soft infrastructure. But where are we lacking? We're lacking in training.

The Opposition Leader spoke feelingly about a knowledge-based economy; he's dead-on, he has hit the nail right on the head. Why? Because without knowledge, without training, without education, your ability to absorb new technology and to apply it and therefore reduce or make yourselves more competitive is impossible, impossible.

Education, over 70% of our entire workforce receives no vocational training whatsoever. Any investor who looks at that figure will say, but Jamaica don't have no future, the people dem down there have no training. So they'll have to spend a fortune to establish courses to give certification so that they're sure of what they have. Education can make a tremendous difference in the process of development.

And, Mr. Speaker, I lament the fact that not once in his presentation of nearly three hours did I hear the Minister make reference, with any degree of passion, for the expansion of education in this process.

Dr. DAVIES: I spoke about it, it's a joined up government.

Mr. SAMUDA: But it's a joined up - but that's you, you see.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, the Factories Corporation that he spoke about - let me just cut to the chase - it should be divested. It is the largest landlord of industrial space in the country. What in hell does the Government of Jamaica have to be a landlord of 1.8 square feet of factory? That's not our role; divest it to the people who know how to handle it; divest it – you talk about people afraid of fire sale, fraid a fire sale! If you have to cut your losses so that you can make it up on the backend, then you do. What do you think; we have 204,000 square feet of empty factory space right now.

Mr. CHARLES: What?

Mr. SAMUDA: Empty! The only thing in there is rat and cockroach. Empty!

Mr. CHARLES: And chi chi.

Mr. SAMUDA: But the worst thing is, Mr. Speaker, it's not just empty, it has been empty for a long time and in some instance it's for years! And we hang on sey we nah gi it wey, we a hug it up, we a Government, we know wey we a duh. We a keep di ole factory out a Good Year caa we nah gi it wey.

(Laughter)

Mr. CHUCK: What you're doing for the Good Year Factory?

Mr. SAMUDA: So we equipped it for ICT, dem teef out half a it, soon deh gwine tek off di roof, but we nah gi it up.

Dr. DAVIES: It is production train time now yuh nuh.

Mr. CHARLES: The train is coming baby, choo choo.

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, in KSAC, in KSAC alone we have 56,000 square feet of empty space, no rent. When I came to office, where the JBDC is now it was empty for about two years. The Minister stood right over there, former Minister stood right over there and sey, if a gi it wey dem don't want it so I converted it into the office of the JBDC. It's serving a very good purpose now, but those are the things that attention must be paid to.

So, Minister of Finance, you're asking what I said about you grazing a couple million dollars? Sell Factories Corporation and expedite the sale. And it's easy to sell because its construction - you have land to make a selection as to which ones you want to get people to partner with you to build out, but the ones you have the old buildings on, the ones that you're spending money refurbish -1 see you go and refurbish something down Vere, I don't hear the Minister say a word about Vere yet you know. Last time I hear Vere is it gwine open any day; him find a investor, mi nuh hear nutten bout dat. Vere!

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Chuck)

Mr. SAMUDA: Vere, yes.

Mr. CHUCK: They used to use it to store cement.

Mr. SAMUDA: Down Clarendon. That's right.

Not a word has been spoken about Vere, that gone to bed. Yuh know what's going to happen, Madam Prime Minister? That is going to become another Good Year, because business people don't go on emotion, they go on business instincts and what makes sense. Vere never did make sense, it was used for everything; store cement, anything you want, but it ain't the right place at this time to encourage ICT or Factories.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. SAMUDA: Yes, they don't make sense.

So the point is, what you need now is to sit down and make a plan of divestment for the Factories Corporation, and don't get caught up in all this mystifying dreaming of all kinds a wonderful and glorious things to come when nutten is on the ground.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. SAMUDA: We've lost - we've made a lot of errors; we've made a lot of errors in this country and we must make sure we don't make anymore. You know, one of the errors we made - and I heard a Minister, I won't tell you who, make a very constructive comment the other day, he said if only we had been more diligent in the utilization of the Bauxite Levy instead of going for the relief programme at the time, what a place it would be today.

Mr. SHAW: The former Head of the... (Inaudible)

Mr. SAMUDA: So we must avoid - we must look at the priorities and make choices; we must make choices that are beneficial in the long run, for there's nothing you can come here and tell me that you're going to do in a year because economies don't turn in a year, it takes time. If you had built out Caymanas now it would start to turn, long term planning. The Chinese plan for 1,000 years. Don't make snap decisions that you'll end up regretting.

The Minister of Finance is under so much stress a sorry for him, because the IMF have us like this. I don't agree with the IMF, and I will say that without apology to anybody, I don't agree with the IMF. The IMF has one thing in mind, whether you can meet on paper the requirements at the end of the quarter. They don't even go behind the scenes and say what they're doing to you because I will tell you what has happened recently.

The Minister of Finance was forced - I don't think he did it willingly, if he had a choice he would not do it, I'm sure he wouldn't, I don't think he would, but he has been forced into a position because if he failed di whole a we gone into trouble. When I said that to him one day he didn't understand what I mean, that he was forced to make bad choices with the IMF. They may tell us the ideas, the same old 40 year strategy devalue your currency; devalue your currency. They've been saying that for 40 years.

Mr. SHAW: Forty years and it don't work.

Mr. CHUCK: It's not because of the devaluation.

Mr. SAMUDA: Minister of Finance because he's forced. You know what he has to do? He has to cook the books, and quite frankly, nobody can scientifically on any accounting basis, contradict me when I say that the books, the national books of the country of Jamaica was cooked in order to pass the test.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: A gwine tell yuh. Yuh got a double whammy that catch you. Him can't meet the primary surplus unless him hide expenses that is due and payable.

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Mr. SAMUDA: No wait, hold on. Due and payable, employees deductions are made and the Ministry of Finance have challenges, several things that are coming forward. Now, I don't say all of them are his fault, some of them were there as a carryover, but minimally compared to where him is now. And all of this, him don't have the revenue, so guess what him has to do now. My friend, the Minister of Telecommunications, I am sure the day that he came up with the idea - I was told about the possibility everybody was in a sense of euphoria must have overcome you, when him say I know where we can get - was it Sixteen or Eighteen Billion? From the...

Mr. SHAW: Twelve Billion.

Mr. SAMUDA: Twelve Billion, I know where you can get Twelve Billion; all you have to do is to ask them to pay us the money first that is due next year. Not this year is due, you know, next year. Right....

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Shaw)

A MEMBER: Right, two years time.

Mr. SAMUDA: Right, two years times and here is what - and with all you want to say about the Minister - make no mistake about it, if he was instrumental in engineering that he is worthy of a raise, because that is what they do in the private sector, if you do something good, you get a raise. Because without it him in trouble, without it him cannot pass him IMF test.

Now, why I say it is a double whammy, Mr. Speaker, is because on the one hand, you are containing your expenditure by hiding your bills and not paying them, that are due and payable, and on the other hand, you are drawing down on next year's revenue. You know what the IMF has caused you to do? It has caused you to compromise the future, because you now have to go find that money for next year to meet those tests. So, when you have to pay these bills, plus find that revenue you use up already, God help us. Unless you know where there is another source of money coming. But as you said, it is no use holding up a shop that has no cash. So, that is why I say that they have got you in strictures; that is why I hate the programme because they exercise no tolerance for a country like ours and they want us devalue.

Devalue and do what. Devalue and make what more competitive? What do we have to sell to earn foreign exchange? The only people who benefit when you - who suffer when you devalue most of all is the poor consumers who have to pay more for their goods, more for them rent, more for everything because as soon as they hear devaluation they put up the price. And the distributors not going to put up the price as it occurs, them going to project the price as to what dem have fi pay fi the dollar when dem have fi buy it back or else they are out of business. So you are in a bind, the chances are, you are going to fail the next test or the one after because you won't have the money and you can't borrow it, and you cannot - it is trade. I used to come here and talk about the balance of payment, and I got nicknamed Mr. Balance of Payments because I know the impact of the balance of payment current account deficit, I know where it is coming from. The problem is nothing wrong with Jamaica; the problem with Jamaica is we don't have any foreign exchange Minister.

We are not an export, outward driven economy. We were spawned on the concept of distribution, we love it like cook food. When your people come to you in your constituency, can I help you, I say what you would like to do? A little buy and sell. Them never say I want to make two shoes, I want to make furniture, I want sew, I want to do a little buy and sell that is our culture. The trade agents are not that way, the trade agents are outward looking they are export oriented and that is why they are more competitive. We have gotten into export because many of those who are in export today went into export in order to earn the foreign exchange to go in and expand their distribution. You can quote me. How you think Grace Kennedy got into foreign exchange. How you think Grace Kennedy started to export? You think they started to export because it is easier? They started to export because we could not find the dollar to satisfy their purchasing power for the distributing trade.

Now, this thing needs an overall. I don't know, Minister, I am sorry for you, you are in big trouble. There is only one thing that is hopeful on the horizon and that is the fact that there is one sector that can maximize our possibilities for foreign exchange and it is right sitting in front of me here.

A MEMBER: Agriculture.

Mr. SAMUDA: Agro industry forget, not agriculture, agro industry and by extension agriculture must do well for agro culture - agro industry. (Applause) Agro industry, so Prime Minister, the person to embrace, the person to do everything to help, is the Minister of Agriculture. The future of Jamaica rests in his hands, to grow out enough that we can convert the raw material and process it.

Mr. CLARKE: Working on it, we are working, working. (Laughter)

Mr. SAMUDA: Well, I know. Minister, I am coming down now, and I now speak of energy. In the area of energy, Mr. Speaker...

(Sotto voce comments by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: When it comes to energy, you know, you have to look on your notes. The three eight one (381) megawatt plant, is a phenomenal project. It is a must project. It would satisfy half of our existing total generating capacity and reduce the cost if the price holds by somewhere approaching near 30 percent....

Dr. DAVIES: Thirty?

Mr. SAMUDA: Thirty. Without that, I am not saying that the manufacturing sector cannot survive. I am saying without that the consuming sector can't survive, the people can't survive. The people in the little corner shop, the man who is selling and had to put on his light, him is thieving because him can't make ends meet if him pay the electricity bill. The electricity bill in many of the instances is more than the sales for the day. So he has to do something to survive. That is the man I am worried about. I am not worried about the big player who can create mechanisms within his organization to reduce and become more competitive, more efficient; because the degree to which electricity forms a part of the total expenses of an organization is really quite minimal, is much less than has been publicized. Much less than has been publicized, listen to me carefully. So the manufacturers are going to have to step up to the plate with improving their competitiveness by improving their management structure and by applying appropriate technology. You have to spend money to earn money in this day and age. There is no such thing as cheap labour again, that is finished. It is now technology driven. And so they have to look at that aspect of it, but in terms of the energy cost this project is a vitally important project.

We unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, ended up in a situation where two major agencies are in conflict with each other, major. The Office of the Contractor General in its report said:

> "the OUR's receipt of the unsolicited proposal and expressions of interests have attendant details and processes and guidelines which are embodied in the Government of Jamaica, handbook of public procurement procedures. An exception was allowed after the expiration of the evaluation had already concluded. In this regard, the playing field was not level the playing field was not level as preference was given to facilitating the receipt of one other proposal from EWI"

Those are damaging comments and formed the basis of the IDB posture towards EWI and the country. The OUR on the 27th of September 2013, and I quote:

> "The Contractor General erred when he arrived at the findings because the Contractor General failed to properly apply the provisions of the procurement regulations and procurement handbook. The OUR maintains that the Contractor General's conclusion in this regard is completely erroneous...

remember those words:

> ...completely erroneous and is predicated on the unlawful application of a procurement procedure applicable to consulting services".

Now, Mr. Speaker, let me try to explain something. No bother with that.

(Sotto voce comments by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: That is the New York - Boardroom of the New York Stock Exchange.

Mr. SHAW: Show them how modest your preparations are.

Mr. SAMUDA: Very modest. Now the flag is I am the manifestation of the flag.

So, Mr. Speaker, those two conclusions cannot stand separately, cannot stand and must not be allowed to stand separately. And the Opposition takes the position that a judicial review should be undertaken in order to have this matter, properly settled.

This whole episode has exposed the country to a level of doubt, in the minds of multilaterals. Not only the ones we have dealt with, but the ones that we have observed what has taken place.

Our international partners have become skeptical about our capacity to properly handle this type of negotiation. We cannot have that. We are a sophisticated country and we cannot have our good name banded about in this fashion. Some may find it amusing, some might even find it entertaining, I find it distressing and depressing at the stage of our development and it cannot enhance the Minister of Finance effort to get us out of this mess.

In this regard, and due to the level of controversy that has attended this entire process, special care should be taken to ensure that no member of the announced enterprise team brings to the table any level of bias or history of contention in respect of any past involvement in their association with any public enterprise with which they had been previously involved.

I crafted those words deliberately, that was in ordinary parlance a shot across the bow. You heed it or there are consequences, it is as simple as that. If you don't understand it, then you are not a student of history.

Mr. DALLEY: Repeat it again.

Mr. SAMUDA: I am going to repeat it. In this regard...

(Sotto voce comments by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: My intonation will tell you. In this regard and due to the level of controversy that has attended this entire process, special care should be taken to ensure that no member of the announced enterprise team brings to the table any level of bias, or history of contention in respect of any past involvement, in their association, with any public enterprise with which they have been previously involved.

If you don't understand that, then we can have a talk in the corridors.

(Laughter) (Cross talk)

I crafted it - I can say this occasionally I will ask an opinion. In this case, I did this one myself.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Pryce)

Mr. SAMUDA: In this matter I do, because I suffered the consequences. You recalled that I was - my goodly young friend's father censured me for a statement I made in respect of a report that should have been delivered to the former Prime Minister and I maintained he had gotten the report and he maintained he had not, and D-Buc promptly censured me. Of course, the Speaker of the House, in his wisdom, did not pursue it, but he could have. But I feel about this strongly. I won't go into any of those details. I don't want to go into those details. I'm just simply - this is just a shot across the bow.

The Opposition will be watching these developments very carefully. We demand nothing less than absolute transparency at all levels in this matter. The Opposition expects that whichever firm eventually provides this facility, the price should not exceed the benchmark level of US$0.13 per Kilowatt hour.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: That is not ambiguous.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: We have set the benchmark based on what we know one supplier can deliver it fah. When you find one that can deliver it - the one that is well known, and has bid and have a licence now. The one who has a licence right now.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, we are disappointed that after several days have elapsed since the announcement of the enterprise team to oversee the finalization of this project by 2016, the country has received no updates nor the terms of reference that will guide the team. We are very disappointed at that.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies

Mr. SAMUDA: As far as North - I learnt that lesson from the Prime Minister, and I am learning it every day as the Minister of Finance speaks. He gives you only so much and then he talk to you afterwards on a one to one basis.

Dr. DAVIES: This is what you're doing?

Mr. SAMUDA: This is a one to one basis.

Dr. DAVIES: Okay.

Mr. SAMUDA: It's not in the text, all right. As far as EWI is concerned, we feel that they have had enough time to finalize their financial arrangements. They should either seek to comply fully with all the provisions under the licence or signal their intention to withdraw from the process consistent with all legal considerations.

(Inaudible comment by Dr. Davies)

Mr. SAMUDA: I wrote that one myself too.

Dr. DAVIES: Yeah man, say it.

Mr. SAMUDA: Because I mean it.

Dr. DAVIES: No, but there is a easy way there, you know.

Mr. SAMUDA: We believe that the time has come to review the decision whereby the OUR has the sole authority to conduct the procurement process relating to the purchase of power equipment whilst also having the authority to preside over the regulatory mechanism of the industry. There has to be review of that. It's a conflict.

A Government MEMBER: We agree with that.

Mr. SAMUDA: Mr. Speaker, on energy, I just want to point out that in our quest for expanded use of renewable energy through the use of solar and wind, we should not be unmindful of the additional generating capacity which will be required to ensure the stability of the current flows during the inevitable periods of peak and troughs throughout the process. You have to generate more to get up there to the speed and it will comprise the savings that you anticipate. So it will cost more. So it's a consideration. There is no silver bullet, Mr. Speaker, and only thing that we must now do is diversify our source of fuel.

(Cross talk)

And finally, as I conclude, Mr. Speaker, I say to everyone especially to my constituents, this little country; is in a lot of economic, social and moral difficulties, but I believe in the courage, ingenuity and good sense of our people. I am convinced that there is a no generation of Jamaicans preparing themselves for the day when they will take our places and move our country forward. Our job is to guide, nurture and protect them through this process. Give them the tools we never had. Teach them the values of work, loyalty to country and commitment to duty. Let us hasten in this task of giving them a sound base on which to build a just and caring society. I am satisfied that if we do these things our future will be secure and safe.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

The Deputy SPEAKER: House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the Member from North West Manchester will now conclude the presentations this evening.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Phillips.

(Applause)

Mr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I seek your permission to speak from a seat other than my own.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Permission granted.

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, let me at this hour, let me just first...

Mr. CLARKE: Declare. (Laughter)

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: ...thank my constituents for bearing with us.

(Applause) (Cross talk)

It shows their commitment to me as their Member of Parliament. Mr. Speaker, the Lord has been my strength and my provider. It is through Him that I have managed to accomplish all that I have and from Him that we seek his guidance, courage and strength. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to express my gratitude to my councillors: Samson, Deputy Mayor Facey, Maxwell and Collins; (Applause) again to my constituents of North West Manchester for their continued support, my staff, my assistant Jackie; members of the constituency executive, all the workers as we unite in the continued task of building a better constituency and by extension a better Jamaica. Last but not least, Mr. Speaker, my mother who's in the Gallery (Applause), my better half and my daughter, Gabriella, who is here giving me support. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to thank the Prime Minister for her continued guidance and support. There are some out there who only speak about their commitment to young people; the Most Honourable Prime Minister has shown her commitment, belief and guidance in us as young Jamaicans. (Applause) You have made that commitment in serving our country. Prime Minister, you have shown us that you have a steady pair of hands and I would like to say thank you for believing in us. (Applause)

A promise made by the Honourable Prime Minister, the Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce and the Minister of STEM, when we first came to power in 201l, about making Manchester the third hub of ICT/BPO sector. It just shows that the Minister is working, working, working. (Applause) But I am pleased to say that this was a promise made and will be a promise kept. (Applause) As we speak, we have two investors from the parish of Manchester who are now constructing approximately 90,000 square feet of factory space for the ICT/BPO sector. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, my father keeps saying that I am foolhardy in following in his footsteps. My response to him today is that I have recognized that to serve the people of Jamaica is the greatest gift that God can and have bestowed upon us as servants of the people, (Applause) and I know that I not that fool after all. What better way than to walk in the footsteps of my father. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: After two and half years I still consider it a privilege and not a right to serve the people of North Manchester. Together, we have focused on education as the main plank as a means of building a solid and sustainable foundation for our people. We have achieved much with the united support of our schools: schools' PTA, teachers, Principals, private sector partners and all well-thinking constituents.

One area of focus, Mr. Speaker, is to improve the learning environment of our students. In so doing, we're able to pave the driveway and the parking area of the New Green Primary School, construction and pavement of a new roadway of Evan Grant Basic School in New Green; construction of bathrooms, kitchen and lunch room at Lyndhurst Basic School. Currently, the refurbishing of the Wards Park School is underway. We will be completing the staff room, Principal's office and computer lab at the Nazareth Primary School. We will be also working in collaboration with the Ministry of Education in addressing the roofing problem at the Comfortable Hall Primary School. We also have another successful year at the North West Manchester Principal's Association Annual Quiz Competition.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, with the joint partnership of Digicel Foundation, Kimala Foundation and Mr. Christopher James and his company, DOS Limited 2009, we were able to supply sixty computers and five large printers to twelve primary and basic schools in the constituency. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, education cannot, and should not be the business of the Government alone. Where we are now, we need everyone on board: the parents, the JTA, the private sector, our international partners, our families, every single Jamaican.

(Applause)

With this, Mr. Speaker, I am making an appeal to those scoundrels out there who think it is okay for them to break in and destroy our school properties as they see fit; I say to them, think before you act. When a criminal is found guilty of destroying a school property, the penalty should be so great that he would never contemplate to commit that crime again. Every single Jamaican should make it their duty to protect our schools. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I recognize, as in my own part to do, and all well-thinking Jamaicans, that the only way that we can sustainably develop Jamaica is through a foundation of proper education for our children. (Applause)

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Pickersgill/Laughter)

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, in the Gallery, we have Members of Northwest Manchester Principal's Association, but also in the Gallery we have seven students presently attending Northern Caribbean University. (Applause) At one point or another, they would have visited the constituency office either in person, or their parents, looking for a job because the thought of furthering their tertiary education seemed farfetched. Also in the Gallery, is the National Youth Service Parish Manager for Manchester, Mr. Johnson. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, for Jamaica 50, he and the NYS team approached Northern Caribbean University in awarding scholarships to 50 students from the parish of Manchester: NYS, NCU, JAM VAT, and contributions from the MP's CDF had been combined to pay the tuition for these students. (Applause)

From this programme we have recommended, we were able to assist these seven students. I am proud to say, Mr. Speaker, we led the way in this initiative in the parish of Manchester. Each student was successful in attaining over six 'ones' in CSEC. They also had to meet requirement for admission to the Northern Caribbean University. These students are currently studying accounting, nursing, actuarial science and business management. Mr. Speaker, we will be supporting them for the entire four-year period of their study. (Applause)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Hear, hear!

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: I am happy to say that they have all successfully completed their first year of study where they have attained an average 3.6 GPA, and I just want to say how proud we are of them. (Applause)

We need to recognize the sacrifices that some parents make in ensuring that even one child in the household attain a tertiary education. For many families, it means borrowing the money, not being able to eat a decent meal for months, sacrificing sometimes, everything. We also have to applaud those children who understand the sacrifices that have been made on their behalf and who have stayed the course in achieving academic excellence.

Mr. Speaker, it is not easy for a young man or woman to resist the peer pressure of today. So when we find the few that makes the effort to stand out and accomplish something for themselves, we need to encourage them and protect them from all the ills in our society.

Mr. Speaker, additionally, we officially opened the Huntley Library. We were able to achieve this from funds provided by the CDF and JEEP. This enabled the Jamaica Library Service to move from their small, crammed space to a larger and more modern facility. They are now able to display many more books, also 10 computers and Internet service was provided by the Universal Access Fund. We will be breaking ground for the construction of another library in the community of Comfort Hall this financial year. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, there is more that I can speak about in relation to Northwest Manchester. We are a team. The Ministry of Education Regional Office, the Principal's Association, Parish Councils, the SDC, teachers, volunteers, parents, guardians, the private sector, all working together to ensure that we lift the standard of education for our children, and we are seeing the results. We are moving in the right direction. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we have completed and open the Huntley Community Centre and is about to open another next month in the community of George Reid. (Applause) We will be breaking ground for the Comfort Hall Community Centre, Health Centre and Library in a few months.

Thanks to the Ministry of Tourism and the TEF, the Noisy River attraction will become a reality this year. Mr. Speaker, Noisy River is one of few surface water, or few rivers running above ground in Manchester in the community of Oxford. During the hot months - and the Member from Central Manchester knows it quite well - Westmoreland, knows it quite well, as he lives up the road from there and visits there at nights.

Mr. CLARKE: And day too. (Laughter)

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: And day... Okay, just checking if the day was included too. During the hot months, residents from Manchester and St. Elizabeth converge on this river - on this small body of water for recreation. So, what we are doing with funds from the TEF, Mr. Speaker, is, we are putting in changing rooms, bath rooms, a few shops, picnic benches that the residents can use it.

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Clarke)

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: (Laughs) I see the Member likes wheeling the bag... so that residents can use it in good order, and it is...

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Clarke)

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: Yes... yes, sir. I move on, Mr. Speaker, to technical and vocational education. Mr. Speaker, I am very happy to see the Ministry of Education moving in the direction of technical and vocational education. We have seen the positive results that technical high schools have had on our society. We often make mention of the high level of unemployment within the ages of 18 to 35. Let us not fool ourselves. We all know the reason why this category is high is because many are unemployable due to the lack of not having a marketable skill.

The introduction of TVET in our secondary schools will help in tackling this issue ‑ tackling the issue of persons leaving school without the basic requirement for further advancement.

Mr. Speaker, the approach being embarked on is now more critical as data is showing that in 2013, there was a marginal decline of 3.1 per cent of persons accessing training through HEART Trust/NTA. Areas of major decline include: Agriculture, 13.5 per cent; creative industries, 40.8 per cent, and ICT 6.4 per cent. Mr. Speaker, these are three critical areas that can drive the entrepreneurial skill and spirit of our young people. What needs to be achieved is for it to be made compulsory that , before students leaving the secondary system, that in these skill areas, and others, students should be able to attain level I and/or a level II certification from the HEART NTA, or any equivalent certification given by the Ministry of Education.

(Applause)

Additionally, we also need to seriously consider the process by which we will be able to have students make the transition from Level I and Level II, to level III and IV, as data is showing that a small number of students enroll to advance to level III and IV certification, it is only 6.6 per cent and 0.7 per cent respectively of the total number of students enroll that make that transition. If it is that we are going to compete globally, we need to ensure that persons attain the highest skill certification.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we need to find the solution in how we capture the unattached youth in our training programmes. All of us in this House would have been asked to find a job for a youth and when we ask what it is that he can do, the answer is anything. I am not sure if

HEART/NTA gives a certification for that skill.

(Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, Minister Hanna spent some time in her Sectoral presentation on programmes that the National Youth Service will be offering with a focus on Youth at Risk. This, I am happy to see and I laud the Minister and the National Youth Service team to be putting more resources in this area. It is true that more and more students are leaving the educational system without a secondary certificate, or at the tertiary level, in our rural parishes. Currently, many of the programmes offered by the NYS lend itself mostly to students with these qualifications. Mr. Speaker, it is my view that we have to find a way for the National Youth Service to engage and use more resources for the at-risk youth.

We need to define who is a youth at risk. My definition is a youth who may not have completed his primary education or secondary education; neither has a skill or even thinking of attaining any of the above, who may one day, in his quest to find a way out becomes a huge cost to the Government to provide social services.

With this, Mr. Speaker, I am proposing the introduction of the once reputable and character-building National Youth Service camps, such as Cobbler and Chester Vale, because, Mr. Speaker, it would be interesting to find out what the actual cost is of not engaging the youth at risk, and what the actual cost to the State is in trying to deal with crime and health care.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: (Inaudible) ...the opportunity costs.

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: But where - the opportunity costs - what it actually cost the Government if we do not engage.

But these Camps where young men and women from all walks of life would have gone and spent some time and left more focused and determine on being a better person also leaving with a marketable skill.

Mr. Speaker, it is my feeling that on leaving a secondary institution without any CSEC subjects or the proposed TVET certification, it should be made mandatory for them to be sent to a NYS Camp.

Just recently I had dinner with a family in Manchester and was introduced to their three sons. Their father telling me of the day when he took his three sons to Cobbler Camp and left them at the office of Mr. Lawrence, the then Principal, begging him to enroll his sons as they were unmanageable. They spent two years at Cobbler; one is an engineer and two are medical doctors today.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. D. Smith)

(Applause)

Mr. M. PHILLIPS: Yes, is Vin Lawrence father. (Applause)

I am sure we all have heard positive stories from individuals who would have experienced the NYS Camps. Mr. Speaker, we need to treat the situation as it is now with our young people as a crisis, if we do not, history will be unkind to us as we would have failed in our responsibilities to secure a positive future for them.

Mr. Speaker, we in this House have a responsibility, the Churches, civil society groups and all well-thinking Jamaicans need to come together and assess this situation that we are now faced with as a country. The breakdown of order, morals and values in our society.

Mr. Speaker, as we work hard to correct the weaknesses in our economy and to bring growth, we need to spend the same amount of time and effort in bringing back order in the social fabric of our society.

(Applause)

It is my humble belief that if we allow the continued slide in our values, the growth that we are now seeing in our economy, and sacrifice so much for, will be in vain. The 'Don' has become the role model; the Government has been seen as the wicked Government for trying to bring order to the Transport Sector. The gun has become the preferred tool for work, to get a youth, seems what most youths strive for, that a man does not consider himself a man if he doesn't have 'nuff baby mother all over the place.

Jamaicans spend approximately $1 Billion per annum on weaves, but wants their children to go to school free of cost.

Mr. Speaker, the absentee father has become the norm, children becoming parents is slowly becoming a culture in our society. Mr. Speaker, most of this breakdown in our morals and values start in the home. (Applause) The absence of the fathers from the homes have a negative impact on our youth. This is why most of our youth sometimes end up in crime, which impacts the stability of their outlook on life. Formal education alone cannot change a young man or a woman's values. Yes, it can help, but stability in the home has a greater impact.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I am making an urgent appeal to our Jamaican men, check yourself, look at what your selfish actions are doing to our society and our economy. Start building back our family life.

A Noted Sociologist, Dr. David Pepenoe is one of the pioneers of the relatively young field of research into fathers and fatherhood. According to him, "fathers are far more than just second adults in the home". Involved fathers bring positive benefits to their children that no other person is likely to bring.

Mr. Speaker, development cannot happen without the adherence to the rules of law and order, justice and the respect of the rights of every citizen. This is what a successful modern society is built on. Without these as the base of our development, we cannot consider ourselves a modern society.

Mr. Speaker, as this Government and the people of Jamaica work together for growth, development and a more gentle society, we have shown the resolve to do what is right. We have done it in the past; let us work together in achieving a better Jamaica for the future. (Applause)

I leave you with the words from the national Pledge:

"I promise to stand up for justice, brotherhood and peace, to work diligently and creatively, to think generously and honestly, so that Jamaica may, under God, increase in beauty, fellowship and prosperity in advancing the welfare of the whole human race."

Mr. Speaker, this is our duty. May God bless Jamaica and its people.

(Applause) (Standing Ovation)

(The Speaker Gavels)

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. ARSCOTT: Mr. Speaker, it is not proposed to do any further business today, and I ask that the House be adjourned until next Tuesday, the 27th of May.

CALL OF THE ROLL

(See Listing)

The Deputy Clerk laid on the Table of the House a copy of the following:

- Ministry Paper No. 100
  Amendments to Tax Regime to Allow for Retention of Benefits and/or Reduction of Taxes
- The National Library of Jamaica Annual Reports and Audited Financial Statements for the Financial Year 2008/2009 and 2009/2010

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance will deal with Item Withdrawal of the Capital Development Fund and also The Betting, Gaming and Lotteries (Amendment) Act, 2014.

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I wish to seek the leave of the House to withdraw the motion standing in my name at Item No. 4 under Government Business on the Order of Business related to the Capital Development Fund Withdrawal (No. 2) Order, 2014. The fact of the matter, Mr. Speaker, is that the matter on that particular Withdrawal Order is in fact to be - has been overtaken by other events, it still needs to be done but there are other withdrawals to come. So we will be bringing subsequently Withdrawal Order No. 3, which will include the matter on Withdrawal Order No. 2 plus some additional matters. So rather than having - it would be a tidier way to conduct the matter, Mr. Speaker, so I am seeking to have this Order withdrawn.

The SPEAKER: Is it the wish of the House that the Order be withdrawn?

Put to the House and agreed to.

Motion withdrawn.

(MR. LLOYD BARNES SMITH, (PNP), St. James, Central, Deputy Speaker, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. THE HON. KENNETH WYKEHAM MCNEILL, (PNP), Westmoreland, Western, Minister of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. LYNDALE GEORGE BLOOMFIELD, (PNP), Portland Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. EDMUND CURTIS BARTLETT, CD, (JLP), St. James, East Central, entered and took his seat)

(HON. DAMION ORANDY CRAWFORD, (PNP), St. Andrew, East Rural, Minister of State in the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. KARL GEORGE SAMUDA, CD, (JLP), St. Andrew, North Central, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, the question of the Ministry Paper 100/14 that was just tabled, I wonder if I could ask the Minister a question.

The SPEAKER: Yes.

Mr. SHAW: Minister, this Paper that was promised by you which sets out the details of the changes to the tax package, I just - the normal expectation on specific changes is that there is a direct indication as to the revenue loss, revenue gained and then that is usually summarized at the end of the measure. Now with the exception of page 5 where the additional stamp duty in relation to alcoholic beverages for the tourism industry, in which it has been mentioned that there is an estimated revenue loss of $200 Million, there is no other reference to revenue gains or loss. And, Mr. Speaker, the context is that I think the Parliament would want to get an explanation as to why, first of all, we don't have the traditional Statement in the first instance. And it becomes even more necessary because in his Statement to Parliament the Honourable Minister had said, "A more rigorous calculation of the revenue to be garnered from the alcohol measure which revealed that significantly more revenue would be received". So my question in regard to that specific issue on alcohol is, while I recognize that you are expecting a revenue loss of $200 Million, what is the net revenue - your original estimated figure was $844 Million - in view of your more rigorous analysis would the Minister be kind enough to tell us, having regard to the loss of the $200 Million and the original estimate of $844 Million and a more rigorous analysis, what is the new estimated revenue take from that particular line item?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, to answer his question specifically it will be revenue neutral. What - the calculations were that there was a measure that had been passed in relation to beer previously but which had not been implemented from 2010 I believe it was and which had not been taken into account in the calculation, so that in effect our estimate of what the actual impact would have been was two, as it turns out we would have been receiving more than $840 Million to the tune of about $200 Million?

(Sotto voce remarks by Opposition Member)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Yes, so we have reduced by $200 Million, so it remains neutral in terms of the impact. In terms of all the other areas the overall impact of this is neutral, but I will get the specific revenue impact on all of these, on each item and have it here.

The SPEAKER: Thank you, Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, the matter before us is the Bill entitled AN ACT to Amend The Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act 2014, which seeks to strengthen and improve the regulatory oversight of The Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Commission, BGLC and which seeks also to rectify gaps in the Act which arose from the 2010 amendments and correct anomalies and other typographical errors in the Act. And we expect also, Mr. Speaker, most importantly, that this will improve the ability of the BGLC to collect and manage its revenues. The Bill also seeks to make permanent the measures introduced in the Provisional Collection of Tax, Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Orders 2013 and 2014, which made provision for the introduction of sports betting for the specific treatment of unclaimed winnings and the reallocation of the gross profit tax contribution in respect of local and overseas horse racing from the bookmakers levy scheme, in order to maintain the viability of the Jamaica Racing Commission while contributing to persons breeding activities. The objective of the amendment is to provide the regulatory framework to ensure the integrity and probity of the games and key stakeholders within the betting, gaming and lotteries industry and to, as we said, to strengthen the regulatory oversight.

There is, Mr. Speaker, an increase, as I said, of revenue streams, which has already been undertaken through the provisional orders, but which we now seek to embed in legislation, which by virtue of the expansion of sports betting and lottery industries through the licensing of a variety of new outlets including provision for the licensing of mobile outlets; the introduction of fees for activities undertaken by the Commission in the gaming machine invigilation activities that they undertake and providing for specific licensing fees for certain persons operating in the industry.

Mr. Speaker, essentially this is tidying up legislation for what already is. The various - in the Act, provision is made in Clause 1, which sets out the Short Title and the construct and commencement date.

The Principal Act is amended in Clause 2 in the manner specified in the First Schedule. Section 8 of the Principal Act is amended by inserting - including the payment of fees whether periodically or otherwise during the term of such licence permit approval or authority. This will legitimize the charging of licensing fees for activities for which there are now no provisions in existence in the Legislation, which include the charging of fees for licenses where none currently exist.

(HON. EVON PATRICK CULLITON ATKINSON, QC, (PNP), Trelawny, Northern, Attorney General, entered and took his seat.)

This, Mr. Speaker, includes premises licenses and agents' licenses. The BGLA, Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act does not provide for the Commission to charge fees to issue these licences, the processing of which uses valuable resources and is intended to allow the Commission to prescribe fees for these provisions.

Section 44(4) of the Principal Act is amended to increase the levy on prescribed premises from 1,000 to 2,500 to the commission of taxes and 500 to $1,000 to the BGLC.

Section 44(g) enables the Commission to charge a prescribed fee for its involvement in decommissioning or recommissioning or facilitating the repairs of gaming machines.

Section 59(a) has been amended to increase the lottery tax, in the case of a declared lottery, from 23% to 25% of the gross weekly revenue from sales of tickets; in the case of the daily numbers games or instant lottery, from 17% to 20% of the gross weekly revenue derived.

As I said, Mr. Speaker, this formalizes arrangements which are already in effect.

(THE MOST HON. PORTIA LUCRETIA SIMPSON MILLER, ON, (PNP), St. Andrew, South Western, Prime Minister and Minister of Defence, entered and took her seat.)

Section 8 also provides for the licensing of lottery agents Betting, Gaming and Lottery Act provides such agents should be licensed, but there is no fee structure in place for application for such license fee, the amendment allows that such a fee should be prescribed by regulations.

(MR. RAYMOND FRANKLYN PRYCE, (PNP), St. Elizabeth, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

Section 49(b) provides for the licensing of lottery sales outlets. Although the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act was amended to provide for the licensing of agents, there's no requirement in the legislations for these premises to be licensed by the Commission. The Bill provides that these premises should be subject to license in the same manner as gaming machine premises are.

Section 46(5) provides for - the Act provides only for the court process of forfeiture of abandoned gaming machines as per section 46(a), 6(b) of the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act. In such cases the Commission can recover the cost up to a maximum of 1½ time the value of the gaming machine.

In reviewing the legislation, a gap was noted that there's no specific provision in the legislation which speaks to these charges being recovered outside of the procedure outlined in the section mentioned previously. Therefore, the amendment provides for the Commission to recover the cost of seizure operations.

Section 20(a) provides for the licensing of bookmakers, bet writers; and section 24(b) provides for the licensing of racing promoter terminal operators. Section 24(c) provides for the licensing of off-track betting parlour terminal operations.

Section 44(a) provides for the licensing of workers in gaming lounges. There's currently no requirement in the legislation for these persons to be licensed or to be determined fit and proper by the Commission. In accordance with international best practices, it is recommended that such persons should be licensed by the Commission, and the amendments provide for that.

Section 20(e) provides for the expansion of sports betting outlets. Sports betting sales in Jamaica are estimated to be in the order of $7 Billion. The Commissioner has previously advised that amendments to the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act would facilitate the expansion of outlets, which could sell sports bets and therefore tap into that market which would provide additional revenues and more so provide for the regulation of this significant set of activities.

Section 49(c) facilitates the mobile sale of lottery tickets. Illegal lottery operators are estimated to conduct transactions in the sum of approximately $1.5 Billion per year. These amendments facilitate the licensed lottery operator in implementing mobile gaming strategies to compete against the illegal operators, which would again, facilitate regularization of this section of the industry.

Section 46(b) implements a decision taken by Cabinet - as noted earlier - to amend the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act to allow grandfather gaming lounge licenses to increase the numbers of seats to 225. The required amendment is reflected in this legislation, Mr. Speaker.

Section 30(a) enables the Commission – Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Commission - to collect unclaimed bet winnings.

Section 44(a) provides for licensing fees paid on gaming machines which are set out in 44(a) to be increased, having regard to information on comparable country rates. All slot machines currently charged under the flat rate levy are to be moved to the gross profits tax regime applied to gaming lounges since these machines are capable of being audited. The amendments remove the specific amounts to be paid in licensing fees, allowing them to be prescribed by regulations. It is submitted that this approach would facilitate any future increases to levies and fees without the need to amend the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act, which is more involved - which is a more complicated process than the simple amendment of regulations.

Section 44(4) provides for an annual levy of $1,000 to be paid to the Collector of Taxes for gaming machines premises and a contribution of $500 to be paid to the Commission. The Bill provides for increases in the levy and contribution to $2,500 and $1,000 respectively.

Section 59(a) increases the lottery tax, as I've mentioned earlier, from 17% to 23% and 20% to 25% respectively.

Section 43(c) helps strengthens and improves the regulatory oversight of the Commission. The amendments provide for the licensing of technical service providers to cover the entire support services, ancillary to any betting, gaming and lottery activity. The gambling industry leverage, technology to a great extent and it is essential that the persons who provide service be of assured integrity and propriety.

There are some anomalies which are also corrected in this Act, Mr. Speaker, in these amendments:

- Section 21 provides a consequential amendment required to facilitate the licenses of bookmakers, bet writers.
- There's an amendment in 16(2) and 17(4) to facilitate the expansion of sports betting and lottery sales outlets.
- And section 46(b) regularizes the issuing of licenses in excess of 150 machines, thereby legitimizing the current grandfathering practice of the Commission.
- Consequential section 60 is the consequential amendment required to capture all the new offences captured under the Act.

Mr. Speaker, as I said, this Act regularizes the situation contained in previous orders of 2013 and 2014, and make some consequential amendments to enhance the regulatory powers of the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Commission for the more efficient ordering of the industry and I hereby move second reading of the Bill, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Minister has correctly noted that this is a rationalization and tidying up process from certain initiatives that we'd started in 2010. And there are some important features to that extent - in that event Mr. Speaker, there's not controversial in the sense that some of the initiatives that are being promulgated in this formal amendment will allow for a greater penetration of the formal business at the grassroot level. Because, I don't know if the Minister is aware that the level of illegal activities that attract, that are therefore beyond the tax net, those illegal activities, last time I was informed, runs - is estimated as high as between 30% and 40% .

A MEMBER: Yearly or quarterly?

Mr. SHAW: Closer perhaps to 40%. And that in fact, the value of that business is about $10 Billion; that's the value of the illegal operation.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. SHAW: Ten Billion Dollars yes, yes, absolutely.

Thirty to forty percent of the gaming industry today in Jamaica represents in volume, in money, sales of about $10 Billion. And whatever is the percentage of that, that would normally be for the government coffers, whether in by way of direct taxation, contribution to the CHASE Fund and other critical areas that are so vital for social services, this is revenue that is lost.

(MR. HUGH CARL BUCHANAN, (PNP), St. Elizabeth, South Western, entered and took his seat.)

And so, it was part of the original intention of seeking to find ways to allow the formal system to be able to compete more effectively and become more mobile to be able to compete at the grass route level so that, examples of this will now happen - sports betting the Minister has mentioned sports betting that sport betting can now involve going to an outlet to purchase a normal lotto ticket or a cash, whatever you call it, but at the same time with World Cup Football coming up for instance .you can bet on. Unfortunately, you cannot bet for the Reggae Boys, but you can bet on your favourite football team in a formal setting. And in this formal setting the revenue will be there to come to the Government.

Now I think that what we have to focus on, Mr. Speaker is that beyond this legislation, the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Commission will have to significantly sharpen its ability to encourage the formal process, and that even those who are now involved in illegal activities that they would be encouraged to come become part of the formal process. Legislation can only take us so far, it in the implementation that is where we are falling down in a lot of areas; we are falling down in the implementation in terms BGLC. In similar fashion we are falling down in implementation in other areas of taxation.

One newspaper report recently bawled, 'extortion is back Downtown', and if extortion is back Downtown it means that less taxes are being paid by way of GCT to the Government and more taxes are being paid to the underworld. More taxes are being paid to the underworld Honourable Minister and require more than divine intervention to deal with this problem.

So, Mr. Speaker I think that - I think that it is to our mutual concern that these levels of revenue leakages, whether it is in the form of gaming in whatever shape or form and 30 to 40 per cent is a horrendous figure because with that kind of - with that kind of velocity, if the BGLC does not step up its game then we could come here next year and be talking about 50 per cent of the industry been underground.

So I think that passing the legislation Minister is one thing, sitting down with the BGLC giving them the requisite resources, human technical and otherwise, to do the necessary work that will be critical and if that is not done, this kind of velocity 30 to 50 per cent is going to go to 50 per cent and 60 per cent and that will rob the Government of vital revenue that is needed in critical area of the economy.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to ask the Minister as I take my seat, if he would embrace the opportunity to bring this Honourable House up to date on precisely what is happening with the Casino Gaming Sector because we all know that a decision was made to grant casino licences on a limited basis. I had made certain changes as Minister where we made the ability to establish gaming lounges that was somewhat, freed up and as a result I think a number of additional gaming lounges has been established within a formal system so that revenue would be earned.

But what is the status of the granting licences of casino within the context of the grant integrated resort development programme. And that would include the much talked about Harmony Cove, you have heard about celebration, there are other names that would have been called. I think that we have been talking about casino between two Governments for quite a long time and we, during my administration as finance Minister, we actually promulgated the law, and now it is a question of the operation and the granting of the licence and the investment in the actual facilities in terms of implemental rooms for the industry. So perhaps you could bring us up to date as to what is happening there.

Thank you very much Mr. Speaker.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, let me thank the Opposition Spokesman on Finance; I think that we all recognize the urgency of bringing this tremendous scale of transactions which exists outside of the formal legitimate sector within the ambit of the regulator namely, the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Commission is important. Because to the extent that you have billions of dollars - Seven, Eight, Nine, Ten Billion Dollars existing in this grey area, then there is the risk that it goes into, shall we say illegal parts and weaken the fabric of law and order in the society as well as deny the revenues resources that should be in the revenue.

I should point out that this Bill itself strengthen the regulatory capacity by making it, by making a wide range of activities which now take place without any regulation falls within the regulatory provisions of the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Commission which will assist oversight by ensuring that there are fit and proper persons operating in the sector. But beyond that, it also provides some revenues to the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Commission, which will be used to do the very things that the Opposition Spokesman is talking about, that is to say, strengthen their oversight, strengthen their technological resources, strengthen their legal department and their administrative capabilities generally, so that is provided for here.

Specifically, in relation to the Casino Bill, where we are now is that there have been a number of applications received. They are being reviewed by a consultant which was appointed on the basis of a competitive tender which will report back to the public enterprise division of the Ministry of Finance at which point some decisions will have to be taken by the Cabinet on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance. As soon as - that consultant report has not yet been received - when it is received and the requisite, the attendant legal advice from the Attorney General's Chambers regarding validity of the applications that have been received then decisions will be taken and a Report made to the House at that point in time. But suffice it to say that we are actively pursuing the whole integrated resort development as an important part of the overall tourism product of the country, and an important means of securing additional investment to strengthen our growth momentum and indeed to broaden the product appeal of the tourism industry as a whole. And I am sure as soon as I sit down and the Minister of Tourism and entertainment speaks, you will get even a fuller sense of how that industry is evolving and the exciting things that are happening there.

Mr. Speaker, I move second reading of the Bill.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Bill be read a second time.

Motion put to the House and agreed to.

AN Act to Amend the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act

read a second time.

The SPEAKER: The House will now resolve itself into a Committee of the whole House to consider the Bill clause by clause.

COMMITTEE STAGE

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Chairman, at the appropriate point I will, in this First Schedule I have some amendments to propose Mr. Speaker, to correct some typographical.

The CHAIRMAN: Okay.

Clauses 1, 2, 3 and 4 put to the Committee and agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN: I put the First Schedule...

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Chairman, at Section 43(a) page 11 where it has Section 43(a) and it reads 'delete the section', it should read instead 'delete subsections 27(7) and (8) - delete subsections (1) (2) (7) and (8)'

The CHAIRMAN: That is the first amendment.

Dr. PHILLIPS: First amendment. And, on Page 12, oh and secondly. Renumber subsections (3), (4) and (6) as subsections (1), (2), (3) and (4)

The CHAIRMAN: Okay, 43(c).

Dr. PHILLIPS: 43(c). In subsection (5) delete the numerals 43(a) (3), (4) and (5) and (6) and substitute therefore the numeral 43 (a) (1), (2), (3) and (4).

The CHAIRMAN: Okay, for the First Schedule.

The amendments as outlined in 43 (a) and 43(c) put to the Committee and agreed to.

The First Schedule as amended put to the Committee and agreed to.

The Second Schedule put to the Committee and agreed to.

The Title and the Enacting Clause put to the Committee and agreed to.

The question is that I do report the Bill as having passed Committee Stage with two (2) amendments.

Motion put to the Committee and agreed to.

RESUMPTION

The SPEAKER: The question is I do report the Bill as having passed Committee Stage with two (2) amendments.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I move for the third reading of the Bill.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Bill be read a third time.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Bill entitled:

"AN ACT to Amend the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act",

read a third time and passed.

Thank you, Minister.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move for the recommittal of item, Notices of Motions Given Orally.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the recommittal of item, Notices of Motions Given Orally.

Put to the House and agreed to.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY
(Recommitted)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the Minister of Tourism and Entertainment I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House, I will move to introduce and have read a first time a Bill shortly entitled, "The Timeshare Vacation Act, 2014"

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we're back at Public Business and this afternoon we have two Members who will be contributing to the Sectoral Debates: the Minister of Tourism and Entertainment will be the first followed by the Member of Parliament, the Member from North East St. Andrew in that order.

The SPEAKER: Minister McNeill.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

SECTORAL DEBATE

Dr. McNEILL: Mr. Speaker, it's a great privilege to be elected as a representative of the people. I therefore begin by thanking God for blessing me with the health and strength to fulfill the role.

(Applause)

The PRIME MINISTER: Hear, hear!

Dr. McNEILL: It is an additional privilege to serve in the capacity of Minister of Tourism and Entertainment and I would like to place on record my thanks to the Most Honourable Prime Minister for placing her confidence in me as a Minister of her Government. (Applause)

I also thank you, Mr. Speaker, the Clerk and the committed staff of this Honourable House for the valuable role that you play in so ably steering our nation's parliamentary affairs.

I also want to thank my immediate family who are here with me today, (Applause) my dear wife, Sheila, who tolerates the hours that politics gives; (Applause) our children, Jordan is here with me today. Ashley is away in China; my mother who has been at every presentation over the last seventeen years (Applause) and my two sisters: Fiona is not here today, but my sister [Anthea] is here, so.

(Applause) Mr. Speaker, I want to thank them for being the wind beneath my wings over the years. I also to thank my personal staff: Janice Allen, Pollyanna Brown, my driver, the security and the staff of the office for the tremendous job that they're doing. Also want to thank my colleague Ministers, especially those whose work immediately impact on tourism. I notice Tony looking at me. Permit me also to say thanks to my colleague MPs. We all work together in the best interest of Jamaica, even if we view things from different perspectives. And I pay respect to the Member opposite with responsibility for tourism, Mrs. Shahine Robinson, and thank her for her conscientious engagement with the task that has been assigned her.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the sector has been experiencing success, this is due in no small part to the diligent work of our tourism industry partners and the industrious efforts of the team I have the pleasure of leading. In this regard I want to extend my thanks and sincere appreciation to my Minister of State, Damion Crawford, who has approached - (Applause) Damion has approached his responsibilities as a former Member of Parliament said, with vim, vigour and vitality.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, I wish to express my sincere gratitude to my Permanent Secretary, Mrs. Jennifer Griffith (Applause) and to the entire team at the Ministry of Tourism, including the chairpersons of the respective agencies, their Board members and the executive directors.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, you may be aware that the Director of Tourism, Mr. John Lynch, will demit office at the end of May after five and a half years in that capacity. On behalf of the Ministry, its agencies and the industry as a whole I take this opportunity to extend; our appreciation to him for his exceptional service throughout the years at the helm of the Jamaica Tourist Board. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, he has served the organization well and has made a sterling contribution to the development of the tourism sector and brand Jamaica overall. We wish him success in his future endeavours. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want to specially thank the President of the Jamaica Hotel and Tourist Association, Mrs. Evelyn Smith who is here with us today and her hard working executive for the cooperation and support that they have provided over the years, and I see a number of them here in the [audience].

I also want to thank and I see present the President of the Jamaica Manufacturers' Association who has also been working assiduously with us on our programmes. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, finally and dear to my heart a special thank you to my constituency, Western Westmoreland, Mayor Bertel Moore, the Councillors, my management team. I am most grateful for their loyal support over the years. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, before I go into my responsibilities I want to just mention a couple things about the constituency. I'd just like to say, Mr. Speaker, like everyone in here that works in each and every one of our constituencies and this year there are a number of projects that we're going to be continuing work on. And I just want to make mention of the mini stadium in Negril - sports stadium, the fishing village, the Grange Hill Library, which we opened last month, and the contribution of a son of Grange Hill, Dennis Hawthorne, who contributed to that as well for the assistance he gave. I also want to thank the Minister with Responsibility for Water. We have a water project going on in Orange Hill, which is really going to benefit that community. (Applause)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Hear, hear!

Dr. McNEILL: Oh, I see he has come. I also want to thank, Mr. Speaker, the Sugar Transformation Unit for the $26 Million that will be put into the water supply in Bath Mountain, work to commence this year. And although the Minister from Central Westmoreland is not here; the contract for the Grange Hill to Sav-la-Mar road has now been completed and that will be of great benefit to us.

Mr. Speaker, like most of the MPs here, a main part of the work in the constituency has to do with education and that goes on well and it has shown great results. As a matter of fact, this Friday is the Literacy Finals at the Negril Golf Club. The last thing I want to mention, Mr. Speaker, is an interesting initiative. Some time ago I was walking in Sheffield and a group of about six women walked up to me and said they were the Sheffield farmers and it was a group of mostly women - a group of women farmers. We have gone into partnership with them looking at the linkages and we made a contribution to them last year and they went into Sahara lettuce, cherry tomatoes and squash and they're now supplying the hotel sector with those and have been very successful, so much so that this year they'll be entering in Denbigh where they're taking their things and I think it's a good example for all MPs to look how they can do their linkages with the tourism sector. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I'm now going to move on to the portfolio responsibilities of which I lead. Mr. Speaker, Jamaica has been blessed with spectacular beauty, hospitable people, and a vibrant culture. These together have combined to help us create a successful tourism industry. Today the industry plays a crucial role in our economic and social development providing employment to some 33,000 persons in the accommodation sector and thousands more indirectly. Jamaica has long been recognized as a leader regionally and worldwide. Once again, our international stature has been acknowledged with our election to the chair of the prestigious Executive Council of the United Nations World Tourism Organization. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, I will assume the Chair effective September of this year. (Applause)

The Executive Council is comprised of ministers of tourism from thirty-two member states from all the continents in the world. This is a significant development for Jamaica and represents a first for the Caribbean, another example, Mr. Speaker, of Jamaica punching above our weight in a highly competitive arena. (Applause) We will, therefore, be influencing the strategic activities of the UN WTO and helping to shape policies that will impact the world's tourism industry.

Mr. Speaker, tourism has consistently been the largest earner of foreign exchange in our economy. Its contribution to the combined value of all the goods and services produced in our country each year is significant. The most recent tourism economic impact study completed last year concluded that, taken together, the direct, indirect and induced contributions of tourism to Jamaica's GDP in 2010, was 11.7 per cent. All of this paints a picture of a robust Tourism .Industry in Jamaica, one that delivers significant economic value for us. So I am pleased to say, Mr. Speaker that the sector continues to perform well for us. (Applause)

(HON. DERRICK FLAVIUS KELLIER, (PNP), St. James, Southern, Minister of Labour and Social Security, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. LUTHER BARTLEY MONTEITH BUCHANAN, (PNP), Westmoreland, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Office of the Prime Minister, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, last year was a landmark as we welcomed a record 2 million stopover visitors. (Applause) As a performer in this highly competitive industry, we have continued to attract both substantial local and foreign investment. Mr. Speaker, we have remained aggressive in developing new markets, from which we have attracted greater airlifts to Jamaica. We have also re-invigorated our marketing efforts in our traditional markets, and prospects for the year ahead are good.

(DR. HORACE ANTHONY CHANG, (JLP), St. James, North Western, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. KENNETH O'NEILL BAUGH, (JLP), St. Catherine, West Central, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. LISA RENÉ SHANTI HANNA, (PNP), St. Ann, South Eastern, Minister of Youth and Culture, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. Speaker, in terms of performance, we have just ended the winter tourist season in a growth position. Preliminary figures show an increase of about 10,000 new visitors over the same period last year. In addition, and more importantly, Mr. Speaker, we are seeing a number of positive industry trends occurring now in the industry. First, over the last year, our occupancy rates have increased significantly, in all categories of properties. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Dr. McNEILL: Mr. Speaker, over 2013 over 2012 (sic) the occupancy rates in all categories went up by 9.1 per cent. This is influenced by a number of factors, including:

- we are getting longer stays from the stopover visitors, in particular the European market;
- more Jamaicans are vacationing at home as the industry is more aggressively courting the domestic market.

Mr. Speaker, this increase in our occupancy rate answers the question of why it is so difficult at times to get rooms in Jamaica. A lot of times persons go and want to get rooms - there is a difficulty in getting rooms. As a matter of fact, just the other day, there was a reality show that wanted to do something in Jamaica and wanted to move between two of our resorts and they were having difficulty accessing the rooms necessary to be able to do it.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, the second trend, Mr. Speaker, is another very encouraging development, in that concurrent with these increased occupancies, room rates are up. As a matter of fact, our largest tour operator in Jamaica has confirmed that our average daily rate is up somewhere between 13 and 15 per cent. (Applause)

The third trend, Mr. Speaker, is something that has been happening over a number of years and it's very positive trend for us. Mr. Speaker, last year, we had very strong growth in the summer season. The growth about 3.6 per cent and it has continued into this winter where we have had growth of 2 per cent over the winter season. Mr. Speaker, part of this strong growth in summer is leading us to become a year down destination and, Mr. Speaker, we are poised for continued growth again this summer. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, while we still depend on the winter season, the truth of the matter is that the summers are getting stronger. The truth of the matter is last year's winter was down a bit. We had a decline in the winter and it was the strong growth out of the summer that allowed us to end the year with positive growth. Now, Mr. Speaker, what I want to emphasize is that while the winter remains the period of highest occupancies and the best rates, it is the growth in summer arrivals that is ensuring we have a stronger year-round performance.

We are not having those wild swings. The figures illustrate what I mean. For the winter of 2013, visitors' arrivals averaged 178,000 visitors per month, while for the summer they averaged 162,000 arrivals for the month, a far cry from the extremes of peaks and valleys of the past.

Mr. Speaker, historically, back when the industry first started, what used to happen was that a hotel would open for the winter season; it opens in December and it would close in March, April, May going into the summer season. What has happened is that we went into a situation where we went from having the summer - they would open in the summer but we had rotations. What we are looking to do now, is to drive the summer so that it can come on par with the winters.

Jamaica has been transformed into a year-round destination, taking the place of what was traditionally a very seasonal industry. This transformation will create increased job opportunities and greater job security for our workers. Mr. Speaker, we will continue our push to build a year-round sector through strategic marketing efforts and diversification.

Mr. Speaker, I now want to turn to our source markets and the airlift. Mr. Speaker, the US, Canada and the UK - Europe, continue to be our main source markets. Over 80 per cent of our stopover arrivals come from continental North America. We get 12 per cent of our stopover arrivals from UK/ Europe. This is why we continue to aggressively diversify into new markets. Those two markets alone contribute 92 per cent of the markets that we have. So, Mr. Speaker, it is incumbent on us to ensure that we are successful in these three markets because, as Tessanne Chin would say, those are our bread and butter markets.

Mr. Speaker, an important part of that is our airlift. Mr. Speaker, this year we have been very successful in increasing airlift to Jamaica, and had enough seats to ensure growth. During the summer of this year, we have approximately two million seats out of our main markets: 1.4 Million out of the US, an increase of 11 per cent; 260,000 out of Canada, a 21.6 per cent increase; and, 165,000 out of the UK/Europe, up about 10 per cent. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in terms of our source markets, the US still remains our main market, and over the past few years, although we have had growths out of the US, we believe that we can do better, and we will be paying particular attention to this market. The good news, Mr. Speaker, is that South West Airlines, the largest domestic US carrier, with connections to most cities in America, will be operating flights into Sangster International Airport on July 1st, replacing its subsidiary, Air Tran. This will bring exiting new opportunities for penetrating the US markets even further. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I think it is important just to point out something with this. South West is the - Air Tran is a subsidiary of South West, but Air Tran has the largest domestic airline, goes into every nook and cranny of the United States - into every town. So now, moving from Air Tran to Southwest, it puts us into all those small cities across the United States and allows us to come in, and allows us to now go and widen the markets to which we go. Most people think American Airlines is the biggest, but they have the international, but in terms of domestic carriers, it is South West. Interestingly, what happened was that one of the routes that we have been working with them on is out of Houston. And interestingly, South West had spoken to us, and I wrote a letter to the Mayor of Houston, trying to push for them to be able to fly the international flights out of the airport in the Houston. And part of this is the relationships that have been developing. And this is going to be a very important step, and one that puts Jamaica in a good position, moving forward in the United States.

In terms of Canada, Mr. Speaker, this is our second largest source market and we are again poised for growth out of this market.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Important word - growth.

Mr. McNEILL: Mr. Speaker, last year in the winter season, the failure of Thomas Cooke, a major tour operator, precipitated a decline in Canadian arrivals for the entire region. We, in Jamaica, lost over 40,000 seats and our winter arrivals out of Canada were down 12.3 per cent. However, in the summer of last year, we were able to recoup and received additional airlift from our partners at Air Canada who were transiting to Rouge, the new vacation airline, Sun Wing and West Jet. And with the assistance of them, we had an excellent summer which wiped out the decline. We were, therefore, able to end the year, a mere one per cent down over 2012. For the early part of this year, Mr. Speaker, we are up nearly five per cent over last year, and are once again showing growth out of the Canadian market. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I just want to say something. Again, partnerships are so important. Air Canada (Rouge), the relationship that has developed is very important, and the first flight that Rouge took... international ...their inaugural flight, was to Jamaica on Canada Day. It is a significant move on their part, and shows a vote of confidence in Jamaica.

The second thing that's interesting is that Sun Wing, another important partner out of Canada, is now a major investor in our hotel sector and as part of Jamaica, so, therefore, they have a vested interest in ensuring that the Jamaican market grows. So, Mr. Speaker, we are very pleased with how we are moving in the Canadian market. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the last main market is the UK - UK/Europe.

(MISS JOYCE DENISE DALEY, (PNP), St. Catherine, Eastern, arrived and took her seat.)

Mr. Speaker, we began to experience resurgence out of the UK last year, after four years of decline. Increased demand to Jamaica has driven a 70 per cent increase in airlift out of this market in the last two years. Mr. Speaker, we are pleased to say that with a more equitable method, of calculating the UK's air passenger duty, the APD, we are confident that this will give more momentum to the market. As Members of the House know, there were four Bands, and we were in the Band C. The third Band, our main competitors, like the US, were in Band B. So, what happens is that the Caribbean paid a higher rate than, say, North America. What has happened now in putting us all in the second Band, it will decrease the amount that is in the Band, but also makes us more competitive along with the United States. So, it was an important move.

But, Mr. Speaker, there were a lot of discussions before about whether or not – what we were doing and how the promotions went in the UK during the Olympics two years ago. Mr. Speaker, after the Olympics in 2012, we came back and I spoke about the fact that Virgin Airways had indicated to us that they fell out of it - a thing they called the boat bounce. Mr. Speaker, after four years of decline out of the UK market, last year we had growth of 4.7 per cent. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, for the first two months of this year where we have our final figures, we are up 9.2 per cent which shows that we are returning to growth in this market.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Bartlett)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Ed, you a let down the team, you nuh.

Dr. McNEILL: Again, Mr. Speaker - I would say to the Member, your deputy is... (Laughs) I would say to you... Mr. Speaker, one of the important things is the relationship that I spoke about, that we are now developing. Mr. Speaker, the largest tour operator in Europe is TUI - TUI travel, and they have moved their flights from two to three, to four, five... next year they are going to move it to six. They are showing confidence. They are investing in Jamaica.

And not only are they investing in Jamaica, but when the Sensatori Hotel was opened last month, they brought down the Chairman and the entire Board of Directors of TUI, to the opening here in Jamaica. And we were told by the Managing Director that this was almost an unprecedented move. And again, Mr. Speaker, I think all of us in this House, we will quarrel about some of positives and negatives because everyone would like to claim different things, but I will say this: as Jamaicans, we must be proud of what we are achieving, and the confidence that the people in the world are having with us currently.

Mr. Speaker, Europe is also performing well, having faced the worst economic challenges in recent years. Countries like Spain and others, have had real trouble, we have been fighting back in those markets. Munich became the latest German gateway to Jamaica, beginning in November 2013, and will be important gateways for potential visitors from the south of Germany, German-speaking Europe and eastern Europe.

One of the things that we were feeling very good about, Mr. Speaker, was the Russian market, Mr. Speaker, the Russian market was a major breakthrough for Jamaica. Since it started in January of 2013, January last year, it has delivered nearly 14,500 visitors with over 12,000 last year alone, a more than 600 per cent increase over previous years. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, so successful was the new service that the tour operator had applied to provide schedule service. However, current events in the Ukraine have given pause to those plans. We have continued to have dialogue with the operators and are hopeful that the situation can be resolved, and that we will see a return to service from this important source market.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation?

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficiently for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

(Applause)

Dr. McNEILL: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I thank my colleagues.

Mr. Speaker an initiative that we are very pleased with in the Ministry is the Scandinavian Initiative.

Mr. Speaker, direct flights to Montego Bay out of Stockholm, Sweden began in winter of 2013. That's last year. We started getting two flights, one from Thomas Cook, and one from TUI. So we had two separate companies coming in, they both started at the same time. This has been of particular significance because, Mr. Speaker, it's a 14 day rotation, therefore, persons who come on those flights come and spend two weeks in Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, this year we will see the addition in November of two gateways, Helsinki and Copenhagen and due to this, we confidently expect growth from this important Scandinavian market.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, as I indicated before, in pulling it all together, the outlook from our main markets, Latin American, continues to produce. We are confident that with the projections in all of our markets, that tourism is in good stead and this year we are going to have a productive year going forward for tourism. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, I now turn to cruise tourism.

Mr. Speaker, cruise passenger arrivals to Jamaica is projected to increase to a record 1.4 million passengers for this calendar year. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the first four months of this year have shown an increase of 3.6 per cent representing an impressive recovery from a decline of 4.2 per cent last year.

Mr. Speaker, we expect cruise arrivals to continue to escalate with the arrival of the largest of Disney's ship, the Fantasy. This, in addition to the MSC Divina, will be calling throughout the summer.

Mr. Speaker, there is something else that is very interesting that's going to happen also at the end of this year. Mr. Speaker, we are going to have three cruise ships which will be home porting in Montego Bay. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, they are the Louis Crystal, the Aida Bella and the Thomson Dream. Mr. Speaker, while home porting there, the Thomson Dream will also call on the port of Falmouth on the final night of each cruise ship. I know the Member from North Trelawny will be happy with that, allowing Jamaica to get two calls from this cruise ship.

Mr. Speaker, home porting will create more opportunities for local businesses as these ships will require produce as well as goods and services which can be provided locally. Also, Mr. Speaker, the visitors will need to fly into the airport at Montego Bay and this will generate more airlift and it will also need them passing through the airport A which provides economies of them passing through the airport.

Mr. Speaker, in terms of the airlift in the case of the Thomson Dream, TUI and Thomson are going to be adding an additional four flights out of the UK to service this ship alone. So we are going to get four flights a week to service the ship. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to mention also the other great possibility is the opportunity for sale and stay, as historically, passengers coming this distance for a cruise, up to 30 per cent of them stay for a stopover vacation in the home port country. So, Mr.

Speaker, this year will be a very good year for cruise arrivals.

Mr. Speaker, I want to turn to the visitor experience and mention a few things with it. The first thing I would mention, Mr. Speaker, has to do with our airports.

Mr. Speaker, our airports are an enduring impression of Jamaica, and we must ensure that the experience is as pleasant and positive as possible. This applies equally to our own people. We have to use the airport; we want the best airport possible.

Mr. Speaker, on assuming office, one of the first things that we did as a Government, along with the Minister of National Security, and I want to place on record my Ministry's thanks to the Minister of National Security for the work he has done with us both in the airports and the visa programme, and other - (Applause) I really want to put it on record.

Mr. Speaker, we established a committee charged with developing strategies to improve efficiency, reducing waiting time and ensure that the experience is as memorable as possible, from all the relevant agencies to improve efficiency and the visitor experience at our airports.

Mr. Speaker, the Members of this committee come from PICA the Passport and Immigration, JHTA, Civil Aviation and from our Ministry, and they have done a lot of work. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased with the success that they have had to date. We have been able to do away with the outgoing immigration checks which has been an important part, and that has decreased the time that it takes for all to go through. (Applause)

I am pleased to advise that the improvements have received international recognition, and I think the Minister who has responsibility for it should be commended.

Recently Montego Bay Sangster International Airport was recognized for improvements at the facility and received the first place award in passenger processing from the Airports Council International. (Applause)

Sangster International Airport was also placed among the top five airports in airport service quality, for the last five years. This achievement earned it a place on the Director General's roll of Excellence of the Airport Council International for 2014. (Applause)

But, Mr. Speaker, we recognize that there is far more work to be done. We want our airport to be the best in the world, and the issue that we have to deal with now, Mr. Speaker is how we are going to decrease the processing time for incoming immigration, especially because we expect a lot of visitors and Jamaicans to be travelling through our ports. Hence, Mr. Speaker, the Tourist Enhancement Fund has committed an additional $200 Million over the next five years to facilitate the introduction of new technology and to reengineer the operations at immigrations?

Work is also ongoing to simplify the customs and immigration forms. The Minister is dealing with that personally, and this process will soon be completed.

Mr. Speaker, Jamaica is among the countries which are leading the charge in enhancing visitor experience and efficiency at the airports. Just last week we saw the announcement that the United States will be taking similar steps in setting up a similar committee. So we are very proud of where we are going, but Mr. Speaker, an important part of the work we are doing, a lot of the work that we do in the airport has to be dealt with through technology, we have to get in place things like kiosk and automatic things, and we are going to be working over the next few years to put those things in place to ensure that the time spent in the airport is as little as possible and as pleasant as possible.

Mr. Speaker, the second issue I want to just mention quickly is visa facilitation. Mr. Speaker, it's not really seen often as a big thing but it's very important. Mr. Speaker, it improves your competitiveness. If somebody is travelling to a country on a vacation and they have to get a visa, it is one of the issues that hampers it.

So over the years, our experience has demonstrated that, in order to increase our visitor arrivals, and improve our competitiveness, we must ensure easier access to our country. To date, Mr. Speaker, visa requirements have been relaxed from nationals from some 30 countries.

As a result, Mr. Speaker, we have seen increased arrivals from a number of Latin American markets. A good example out of Europe was the strong response we saw with Russia.

Mr. Speaker, we anticipate that having adjusted the visa requirements for China, which have now been gazetted so that Chinese coming to Jamaica for under 30 days for purposes of vacation do not need a visa, we believe that this is the first step in us going into this very important market. I just want to say though, Mr. Speaker, that China is very far, it's going to be difficult for us to go into that market, there is a lot of work to be done with JTB, JAMVAC, the private sector but I think that we are all committed to moving together to deal and to ensure that we have a place in this market, which is the world's leading source of outbound travellers for recreational purposes. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want to now touch on something which is not usually dealt with often but it's something that we really have to look at.

Mr. Speaker, probably the most important, I think, policy that we would like to see in tourism - the Ministry of Tourism, is for us to create an inclusive industry where persons can really benefit from tourism.

Mr. Speaker, countries compete aggressively to attract visitors, as it is anticipated that with the arrival of visitors there should be significant economic benefit for the local economy.

However, there is still an outcry by the communities surrounding resort areas, that they are not seeing the benefits. Mr. Speaker, we have to ask why. There are a number of reasons, but I believe that two are critical.

First, there is the physical environment, and the second has to do with the experience that the visitor has while he is here. Product development improvements across the island aim at enhancing the physical environment. And a lot of the work that we are doing now is to make our infrastructure that much better.

But, Mr. Speaker, the feedback from our visitors and partners is that there is too much harassment. If our visitors don't feel free to move around unharassed, to enjoy the Jamaican ambiance freely, as they want, then very soon there will be a decline in business and arrivals at our ports.

However, all evidence indicates that control of harassment will lead to an increase in arrivals and business. Often when we speak of tackling harassment it is sold as a fight against the average man, but, Mr. Speaker, it is actually a fight for the small man. There will be more business, and it will spread much further, as people feel more comfortable moving around freely, to venture into the various communities.

Complaints about harassment are widespread, from both the cruise ship and stopover visitors. Hoteliers and business people at all levels throughout the resort communities have complained about the problem.

Mr. Speaker, interestingly, myself and Minister of State, went to Ocho Rios to tour the Craft Market. And when we got there, interestingly, in sitting down with the Executive of the Craft Market, we thought they were going to speak about the marketing or the infrastructure work. The first thing that they spoke to us about was what could be done to decrease harassment on the streets of Ocho Rios. Mr. Speaker, it is something that we have to deal with.

Mr. Speaker, the question must be asked again, why do more of our visitors not venture out of hotels or off the ships? Mr. Speaker, we have to control harassment in Jamaica if we are to realize the true potential of tourism, in terms of consistently increasing our visitor arrivals and the benefits to Jamaicans. We want the visitors to not only come on the ships, but to come off the ships and walk around and experience Jamaica. We want the visitors who come to our hotels to come out of the hotels and visit our restaurants and attractions and walk around and go into the communities.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Government will lead a collaborative effort drawing on past experiences and best practices. This will entail government ministries and agencies, law enforcement, the Judiciary, community organizations, tourism stakeholders, private and public sector interests. This effort will introduce and enforce measures to curtail and ultimately eradicate this problem.

Mr. Speaker, an important part of the programme will be a public relations campaign and training. Mr. Speaker, again, we want our visitors to come and really enjoy Jamaica. We have found that when we do our surveys, those visitors that get out and go into the communities and meet with Jamaicans, when they come back that they really have a good experience, they are the ones that give you the best ratings.

And, Mr. Speaker, I remember I was told one of the writers that came to Calabash a few years ago at one of the symposia said that when they come, he realizes what they mean that visitors come to Jamaica for the beach, but they return for the warmth. We need to get people to get a chance to feel the warmth of the Jamaican people. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I now want to turn to a very topical issue. Mr. Speaker, an equally important issue is the matter of ensuring the safety of locals and visitors who seek to enjoy our beautiful beaches. The Ministry has been actively engaged in the oversight of the water sports activities in Jamaica. The Ministry intends to table the Water Sports Policy as a Green Paper, shortly. It will address and provide the framework for the management of all water sports in Jamaica.

However, Mr. Speaker, a major part of that policy concerns motorized water sports, and within that, personal water sports, also known as "jet skis".

Mr. Speaker, the management of personal water craft has received very deliberate attention in recent times, and the policy will treat with these and other concerns.

Mr. Speaker, measures to address safety concerns regarding the use of these jet skis have been put in place. They include the total suspension of all PWC operations islandwide, and also, a ban has been placed on the importation of any jet skis into the island.

Mr. Speaker, these measures were applied as a result of three accidents involving PWCs, between August of last year and January of this year. Consequently, a Personal Water Craft, a Jet Ski Task Force was established, and it has been actively engaged in determining the parameters on which these PWCs will be able to operate. The Task Force is being guided by the Maritime Authority of Jamaica and TPDCo. with enforcement by the Maritime Police Division.

Mr. Speaker, clear rules and regulations have been recommended and established for the operations of PWCs, both commercially and privately. These include but are not limited to the following:

1) Personal water craft must have the appropriate decals affixed or be liable for seizure by authorities.

All water craft that are on the water are now going to have to first be licensed and will have a decal. If it is not licensed - just like a motor vehicle, you have your licence and registration, if you do not have that, the jet ski will be seized.

2) All operators of commercial water craft must receive training in the operation of the vessel.
3) Personal water craft should enter and leave the shore using a designated launch area at a slow speed of 3 knots.

They talk about what they call "no wake" zone; in other words, you are moving slow enough that you don't create a wake behind you. And you have to do that entering and leaving the areas.

Mr. CHARLES: You going have Mr. Lewis in the sea? Superintendent Lewis going police them?

Dr. McNEILL:

4) The occupants of the PWCs must operate at least 200 meters from the shore. And
5) Commercial operators must meet all requirements for licensing, including insurance, in order to be eligible for a JTB Water Sports Licence.

Mr. Speaker, advertisements were recently placed in the media to advise all owners of personal water craft, who are desirous of becoming eligible for a licence to operate their water craft commercially, that they would have to have those water craft registered with the Maritime Authority by May 21, 2014. Ads were put in the paper, because we wanted to ensure that all jet skis were licensed. And anyone who licensed after the 21st, it means that they can still licensed but they will not be eligible for consideration as a commercial operation. We did this because we wanted to be sure what we were dealing with.

And, I would just say to you, Mr. Speaker that I have gotten the report as of this morning, that up to that point less than 100 jet skis are registered in Jamaica. So all those numbers we were hearing about were probably - were greatly exaggerated. We have less than 100 jet skis registered in Jamaica.

While it must be emphasized, Mr. Speaker, that registration does not guarantee that a licence will be granted, owners must have registered by that date.

Mr. Speaker, with these procedures now in place, the Task Force has recommended that the operators at the UDC beach in Ocho Rios Bay are ready for reopening for commercial PWC activity. And we are going to do it as a test. We have met with them, sat and talked to them - I think it is a total of 13 jet skis - the Member of Parliament and Opposition Spokesperson were there. And one of the reasons why, was that we made all these regulations, they have to license, they have to do the training, they have to get insurance, they have to work as a Co-op, they have to have rescue boats. And what happened is that Ocho Rios did all the things that were required, so now the Task Force has decided to let them go - I think it's 13 jet skis. And as such, they will be able to resume operations on Monday, June 2. Just to point out that they are the only ones that have satisfied all the requirements to this point, and the rest - everywhere else remains suspended.

Mr. Speaker, the Marine Police has indicated that they are sufficiently resourced with vessels and personnel to ably enforce regulations in the Bay, upon resumption of commercial activities. If the Ocho Rios Bay commercial PWC operations are successful, they will provide a template for guiding commercial operations in other resort areas. The Task Force is now looking at the other areas and the operation of jet skis, including personal jet skis that are not commercial; they are looking at those now.

Mr. Speaker, the ban on the importation of jet skis will remain in place until further notice.

Mr. Speaker, the issue of jet skis has now been brought under control, and we are now moving to try and put it out in a regulated manner. And I will just make the point that we are not going to return to where we were before, with this sort of unregulated, unacceptable practices that we had before. We are going to ensure that this is a disciplined industry.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I now want to turn to something I spoke about last year, which has to do with linkages. And, Mr. Speaker, when we took office, we indicated that one of our priority policies was to broaden and deepen the linkages between tourism and the other sectors.

Arising from this and the recognition of the potential of the sector to generate more business locally, the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment, established a Tourism Linkages Hub.

And, Mr. Speaker, the objective of that Hub is to strengthen commercial operations between the owners and operators of facilities within the hospitality industry and those within the productive sectors, especially in the areas of agriculture, manufacturing and entertainment.

Mr. Speaker, buyer-seller meetings, expos and other events are among the strategies used by the Linkages Hub to stimulate the distribution of manufactured goods and agricultural produce. So far, several agro-tourism farmers' markets have been staged in Negril and Montego Bay, in close collaboration with the Rural Agricultural Development Agency (RADA), and the JHTA, and other key stakeholders.

And I really want to commend the Minister of Agriculture, Roger Clarke, for the support, and his entire team at the Ministry of Agriculture.

Mr. Speaker, while this initiative is still in its embryonic stages, I am pleased to inform that there have been several positive outcomes, including new contractual arrangements between farmers and hotels to supply produce on a weekly basis.

Another indication of the benefit of the strengthened relationships is the participation of members of the JMA in the Caribbean Hotel and Tourism Association Marketplace in January of this year. Mr. Speaker, this provided them with the opportunity to network with local and regional players in the hospitality industry, resulting in several benefits to the local manufacturers.

I am happy to inform this House that arising from these initiatives, local suppliers have secured contracts for providing furnishings for a number of properties. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, beyond these initial successes, the hub is actively engaging hotels' purchasing managers to identify specific needs and seeking to create direct buyer/supplier linkages in partnership with the JHTA; the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries and the Ministry of Industry.

Mr. Speaker, to satisfy local suppliers and buyers they need to have accurate market information. (Applause) One of the areas where we have had challenges going along is an absence of formal information, so even your farmers know exactly what they can plant, when they can plant it or our manufacturers know what is needed at what specific time.

Mr. Speaker, a detailed study is being commissioned to determine the potential demand for local goods and services within the tourism sector. Funding for this six months project has been received from the Jamaica

Social Investment Fund. The total cost of the project will be J$8.7 Million Dollars.

Mr. Speaker, the findings of the study and other helpful information to buyers and suppliers will be made available on-line through a web portal that is maintained within the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment's website.

Mr. Speaker, this to me is one of the most important projects that we have, one of the most, it is going to allow us with the visitors that come, the same number to be able to earn more for Jamaica and keep those earnings in Jamaica. (Applause)

And, Mr. Speaker, I want to specifically thank the JHTA, through its President who have been working assiduously on the Linkages Committee. I see Mr. Bryan Pengelley here who has been an important part and an energetic worker in the linkages. (Applause) The Minister, you know, it is interesting how far we have gone with this Linkages Committee. The Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce spoke about the linkages in his presentation because it is so important to both of us. The Minister of Agriculture this year spent at least ten minutes in his presentation speaking about the linkages, and Mr. Speaker, I think that we have come a long way; an important part of it is the relationship that is developing between tourism or getting stronger between tourism and all the other industries.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, just to make one example of it, I mentioned earlier that at the Caribbean Marketplace in January, the manufacturers - a number of manufacturers had their booths so that they were at the marketplace with all the industry partners from the entire Caribbean showing what they had to offer. And even more importantly for us at the expo held a month ago, two months ago of the manufacturers did - the Experience Jamaica Campaign which deals with the sort of domestic tourism where the hotels come and set up their booths, that was held at the expo which shows a new relationship that has developed between the Manufcaturers and the Hotels Association. Mr. Speaker, I want to commend them for the work they have done to make this happen. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, tourism is well established as a leading source of investment in the Jamaican economy. Historically, activity in the industry has been concentrated in hotels and other forms of accommodation. But now significant investment activity has expanded into other areas such as attractions, transportation and other sub-sectors. As a result, Mr. Speaker, we have developed world-class attractions and modern transportation to serve the industry. This has contributed to the broadening of the industry's economic impact.

Mr. Speaker, even as we continue to promote investments in new resorts, we are placing equal emphasis on the modernization and expansion of existing properties. This is crucial if our industry is to raise the quality of its product and sustain its competitive advantage.

Indeed, Mr. Speaker, the volume of investment dollars currently being spent by new operators who are undertaking modernization projects, is on par and in some cases exceeds new developments.

Three such cases are the Royalton White Sands in Trelawny, the Azul Sensatori in Negirl and Hyatt Ziva in Montego Bay. In the case of Hyatt Ziva, Mr. Speaker, over J$9 Billion is being spent on a major upgrading and expansion of over 200 rooms in that resort. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, on the other two properties it exceeds J$4 Billion.

Mr. Speaker, the Royalton White Sands began operations in December. The Azul Sensatori was formally opened a few weeks ago with its expansion expected to be completed by the end of this year. Work is proceeding rapidly to allow for the opening of the Hyatt for the coming winter season and importantly with additional new rooms. Meanwhile, Braco, which will be operated by Melia Hotels & Resorts, is slated to be in operation by early 2015. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the recently passed Omnibus Incentive Legislation for the first time, provides a standardized framework for the transportation and attraction sub-sectors. Unlike the accommodation sub-sector, which was covered by law, these subsectors were entirely at the discretion of the Minister of Finance with all the uncertainty that such an arrangement involved.

This more settled environment will encourage investment in attractions and in transportation services to meet international standards.

Mr. Speaker, in closing this section, I want to mention something that the Minister of Investment alluded to. One of the things that happened was that at the last two major trade shows we went to both ITD and to World Travel Market; we have been approached by a number of persons, serious persons who would like to invest in Jamaica and one of the things we are looking at is to promote and ensure that we have some shovel ready projects. We are working in collaboration with my colleague, Minister of Industry, Investment and Commerce, with JAMPRO, NEPA, TEF, UDC and the Commissioner of Lands and what we afe going to do is look at some property, look at the planning approval and the different things so that these investors, when they come and understand we are targetting both international and local investors because we are very pleased, we are very proud about those persons who are investing in tourism Jamaica now and what we want to do is to expedite the process of allowing them to have investment in Jamaica. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in speaking of investment, there is yet another facet of the industry with potential to attract as steps are being taken to tap into this area. Mr. Speaker, we are moving to broaden the variety of accommodation and investment opportunities in our tourism sector.

Mr. Speaker, the term timeshare was coined in the United Kingdom in the early 1960s, expanding on a vacation system that became popular after World War II in Europe. Vacation home sharing involved four European families that would purchase a vacation cottage jointly, each having exclusive use of the property for one of the four seasons. They rotated seasons each year, so each family enjoyed the prime seasons equally. However, few families vacation for an entire season at a time, so the vacation home sharing properties were often vacant for long periods.

Enterprising minds decided to go one step further and divide a resort room into 1/50th ownership, with two weeks each year for repairs and upgrades, and charge a maintenance fee to each owner for the other 50 years.

Mr. Speaker, the Timeshare Vacation Bill has now been tabled in Parliament. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, it has taken a while on its journey here, but I am pleased that it has now arrived.

The Bill is designed to formally introduce the option of Timeshare Vacation Schemes into Jamaica's product offering. Timeshare is well established internationally as a driver for tourism destinations that have embraced it. We are confident of being able to attract the world's most experienced timeshare operating brands to our tourism industry and by doing so broadening our country's international appeal.

Mr. Speaker, timeshare has been shown to have many positive economic impacts in areas where it has been developed. Owners of timeshare in a residential unit tend to vacation for a week or more at a time in groups of two or more, they buy them as families and travel together. Timeshare owners become constant repeat visitors and behave more like members of the local community, in that they shop for groceries, dine out often and use local services more directly than hotel guests.

So, Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that at last timeshare vacations stand to become a part of our tourism product mix. (Applause) This has very positive implications for generating new economic opportunities for Jamaicans in many areas of enterprise. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I am now going to move to Product Development. Mr. Speaker, may I remind this Honourable House that the Tourism Enhancement Fund was mandated by the Master Plan for Sustainable Tourism Development to ensure that all areas with major tourism potential are assisted in realizing same.

In doing so, we have sought to ensure that Jamaica's citizens enjoy the benefits that tourism can bring to their communities.

Last year, I announced a transformational project, a resort project in Ocho Rios, this project is now underway and Phase One has now been completed. And I'll give the details later in this presentation.

Mr. Speaker, this year, it is the turn of Negril and Falmouth.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Not Blue Mountain.

Dr. McNEILL: Mr. Speaker, we will be embarking on a major upgrading of the resort town of Negril. This upgrading will include: The main road that links Sheffield to Negril on the South Coast and goes all the way into the town centre. It will include landscaping and sidewalk upgrading including the town centre, the Craft Market, the Fishing Village, the Community centre and the Norman Manley Beach Park

Mr. Speaker, this investment will produce a town residents can be proud of, one that presents an improved experience for their visitors, providing opportunities for enjoyment by both groups. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this project will complement the dual-purpose pathway now under construction on the Norman Manley Boulevard. The first phase of this project will include both the road and the beach park, and will be done this year at a cost of $J400 Million. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in Falmouth, we are sensitive to the cries from members of the community about their inability to attract business from the cruise ships. To the extent that the contrast between the appearance of the town and that of the cruise ship pier is a factor, a transformative solution is required. To achieve this, the Tourism Enhancement Fund has signed MOUs with the UDC and the Port Authority of Jamaica to undertake development works in Falmouth.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Falmouth project has two components: the Hampden Wharf Development and a Streetscape Improvement Project.

Mr. Speaker, the Hampden Wharf Development will create an entirely open experience that will accommodate craft vendors and other business people from the town. It will feature restaurants, and entertainment centres and shops in an inviting environment that harmonizes with the development of the pier. It will be completely open to visitors and locals. Improvements to heritage assets like the wharf building, the Dome and the Foundry and the Tharpe House will be included in the development. The projected cost for this portion of the project is $585 Million. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, elsewhere in the town, the Falmouth Streetscape Project entails aesthetics and structural improvement to roads and lanes in the vicinity of Water Square. These improvements will enhance the ambiance in Falmouth town, 330 million has been budgeted for this project, additional. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, for years we have been talking about the fact that the Tourism Enhancement Fund must be a transformational body, Mr. Speaker, nearly a billion dollars will be spent over the next three years to get Falmouth to where we want it go. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we have made certain, as in all our developments to date, that consultation with stakeholders has been central to the development of these projects. This is done to ensure that there is buy-in from the broader community into all the work that is undertaken.

The team from the PAJ, led by Dr. Paul Robertson is to be commended for the efficiency and speed with which they are approaching the project. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this is the team that has also been working on the Ocho Rios Enhancement Project. And they must be complimented for already having brought Phase One of that project to completion. Mr. Speaker, last year in the budget debate, I came to this Parliament and announced that we were going to do a project on the Turtle River Road and we were going to transform it. Many of you in here know the Turtle River Road that leads from the pier in Ocho Rios to Main Street. Mr.

Speaker, the first phase of that has now been completed and this is an actual picture of Turtle River Road as it now exist one year after.... (Applause)

(Sotto voce comments by Members)

Dr. McNEILL: The Member was asking me what was Turtle River Road. (Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, this phase One - this is Ocho Rios now, this is Ocho Rios now.

Mr. CHUCK: Grants Pen next.

Dr McNEILL: Mr. Speaker...

A MEMBER: You too bad mind.

Dr. McNEILL: Mr. Speaker, having completed Phase One, work will now begin on phase two, work has now started on phase two which is the upgrading of the terminal building and the pier, we will then move to Phase Three which will be the promenade and boardwalk and then Phase Four which will be the area coming around on Main Street.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to make a point on all of this. All these projects that we are doing are being done in a way that Jamacians can enjoy them. When we do the boardwalk, it will have choax, it will be on the waterfront, you will be able to go there and have a drink and eat icecream cone and what happens is both Jamaicans and visitors alike and we are going to enjoy the things of Jamaica and our visitors will come and enjoy it too.

Mr. Speaker, while we recognize the need for major resort development initiatives, there is also the need for other projects across the island.

Mr. Speaker, the TEF is involved in a number of projects across almost every parish across the length and breadth of the island, we have projects such as the Montego Bay Civic Centre, we have projects like the Falmouth Post Office, the Montego Bay Craft Market, the Neville Antonio Park, in Port Antonio we are doing work at Roaring River, Milk River Bath and Spa, Bath, St. Thomas, Devon House, the Trench Town Project. But, Mr. Speaker, there is another programme that we are working on, that I am very pleased with.

Mr. Speaker, the Tourism Enhancement Fund has funded $328 Million in projects which are being implemented through the JEEP secretariat. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, when we were doing this project, we went to the Members of Parliament and said, assist us in submitting proposals for the projects which were tourism related and at a community level. Mr. Speaker, the response to this programme has been tremendous just to mention a few of the projects that are underway and I cannot go through all of them although many of you know them. But Mr. Speaker, I will start with you and your project in Alligator Pond and Little Ochi. I know... (Applause) The Member Babsy Grange has one, Harbur View Round-about, there is one that I am very pleased with Mr. Speaker, Lover's Leap. The Member from St Elizabeth has been pushing on that project and in doing the work they are doing^ they have been able to go and find a trail down from Lover's Leap down to the seaside which are now having authenticated by the Heritage Trust to show that it was a trail used back in the times of slavery. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Mike Henry has a craft centre - let me tell you, Mr. Warmington - the Member from South West St. Catherine, the Marine Terminal Public Beach, now the Minister of State went and visited the project that seems to have done very well and was able to get some good roast fish and some lobster on the beach he was well taken care of and we are looking forward to all being hosted at the project.

Mr. Speaker, the project in East Westmoreland with the Member...

Mr. Luther BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Mr. McNEILL: Alright the Bethel Town Travels Hall...

Mr. Luther BUCHANAN: Yes you tell them about that.

Mr. McNEILL: The Berrydale Road, the Member from East Portland… (Applause) …There is one that is very interesting, Mr. Speaker, the Member, the Minister of State has a road that leads up to New Castle and the Minister from West Portland has the one that goes down from Section and they have both fixed the road with the funds because of the tourism that goes through that area. But apparently in fixing the road they have left a little section in the middle so they are now both lobbying to try and join them up. But, Mr. Speaker...

A MEMBER: Joint up Opposition.

Mr. McNEILL: Mr Speaker, the point I am making with this is that one of the moves we want is tourism must be felt across the length and breadth of Jamaica and if we as the elected representatives do not feel it, it is important for us to all have projects that we feel proud of… (Applause) …and we are going to continue this programme in this year.

Mr. Speaker, I want to just place on record our thanks to the JEEP Secretariat for the efficiency that they have had in implementing these projects. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want to just mention a couple initiatives that are taking place. The first has to do with the Centre of Excellence School initiatives which are in the Ministry of Education.

Mr. Speaker, as we continue to aggressively develop new markets, improve airlift and encourage hotel construction, it will be necessary to ensure the availability of suitably skilled workforce for the industry to draw on. Consistent with this, a number of schools will be identified, in which the Tourism Enhancement Fund will make an investment towards developing appropriate areas of the curricula.

After consultation, the Tourism Enhancemnt Fund has committed a total of $20 Million to initiate this programme in schools which will target improvement in the following areas: Food and nutrition, food preparation, creative arts including music, languages and agriculture. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the schools to be identified will be from the feeder institutions for the tourism areas. Our Ministry and the Tourism Enhancement Fund will be working very closely with the Ministry of Education, that will be the implementing ministry for this initiative. And I want to thank the Ministry of Education. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this programme will complement a separate programme being implemented by our Ministry to upgrade performing arts venues in selected schools. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, $16 Million has been identified for that programme and the Minister of State will give further detail in his presentation.

Mr. Speaker, the Tourism Enhancement Fund receives its funds from fees levied on incoming passengers, by air and sea, to Jamaica. It operates with a slogan: "Tourism dollars working for you". In these real and tangible ways, tourism's contribution to the national life is being demonstrated.

As citizens, we have every right to expect benefits from our investment in the promotion of tourism. These benefits extend beyond jobs and monetary income and include access to beaches, the preservation of important heritage sites, the upgrading of the communities in which we live, better infrastructure, improved landscaping and, all-in-all, a better way of life.

Mr. Speaker, you will see that we have invested heavily in ensuring these deliverables for the Jamaican people. In the instances that I have just outlined, all Jamaicans, particularly those who live in these communities, will be the primary beneficiaries of these improvements and to this end, Mr. Speaker I want to mention two very specific initiatives. The first has to do with beach access, Mr. Speaker. There is an exciting initiative being undertaken by the Ministry in collaboration with the Tourism Enhancement Fund, the UDC and then NEPA. This is to ensure that the Jamaican people are able to enjoy their patrimony through access to our beaches. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it is an imperative that suitable quality space for recreation must be made available for Jamaicans. (Applause) Madam Prime Minister you remembered when we first came into office we went to a church service and the Reverend in the midst of the sermon started to talk about beaches, this is something that affect every single Jamaican.

Mr. Speaker, we are now implementing a programme where at least one beach in every parish and multiple in some, will be transformed to make quality recreational spaces available to the public.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, these beaches will operate at the best international standards. Typically they will provide the following facilities: children's play areas, seating with tables, picnic areas and gazebos, restrooms and changing room facilities, adequate parking, lifeguard towers and utilities, running water, electricity, et cetera. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, work has actually startled on this programme. Right now work is underway at the Burwood Beach in Trelawny which is the most advanced. The Providence Beach Park in Montego Bay is at the tendering stage and design work is being completed at Norman Manley (Beach Park) in Negril, Great Bay at Treasure Beach, St. Elizabeth, Salem in St. Ann (Applause) Boston in Portland. And, Mr. Speaker, we are way ahead in discussions with Orchid in Hanover.

Mr. McKENZIE: What about hot and cold?

Mr. CRAWFORD: Next year, next year, next year mi and yuh gone a lead.

Dr. McNEILL: Mr. Speaker, projected outlay on improvement of these first six for the financial year 2014/2015 year is approximately $252 Million. However, Mr. Speaker, the Ministry, working along with NEPA and TPDCo will be identifying and securing leases for additional beaches as this is intended to be an ongoing programme. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the next programme is the Rest Stop Programme. Mr. Speaker, as our road network continues to expand, it allows Jamaicans to enjoy the blessings of our country. It is for the comfort of all travellers the Ministry, through its agencies will be resuscitating the programme for rest stops and this is one of those programmes that was previously underway, I think it was started when the current Prime Minister was Minister of Tourism back in that time.

Mr. Speaker, this programme pushes particularly into our domestic tourism push. In addition, we want to encourage our visitors to share in the Jamaican experience of travelling throughout the countryside to get an appreciation of our natural beauty, heritage and way of life. The programme will include upgrading some existing facilities to acceptable standards and it will also be building and selecting new ones.

Mr. Speaker, the plan is to have driving across the country these rest stops where persons can stop and ensure that you can get the proper facilities. Central to that is having proper bathroom facilities with all the services required. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, the details of the numbers and locations will be publicized subsequently.

Mr. Speaker, the contribution of our tourism sector to the economy is significant. Its potential is enormous. It touches many sectors and it has been delivering benefits for every Jamaican in very tangible ways. The substantial economic impact caused by tourism has been clearly demonstrated and its contribution to job creation is undeniable. Tourism offers opportunity for any Jamaican who can recognize a need and carve out a niche for himself, as it did for fisherman Floyd Forbes, whose dream became a reality in the Pelican Bar in St. Elizabeth. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: That's growth!

Dr. McNEILL: Mr. Speaker, that bar has been recognized in some areas as one of the 10 top bars in the world.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Samuda)

Dr. McNEILL: It has become a reality for Gloria Minto who rose from poverty to become the owner of Hotel Gloriana in Montego Bay. (Applause) It has offered someone who made his living washing cars to move up in life to become the owner of a fleet of buses and it has provided the opportunity for Errol "Blackie" Christie to move up in life to become the owner of the popular Little Ochie Restaurant in St. Elizabeth, and Cosmo Brown to become the owner of a popular beachside restaurant in Negril. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, others have achieved success through direct involvement in areas like promotion, development of attractions, hotel ownership and management. Others have enjoyed success through an indirect association with the industry like construction, farming, information technology, security services or human resource development.

Mr. Speaker, in my presentation today, I have outlined developments that will bring various benefits to our people: better recreational facilities at beach parks around the island, the provision of rest stops for our convenience as we travel, improved opportunities for businesses in the Hampden Wharf development, improvements to environment in which the citizens of Ocho Rios and Falmouth live and work and the preservation of our valued heritage attractions. I invite all our citizens to share in the care and reaping of the fruits of these developments; to so seek within the industry and its linkages to find the opportunity that it can offer for personal advancement in life.

Mr. Speaker, at the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment, as we work to achieve the above objectives, we have been busy with the development of other programmes that time did not permit me to outline in detail today. These include: the bed and breakfast policy, a community tourism policy, the pension plan for workers in the industry, the facilitation of development and promulgation of Development Orders for the resort areas, an important part of the planning, the sports tourism, the craft policy, the entertainment registration.

Mr. Speaker, in his presentation, Minister of State, the Honourable Damion Crawford will provide detailed reports on a number of these programmes.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Shaw)

Dr. McNEILL: And, Mr. Speaker, we are also about to launch, in consultation with the JHTA, our energy efficiency project for small hotels which will assist these properties in reducing cost by improving efficiency in energy use making them more competitive.

Mr. Speaker, we are taking bold and strategic steps to ensure that we continue to develop the industry in a sustainable way. Mr. Speaker, I see an industry that facilitates the distribution of benefits at the community level and in a manner that positively affects the lives of all Jamaicans.

Mr. Speaker, colleagues, we all have a part to play in ensuring that tourism continues to deliver on its promise to provide opportunities and growth for all Jamaicans. I call on all of you to let us cooperate in working to maximize the benefits of tourism and truly make the tourism sector a sector for all Jamaicans.

I thank you.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Raymond, you gone a North East, you gone look fi Kern!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Worry bout Val Wint.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) Mr. Chuck. (Applause)

Mr. CHUCK: Mr. Speaker, first of all, let me congratulate you and thank you and the staff of Parliament for the service, not only to the Members^ but to Parliament, and also to thank my colleagues on both sides of the House for the courtesy and friendship that we have enjoyed over the past year.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: You hear a good speaker.

Mr. CHUCK: Mr. Speaker, another year, another sectoral presentation. And today I am dealing with how we can secure a prosperous nation. Mr. Speaker, today, without the burden or restriction of being a shadow spokesperson, I want to deal with something close to my heart, how to create wealth and prosperity by our people, for our people and in our people. Without wealth and prosperity, our lives may be physically and spiritually healthy but empty in many other ways.

(Sotto voce remarks by Government Member)

Opposition MEMBER: Why you don't leave the man alone.

Mr. CHUCK: In spite of all the love bestowed on the poor…

The SPEAKER: (Gavels)

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Shaw)

Dr. PHILLIPS: ... the environment.

Mr. CHUCK: In spite of all the love bestowed on the poor, they are tired of being poor, being kept poor and generally ignored except for the regular expressions of love and support for their many challenges. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, there is no merit in poverty or in our country or anyone being poor, and there is no reason to remain poor.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Is JC write that fi yuh?

Mr. SHAW: Go fix your road.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. McKenzie)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: I don't faint at meeting.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I am still here. You soon faint out of here.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) Let us have some order.

Mr. CHUCK: Jamaica is poor because our people are poor and, on the present course, we are creating more and more poor people. We have to change course. Jamaica deserves better. Jamaica deserves sustained growth, more wealth and increasing prosperity, and it can be done. (Applause)

(The Speaker left his Chair at 4:57 p.m., the Deputy Speaker presides)

Mr. CHUCK: Jamaica can be prosperous if our people are provided with the means and opportunities to be prosperous. We need, Mr. Speaker, to instill in our people that prosperity is a worthy purpose and a worthy state to be in. It is time, Mr. Speaker, to go beyond talk and walk the walk. (Applause) What other newly rich countries have done, we can also do. What Japan, South Korea, Singapore, Bermuda, Cayman Islands and many others have done through human effort and creativity, and without the blessings of natural resources, we too can do. We too can have a first world economy instead of the present third or fourth world quality of life. China, an impoverished nation 40 years ago, is fast approaching first world status. China started on a new economic transformation with Deng Xiaoping, who was hitherto exiled as a dunce, for pushing the market economy, returned to government after the death of Mao Zedong and in 1978 promoted the free market economy: and the phrase "that it is glorious to be rich or to be rich is glorious" is attributed to him. Since then, Mr. Speaker, and for 35 consecutive years, China has grown in excess of 10% per annum while Jamaica, a country with so much potential and blessing, has stagnated.

China is showing prosperity in many regions, and now has the second largest economy in the world. More millionaires are being created in China than in any other country, so much for socialism and equal distribution of poverty. We're depending on China for many gifts and investment, should we not adopt at least this economic transformation, which China did within a socialist regime under the theme, 'It is Glorious to be Rich'?

Mr. Speaker, we need to lift our people from the impoverishment, emptiness and depravation that make their lives so miserable. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: The United Nations millennium goal to eliminate poverty by 2015 will not be achieved, but this goal, Mr. Speaker, is worth pursuing and it will be more readily achieved if we focus on creating prosperity.

We the leaders in this Parliament should learn from the leaders of those countries that have shifted from poverty inducing policies, to prosperity creating hands and programmes. Since Independence, the policies pursued and are still being pursued, have not brought progress or prosperity to the country. In fact, Mr. Speaker, these poverty inducing government policies have brought mainly hardship, perennial recession and unbearable suffering.

Mr. Speaker, in this Parliament we must ask ourselves, are we satisfied with the leadership and service offered to the people of Jamaica? Even if we are, let it be clear, the people are not happy, and in fact, are disgusted with the quality of our national leadership and service. We frequently note the few successes and achievements with bombastic exuberance, but overall, we should be ashamed of the horrid state of the nation.

To be truly honest, on reflection, we should feel a sense of shame and disappointment for the abject state of the nation and the obvious depravation that most of our people endure each day. (Applause) We need to accept that Jamaica has not progressed nor developed significantly and is a damaged ship sailing in troubled waters. Unless we acknowledge the dismal state we're in, we won't extricate ourselves from it.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: When compared with other countries, what other countries have achieved, Mr. Speaker, we have failed miserably. Jamaica's continuing failure must be curtailed and we need to find a path to take us forward.

(Sotto voce remarks)

Mr. McKENZIE: Yuh caan refer to di man speech as dawg... (Inaudible)

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. SHAW: Carry on man, carry on Delroy.

(Cross talks)

Mr. CHUCK: Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Chuck)

Mr. McKENZIE: Yuh si how when yuh a talk nobody nuh disturb yuh?

Mr. SHAW: Wi just listen to your speech.

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) Just a moment, Mr. Chuck.

I am not going to tolerate any utterances that are insulting. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. SHAW: Problem! Problem!

The Deputy SPEAKER: Members can make their usual sotto voce remarks but they must not desend into a level of insult.

(Cross talks)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Continue, Mr. Chuck.

Mr. CHUCK: ...in this presentation I hope to do so, I want Jamaica to be prosperous. Like the Prime Minister, in her budget contribution, and other government MPs, especially a strong presentation from the MP from St. Andrew North West - St. Ann North West, we want to move from poverty to prosperity, but how can it be done? Surely, prosperity can only be achieved if we're focussed on achieving it. For a start, let's understand clearly, that nobody owes us anything, we're on our own. The Almighty did not bless us with oil or an abundance of rich natural resources that can make us rich overnight. We can only become rich through our own creativity and industry.

Over the past decades we've been overly concerned with the alleviation of poverty, the distribution of scarce resources and the equitable sharing of increasingly empty government scoffers. Without the natural resources and increased handouts from donors to countries, we've ended up distributing poverty and even greater inequality. Jamaica needs wealth and prosperity and it doesn't need a rocket scientist to tell us how to do it. We have made some headway, more and more of our people are getting a decent education, but to what end? Our children are told that education is the key to success. It means to lift ourselves out of poverty, the tool of empowerment and the door to a better future.

Yet, Mr. Speaker, we have thousands of certified graduates unable to use their education qualifications. Many graduates of tertiary institutions, lawyers, doctors, teachers, accountants having spent years and millions of dollars to qualify themselves, are now without work and seeking employment outside their field of competence. The majority of our graduates are migrating and the best and brightest are lost from our shores.

Nowadays, Mr. Speaker, MPs come under increasing stresses vast armies of unemployed and underemployed citizens beg to go on the farm work and hotel work programmes. In a limited way, Mr. Speaker, I will discuss the path progress to increase wealth and to achieve prosperity if only we allow our people to create the opportunities and thus the jobs and resources.

I will identify 10 factors why we have failed to make reasonable progress, and in discussing them, to examine ways and means to extricate ourselves from the poverty and mess we're in. The order in which I present and discuss them are not necessarily the order of emphasis or priority. I am aware that they overlap and are interconnected and I agree that no one will agree with all 10 factors or reasons for poverty, and I accept that there are many others.

Reason number one, government policies have been hostile to business and to business creation, expansion and development. We make it difficult for investors and businessmen especially local ones. We view them as money men, eager to make profit and to exploit our workforce. Capitalist seen as the enemy of labour when they should be working together to create wealth.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: We overregulate, we overtax and punish economic transactions and thus chase money from the formal sector with invasive rules, unnecessary restriction and burdensome taxation. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: The abandoned withdrawal tax is another good example of the hostility to monetary transactions.

Mr. PARCHMENT: Foolishness!

Mr. CHUCK: Mr. Speaker, taxes are needed and more taxes can be collected if we increase economic activities and multiply economic transactions. And this can only happen if we increase the velocity and momentum with which money is moved around to transact businesses, employ people and promote commerce. (Applause)

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. CHUCK: Mr. Speaker, for Jamaicans to become prosperous, Jamaica has to become attracted to capital, a lowering to investors and friendly to business. Tragically, we're going in the wrong direction. Jamaica is becoming more unfriendly to business when we should be working, working, working, to get businesses to take off.

On the ease of doing business, Mr. Speaker, Jamaica has been slipping consistently over the past 10 years and more; and that is the assessment of the international rating agencies.

Mr. HYLTON: All of that goes on under your government.

Mr. SHAW: Shut up!

(Cross talks)

Mr. CHUCK: While other countries see the importance of improving business environment, Jamaica has made it even more difficult for entrepreneurs, investors and business people to do business. In 2013, not before lost years, in 2013, Jamaica slipped from 90 to 94...

Mr. André HYLTON: But the measurement was from your time. It's based upon the measurement from your time.

Mr. CHUCK: In 2013.

Mr. André HYLTON: That is your operation.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw)

Mr. CHUCK: Go and look on Google. ...on the ease of doing business worldwide.

(Cross talks)

Mr. CHUCK: The index uses 10 criteria to assess countries. Out of 189 countries, Mr. Speaker, where do we rank on these criteria?

1) In starting a business 23;
2) dealing with construction permit 52;
3) getting electricity 132;
4) registering property 114;

5) getting credit 109;
6) protecting investors 80;
7) paying taxes 168 out of 189;
8) trading across borders 118;
9) enforcing contracts 131;
10) resolving insolvency 31.

Why are we, Mr. Speaker, handcuffing our business people and chasing away investors? (Applause) If the Minister of Industry and Commerce wants to do something he should let JAMPRO focus on reducing these numbers. (Applause)

Mr. SHAW: Absolutely! Absolutely!

Mr. CHUCK: Investors will flock and rush to countries where they're welcome to do business and to make reasonable profit. If we make it easy to do business, we won't need to beg investors to come here, they will beg us to allow them here. The rich countries of the world are the ones where it is easy to do business! The alternative is obviously true! Make it easy to do business and the country will become rich!

MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: It is through business that we're going to create society!

MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: It is through business that we're going to create the jobs and opportunities that our young people so desperately need!

Mr. SHAW: Lecture dem! Lecture dem!

Mr. CHUCK: It is through business that we're going to get the taxes needed to fund our free health care, free education and other deserving social policies.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: It is through business that we're going to get the resources to fix our roads and gullies and decaying infrastructure.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Shaw)

Mr. DALLEY: Ray, ray, shut yuh mouth!

(Cross talks)

Mr. CHUCK: Yet in Jamaica, we make it frustrating, inconvenient and so debilitating to do business.

Mr. Speaker, let us learn from the rich and poor countries and decide where we want to go. In our ignorance, we berate Singapore and believe its prosperity emerge from its harsh laws or a great human cost.

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. CHUCK: No.

Singaporeans are not running from their country...

A MEMBER: I don't need to go up deh.

Mr. CHUCK: ...and interestingly, they can travel to any country without a visa - virtually any country without a visa. How we wish Jamaicans had that privilege.

(Cross talks)

Mr. CHUCK: Singapore is rich because there, it is easy to do business. Singapore is not only one of the richest nations, but also the easiest place to do business, ranking number one on the worldwide ease of doing business for many years.

Mr. DALLEY: They had no election in 30 years.

Mr. CHUCK: They have an election every five years.

Mr. DALLEY: They had none! They had none for over 30 years

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. CHUCK: They've had 10 elections.

Haiti is the poorest country in the western hemisphere, and not surprising, is at the bottom of the ease of doing business index. Isn't that contrast telling us something? Poverty and the ease of doing business are inversely proportional - I hope all a unoo understand Mathematics - poverty and the ease of doing business are inversely proportional. Make it easy to do business and poverty will disappear. Make it easy and attractive to do business and prosperity will emerge.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: Mr. Speaker, how can we justify that a country that needs taxes like how bodies need nutrients is ranked 168 out of 189 on the ease of paying taxes? How can we impose such financial hurdles, gross inconvenience, and heavy burden on our taxpayers?

Mr. Speaker, just visit any Collectorate of Taxes at the end of the month or the end of a fiscal year and see the long lines and the frustration and anger of taxpayers. Investors have an alternative they can go elsewhere. Taxpayers have an alternative; they simply avoid the taxes perhaps until they are forced to pay or delay paying the taxes. At the appropriate time, Mr. Speaker, we need to have a full parliamentary debate on the ease of doing business in Jamaica. (Applause) It is probably the most needed parliamentary debate at this time.

Reason number two: we're not putting capital to work.

Mr. McKENZIE: Mickey Mouse.

Mr. CHUCK: Capital – valuable capital is tied up, under used everywhere. The SIPP (Security Interest in Personal Property) passed in this Parliament recently is a major step forward. (Applause) Now, citizens can use their personal properties to access credit and engage in commerce. However, Mr. Speaker, what about the registration of land and the cumbersome process to get certificates of title for unregistered land, which certificates of title can be used to access credit?

Mr. Speaker, Billions of Dollars are tied up in these unregistered lands that if registered could generate an enormous amount of economic transactions and a wave of jobs and opportunities. In truth, apart from the fact that so many assets are tied up or dormant, Jamaica has far too many unregistered parcels of land in every parish.

The LAMP Programme (Land Administration and Management Programme) is a good programme but after the signing of an agreement with the South Korean government entity, the Korea Cadastral Survey Corporation, in which even though it is not well known, played a majored part, I expected that most of the unregistered lands would be rapidly registered, but unfortunately the process of registration is too slow and so properties that could easily be used to access credit remain dormant. Mr. Speaker, when this thing took almost a year and a half to get the contract signed and when the contract was signed, we worked out a programme that we could deliver 5,000 to 10,000 per year, that is 2009/2010. Four years later, Mr. Speaker, I don't think we have delivered 4,000 titles. We deliver a couple hundred and we get big public relations with the Prime Minister delivering it. That's not what we want, Mr. Speaker; the people want their titles. (Applause)

Mr. WARMINGTON: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: And if it means legislation to make it easier, let us change the legislation. We have perhaps over a hundred thousand in every single one of your constituencies waiting to be registered and the cumbersome process is destroying and frustrating the people who want their titles. We must do something about it.

Mr. Speaker, I've also heard estimates of over $60 Billion worth of projects that await development approvals in the parish councils. Why can't the process be expedited now? Do we have to wait on the IMF to force us to so?

A MEMBER: Yes!

Mr. CHUCK: If half of these approvals were acted upon, can you imagine the amount of jobs and economic activities that would emerge? Growth and prosperity would be on the way. Let us get on with the speedy registration of lands and the easy approval process for property development.

Reason number three: the justice system is a major impediment to progress and prosperity. Huge sums of capital and assets perhaps involving tens of billions of dollars are tied up in unresolved civil cases, awaiting trial and a final determination between the parties. And while the cases are delayed, the parties cannot use their assets and capital to engage in needed economic activities. But, Mr. Speaker, even while we wait indefinitely on these judicial determinations, there is an area that could release and untie hundreds of billions of dollars presently dormant and underutilized, because the ownership of these assets need to be formalized. I speak, Mr. Speaker, of the deceased estates that require probating or administration and without the need for court time.

In the last administration, Mr. Speaker, then Finance Minister Audley Shaw saw the need to have the assets of these deceased estates come within the system. He reduced the death duties to 154 per cent and the stamp duty on the probate and administration to $5,000 for those thousands of estates that were tied up in the court system.

A Government MEMBER: That is why it so… (Inaudible)

Mr. CHUCK: As Minister of Justice, I put in place a system to have these probates and administration done expeditiously, but I'm not sure, Mr. Speaker, if it is still in place. In fact, I'm sure it is not in place.

A Government MEMBER: You didn't stay long enough.

Mr. CHUCK: In addition, Mr. Speaker, during my tenure, the Ministries of Finance and Justice started regular meetings to speed up the administration of these estates, but I wonder again if it is still going on, because the wait time, Mr. Speaker, is inordinate. What is obvious Mr. Speaker is that it is now taking any time between six and twenty-four months, sometimes longer to have a probate or administration completed. The time to check the documents and approve them, Mr. Speaker, takes only hours. They do not require a court hearing. It is all administrative work. A probate or administration should take days, at most weeks. But amazingly, Mr. Speaker, it is taking months and years while billions of dollars of assets are tied up and unable to get into the system.

Mr. Speaker, I am convinced that assets far in excess of J$100 Billion are tied up in deceased estates that could easily make a major impact on our economy. We need to find ways and means to untie and release these assets into the system to drive economic activity.

Opposition MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: Wouldn't it make sense to put together a taskforce to examine the present process and even to spend $10 Million to release $100 Billion that could assist in transforming our economic and court systems?

Mr. Anthony HYLTON: When you were in Government, why didn't you do it?

Mr. WARMINGTON: You have no right to speak.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CHUCK: We've tried - we were doing it. We were doing it, that's why I said I'm not too sure - we were doing it, Mr. Speaker, that is why I'm not too sure what has happened, because the whole process has stopped.

(Cross talk)

Mr. CHUCK: Reason number four: Jamaica remains poor, because it is difficult to access credit.

(Cross talk)

Entrepreneurs rarely have enough equity and assets to start or to expand a business. To obtain credit is a burdensome task as so many of our financial institutions are risk-averse. The real challenge, however, is the high cost of capital. For the Free Market Economy to function properly, the access to credit must be readily available and reasonably cheap. Interest rates over the decades are not only too high, but prohibitive and punishing. The FINSAC debacle is a telling legacy of how high interest rates destroyed thousands of businesses and families. It is sad that the FINSAC Report may never be published. There is so much that should be learnt from the collapse of the financial and business sectors.

Opposition MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: Presently, the banks and other financial institutions are making huge profits while most businesses suffer and are unable to get credit to stay afloat and/or to expand. How can the banks be so profitable when most of their customers and clients are barely surviving?

A MEMBER: Good question, sir.

Mr. CHUCK: Loan rates need to be single digits and remain there. More significantly, the purchase of a home should be the natural right of every adult, but is it really possible in Jamaica for the average wage earner, the purchase of a home remains a dream when it should be a reality early in their career. Mortgage interest rates, Mr. Speaker, are still too high. Real estate development should be allowed to take off and contribute to the country's prosperity. For that to happen, mortgage rates need to fall to low single digits. If mortgage rate loans could be reduced to 5 or 6 per cent, which is actually high for most countries, the real estate would become a major source of wealth creation and economic activity. (Applause) The real estate market would benefit enormously from reduced interest rates, stamp duties and I dare say, lawyer's fees. The bounce and buoyancy in the economy from increased real estate transactions would solve many of our social and economic problems.

Reason number five, Jamaica is over taxed. To satisfy the public expenditures and public debt, Jamaican taxpayers are being punished with more taxes than they can reasonably bear. Right taxes are needed to balance the budget and get things done. It can be overdone. I have argued repeatedly Mr. Speaker that more taxation does not translate into more taxes. In fact, less taxation often times mean more taxes.

At this year's [Standing] Finance Committee meetings, Minister Peter Phillips noted that during the last fiscal year, in spite of the reduced GCT from 17½ to 16½ per cent, more GCT was collected. If we reduced the GCT rate to 15 per cent, I strongly suggest more GCT would be collected. In the last administration, Minister Audley Shaw reduced stamp duty and transfer taxes to 3 and 4 per cent respectably and more taxes were collected. Minister Phillips, instead of continuing the trend and further reduced the taxes, increased these duties on land transfer to 4 to 5 per cent and not surprisingly collected less taxes.

Burdensome taxation on businesses and the Jamaican people is actually counter-productive. It creates and generates loopholes and avenues for tax avoidance and simply robbing the treasury. Taxpayers know when enough is enough and no amount of moral suasion and tax auditing will coerce them to pay more taxes than they think are just and reasonable. To avoid the burdensome taxation, many companies and individuals are now registering companies abroad to conduct businesses here and, thereby depriving the Government of much needed taxes.

Mr. CHUCK: Customs Duties are so high and punitive that many businessmen are prepared to take the risk and opportunity to cheat its revenue, which undermines the whole integrity of the system and promotes widespread corruption, deliberate delays and many irregularities. Major tax reforms are needed and may be on the way. But taxation must not be an impediment to business expansion, increased productivity and economic vibrancy.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. CHUCK: Low tax rates would spur more business expansions, greater economic transactions, and thus the likely opportunities for more jobs and more taxes. Low tax rates may even mean more taxes for the treasury and could actually be an impetus to economic growth and development, which are Jamaica's greatest needs at this time.

Reason No. 6

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. CHUCK: What is wrong with that? Jamaica has failed to enforce the law in an effective, pronounced and timely manner. Justice and the rule of law are not seen as sacrosanct, and the cornerstones on which to forge a good and quality society. Crime, violence, and miscreant behavior are reaching into every corner of hitherto peaceful communities. The erosion...

The Deputy SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time to complete his presentation has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended to allow him to complete his presentation.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended to allow him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Chuck.

Mr. CHUCK: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I can assure you, we will be out here before 6:00.

The erosion of trust and confidence in the police, the Court system and other agencies of government has undermined the rule of law and the peace and good order of the nation. The failure and inability to effectively enforce the rule of law, send the wrong signals. Actual and potential lawbreakers feel, maybe know, they can break the law without any real of being caught. The end result, Mr. Speaker, is that indiscipline, violence, crime and corruption, or pervasive and corrosive.

Crime remains a scourge in the Jamaican society, and a major impediment to investment and development. Praedial larceny, stealing electricity, pilfering government and private property and many other crimes and irregularity are committed with impunity because offenders know the risk of getting caught is minimal. No country can properly develop, create wealth and promote peace and happiness if the rule of law disrespected, ignored, and consistently breached. (Applause)

Yet, Mr. Speaker, the political parties, the PNP and JLP that have formed Government since Independence must set the example. The indiscipline and corruption that are so evident at Election Time, and the way we practice our politics, contribute significantly to the breakdown of law and order. (Applause) And it is almost hypocritical for us politicians to speak about upholding and maintaining the rule of law. In our eagerness and determination to get into Parliament, or a parish council, nothing is a shackle, and we engage in widespread malpractice, indiscretion and illegalities.

A MEMBER: Confession is good.

Mr. CHUCK: As Leaders, we have to set the examples that we expect our people to emulate. If we are to recover from a society that has become coarse and brutish, anarchic and corrupt, immoral and wicked, and further decaying and declining, we the leaders must show the way. Our mission to foster a kind and gentle society must be renewed and pursued diligently.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: At the same time, Mr. Speaker, if we are to create a decent, upright and prosperous nation, we must ensure that our personal, professional, and political lives are beyond reproach.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: Reason No. 7. Class warfare, divisiveness, badmindedness, jealousy and hatred have stifled Jamaica's economic development. The tragic and stupid promotion of class conflict, discredited and outdated ideology, and racial profiling has done great harm to our social psyche.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. L. Buchanan)

Mr. CHUCK: The big man and big businesses are seen as foes and exploiters of the little man and the poorly paid workers. Many misguided and unthinking leaders, political and religious have argued that the poor are poor because the rich has too much, which is abject nonsense.

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. CHUCK: The lost years of the 1970s when the administration of the day tried to institute the lost cause of socialism, depleted our nation of some of the best managers and chased promising businessmen and entrepreneurs to foreign lands. Huge amount of capital, and managerial expertise disappeared. The late Professor Carl Stone declared repeatedly that Jamaica will not recover from the losses of the 70s in our lifetime. Sadly, Mr. Speaker, he was right.

Still, we expound in our discourses, the class warfare, division and conflicts which can get us nowhere. Small minded people decry and despise the successful people and big ventures.

Mr. DALLEY: You just bashing Jamaica... propose something.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: Go and pay the nurses; go pay the bill and keep quiet.

Mr. DALLEY: You are bashing Jamaica... propose something.

(The Deputy Speaker gavels)

Mr. CHUCK: If someone is successful, evil thoughts and speculation are rumored, such as, he must be in drugs, or it's corruption, or political connections why he or the business is doing so well. It is time for such bad mindedness of our people to cease.

(Sotto voce comments by Dr. Wheatley)

Mr. CHUCK: We deride and denounce the accumulation of wealth and big business and the big man, when they are the ones providing the environment to create wealth and prosperity, jobs and opportunities and the potential for a better life for all.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. CHUCK: Without calling names of companies, where would Jamaica be without these big businesses and these big men? It is time we revere and praise the big entrepreneurs, and urge more of our young people to emulate them, to think big...

Mr. SILVERA: You just done cuss them.

Mr. CHUCK: ...create big business and make big investments. We must send clear and inspiring message that everyone can be successful and wealthy if he or she puts his or her mind to it, and expend the hard work to do.

(Applause)

Instead of envying and despising the truly successful and wealthy, let us praise them and hope many more can emerge. If Jamaica can become, once again, a friendly place for the rich and wealthy, so much more capital, even in small doses, would flow to our shores, and Jamaica would benefit, and even become more prosperous.

Reason No. 8

The overbearing and burdensome bureaucracy impedes rather than facilitates. The red tapes, hurdles and delays in most areas of government are major impediments to progress and prosperity. One cannot be sure if it is incompetence, laziness, or just plain inefficiency, but at virtually every level it is painful, enervating and intolerable to do business with government. We are putting in place an enormous amount of rules, regulations, and restrictions, and it is true as the present Minister of Finance once opined that those who play by the rules get shafted.

We speak about production, but is there enough valuable production in the public sector. Few areas of the public sector produce goods. The vast majority of civil servants are engaged in a service that is administrative services, whether it is in providing marriage certificates, getting licenses issued, collecting taxes, et cetera, the production of administrative services is no less important that the production of other services, be it legal, medical, financial, accounting, hospitality, tourism service, et cetera. If administrative service were discharged speedily the economic benefits would be enormous. (Applause) Just ask Minister Azan how difficult it is to get anything done.

Repetitive and catchy sounds are recorded and played daily to encourage our people to be more productive. We are wasting time. Scarce money and creative energy to make these recordings that accomplish nothing. People do not produce by moral suasion. Public relations and great speeches do not induce production. If they did, most of the socialist States would be highly productive and wealthy. They have great speakers.

Mr. SILVERA: You cuss them out and say you don't want them.

Mr. SHAW: You are pluralistic, keep quiet.

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. L. Buchanan)

Mr. CHUCK: You don't hear them with four-hour speeches though.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, people produce through incentive, rewards, and benefits. The bureaucrats will get things done if there are immediate benefits. The executive agencies have shown the way to get things done expeditiously; simply pay extra to have things done within a day or a given time. So, at the Registrar General and the Passport offices, birth and death certificates and passports can be obtained by express service with the payment of additional fees. The touts who used to collect these fees have disappeared, and the Registrar of Titles, by paying an additional fee of $10,000, registration and transfer of documents can be done within a day.

Mr. Speaker, I take no credit for this but it is something I begged them to do 10 years ago, and three years ago it was done. It was done, and now you can get - when you want a land transfer, or a whole set of documents done within a day instead of two weeks or three weeks, you pay $10,000 and everything comes back to you in one day. And it is a service that is well-used, Mr. Speaker.

That is the way to go, charge more for the extra service. My only concern is whether the workers are benefiting from this extra payment, otherwise the system may fail. If they work - and they are working - why can't we do it in other areas of government to reduce the delay, corruption and inefficiency in the system? Thus, for example, can land developers be charged extra, $50,000 or up to an extra $1 Million which many desperate but unscrupulous ones will pay if they can get their application for development and building checked and approved within a given timeframe of say, three months. And that extra payment can be shared amongst the stakeholders in the approval process.

Believe me, Mr. Speaker, if we enact an incentive programme, there will be few delays in the approval process. This incentive programme can be instituted in every area of government to expedite the service provided. Pretty and well-crafted speeches, nice sounding tunes and outstanding public relations are great to win elections, but it is incentives and rewards that drive the free market economy to function better. (Applause)

For many civil servants who are grossly underpaid, incentives and rewards would make a difference.

Mr. BUCHANAN: That is why Shaw loose?

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. Warmington)

Mr. CHUCK: Reason No. 9.

Jamaica's persistent poverty and inability to create wealth emerge significantly from the politics of entitlement, expectation and handout. Far too many Jamaicans, especially those in the inner city communities, have been nurtured on the practice of a politics that supports and caters for handouts, the freeness mentality, and on the belief that the State should maintain and care for them from the cradle to the grave. Where did this freeness mentality or the politics of distribution of State welfare begin, and how can it be ended? Nothing is really free. Somebody has to pay.

Mr. DALLEY: Say it again.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Tell Shaw, tell Shaw.

Mr. CHUCK: When the State provides free water, free education, free health care, free housing, subsidized transportation, et cetera, the resources come from somewhere which means others bear the cost. So even if social water, Mr. Speaker, is a gift from God through rainfall, when provided to residents it has to be chlorinated, pumped and piped, all of which are costly.

The National Water Commission, Mr. Speaker, cannot account for 70 per cent of the water it produces. It chlorinates, pumps, and pipes water from its systems. And most of it, I suspect, is lost, stolen, or provided as social water. Stealing, Mr. Speaker, is neutralized as residents mistakenly believe utilities should be free.

The present challenge of the Jamaica Public Service to get communities to pay for electricity is a daunting one, as many citizens nurtured in the freeness mentality, strongly believe they have a right to free light and power.

Is the National Water Commission prepared to act like the JPS and recover payments from the residents who use this precious commodity? Are the taxpayers of this country to continue the provision of social water when most of them cannot get a steady and reliable supply?

This state of affairs, Mr. Speaker, cannot last. We need a reality check. We have to separate the needy from the greedy; otherwise our destiny is even deeper poverty.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: That's what the people did in the last election.

Mr. CHUCK: Deeper poverty. Such wide cross-sections of the country...

(Laughter)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: That's why Shaw loose.

Mr. CHUCK: ...cannot expect to live from the hard work and earnings of other taxpayers.

A MEMBER: Separate grade from deed, that is why Shaw lose you know.

Mr. CHUCK: We have to instill in our people across every community that the State can only help the truly needy, the desperate and vulnerable, and others must earn their way and take responsibility for daily care and welfare.

Even though I disagree with the JPS locking off electricity in communities, JPS's action may well be the wakeup call for us, the politicians, to send the clear and unmistakable message that the freeness cannot continue, that the State owes nobody anything and the days of entitlements and handouts are coming to an end.

Reason No. 10, Mr. Speaker, my final reason.

Jamaica's failure and continuing in impoverishment emerge from our governments' tendency to put politics over economics. In fact, some administrations have but politics over everything. Everything is politicized, plus at election time and even in between elections the government of the day, without due consideration for fiscal prudence and without a vibrant economy to do so, is always intent on creating a feel good euphoria.

Huge sums of scarce government resources are spent on unplanned and wasteful government projects that really add little value to the country's infrastructure or its growth and development. Such expenditures have contributed to the fiscal mess we are in. Fortunately, Mr. Speaker, at the present time, the IMF has put the country on a path of fiscal prudence which we hope can allow us to stay fiscally afloat.

However, in other areas, where good managers could make a difference and persons with business and entrepreneurial sense could become good directors and chairmen of government boards. Every administration has put their political supporters and party members to mismanage and maladminister these government entities as if they were political groups or political branches, with the inevitable consequence that these government businesses suffer huge losses perennially, and instead of contributing to the national purse or drain on it.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I go back to where I started. We have too many poor people. Poor people require support and tend to look to the State for virtually everything. Our humanity forces us to respond to their needs, but freeness cannot last forever. Invariable freeness is abused and unappreciated. The Constitutional Commission in its deliberations and the revision of the 1962 Constitution struggled with the issue of free education and to what level, and concluded that education should become a right at least up to the secondary school level. Now we have free health care. It won't be long, Mr. Speaker, before sound and compelling arguments are presented for the State to provide free meals for the destitute, free pipe water, free light and power, free housing, free public transportation and free telephone and internet service. Where will it stop?

Mr. Speaker, it can only stop if we rid the nation of poverty. It can only stop if we equip our people with the skills and knowledge to fend for themselves. It can only stop if our people are provided with jobs and opportunities to earn decent wages and allow to improve their quality of lives. These things, Mr. Speaker, are possible. A new day will dawn if we untie the hands of our entrepreneurs and allow them to unleash their business skills to create wealth and generate prosperity everywhere.

I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, it is not intended for us to do any further business this afternoon, so I move for the adjournment of the Parliament until tomorrow, the 28th of May at 2:00 p.m.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that this Honourable House adjourns until tomorrow, May 28th, Wednesday, and resume at 2:00 p.m.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: This Honourable House now stands adjourned.

The House adjourned at approximately 5:50 p.m.

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, it is not usual for me to take notice as I am doing now, but as there are two of them today, we want to acknowledge the birthdays of the Members from North East St. Elizabeth and South St. Andrew. (Applause) We will not adjourn the sitting for the celebrations.

We intend to continue with the Sectoral Debates. This afternoon, Mr. Speaker, we have two presenters: the Minister of Labour and Social Security first and then the Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport and Works.

(Applause) (Cross talk)

The SPEAKER: I am going to ask, Dr. Campbell, if you could assist me with the noise abatement effort.

Minister Kellier.

SECTORAL DEBATE

Mr. KELLIER: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, once again I am thankful for the opportunity to address this Honourable House in the Sectoral Debate in my capacity as parliamentary representative for the wonderful people of Southern St. James and a Member of the Cabinet with Portfolio responsibilities for Labour and Social Security.

In doing so, Mr. Speaker, I wish to express profound thanks to the Almighty above for His enduring grace and love for all of us. My sincere thanks to the Prime Minister The Most Honourable Portia Simpson Miller for her enlightened leadership and guidance, as well as her expressed confidence in me to carry out the Portfolio responsibilities of Labour and Social Security. Equally, Mr. Speaker, I wish to thank members of my family, my constituents, some of whom are represented here today, my councillors and members of my support staff, (Applause) the Permanent Secretary in the Ministry of Labour Mr. Alvin McIntosh and the hardworking and dedicated and professional staff of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security; our tripartite partners, the trade unions and employer groups and various external stakeholders and, of course, you my Parliamentary colleagues, for the support given to me throughout the past year; and, Mr. Speaker, to your good self and the Deputy and the members of the House staff for the support given to me and to my Ministry over the past year.

The quality of the support extended to me made all the difference to my performance and that of the Ministry over which I exercise policy control.

Mr. Speaker, in pursuit of my objective this afternoon, which is to highlight the commitment of my Ministry in support of the Medium-Term Growth Agenda of the Government of which I'm a part, and I propose at this juncture to draw attention, Mr. Speaker, to the two documents which were laid earlier on the Table of the House, the 2013/2014 Annual Performance Report and the National Employment Report - Issues and Trends in the Labour Market 2008 to 2012 of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security. They are in the form of CDs, Mr. Speaker, so you will not see books; we're keeping up with modern trends.

Mr. PAULWELL: Hear! Hear!

(MR. JAMES RUDOLPH EDWARD ROBERTSON, (JLP), St. Thomas, Western, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. KELLIER: These two documents, Mr. Speaker, complement each other, and I encourage Members and the general public to consult them for substantive and detailed information on the performance of the multi-faceted and varied units and departments of the Ministry during the periods under review, and for an examination of the employment situation in Jamaica, the issues arising therefrom, and the methodologies advanced for treating with them.

This afternoon then, Mr. Speaker, I propose to highlight judiciously that which is the Ministry's focus going forward in implementing those measures, in support of the Growth Agenda and which hold out the greatest prospects leading to the specific outcomes; those of:

- Improvement in the productivity levels in the country
- Improvement in the competitiveness of our businesses and private sector entities
- Improvement in the standard of living of our people
- The creation of decent jobs and greater employment opportunities both locally and overseas
- The ability to strengthen social cohesion and stability throughout the society.

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

(HON. SHARON FFOLKES-ABRAHAMS, (PNP), St. James, West Central, Minister of State in the Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. KELLIER: Mr. Speaker, I must say at the outset that this presentation this afternoon will be much different from those made by me in the past. It will not be one that will be quoting a lot of figures and percentages and so on and giving the full details. Because as I said before, the details are embedded in these two CDs and it is going to be important that Members... (Applause) ...use them to find out what they need to know. I will make reference as I go along, Mr. Speaker, about where you can find some of the information that you need to find. I know some Members are more interested in some form of the information than others...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. McKenzie)

Mr. KELLIER: Yes, yes, I know.

...but certainly, Mr. Speaker, the Members have to consult these documents.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. KELLIER: We know, Mr. Speaker, the country is on to a relatively stable development track. Having to enter into a Memorandum of Economic and Financial Policies IMF Agreement in February 2013 for the four-year period March 2013/14 to March 2016/2017, which sets out the comprehensive Medium-Term Growth Agenda of the Administration, we have experienced relatively good but marginal performance in the economy - though not without some degree of difficulty.

Real Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growth of 0.5% in September 2013 quarter followed a decline of a 0.2% for the preceding quarter and the first quarter of 2014 has registered a growth rate of 1.6% relative to the corresponding period of 2013.

Additionally, Mr. Speaker, the debt - as measured by the Debt-to-GDP ratio - is now moving decidedly in the right direction and is expected to be about 5% to 7% for the fiscal year 2013/2014.

Most encouraging is the fact that the country recently passed the fourth IMF primary balance target... (Applause) ...and according to the 2014 Survey of Business, 57% of firms expected improvements in their business operations in the first quarter of this year, up from 47% last year, and they intend to increase the levels of investment in their companies in the year ahead.

Of note, also, is the stubborn fact that much of this growth-induced improvement has taken place within the context of a faltering world economy with unemployment in countries like Greece and Spain soaring to some 26% with that of our college graduates in those areas is way above 50%.

But, Mr. Speaker, despite our relative success thus far at accelerated economic restructuring of the Jamaican economy and the favourable response by our internal and external stakeholders to our efforts at economic rebalancing, the fact remains that our options remain extremely limited in terms of what we must do in putting ourselves back on a path of sustained development.

Our survival in this brave new world of the 21st century is dependent now more than ever before on our ability to live together and to learn to work smarter. In this regard, the only basis for guaranteeing our prosperity going forward into this century is predicated on us as a resilient people growing our way out of indebtedness, increasing employment, and shifting radically, and urgently, from a culture of negative to positive productivity growth.

Mr. Speaker, I regret to say that unless we turn around our experience in this country with negative productivity growth which continues to stifle our potential to grow the economy, create jobs, improve the quality of life of the majority of our people, and make our goods and services much more competitive regionally and internationally, our economic reform programme - which, as a society we have worked so hard to maintain over these past seventeen months - could be unraveled to the detriment of all of us.

Mr. Speaker, just consider along with me the following set of facts:

- Rapid labour productivity growth in China, which currently stands at 8.2% per annum, means that output per worker in that country will double in 8.5 years.
- In other words, income per worker in China will rise rapidly going forward.
- In contrast, with labour productivity in Latin America averaging only 1.1% annually, it means that it will take some 63 years for output per worker to double.
- Expressed differently, it will take close to three generations for wages and the standard of living to double in that jurisdiction.

In consideration, Mr. Speaker, of these facts and with Jamaica's labour productivity declining on average by 0.14% annually over the period between 1990 to 2012, can you, Mr. Speaker, and Members of this House and of the general public, imagine the prospects we face in this country in these turbulent economic times if we fail to treat the issue of productivity growth as literally a life and death issue of survival?

This is the reason why I launched the Productivity Revolution for this country two years ago in recognition of the fact that economic growth in Jamaica over the past several decades has underperformed relative to selective countries in the Caribbean, Latin America and the rest of the world.

The objective conditions necessitating this revolution remain a growing concern, which is one critical reason why this initiative must succeed at all costs; for we will not be able to stimulate economic growth or Gross Domestic Product and create gainful decent employment with an annual labour productivity of 0.14% compared to other countries globally.

Neither can we hope to have better service quality, less expensive cost of production, stronger institutional arrangements, better labour management cooperation, and better work ethics while being burdened by a declining average annual Total Factor

Productivity rate of 0.6% compared to countries such as Trinidad and Tobago, India and China with vastly higher Total Factor Productivity rates.

In light of this, Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Labour and Social Security has gone to great lengths to strengthen considerably, the commitment of the Jamaica Productivity Centre as the government's main productivity promotions unit through increased allocation of resources to spearhead the productivity revolution now on the way throughout the country. And if you listen to the news and listen to the radio very often you will hear the productivity jingles very often, because we want everybody to log on to the culture of productivity in this country.

We have launched a public education campaign, Mr. Speaker that seeks to change the culture and mindset of the mass of the population as a prerequisite for the success of productivity transformation, because productivity is about prosperity.

(Applause)

We will be erecting three major billboards along the Norman Manley International Airport and Trafalgar roads in Kingston, as well as roads in Montego Bay, to sensitize Jamaicans about productivity, because productivity is about prosperity. (Applause)

We propose to make the Schools' Productivity Improvement Project an annual event so as to raise the level of consciousness of our students to the principle of continuous improvement and a better understanding of productivity, because productivity is about prosperity. (Applause)

The Jamaica Productivity Centre will also be increasing the number of productivity audits carried out in private and public sector organizations, because productivity is about prosperity. (Applause)

It will further collaborate with public sector entities to develop new business models for improving service delivery, because, Mr. Speaker, productivity is about prosperity. And it will increase research to enhance worker satisfaction, flexibility, productivity and labour market efficiency, because productivity is about prosperity. And that message must continue to resound throughout the length and breadth of this country.

Mr. Speaker, let me be very clear in stating that the drive to spearhead a productivity revolution in Jamaica, supersedes any attempt at rhetoric about social change, because it is complements by a logical agenda that seeks to reform our labour market as part and parcel of the larger strategy of productivity transformation.

And I therefore wish to advise Members of this Honourable House and the general public, Mr. Speaker, that the long-term goal of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security under my leadership, and in partnership with the trade unions, employers - and various training agencies such as HEART TRUST/NTA - is to ensure that the Jamaican workforce becomes more responsive, competitive and productive on a worldwide basis, by becoming certified, trained and flexible.

For the reform of the Jamaica labour market, Mr. Speaker, is of critical importance if we are to properly develop the economy so as to end the process of brain- migration, stem the paucity of relevant skill- sets in relation to the demands of industry, and, indeed, to boost productivity. (Applause)

(HON. JULIAN JAY ROBINSON, (PNP), St. Andrew, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Science, Technology, Energy and Mining, entered and took his seat.)

While we know that Jamaican industry lacks adequate investments, it is also a fact that its capacity to grow is materially affected by low levels of total factor productivity. In other words, Mr. Speaker, our labour force is not competitive enough to enable industry in Jamaica to thrive in a manner to be globally competitive.

To stem this negative tide, therefore, the Ministry of Labour and Social Security is moving assiduously to amend several labour laws, most notably among them, the Holidays with Pay Act, the Minimum Wage Act, the Foreign Nationals and Commonwealth Citizenship (Employment) Act, and the Labour Relations and Industrial Disputes Act.

In addition, Mr. Speaker, and in furtherance of the process of reform, the establishment of a Commission for Labour Market Reform is being proposed. This Labour Market Reform Commission, Mr. Speaker, will be tasked with conducting consultations with the relevant stakeholders relating to education and training, technology and innovation, labour policies and legislation, social protection, industrial relations and productivity. The major findings and recommendations from these consultations will be used for further legislative amendments and to generate policies and programmes to be implemented by the relevant ministries, departments and agencies.

Mr. Speaker, the actual composition and Terms of Reference of this Commission will be announced at a later date. At present, Mr. Speaker, we have done a considerable amount of work in-house in addressing the mis-match between training and employment. This process includes the revamping of the Electronic Labour Exchange (ELE) platform and the facility to match high-skilled and professional jobseekers with prospective employers via the Jamaica Employment Programme, which is designed to impact the level of unemployment among members of the professional class. What we have done in effect, Mr. Speaker, is to bring these labour market platforms to the level where their proper use by employers can boost considerably job creation in Jamaica on the road to the building of a better and more productive nation.

Mr. Speaker, I come to the section relating the Flexi-Work Arrangements. It has been some eighteen (18) years, Mr. Speaker that we as a nation have grappled with the issues surrounding the implementation of flexible work arrangements. From as far back as 1996, Labour Market Reform Committee chaired by Professor George Eaton had recommended the implementation of flexible work arrangements as one of the strategies for reform of Jamaica

Labour Market. It was recognized that flexibility in the labour market is crucial to the country's ability to compete and survive in the global economy. As was stated by the International Labour Organization:

> "In the global marketplace the driving force for industry is to stay competitive, this means searching for greater flexibility and lower labour cost".

(Applause)

A consultative approach has always been taken by the Government and in particular, the Ministry of Labour and Social Security in determining whether or not to implement flexible work and this goes across both governments.

In July 2000, Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Labour and Social Security appointed a flexi-work committee comprised of representatives of the tri-partite, the Jamaican Employers' Federation, the Jamaica Confederation of Trade Unions and the Ministry of Labour and Social Security. This Committee was also comprised of representatives of the Jamaica Manufacturers Association, the Jamaica Council of Churches, the University and Allied Workers Union and Government Ministries. One of the main responsibilities of this Committee was to examine the impact that flexi-work would have on the religious worship.

In the year 2001, a Green Paper on flexible work arrangements was tabled in the House of Parliament and circulated throughout the island, Mr. Speaker, to facilitate discussion. The Green Paper identified what is meant by the term 'flexible work arrangements' the benefits and objections to implementation and the proposed policy to be adopted. And in an effort to ensure that all stakeholders were given the opportunity to be heard, further, the Parliament decided to refer the matter to a Joint Select Committee of Parliament which would invite further discussions from stakeholder groups and interested citizens on that Joint Select Committee, Mr. Speaker, the last one was chaired by the former Minister - the Member from North Central Clarendon.

The Committee grappled with a number of issues and keenly listened to and considered oral and written submissions from several interested parties. Submissions were made by the West Indian Union of Seven Day Adventist, the Concerned Church Leaders Group, the Jamaica Employers Federation, the Jamaica Chamber of Commerce and the Bureau of Women's Affairs. The Committee also reviewed the opinions of organization such as The Jamaica Confederation of Trade Unions, the Private Sector Organization of Jamaica, the Jamaica Hotel and Tourist Association, the Jamaica Manufacturers' Association, and the Jamaica Association of Women's Organizations. Having heard all the parties, the Joint Select Committee made several recommendations to Parliament in 2010, relating to the implementation of the flexible work arrangements. Both Houses of Parliament approved the recommendations of the JSC in the year 2010; these recommendations now represent the approved policy as set out in Ministry Paper on flexi-work which was tabled in Parliament in September 2013.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, it is quite evident that the ability of Jamaica to compete effectively and successfully in the global economy must at all times be at the forefront of any consideration about the implementation of the Growth Agenda. But our success, at global competition will only materialize when we are able to improve our levels of productivity and employment in addition to being able to attract investments into the country.

We have therefore concluded, after long and arduous debates and consultations, that the implementation of Flexible Work Arrangements can assist the country greatly in meeting these objectives.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. KELLIER: Consequently, the Employment (Flexible Work Arrangements) (Miscellaneous) Provisions Bill was tabled by me in this Honourable House on March 25 of this year, and I am pleased to report that it will be debated in this Parliament by September 2014.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, as I have said elsewhere, the impending debate will take into consideration, inter alia, the fact that; There will be no set 8 or 10 hours work days, but instead the work day should be capped at a maximum of 12 hours, that the work week should consist of 40 hours, That all seven days of the week should be considered as possible normal working days, and that overtime should be earned after the worker has completed 40 hours.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the decision to introduce flexible work options as an element of nation-building is expected to vary the traditional Monday to Friday, 9 to 5 work pattern. They are designed, furthermore, to enhance the balance between work and other forms of activities beyond the workplace, giving employers more options to meet business and customer needs while providing employees with more time to meet personal or family needs, and/or to pursue other jobs.

Mr. Speaker, let me address the business community directly on this score by saying that the proposed changes to the new work arrangements does not, and I repeat, does not mean that employers will be obliged, or will be forced to implement such work arrangements. We are saying that the new piece of legislation will be so structured so as to give employers the option to examine their establishments, to determine whether flexible work arrangements will be beneficial to the organization. So, for our part, we are pressing ahead with this Bill which seeks to remove all legislative impediments to flexi-work because productivity is about prosperity.

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear! Forward ever, backward never.

Mr. KELLIER: In all of this, Mr. Speaker, we have to connect the whole business of harmonious industrial relations and cooperation. The advent of industrial dis-harmony and strife is a direct threat to the prospect of economic growth and prosperity anywhere in the world. In circumstances where capital and labour are unable to creatively co-exist in an atmosphere of mutual respect and shared vision and outlook, all prospects for new investments and their attendant benefits to the wider society and the economy are doomed to failure. However, despite the austere economic environment in which we are currently operating, Jamaica boasts a relatively stable and harmonious industrial relations climate on account of an extremely high level of cooperation and shared responsiveness to the challenges between the tri-partite social partners, that is the trade unions, management and the Government.

(Applause)

In fact, Mr. Speaker, I want to take this opportunity this afternoon on behalf of the Government and the entire management and staff of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security to publicly thank the public sector workers of Jamaica for their magnificent sense of patriotism and for answering the call... (Applause) ...to exercise patience, restraint and good judgement at a time when the country had to settle down and navigate intelligently the most serious fiscal turbulence in the post independence period.

(Applause)

And, Mr. Speaker, in making this commendation I want to associate my colleague, the Minister Without Portfolio in the Ministry of Finance for his tremendous work and dedication (Applause) to this process. Without their commitment, Mr. Speaker, of putting the principle of nation-building before personal interests, it is doubtful whether the country would have been able to mount a relatively successful economic recovery thus far.

This bodes well for the future, the Growth Agenda, and I invite the Members of this Honourable House to salute our cadre of management and workers who want to see Jamaica prosper - because productivity is about prosperity.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the 2013/2014 Annual Performance Review to which I referred earlier, of the Ministry, sets out in some detail on pages 38 to 46 the trends and highlights pertaining to this 48-year-old Overseas Employment Programme. It is well tabulated here, Mr. Speaker, so I will not go through it and save time for the House.

But just to say the projections for 2014/2015 are as follows, based on investigations and data that we have received at the Ministry as to what the labour market looks like in North America. We intend to place this year some 16,400 persons in employment overseas. (Applause) What that means this time around is that there will be an addition of some 3,300 new jobs, not the recurrent ones; 3,300 new registered additional jobs.

(Applause) (Cross talk)

The SPEAKER: The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time be extended to allow him time to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question that the Member's time be extended sufficiently for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

Minister Kellier.

(Applause)

Mr. KELLIER: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and thank you my colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, under this projection, we also intend to forge new partnerships and strengthen existing ones with employers in the USA and Canada. Our liaison service, Mr. Speaker, the workers that are involved in that programme, need to be commended by this House because they do a tremendous job on behalf of the workers of this nation. (Applause) We intend to collect and compile data for persons placed through private employment agencies, locally and overseas, because as the House will know the Ministry of Labour and Social Security has responsibility for overseeing the private employment agency as well. We will be conducting pre-selection activities for the Canadian farm work programme, as well as the USA, and we intend to construct a gazebo as part of the physical infrastructural development of the Overseas Employment Centre at East Street. We want to make the place look more user-friendly and more attractive. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry continues to explore creative ways in which to enhance the growth and development of the programme in line with the ever changing demands of the labour market. The United States Farm Work and Hospitality Programme and the Canadian Farm and Factory Programme continue to receive serious attention by my Ministry in terms of exploration of further expansion of opportunities they continue to provide for Jamaican workers in search of employment overseas. The contribution of these programmes, Mr. Speaker, to job creation under the growth agenda is impatient of debate and we are committed to deepening our resolve in search of new employment opportunities to open new frontiers particularly in the Oil Sands region of Western Canada and the Pacific Rim states of the United States of America. Success in these endeavours will continue to redound to the benefit of Jamaica by way of further job creation, increased remittances into the local economy, the provision of own-account, small and medium scale entrepreneurial opportunities for thousands of Jamaicans here at home, as well as the overall development of communities and families all throughout the island.

(MISS JOYCE DENISE DALEY, (PNP), St. Catherine, Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. Speaker, with this in mind, I now wish to announce to this Honourable House this afternoon that the Ministry will be undertaking a pre-selection exercise for both the Canadian and the U.S. Farm Work Programme over the three-week period from July 7 to 28 of this year. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Clap nuh man.

(Cross talk)

Mr. KELLIER: And, Mr. Speaker, for what I am about to say, I know that the sixty-two other Members of this House and those outside have a tremendous interest, so I want everybody to listen very carefully to everything that I am going to say.

(Cross talk)

In order to reduce cost and enhance greater efficiency, Mr. Speaker, this year's recruitment exercise will see us maintaining one pool of workers for both the United States and the Canadian programme. (Applause) We have to cut the cost and make it more efficient, more manageable and easier to track the persons that are within the programme.

(HON. COLIN ALFRED A FAGAN, (PNP), St. Catherine, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

Additionally, the recruitment exercise this year will see accredited Local Government Councillors joining with Members of Parliament, trade unions and various civic groups in the distribution of application forms for the programmes.

Government MEMBER: Tek a sip, tek a sip.

Mr. KELLIER: Once again, Mr. Speaker, the allocation of forms specifically to Members of Parliament will be determined based on whether their respective constituencies are of urban or rural origin.

(Applause/Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, as a policy, Members of Parliament from rural constituencies can now expect to receive a greater number of application forms vis-a-vis their urban counterparts. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, I wish to state that I will be and the officers of the Ministry will be issuing the application forms to Members of Parliament of this Honourable House this afternoon for distribution to suitably qualified candidates in their respective constituencies with farming experience and/or training.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, my emphasis on candidates having farming experience and/or training is for a good reason. Experience have shown that candidates so qualified stand the greatest chance of convincing the U.S. and Canadian authorities that they are genuine bona fide toilers of the soil who are deserving of the opportunity to travel abroad to practice their craft.

In light of this Mr. Speaker, let me, therefore, reiterate that in completing the forms and returning them to their respective Members of Parliament prospective candidates must ensure - and listen to this carefully, we are making adjustments now over last year that:

- they are between the ages of 21-45. Last year it was 40. We're moving it up to 45 (Applause)

Give some real men a chance.

- they must have farming experience;
- possess a certified copy of their birth certificates

- they are literate
- are of good character and in good health
- possess a valid Jamaican passport or a CARICOM passport
- they are free of any criminal record
- have not been deported from any country
- have not been previously disqualified from any overseas employment programme due to medical or other reasons.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, all completed forms which must be submitted to the Ministry of Labour and Social Security by the June 16, 2014 should be accompanied by a passport-sized photograph of the candidate and a character reference either from a former employer, a Justice of the Peace, or a security officer.

(Cross talk)

Finally, on this subject Mr. Speaker, let me state categorically that candidates who are successful in the interview will be fingerprinted and their prints sent to the Criminal Records Office to determine criminal antecedents. Those found to have criminal records will be rejected from the programme. For we want only the best of our citizens to be Jamaica's ambassadors overseas in enhancing Brand Jamaica as a tool for increasing our competitiveness in the global labour market chain, because productivity, Mr. Speaker, is all about prosperity. The Members of Parliament within the urban clutch will receive twenty forms while the rural will receive forty forms.

(Applause/Cross talk)

The Members of Parliament in the rural areas will receive forty forms and the Members of Parliament in the urban areas will receive twenty forms....

(Cross talk/The Speaker gavels)

Mr. Speaker, as I said -

(Cross talk)

Yes, yes.

(The Speaker gavels)

I know there is a lot of excitement generated on this subject Mr. Speaker, but as I said earlier, the Councillors who are also elected representatives are being brought into the action as well. (Applause) Last year, we started the programme on a trial basis. We made sure to give every Councillor every single one had access to two forms and the mayors three. This year we are moving it up. Every Councillor will receive four forms and the Mayors will receive five. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, as I said from the outset, my primary focus in this presentation this afternoon is to reinforce the commitment of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security to the Government's medium-term growth and restructuring agenda. And turning to the National Insurance Fund, therefore, which currently contributes some 4 per cent of GDP with a current value of some $67.5 Billion as at March 2014, I wish to advise this Honourable House that there is now built into the core value of the Fund a strong component which is dedicated to job creation, increasing export and promoting the practice of import substitution. And if you looked at pages 62 to 65 in the Report that I spoke of earlier, you will see the details. The refurbishing work on the Braco Hotel, for example, when completed in the third quarter of 2014/2015, will put an additional 300 Jamaicans back to work on a full-time basis and a sustainable one (Applause) when the hotel re-opens.

The NIF, going forward, Mr. Speaker, will also continue to partner with other dynamic agencies, such as the Development Bank of Jamaica and JAMPRO, to develop job creating projects. For example, the Fund is a member of the investor panel, which has been created by the DBJ, to evaluate and invest in businesses which make proposals for venture capital funding. (Applause) And currently, the Fund is lending money to the DBJ for on-lending to the SME sector funder a $1.5 Billion SME loan programme and is in discussion with JAMPRO about developing space for the outsourcing ICT sector, either on lands already owned by the NIF or other Greenfield investments. (Applause)

With an eye, Mr. Speaker, on the $1.5 Billion SME loan programme, the Fund will go further in the 2014/2015 financial year and target three entities and groups where the need for financing remains largely underserved, namely, the creative industries, persons with disabilities, and the youth. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Very good.

Mr. KELLIER: Loans are currently being structured for persons in these groups, which are affordable and designed to encourage entrepreneurship. (Applause) Clearly, Mr. Speaker, the management of the National Insurance Fund is aligned with meeting the objectives of the Government's Growth Agenda because productivity is about prosperity.

(Sotto voce comments/Applause)

Mr. KELLIER: In light of all of this, Mr. Speaker, nonetheless, there is need for the reforming of the National Insurance Scheme. The National Insurance Scheme celebrates 48 years of operation this year. As you know, it is a compulsory contributory scheme that provides financial protection to its contributors and their families, against loss of income arising from injury on the job, incapacity, retirement and/or death. Again, if you look at page 66 to 71 of the Annual Performance Report, the information is embedded there, and I won't border on your patience, Mr. Speaker, with the time.

Up to the end of March 2014, benefits were being paid to over 107,000, over 7,000 persons - pensioners were overseas and 100,000 here in Jamaica. The benefits provided under the scheme amounted to approximately $14.7 Billion for the period April 1, 2013 to March 31, 2014. But, for that same period, the contributions to the Scheme totalled approximately $12 Billion. That means, you are short approximately 2.7 - roughly $3 Billion to balance the issues there.

In light of that, Mr. Speaker, you have to understand that if the National Insurance Fund is to remain viable, this untenable situation where benefits continue to outweigh contributions must be curtailed. As I have already established, the NIF is an important element of the Growth Agenda, providing as it does, social protection for its contributors and their dependencies. The gap of approximately $3 Billion that currently obtains, of the NIS contributions to service its contributors, is made up from the proceeds from the National Insurance Fund. In the last end, it was about $3 Billion of its earnings that the Fund had to pass on to pay - to ensure that all pensioners receive their pension.

But despite this challenge, Mr. Speaker, there is a light at the end of the tunnel. Through the assistance of the Inter-American Development Bank, the IDB, the Ministry of Labour and Social Security has received an Actuarial Evaluation Report and a road map for the reform of the scheme. The Report, Mr. Speaker, will shortly be submitted to the Cabinet for consideration with a view to the implementation of the measures to increase the efficiency of the administration of the Scheme and the continued growth and long-term sustainability of the National Insurance Fund.

I turn now, Mr. Speaker, to the very important subject of bringing persons with disabilities into the spotlight. Mr. Speaker, a great deal of the thrust by the Government to implement the Growth Agenda, aimed at debt reduction, job creation, structural and legislative reform, and social stability, rest on respecting everyone's right, and the recognition that every Jamaican has a responsibility to play their part in the process of nation-building.

Nowhere could this nation be more tested than in the way that we as a nation treat persons with disabilities, whether at work, at home, in the community, and in our democracy at large.

Despite our ratification of the UN Convention on the Protection of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities in 2007, hundreds of persons with disabilities report continuing discrimination in their daily lives in Jamaica. They experience unacceptable levels of disadvantage, exclusion, stigma, abuse, violence, and regrettably, hate crimes.

Given this, Mr. Speaker, I am extremely pleased that the landmark National Disabilities Bill, 2014, was tabled in this Honourable House on May 7, and will be debated early in this legislative year. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I want the nation to know that this Parliament will be setting the example and leading the way to comply with the Bill, as they are currently seeking quotations for the retrofitting of Gordon House to enable access by persons with disabilities to this facility. (Applause)

The Bill will seek to promote, protect, and ensure the full and equal employment of persons with disabilities, of privileges, interests, benefits, and treatment on an equal basis with other persons in the community. Its enactment will also pave the way for enhanced contribution by persons with disabilities to the society and economy of Jamaica, by removing impediments to their full participation as citizens within the labour market. (Applause)

I invite the entire nation to join us in the pursuit of this effort because our failure hitherto, to build an economy and transform our labour market in which persons with disabilities can play their full part, has left us poorer as a result.

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. KELLIER: For this reason, priority was placed in this year's Budget, on programmes that will empower persons with disabilities and ensure their preparation and participation in the labour market. Again, Mr. Speaker, we consult pages 88 to 97 of the Annual Performance Review Report; the information is there.

Some $67 Million in grant funding has been earmarked for this purpose from the World Bank, the Japanese Development Fund, that will support social, economic, and labour market inclusion of persons with disabilities in Jamaica, in full alignment with the Government's strategy to reduce poverty by investing in human capital development of our vulnerable groups. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in the restructuring of the economy, we cannot afford to leave any group with the potential to be productive behind...

A MEMBER: Hear, Hear!

Mr. KELLIER: ...because productivity is about prosperity.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Absolutely!

Mr. KELLIER: Mr. Speaker, under the project in question, approximately 300 persons with disabilities between the ages of 18 to 36 years of age are set to benefit from skills development training, and placed in jobs suitable to their qualifications, because productivity is about prosperity. (Applause)

In addition, the initiative to provide the disabled community, those from poor socio-economic background with access to skills training and employment opportunities will further serve to reduce poverty and inequality in Jamaica, because productivity is about prosperity.

(Applause)

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Mr. KELLIER: Mr. Speaker, our commitment to persons with disabilities does not stop there. We propose, within this financial year, to expend a further $15 Million in grant funding through the IDB to strengthen the capacity of the Jamaica Council for Persons with Disabilities in its effort to identify and target persons with disabilities for social benefits and labour market opportunities on a continuous basis. This is being done through an ongoing island wide registration exercise of persons with disabilities, and the creation of a Management Information System that can provide critical socio and economic information on persons with disabilities.

And here I wish to pause, Mr. Speaker, to use this opportunity to encourage persons with disabilities in Jamaica to get registered. I am appealing also to everyone who knows of such persons in their communities to please ensure that they are accounted for through this ongoing registration process. We do not intend to leave any one behind.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Not even Desmond.

Mr. KELLIER: Mr. Speaker, every parish office of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security has a registration centre, and it is easily accessible, so we encourage all persons to go there.

Mr. DALLEY: Desmond, you register already?

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. KELLIER: Mr. Speaker, we cannot understate the importance of the partnership that my Ministry has formed with our Development Partners: the private sector, NGOs and other countries, in delivering these initiatives to our citizens with disabilities, and we wish to thank them.

And so, on behalf of the entire staff of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security, I wish to place on record the gratitude and thanks of the Government to our partners who have been providing financial and/or technical support, to assist in designing and delivering services to our citizens with disabilities. Thanks, therefore, to the Government of Japan, the Spanish/Jamaica Foundation...

Mr. DALLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. KELLIER: ...the World Bank, the IDB and Digicel Foundation.

(Applause)

We welcome on board other like-minded organizations to work with us to empower persons with disabilities in Jamaica/to attaining economic independence, becoming more productive members of the society, and to making their individual and collective contribution to the Growth Agenda, because productivity is about prosperity.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to enjoin all the Members of this Honourable House who go around campaigning in all the hills and valleys, and in nooks and crannies of Jamaica, to all those persons who they have passed on the house-to-house campaigns, that are disabled to ensure that all those persons are registered and accounted for... (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. KELLIER: ...because we can only plan for them when we know where they are, what state they are in, and what their needs are. So, I am appealing to all of us to take the lead in that regard, in this Honourable House.

To the churches, their membership that they have all over the island, Mr. Speaker... the church has the largest congregation and are in touch with almost every single soul in this country, to help us in this mission to ensure that the disabled persons in the community can take their rightful place amongst all of us. It is something that we have committed ourselves to when we signed the Charter in 2007, and we must continue to uphold it. (Applause)

When the Debate is to take place later on this year, Mr. Speaker, having laid the Bill, we expect to get the contributions from all the Members because this Bill is going to affect every single one of us. So, I am just saying to the Members from now, prepare, for we are not going to be debating it for the whole year, but we want everyone to prepare so we can make our precise input into that Bill, and to show the unity that is within the Parliament when it comes to issues relating to persons with disabilities.

We had promised the nation that we would deliver to them before Independence this year, the Bill, signed, sealed, and approved; and we intend to do so with the support of both sides of this Honourable House.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. KELLIER: Mr. Speaker, in order to ensure social stability and cohesion during this period of economic and social transformation efforts are made to protect the well being of the most vulnerable among us by the provision of assistance in the form of grants to those who are unable to access loans from reputable financial institutions.

In the 2013/14 Budget, 7,629 families were assisted with over $127 Million in grants to carry out repairs to dwellings and see to the burials of their loved ones, Desmond, access medical care and to be engaged in entrepreneurial activities.

On the issue of burials, Mr. Speaker, we in the Ministry of Labour and Social Security have noticed over time an emerging phenomenon where economically challenged families are finding it extremely difficult to bury their dead. Because of the increase in costs of providing the deceased with a good send off the burden of burying the dead has shifted now to the State and the first call when people die now is to the door of the Member of Parliament.

In the case of the Ministry of Labour and Social Security, we are usually asked to step in and either provide partial financial support to bereaved families, or in some instances, to assume full responsibility for their entire funeral expenses.

Mr. Speaker, we appreciate that for most families our contribution is minimal and inadequate. In view of this, I wish to advise that in going forward we will have to make the appropriate representation for special budgetary provisions to tackle this problem, especially in light of the phenomenon of the aggravated high incidents of violent and vicious killings and other traumatic deaths in the country.

Over and against this, however, the Ministry has budgeted some $139 Million in this financial year's budget to assist some 7000 families to improving their living conditions.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in recognition of the inability of Members of Parliament to inadequately respond to the material needs of needy persons within their constituencies due to severe fiscal constraints, some $75 Million in the Ministry's Budget for 2013/14 financial year was made to assist needy persons, persons recommended by their parliamentary representatives needing to improve their nutritional status, housing conditions, and indeed to start small income generating businesses.

A total of 6,000 persons were assisted with grants under this initiative. The evaluation carried out by our social workers on the majority of these projects determined that these were well-designed, effectively implemented and satisfactorily assisted the beneficiaries to improve their lives.

Based on the positive effects of this that these grants had on the intended beneficiaries, and the appreciative response of the Members of Parliament, the Government of Jamaica and the Most Honourable Prime Minister has insisted that another $75 Million be made available in this year's Budget to assist an additional 6,000 persons, and you can look forward later on in this year to receive such support.

(Applause)

I appeal to Members of this Honourable House, in ensuring the success of the next phase of this project to increase their monitoring functions of the use of these grants to empower the most vulnerable in an effort to decrease their vulnerability and thereby contribute to the growth and stability of their families, communities and the nation as a whole.

Mr. Speaker, I want to speak very quickly about the social graduation issues relative to the PATH programme.

The Government, in its drive to ensure the inclusion of vulnerable groups in the productive workforce, will be making provisions for the participation of working-aged adults in the labour market that are from poor families that are in receipt of welfare assistance.

The Cabinet recently approved the phased implementation of a graduation strategy which will see some 1,000 welfare families which should amount to some 2,000 individuals participating in the phased implementation of a welfare-to-work programme which is expected to cost some $600 Million over the next two years. (Applause)

Three main outcomes are anticipated from the implementation of the strategy:

- The reduction in the number of beneficiaries who receive welfare support;
- Increased human capital accumulation among welfare families enabling them to seek and retain employment and economic opportunities;
- Increased ability of the welfare families to respond to and recover from shocks.

Mr. Speaker, two main intervention modalities will be used in this exercise: Welfare-To-Work Intervention through the Steps-To-Work Programme, where working-aged members of poor families in receipt of welfare assistance will be enabled to seek and retain employment and economic opportunities through skills-training, job readiness preparation and access to employment and or entrepreneurial opportunities.

Case management.

The Ministry of Labour and Social Security has developed what we call resilience standard indicators to assist families recover from shock. These indicators assist families to develop the capacity to deal with myriad challenges on a daily basis, and in pursuit of this objective, our social workers will be engaged to provide the necessary intervention to affect stability and prevent the drift of vulnerable members of the society into deviant social behaviour.

In all of this, Mr. Speaker, our aim is to empower our most vulnerable families to successfully transit from a state of dependency to a state of socio-economic independence.

(Applause)

We want them to rely less on the benefits of welfare programmes by transitioning to be able to provide for themselves through the participation in the labour market and contributing in the process to national development under the Growth Agenda, because, Mr. Speaker, productivity is about prosperity.

In concluding, Mr. Speaker, I have been deliberately judicious in my presentation this afternoon, because I do not believe that it is essential for me to spend an inordinately long time at the wicket to get the point across. (Applause)

That our survival as a nation during these challenging economic times depends on each and every one of us taking responsibility for the ownership of the future. The Government of which I am a part is engaged in doing this and we seek greater levels of partnership to succeed in meeting the urgent material needs of our people.

At the Ministry of Labour and Social Security we are acting as a team with a eminently sensible view that the prevailing Growth Agenda stands the greatest prospect for success with the creative redirection of resources towards enhancing human capital inclusive of vulnerable individuals within the society, to effectively participate in the labour market so as to advance the national productivity process of Project Jamaica.

No longer, therefore, Mr. Speaker, are we prepared from a policy point of view to pursue a purely compensatory path in dealing with our human resources. The strategy going forward will be developmental in nature in all that we do. For unless this is done, all we will be doing is perpetuating the debilitating cycle of poverty and dependency.

This malady is unacceptable, if we are to grow our way out of indebtedness, unemployment and productivity stagnation. Indeed, the time has come for us as a nation to begin to seriously think boldly about the future, that is how to shape and own it.

I dare say, Mr. Speaker that we have no choice in this matter, for if we do not seek to own the future, we will not control our destiny.

Our destiny now as a nation, without any equivocation, is to continue to grow the economy, create as best we can decent jobs for our people, gradually restructure the labour market, improve considerably our social relations and involve the mass of the population in a productivity revolution never before undertaken in this country. (Applause)

We in the Ministry of Labour and Social Security and our social partners stand ready to play our part in this change process, because we know, and the facts confirm, that ultimately productivity is about prosperity.

I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

(Heckling)

Mr. CHUCK: Derrick, where the farm work gone?

(Heckling by Opposition Members)

(Gavels)

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move that we recommit item, Notices of Motions Given Orally.

The SPEAKER: The question is for the recommittal of item, Notices of Motions Given Orally.

Put to the House and agreed to.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY (Recommitted)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move:

Whereas by virtue of subsection (1) of Section 3 of the Provisional Collection of Tax Act, hereinafter referred to as the Act, the Minister may make an order providing for the variation of any tax for the time being enforced or for the renewal for a further period of any tax enforced during the previous financial year or which was imposed for any limited period;

And Whereas under the above provision the Minister made the Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting, Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Scheme) (Overseas Horse-Races and Races of any approved species of animal) Order, 2014, which was published on March 31st, 2014, in the Jamaica Gazette Supplement Proclamation Rules and Regulations;

And Whereas subsection (4) of Section 3 of the Act provides that every Order made under subsection (1) of that section shall cease to have effect unless it is confirmed with or without modification by resolution of the House of Representatives within the next 30 days on which the House sits, after the date of publication by Order in the gazette;

And Whereas it is desirable that the Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting, Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Scheme) (Overseas Horse-Races and Races of any approved species of animal) Order, 2014, be affirmed;

Now Therefore Be it Resolved by this Honourable House of Representatives as follows:

1) The Resolution may be cited as the Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Schemes) (Overseas Horse Races and Races of any approved species of animal confirmation) Order, 2014 Resolution.
2) The Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Scheme) (Overseas Horse Races and Races of any approved species of animal) Order, 2014, which was laid on the Table of the House on the 24th day May, 2014, is hereby confirmed.

Also, Mr. Speaker, I will move:

"Whereas by virtue of subsection (i) of Section (3) of the Provisional Collection of Tax Act, hereinafter referred to as the Act, the Minister may make an Order providing for the variation of any tax for the time being enforced for the renewal of a further period of any tax enforced during the previous financial year, or which was imposed for any limited period;

And Whereas under the above Provision the Minister made the Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting, Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Scheme) Order, 2014, which was published on March 31st, 2014, in the Jamaica Gazette Supplement Proclamation, Rules and Regulations;

And Whereas subsection (4) of Section (3) of the Act provides that every Order made under subsection (i) of that Act shall cease to have effect unless it is confirmed with or without modification by resolution of the House of Representatives within the next thirty days on which the House sits after the date of publication of the Order in the Gazette;

And Whereas it is desirable that the Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting, Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Scheme) Order, 2014, be affirmed;

Now Therefore, Be it Resolved by this Honourable House of Representatives as follows:

i) The Resolution may be cited as the Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting, Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Scheme) (Confirmation) Order, 2014 Resolution;

ii) The Provisional Collection of Tax (Betting, Gaming and Lotteries) (Bookmakers' Levy Scheme) Order, 2014, which was laid on the Table of the House on the 28th day of May, 2014, is hereby confirmed."

The SPEAKER: House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, we now revert to Public Business, and the Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport and Works will now make his contribution.

SECTORAL DEBATE

The SPEAKER: Minister Azan.

(Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: All right. Ready, set, go!

Mr. AZAN:

"Oh, Lord, Oh, Lord, how excellent is Your name in all the earth You have set Your glory above the Heavens."

(Applause)

Mr. DALLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. McKENZIE: You want some Cream soda and two white candles.

(Laughter/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, Members of this Honourable House, a good day to you all. I thank the Almighty for His saving grace and for His blessing, my health and my strength. It was Mother Teresa, who I quote, Mr. Speaker:

"People are often unreasonable and self-centered; forgive them anyway. If you are kind people may accuse you of ulterior motives; be kind anyway.

If you are honest people may accuse you otherwise; but be honest anyway. "

(Applause)

"If you find happiness people may be jealous; but be happy anyway."

(Applause)

"The good you do today may be forgotten tomorrow; do good anyway, Desmond." (Applause)

"Give the world the best you have and it may never be enough; give the best anyway." (Applause)

For you see, in the end it is between you and God; it was never between you and them anyway." (Applause)

How profound a statement, Mr. Speaker. Many of us have a hard time being truthful to ourselves, allowing others to define who we are. We lose our ability to discover and grow inwardly, no longer are we able to see the truth from lie. For many of us we have accepted lies for too long, that finding out what is truth takes quite a bit of time. This journey, if discovered, can be difficult but never be impossible.

Mr. Speaker, I am extremely pleased to rise to make my contribution to the Sectoral Debate.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: In this regard I would like to thank the Most Honourable Prime Minister... (Applause) ...for affording me this opportunity to continue to serve in this capacity as Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport and Works.

(Applause)

And, Mr. Speaker, publicly, I want to say to the Most Honourable Prime Minister, I will not fail you. (Applause) I will not fail the people of Jamaica. (Applause) And most of all, Mr. Speaker, I will not fail my Almighty God.

(Applause)

I also acknowledge you, Mr. Speaker, the Clerk and her staff, for the tremendous work they are doing.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: I want to congratulate my Minister of Transport and Works - and I want to wish him happy birthday, today - (Applause) ...for his continued support, the steady leadership of the Ministry of which I am the Minister of State, and for allowing me the latitude in this capacity to discharge my function assigned to me, with confidence. (Applause)

To my assistant, executive assistant, my driver - and Mr. Speaker, I want to add the office attendants...

Mr. ROBINSON: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: ...who, without them sometimes the office couldn't run. (Applause) I want to thank them also.

(Inaudible comment from Mr. McKenzie)

(Laughter)

Mr. AZAN: To the Minister Without Portfolio in the Ministry, the Honourable Dr. Morais Guy, to the hardworking Permanent Secretary, Mrs. Audrey Sewell... (Applause) ...and to the members of staff at the Ministry, who provide support and guidance, I also want to give my heartfelt thanks to them all.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: I also wish to commend the work of the Advisory Board of the National Works Agency, all the Board and staff members of the Road Maintenance Fund. In particular, Mr. Speaker, I want to pay special tribute to the hard-working Director of the Road Maintenance Fund, Mr. Clement Watson. (Applause)

Thanks to the CEO of the National Works Agency, the Directors, Regional Managers, Parish Managers and staff of the National Works Agency, for their support. To the many agencies which fall under the Ministry, which I am a part, and I interact from time to time, I say a big thank you.

Mr. Speaker, I wish also to thank Mrs. Lucille Brodber, the Coordinator of JEEP Secretariat... (Applause) ...and members of the Secretariat for the tremendous work that they have been doing.

Mr. Speaker, there are also a number of persons who are present here today in the House, to whom I am grateful, and I extend cordial welcome and thanks for their continued support.

Mr. Speaker, I also want to thank my daughter, Shana-Kay... (Applause) ...and most of all, Mr. Speaker, my grandson, Abe. (Applause) He is here.

Mr. CHUCK: He is downstairs.

Mr. AZAN: To my sister, Sonia, my niece, Marion, and to my extended family, the people of North Western Clarendon. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, to my extended family across the length and breadth of Jamaica, I want to say thanks to them, also. (Applause)

Sincere thanks to the Councillors and to the Management Team of North Western Clarendon; Councillor Marshall, Councillor Gordon, Councillor Shirley and Councillor Hackett.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: To the Constituency office staff, Mrs. Dixon and Miss Frazer; to the CDF officers, Mrs. Walker-Rose and Mr. Roy Hanson. They have given me a wonderful opportunity and the honour to represent their interest and I pledge to continue to do so with dedication and the level of determination that they have come to expect of me.

Mr. D. SMITH: You forget to thank Mr. Brooks.

Mr. AZAN: Mr. who?

Mr. Speaker, I declare that I stand here today because of the desire to contribute to the building of a better Jamaica for all Jamaicans who deserve to contribute to a more equal society, a desire to make a contribution to the welfare of all Jamaicans. It is based on these desires, Mr. Speaker, that I am honoured to once again stand here today in this Honourable House to report on the performance during the last fiscal year and outline plan for the new financial year.

Mr. Speaker, the road that I have travelled have been tough, a challenging one indeed when you participate in this process with your objective to gain the people's support to serve the people, you will face many challenges and at the end endless sacrifice. Despite these challenges and sacrifice, however, I give daily praises to the Almighty who have blessed me in so many ways. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, despite the attempt of critics and naysayers to derail the work that we have been doing, the sense of nationalism continues to spur. We will, through this Ministry, keep our promise and accomplish our mission for the betterment of the people of this land that we love. The path that I have chosen is not an easy one but had been fulfilling.

Mr. Speaker, this afternoon I will share some of the achievements of the Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing. This responsibility is a great one and would not be possible without the people of North Western Clarendon. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear! Good people dem.

Mr. AZAN: I must therefore speak on some of the matters related to my constituency. I made some commitments to my constituency for the past year and I will be held accountable for these commitments. I declare with confidence that over the last 12 months with the support of the councillors and leadership of North Western Clarendon, we have worked tirelessly and have accomplished many good things. The reason I can say this is that our achievements are evident.

Mr. Speaker, we had focussed our effort on education, farming, welfare, training, and have made many strides in the following areas: road repairs, housing, agriculture, building, education, training, sports, water supply and community beautification. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I take this opportunity to congratulate the Edwin Allen High School and Spalding High School for their achievement in the ISSA Boys' and Girls' Championship. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, Edwin Allen had won 1st place in the Girls' Championship while Spalding held 15th place in the Boys' Championship.

Mr. Speaker, despite the notable achievements made, there are challenges that the constituency face. It is my intention during this financial year I will focus on the completion of the following: Mr. Speaker, I have assisted a number of persons with tertiary education, back-to-school assistance, housing as we promised for Edwin Allen High School, assisting the indigent, upgrading our basic schools and, Mr. Speaker, we have completed three additional basic schools last financial year.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we have completed the Thompson Town Post Office and it is in full use today. (Applause) Last year we promised that we will continue removing pit latrines from our schools. We were able to complete two last year: Victoria Primary and Kilsyth Primary School. Mr. Speaker, last year I said we would double the number of persons provided with assistance -with back-to-school assistance. We have achieved that, Mr. Speaker. (Applause) Book grants by 25%, we promised to strengthen infant education and upgraded as well as build additional infant schools. We also promised to continue the programme of replacing pit latrines with water closets.

Well, Mr. Speaker, today I am happy to declare that these commitments which we have made towards the development of education in North Western Clarendon have been honoured, and we continue to focus on the nurturing and preparation of our human resources in this regard.

Mr. Speaker, the CDF is small but it is plenty. It is the way how you spend it. And last year we spent $8 Million in tertiary and back-to-school assistance. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, we have a state-of-the-art infant school at Ritchies today. The Minister of Education was there just last month to open that basic school. We have upgraded the Silent Hill Basic School, upgraded the Coffee Piece Basic School. And, Mr. Speaker, when I said that the CDF is small but it is big - we were able last year from the CDF Fund to remove the Tweedside Primary School. (Applause)

And, Mr. Speaker, I can say that promise made, promise kept.

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Working, working, working!

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, I also promised that addition effort would be placed on skills training. I declared last year that anyone in North West Clarendon, regardless of the age or political orientation, if he or she so desires will be able to acquire a skill in order that they can pursue a decent livelihood and economic opportunities. (Applause)

I can report to this Honourable House that there are renewed efforts for training of young people across North Western Clarendon. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Good MP.

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, with the assistance of "BARS TO GO" we trained over 500 young people in mixology, bartending, cashiering, waiter, et cetera. (Applause)

The Sugar Transformation Unit is helping us also. There is also a major improvement in vocational training in five institutions in North Western Clarendon. Mr. Speaker, as a result of the downturn of the world's economy, it has impacted on the job market in Jamaica and in the constituency of North Western Clarendon. I have undertaken a project geared at improving the vocational areas in five schools in the constituency. And, Mr. Speaker, last year I announced that I will give $500,000 to five schools in North Western Clarendon to improve on the practical area, the $500,000 was delivered to Spalding High, Edwin Allen High, Thompson Town High, Alston High and C Palmer Project Hope Institution. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, the $500,000 was to help to improve the practical area because at the end, it was our plan that each child who leaving high school would get a certificate from HEART. I want to also say, Mr. Speaker, that this year I intend to continue that project to improve the practical areas in our high schools and we will continue with $500,000 for Spalding High, Edwin Allen High, Thompson Town High, Alston High and Claude McKay High.

Mr. Speaker, last year I also took the decision - that I remember quite clearly when I used to go to primary school - there was a time that you spend in school garden and I decided that school garden must return to the primary school. (Applause) Each school received a grant to start a school garden. Today, we can say in North West Clarendon, every school has a school garden in North West Clarendon. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Warmington, you too bad mind, 'low di man.

Mr. AZAN: We also, Mr. Speaker, set up a greenhouse at Knox College, and today I can advise this Honourable House that the greenhouse at Knox is working, they have provided...

(Cross talk) (The Speaker gavels)

Mr. AZAN: I won't spoil it like what you did yesterday. But the greenhouse, Mr. Speaker, is doing well that they are producing for their school canteen. And also my last visit there, Mr. Speaker, is that they are looking on the open market to sell some of their products. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Excellent project.

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, I have intention to continue having our regular meeting with our principals, our teachers and the PTAs. Meetings have been held with the primary and infant schools.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Yes.

Mr. AZAN: And, Mr. Speaker, I must tell you that one of the greatest joys I have is to visit the basic schools and the primary schools, because at that time, Mr. Speaker, you can see exactly the working condition of the teachers and also to see what is happening to the children.

Mr. Speaker, we promised to assist the indigent and the shelterless. We said we would empower the dispossessed and provide shelter for those without shelter. I can therefore report to this Honourable House that the Housing Project that I seek to give housing support to, Mr. Speaker, it is working. And I'm saying, Mr. Speaker, that some of us inside here have good friends and good friends make contribution to k housing project. And some of the good friends are in the Gallery and I want to publicly say thanks to them for helping us. (Applause)

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, I said last year, Mr. Speaker - and I want the Member from West Kingston to hear this one...

A MEMBER: Desmond, wake up.

Mr. AZAN: ...many of us served for many years, a lot of sacrifice to our family to serve the people of Jamaica; after we leave no one remember us.

A MEMBER: True.

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, I said last year Mr. PT McLeod served for thirty-odd years in the Clarendon Parish Council and many children don't know who he was. I have taken a decision that we need to put in a transport centre at Frankfield. And it is a commitment that I made that at the end of it, it must be named in honour of PT McLeod. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear! Goh deh Azan! Goh deh!

Mr. AZAN: I am pleased...

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. AZAN: ...I'm pleased to announce that we've gotten a lease from the Railway Corporation, through the Clarendon Parish Council, to put in a transport centre at Frankfield. (Applause)

Mr. McKENZIE: Very good! Very good! Very good! Very good! If you do it the right and proper way you wouldn't have a problem.

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, the success of these that I mentioned above, we have, I must say, Mr. Speaker, a very good Parish Manager from the SDC. And we have had a number of community meetings to deal with things that we need to do in our community.

Mr. Speaker, one of the places that I looked on and we're working on right now, is at the Peckham Community Centre, we want to develop it into a mini stadium. And I must say that work start and work will continue in this financial year.

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is the Member's time be extended sufficient for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

(Applause)

The SPEAKER: Minister.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Five hours, five hours.

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, let me thank you and the Members.

Mr. Speaker, it is my intention now to focus on the National Works Agency, JEEP and the Road Maintenance Fund.

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: Regarding the National Works Agency, for which I have direct responsibility, the focus will be on four goals: Improving the road network...

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Yes!

Mr. AZAN: ...safety on our roadways...

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Yes!

Mr. AZAN: ...reducing travel time and vehicle operating cost; additional capacity to reduced congestion, Mr. Speaker.

The successful achievement of the four goals that they contribute - of their contribution to fulfillment of our mission of economic independence are based on us vitally improving the level of productivity. What this means for growth and development of our productive forces especially in sustaining development of our country.

Despite the challenges, we continue to perform very well, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: This is due largely to the commitment of our stakeholders and the outstanding team that I have the pleasure of leading. These individuals have been an integral part of the process of leading a sector that is so important - that is so important to all Jamaicans.

Mr. Speaker, 2013/2014 was extremely a productive year for the National Works Agency. (Applause) Our focus and priority remain the safety of our customers and the reliability of the Jamaican main road. Accordingly, we continue to place great emphasis on the public safety to provide a safe road environment for all our road users.

Mr. Speaker, with this regard to road safety, approximately $80 Million was spent during the last financial year on improving pedestrian safety along the Norman Manley Boulevard in Westmoreland and around Papine.

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Talk bout Westmoreland, yes.

Mr. AZAN: Critical breakaways, Mr. Speaker, along Oberlin and Mooreland Hill in West Rural St. Andrew were addressed at a cost of $57.3 Million.

(Cross talks)

Mr. AZAN: Road signage was improved through the assistance of the Inter-American Development Bank, Tourism Enhancement Fund, TPDCo and, Mr. Speaker, approximately 1,000 new signs were installed.

Micro-surfacing - approximately 49,280 meter square of critical micro-surfacing works at a cost of $32 million were undertaken to improve road safety along sections of Mount Rosser main road in St. Catherine... (Applause) ...Braco in Trelawny, White River near Dunn's River in St. Ann.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Work should've been done.

Mr. AZAN: And, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, Braco Hill...

(Cross talks)

Mr. AZAN: ...Mr. Speaker, those who travel to Mandeville...

(Cross talks)

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, those of us who travel to Mandeville...

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. AZAN: ...those of us who travel to Mandeville will see exactly what happened in Mandeville town centre, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

Mr. PRYCE: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, last year I announced that we will be doing some upgrading work on the Emergency Attention System in the Bog Walk Gorge in St. Catherine... (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. AZAN: Presently, a live feeding from the System has been made accessible to the JDF, Office of Disaster Preparedness and the Police Computer Centre, Mr. Speaker. We expect to make feed accessible to the Water Resources Authority during this financial year 2014/2015, pending completion of the underground ducts and fibre optic cable installation works along Hope Road. These works are included in the recent tendering Package 'A' Duct Tail Works, which will be extended to our Fibre Optic Cable Plant to Papine.

Mr. Speaker, flood control is critical to the safety and reliability of network. Over $100 Million was spent on critical flood mitigation efforts, including drain and gully cleaning islandwide.

Work on the CDB funded Tropical Storm Nicole, Sandy Gully Drainage Network and the Rehabilitation Project is completed at a cost of $2 Billion.

(Applause)

- May Pen Cemetery
- Grants Pen Gully
- Sandy Gully
- Barnes Gully

A MEMBER: Where is that? Where is that?

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Dalley)

Mr. AZAN: Completed.

Mr. DALLEY: Completed, him not getting nothing more?

Mr. AZAN: And, Mr. Speaker, some Members dispute it all the time when the Honourable Minister has said it.

Mr. ROBINSON: A true yuh nuh Delroy, yuh get the most infrastructure.

Mr. AZAN: River training and sea defence works remain the linchpin of sustaining improvement of our road network.

(Cross talks)

Mr. AZAN: During the year, some $220 Million was spent on river training and sea defence works:

- Dry River in St. Andrew;
- Rio Cobre;
- Roselle in St. Thomas;
- Castleton and Annotto Bay in St. Mary;
- Orange Bay and Blueberry Hill in Portland;
- Black River;
- Troy and
- Ironshore in St. James

(Applause)

A MEMBER: Clap man, clap.

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, some people said nothing is going on, we're working and working and working. (Applause)

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

(Cross talks)

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to report on particular level, the role of the National Works Agency in the overall execution to date of the pioneering JEEP. Members of this Honourable House know that JEEP is the first and foremost of a workforce intervention programme aimed specifically at the 10% of the population who are currently unemployed or underemployed, and whose access to providing social safety net intervention.

In light of this, the Ministry and the NWA is targeting participants from the unemployed to the underemployed vulnerable groups.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

Mr. AZAN: These groups - these persons were placed in different projects relating to areas for a total period of six months.

The long-term objective is that the participants within the programme, based on performance in critical area will be employed one day.

JEEP and JDIP, in October 2013, we satisfactorily completed JDIP, including JEEP Phases 1 and 2. At the end of March 2014, the value of measurement works performed was US$368.2 Million. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. AZAN: A total of 366 sub-projects have been reported as being substantially completed, with minor works outstanding on three sub-projects.

(Cross talks)

Of this total, 320 sub-projects have been inspected and Taking-Over Certificates issued. In addition, 180 Defects Liability Certificates have been issued to the Contractor, relieving him of any further responsibility for these projects. The performance certificates were issued to the contractors CHEC by the National Works Agency at the end of October 2013, thus closing the JDIP.

Major Road Projects completed during the fiscal year 2013/2014 include: the Fern Gully in St. Ann, John's Hall in St. James under

JEEP, the Ferris Cross to Belmont Road Project in Westmoreland, Mr. Speaker, J$423M was spent to complete approximately 230,000m^2 of road patching across Jamaica. (Applause) And Mr. Speaker, with the instruction of the Minister, no constituency should get priority over another one despite the colour. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, several bridges were completed: Craigmill Bridge in Portland at a cost of JS26.6M; Halls Green Pedestrian Bridge, $2.2M; John's Hall Bridge, J$545 Million; Kintyre Bridge, J$100M , Robin's Bay in St. Mary, J$33.98M (Applause) Sandy Gully Bridge in St. Andrew, J$6.1M; Southwood Pedestrian Bridge, JS24.3M; Stony Bridge, in Westmoreland - J$19.7M

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Repeat that.

Mr. AZAN: Westmoreland Bridge in St. Mary, J$1.16B (Applause) Cave Box Culvert, Westmoreland Eastern J$22.8M (Applause) Spanish River, J$20.3M (Applause) Mr. Speaker that is work. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: A real Minister at work. Desmond, what you say?

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, we have completed pipe-laying on the Palisadoes Road, complete six (6) kilometers of 400m ductile iron pipe and 15 kilometers of 300m transmission main. Additionally, all the distribution and service lines along the Scott's Cove to Belmont Main Road were replaced. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear! Good place dat!

Mr. AZAN: The Master Drainage Plan, Mr. Speaker, have been completed, despite we are not 100 per cent satisfy, my instruction is that we must share the drainage plan with the parish council and I can report that we have started so far in St Mary and we are going to St Elizabeth...

(Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Mr. AZAN: Parish Council.

Mr. Speaker, we are taking concrete steps in an effort to make it easier and simpler for customers to conduct business with the National Work Agency. During the fiscal 2013/14, last, we have made doing business easier, a key priority. In addition, with the spike in the size of our development applications backlog, the Agency conducted preparatory work and training towards the final implementation of the AMANDA System. (Applause)

Currently, we are working on our register of authorized users, and expect to commence the full utilization of the application in the new financial year. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, we are also pursuing other strategies to streamline and enhance our development applications process. For example, we have begun to utilize the GIS to assist in the fast-tracking of our case to review the process. We are also reviewing our options towards making the payment of administrative fees hassle free. To streamline the applications review process, a draft review checklist has been developed, and is to be reviewed by Internal Review Committee. Once approved and made public, we hope that it proves useful in guiding applicants towards ensuring that the minimum information requirements are met prior to submitting of their applications. This, in turn, will reduce delays arising out of the need for additional client information.

Mr. Speaker, we have several ongoing projects that when completed this year will enhance the country's growth strategy. Mr. Speaker, the Water Street is now complete at a cost of $9.29M. in Kingston (Applause) The Santa Maria to Sligoville Road Rehabilitation Project at a cost of $171.2M (Applause) The Bog Walk to Sligoville Rehabilitation Project, $324M (Applause) Road marking exercise, Package B & C, Package A, $9.136M, Package B, $8.75M, Package C, S4.782M and Mr. Speaker, the Kings Way is ongoing at a cost of $15.5M. The George Lee Boulevard in Portmore $68M (Applause), and Mr. Speaker, it is part of the Road Maintenance Fund. Mona Road to Wellington Drive Intersection Upgrade project completion was delayed to facilitate the drainage at a cost of $5.5M.

Mr. Speaker, efforts to reduce congestion through effective Traffic Management continue to be focused on the establishment of the integrated Transportation System. During the financial year 2013/14, we completed the Underground (Ring) Duct and Fibre Optic Cable installation. Lighting of the Cable will take place this financial year, as well as installation of an additional 4,000 meters of underground ducts to extend the system coverage to the Papine, Manor Park and Heroes Circle.

Mr. Speaker, there is the upcoming Major Infrastructure Development Programme (MIDP) J$4B is to be spent this financial year, of which J$1.6B is earmarked towards JEEP, J$1.5B for road rehabilitation and J$124M for bridges and structures. This $1.6 Billion allocation includes the first phase of the JEEP under the MIDP which commenced towards the latter part of the financial year, which was launched at the Jamaica Conference Centre on the 18th of March.

Other projects/programmes executed during the financial year. The Member from Eastern St James yesterday was asking about the Elegant Corridor in Montego Bay, we are happy to report that very shortly, very shortly, the tender process is well advanced and contract is expected to start very shortly. The South Coast Highway Study is at an advanced stage and is to be completed this financial year. Recall that this study included the road from Port Antonio in Portland to Harbour View... (Applause) ...in St. Andrew and from Mandeville in Manchester to Negril in Westmoreland. (Applause)

The North Coast Highway Bushing Programme has resumed from Negril to Port Antonio 282.91 kilometers of road. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, the Replanting of the mangroves along the Palisadoes shoreline, $50M have been allocated in this financial year. (Applause) Legal access and other preparatory works has started on Toms River to Agualta Vale in St. Mary. Soursop Turn to Chapelton to Trout Hall in Clarendon, and Mr. Speaker, I am very happy to report that the Minister of Transport and Works will sign the contract next month to start phase 1 of 10.5 kilometers of road from Soursop Turn to Chapelton at a cost of $1.3 Billion. (Applause)

Working smarter through improved stakeholder collaboration and partnerships represents an easy win-win for the Jamaican public. One way in which we plan to improve our stakeholder collaboration this year is by way of our new Street-Cutting Permit Application, which will enable Beta Testing Phase. The application provided comprehensive, Web-Enablement Permit functionally and is seamlessly integrated with the system of the GIS.

The Street-Cutting Permit Application Unit - utility companies such as the National Water Commission or private contractors need only a standard Mobile Web-browser to access and view all street and permit activity online using maps created through our in-house databank. With the functionality, contractors and administrators can ensure that projects do not interfere with each other, and that street cutting are undertaken in compliance with applicable guidelines. We expect that over time we will be able to use the application to develop insight into trends and patterns in street-cutting activities that may not have been readily apparent with the existing status quo.

Mr. Speaker, there are five new bridges to be built this financial year; and I will start in...

(Cross talk)

...Silent Hill in Clarendon, Jacob River in Portland, Latium in St. James, Fairview in St. Catherine and Kupius in Clarendon. These bridges are planned to replace along the NWA main road. Also, there are two structures planned: one foot bridge in Duncans Trelawny and a box culvert in Mount Charles in St. Andrew.

Mr. Speaker, while the National Works Agency continues to engage in a productive and meaningful participation with the Road Maintenance Fund and the Ministry to deliver maintenance solutions across the entire main road network, Mr. Speaker, let us all face it funds are tight, but we are trying our best to do what we can do.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. AZAN: And I will just say a little here, Mr. Speaker, because I know that the calls are many to both myself and Minister Davies but we are trying to do our best to make sure that we can help. (Applause) And Mr. Speaker, I have travelled and I want to thank the Most Honourable Prime Minister because it's because of her why I can say that I know almost the entire length and breadth of Jamaica (Applause) and because of that I know the cry of all Members of Parliament.

Mr. VAZ: I have some place in Portland. Come check me and I show you.

Mr. AZAN: I have travelled to St. James on Monday; I travelled yesterday to St. Mary and, Mr. Speaker, I got some experience yesterday and I must say that sometimes when we say that our roads are bad, we have to go to some communities to see how bad it is and I think we have to give thanks, we have to give thanks we have to give God thanks for what we have done.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Vaz)

Mr. AZAN: One thing that we do at the Ministry is what we promise we deliver.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(Cross talk)

A MEMBER: Say that again so mek mi hear.

Mr. AZAN: What we promise we deliver.

Mr. Speaker, during the last couple of minutes, you and the Members of this Honourable House have listened patiently as I have recalled our stewardship in North Western Clarendon and addressed the key targets to be advanced during the 2014/2015 financial year. Mr. Speaker, in closing my presentation I recognize that there are challenges, but there are also possibilities. I want to reiterate what we are seeking to achieve; building a road network, the benefits of which can go across the length and breadth of Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, we want to develop our network to First World standards...

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Hear, Hear!

Mr. AZAN: ...so that all Jamaicans can enjoy the country, travelling safely in comfort and arrive at our destination on time. For this reason, Mr. Speaker, we will continue to focus on priority areas of the Ministry now and in the future, an approach that will ensure our objectives are met and the best interests of the Jamaican people are served. I am actually aware of the critical role that the Works portfolio must play in placing our country on a path of growth and economic development. I am pleased to be afforded the opportunity by the Prime Minister and to continue playing a leadership role in this Ministry.

(Applause)

Government MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

Mr. AZAN: Mr. Speaker, I also wish to state that the people of North West Clarendon is a beautiful constituency with wonderful old time Jamaican people, people whom I think of as being from the good old Jamaica...

A Government MEMBER: Dem look good to, Richie, dem look good.

Another Government MEMBER: From Clarendon to...

Mr. AZAN: ...where respect, courtesy and good manners (Applause) are all part of the way of life.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, as we navigate the very troubled waters stated with challenges such as the continued rise of the price of oil and food in the world market, the scourge of crime, I am confident that this ship called Jamaica has on it a competent crew. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, we are led by a Captain, the Most Honourable Portia Simpson Miller, with a very-steady pair of hands...

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. AZAN: ...a Captain that is clear on the vision as to where she wants Jamaica to take us. A Jamaica of peace, love, and equal opportunity. A Jamaica of justice and prosperity; a Jamaica where not everyone can be rich, but a Jamaica where with hard, honest work, one can be comfortable.

Mr. Speaker, may God bless the Members of this Honourable House, may God bless Jamaica as we continue to seek His divine intervention, leadership in moving forward as a nation. Thank you and Members of this Honourable House, land we love!

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(The Deputy Speaker Gavels)

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, it is not intended for us to do any further business this afternoon. I, therefore, move for the adjournment of the Parliament until next Tuesday, the 3rd of June, at 2:00 p.m.

CALL OF THE ROLL
(See Listing)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Assistant Clerk laid on the Table of the House a copy of the following:

- Ministry Paper No. 101/14
  Health Corporation Limited Annual Report and Audited Financial Statements for the Financial year 2010/2011
- Ministry Paper No. 102/14
  National Health Fund Annual Report and Audited Financial Statements for the Financial year 2012/2013
- Ministry Paper No. 103/14
  Rural Agricultural Development Authority (RADA) Annual Report and Audited Financial Statements for the Financial year ended 2011/2012
- Jamaica Business Development Corporation (JBDC) Annual Reports and Audited Financial Statements for the Financial years 2010/2011 and 2011/2012
- Micro Investment Development Agency (MIDA) Annual Reports and Audited Financial Statements for the Financial years 2011/2012 and 2012/2013
- The Deposit Insurance (Joint, Trust and Nominee Accounts) Regulations, 2014 Under The Deposit Insurance Act

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker, a whole list of items appear - the Assistant Clerk read, laid on the Table of the House. But I don't see anything in front of me. I don't see anything at all. And if it going to be said it was sent electronically, we can't say it's laid on the Table of the House. Laid on the Table of the House, based on the Standing Orders, means I must have it in front of me physically, laid here, and there is nothing here. And we keep on having this problem - laid on the Table of the House and we are not seeing these stuff. I need to have copies of what they said is being laid on the Table of the House. Because there is another problem coming up in a little while to be debated today about laid on the Table of the House, and we haven't seen any of those. I expect to have any item that is stated, laid on the Table of the House in front of me.

(Cross talk)

The SPEAKER: Mr. Warmington, thank you. We will resolve to ensure that at least one hard copy is available when we table it there.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS GIVEN ORALLY

The SPEAKER: Minister Philips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to give notice that at the next meeting of the House I will move:

> Be it Resolved in accordance with Standing Orders 73 that the Deposit Insurance (Joint Trust and Nominee Accounts) Regulations, 2014 under the Deposit Insurance Act, which was laid on the Table of the House on the 3rd day of June, 2014 be referred to the Regulations Committee of the House of Representatives for consideration and report.

Mr. Speaker, I further beg to give notice that at a later stage today I will move for the suspension of Standing Orders to enable me to take the motion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

The SPEAKER: House Leader.
Mr. PAULWELL: Tomorrow.
The SPEAKER: Tomorrow.

PUBLIC BUSINESS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, this afternoon we want to deal with item Report on the Joint Select Committee on the Banking Services Act and the passage of the Banking Services Act. The Minister of Finance will deal with that. But before that I gather that there are some Members who didn't see the Report. So we are going to delay the Minister's presentation until after the Minister for Water, Land, Environment and Climate Change, after his presentation then we will take that item so that Members can have the time to go through the Report.

(HON. DERRICK FLAVIUS KELLIER, (PNP), St. James, Southern, Minister of Labour and Social Security, entered and took his seat.)

(HON. COLIN ALFRED A. FAGAN, (PNP), St. Catherine, South Eastern, Minister of State in the Ministry of Local Government and Community Development, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. ANDREW MICHAEL HOLNESS, (JLP), St. Andrew West Central, Leader of the Opposition, entered and took his seat.)

(MR. WILLIAM JAMES CHARLES HUTCHINSON, CD, (JLP), St. Elizabeth, North Western, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker.
The SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. Smith.
Mr. D. SMITH: …the House Leader is suggesting that it is the intention of the Government to take the Report, the Banking Services Act this afternoon. The Opposition objects strenuously to that suggestion on the basis, Mr. Speaker that the Report was never laid, to the best of our understanding. And this is a situation which the Government has embarked upon with frequency ever since the last calendar year. On occasions the Opposition has always co-operated. But we are not of the view, Mr. Speaker, if you are listening to what I am saying, that this is an occasion where we should bow to this sort of a pressure of thrusting things down our throats. As you know, Mr. Speaker, this is not the custom in this House.

The SPEAKER: No, definitely not.
Mr. D. SMITH: Definitely not. So if the House Leader is suggesting that he is going to be laying the Report today, I believe that the Opposition Spokesman on Finance would cooperate perhaps to debate it tomorrow; and I think that is only a very reasonable position.

But let me close by saying, sir, we object sternly to that suggestion from the Leader of the House about any debate on that Bill or that Report to take it through to its conclusion this afternoon.

The SPEAKER: So, Mr. Smith, you are saying that you have not seen the Report?

Mr. D. SMITH: I have only not seen it; our information is that it has not been formally laid.

The SPEAKER: I thought we went through that on Wednesday of last week and it should have been electronically sent.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, if I may, because this Bill was first tabled in this Parliament on the 25th of March of this year. It was subsequently withdrawn and a new Bill tabled on the 14th of May. It was subject to a Joint Select Committee comprising Members from both sides and the Report was tabled last week when we sat. So there has been sufficient time for the Opposition to be familiar to prepare a position to be able to respond. Mr. Speaker, the Member is urging that we do it for tomorrow, but we will have to commit to clearing the Order Paper tomorrow because we have a lot of things to do tomorrow. We will allow for the debate to close tomorrow on this matter, but we have some other matters that will have to deal with tomorrow as well. So I am hoping that we will be able to complete all the matters for tomorrow. Mr. Speaker, the Member doesn't have to respond and I will be quite happy to take it around there to you; meet me around there.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker…

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: ...the Member from South West St. Catherine has spoken and the Leader of the Opposition Business and I would say in the spirit of co-operation and charity we will co-operate. But I will say this, it is quite out of keeping with any reasonable expectation that one should have. This Report was laid last week. The Members on the other side know the urgency of the matter. It is because of the urgency of the matter why the Parliamentary Joint Select Committee met, going up 'til 10.00 o'clock at night Friday, Saturday; met Sunday.

(Cross talk)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, because there is humbug and mischief afoot.

Opposition MEMBER: What!

The SPEAKER: Let us avoid those words.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker, I object to that right now. I raise strong objection to that term.

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Get up and shout it from the roof. Mr. Speaker, I am on my feet. I am on my feet.

The SPEAKER: We have a point of order.

Dr. PHILLIPS: I am on my feet.

The SPEAKER: We have a point of order from the Opposition Leader.

Dr. PHILLIPS: There is a point of order?

The SPEAKER: Yes.

Mr. D. SMITH: He should withdraw that.

The SPEAKER: I will request that the Minister withdraws that.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker...

Mr. WARMINGTON: Withdraw the statement.

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, there is - let me say, Mr. Speaker, that there is an extreme manifestation of unreasonableness.

The SPEAKER: Hold on, Minister Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker….

The SPEAKER: Hold on, Minister Phillips. Minister Phillips, withdraw.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker….

The SPEAKER: You can make a rebuttal but please withdraw.

Dr. PHILLIPS: What did I say, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER: That mischief is afoot.

Dr. PHILLIPS: My colleague here...

Mr. WARMINGTON: No, no, don't bother with that!

The SPEAKER: Minister.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, a thousand horses cannot deny me my right to speak.

The SPEAKER: Yes, but you have to follow the rules.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what it is that I am being asked to withdraw.

The SPEAKER: You have imputed motive...

Dr. PHILLIPS: To whom.

The SPEAKER: ….when you suggested that mischief was afoot. I request that you withdraw it and then proceed.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, out of deference to you I withdraw.

The SPEAKER: Thank you very much. (Applause)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, I will say, however, that there is total disregard to the point that one with a reasonable mind could presume that mischief was afoot.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, absolutely.

The SPEAKER: Don't spoil it.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, officials of State who have been called upon to work up until the wee hours of night have made themselves available, members of the Committee, including Honourable Members of the Opposition, worked through successive weeknights, weekends, in order to prepare this legislation in order that the country can meet its obligations. Mr. Speaker, we will defer it, but it is an unreasonable, unreasonable request. It is an unreasonable request rooted in no principle whatever.

(Sotto voce remarks by Mr. Warmington)

Miss HANNA: Bruce Lee.

Dr. PHILLIPS: All the requirements of the House have been met, every last single one. It was laid on the Table of the House last week and they know it. And so, Mr. Speaker, one is left to wonder what is the motive.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Mr. Speaker, nobody is questioning the motive (Inaudible) Report. I have a right to see the Report before it is debated. I am elected by the people of South West St. Catherine to come here, not to be a rubberstamp. It is my right to get a copy so that I can respond and participate in the debate. So I don't want to be told about mischief and what have you. It is not right and I need to read it - the request was made - it was laid on the Table of the House last week.

The SPEAKER: Thank you, Mr. Warmington.

(Cross talks) (The Speaker gavels)

Mr. McKENZIE: The man is entitled to express himself.

A MEMBER: Every man has a right to express himself.

Mr. McKENZIE: Yuh a mischief maker.

(DR. THE HON. OMAR LLOYD DAVIES, (PNP), St. Andrew, Southern, Minister of Transport, Works and Housing, entered and took his seat.)

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, I think the matter requires your intervention, in the sense that there is a misunderstanding that has developed in exactly how a matter is being tabled in terms of the technology of tabling it. And until the Standing Orders are changed to say that when Members get an email with the document, that that must be accepted as something having been tabled. When the Standing Orders are so changed, Mr. Speaker, then we can accept that.

What the Minister has, is ignoring in his explanation, is that a hardcopy, this document, by hardcopy, was not laid on the table in front of the Members of Parliament last week. And to suggest that it was, is misleading this House today. And we're asking you, Mr. Speaker, clear up this issue as to exactly what it means to lay something on the Table of Parliament. If you clear that up, then a lot of the so-called mischief will also be cleared up.

The SPEAKER: Thank you, Mr. Shaw.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: House Leader.

Mr. PAULWELL: Yes, it is my understanding that a practice has developed over the last year and-a half to two years, whereby once a hardcopy is tabled, then Members are satisfied with receiving their individual copies by way of email. We have the technology now, we need to use it. It is very expensive for the Parliament to have single copies for the 63 Members.

(Applause)

Mr. SHAW: It's in the Standing Orders.

Mr. PAULWELL: So if a Member wishes to have...

(Cross talks)

Mr. PAULWELL: ...if a Member wishes to have his or her own personal copy you can request it, there's no need in this 21st century for us to have 63 copies of paper.

Mr. WARMINGTON: As long as the Standing Orders said so you need to do it, you're obligated to do it. That's what the Standing Orders said.

The SPEAKER: House Leader, the simple solution is for amendment to the Standing Orders, and we will do so in due course.

(Applause)

Mr. PAULWELL: All right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Amend the Standing Orders.

MEMBERS: Very good! Very good!

(Applause)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, may we proceed?

This afternoon we have two presenters, the Member from North West St. Catherine, the Minister for Environment, Water and Climate Change; and then followed by the Member from South East St. Elizabeth. Oh, and there's a matter just before that, the Minister has a matter to refer to Regulations Committee. Can we just deal with that very quickly?

(Cross talk)

Mr. WARMINGTON: It's affecting his brain! It's affecting his brain!

(MR. PAUL LENNOX BUCHANAN, (PNP), St. Andrew, West Rural, entered and took his seat.)

The SPEAKER: Minister Phillips.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker, before the House is the amendment of regulations for the Deposit Insurance Act, the Deposit Insurance Joint Trust and Nominee Accounts Regulations. Mr. Speaker, it is proposed that these be referred to the Regulations Committee of the House for consideration and report and I so move.

The SPEAKER: Is that the wish of the House?

Put to the House and agreed to.

(DR. THE HON. FENTON RUDYARD FERGUSON, CD, (PNP), St. Thomas, Eastern, Minister of Health, entered and took his seat.)

The SPEAKER: Minister Pickersgill.

(Applause)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, finally.

Mr. VAZ: What, the 63rd time?

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of...

(Heckling)

...on behalf of my colleagues in the House. I'd like to welcome back the Member from South West Clarendon.

(Applause)

Mr. VAZ: South East.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I beg your pardon, South East?

Mr. VAZ: South East.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Him don't even know is which one.

SECTORAL DEBATE

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, I rise today to present my third Sectoral contribution in this Honourable House.

A MEMBER: What, third?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Sectoral.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I repeat, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WARMINGTON: What's your colour?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I rise today to present my third Sectoral Contribution in this Honourable House, since this administration regained...

A MEMBER: Okay.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...its rightful place just over two years ago... (Applause) ...at the helm of this Government...

Mr. WARMINGTON: Yuh start on a bad footing yuh nuh?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Don't anticipate what I'm going to say.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Don't listen to him.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I can proudly say that I have served all the leaders of my great party...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...including the Right Excellent Norman Washington Manley...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...and in that regard, apart from my current Leader, Mr. Speaker, I'm the longest serving Member of the Executive of the People's National Party...

(Applause)

Mr. VAZ: Chairman for life.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...which is undoubtedly, Mr. Speaker, the greatest political party in this hemisphere.

(Applause)

I say thanks to all my leaders who, through their confidence placed in me...

Mr. WARMINGTON: What's your colour?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...have enabled me to serve my beloved country as a Member of Cabinet for over 20 years, 18 of which have been consecutive.

(Applause)

I hasten to add, Mr. Speaker, that most of my time as Member of Parliament has been spent on this side of the House. The fact is, Mr. Speaker, that I was never comfortable on that side.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: True, true!

(HON ROGER HAROLD CLIFFORD CLARKE, (PNP), Westmoreland, Central, Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Truth be told, I felt like a square peg in a round hole.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, on this side we have an eight star general and two six star generals. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: True!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I proudly say that I'm one of the six stars and my friend - distinguished friend to my right - is the other six star. And, of course, we know who is the eight star general, our great Leader and Prime Minister. (Applause) I hope - is eight or nine? It could be nine.

(Cross talks)

As I was saying, I'm sure you know that our great Leader is the eight star general.

MEMBERS: Yes.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Perhaps, Mr. Speaker that is why I'm appropriately referred to as 'Chairman for life'... (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear! Hear! Hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...a description that I guard very jealously and very zealously and very jealously.

(Inaudible comments/Laughter)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, the fact...

(Inaudible comment by Mr. McKenzie)

(Laughter)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I want you to hear this.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. McKenzie)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...I want you to hear…. the fact is I've outlasted six JLP Chairmen...

(Applause/Laughter)

...that is no mean feat, and I hear that the present one is hanging on, on a slender thread.

(Applause/Laughter)

A MEMBER: Damion, Damion.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Come, come, remember you went in the contest and got three votes.

(Applause/Laughter)

A MEMBER: Three?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Three! Three votes him get.

(Laughter/Cross talks)

Mr. Speaker, it has placed me in a category - and I'd like you to hear this, Mr. Speaker - it has placed me in a category that should cause me not to be restrained or constrained by time limits.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. WARMINGTON: No senior citizen has spoken.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: And I'm sure that you agree with me when I say, respect is due.

Mr. WARMINGTON: Because yuh a senior citizen?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes, yes, yes, I don't deny that.

Mr. Speaker, moreso, sir, respect is due to you. You're the representative of the House itself in its powers, proceedings and dignity.

(Applause)

Miss HANNA: Hear, hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: You, Mr. Speaker, provide and enforce the observance of all rules for preserving order in its proceedings. The chief characteristics of your office are authority and impartiality...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...and you continue to demonstrate them very well.

(Laughter/Inaudible comments)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: In fact it was just on show, it was just on show.

I'm mindful, Mr. Speaker, of the tremendous responsibility that rests on my shoulders, and of the fact that the well-being of every man, woman and child in this country is affected by the critical portfolio areas with which my State Minister, Honourable Ian Hayles and I are charged.

The extent to which we can, and must implement crucial policies, plans, programmes and projects under these portfolio areas will, in no small measure, gage our ability to realize our Vision 2030 Goal of Jamaica being the place of choice to live, work, raise families and do business. Place of choice to live, work, raise families and do business.

I stand here this afternoon with resolve born of the knowledge that the team at my Ministry, and its agencies, are creative, proactive, hardworking and determined and that our local, regional and international partners - and many of them are here - (Applause) with whom we're partnering for sustainable development, and are as desirous, as we are, to see Jamaica achieve its sustainable development goals.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, we agree that teamwork unifies the effort, divides the tasks and multiplies the effect as we work with the common goal of building resilience and ensuring sustainable development.

Allow me to remind you that we're currently celebrating National Environment Awareness Week, which runs from June 2nd to June 8th. Thursday June 5th is being observed as World Environment Day and Sunday June 8th is World Ocean's Day.

We are also observing disaster preparedness month, and as we are all aware, the hurricane season runs from June 1 to November 30.

Mr. Speaker, the prediction is for between eight and thirteen named storms of which between three and six will become hurricanes and two are likely to become major hurricanes. I, therefore, urge all Jamaicans to advance their preparedness in anticipation of the season.

Mr. Speaker, bearing in mind the share size of the Ministry, the volume of information and the numerous areas for which we much give an account of our stewardship. My State Minister and I decided that we will again split the presentation between us. Indeed, we have fourteen agencies and departments which oversee twenty-nine different subject areas, as such, my presentation will focus on the Water, Land and Climate Change portfolios while Minister Hayles will speak, to among others, the Environment, Planning and Development Portfolios of the Ministry. But Mr. Speaker, it will be remiss if I did not say a word or two about the environment. And in so doing, I quote from Jeremiah Chapter 2 verse 7. And it says;

> "I brought you into a plentiful land to eat its fruits and its good things but, when you entered you defied my land and make my heritage an abomination".

Mr. Speaker, no country can have sustained economic growth and development and social wellbeing without due and careful consideration of the environment. The environment is the subject that underpins each and every portfolio, agriculture, health, tourism, industry, water, climate change and social development.

Over the last two years, Mr. Speaker, in fact, in recent months there have been a number of national issues which have served to further highlight the importance of having a healthy and robust environment. But as I said, Mr. Speaker, the Minister of State will speak more comprehensively on the topic which takes me then to the first portfolio that I will be speaking about namely Climate Change.

I begin my presentation with the Climate Change Portfolio. And, Mr. Speaker, Canadian Broadcaster and environmental activist, David Suzuki has said, and I quote:

> "The damage that climate change is causing, and that will get worse if we fail to act, goes beyond the hundreds of thousands of lives, homes and businesses lost, ecosystems destroyed, species driven to extinction, infrastructure smashed and people inconvenienced"
> (Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Suzuki, yes.

Climate Change is inexorably linked to, and impacts on every other portfolio. It is likely to affect every individual, every community, every parish and every sector. More than any other issue, climate change poses a direct threat to any and all attempts to achieve sustainable development and by extension, our Vision 2030 goals. And so as I have often said and despite the naysayers, I will continue to say, until every Jamaican understands that "with climate change, we must change."

Worldwide, there is scientific proof and growing evidence that the climate of our world is changing. Recently, news came that a massive glacier in West Antarctica has started to collapse due to global warming; an event that scientists say will contribute to worldwide sea-level rise by about 24 inches Mr. Speaker, or 60 centimeters; this is unsettling news for Small Island Developing States referred to as SIDS, such as Jamaica. In fact, Mr. Speaker, 2014 has been declared by the United Nations as the International Year of Small Island Developing States under the theme, "The Sustainable Development of SIDS through Genuine and Durable Partnerships".

A Jamaican delegation of which I will be a member, will be heading to the conference in Samoa at the end of August, where SIDS will mount a strong platform to negotiate for more durable partnerships in areas such as Climate Change Adaptation and Mitigation, Disaster Risk Reduction, Sustainable Energy and Food Security, among others. Researchers, Mr. Speaker, out of the Mora Lab at the University of Hawaii stated that climate change for Jamaica is imminent, with climate departure expected as early as 2023. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, it is predicted that after 2023, the average temperature of the coolest year from then on will be warmer than the average temperature of the hottest year between 1960 and 2005.

Jamaica has long been vulnerable to natural disasters, particularly storms and hurricanes; and according to our best scientists, climate change will amplify these effects. What do I mean by this, Mr. Speaker? The period of time between Hurricane Charley in 1951 and the next storm event which was the island's close brush with Hurricane Allen in 1980 was 29 years? The period between Hurricane Allen and that untamed monster Hurricane Gilbert in 1988 was 8 years; another sixteen years passed and we were hit by another hurricane Ivan in '04; three years passed and Dean brushed us in '07, then Sandy in 2012 - I hope you see the pattern emerging. Without a doubt the incidence of direct hits and close brushes with hurricanes are occurring more frequently, in fact, Mr. Speaker, on average between '01 and '12 Jamaica experienced 11 storm events whether directly or indirectly so this is not a joke.

(Sotto voce comments by a Member)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I spoke about that already. We must therefore adjust to new ideas of what constitutes 'normal weather', and modify our disaster preparedness and mitigation plans accordingly. I am pleased, however, at the progress we have made, Mr. Speaker, in our efforts in this critical area during the 2013 and 2014 fiscal years.

First let me state that the Green Paper on the Climate Change Policy Framework and Action Plan is currently being finalized for submission to this Parliament as a White Paper. As promised, the Climate Change Division has been established, and became fully operational as at September last year. The Division is acting swiftly on its deliverables and has already established a network of Climate Change Focal Points in all Ministries - climate change focal Points in all ministries - as well as fourteen agencies and departments. The focal points will liaise with the Division in formulating and rolling out sector plans and projects in respect of Climate Change.

To date, the Division has held two meetings with the Focal Points to sensitize them about their roles and the general approach to be taken in the implementation of their functions. The most recent meeting took the form of a workshop which was conducted with the support of the USAID.

Given the critical importance of the Climate Change portfolio, one very significant aspect is the training of persons who are expected to be the change agents for climate change. A Climate Change Risk Management Tool was developed by the Caribbean Community Climate Change Centre referred to as the 5C's. Government officers from various ministries were trained at a workshop held in Belize in the use of the Caribbean Climate Online Risk and Adaptation Tool. Arrangements are now in place for the 5C's to conduct training for all twenty seven (27) climate change focal points in the use of this software. This will be done over a one week period, Mr. Speaker, beginning next week Monday. The scheduled training workshop will also include a Training of the Trainer's workshop. So I hope that all concerned in here will see to it that their focal points attend.

During the latter half of the last financial year, the Division was able to expedite arrangements between the 5C's and the Government of Jamaica for the finalization of a grant Agreement valued at J$27 Million. And the Agreement will facilitate, among other things, the acquisition of two automatic weather stations to enhance the climate data collection capacity of the Meteorological Services here in Jamaica. The development of a climate change vulnerability assessment as well as an adaptation strategy and an adaptation plan for the fisheries sector.

It is expected that procurement, installation, and/or the completion of deliverables will be realized by the end of this financial year.

Mr. Speaker, in seeking to heighten awareness about issues surrounding Climate Change, we also spearheaded a presentation to Parliamentarians in this Honourable House. One of the presenters at the session was Professor Michael Taylor of the Climate Studies Group of the Physics Department at the University of the West Indies, Mona. The presentation was entitled "The Role of Members of Parliament in Building a Unified Policy Response to Climate Change" and, among other targets aimed to demonstrate to you my colleagues how your constituencies are likely to be affected by climate change, as well as your role in responding to this phenomenon. Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, many of you missed the opportunity. However, I am pleased to note that some of you have already begun to engage with the Climate Change Division, to look into how relevant projects may be implemented in your constituencies, and I commend those of you who have for your foresight and your initiative.

In continuation of our efforts to increase public awareness, Mr. Speaker, about Climate Change, we will be facilitating partnerships across Ministries and Departments, including the Social Development Commission and the Parish Councils. We will also be engaged in the civil society and the private sector including the media in order to facilitate the world change regarding climate resilience, hence the reason for appointing focal points.

Last year, I also announced that we had taken the initiative to assist the vulnerable city of Portmore to partner with the city of Hagen in Germany, to formulate and Implement climate change projects at the Local Government level. To date, we have achieved the following under this partnership, Mr. Speaker;

1. Implementation of a complete solar energy System for the Portmore HEART College For Construction Services commissioned by myself and the German Ambassador His Excellency, Josef Beck in March. (Applause)
2. Launch of an internationally recognized Solar Energy Training Programme for Technicians or solarteurs, at the Portmore HEART College for Construction Services.
3. A Student Exchange Programme between The Portmore Community College and the Theodore Hess Gymnasium in the city of Hagen.
4. Commencement of work to establish a Climate Change Park in Portmore which was this year's National Labour Day Project. The park will help to increase climate change awareness by illustrating elements of climate change mitigation and adaptation strategies such as renewable energy, water recycling and rainwater harvesting.

Mr. Speaker, we also met our targets under the Climate Change Adaptation and Disaster Risk Reduction Project, a joint venture between the Government of Jamaica, the United Nations Environment Programme and the European Union.

(Applause)

This project which was successfully completed culminated in the launch of an Audio-Visual Toolkit, which provides vital educational information for members of the public and age specific groups, to include children at the primary and secondary levels. Our aim is to ensure that each school is equipped with at least one of these tool kits and it is... (Applause) ...it is a comprehensive tool kit, Mr. Speaker, and it will be given to all the schools in the island. I have already spoken to the Minister of education, excellent tool kit. (Showing tool kit to Members)

Jamaica is currently a beneficiary of the Pilot Programme for Climate Resilience, which is a regional initiative that is intended to increase resilience to climate change effects at the national and regional levels. Grant financing in excess of US$4 Million or approximately J$400 Million provided by the Climate Investment Funds through the Inter-American Development Bank and the World Bank will be made available to implement activities under the programme. My Ministry will have responsibility for implementing several components of the investment programmes including:

- the upgrading of national equipment and systems;
- increasing public awareness of climate change impacts;
- integrating climate change considerations in development planning processes, plans and policies.

The Division will continue its efforts to facilitate and coordinate the development of sectoral adaptation and mitigation strategies and action plans for at least four priority sectors namely agriculture, fisheries, forestry and transportation sectors. It will also mainstream climate change considerations in at least three key policies, namely transport, water and construction policies.

Work will also continue to develop and register Jamaica's nationally appropriate mitigation actions. We will also be working to place Jamaica in a position to readily access climate change financing, Mr. Speaker. (Applause) In particular, the Ministry has nominated Jamaica's focal point to the Green Climate Fund. Mr. Speaker, the Fund is projected to receive US$100 Billion not Million - US$100 Billion per annum; US$100,000 Billion per annum by 2020 for the financing of adaption and mitigation projects. (Applause)

My Ministry received preliminary approval from the Global Environment Facility for a grant of US$852,000 and US$90,000 from the United Nations Development Programme, UNDP, to facilitate the preparation of Jamaica's Third National Communication, and the Biennial Update

Report to meet UNFCCC reporting requirements. The final approval is expected before the end of June 2014. We are expecting to commence the implementation of this project in July, Mr. Speaker, of this year. It is also noteworthy that the Government signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the United States Government in July 2013 to provide technical support to my Ministry and other Ministries, Departments and Agencies. Under the MOU, Mr. Speaker, we intend, among other things, to develop a Greenhouse Gas Inventory and develop a Low Emission Development Strategy referred to as LEDS. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, I close this section by saying that my Ministry will continue to lead the charge to ensure that with climate change, Jamaica must and will be changing.

(Applause)

(MRS. MARISA COLLEEN DALRYMPLE-PHILIBERT, (JLP), Trelawny, Southern, entered and took her seat.)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I now move to the Land portfolio, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHAW: You neva have the green folder?

(Cross talk)

Miss HANNA: It must match his shirt and tie.

(Cross talk)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, I now turn to the Land portfolio.

It was the Right Excellent Norman Washington Manley who said, and I love to read this quote, he said:

"Land is the only source of the material life of the people. It provides food and shelter. It furnishes work and wealth. It is the basis of all production, of development, of all security, of all growth. It is, in very truth, the root of our being."

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(DR. HORACE ANTHONY CHANG, (JLP), St. James, North Western, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Can't be better. End of quote. Mr. Speaker, fundamental and prophetic those words no wonder our national anthem begins with the words, Eternal Father bless our land.

There is no hope of building a strong economy, or improving the quality of life for our citizens without ensuring security of tenure, Mr. Speaker. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: The ownership of land remains an effective means of gaining economic and social independence's the national hero said many years ago. As such, my Ministry is working assiduously to continue the tradition of securing land ownership and building the - what we call, Mr. Speaker, the ownership society. The ownership society that this Administration envisions, as we look or rather look and work towards our Vision 2030 goal of making, and I repeat, Jamaica, the place of choice to live, work...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...raise families and do business. (Applause)

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended sufficient to allow him to complete his presentation.

Mr. McKENZIE: Forty minutes.

(Cross talk)

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficient for him to complete his presentation?

Put to the House and agreed to.

Minister Pickersgill.

(Applause)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I am pleased to state that during the 2013/2014 financial year, we achieved critical targets. LAMP continues to serve the members of the public in accordance with its mandate to reduce the number of unregistered parcels which now stands, Mr. Speaker, at 349,302 and regularize existing titles with current information. As at April 2014, some 20,315 files have been opened to provide new applications for titles.

- 4,590 new titles have been produced; and
- 2,746 existing certificates of title regularized.

Regarding LAMP II extension, Mr. Speaker, the project has now moved into its new phase, and was formally launched at an impressive titling ceremony on May 15 by the Most Honourable Prime Minister, who expressed her delight at seeing so many elderly Jamaicans, especially women, being able to own a piece of the rock. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, truth is, you were there and at least twenty titles were issued in your constituency.

The LAMP II public-private partnership has been extended for a further period of ten years and the number of parishes expanded to eight, namely Clarendon, Manchester, St. Elizabeth, St. Ann, Westmoreland, Hanover and Trelawny and St. James. Mr. Speaker, there were 250 titles ready for delivery to clients at that launch, that I just spoke about. However, only 80 beneficiaries attended the ceremony to collect their titles. The other titles have been distributed to the field offices in St. Elizabeth to allow beneficiaries to collect at their own convenience.

In order to expand the reach of the programme, Mr. Speaker, additional field offices have been opened by LAMP's private sector partner, Geoland Title Limited, in St. Ann's Bay and Savannah-la-Mar in Westmoreland. This complements the existing offices in Kingston, Santa Cruz and Junction in St. Elizabeth and Golf View in Manchester. LAMP is open for business so you see, Mr. Speaker, we are, as the member across there is saying, working, working, working. (Applause) Using the LAMP II Expansion, we will also be able to incrementally build the cadastral map for Jamaica (Applause) using the survey plans which have been tied into the national grid. Under LAMP II, as at April 30:

- 2,653 land parcels have been surveyed; and

- 3,865 parcels have been placed in the digital cadastral map database for St. Elizabeth.

Mr. Speaker, for those of us who are not acquainted with the term, a cadastre is a comprehensive register of the real estate or real property's metre-and-bounds of a country. A cadastral map shows the boundaries of land parcels in their correct geographical positions and may be used for a wide range of purposes including:

- registration of titles to lands;
- property valuations;
- development planning;
- land use depiction, planning and analysis.

Over 8,000 existing parcels of government land at the National Land Agency have been converted to a digital format and a digital cadastral map for St. Elizabeth has been created with just over 11,000 parcels which will assist in better planning and impact on the development approval process - something that that Member is very interested in.

Of the over 5,911 new files:

- 1,407 applications for titles have been made; and
- 680 titles have been completed.

The relatively low numbers lodged compared to the number of files opened result from:

- the inability of owners to get their names on the tax roll, and this is very important.
- affordability notwithstanding the reduced fees under LAMP, Mr. Speaker, as you know to get a title is a very expensive matter.
- informal subdivisions and
- Root of Title issues.

Those are the problems affecting LAMP. These factors have negatively impacted the LAMP for years and the Ministry has taken measures to address the issues. The measures taken include:

- Allowing for amendments to the tax roll with the use of statutory declarations. This will allow persons to pay property taxes for the portion of land that they own or occupy, as per the opinion of the Attorney General.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Previously, Mr. Speaker, such persons could not get on the tax roll because they had to pay for the entire parcel of land which included their portion. In other words, Mr. Speaker, they would have a small bit of land, but for them to get it on, they would have to pay for the whole… (Applause)

- the use of section 5 ministerial waivers to address the issue of informal subdivisions; and
- a proposed amendment to the Registration of Titles Cadastral Mapping and Tenure Clarification (Special Provisions) Act dealing with Root of Title.

The Policy Division is in the process of settling drafting instructions in order to amend the Registration of Titles Cadastral Mapping and Tenure Clarification to address some chronic land tenure issues and to improve LAMP'S ability to bring land under the Registration of Titles Act.

Mr. Speaker, it is my firm belief that we must rid ourselves of the Registration of Titles Act immediately since it is anti-poor and is a stumbling block. (Applause)

Mr. PRYCE: Say it again.

A Government MEMBER: Repeat it.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes, it is anti-poor and is a stumbling block to realizing our goal of an ownership society. (Applause) In addition, the Act is antiquated; having came into existence in 1889, way back in the 19th century and has lost its relevance.

During its over ten year operation, LAMP has identified several additional land tenure issues rooted in our culture, which are adversely affecting its ability to bring land into the register. Mr. Speaker, these issues need to be addressed by legislative amendments as ordinary Jamaicans, as you know, Mr. Speaker, ordinary Jamaicans often dispose of and acquire land in an informal manner. So for them to get Root of Title for 20 years is not on. As such, Mr. Speaker, they are often not able to produce the proof required to facilitate the registration of the land. Mr. Speaker, it is important to note that we are an oral society. However, the Statute of Frauds Section 4 states that all land transactions are to be reduced to writing, and that does not happen among our ordinary Jamaicans unfortunately.

The new proposals are geared towards making the law more applicable to our cultural norms and the way of life of the ordinary Jamaican. This will allow for more persons to make successful applications to bring land lender the Registration of Titles Act, and will allow LAMP to significantly increase the number of certificates of title under the programme. Members will recall that the Minister of Finance, in his Budget presentation, indicated that the Development Bank of Jamaica has agreed to provide a grant to LAMP for payment assistance of JMD$90 Million to needy applicants.

A Government MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: We need some applause for that too, yes.

(MR. JAMES RUDOLPH EDWARD ROBERTSON, (JLP), St. Thomas, Western, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. Speaker, this would help beneficiaries who have applied to LAMP and have made some payments towards their application but are unable to make the remainder of their payments to complete the process. (Applause) This funding will help to facilitate the increased delivery of titles under the programme.

Mr. Speaker, through this grant, through this grant, all things being equal we will deliver some 2,000 Titles to LAMP beneficiaries between 14 and 15.

(Applause)

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, I'm happy to say that the first tranche of $16 Million will be disbursed by the end of this month... (Applause) …and is expected to facilitate the delivery of 650 Titles between July and August this year. Madam Prime Minister, we'll be having a titling ceremony by August this year when we again hope that you will be there to be the Guest Speaker. (Applause)

The second tranche of $37 Million will be disbursed by the end of August and is expected to facilitate the delivery of another 675 Titles between November and December, (Applause) while the third tranche also of 37 Million in December, will facilitate the delivery of yet another 675 Titles between March and April 2015. (Applause)

Mr. SAMUDA: So you're working, working, working.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Precisely.

(Applause)

So, Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to say to the Most Honourable Prime Minister, that we will indeed be keeping her busy in keeping with her request in attending more titling ceremonies.... (Applause) ....in the very near future. Mr. Speaker, we are well on our way to the ownership society.

I come now to the Adjudication Committees because, Mr. Speaker, what we have set up is an Adjudication Committee to help the ordinary Jamaican to get around this route of title, so it would be constituted by four reputable citizens, and they are going to approach that Committee, Mr. Speaker, and it will allow them easier access to the Registrar of Titles.

An allocation of $20 Million has been provided to my Ministry to fund the operation of the Adjudication Committees in the various communities within affected parishes to resolve ownership issues which will result in the issuance of Titles for these applicants.

Mr. Speaker, these Committees cover nine parishes, namely, St. Catherine, St. Elizabeth, Manchester, Clarendon, Westmoreland, Hanover, St. James, Trelawny and St. Ann. It is projected that four committees will be established in St. Elizabeth by the end of this month... (Applause)

Mr. SAMUDA: Oh yes!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...and the other committees will be established later on this year in consultation with Members of Parliament.

Mr. Speaker, as was previously indicated as an added measure, in assisting with our transformation to the ownership society, a grant of J$18 Million was approved by the Board of PetroCaribé Development Fund to assist beneficiaries in paying fees for titling services. (Applause) So yet again we've…

LAMP has to date submitted 62 files for processing and is awaiting funding in order to deliver the Certificates of Title to the beneficiaries at formal ceremonies. LAMP'S plans for 2014/15 fiscal year include:

- depositing cadastral maps and pre-checked plans representing 5,400 parcels;
- Obtaining ministerial waivers under Section 5 Orders for 320 parcels;
- Opening 2,500 new files for new registrations and updating of existing titles;
- Submitting 1,600 applications to NLA to update the property tax roll and…

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes, you have it. You have it. You have it. And regularizing 200 existing titles. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker....

A Government MEMBER: You don't waan hear the good news eeh!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: …as promised, we have amended the regulations under the Land Surveyors Act to make it mandatory for the surveys of property boundaries using the land titling process to be tied to the national grid. This will facilitate more efficient compilation of the National Cadastral Map. You notice I am emphasizing this Cadastral Map, Mr. Speaker, because once we have it, it makes things much, much easier and will contribute to improve efficiencies and accuracy in land titling process.

Mr. Speaker, let me point out to you sir that there are 344 Land Settlement Schemes islandwide. Of these, 139 schemes containing 18,412 lots remained to be titled. The process involves the surveying of the parcels, obtaining approvals for subdivisions and then the preparation of Certificates of Titles.

In 2013/2014 under a partnership between LAMP, the National Land Agency and the Korean International Corporation Agency called (KOICA), we exceeded our target of surveying 1,000 parcels in land settlement schemes - and I am now talking about land settlement schemes - in the parishes of St. Mary, St. Ann and Portland. To date, 670 certificates of title have been issued in the name of the Commissioner of Lands - And I want my colleagues to listen carefully - and 140 have been transferred to allottees. Eighty-six of these titles were delivered to allottees at a titling ceremony held in Port Maria in February. Additionally, 235 lots in the project area with informal occupiers have been approved for divestment and 100 of these persons have made part-payments of the purchase price.

The NLA is committed to completing the remaining titles for the project area in order to get them in the hands of the prospective owners as soon as possible. Mr. Speaker, in order to expedite the titling process for land settlement schemes, for land settlement schemes, the NLA has introduced a Probate Unit, it has introduced a Probate Unit to assist the beneficiaries of deceased allottees. (Applause) As at April this year, Mr. Speaker, 793 files have been opened and are being processed within the Probate Unit. Quite an achievement.

Mr. Speaker, during 2013/14 the National Land Agency issued a total of twelve thousand, nine hundred and twenty-six certificates of title, an increase of 29% over the previous year. (Applause) This amount includes four thousand, five hundred and fifty titles issued to Government Agencies. Mr. Speaker, of the approximately eight hundred and eleven thousand parcels of land recorded on the Valuation Roll - I repeat, of the approximately eight hundred and eleven thousand parcels of land recorded on the Valuation Roll, 57% have registered titles. (Applause) So you see the magnitude of the task. (Applause) To further advance the titling of lands, advice was sought from the Attorney General's Department. As a result, regulations will be put in place to allow for the use of statutory declarations and advertisements in order to place persons on the Valuation Roll. And this would come under the Adjudication Committees. This will expedite the process of persons obtaining certificates of title.

I'm pleased, Mr. Speaker, to report: The National Land Agency is dedicated to providing new products and services for its customers in an effort to make doing business in Jamaica easier. During the year, new products and services were introduced and I'll mention just two of them. The first is Property Watch Jamaica.

The first is, as I said, Property Watch Jamaica which is a critical development in our effort to reduce and eventually eliminate the incidents of fraudulent threats to property transactions in Jamaica. These threats include but are not limited to identity fraud committed against vulnerable registered owners and the impersonation of lawyers, law firms and co-owners.

Property Watch is an online subscription service that sends automatic notifications by way of email to registered proprietors when a transaction is lodged against a Certificate of Title. (Applause) Once the notification has been sent to the subscriber, he/she will be given 24 hours to alert the NLA if the transaction is not legitimate.

Second, if the NLA continues its thrust towards the large scale mapping of urban centres of the island during the 2013/2014 fiscal year, a comprehensive map of Montego Bay and its environs was completed. The map shows natural and manmade features, as well as the parcel data information for that city, including schools, Government buildings, Churches, businesses, and of course, information pertaining to the tourist industry.

Mr. Speaker, I close this section by reiterating that despite all our efforts to issue titles, we still have 8,000 titles to transfer from the Commissioner of lands to allottees, eight thousand. (Applause) These include approximately 1000 titles in the names of allottees that we have not been able locate or contact. That's why I sent you this - all of you got a letter and I am asking you to look at it to see if you know these allottees that you can alert them.

Mr. SHAW: You have the Titles?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Derrick Smith)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: You should have one.

Dr. DAVIES: No, no, Audley....

Dr. PHILLIPS: Because you say electronically.

(Laughter)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: The National Land Agency has placed the names of these allottees on their website and persons are invited to check the listing or contact the Agency for further details.

Dr. PHILLIPS: Give back the Tablets.

(Dr. Phillips refers to Mr. Derrick Smith)

(Laughter)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Give back the Tablet.

(Laughter)

(Heckling by Members)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: However, once again I am appealing to my colleague

Members of Parliament, the Parish Councils, the SDC, the Justices of the Peace or any other authority for assistance in contacting these allottees or their beneficiaries where applicable. Mr. Speaker, I really would like to urge my colleagues for them to endeavour really to try and contact these allottees, the titles are sitting there waiting for them. (Applause) It is the fervent wish of this Administration to get this most prized asset into the hands of the intended beneficiaries who will be able to use it as a tool towards wealth creation, as well as community and nation building aimed at creating ownership society.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I move to the final portfolio.

Mr. SHAW: Final red folder! Eight minutes you have. Eight minutes you have for that.

(Heckling by Members)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I turn now to the critical "water" portfolio. It was the Poet W.H. Auden who said, and I quote: "Thousands have lived without love, not one without water".

(Applause/Laughter)

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, I'm not sure you heard me, Mr. Speaker. The quote is, "Thousands have lived without love, not one without water".

As a resource, water has no parallel in its ability to propel the social and economic growth of a nation and in essence, quintessence if you might, is the lifeblood of any nation. It is indeed equivalent to what our founding father said about land. Water is critical for the maintenance of environmental and human health and for supporting all human activities whether residential, commercial, industrial or agricultural. You know, not many people know, Mr. Speaker that the agricultural sector - where is my friend Roger - they use about 70% of the water we produce, us, human beings use only about 30%, so it's very important to agriculture.

As such, the provision of potable water, Mr. Speaker, to meet the needs of our population continues to be a major goal for the Administration and for my Ministry; after all, water is life. I have heard persons scoff when I say this, but we have - very important - we have enough water resources to meet the needs of every man, woman, and child in this country. However, whether or not this will be the case in the future, depends on how we utilize and manage the resources that we have.

To this end, we are currently reviewing the '04 Water Sector Policy, with the aim of providing a guide to the provision of universal access to potable water for all Jamaicans by 2020. My Ministry held five public regional consultations between April 10 and May 16 on the policy, and we are consolidating all the comments that came out of the consultations, with a view to taking the policy to Cabinet in July. Parallel to the Policy Review is the development of the Rural Water Development Strategy, which will map, provide data and costs for community solutions, to close the gap in the provision of the water supply in rural areas.

Mr. Speaker, the Water Resources Authority which is the agency charged with managing and monitoring our water resources has noted…

Dr. DAVIES: Fine civil servant.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...yes, he is up there... (Applause) ...has noted that of the 10 hydrological basins throughout the island, only in the Kingston basin does demand exceed availability. I deliberately did not say supply because some of what exist is polluted. The comparison of water demand and water availability projected to 2025 indicates that in two basins, the Rio Cobre in St. Catherine, as well as in Kingston, demand will exceed the available resources. However, if non-revenue water is reduced and efficiencies improve, the difference between demand and availability can be reduced and the negative balance reversed.

Mr. Speaker, again, I state that this position of overall surplus, water resources can be reversed if despite armed with this knowledge we do not take action to mitigate the impacts of climate change.

Mr. Speaker, the upgrade and expansion of the National Hydrological Monitoring Network is being undertaken to provide more climate data and information for effective planning and action at the local and national levels. Already several new rainfall intensity gauges have been installed, and stream flow gauges upgraded to provide more reliable and continuous data to monitor and evaluate climate change and its impacts on our water resources.

To enhance the dissemination of data, the authority formally launched its online hydrologic database in September 2013. The web map allows anyone, anywhere in the world, to obtain hydrologic data without referring to the authority simply by logging on to the site and following the instructions. This is a first in the Caribbean.

(Applause)

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PICKERSGIL: Mr. Speaker, the target of the 85 per cent access to potable water by way of in-house and communal tax by 2020 has been repeated many times in this Honourable House and we are committed to meeting this target primarily through our majority utility provider the NWC - the National Water Commission.

Mr. CHARLES: (Inaudible) ...pothole-free from 2003.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Listen, you getting yuh road; you getting Sour Sop Turn right up to Chapelton - $1 Billion - you getting a whole lot.

Mr. SHAW: Omar, it became pothole galore by 2004.

(Sotto voce comments/Laughter)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, in pursuit of this goal, the NWC has completed a number of major projects islandwide, which will ensure a steady supply of potable water and adequate sewage services to hundreds of thousands of Jamaicans.

Mr. Speaker, I now move to a report of my stewardship in this sector over the year. I will mention the projects, but in the interest of time, I invite the Members to peruse the document in their possession for a substantive report on the various projects undertaken.

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: No, you have not gotten it yet, because I want you to listen to me and after you listen to me then you go and read it.

(Sotto voce comments by Mr. Samuda)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: But I admire your impatience. The NWC completed a number of projects during the last financial year. Here we go:

- Marlborough to Berry Hill in Southern Manchester.

You, Mr. Speaker - capital cost $20 Million, project completed. Mr. Speaker, I know you can't hit the desk, but certainly... (Applause) But he is not in the House.

- Old Harbor Bay Pipeline in Southern St. Catherine; capital cost $80 Million, another project completed. (Applause)
- Christiana-Sedburgh Pipeline in North Eastern Manchester; capital cost: $30 Million; project completed.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. SHAW: You said water pipeline completed, but there is no water.

Mr. PICKERSGILL:

- Palisadoes Pipeline in East Kingston and Port Royal. Despite public outcry the project was successfully completed without any major impact on the traffic or the new roadway; capital cost: $230 Million. (Applause)
- KMA (JICA), Lot 2B Pipeline to benefit thousands of Jamaicans - KMA/JICA, Lot 2B Pipeline to benefit thousands of Jamaicans in East Central St. Catherine, South Eastern St. Catherine, Southern St. Catherine; capital cost J$1.4 Billion; Project completed, $8 Billion. (Applause)
- Hounslow to Parottee Water Supply, Phase I, in St. Elizabeth South Western, capital - another project completed - $68 Million. (Applause)
- The Swallowfield Road Sewage Project in which an additional 33 households in South Eastern St. Andrew were connected to the central sewage system; capital cost: $25 Million.
  (Applause)
- Hope Road (Side Roads) Sanitary Sewers which connected all side roads between Kings House and Matilda's Corner in South Eastern St. Andrew and North East St. Andrew...

(Sotto voce comment by Mr. McKenzie)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: No, no...

...to the Soapberry Treatment Plant; capital cost: $90 Million project completed.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, during the consultations on the Water Sector Policy...

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: No man, don't finish yet, cool yuh foot; cool yuh foot. During the consultations on the Water Sector Policy, the question of the cost of sewage connections was raised, and I want to make this point. I want to point out that only 30 percent of the Corporate Area is sewered – only 30 per cent is sewered. As a result, the aquifer in the Corporate Area is severely polluted by the numerous soak-away pits in the Corporate Area households. Yuh know that.

Mr. McKENZIE: Yes.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker - but I want you to repeat this, after me.

Mr. McKENZIE: I... I...

Mr. PICKERSGILL: No, it is not I. Sewage goes out of sight but it does not go away. Sewage goes out of sight but it doesn't go away. Suffice it to say, we are living on borrowed time as it is now haunting us.

Miss GRANGE: I am waiting to hear about Tawes Pen.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: You know that.

Mr. SAMUDA: What about Liguanea Plain?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yes, same thing, pollution all over. As such, we have had to abandon production of water from 13 of the 27 wells in the Corporate Area, and instead, bring water into Kingston and St. Andrew from St. Catherine and St. Thomas, which is not really fair to those people.

A MEMBER: Not fair, not fair!

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: That is correct - unfair.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: So, Mr. Speaker, too many soak away pits.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: So then, Mr. Speaker, I reiterate; this is the only hydrological basin where the demand for water exceeds availability. I am, therefore, appealing to Corporate Area householders, to get connected to the sewer lines as they become available, as this measure is necessary to safeguard our aquifers. In the meantime, we are exploring options for financing the cost of connection. Over time, the intention is to restore the affected wells to production.

Mr. Speaker, I will now detail the various projects that commence during 2013 and are at this time continuing towards completion. The second component of the Jamaica Water Supply Improvement Project - Category B projects. Sections of this project are on target for completion by February 2015 and will impact some one million Jamaicans.

Segment 2 of the Rio Cobre pipelines replacement, between Content District and Ferry. Among the many constituencies that will benefit are the constituencies of the Most Honourable Prime Minister and that of the Leader of the Opposition. The others know who they are. (Applause) We are talking about a capital cost of $2.6 Billion; supply and installation of 40,000 domestic and commercial water metres to enhance accuracy in the measurement of consumer consumption.

Constituencies island-wide will be impacted. Capital costs $1.8 Billion. Refurbishment of major water treatment plants at Bogue in St. Ann, Great River, St. James and Martha Brae, Trelawny - and I think the contractor is up there. (Applause) More than 500,000 Jamaicans along the North Coast corridor will benefit including: North West St. Ann, Northern Trelawny, East Central St. James, North West St. James, Central St. James, West Central St. James, Eastern Hanover, Western Hanover, Western Westmoreland - and we are talking about $800 Million. (Applause) Martha Brae Water Treatment Plant Extension to benefit St. Ann, Trelawny, St. James, Hanover and Westmoreland.

Again, Mr. Speaker, constituencies along the North Coast corridor will benefit, as well as the Harmony Cove development - capital cost: $1.5 Billion. (Applause)

In the great constituency of North West St. Catherine, as well as Norwood, supply will be improved to 60,000 consumers in these areas and losses reduced; capital cost: $750 Million.

Construction of six kilometers of transmission mains through the town of Lucea to increase the supply capability to approximately 100,000 beneficiaries in Eastern Hanover, Western Hanover, Western Westmoreland; cost: $1 Billion. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this overall Jamaica Water Supply Improvement Project, category B, is progressing well towards final completion. The NWC and its customers are already benefiting from its implementation in a number of areas across the country, such as the reduction in losses and improved water pressure and reliability.

Mr. Speaker, the Agualta Vale, Richmond, Highgate, Islington Water Supply Improvement Project to benefit persons in Central St. Mary and South Eastern St. Mary. Madam Prime Minister, you announced this project...

The PRIME MINISTER: Yes.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...and I know that several housing schemes are on hold pending its completion. I want to assure you that it should be completed in 18 months and will boost development and employment in that section of the country - capital cost $800 Million. (Applause)

(DR. HORACE ANTHONY CHANG, (JLP), St. James, North Western, entered and took his seat.)

The Cascade/Claremont/Jericho Water Supply in Eastern Hanover being implemented by the NWC in partnership with the Rural Water Supply; 9,500 citizens in Eastern Hanover will benefit; capital cost: $275 Million. (Applause)

(Sotto voce comment)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Phase I of the Port Antonio Water Sewage and Drainage Project to benefit 75,000 persons in Eastern Portland; capital cost: $1.9 Billion.

Government MEMBERS: What, what! (Applause)

Mr. PICKERSGILL. Mr. Speaker, project underway expected to be completed by November 2014.

The Mason River, Kellits, Bull Head, Sandy River Water Supply in North Clarendon will benefit 6,500 residents; capital cost: $205 Million.

The Non-Pariel/Orange Bay/ Retirement Water Supply Scheme in Western Westmoreland, $450 Million; Scotts Cove to Belmont Pipeline Replacement in Eastern Westmoreland...

Mr. McKENZIE: All of them started under Labour Party; you must say it.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...in coordination with the NWA Road Rehabilitation Works, a total of 15 kilometres of pipeline will be constructed to replace the existing lines. Ten thousand (10,000) persons in Belmont, Whitehouse, Scott's Cove and adjoining communities will benefit. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we understand the inconvenience, and are asking the residents for their patience as we move to complete the works. We are talking about a capital cost of $470 Million.

The Burnt Savannah/Knoxwood Water Supply Scheme in St. Elizabeth; capital cost: $60 Million; project underway and scheduled for completion this month.

The 26 pumping facilities projects under this IDB-funded KMA Water Supply Improvement Programme, 26 water supply facilities in the Corporate Area that are inefficient, and are unable to make growing demand, will be rehabilitated and improved.

Mr. McKENZIE: By when?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: All constituencies, including yours...

Mr. McKENZIE: By when?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...in Kingston and St. Andrew to benefit; capital cost: US$18.4 Million or approximately J$2 Billion. Mr. Speaker, another big project underway.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. McKenzie)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: The Windsor Heights Water Supply System in Eastern St. Catherine completed. (Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Working! Working! Working!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: The Troja, Lassie Spring Water Supply System in North East St. Catherine. He is gone, Desmond Mair, he is gone.

Works are substantially completed on the Haining/Belle Castle Water Supply System in Eastern Portland, and people are now receiving water from the system, including the Belle Castle all-age. The system is to be put into operation this month.

(Applause)

Investigations and designs have been completed on the Grant Hill Water Supply System and Kelly Spring in West Rural St. Andrew. Investigations and designs have also been completed for Tom Leinster and Devon Pen Water Supply System in South Eastern St. Mary, Phase One of the Top Hill Supply System in my own constituency in North West St. Catherine. Pipe material has been procured for the Seaton Water Supply System in South Eastern St. Mary. Pipelaying works as well as the construction of chlorine contact tank are scheduled to begin during the first quarter of 2014/2015.

Works were also undertaken on several other minor water supply systems. They include:

- Kerrick Hill Water Supply System, Western St. Thomas; work is substantially completed and the system is to be put into operation this month.
- Work is also substantially completed on the Hagley Gap Water Supply System, which will also be put into operation this month.

Mr. Speaker, we have heard the cries for the water from the Member of Western St. Thomas, and his constituents, and we are working together to ease their plight.

- The designs have been completed and pipe material has been purchased for the Richmond Hill Water Supply System in Eastern St. Thomas. Work is scheduled to commence during the first quarter of this financial year.
- Fifty-nine Million ($59M) has been earmarked in this year's Budget for the immediate upgrading and rehabilitation of several water supply systems, including:
- the Mahoe Ridge/Garlands/Horse Guard Water Supply Systems, South St. James;
- the Gutters/Retirement Water Supply System, West Central St. James;
- the Seaton Water Supply System in South Eastern St. Mary;
- the Georges Valley Water Supply System in South St. James, ongoing;
- the Northern Clarendon Minor Water Supply System.

Work will also be carried out on the Watermount Dam Expansion and upgrade in West Central St. Catherine.

Dr. BAUGH: What about to... (Inaudible) You promised me.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Yeah, man. Wait, nuh, you getting it, you getting it. Yes, we have to start small.

- The Windsor Heights Expansion in Eastern St. Catherine;
- the Richmond Hill Water Supply System in Eastern St. Thomas. Designs were completed in the last financial year and the pipes procured.
- The Hagley Gap/Kerrick Hill Water Supply System - Western St. Thomas again - should be completed early.

Mr. Speaker, when it comes to rainwater harvesting, climate change is telling us that rain water harvesting is not a technique of the past. However, there is a seeming reluctance to return to this method, particularly in rural communities, as there is a widely-held belief that with pipe comes progress.

Mr. Speaker, needless to say, we will be facing more severe droughts. For the 20 - Mr. Speaker, since the start of the Rainwater Harvesting and Catchment Tank Rehabilitation Programme in 2012...

(Sotto voce comments)

(The Speaker gavels)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ….investigations and designs have been carried out on 81 of the 282 Local Government inventory existing catchment tanks, islandwide.

(Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Sixty have so far been rehabilitated.

For the 2013/2014 financial year, a total of Fifty Million ($50M) has been expended for the rehabilitation of an additional 39 catchment tanks, as follows:

- 12 in St. Ann
- 2 in Clarendon
- 7 in Manchester
- 3 in Westmoreland
- 2 in St. Catherine
- 2 in St. James
- 7 in Trelawny and

- 4 in St. Elizabeth

(Applause)

A MEMBER: What happen to Portland?

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Communities that have benefitted from the complete rehabilitation of these tanks include:

- Epworth-Friendship in South East St. Ann (Applause)

Miss Lisa - she don't hear.

- York Castle Farm in North West St. Ann (Applause)
- Invemess-Aboukir and Fullerton Park in South West St. Ann (Applause)
- Good Hope, Evans Corner and Quick Step in North West St. Elizabeth

A Government MEMBER: Hutchie! Hutchie!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Speaker...

(Heckling)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Mind you fail, Hutchie! Hutchie, mind yu fail!

Mr. HUTCHINSON: I would just like to say, sir - on a point of order, a point of order. I see here that there is something said about Good Hope, Evans Corner and Quick Step - page 28 - North West St. Elizabeth. This is totally false...

Mr. PICKERSGILL: All right, we will...

Mr. HUTCHINSON: ...and I would like him to correct that. It is North East St. Elizabeth. There is nothing whatsoever, that you have announced for North West St. Elizabeth.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: I am grateful for the correction.

Mr. HUTCHINSON: You are misleading the House. And once again, you did nothing with roads and you have done nothing for water for North West St. Elizabeth.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: There was something started...

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. HUTCHINSON: Same thing. That is right, sir, you notice, nothing for St. Elizabeth. There is a New Market system and a Carisbrook system which were started, and we hear nothing them now. This is sabotage! Blatant sabotage of North West St. Elizabeth.

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels)

He is victimizing North West St. Elizabeth! He did it under the roads and he is doing it under water! Blatant victimization!

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels)

An Opposition MEMBER: He announced three in St. Ann, none for North East St. Ann!

(Cross talk)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, I noted what the Member said.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker -

- Inverness-Aboukir and Fullerton Park in South West St. Ann

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels)

- Good Hope, Evans Corner and Quick Step

- Bruntie in Eastern Westmoreland

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear! Hear!

Mr. CHARLES: These are just announcements!

Mr. PICKERSGILL:

- Birds and Porters Mountain in Central Westmoreland

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: That's a good place, Westmoreland!

Mr. PICKERSGILL:

- Good Hall, Content in East Central St. James
- Cedar Valley and Mount Moreland in North Central St. Catherine (Applause)

Mr. McKENZIE: Is a PNP ting dis! (Cross talk)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: For this financial year...

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, under the Tank and Pump Programme all constituencies will benefit, all. Let me make that statement.

And for this financial year, an amount of Forty-five Million ($45M) has been budgeted to carry out rehabilitation and repairs to catchment tanks. And, as I said -

- 2 in Clarendon
- 10 in the hilly
- 6 in Manchester

A total of 30 tanks are slated to be rehabilitated during this financial year, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I make my closing remarks. (Cross talk)

Mr. CHARLES: Anyhow, this is just announcement, none a yu nah go get nuttin!

(Laughter)

(Cross talk)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, I have given an account of aspects of my stewardship for the past year...

Mr. WARMINGTON: Bad account! Bad account!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: ...in the Ministry that has been entrusted by the Most Honourable Prime Minister.

My Ministry, Mr. Speaker, has delivered 12,926 titles for the year under review. More ordinary Jamaicans are now legal owners... (Applause) ...of their own 'little piece of the Rock' and we are closer to realizing the ownership society that we all want. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, we are the pioneers of climate change in the region, and with our local, regional and international partners are implementing adaptation and mitigation strategies to ensure that with climate change, Jamaica is indeed changing.

We have expended Ten Billion Dollars ($10B) per annum over the past two years to give more Jamaicans the precious commodity of water, thereby laying the pipeline for sustainable development. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Through our various policies, plans and programmes, the Ministry is proactively pursuing the goal of the Vision 2030 National Development Plan.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Mr. Speaker, it is a partnership that does not only include the Government, but all citizens and the way they interact, work and think.

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker gavels repeatedly)

Mr. Speaker, it is a partnership that does not only include the Government but all citizens and the way they interact. As is said, Mr. Speaker, "As every man has received the gift, even so, Minister the same one to another as good stewards of the manifold grace of God."

Mr. Speaker, I finish with some thanks and acknowledgement. I would like to express my gratitude to so many, Mr. Speaker, who have made possible the achievements I have outlined, and who will continue to play an integral part to my own future accomplishments and that of the Ministry I head. As the saying goes, Mr. Speaker, "an attitude of gratitude can make your life a beatitude."

Mr. SHAW: Don't bother with poems.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: And so I thank - and so I thank first and foremost...

Mr. SHAW: …'bout you a rhyme.

Mr. PICKERSGILL: And, so, Mr. Speaker, I thank first and foremost, my family for their unwavering support throughout the years. (Applause)

A Government MEMBER: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PICKERSGILL: Most of all at this time, I cherish the fond memories of my dear departed brother, Tony.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, my profound thanks also to my leader, Prime Minister the Most Honourable Portia Simpson Miller... (Applause) ...for giving me the opportunity to serve Jamaica as Minister, in what is undeniably a Ministry with critical portfolio responsibilities. I really could never have a finer and better boss. Mr. Speaker, you look at her, younger every day. (Applause)

I want to assure her that I will continue to do my best to live up to the expectations of this Administration, as well as the people of Jamaica.

My thanks to my Minister of State, Honourable Ian Hayles, who I consider to be one of the best and brightest in the Administration... (Applause) ...and for whose support I am humbly grateful.

Mr. Speaker, my gratitude to the executive management team at the Ministry, headed by my Permanent Secretary Dr. Alwyn Hayles, (Applause) Director General Mrs. Sharon Crooks and Chief Technical Director Colonel Oral Khan, as well as the heads of agencies, departments and divisions within my Ministry, and I think most of them are here. (Applause) Their professionalism and dedication ensure that our policies, plans and projects are implemented in a timely and efficient manner and that our goals are met. I am also deeply grateful to the Board chairpersons and Board members for which I have oversight and humbly thank them for their commitment to serve. (Applause)

My profound thanks to our local, regional and international partners for their genuine and enduring collaboration and support, they include the European Union, the World Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank, the Government of the People's Republic of China, the United States Agency for International Development (USAID), the United National Environment Programme (UNEP), United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the Global Environment Facility, the Global Water Partnership, the Korea International Corporation Agency (KOICA), the Korea Cadastral Survey Corporation, the City of Hagen in Germany and the community-based organizations and non-governmental organizations, as well as the many stakeholders who attended our consultations on the climate change policy and water sector policy. (Applause)

Thanks, Mr. Speaker, to my team at the office, Loma Bansey and Rodeen Lynch, my Executive Secretaries, the public relations team, as well as office attendants Annmarie and Shelly-Ann. My gratitude also to my personal details: Susan, Audrey, Kerice, Andrew, Wykeham and Monica (Applause) Monica has served me nearly 30 years, Mr. Speaker, whose dedicated support makes it possible for me to give the kind of worthwhile service that the people of this beautiful and beloved country expect.

Mr. Speaker, my thanks to the caretakers, councillors and my constituents in North West St. Catherine, (Applause) which is arguably one of the most beautiful constituencies in Jamaica. (Applause) To them I say, I have received your support since 1989 and indeed, I am currently serving my sixth consecutive term as your 'sixth star general'. (Applause) Without your support I would not have had the opportunity to serve my country in the manner I have been able to. I want to acknowledge you as well again, Mr. Speaker, and all my colleagues here in this Honourable House. Despite being on opposite sides of the floor and our occasional differences in opinion, respect is due. (Applause)

Finally, Audley, you know this one, I give thanks to the Almighty for his continued spiritual guidance and his mercies which have helped me to continue to offer service to my brothers and sisters and to Jamaica land we love. The one that you know and I commend it to all. The one that you know, Audley, is Micah 6 verse 8. And it says, Mr. Speaker, He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?

May it please you, Mr. Speaker. (Applause)

(Cross talk)

(The Speaker Gavels)

Mr. D. SMITH: Mr. Speaker...

The SPEAKER: Mr. Smith.

Mr. D. SMITH: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I received an electronic notification yesterday, which they live by, which says that the second speaker this afternoon is one Mr. Lester Mike Henry, MP.

(Cross talk)

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, just to clarify. Up to last week there wasn't a slot allocated for Mr. Henry. There were three speakers. Mr. Henry was subsequently listed as the fourth speaker because he wasn't sure.

Now the Deputy Speaker is not going today and so we want the second listed speaker to go before – who is actually here with his people from St. Elizabeth, and I do not believe - and I have sent the Member a note. He didn't respond otherwise; I sent him a note as to the listing. No, I sent the Member and I would urge that we allow the Member to speak.

Mr. HENRY: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. Henry.

Mr. HENRY: The country is in such dire straits. I don't want to be controversial, but let me really put it on record that having served here, I am the longest serving Member of Parliament, I received a notice and I advised the House from long ago, and we know there were three speakers. I received a notice which said I would be the second speaker. The Leader of Opposition Business confirmed that to me on my way here two minutes ago, thereabout. I received a note from the (House) Leader telling me that somebody else would speak before me. Unfortunately, it will also impact on our television appearance I have later on. The country is too paramount in importance to me so I leave it to my colleagues and I leave it to the integrity of the...

(Cross talk)

The SPEAKER: (Gavels) We have a long-standing protocol where we alternate the speakers and I don't see why we shouldn't continue in that mode. (Applause) I understand from what I am gathering that there has been some mix up, but I don't think Mr. Henry should fall victim because of this error. (Applause)

Mr. HENRY: Mr. Speaker, I hope I am permitted to speak from a seat other than the one I occupy.

The SPEAKER: You may proceed.

Mr. HENRY: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I thank my colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, custom and protocol demands an opening salutation to you and your parliamentary staff. And I do so with a great degree of pleasure because I have admired how you run this House over the period of time that you have sat in that chair. (Applause)

Most importantly for me, Mr. Speaker, are the representatives of the constituency here that I have represented for some thirty-odd years, the councillors who are here present who have served continuously like me for very long periods of time, Councillors Jones, Williams and Davis, (Applause) Miss Daphne Taylor, who is just about taking her seat (Applause) and the one who dawns each day with a great delight in my life, my dear wife Dawn. (Applause)

The constituency, Mr. Speaker, faces great challenges, but we intend to seek to develop against modules and we intend to do this against a social development which I am seeking to implement. And in my opening remarks, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank - because part of that development programme means changing community centres into production centres; it means capitalizing on intellectual property rights; it means opening up scholarships for students, especially in the field of sports. I, therefore, want to express my thanks to the Minister of Tourism, the Honourable Wykeham McNeill for his response to me as I seek to bring to Jamaica on the 20th of June the Under 23 National United States Soccer Champions to Jamaica to stay at Milk River in part of the sports tourism and local development. (Applause) These community centres will be production centres.

Needless to say, Mr. Speaker, the constituency, however, is now threatened by a great degree of increase in crime to social issues that need to be addressed. And having just listened to the Minister of Water, and I heard of one area being dealt with, let me say that water still is the greatest problem that we have in the city and town of May Pen.

But Mr. Speaker, I see where history could repeat itself. In my analysis of the challenges we face today, many of these should have been self-evident to leaders - leaders who unfortunately have buried their heads in the sand and continued follow the 'cousin syndrome' which has created the rigid two-party system rather than adopt to change.

Indeed Mr. Speaker, Marcus Garvey, our National Hero, was the only one to really put all of this in context for me, which is politics and self-esteem is the most important element to your development.

Mr. Speaker, service with a degree of independence, plus the March of Father Time, permits me today to move beyond the mere boundaries of a sectoral debate which in its continued structure, is really only marking time.

For my part, Mr. Speaker, the debate should be more a state of the nation debate; rounding out the analysis of our failures in leadership and dealing with how we will change this nation.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: This is the path I take today. An approach however that certainly would also indict me at my level, and my length of service; but leaves me only comforted by the realization that we're not really collectively responsible, as we think, as having served at the highest decision-making table, I have concluded that our system is really one - and I quote from my own book - "meetings of the first among equals; where the first ultimately makes the decision".

Mr. Speaker, ignoring these things and their birthing years and moving from growth to decline and providing band-aid to our expanding wounds may not be as apparent to the new generation, but is glaringly stark to those of my age.

Today's world, Mr. Speaker, is a fight for moving the economics of control from cash to plastic world; a money controlled by world linked in the never ending growth of communications and travel, where the money you left in the care of banks is not really yours, but the states, as evidenced presently by the monetary crisis in Greece and Ireland and here in Jamaica - FINSAC, JDX, NDX, where we penalize the investors and the savers so much so, that what was once a virtue could easily be a vice.

Present leaders have failed to challenge it and to change it and those who try, they ran away from it. For I daresay, there isn't one who'd not have made real change by the power of the first among equals.

Thus, Mr. Speaker, I can't, in all honesty, stand today and say that it was good for me to sit here and listen; as the proverbial chickens have come home to roost. Now not to respond with internal sadness of the country's failed leadership who had their chance to make a difference and failed. And yet they still today, speak in almost abstract terms of failures by the society, when they had the real opportunity to make the change.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: I intend to offend no one, Mr. Speaker, but I must admit a degree of frustration and self blame at the same time, as I reflect and recognize that we continue to play the same game, Nero fiddling while Rome burns.

Over the last three years I had to reflect on the achievements made by the JLP Government in those four short years, and my own role. So as I now realize and analyze that after some 18½ years of the same government we replaced, they were returned to power, which makes me reflect and ask the question, why? And how? What I must ask, by being again in opposition, has made me realize that we on this side, need urgently to come to grips with our failures then and our failures today, for as an opposition we need to wake up and smell the roses; we in the opposition need to seek to find a way to let the people know we can fill the void the people are seeing and which the Government of the PNP are glaringly admitting to.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: As they stumble from one miss step to another, and almost with a sense of bravado, seem to take the people for granted and all but revel in a belief that this is PNP country. God help us if that is true, as I believe and hope it's Jamaica's country.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: I still hope and believe that deep down there's a will of the people to say enough is enough; and good must triumph over failures, as we move to overcome the rigidity of party politics which presently caters to a recycling of the genetically endowed, at the expense of performance and ability that is available elsewhere. Oftentimes flying in the face of good sense and higher values, but then, Mr. Speaker, if Government can get away with it, so be it.

And so, Mr. Speaker, history records that in the total span of nearly 25 years, we the JLP have only had four years. And so we must turn to the newly emerging and younger ones; and they come in a variety of shades and ideas, some ideas not new, others that need to be attended to and which left undone will be more of the same; thus at this time Jamaica is seen as having conceded its moral authority and searches for answers.

I'm impressed by some of what I hear. The Leader of the Opposition, Member of Parliament Campbell stands out. (Applause) On my side, I've watched today as former Minister Vaz made his contribution through his discounting salary and I wondered why in not in this the Chamber of the House, we've chucked aside Senator Montague's position on nuclear energy, when we're fighting over an energy battle that is really proven to be not the way we should be going.

For my part and our part then we must remind the country that what we did in four short years, what it would've been like if we'd stayed the course, and what we see needs to be done to get us back on track without waiting on the proverbial mango to ripe...

Mr. BUCHANAN: It would've been a disaster!

Mr. MAIR: This is a disaster. We're living in a disaster; what you're talking about?

(Cross talks)

Mr. HENRY: ...which to the country, is what we must appear to be doing.

(Cross talks)

I hope not, Mr. Speaker, and I hope we can change that.

(Cross talks)

For, Mr. Speaker, the people are suffering and waiting with baited breath for fulfillment, not promises, for honesty and a sense of purpose, they're impatient of debate, they require action, not words and the cry I hear needs to be answered (Applause) abated.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(Cross talks)

Mr. HENRY: For the older generation like me, Mr. Speaker...

Mr. CHUCK: Yuh remember what PJ said about...

(Inaudible)

Mr. HENRY: ...who are in the discarded file, I continue to admire the referred to youth and exuberance...

Mr. DALLEY: Shut up! You're disturbing the Member.

Mr. HENRY: ...just as I had then, and in a sense still have it now. But in all sincerity I pray and hope that I won't be saddened by the failure to implement, if for no other reason of what I've said in my earlier part, Cabinet is not really truly a collective responsibility decision-making body, instead, it's all about the meeting of the first among equals; if for no other reason.

Now the fact that Ministers serve at the sole behest of the PM, and having served there I know, Mr. Speaker, it is my view then that the country beget a long and meaningful change; Cabinet requires a constitutional change, which has to come from a joint change to both the JLP and the PNP's constitution, as Jamaica's approach to her own constitution, for the constitution of both parties preceded Jamaica's constitution and protects their poor performance.

Mr. DALLEY: So what the changes say - what we need to take to Cabinet?

Mr. MAIR: That's where he's going.

Mr. HENRY: Well the first thing you have to do - and I don't want to sidetrack - is that you must decide, can you have a leader of a party and a Prime Minister. The second one you have to do is that there should be appointments in Cabinet, which is not totally left to the Prime Minister, and the party plays a role in that.

Mr. DALLEY: Okay.

Mr. HENRY: Because, Mr. Speaker, they breed fear in the Members who really bends the will of the leader. So in my search I ask from this very personal position that we have to decide where the buck stops, by continuing in a spirit of passing on the baton and in the interest of our Jamaica, I'm hoping that my presentation draws on my experiences, as it reflects on the past, which is relevant today as it was yesterday, to draw on my experience, to do my own comparison with an appreciation, there's nothing new under the sun, but we still beg for a vision, a vision equal to the task of hope, which should spring eternal, and where, if I can help, I'm still willing to do, for my record of putting people and country first, is still my driving force.

Mr. Speaker, as the twilight approaches and the failures take us to the precipice, the struggle to rescue our country's future continues to be of paramount importance. What could've been? What are we failing to do in time lost? What we must try to keep to hope alive and save for the fall, as we in our own hands retard growth? Today, I'm speaking from my own practical and sometimes philosophical base. I use my years of experience to guide my thoughts and sometimes smile over how the wheel turns, and how it is true that what goes up must come down.

But I ask, Mr. Speaker, what if, what if as I look back at some 30 to 40 years round about the 1970s and I ask, what if I was right then, when I said that we should have never closed the railways and instead connected it to a new and development airfield in Vernamfield? Would spring plane have been successful, and would agriculture be different? What if I was right when I said we were undercounting our population and because our population count was incorrect, it would lead to an imbalance in planning and demographics, a breakdown in family structure and that we needed a proper head count?

And I stand by that today, Mr. Speaker, what I've seen and what I've heard does not compute, and to my mind reflects the decline seen in the lack of order, decline in discipline, failed family life.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: For the statistics which I still questioned if they're correct - and we all seem to think they are - then for me, Mr. Speaker, if they're correct we're a failed state, for we have failed our people. For no way should've been where we are today with supposed steady and unwavering population count. I'm looking for a reason for the failures, as I look across the isles as I looked at antecedences, as I look at training, as I look at education, I don't see any real difference. There have been directions that we've changed, but why then, Mr. Speaker, why are we where we are?

Mr. Speaker, we cap the amount of poor on the basis of what we can afford, not on the basis of real need, and I repeat, real need. What that certainly does, Madam Prime Minister, who is absent, is it balances the books and not the lives, for as the economy contracts, we define the criteria not on who qualifies to be poor, and who needs to be educated, but on the basis of who and how many we can afford to be poor and to be educated. This is probably to meet the IMF percentage of our population which we call poor, cap it at the number regardless of how many are in need and thus discard the uncounted, sending them to capture land.

Further study will show, Mr. Speaker, that a youthful population drives growth, and if we fail as a country to take care of our children from basic school and not until primary, what do we expect, except a disjointed development, because that is what is really happening today. A practical result of that in Central Clarendon, Mr. Speaker, is that the Hazard Basic School has received no nutrition cheque since September 2013.

A MEMBER: What!

Mr. HENRY: The teachers remained underpaid on this very challenging job. I salute the struggling basic school teachers and advise of my continued school feeding programme for all the 26 schools that exist in the constituency I represent.

Mr. Speaker, which MP here can be satisfied that the PATH criteria is really equal to the need, and that it's not growing increasingly distant to the real need? For instance, where is the true cost of transport to collect the little fee that they get? While we run a transport system skewed in the wrong way and continuing to run on one-leg road only.

While we rightly talk about bank fees, are we cognizant of the percentage of the cost which the old and infirm have to pay for a mere service of going to collect their money, which will return, of course, to my earlier position on population count?

Mr. Speaker, small business, while we're talking about banks, are we aware that commercial banks hold foreign cheques and bank drafts for 21 business days? When you add weekends it's a month, how can a small business survive? Yes they can go the route of wire telegraphic transfer, but the sender pays exorbitant fees, and every effort made to try and get that dealt with, it's not being dealt with.

Mr. Speaker, what if I was right, when I protested the causeway being built and Portmore being developed? Imagine what Downtown Kingston would be if the resources that had been poured into Portmore, a then vast desert. What if instead the commonwealth loan was used to build high rises in Kingston and as the population grew, build dormitories for the city? But I can recall what the then politician said about my efforts. As we borrowed funds to build the Sunshine City, and yes, Mr. Speaker, we put central air conditioning in on sand and provided carpets wall to wall as part of the whole new way of arriving at living. I guess, Mr. Speaker, we must now face what the scientist says as Portmore is threatened by climate change and even as we still undercount the population in that City.

What if I was right, that ganja should have been made legal through sacramental and religious use of Rastafari, who are the leading proponents of its use as an indigenous herb (Applause) and who made us know that it could be used as a medicine in many ways and was used as so-called bush medicine. (Applause) Forty years ago, Mr. Speaker, and why by extension was Rastafarian not given the right to own land and to pay taxes, and to pay no taxes as was done for the Anglo-Saxons' religions. Mr. Speaker, that was me forty years ago today. What if I plead with us to act in some of these many and other issues that our country can move to growth and development?

But, Mr. Speaker, the decline I see is heartrending, the row in poverty steep in a food for the poor mentality, a piece of ply request increasingly now the cry of the school -leavers and drop-outs or the Government cannot afford reasons. But, Mr. Speaker that is self demeaning, it damages the psyche and brings a failure to self-reliance where begging, Mr. Speaker is no longer from real need, but a tool to survive as it reaches endemic proportions. We must stop this decline. The Opposition must play the greatest part to ensure that this is done.

We must face the issues we have to successively ignore, grasp the opportunities and remain from failing to follow up on the ideas which we think are not ours or our parties. We have by leadership failures and distraction and diversions, missed so many opportunities to fulfill the promise of yester year, so now we are locked into the hands of others with an IMF test we must pass and obey, and surely looking at a possible failed State. As we end up, Mr. Speaker, with most of our people living on streets with no names, houses with no numbers, known only by an alias, ending up by describing themselves on cell phones as the brown girl by the tank, the boy you just left or talk to yesterday, or the teacher whose only contact with her students is by cell-phone. Bring you up in a society of people each with one foot in the have not world, and the one foot in the never will have world with a decreased loss of hope and despair creeping all around us as the people move to anarchy. The people are now deduced to seeking basic needs that Mr. Speaker, is food, shelter and clothing, how are they expected to think.

Theft of electricity and water is rampant and we sadly, Mr. Speaker, respond by licensing handcarts. In my school days, pushing a hand cart was your threat to learn. I see a better way for us, Mr. Speaker, and I dare to dream the dream which still do at this stage of departure, I pray for better as I make this presentation seeking to say how it can be better.

So let me look at our four years as government. But as Minister I emphasize one, three, five, seven to implement the programmes. A fast blue print to steer the ship away from decline to growth using much of the observation of areas I had experienced firsthand in my life. In the late 60s to mid 70s, Mr. Speaker, when my life revolved around the Singaporean and far east developments with the outreach to Africa, when I spent time in Singapore and shared in the Singapore growth and vision, not the least of which was to see how Japan and Singapore used the vision of open skies, firstly used by the USA after the World War to build out new and major airports and faster and cheaper ways to travel now marveled by all.

I watched the connected growth of the plans for Changi Airport in Singapore, Narita Airport in Japan as they too emerged as world players and growth connectors. I can remember driving into Narita Airport in a zig-zag fashion while it was being built out, while the farmers were stoning the birds to fly in order to prevent the planes from landing that is before Japan continued to grow and became the leader of the economic world at that time. I later saw it used to expand Great Britain's outreach through Heathrow and watched the value of those time slots at the airports grow about which I warned. You recalled how we once owned fourteen slots at Heathrow and how either by lack of knowledge, or blatant disregard to the people's property, we squandered a value landing slots which is at today's value, Mr. Speaker, is in excess of our debt. (Applause)

Coming closer to home, I shared the vision with Mayor of Atlanta, my late great friend Maynard Jackson and my friend Julian Bond and the fight to build and develop the Hearts Field Airport in Atlanta. Now, Mr. Speaker that fight against all the traditions of the JFKs and all the other airports, that airport now ranks above JFK moving forty two point five million people annually. I say all of that to say, Mr. Speaker; I know where we needed to go. Therefore, when I inherited the Norman Manley International Airport with a Four Hundred Million Dollar investment already started, it was started, Mr. Speaker, while the Palisadoes strip was below sea level. I criticized it then but could do nothing and as we watched the Palisadoes sink by the time we became government, some half of that expenditure was spent and had to be protected and so with no pursuit of development of Vernamfield which was left in a 2000 year plan of that government, I agreed and supported an opportunity with my then permanent secretary, my late junior minister to save the NMIA and build Vernamfield. And let me make it quite clear, Mr. Speaker, because I speak so often of Vernamfield that a lot of people seem to think it is in the constituency I represent, it is miles, and miles away from that, it is in the constituency of Minister Arscott.

I say all that to say, Mr. Speaker, with no pursuit of the development of a new aerodrome as was listed in the millennium project, I agreed and supported it. But with the opportunity given me to set out to assess, redirect and implement quickly I acted on it. As one will not impact on - and Mr. Speaker, one that would seek to integrate and start a new aerodrome development plan, seeking to bury the myth that the development of Vernamfield would impact the privatization of NMIA. It is a fictitious position and must be brought strongly by the Ministers to the Prime Minister, as one will not impact the other. I repeat it is wrong, Mr. Speaker, and we must be aware of the technocrats with small minds that kill big ideas, and this thinking still exists as I speak today. It is still used to delay and prevent the growth of our development of airport networks. Get them out of the system, regardless of their political suasion.

Argentina offered to have developed five airports all at the same time. The question, therefore, Mr. Speaker, is where would we be? So, Mr. Speaker, I set out to correct that error to protect the investment already made. I included in the Chinese JDIP Concessionaire Loan a special provision to build the shoreline protection and that will include the new road we proudly drive on today, sadly, without the boardwalk and the necessary beautification of palm trees that would make it so much more attractive if you drive on it today. I could bring the clippings which said it was a legacy. I could bring the clippings which said what it was. Just as we apply this new development to Mount Rosser Bypass, now extended to its new North/South Link. In similar fashion, Mr. Speaker, we have to rescue and save 120 million that was already spent, and to save the country from an embarrassing court case with Bouygues. And so with the help of Christopher Bovell and Ferris Ziadie we got the Chinese to agree to complete the North/South Highway and to save the millions spent.... (Applause) ...and all because the Government did not complete the geographic study.

Indeed, we left in that agreement, Mr. Speaker, the plan for Chinese to build the connecting highway link from Glenmuir to Mandeville with a start off position of US 7 Million saved in the extension of the other roads. (Applause)

Dr. DAVIES: At that time.

Mr. HENRY: Seven million as a start. But what is left in that agreement is that CHEC must have the first right of refusal to continue it, because without it the circuitous road that you want to build around the country for development will not be, well I don't know where the 7 million is and the bridge has not started. They negotiated with Chris Bovell and Ferris Ziadie the terms of the concession, Ferris developed an acceptable financial model for the project that included the extension of Highway 2000 as I said. I look forward in this debate, Mr. Speaker, to hear what of the outcome of this programme and the Vernamfield development. Mr. Speaker, in that development that we had in the North/South Highway, we identified the needs and the capability to produce and offering an easy link to rail.

Mr. Speaker, this was all meant to drive a catalyst for real economic change and growth, and now three years, three years hence, Mr. Speaker, and Madam PM in absentia. We should certainly - what we are certainly doing to complete the North/South Highway, is congratulatory in the continuity, but we should have done much more. That is why I am sad not to have heard anything about Vernamfield neither from the substantive Minister or the Minister of Industry. Well I urge them to ensure that the lands, because the criticism of Highway 2000 was the lack of economic development along that highway. And without that economic development to increase the traffic which would make the thing sustainable and return your money earlier than 34 years, without the development of Vernamfield and the stadium and the new towns, they are still struggling below the line to meet the toll charges. But remember how often the toll charges, if it was not raised every six months was in the news, for four years we didn't raise the toll. And Mr. Speaker...

The SPEAKER: The Member's time for speaking has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker. I move that the Member's time be extended to allow him to complete his presentation.

The SPEAKER: The question is that the Member's time be extended sufficiently for him to complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Henry.

Mr. HENRY: I thank my colleagues, Mr. Speaker.

And that is why, Mr. Speaker, if we had seen a parallel development in these other areas which were left there and ready, we would have seen the ability to become a hub raised and opportunities understood all by this House. For by now, some four years on, dreams would have been realized as we would have also completed the Aerospace College at Vernamfield next to Garvey Maceo that would have absorbed the skills we had from the bauxite and given hope to the 17 to 24 year old, some of whom would be graduating now as I speak.

We would have also built out the Port Authority own logistics park at Tinson Pen. We will be relocating the current flight training school to Vernamfield. We would have tied that to the beginning of a MRO operation at that location, starting small but thinking big. And by now, four years later, some thousands of jobs and a new vision would have been created and Jamaicans and investors would be seeing the light. They would not be looking elsewhere while we talk and argue between ministries and Ministers, between each other, as this impacts on Central Clarendon, Mr. Speaker, because Mr. Speaker, all of that was done with a vision of hope and planning. So, Mr. Speaker, I must be here, sadden today by some of what has taken place.

The sea/air opportunity was left fully planned. The research had shown that Jamaica, unlike its competitors in the region, including Miami, could provide the most cost effective and timely movement of cargo utilizing a sea/air movement...

Mr. MAIR: Multimodal.

Mr. HENRY: ...due to the prevailing recession of high cost of fuel. Mr. Speaker, our economic survival depended on it; our economic survival as the Government still depends on it. The proposed Vernamfield development was fully listed, Mr. Speaker. It was developed in a development opportunity, developed on a phased basis; 4,500 metres of runway, infrastructure to support the development direct equity concession and all of this was already earmarked under the Vernamfield Development Company, which was private development, being driven with the stamp of approval of the country. Maintenance repair and overhaul Mr. Speaker is only done in one area of the world - two areas of the world at the moment. It's either in Singapore or in Europe. So, Mr. Speaker, why am I saddened by it, Mr. Speaker? I am saddened because right now, Mr. Speaker, we need that passenger air development not just cargo, because Mr. Speaker, Vernamfield is a valuable aviation asset. The structure of the business, and I will prove the points I have made in one simple thing of open skies.

Well, Mr. Speaker, what is open skies? I've done some research, Mr. Speaker, because open skies began after the First World War when North America and Europe recognized that they had to come together to look at the threat of Russia and the countries of the East. In fact, how did we get involved in this before? Actually, President Eisenhower presented his open skies plan in 1955; Eleanor Roosevelt came to Jamaica and visited Vernamfield; Vernamfield was continued to be a hub that would protect the world in terms of movements on goods and services. In fact, it was even toyed with as the idea as to whether you should rebuild Europe or use a hub within this area.

In 1955, Eisenhower presented the open skies plan because that was World War oriented and protective to the element it didn't catch on^ except the United States used it. Well, Mr. Speaker, the impact of the 2007, about the time we became Government, of the United States/EU Open Skies Air Transport Agreement shows how important and how quickly that is necessary to developing countries. That is what lists the movement of people, because, Mr. Speaker, there isn't one person living, with the exclusion of few people in Japan, Australia and New Zealand is considered outside of that range. If you live in India, Malaysia, China, Singapore, Hong Kong, all of that belt in the Middle East, Mr. Speaker, you cannot move without a visa from the United States or the United Kingdom, because even in transit you have to have that visa.

Mr. Speaker, if we then say that we open and give the Chinese the need for no visas, which is important, let us recommend and realize now where we are because you still have to need that visa to come through unless you now use open skies to fly Far East, Africa, Jamaica on to South and Central America. That's where the hub now begins for traffic, Mr. Speaker. And so, Mr. Speaker, why did I say I am saddened about the aerospace college? Because, Mr. Speaker, while we have done this we have HEART, HEART is going to close the Academy at Breadnut Valley. Am I told they say they can't afford - they say it's training the wrong skills and they can't keep it open. Mr. Speaker, if we had continued with the Vernamfield and the MRO development where I left behind an agreement with Singapore to take one thousand of our graduates every year, we would have been able now to take over that facility and begin to train people in the heart of MRO.

Mr. Speaker, it's sad for I left in place that development plan I referred to. I have shown the impact of open skies capitalized on. And, Mr. Speaker, as I speak against that, Heathrow right now is planning for a whole new wider development. Need I remind us that there is a thing also called the charge for your in-transit passengers which was heightened and increased recently and we have been fighting for that to increase the visitor market. Mr. Speaker, this was the aerospace plan being planned by the JLP Government. Being parallel to CMI and maritime industry and in our time we increased the enrolled from two hundred to one thousand students. (Applause) We left in place plans to take it to three thousand students and then on to six thousand. But a decision on the connecting land, Mr.

Speaker, right next to the CMI needs to be made and if it is not made then you will retard the development of the CMI.

And, Mr. Speaker, if the developers who are promising that development can't fine tune and start then let us move that land to the CMI, return our plan for floating dry dock tied to the CMI and training. If we had pursued and implemented it would have driven me into more into your logistic rating and corrections. So, Mr. Speaker, Madam Prime Minister, as long as the ability to implement lies in more than one Ministry you have to crack the whip and take charge. For Madam PM it's up to your chairmanship of the economic Committee Cabinet to prevail and then, with your power, tell them to stop this "my Ministry" rubbish and let's oversee the development of Jamaica.

Opposition MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: And so I say to you, Madam PM, over to you, you the first among equals (primus inter pares). For Madam PM too much at the hub development lies in one Ministry and Mr. Speaker, while one speaks the other one remains silent. Mr. Speaker, let us return to look at the reality of Jamaica's transport situation. Norman Manley International Airport has a capacity is that - is now built to its full capacity.

(The Speaker leaves the Chair at 5:33 p.m. and the Deputy Speaker presides)

How without Vernamfield can we capitalize on open skies? We're at our limit. And, Mr. Speaker, the Sandals chain and all the others can sit down and plan their final growth pattern for taking out their percentage of visitors as our airport can only deliver a maximum of fifteen million travellers into eternity. Maybe what is happening is because Norman Manley was built for 6 million and is only doing 1.3 million, or Montego Bay built for 9 million and is only doing 3 million. We seem to believe that the growth can be built on building up the volume from 3 million to 9 [million] and 1.3 to 6 [million].

Mr. Speaker, I mentioned Hartsfield Airport with 42.5 million in one year. Are we aware, therefore, that if you can't bring the people in what will happen? You know I made a joke here, Mr. Speaker, because what will the economist tell me? The economist might turn to me and turn to the scientist and say, well, Mike Henry you don't have to make that kind of statement because what we'll have is vertical takeoff and landing. I guess since Virgin is giving flights to Mars and thing as a recurring position that's where we may want to go but that will be an attraction that takes away our tourists too.

Mr. Speaker, knowing all of this and coming to grip with the loss four years - what we end up with now, we're looking to continue to be transshipment port only. That is why I call Goat Islands an enclave investment.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: For I told the Chinese and CHEC, in particular, that I would confine them to Fort Augusta until all of these other developments were in place. (Applause) I knew it did not serve the Chinese main purpose, but it served ours, our Jamaicans and that's who we're here to serve...

Mr. MAIR: Our agenda.

Mr. HENRY: ...and what we were elected. But the development made us a hub for a logistics park like economic zones or merely spokes in a hub and the addition of each enhances your importance as rail and cedars. So if you move from a mere transshipment hub, which becomes the essence of the investment, we must hold the handle. We must demand everyone follows our vision...

Opposition MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: ...which is the real criterion of a hub.

Mr. Speaker, I sit here and I hear us being compared to Singapore and Dubai. And I share a great vision with the Minister, because yes, Dubai and Singapore are your examples. But, Mr. Speaker, Dubai and Singapore built their airports first. Our airports can't take anything larger than a dreamliner, and that was a struggle. Open skies remain in the front line of UAE's winning aviation strategy. Mr. Speaker, nothing what I am saying is rocket science except I share. But why do I call Goat Islands an enclave investment? Because it's going to be developed outside of the central core of the economics of this country.

Opposition MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: Much the same as forty years ago when Bahamas thought they were doing that Freeport Grand Bahama, and because it was built on an island outside of the strength of their economic development, it had no real impact and it failed. That is why I offered CHEC from the first initial foray into Jamaica the railway and Vernamfield and despite my best efforts they stuck only to roads. I urged them to do Fort Augusta and entered into a MOU. I'm not surprised that Goat Island is their aim for it suits their transshipment arm of the company who builds large cranes. But the demand for large cranes alone in the anticipated growth of shipping and port development in the region will pay for Goat Islands investment. But for Jamaica what after?

Mr. MAIR: Nothing.

Mr. HENRY: And try as we may the questions remains, who benefits most?

Mr. MAIR: China Harbour.

Mr. HENRY: Knowing the Chinese, I encouraged them to come. I asked them to come back to the table. And just as I urged them to take the North/South investment, as I presented it to them at the first investment in the Caribbean - in Trinidad. I urged them to look at the totality of the integrated hub, which we in Jamaica must become if we are to survive at all.

So as I say to them, work to build our Fort Augusta the limit of its capacity, invest in the railway and Vernamfield at the same time, build some economic zones along the North/South Highway and remember the rail in Jamaica connects all our ports and the Chinese being masters of high speed rail think of how you can develop the smaller ports to suit specific world markets. That should be done now, Mr. Speaker. That should be done while we await the reports of the environmentalist on the Goat Islands. This would create a partnership to suit your transshipment needs and all of this being done while we justify our internal growth and prevent an enclave investment which perhaps not intentional, but circumstantial, We would allow also our partners to build our KCT, which is now challenged by that Goat Islands transshipment and has turned away other investors and if they won't, that's the Chinese, then let's pursue other partners. For certainly there are other players in the game and all our eggs should never be in one basket for instance, Madam PM. And can the Port Authority and/or the Ministry of Transport by extension the Government disqualify the largest user of our port, ZIM, from bidding on the ownership of the port.

Mr. Speaker, Zim represents 60% of the transshipment capacity of the Port, but they were prevented from bidding or participating in the announced privatization. No wonder they took the leave-it approach, because when I was Minister, we were moving towards negotiating a $74 to $75 per move of container, an increase of, I think about 20%. I do not know what the Port Authority settled on, but I do know that when Zim was banned and when they arrived in their plane here they set four hours by their watch and they said, "this is the price we are going to pay, take it or leave it". If not, we will move 60% of our movements from Jamaica.

On the other hand, Mr. Speaker, what about the CMA, CGM, where are we with their investment? Is it on hold, is it awaiting the result of the tender, which they are a part of?

I contrast that, Mr. Speaker to our plan of the JLP, our plan was shareholding in the port tied to Vernamfield and the floating of shareholding in the Port Authority with first access to shares being offered to the users of the port.

Instead, Mr. Speaker, the approach now being taken besides creating delays in urgent need, A leaving us with management investors, which will permit them to more than likely see KCT as merely a spoke in their already established hub, and as they are already a part of our major hubs, they will only need the Transshipment connection. It's adding value to them, Mr. Speaker, giving them access to store and transship to the lucrative North American Market and its outreach to Europe while adding the Central and South America.

I hope by this presentation, Mr. Speaker, done with the highest degree of respect, that it will point us to exactly as time is far spent and competitors are filling in the blanks. I will continue to assist with this urgent need but, Mr. Speaker, I must be concerned since China Harbour has also signed a $507 Million contract to expand in Trinidad, which brings me then, Mr. Speaker, as I close that aspect of development to the JUTC.

Mr. Speaker, I want - it is quite surprising to me that it should have been clear from my presentation last year - that what the Ministry is doing is unsustainable and will bleed losses, as we are subsidizing losses, with the result that the more buses you turn out in the KMTR is the more you're going to lose.

We needed to surrender routes properly chosen and color-coded, and over a three-year period bring the whole country to an even cost structured fare; which would be in the region of $100 to $200. The weighted average, Mr. Speaker, on the KMTR is $60. It comes out to a loss of $140 for every passenger you carry.

(Heckling)

And I've not included in that the stealing of tires or all the other issues we read about.

What this means, Mr. Speaker, is that the full gains which the JLP passed on to this Government, for when we came into power, 187 buses were all that was running. We targeted to make it to 500 where it is today.

Opposition MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(Applause)

Mr. HENRY: And I'm sorry the Minister of Finance is not here, because when I took over that position as Minister of Transport, he and I spoke as he was a former Minister and he was the one who said to me, "Mike, when you going to set the increase in fares use the OUR". Then the OUR tells you the fare is $200 and you continue to subsidize most of the travelling at $60. I don't think it takes a rocket scientist to know where you are. The 500 buses are going to break down gradually every year. You're not going to be able to maintain them and keep them so very shortly the robotting will increase again.

Dealing with the rebotting, was our position, is that we would have tied the import of 50-seater minibuses for the routes to be franchised, bring those in color-coded and bring them in with new license plates flung across the country by the parishes, Mr. Speaker. Because it's equally true, Mr. Speaker, if you are subsidizing losses, you are depressing the poor who is hustling on the street.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. HENRY: You are making the robot man hustle more, because you are keeping the figure with your strength at a false level of value. I think it's perhaps the last time I'll speak on that matter as I move finally, Mr. Speaker, to make it clear that what I have said is not based on what I would have pursued.

So in closing, Mr. Speaker, I await the continued debate on reparations, for you have to come from somewhere. This is the Status Report....

(Mr. Henry holds up the document in reference)

....which I've been waiting for...

A MEMBER: What happen to you Rasta dem today?

(Laughter)

Mr. HENRY: ...which I thank the Rastafarian Millennium Council for providing to me as I couldn't get it from the Government.

(Inaudible comment by Mr. Parchment)

Mr. HENRY: So, Mr. Speaker, I await the continued debate on reparations. I will take the opportunity to present and read from the Report of the National Reparations Committee, which I spent some time searching for, for therein in that Report lies the answers to many questions we on both sides of the House ask, which should not be used to delay the narrow case of my search for reparations for chattel and slavery. Mr. Speaker, we should move on to seek immediate reparation from Great Britain for Chattel slavery.

For me, Mr. Speaker, this should be a joint job of approach. On the other hand I'm confident that with the vote we can get reparations for the crime in the British Courts as the conference on reparations concluded. That each country should take a political decision as CARICOM is not a political body. The Prime Minister feels it should not be confrontational and I agree, even though Great Britain refuses to apologize. But if they feel that they have seen the light, then we should be quite willing to sit and face the issues. Money is not all.... (Heckling) ....there are just things as debt for equity.

Almost everything I have spoken to in my speech, if you owe me it could be an investment in development in the country on a joint partnership for growth. The railway needs the investment. The Port needs the investment. The Airport needs the investment. So since you have exploited me in that term, come in and be partners with me.

But like any bankrupt company, the first decision is to look at the Balance Sheet, identify the valuable assets of claims. And I have identified Great Britain's debt as our major resource assets and a claim we must pursue to move from social economic decline to restoring our pride and dignity as a people and claim our birthright and identity. (Applause) The hurdles are many and is spoken of in this 116 page, where the arguments to and from the intelligensia to those who have led it. And I quote, Mr. Speaker, and I'll read into the records:

"The fundamental question facing the Government of Jamaica as it joins its CARICOM neighbours in seeking to redress from European countries is what constitutes a meritorious claim.

It is hoped that this Status Report will assist the Government of Jamaica in its deliberations and the debate in Parliament over the issue of reparation, which is an imperative.

We are aware that the Terms of Reference are yet to be fulfilled, but we believe the debate in Parliament will assist, rather than impede the complete fulfillment of the remaining Terms of Reference and we await the outcome of the debate".

In 1834 when Britain abolished slavery, enslavers were paid Twenty Million in compensation. Today, this amounts to the equivalent - and they give two figures in this Report - the amount is the equivalent of Two Hundred Billion Dollars.

(Heckling)

Another part of the Report says it could reach Two point Two Trillion, because the Two Hundred Billion is only equal to the twenty not to the other side issues that would be developed in relation to it.

The Report says:

"NCR recommends that the Government of Jamaica explores all avenues for reparation. The NCR, also, wishes to stress that the recommendations that follow have taken note of the work of the Chevannes-led Commission, the suggestions made by the Rastafari community and the inputs of civil society.

We wish to make it clear that more scientific assessment of public sentiments was not possible"

In bold letters it states:

Facilitate a debate in Parliament on the issue of Reparation and Repatriation as urged by MP, Mike Henry.

A debate was started in 2007, but was never concluded.

Reparation, Mr. Speaker, in my closing, is about repairing the damage done by slavery and colonialism evidenced by much of what I have said about where the country is today. Allowing our Caribbean society to be placed on a development path, a path made difficult because of the failure of our leaders to negotiate the a compensation package at the moment of independence. However, it is not too late to now do so. To discuss with the Europeans and their obligation, should be because of the state in which they left the Caribbean and using our resources to develop their own countries. The time has come to look rightly and squarely at this legacy and seek to redress by way of reparation. And I close the Report's Code:

And so in closing, Mr. Speaker, I realize my development suggestions require an approach of public/private partnership. It is what Singapore calls Corporatization. And I urge the Government to urgently:

1) Implement the development of Vernamfield to meet open skies.
2) Move the country to more than one-leg of transport.
3) Restore the Railways. It will reduce transport costs on agricultural produce and reduce capturing.
4) Implement a rural/urban transport plan that equalizes the cost of travel. It puts money back in the people's pockets and removes the subsidy on JUTC.
5) Revisit the KCT privatization and return to privatization by user of shareholding.
6) Encourage the stakeholders in tourism to invest in Ian Fleming Airport to make it a Caribbean Hub by accepting American Airline Eagle-size planes to serve the Caribbean.
7) Approve the political vote to claim reparations for Chattel slavery from Great Britain
8) Plan to urgently do a national registration of all our citizens with a census, out of which will come a national registration as a forerunner to reparations claim, with the entitlement to land ownership, entitlement to health care free, to education free and to an education system that's maths and science-based. We can afford it from that claim.

Mr. Speaker, time is well spent in many ways but in my presentation today, I hope that we take it with the real reality that the suffering out there is too great to be merely ignored by what we can announce we can do tomorrow. For if we do not attend to it,

Mr. Speaker, then I do believe - former Prime Minister Patterson said, "You are near the precipice". He himself felt that he was not reported on morals and attitudes. Let us quite sincerely, Mr. Speaker, realize that where we have come from, realize that we must change that by being bold in challenging the issues, looking at what we have, grasping what is ours and making our contribution once again as great.

I sincerely hope that I have offended none beyond the capacity of my energy to see Jamaica return to a better lifestyle, remembering yesteryear as being the promise of today into the future.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

(Standing ovation by Opposition Members)

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. House Leader, who is next?

Mr. PAULWELL: The Member from South East St. Elizabeth will now make his presentation.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Parchment.

Mr. PARCHMENT: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, as I rise to give another report to this Honourable House as to my stewardship for one of the best constituencies in Jamaica...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: …I am undaunted by the lateness of the House because even as a night watchman, I can still make a century.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, permit me to start by giving thanks to the Almighty for his continued guidance, care and protection. Mr. Speaker, I continue to be fortified and strengthened by the words as set out in Isaiah Chapter 40 verse 31, which reads:

But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, but not be weary; they shall walk, and not be faint.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me thank, in a very special way, our dear Prime Minister...

Mr. McKENZIE: You must.

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...for the confidence she reposed in me when she gave me the awesome responsibility to lead the constituency of South East St. Elizabeth.

(Applause)

Mrs. NIETA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, the Prime Minister has led this country with a level head; a quiet dignity and a befitting grace.

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

(Applause)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Her journey as a public servant is an inspiration for an entire nation and her light has shown bright to illuminate the pathway for a grateful people.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

(Applause)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, today I remember my father, appropriately name Manley, my mother who could not be here today because of ill health, I honour them both for the sacrifice that they made and the investment in love and in education, not only for me but for my eight other siblings. (Applause)

To my darling wife of 20 years who sits in the gallery, I thank her. I thank you, Lavern for your love and your understanding. (Applause) You make it possible for me to serve, and the constituency of South East St. Elizabeth is exceedingly grateful; to my children Richelle, Kyle and Klae, continue to work hard in school. Daddy's commitment to you and to the other children of Jamaica is to provide for you, a country in which you can all grow and develop and be able to successfully compete with your contemporaries from anywhere else in the world.

(Applause)

To you, Mr. Speaker, I thank you for your unbiased leadership.

A MEMBER: Your what?

Mr. PARCHMENT: Unbiased leadership.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PARCHMENT: I also thank the Deputy Speaker who sits in the Chair now, for his leadership, sometimes very humorous. (Applause)

To the Clerk and the other parliamentary staff, thanks for going the extra mile to see to the business of Parliament. (Applause)

To my Parliamentary colleagues, I salute you, especially this evening, for staying so late to hear from me. (Applause) Thanks for your advice, your insights and your wise guidance.

To the constituents of South East St. Elizabeth, especially my executive members, some of whom sit in the gallery today, thanks for your love, your dedication and your unwavering support. (Applause)

Thanks to my personal staff, including my office helper Jacinth, who is here today.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Finally, Mr. Speaker, to the four councilors in South East St. Elizabeth who are in attendance today: Councillor Layton Smith from the Republic of Myersville, the cricketer Daren Powell from Malvern, Councilor Cetany Holness from the capital Junction, and Gregory Myers from my hometown, Southfield. (Applause) Thanks for your partnership in helping me to make South East St. Elizabeth a better place.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, special mention must be made of Councillor Holness and Councilor Myers because they represent the Jamaica Labour Party. Their presence here today, and at last year's presentation speaks volume to the type of leadership that we have in the constituency. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, when it comes to the development of the constituency, the Labourites are not intimidated by the JEEP because we have been traveling in one accord.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Aye... aye.

(Applause)

Mr. PARCHEMENT: Mr. Speaker, the central theme of the presenters in this year's Budget Debate is: Going for Growth.

Mr. Speaker, we are at a point now in our nation's history when it would be fair to say, grow or die. But, Mr. Speaker, dying is not an option for us. Mr. Speaker, the central pillar of our Growth Agenda must be the development of our rural communities as this is the best way to ensure broad-based and equitable growth of the Jamaican economy. Mr. Speaker, it is my duty to ensure that the constituency of South East St. Elizabeth is so organized that it can play a pivotal role in the development of our national economy.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I was elected as the captain of the team on the back of people power. My approach to leadership has been all inclusive and receptive to divergent views. I have held consultations with all the critical stakeholders and in all communities, no matter the colour. And, Mr. Speaker, a lot of my former detractors are now coming on board because they say what they saw before, they saw somebody who was sleeping, sleeping, sleeping, and now they see a man who is working, working, working.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this type of leadership has resulted in harmony in the constituency despite the challenges. Mr. Speaker, some of the challenges that we have identified are:

- lack of water,
- bad roads,
- cost of education, in particular, transportation cost,
- cost of agricultural inputs,
- low-produce price, high incidence of praedial larceny,
- lack of street lights and no electricity in certain areas,
- high youth unemployment,
- unavailability of decent health care, or having to travel long distances to hospital,
- unaffordable cost to obtain titles, in spite of LAMP,
- continued closure of Alpart.

Mr. Speaker, if these challenges are addressed in a meaningful way South East St. Elizabeth will experience unprecedented and sustained growth thereby fulfilling its mandate to contribute significantly to the National Growth Agenda.

Mr. Speaker, in my presentation today, I will attempt to address some of these challenges, and propose some other measures aimed at developing the constituency, the parish, and our blessed country.

Mr. Speaker, I'll start with water, not because the substantive Minister spoke earlier but because it has been identified as the main challenge in the constituency. The water woes of South East St. Elizabeth are well documented, being the subject of massive demonstrations in the past. Mr. Speaker, every MP of South East St. Elizabeth has struggled to adequately address the water crisis. The fact that there has only been one small demonstration over the last two-and-a-half years speaks to the optimism, the faith, the trust that the people have in this present administration, and also the consultative and truthful approach that I have taken towards dealing with this issue. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, when you talk about water, only about 10 per cent of the constituency is currently served by the NWC, which at best provides water in these areas once or twice per week in terms of days; the other 90 per cent of the constituency gets its water by either rain water harvesting, supply from parish tanks, supply from Alpart, or water trucking through the councilor, the MP or private trucking.

Mr. Speaker, with the advent of the climate change phenomenon, we have witnessed a steady decline in the country's rainfall. The average rainfall decline by 97 millimeter in 2013, relative to 2012, and in 2013 it was 303 millimeters below the 30-year mean. Mr. Speaker, in 2013, St. Elizabeth recorded a higher than average drought conditions in nine of the twelve months. Mr. Speaker, this decrease in precipitation is expected to continue and we as a country have to act fast in order to prevent this looming crisis.

Mr. Speaker, when I took the job as Member of Parliament in South East St. Elizabeth, I took a politically risky decision to work with the agents of the NWC Revenue Protection Department to point out areas where water was being illegally extracted by farmers and others, thereby preventing legitimate consumers from having their supply. As a result of this intervention, areas such as Bull Savannah, Ridge, Junction Town, Exton, Chocolate Hole and Cheapside are now getting water once or twice per week for the first time in almost a decade. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, this effort has to be sustained because the illegal extractors are very determined.

Mr. Speaker, it is clearly understood that in our lifetime many rural communities remain without the access of piped water. Some of these communities have old parish water harvesting tanks which in the past used to be the only means of access to water. Mr. Speaker, the Ministry, through Rural Water, has been working to repair these tanks through the Tank and Pump Programme which was so clearly elucidated this evening by the Minister.

Mr. Speaker, in addition to the four parish tanks which have already been rehabilitated, three more have been approved for rehabilitation which work has already started on the Portsea tank and repairs to Genus and North Hampton Mountain tanks are slated to start later this month.

Mr. Speaker, wherever these tanks have been repaired, we have seen a significant reduction in the request for the MP and the councilors to truck water, so this is an important function, Mr. Speaker, and it has to continue. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, one of the other major failings of the NWC is that it does not expeditiously respond to mechanical failures, especially in its pumping operations. Mr. Speaker, the Hounslow and Duff House Wells from which NWC pumps water to satisfy the few customers in South East St. Elizabeth, have extremely old and obsolete pumps. There are frequent breakdowns and customers are severely inconvenienced, sometimes for months because there are no spare parts and very little inventory to repair them.

Mr. Speaker, the management of NWC has now assured that as a general policy, going forward, spare pumps and parts will now be re-stocked for any facility currently without, and Hounslow and Duff House will be given priority. Mr. Speaker, I have heard this before, but NWC will be held to account now.

Regarding water improvement in South East St. Elizabeth, we cannot speak without talking about the Essex Valley Water System which has been dragging on for the better part of 14 years. The Minister, earlier in his presentation, mentioned a completion schedule and the residents of South East St. Elizabeth are happy for that.

Mr. Speaker, also mentioned elsewhere in his presentation, the residents of the Essex Valley communities are suffering immensely due to Alpart drastically reducing their trucking because of financial constraints. Many of these communities have developed around Alpart and Alpart was their only source. Mr. Speaker, it is an imperative that there are no more delays in completing the Essex Valley Water System.

As MP, Mr. Speaker, I am also grateful that the scope of the project was changed from just the communities in closer proximity to Alpart, but the system will go all the way to Junction to complement the Duff House system which could only provide water, a maximum, two days per week. Mr. Speaker, this system is expected to impact close to 40,000 and residents and it will be a great day in the constituency when the system is commissioned. In fact, Mr. Speaker, it is often said that the MP who completes the system will be MP for life. I don't intend to be MP for life, but I want to do it because it is due to the people of South East St. Elizabeth.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, let me again thank the former Administration, and Member Chang in particular for the work done in 2009 and 2010, on Phase 1A of the system.

Mr. Speaker, we applaud B.M.R. Energy, and wish them all the success.

(Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PARCHMENT: The Minister says he approves.

Mr. Speaker...

(The Deputy Speaker gavels - 6:25 p.m.)

Mr. McKENZIE: Can I get the protection of the Chair from the Prime Minister and the two female Ministers?

The Deputy SPEAKER: You are well protected, Mr. McKenzie.

Mr. House Leader, the time for the speaker has expired.

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Member's time for speaking be extended to allow him to complete his presentation.

The Deputy SPEAKER: The question is that the speaker's time be extended so that he may complete his presentation.

Put to the House and agreed to.

The Deputy SPEAKER: Mr. Parchment.

(Applause)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, I thank you, and colleagues I am in your debt. I thank you very much.

Mr. Speaker, we applaud B.M.R. Energy, and wish them all the success. And it is my hope that next year this time when I am presenting in this Parliament, I will be announcing an expansion to that wind farm in Munro.

Mr. Speaker, this is indeed rural development paving the way for growth and development of our national economy.

Mr. Speaker, last year I came to this Parliament and also reported on a solar ice plant that an investor was constructing in Junction. Some people thought it was a pipe dream. But, Mr. Speaker, this plant was completed and production started in September last year. The Honourable Minister of Energy even visited the plant and gave it his approval.

Mr. Speaker, the tremendous demand occasioned by lower prices has caused the owner to be now seeking additional capital to double his output. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, this is clear evidence that if renewable energy is properly harnessed and used in our productive processes, Jamaica can successfully compete anywhere in the world.

(Applause)

On to Information Technology, quickly, Mr. Speaker. We want to thank the Minister - the STEM Ministry, that during the course of the year three community access points were established in the constituency: Bull Savannah Primary, Queensbury Resource Centre and Epping Forest Community Centre. A total of 50 computers have been set up at these centers and are now being subjected to heavy use.

Also, Mr. Speaker, because a wireless hotspot has been created at these centers, laptop owners are now coming in increased numbers to access the Internet at these centers. Four other community access points have been approved for installation this year. And I want to specifically thank Mr. Damian Lowe, from the SDC, who has been going around and preparing the project documents. And I also want to thank the management of the Universal Service Fund for their consideration.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker...

Mr. McKENZIE: Finally.

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, I sat and waited on Minister Mike Henry to do his thing, and I will not be daunted by any noise coming from that side. I come to report to this Parliament, and I intend to do so.

(Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, a critical aspect of the Rural Development Agenda must be the accessibility and the availability to decent and reliable health care. South East St. Elizabeth, with its salubrious and alluring climate and very low crime rate, has been a preferred location, especially for returning residents.

Significant employment opportunities have been created by the construction of homes, especially in the Dunder Hill, Southfield, Munro and Malvern areas, resulting from persons relocating.

Health care delivery Mr. Speaker, is always a crucial consideration for persons considering relocation and easier access to health care will cause more development in our area.

Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased with the focus of this Administration and the upgrade of health centers, especially in rural Jamaica. (Applause/Sotto voce comments)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Member Pryce is not here but the Minister is here - and the upgrade to the Santa Cruz Health Centre to create a centre of excellence, is much appreciated. Persons requesting health care from several communities in South East St. Elizabeth will now be saved the time and expense from travelling to Mandeville or to Black River, which on a good day those two hospitals are always seriously overcrowded.

Mr. Speaker, let me thank again, Mrs. Lucille Brodber and her team at JEEP. (Applause) Through our combined efforts we secured Five Million Dollars ($5M) from the PetroCaribé Fund, to give a much-needed facelift to the Junction Health Centre. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, Minister Buchanan was there and can confirm that. The treatment rooms, the doctors' offices, the waiting area and the dining areas were all done over. This refurbishment has been most welcomed by the staff and the over 2,000 patients who pass through the doors on a monthly basis.

Mr. Speaker, arising from a tour by Junior Minister, Luther Buchanan, in March of this year, and subsequent discussions with Minister Ferguson, the following improvements can be expected this year:

- four brand new autoclave machines and their sterilization machines will be purchased for the other four health centres, apart from the Junction Health Centre.

Mr. Speaker, this is an absolute priority, because what pertains now was not good. All of the medical equipment in need of sterilization from the four other health centres had to be sent to Junction to be sterilized and then sent back to the health centre. That is untenable.

Just over Two Million ($2M) will be spent to retrofit a building at the Bellevue Health Centre to provide a decent waiting area for patients, and a new nurses' station. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, two dental chairs will be purchased for the Junction Health Centre. This will now allow adults to be treated in Junction, and they, will not have to travel all the way to Santa Cruz to access dental care. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, what pleases me most is that the maternity wing at the Junction Health Centre will this year become operational. (Applause)

A MEMBER: What!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, I think it is necessary to give a little background to the project. And, no, Minister Pickersgill, I won't be accessing the facility.

In the mid-1970s, the Honourable Derrick Rochester, OJ, MP at the time, thought it necessary that part of his development plans for the rapidly expanding and emerging town of Junction, that a first-class medical facility should be provided. Part of this facility should include a maternity wing where pregnant mothers could go to deliver their young ones, with the appropriate medical care, thus avoiding or reducing home deliveries, which was prevalent during that time, and ultimately aimed at reducing both infant and maternal mortality rates.

Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Derrick Rochester donated two acres of land and he mobilized the local community and the Diaspora.

And I just want to take time out to welcome former Councillor Winston Sinclair, who is in the Gallery today, who was the man charged with the responsibility to mobilize the Diaspora in the UK to get all of the donations.

(Applause)

Honourable Derrick Rochester even got every worker at Alpart to donate one day's pay toward the project. This building was started in the late 1970s, and was only completed in the early 1990s, when the Honourable Derrick Rochester was reelected as MP. Mr. Speaker, can you image a building that could rival any small hospital, being entirely built through donations and through volunteers? (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, in 1996 the health centre was relocated to this facility, but the maternity wing was never furnished nor staffed and opened.

But, Mr. Speaker, after decades of waiting, my Minister of Health, the Honourable Dr. Fenton Ferguson, will correct this injustice to the people of South East St. Elizabeth by opening this facility... (Applause) ...and finally the dream of the Honourable Derrick Rochester and the entire constituency of South East St. Elizabeth will be realized. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, this is an Administration that cares, this is an Administration that understands that rural development is central to national development.

(Applause)

(Cross talk) (The Deputy Speaker gavels) As a result of consultations and discussions. No stick-up.

Mr. Speaker, please allow me to again thank the staff of the JEEP Secretariat, the Ministry of Transport, Housing and Works, the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment, through the TEF, and JBI, for providing funds towards infrastructure development particularly road improvements.

Mr. Speaker, during the course of the year the following roads were upgraded, and I will just quickly tell you them:

- Junction to Todd Town
- New Building
- Ballards Valley to Tryall
- Plummer Town
- Brinkley (Phase II)
- Elgin
- Lititz to Grazeland
- Southfield to Malvern
- Third Street Lititz
- Lovers' Leap to Dixon Town
- Chocolate Hole
- Southfield to Malvern

Mr. Speaker, this impressive list is on top of the 17 road upgrades that we have had in 2013. These repairs, Mr. Speaker, have given the residents a sense of pride, and remarks have been made in certain districts of Elgin and Plummer Town that this is the first time that they have seen repairs to their roads since Michael Manley's first term in government. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I also want to thank the Councillors for playing their part. The Councillors - Councillor Layton Smith has repaired the Myersville to Warminster and the Buena Vista roads. In the Malvern Division, Stanmore Phase 1 and Phase 11 were done by Councillor Powell. Councillor Holness had fixed the Green Olive and the Tryall roads in the Junction Division. And Councillor Holness is a skillful politician, after we do certain work with the JEEP, what he does is just a continuation, and we applaud him for that.

In the Southfield area Down Country.has been repaired and Powell Town is scheduled to be repaired. All these projects, Mr. Speaker, employed scores of local residents, somewhat cushioning the fallout from the continued closure of Alpart.

In South East St. Elizabeth, Mr. Speaker, the JEEP is the vehicle of choice. And we eagerly - Prime Minister, we eagerly await a fourth ride in the JEEP.

But, Mr. Speaker, success creates its own challenges, and there is no great agitation from the residents whose roads have not yet been repaired. These expectations, Mr. Speaker, have to be skillfully managed to maintain the harmonious relationship that currently exists in the constituency.

Mr. Speaker, going forward - even though the Minister is not here - I am recommending the following:

- That one spray/patch truck be permanently assigned to the parish, fully supplied and working around the clock.

Mr. Speaker, even though we have been working, working, working to repair the road infrastructure, there are still many Parish Council roads that require major repairs.

- I am recommending that these roads be repaired through the Major Infrastructure Development Programme, because the JEEP allocations will be unable to effect these repairs.

Mr. Speaker, I want to touch on something that is dear to my heart, and this is education.

Mr. Speaker, in 1992, in his first Budget Debate as Prime Minister, former Prime Minister, the Honourable P.J. Patterson, remarked - and I quote:

> "Our nation's development is inextricably linked to its investment in education."

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, now more than ever must this investment be made in education, as growth and development of our national economy is the overwhelming imperative of our time.

Mr. Speaker, almost every Member of this Honourable House is seized to this imperative, and have been allocating a greater percentage of their CDF to education. In South East St. Elizabeth, Mr. Speaker, over one-third of the CDF goes directly to education.

(Applause)

Mr. Speaker, by any objective assessment - and the Minister is here - by any objective assessment the conclusion is that education is moving in a positive direction in South East St. Elizabeth. For example, Mr. Speaker, Grade IV Literacy and Numeracy Tests are improving; GSAT averages have increased; high school and CSEC passes are moving up; an increased percentage of high school leavers are now matriculating into tertiary institutions.

Mr. Speaker, I want to personally thank the principals and the staff of the over 60 educational institutions who, for the most part, go beyond the call of duty to ensure that the students are given the best education. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, in South East St. Elizabeth those 60 educational institutions include a school for the deaf and a school for children diagnosed with autism.

(Applause)

Special mention, Mr. Speaker, must be made of Mrs. Heather Murray, the Principal of Hampton High School, who was elected by her peers to be President of the National High Schools' Principal Association. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I will now highlight a few of our accomplishments in education. The GSAT Scholarship Programme, Mr. Speaker, sponsored by the CDF continues to be an excellent motivator for students preparing for those exams. Last year, Mr. Speaker, 50 of the brightest students were recognized and awarded for their achievements.

Mr. Speaker, please allow me to make special mention of two young miss who, although they are in high school now, they continue to benefit from the GSAT Scholarship that was set up because their averages continue, in high school, continue to be over 90%. (Applause) We want to specially mention Miss Sudaine Wellington and Miss Shanique Joseph, both from Top Hill, who attend the Hampton High School. And what is more remarkable, Mr. Speaker, Shanique has carried this average right through to 5th Form and we are expecting no less than 10 ones with straight A profiles from her in her exam this year. (Applause) Exams almost complete and she speaks with me daily.

Expansion at the Hampton High School has started, a 10-classroom block at Hampton High School costing the Ministry of Education over $40 Million has been started and we thank the Ministry for this. (Applause) But, Mr. Speaker, not to be outdone this great institution is well on its way to raising an additional $25 Million to construct an additional 10 blocks of classrooms on top of the 10 that they are getting from the Ministry. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, I as Member of Parliament is contributing $1 Million from the CDF to this effort. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, this will ease the congestion and allow this institution of learning to accept a larger GSAT cohort.

Mr. Speaker, last year I came to this House and I also reported that I had made some move to get the old JFF facility that was purchased and retrofitted by the Ministry of Education to become a Munro Sixth Form Academy. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to report that this is now a reality. (Applause) This new Academy, Mr. Speaker, started accepting students in September last year and was officially opened exactly a month ago by the Minister of Education. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this is indeed a blessing as this will create a larger space for the GSAT cohort at Munro. It will also provide additional Sixth Form places for students from the area who would normally have to travel over 25 miles to Santa Cruz, to Black River or even further to Mandeville. Mr. Speaker, with the opening of this new facility Munroe College has accepted girls for the first time since its 155 years. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, for years I have watched the Junior School Challenge Quiz and I have been entertained by it. I have also been impressed by the general level of knowledge by these little students. But sadly enough, Mr. Speaker, no school from South East St. Elizabeth was ever a part of it.

Coming out of the Principals Association Meeting that I had, it was decided that we could do our own quiz competition. Mr. Speaker, in sponsoring the South St. Elizabeth, and hear me now, South St. Elizabeth included a part of Member Buchanan's constituency as well, I sponsored a quiz competition which was a resounding success. The winner, I never had anything to do with it, Mayfield Primary, my alma mater, will now represent the area in the TVJ's Junior Schools' Challenge Quiz Competition. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, all four students from that winning team will be getting scholarship, GSAT scholarship to go off to high school. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, right now the students and their teachers are busy preparing for next year's competition. And I want to personally thank the principal and the staff who worked beyond the regular school hours to ensure that the first year's competition was a resounding success.

(Cross talk/Laughter)

And I don't reach B.B. Coke yet.

Mr. Speaker, the Sanitation Programme is continuing. St. Mary's Primary School got their new spanking flush toilet system. The staff and the students and the parents of the community are exceedingly grateful. This project will continue this year with Bull Savannah Primary and Warminster Primary already approved.

Mr. Speaker, much needed infrastructural improvement at the Seaview Primary was done with expenditure of over $5 Million to re-roof the school and to change the windows and the doors. What is significant of this work is that this expenditure did not come from the Ministry of Education but from a diaspora group, and I want to thank the Lynne Mitchell Foundation for making this donation possible. (Applause) But, Mr. Speaker, this Foundation has also agreed that they will work with the Seaview Primary School and other ventures at the appropriate time.

And, Mr. Speaker, let me just give you a little heads of what is coming. The principal for that high school has decided to move on to a bigger school to get an additional income, but this Foundation wants to keep this principal in that school because they think that she is doing a wonderful job, and what they have done is that they have decided to match the difference in the pay to ensure that the principal remains at Seaview Primary. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, at an appropriate time I will be hosting an event to thank them for their contribution.

Mr. Speaker, let me also thank the college students and teachers from Boise State University, University of Connecticut, Wisconsin State University, the University of Florida and Oregon State University, who instead of going off and having fun on spring break, used their money and their time to come to Jamaica to work and upgrade our schools. Mr. Speaker, the Epping Forest Primary, Seaview Primary again, St. Mary Primary are significant beneficiaries from this generosity. And I must say also Sandy Bank in Member Buchanan's constituency got some work done also. But special mention must be made of Mrs. Winifred Hylton of Taino Cove Resort in Treasure Beach who provided accommodation for these volunteers at a fraction of the economic cost.

Mr. Speaker, please permit me this afternoon to welcome six students from the B.B. Coke High School. (Applause) I never intended to keep them so late but such is life in the House of Parliament. (Applause)

Last year I promised this Honourable House that I intend to transform B.B. Coke High School into a center of academic excellence and sporting prowess. Mr. Speaker, the transformation has started, the transformation has started - soon finish - the transformation has started. I want to spend some time on B.B. Coke. Mr. Speaker, the transformation has started; we have a new principal and a new Board. Mr. Speaker, the Tuck Shop profit has moved from $24,000 the previous year to $1 Million this current school year. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, an audit was requested and after the auditors came in, the Bursar has abandoned – AWOL - she has abandoned her post now for six weeks.

As a result of improvement in the tuck shop profits the school was able to enter Champs, Headley Cup and even advanced to the second round of the DaCosta Cup. This is the first time in history, Mr. Speaker, that B.B. Coke was able to participate in all three competitions at the same year.

(Cross talk)

Mr. Speaker, students at B.B. Coke are now busy preparing for TVJ's Schools' Challenge Quiz Competition, the first time they will be participating in the school's history. Mr. Speaker, Physics and Chemistry are back on the curriculum and the school's farm is now getting some attention. The Music Room is being refurbished and a request made to the CHASE Fund for the replacement of certain key pieces of musical equipment.

Mr. Speaker, tenders are now out for the completion of the perimeter fence which was started over a decade ago. But, Mr. Speaker, what pleases me most is that in this year's education budget, there is a provision in this year's education budget to build a new block of classrooms at the B.B. Coke so that finally after 46 years the shift system will come to an end. I thank you, Minister, for that effort. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, this Board is Chaired by Senator Wentworth Skeffery who could not make it here today, but two of the Board members are here today in the Gallery and I want to honour them specially, Mr. Manley Horne and Miss Channa Ebanks. I thank you for the work that you have been doing. (Applause) I thank them for the work that they have been doing, but the journey has just started.

Mr. Speaker, with respect to education, Mr. Speaker, I think that the most exciting development, I think that the most exciting development in education in decades was announced in this Honourable House when Minister Reverend Ronald Thwaites in his Budget Debate announced the introduction of Art Level I and Art Level II in high schools, and this will ensure that by 2017 every high school graduate will leave with at least one marketable skill. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker - and I am happy that the Minister of National Security is here - Mr. Speaker, I ask this Honourable House to reflect on the following Statement made by the Honourable Dr. Peter Phillips writing in the book, Michael Manley, Putting People First, as compiled by Delano Franklin, and I quote:

> "Our educational system, while much more inclusive than in the past, continues to fail as more than two out of three students leave school without certification. More tragically it is these uncertified school leavers trapped in the ghettos of despair of hopelessness who increasingly, make up the criminal armies dominating the so-called inner cities and driving a runaway murder rate which is among the highest in the world."

Mr. Speaker, our educational system is now geared to be producing certified school leavers. (Applause) Think of the impact that will have, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, whilst this announcement by the Honourable Minister might not have attracted the same fanfare as when the Common Entrance Exams were announced over 50 years ago, it will nevertheless be just as game changing.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, on education I feel compelled, I feel compelled to register my dissatisfaction at the pace at with the rural bus service is being addressed. I think it is discriminatory for the fares of students in the Corporate Area to be subsidized while students of rural Jamaica, who often have to travel greater distances, have to pay the full fare. (Applause)

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, a rural bus service - school bus service - is absolutely critical for rural development. (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, to achieve our goals of using rural development as the centerpiece for national development, human capital must be enhanced through education. Mr. Speaker, South East St. Elizabeth is well on the way of achieving this.

Mr. Speaker, I move on to agriculture and I will be very quick with agriculture because I know that the night is far gone.

Mr. D. SMITH: Don't leave out the weather.

(Laughter)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, agriculture has been the star performer in the last three quarters, having achieved 5%, 13% and 18% growth in the last three quarters respectively.

(Laughter/Inaudible comments)

Mr. JACKSON: The Parliament need to get a little composure back.

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, given that our growth projections for GDP this financial year is between 1½% to 2%, if agriculture continues on this trajectory it will single handedly achieve this growth projection.

(Applause)

Miss HANNA: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: It will single handedly, agriculture will single handedly, if it continues on this trajectory, will single handedly achieve our growth projection; so all of the other sectors would be just brawta.

Mr. Speaker, the main factors that have accounted for this growth were the:

- Reduction in agricultural outputs;
- Agro-park developments;
- Drought mitigation programme; and of course we had
- No natural disaster; so I'm thinking about the weather.

(Laughter)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, agriculture in South East St. Elizabeth is on the rise. The reduction in vegetable importation has seen a rebound in demand from the hotel sector and farmers have responded. Notwithstanding that, Mr. Speaker, our farmers are experiencing severe challenges, chief of which are the:

- Cost of inputs
- Lack of irrigation
- High cost to purchase NIC water
- Low output prices/limited market and
- Praedial larceny.

Mr. Speaker, the activities regarding praedial larcenies are well established. You know what is happening because the Honourable Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries reported to this House. But I want to say one thing on agriculture, Mr. Speaker, before I move on, the farmers of South East St. Elizabeth plant and then seek divine intervention for rain, while hundreds of acres of irrigated lands in other areas remained idle for decades.

Mr. Speaker, how can a recent graduate from an agricultural institution like CASE, or a bona fide farmer from South East St. Elizabeth, not having access to a single acre of irrigated land, while well connected persons sit on hundreds of acres of irrigated lands without planting a crop for over 20 years?

Mr. Speaker, this must not be allowed to continue. The Government must move posthaste to rescind every lease agreement for irrigated agricultural lands, which is not currently being used in agriculture. (Applause) Mr. Speaker, these lands have to be put in the hands of persons who're serious about agriculture. Mr. Speaker, this is how we grow a country.

Mr. Speaker, winding down.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Winding down.

A MEMBER: Coming down.

Mr. PARCHMENT: Coming down to the end.

(Inaudible comments)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Let me congratulate the St. Elizabeth Parish Council for its expeditious handling of Building and Subdivision Plans in the parish.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

Mr. PARCHMENT: This has caused a significant boom in construction activities in South East St. Elizabeth. Mr. Speaker, in just approximately one square mile in the Southfield area, I, along with a member of my constituency executive, Lauren Gayle, who is here with us today, drove around last weekend and we counted 18 palatial dwellings being constructed in just one square mile. This significant construction will lead to job creation.

There's also significant commercial construction taking place in the town of Junction, as approximately eight acres of land in the centre of the town, which was subject to over 30 years legal dispute, is finally settled and a construction frenzy is now on the way. I am requesting that the Parish Council though, remain vigilant, to ensure that these constructions are undertaken in an orderly manner.

(Applause)

Mr. L. BUCHANAN: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, I could never come here and not say something about the Youth Ministry, and I want to thank the Honourable Minister for choosing Nain for the construction of a Youth Detention Centre. Positive things are happening in South East St. Elizabeth.

Mr. Speaker, the Lovers' Leap Nature Trail has been certified by the Jamaica National Heritage Trust...

Mr. McKENZIE: Is that positive?

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...and this Trail will be improved by the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment as part of its Community Tourism Drive. Additionally, Mr. Speaker, plans for an Agricultural Museum in Malvern are being developed by the South Coast Resort Board.

Mr. Speaker, please allow me to bring to this Honourable House one request, not only from South East St. Elizabeth, but from the parish of St. Elizabeth; we need a revenue centre in Junction. And I'm going to repeat it again. We need a revenue centre in Junction. Mr. Speaker, the majority of persons in South East St. Elizabeth are now paying all of their taxes in Mandeville, and what tax revenue goes out, stays out of the parish.

(Sotto voce remarks)

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, the Councillor for the Junction Division has been a tireless advocate for this, and through his many writings to the Parish Council, he has convinced the Parish Council to make available a building which could be easily retrofitted for this purpose. I am asking the Minister of Finance to give this some consideration, for as much as we love Manchester, we would rather have our tax revenues stay in the parish of St. Elizabeth.

(Cross talks)

Mr. PARCHMENT: In conclusion, Mr. Speaker - it's 7:00 o'clock, Mr. Speaker and we are concluding. In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, what a difference a year makes. Last year at this time it was doom and gloom. The critics were out having the time of their lives. Mr. Speaker, the wheels on the IMF agreement were just being reinstalled to put it back on track.

Mr. McKENZIE: Ask Dalley...

Mr. PARCHMENT: GDP was declining; NIR was $900 Million and declining...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes.

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...agriculture was in decline...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: True.

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...debt to GDP ratio stood at 146% and climbing, the multinational agencies - lending agencies were not even looking in our direction...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: A true dat.

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...and the Current Account Deficit was also widened, Mr. Speaker.

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Yes, yes!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, let us fast track to June 2014. The test score from the IMF has moved up from a U to 100% - 4 out of 4. (Applause) And, Mr. Speaker, in this regard, U means ungraded because that is where it was.

Mr. McKENZIE: Yuh get yuh light bill fi dis month?

Mr. PARCHMENT: GDP is now increasing; NIR is $1.3 Billion and increasing... (Applause)

A MEMBER: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...agriculture is up, up, up and almost away... (Applause) ... the GDP is 139% and declining; over $500 Million has been received from the multilaterals and another cheque is on the way... (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...the Current Account Deficit is narrowing; inflation has declined from 9.1% to 8.3% in spite of depreciation of the dollar and bus fare increases...

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Working, working, working.

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...Parliament has discharged its responsibilities in enacting legislation like never before in the history of the country... (Applause) ...confidence has returned to the economy and Foreign Direct Investment is on the rise.

For example, Mr. Speaker, in the hotel sector - we'll just name two - Playa Hotel and Resorts, $9 Billion...

Miss DALEY: Hear, hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: ...and the New Marriott in New Kingston, over $6 Billion and many more, I could go on.

The North South link on the Highway is on pace and Linstead to Moneague leg will be our Independence present.

Miss DALEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Wharf Expansion is on track and Goat Island is not if, is when. (Applause)

Mrs. NEITA-HEADLEY: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Serious crimes, Minister, serious crimes are down in every category! (Applause)

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: The Ananda System in the parish councils is now fully operational and plans are being approved like never before in the nation's history. (Applause)

MEMBERS: Hear! Hear!

Mr. PARCHMENT: Mr. Speaker, I could go on, I could go on, but this is clear evidence, what I have done here is to give clear evidence that this Administration is working, working, working. (Applause)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Deputy Clerk laid on the Table of the House a copy of the following:

- Addendum to Ministry Paper No. 100 entitled amendments to Tax Regime to allow for retention of benefits and reduction of taxes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mr. PAULWELL: Mr. Speaker, two questions are due, Questions 1 and 2 in that order.

The SPEAKER: Mr. Shaw.

(MR. JAMES RUDOLPH EDWARD ROBERTSON, (JLP) St. Thomas, Western, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, just before I ask Question 1, could I ask the Minister in relation to the addendum that had just been announced. I notice that in the summary under the suspension of customs duty payable on cellular phones that there is to be a reduction or a loss of $516.2 Million, correct. Now, I just want to know, that is over a three-year period so is that $516 Million per year or aggregate over three years? And would this - and either figure whether it is 516 or divided by 3 about 172 Million, whether that in fact would then mean a reduction in your expectation of the original revenue that you had indicated?

(DR. THE HON. FENTON RUDYARD FERGUSON, CD, (PNP) St, Thomas, Eastern, Minister of Health, entered and took his seat.)

Dr. PHILLIPS: The fact is, this is an annual amount $516 is annually. The fact of the matter is that we took it into - while this is actual, we took into account then we had put together the revenue estimates that we already had the application, had the intension of making the application but could not announce. So we expect that the other measures in aggregate and our compliance efforts will mean that we will not have a loss in the overall revenues that were announced.

(REV. THE HON. RONALD GEORGE THWAITES, (PNP), Kingston Central, Minister of Education, entered and took his seat.)

In other words, this represents what will be the actual cost of the reduction, but we had taken this into account generally in our revenue so there is not going to be - we don't expect there to be less revenues in aggregate than was announced.

(DR. KENNETH O'NEIL BAUGH, (JLP), St, Catherine West Central, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: For the avoidance of doubt, you - I think the revenue package was about what, 6.7 Billion?

Dr. PHILLIPS: 4.5.

(MR. KARL GEORGE SAMUDA, CD, (JLP) St Andrew North Central, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: But on an annualized basis what you are expecting is $500 Million, which is not insignificant. So are you saying that the - it is one of two things. It is either that the overall revenue expectations continue to be more ambitious than you had stated or you expect the money to be filled from compliance. Which one is it?

(HON. HORACE WASHINGTON DALLEY, (PNP), Clarendon North, Minister without Portfolio in the Ministry of Finance and Planning with responsibility for the Public Service, entered and took his seat.)

Dr. PHILLIPS: Well, I expect it to be filled by compliance, and I dare say, if you look at it, while it is a $4.5 Billion package, the overall revenues expected in the order of Four Hundred and plus Billion Dollars - so 500 Million really represent say small proportion of the overall. So there is a compliance effort or, shall we say, given the conservative assumptions in some of our estimates we don't think that this will result, giving up this will result in lower aggregate revenues.

(DR. THE HON. MORAIS VALENTINE GUY, (PNP), St. Mary Central, Minister without Portfolio in the Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing with responsibility for Housing, entered and took his seat.)

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Chairman, could I ask the Minister to answer Question 1 standing in my name on the Order Paper?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Mr. Speaker,

Question 1:

What is the total amount of funds collected under the PetroCaribé Programme with the Government of Venezuela?

(HON. RICHARD AZAN, (PNP) Clarendon North Western, Minister of State in the Ministry of Transport, Works and Housing, entered and took his seat.)

Answer:

US$2,936,918,066 covering the period July 2005 to 31st March, 2014.

Question 2:

Have all these funds been paid into the PetroCaribé Development?

Answer:

Yes. However, there is an amount of US$108,574,882 which was outstanding as at March 31, 2014 and which in accordance with the standard practice Petrojam is allowed to settle in 3 months the obligation in being settled in accordance with the agreed schedule.

Question 3:

Has Petrojam made all its payment to the PetroCaribé Development Fund in foreign exchange, US dollars?

Answer:

No. The PetroCaribé Development Fund Currently receives payments from Petrojam in Jamaican and United States dollars.

Question 4:

What is the total amount of funds so far repaid to the Venezuelan Government Agency, PDVSA; please disaggregate the payment by principal and interest?

Answer:

April 1, 2008 to March 31, 2014 principal $178,864,030 principal interest $43,018,638 principal US$221,882,648.30.

Question 5:

Please provide a comprehensive list of all loans and grants by the PetroCaribé Development Fund since the inception of the fund and indicate the status of each loan setting out the principal value of the loan portfolio and the specific classification of each account in accordance with international financial accounting standards?

Answer:

Please see attached schedule for loans at 31st March 2014, as well as the Social Development Fund Grants at 31st March 2014.

I don't know, you want me to read each?

Question 6:

How are loans valued on the balance sheet?

Answer:

Loans are valued on the balance sheet in accordance with accepted accounting principles as per notes 2(c), (e) and (k) (i) of the PetroCaribé Development Fund financial statements as outlined below.

Note: 2(c) says: Impairment of non-current assets, and I shall read, and I quote:

"Property, plant and equipment and other non-current assets are reviewed periodically for impairment. An impairment loss is recognized for the amount by which the carrying amount of the asset exceeds its recoverable amount, which is the higher of an asset's net selling price and the value in use. For the purposes of assessing impairment assets are grouped at the lowest levels for which they separately identifiable cash flows. 2(e) loans receivable:

Loans receivables are recognized when cash is advanced to borrowers. They are initially recorded at cost, which is the cash given to originate the loan including any transaction costs and subsequently measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method."

(MR. JOYLAN CRAIG IAN SILVERA, (PNP), St. Mary, Western, entered and took his seat.)

Note (k) (i) loans and receivables:

loans and receivables are non-derivative financial assets with fixed and determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market. They arise when the Fund provides money directly to a debtor with no intention of trading the receivable. Loans and receivables are initially recognized at fair value, which is the cash consideration to originate or purchase the loan including any transaction costs."

Question 7:

What is the total value of the non-performing loans on the balance sheet of the PetroCaribé Development Fund?

Answer:

As at 31st March, 2014, the total value of non-performing loans was US$36,442,384.00. These are identified in the attached Schedule. Of this amount, approximately $1.3 Million was paid on April 4, 2014; $2.7 Million was paid on May 14, 2014, and a remaining amount of $31.7 Million was the subject of negotiations between Petrojam and the PetroCaribé Development Fund These negotiations which were ongoing since April 2014, have concluded, and I'm advised that later this week a loan agreement is to be signed, which will effectively eliminate the arrears.

Question 8:

How are the non-performing loans represented on the income statement? Are loan/loss reserves set aside for bad debt? If so, how much is set aside?

Answer:

Non-performing loans are reviewed for impairment by management. This is further examined and verified by the Fund's external auditors. An impairment loss, if deemed applicable, is recognized on the income statement as part of the expenses of the fund. Loan/loss reserves are set aside if the carrying amount of the loan receivable exceeds the recoverable amount.

No loan/loss provision is considered necessary as the NROCC loan arrears, which I mentioned earlier in response to Question 7, were settled in May, 2014 and the Central Government balance was settled in April, 2014. A negotiated loan agreement has been reached between Petrojam and PetroCaribé as indicated in the answer to Question 7.

Question 9:

How are the delinquent loans represented on the balance sheet?

Answer:

Impairment loss for delinquent loans are netted from the gross loans receivable and, therefore, a reflected net of the impairment on the balance sheet. A note to the financial statement would also be done reflecting the gross loans receivable and the corresponding impairment loss deducted to arrive at net loans receivable.

Question 10:

a) Is Petrojam in arrears in the transfer of funds or loan payments to the PetroCaribé Development Fund? Please state whether the transfer of the proceeds under the PetroCaribe arrangements are in accordance with established procedures?

b) Does Petrojam have a loan with the PetroCaribé Development Fund? Is Petrojam in arrears in payment on any loan with the PetroCaribé Development Fund?

Answer:

All transfer of the proceeds under the PetroCaribé arrangement has been in accordance with established procedures. That is, payments within 90 days. As at 31st March, 2014, Petrojam is not in arrears with regards to the transfer of funds to the PetroCaribé. In respect to loan payment to PetroCaribé, please see the answer to Question 7.

Question 11:

What are the cash balances and other liquid assets such as investments made by the Fund?

Answer:

As at 31st March, 2014, the following were recorded:

- Cash balances: J$1.37 Billion;
- Long term investment: JS77.89 Billion;
- Short term investments: $41.98 Billion.

Question 12:

What are the procedures that govern the transparent management of the PetroCaribé Development Fund?

Answer:

There are several corporate governance practices, which include:

(a) The development and execution of a three-year strategic plan, which is submitted by the portfolio Ministry, the Ministry of Finance and Planning on an annual basis and monitored by the Ministry.

(b) The Board of Management is established and meets monthly; appoints subcommittees to ensure detailed reviews of policies and procedures as well as compliance with the Fund's Energy Accord Agreement.

(c) Management establishes systems and procedures to ensure controls over processes so as to mitigate risk from losses. These systems and procedures are audited by internal and external auditors as well as the Government's Auditor General Department as required by the Public Bodies Management and Accountability Act. These systems are further overseen by responsible officers to ensure effective implementation of policies approved by the Board of Directors and the Ministry of Finance and Planning.

Question 13:

Has an independent risk assessment of the PetroCaribé Development Fund been done?

Answer:

As part of the systems established by the Board, management, with the approval of the Board, commissioned a consultant to undertake a risk assessment in 2013.

Question 14:

If the risk assessment was done, what was the outcome? Was it favourable or unfavourable? What are the conclusions of the risk assessment with regards to the sustainability of the Fund?

Answer:

The risk assessment process was aborted due to concerns regarding the bona fides of the consultant and the possible copyright infringement. The matter has been referred to the Attorney General's Department for a legal opinion as to the best means of protecting the interest of the PetroCaribé Development Fund. The Fund awaits their response. The matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Directors which instructed the Fund to seek to recover monies that were paid to the consultant as well as to sever all ties with the individual.

Additionally, all reports that had been issued to the Fund by the consultant were to be retrieved from the senior managers and filed. The assessment provided by the consultant has not been adopted.

Question 15:

Will you make a copy of the risk assessment available to Parliament?

Answer:

See response to 14.

(DR. ANDREW O'BRIEN WHEATLEY, (JLP), St. Catherine, South Central, entered and took his seat.)

(DR. HORACE ANTHONY CHANG, (JLP), St. James, North Western, entered an took his seat.)

Question 16:

Are there any delinquent loans to the PDF portfolio for which PDF (PetroCaribé Development Fund) has sought government guarantees?

Answer:

No.

Question 17:

When was the last audited financial statement submitted to Parliament?

Answer:

The audited financial statements for the period ended 31st March, 2012 was submitted to Parliament in September, 2013. The audited financial statements for the period ended March 31, 2013, are now with the Minister of Finance and Planning and have been submitted to Cabinet and will be submitted to Parliament shortly.

Mr. SHAW: Mr. Speaker, let me thank the Minister for these responses and you will note, Mr. Speaker, that there are some detailed submissions which have not been gone over (sic) and I would like to be able to do that and with your permission to ask supplementary questions in relation to the attachments.

The SPEAKER: At a later date?

Mr. SHAW: Pardon me? Yes. But I do have a couple questions I'll ask now. The first one would be, Mr. Speaker, in relation to the loan to Petrojam. Now, I want to know if the $31.7 Million referred to in your response that would be in addition to the current liability of a US$108.5 Million; would that be in addition to it, or is that a part of it?

(MISS JOYCE DENISE DALEY, (PNP), St. Catherine, Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, that is including. That's a part of it. Ask the question and I will get back to you.

Mr. SHAW: Yeah, I simply want to know we have two figures in relation to what is owed by Petrojam: $108 Million, which we're told it's standard practice; that it takes about three months to be settled and then further on in the questions in terms of a non-performing loan at Petrojam of $31.7 Million, for which you say there is now an agreement to be signed. I simply want to know if that is in addition to $108 Million?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Yes, one was arrears on a loan. The other was the $108, which is being settled within the ninety days. So it's two separate.

Mr. SHAW: Okay, so we're looking at about $140 Million. Now my second question, Minister, has to do with the issue of the - Question No. 13 and 14, has to do with the independent risk assessment of the PetroCaribé Development Fund. Now I take note in asking the question of your answer to Question 13:

"As part of the systems established by the Board, management with the approval of the Board, commissioned a consultant to undertake a risk assessment in 2013."

I asked what was the outcome? Was it done? What was the outcome? Was it favourable?

Was it unfavourable? What are the conclusions of the risk assessment with regards to the sustainability of the Fund?

(MR. DELROY HAWMIN CHUCK, (JLP), St. Andrew, North Eastern, entered and took his seat.)

(MRS. SHAHINE ELIZABETH ROBINSON, (JLP), St. Ann, North Eastern, entered and took her seat.)

I am to indicate, Mr. Speaker and Minister, I find the answer a little bit curious, because - first of all, let's focus on the answer to be fair. There is no answer to my question. The answer provided is that:

"The risk assessment process was aborted due to concerns regarding the bona fides of the consultant and the possible copyright infringement."

Now, my hesitation on this response, if you go further into your response, it is clear that some kind of report was submitted. So my question is, is it a matter that the Board did not like what they saw? And if it is a matter of a concern about the bona fides of the consultant, why wasn't that due diligence done prior to engaging the consultant? Could we start with that?

Dr. PHILLIPS: Well, there is no doubt that there is a legitimate question about the quality of the due diligence, but I think it is to the credit of the Board that before the process was concluded, their examination of that or re-examination of that due diligence process and their subsequent efforts raised concerns about the actual qualifications of the person who was engaged to undertake this. And so there is a question of what are the liabilities in law and what remedies are available to the PetroCaribé Development Fund. They will need to examine their own procurement processes in this regard.

Mr. SHAW: Minister, I hear you. In your answer, you went on to say:

Additionally, all reports that had been issued to the Fund by the consultant were to be retrieved from the Senior Managers and filed. The assessment provided by the consultant has not been adopted".

Why hasn't it been adopted? What is, what is, is it - I ask the question again. Didn't the Fund like the conclusions of the consultant? Is that a question that they just....They rejected the conclusions of the consultant and, therefore, retrieved it from everybody and filed it? What, what, is this? This is something that we have paid for. Yes.

Dr. PHILLIPS: No, well, it hasn't been paid for first of all. Put it this way, such moneys as have been paid are to be recovered. But it would be tantamount to getting a medical opinion from somebody who turned out not to be a doctor.

(Laughter)

Would it be a medical opinion, that's the question?

(Inaudible comment by a Member)

Mr. SHAW: Which would be a very grave indictment on the Board of the PetroCaribé Fund to have appointed a quack... (Laughter) …to do the work of an appropriate consultant in medical terminology.

(Inaudible comments from Members)

Mr. SHAW: No, we're not going to reduce this to frivolity now; it's a very serious matter.

Now, could I ask, so are we saying then, Minister, are we saying that this Report that has been provided by the consultant, and I am assuming that, at least preliminary funds must have been paid, you are trying to recover funds, so funds were paid.

Dr. DAVIES: It is still... (Inaudible)

Mr. SHAW: So funds are paid and this is information that is now owned by the Government of Jamaica, wouldn't that make it public information that should be provided to Parliament, Honourable Minister?

Dr. PHILLIPS: But, in the same way, if it is, if it is a.... First of all, it's an issue which is in dispute, legally, so we at least need to let that process run its course. And secondly, if the bona fides of the persons preparing the Report are in doubt, then there would be no benefit to the public or the institution from circulating that Report.

(Applause)
